TROOPS SENT TO RUSSIANS' AID

Two Thousand Men Are Dispatched to Persian Territory.

Tiflis, April 21.—On account of the threatening situation on the Parisian frontier, and the urgent demand for reinforcements received from the commanders of the Russian forces in that district, 2,000 men have been sent from here into the disturbed territory. These reinforcements will take several days to reach the scene of hostility, which is sixty miles from the nearest railroad point through a difficult country.

No further news from the commanders of the detachments at Belesuvar and Shirin, which are menaced by the Kurdish brigands, has been received here, but information has come in that communication along an important trade route, running southward from the Caspian sea into Persia, has been interrupted by an uprising of the bandit population. As a result, caravans are afraid to venure out of Lenkoran.

BANQUET GIVEN FLEET OFFICERS

Speeches Made by Admiral, General, Governor and Others.

Los Angeles, April 21.—Speeches were made at the banquet to the admirals and commanding officers of the fleet and their staff last night by Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, Robert J. Burdette, Bishop Conaty, Governor Gillett, Admiral Thomas and others. It was nearly 1 o'clock when Admiral Thomas rose to respond to the many addresses of welcome. The admiral paid a splendid tribute to Admiral Evans, and expressed the earnest hope that the commander-in-chief might so far recover his health as to lead the fleet into the Golden Gate. He spoke of the pride and confidence with which the officers and men of the fleet regarded Admiral Evans.

Governor Gillett told the officers af the fleet of the welcome that awaited them at San Francisco, and that they would find there, in place of the eleven miles of blackened ruins of two years ago, a magnificent city of skyscrapers and reconstructed streets.

The governor advocated a larger and stronger navy, and deprecated the defeat of the president's recommendation of four new battleships. The lack of a merchant marine he regarded as a national disgrace. This he attributed to the influence of the Mississippi valley, which had the opportunity of "seeing only prairie schooners" and knew nothing of the national requirements on sea.

NO ONE IS PREFERRED

New Hampshire Republicans Decline to Give Instructions on President.

Concord, N .H., April 21.—Unpledged and uninstructed delegates to the Republican national convention at Chicago were elected today at the New Hampshire Republican state convention in this city. The delegates at large are the following: United States Senator Jacob H. Galliger, Concord; Former Governor Chester B. Jordan, Lancaster; Attorney General Edwin G. Eastman, Exeter; Edwin F. Jones, Manchester.

A resolution indorsing Secretary of War W. H. Taft for president was tabled by a rising vote, only twenty-five delegates out of 763 voting for the resolution.

Senator Gallinger, chairman of the state committee, called the convention to order.

Ex-Governor John McLane, the permanent chairman, in his address to the convention, praised the administration of President Roosevelt and said: "However the succession falls, the changes of the approaching election are to be those of person and not of policy."

The speaker said that the New Hampshire Republicans favored an early revision of some of the tariff schedules, "but no change that does not give adequate protection to every American industry.

"A sound financial system;" "law bravely and impartially enforced;" "the re-enactment in constitutional form of the employers' liability act" and a "limitation in the exercise in the power of injunction," were advocated.

Chairman McLane frequently was interrupted by applause. After the appointment of a committee to nominate alternates at large, the resolutions agreed upon by he committee last night were read. The resolutions eulogize the record of the Republican party; favor restoration of the American flag to the ocean-carrying trade; approve generous pension legislation for army and naval veterans; praise the administration of President Roosevelt and pledge the electoral vote of New Hampshire to the nominees of the Chicago convention. No instructions are given to the national delegates, the platform saying upon this point:

"It is the judgment of your committee that the real interests of the Republican party of New Hampshire, as well as the real interests of the presidential candidate to be nominated in Chicago in June and elected at the polls in November, will be best served without the present action either of specific instruction or the implied instruction in the form of resolutions of preference in this convention."

Upon the tariff question, the resolutions say:

"We recognize the approaching day when the existing tariff schedules should be carefully examined with a view of making such changes as may be necessary to adjust them to current conditions, having always in mind the fundamental Republican principle of ample protection to American industry and labor. In the meantime we record our emphatic opposition to tariff tinkering by piecemeal."

ROBS CONVENTS AS SPECIALTY

Man Arrested at St. Paul Noted for This Line of Work.

St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert Kehle, who in the past two weeks, it is alleged, has robbed three convents and the Methodist deaconess home, at 350 West Third street, was caught last evening by local detectives and after being "sweated" at the central police station made a full confession.

Kehle is known to the police of twenty of the large cities of the country as a man who makes a specialty of robbing convents and religious institutions generally. He has served several prison terms, and was last released July 20, 1906, since which time he has been industriously plying his trade in St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee and other large cities.

Long experience in robbing religious institutions has taught him the time when the inmates are busy with their devotions, and in the past two years he has made some "big hauls." He is about 45 years of age and came from Prussia, where he has a police record.

USED MAILS TO DEFRAUD

Thomas O'Connor and Wife Found Guilty in New York.

New York, April 21.—Thomas O'Connor and his wife, Frances O'Connor, also known as Frances MacLain, were found guilty by a jury in the United States circuit court today on two counts of an indictment charging them with using the mails to defraud. Judge Holt sentenced O'Connor to fifteen months in Clinton prison and suspended sentence on Mrs. O'Connor.

The O'Connors were charged with sending circulars throughout the country by mail saying that they had inside information on the stock market and could so advise clients that the latter could not fail to reap big profits in speculations made on their advice. Mrs. O'Connor, under the name of Frances MacLain, posed as the possessor of the "inside information." In her circulars she suggested certain so-called stock brokerage firms as reliable and the best to handle the business of clients. The "brokerage firms" were shown during the trial to be conducted by O'Connor under various names. They invariably either closed out the deals of victims at a loss to the latter or else "failed" and went out of business when the demands for payments of profits became too insistent.

Fargo, N. D., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The next meeting of the state bar board of examiners will be held at Grand Forks during the week of the graduation of the University law class June 2, 3, and 4. "FATHER" CHADWICK OF BASEBALL FAME, IS DEAD AT THE AGE OF 83 YEARS

HENRY CHADWICK.

New York, April 21.—Henry Chadwick, aged 83 years, who took so prominent a part in the development of baseball that he was called the "father" of it, died of pneumonia and heart disease at his home in Brooklyn yesterday. Mr. Chadwick was an ardent lover of the game and a well known writer on baseball topics as well as an authority on the rules of the game. Mr. Chadwick was an ardent musician and would spend hours of each day at the piano.

OLD GRUDGE ENDS IN HIS SHOOTING

Workman at Pioneer Furnace, Marquette, Wounds His Companion.

Marquette, Mich., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The authorities are searching for an employe of the Pioneer furnace, named Dunne, who took a shot at a fellow workman named Cline Sunday and then fled into the woods north of the works. The shooting was the outcome of an old grudge, the two having had trouble while working at the Gladstone furnace several months ago. Dunne certainly tried to kill his man Sunday and that he failed is due either to the toughness of Cline's skull or the poor quality of powder used.

As the two men were at work, Dunne, without any warning, suddenly drew a revolver and taking careful aim at Cline, who stood within ten feet of him, fired. The victim staggered back and fell to the ground, and in the excitement, which ensued, his assailant ran out of the building and escaped. Though the bullet struck Cline in the forehead, just above his right eye, it glanced, and after cutting a furrow through the skin, it buried itself harmlessly in the wall of the building. It was at first thought that Cline had been killed, but he revived within a short time. He was prevailed upon to seek medical attention and he came to the city and had the wound dressed.

ANALYSIS BY WARNER

Regrets Efforts Should be Made to Arouse Race Feeling.

Washington, April 21.—A painstaking analysis of the testimony taken in the several investigations of the Brownsville affair, which led to the discharge of a number of negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth infantry, and especially that by the committee on military affairs, was presented to the senate today by Senator Warner of Missouri.

"In the war of 1861-65 I served in the same command with negro troops," said Mr. Warner. "The surviving veterans of those troops wear with me, as comrades, the button of the Grand Army of the Republic, and certain it is I have no prejudice against negro soldiers, am not

GIRL STOWAWAY ON A COLLIER?

Story That She Was With Battleship Fleet is Doubted.

Washington, April 21.—As the result of a story circulated in Pittsburg by Elmer E. Dey, who was a civilian passenger on the supply ship Brutus, attached to the Pacific fleet, that a girl stowaway made the trip through the Straits of Magellan with the fleet, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry has taken steps to ascertain if a man named Dey was aboard the Brutus.

"It does not seem possible that a girl could secrete herself aboard one of the vessels," said Mr. Newberry yesterday. "I believe it would be almost impossible to hide a ham or even a cigarette. The person who circulated the story kept the girl aboard too long. He should have had her discovered sooner."

According to Dey's story the girl boarded the Brutus at Trinidad and made the trip around the point of the southern continent and landed in Peru.

FORTY-TWO LOSE LIVES

Two Trains Come Together on Railroad at Braybrook, Australia.

Wreck Catches Fire and Many Bodies Are Burned.

Melbourne, Australia, April 21.—Forty-two bodies have been taken out of the wreckage caused by the collision April 19 of two trains, from Ballarat and Bendigo respectively at Braybrook Junction, about eight miles from Melbourne. It is believed that several others are still buried under the debris. The number of persons injured is placed at eighty-eight.

Many of the victims had entered the Ballarat train at Braybrook and were just about settling in their seats when the crash came. The conductor had signalled to the engineer to start the train and was in the act of stepping into the car when he saw the approaching Bendigo train. He sprang aside in time to save himself. The station was in darkness and a scene of indescribable horror followed the collision. Three of the cars took fire. Many of the victims were burned beyond recognition. A member of the fire brigade found the bodies of his two sisters buried in the wreckage. An eye witness to the disaster says that the scene was one of carnage and resembled that of a battlefield. Several of the victims died as they were being lifted from the wreckage. The driver of the Bendigo train says that he saw the signals and when the brakes failed to act he reversed the engine, but was unable to check the train.

U. S. SOLDIERS EVICT SETTLERS

The Residents of Plum Island Must Move Elsewhere.

New York, April 21.—United States troops are camping on Plum Island today, having landed on the island yesterday for the purpose of evicting settlers. They erected tents and spent last night in camp and are prepared to remain as long as necessary. There are twenty men in the party, under the command of Lieut. E. E. Farnsworth, and they belong at one of the forts which guard the entrance of New York harbor.

By nightfall the soldiers had evicted Capt. Archibald Steinhaus, his wife and two children, who put to sea in an auxiliary sloop, taking with them their belongings. It was the captain's intention to spend the night at sea. The other two families are those of William Chambers, a printer of Manhattan, and the steward of the Melrose Social club.

The island is government property, having been purchased by the war department in its plans for the defense of New York harbor. It lies between Sheepshead Bay and Barren Island. In summer ninety-six families live there, but at present there are only five. It was leased to W. S. Overton for five years, at $3,200 a year. He recently went to Washington and got the aid of the war department in the eviction. The reason given by him is that the excise law has not been obeyed, but his tenants deny this.

REVENUE MAN GOES WRONG

Winnipeg, Man., April 21.—The Alberta government last night issued a warrant for the arrest of Capt. Sarbottle, prominent in social circles, and who is collector of inland revenue for that province. Ten days ago he mysteriously disappeared, and it is alleged that he is $7,000 short in his accounts. It is believed he has escaped into Montana.

MAY WAIT AWHILE.

Situation at Venezuela May Cause Minister to Postpone Vacation.

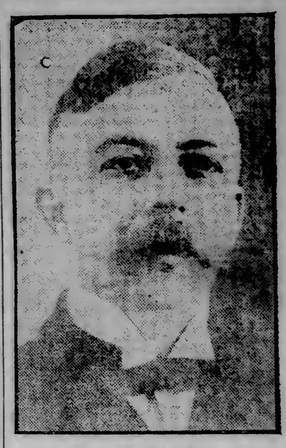

Caracas, Venezula, April 19, via Willemstad, Curacao, April 21.—Although Minister Russell had intended to sail for New York on April 27, on his annual leave of absence long since granted by the state department, it is now possible that the exigencies of the present very delicate diplomatic situation may make his going inadvisable until congress makes some definite decision as to what it is going to do with the Venezuelan question. Mr. Russell has been awaiting word from Washington as to whether he can leave his post at this time.

If the minister leaves his post at this time Jacob Sleeper, secretary of legation here, will become charge d'affaires.

RED LAKE FALLS HOME IS DESTROYED BY FIRE.

MYSTERY IS SOLVED

Remains of Men Cast Away in Storm of 1793.

New York, April 21.—The mystery of the unmarked grave, containing a number of skeletons, found the other day at Hancock, on Sandy Hook, seems to have been solved. It is now believed that the bones are the remains of a party of Englishmen, who were cast away on Sandy Hook in 1783, and buried where their frozen bodies were found. The grave was discovered by accident the other day while men were excavating for the foundations for new gun mounts, which are to be placed in the forts which are designed to protect New York harbor.

The supposed solution to the mystery is found in the inscription on a tablet in the sacristy of old Trinity church. The inscription is as follows:

"At Sandy Hook lye interred (the bones of) the Honourable Hamilton Douglas Hallyburton, son of Sholto Charles, earl of Morton and heir of the ancient family of Hallyburton of Pitcurr, in Scotland, who perished on the coast, with twelve more young gentlemen and one common seaman, in the spirited discharge of duty, on the 30th, or 31st of December, 1783. Born on the 10th of October, 1763. A youth who, in contempt of hardship or danger, possessed an ample fortune, served seven years in the British navy with a manly courage, and seemed to deserve a better fate. This plain monumental stone is erected by his unhappy mother, Katherine, Countess Dowager of Morton, to his dear memory, and that of his unfortunate companions."

BAGLEY MERCHANTS STUNG.

Take Some Old Wild Cat Money Passed by Three Strangers.

Bagley, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three men, supposed to have come here from Cass Lake or Grand Rapids, got rid of some bad money here Saturday afternoon. They succeeded in passing at least three bad $10 bills, and left before their deception was discovered.

They made purchases of several local business concerns, tendering $10 bills, which from a hasty glance looked all right. Later, the merchants scanned the money received more closely, with the result that it was found that the bills were "bogus," being flimsy imitations.

When the game was discovered the perpetrators had made good their escape and no trace of their whereabouts could be found.

The bills used were the old "wild-cat" money, issued by the Merchants and Planters Bank of Georgia, in war times.

FAIR BUILDING BURNS.

Beltrami County Agricultural Association Suffers Loss.

Bemidji, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fanned by a 50-mile-an-hour gale, fire which caught from a blaze in some dead grass on the fair grounds, burned the exhibit building belonging to the Beltrami County Agricultural association and threatened to spread to the adjoining dry jack-pines and consume the entire north end of the city. The building is a total loss. It cost $1,700.

Several rods of the fence were torn down in order to prevent the fire spreading, and other damage was done that will cost considerable to repair.

It is not known how the fire started.

As the exhibit building was being used by Wes Wright as a temporary warehouse, and as there were several barrels of machine oil stored inside, much inflammable material was added to the wooden structure and the flames were in a few moments a raging furnace, the fire from the oil sending a cloud of impenetrable black smoke high into the air, which was wafted by the wind to the middle of the city.

It was impossible for the fire department to reach the grounds with hose, on account of the long distance from the nearest hydrant, and all that the large crowd of citizens sould do was to tear away pieces of the fence adjoining the building and watch the structure reduced to ashes.

BUILDING BOOM IS ON.

More than 60,000 tons of steel for structural purposes will be required in New York city alone during 1908. Chicago is at present the heaviest buyer. Contracts for 12,000 tons of steel were ordered for delivery in Chicago, which is only the beginning.

ODD CHANGE OF FRONT

Morning Paper No Longer Sees Only "Bums" and "Vagrants."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Did not the News Tribune's personally conducted investigation of the "bread line" disclose the fact that practically all of the men in the line were "bums" an "vagrants." If so, why the remarkable change of front in two weeks, shown by the article published Monday morning? I quote from the Monday's edition of the morning paper:

Easter Sunday was not all sunshine.

"In the ecstacy of the moment the gladness that Easter brings, backs were turned on the unfortunate idle and they were forgotten.

"There was no work they could do to earn a meal yesterday, because it was Sunday and Easter. No one wanted a tramp around the house for a bite to eat. The saloons were closed and the little bit of soup which he can get now and then during the day was denied him.

"The tramp walked the streets until weakness overtook him, and then he lay down on the lake shore and waited until the doors of the central station opened to him last night.

"One man, with tears in his eyes, begged the jailor to be given something to eat before 'flopping' on the hard cement floor. 'I can't stand it much longer,' he pleaded, 'I am starved.'

"Others said they had had nothing to eat all day, and some had fasted since Saturday noon. The officers at the station took pity on the unfortunates, and Jailor Johnson divided up the Sunday supply of sardines and bread among the prisoners and lodgers alike.

"Forty-five men were fed and then the provisions ran out. The rest went to sleep with an empty stomach."

During the cold weather of February and March, when the idle men of the city really needed assistance, The Herald was calling the attention of its subscribers to their needs, and the subscribers generously responded. The News Tribune, backed up by the chief of police, maintained that the men were not deserving of help, and that The Herald was simply encouraging bums and tramps to flock to the city. The Bethel society then instituted the system of making the men work before they could eat, and since that time the "bums" and "vagrants" have been toiling from one to two hours at a buck saw for two sandwiches and a cup of coffee, costing about 5 cents. Now, when work is opening up, the number of idle men is daily diminishing, and the weather is warm, the morning paper tries to display a little warm blooded sympathy for the unfortunates who are tramping the streets looking for work, and has forgotten the "tramps" and "bums" whose designing schemes secured a few 2-cent sandwiches and some 1-cent cups of coffee from the charitably inclined people of the city. To Enlarge the Canal.

The enlargement of 10 feet in the width of the Panama locks is being urged by the navy department. This is a small concession to the demand for increased accommodations for the coming big vessels, which builders claim will be much larger in the next few year. The use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is urged in every case of stomach, liver or bowel disorder, because past experience has proven it to be the best for such ailments. A few doses at the first symptom will save you a lot of unnecessary suffering. Therefore get a bottle today from your druggist or dealer and always keep it handy. It will restore the appetite, aid digestion, keep the bowels open and thus prevent sick headache, flatulency, heartburn, dyspepsia, indigestion, female ills and malaria, fever and ague.

FOUR TOOK PART IN FREE FIGHT

Women's Screams and Broken Glass Attract Police Officer.

A sound like a rough-house attracted Patrolmen Barber and O'Neil to a building at 232 West Second street last night at 11 o'clock. Women's screams and breaking glass drew the attention of the bluecoats.

They arrested two men and two women, and sent them to the police station, charged with disorderly conduct. The women gave their names as Ada Loos and Alice Collum, and the men as Andrew Staples and Max Hachwarth. Hachwarth was coming out of the hallway, bleeding freely from numerous beer-bottle cuts about the head and face, when seen by the officers.

He started off on a run, but Barber captured him, after an exciting chase of several blocks. All four were released on bail, which they forfeited this morning. According to the story told by the women, the fight was the result of objections Staples had to the other man's presence in the house.

BUILDING AT RANIER.

Fitger Brewing Company Has Recently Put Up Two Structures.

Ranier, Minn., April 18.—(Special Correspondence.)—This growing city is visited daily by several people anxious to learn something about its possibilities and to make investments. The amount of building here recently attracts no little attention and favorable comment.

The Fitger Brewing company of Duluth has erected a two-story building, 24 x40 feet in size, located at the corner of Duluth and Spruce streets. The lower story is designed for saloon purposes and is finished with steel ceilings and side walls. The upper story has been fitted up as a flat and will be occupied by George Clark.

The Fitger people have also erected a cold storage plant, costing $3,000, and is one of the finest in the Northwest. Its walls contain six air spaces and the structure is otherwise modern in every particular. It has been filled with ice in preparation for the season's business.

The Ranier Produce company, which is now doing business in temporary quarters, but has commenced the erection of a two-story building, 24x60 feet in dimensions, to be finished throughout in steel and arranged especially for the needs of its business. The building will be located on Duluth street.

A handsome depot building is soon to be erected between North and Spruce streets, and many other business and residence structures will soon be under way.

Ike Black, traveling for the Kelley-How-Thomson company, Duluth, was in town calling on the trade Wednesday.

Mrs. George Poskitt has left for Cadillac, Mich., where she has been called by the sudden illness of her mother.

The first car of rails to be used on the bridge arrived Wednesday and will be put in place in a few days. The lift will be operated this week.

BIG TROUT FROM LESTER

Lakeside Boy Pulls Five-Pounder From the River.

James A. Wharton, Jr., of Lester Park has the right system. He gets up early in the morning and catches enough trout out of Lester river to keep the table at home well supplied with the gamey fish.

Today Master Wharton is feeling unusually elated for he caught, early this morning from Lester river, at the Iron Range railway bridge, a monster rainbow trout that weighed five and one-half pounds. This the largest trout caught from Lester river this season. It is a quarter of a pound heavier than the fish caught from the same stream a few days ago by the Sedel boy.

The big trout caught by Wharton is twenty-five inches long and has a circumference of thirteen and one-half inches.

WANTS ESTATE REASSESSED

State Claims Higgins' Estate Should Pay Larger Tax.

Probate Judge J. B. Middlecoff, this morning, resumed the hearing in the matter of state's objection to the inheritance tax paid by the Frank W. Higgins estate, on the ground that the valuation of the property in Minnesota was too low. Little progress was made this morning and the hearing was adjourned until this afternoon when it was expected that the state would take about an hour to finish its testimony relative to land values.

The Higgins' estate, it is understood, will have considerable evidence to offer in rebuttal, tending to show that the valuation fixed on the property by the appraisers appointed by the court was a correct one.

The estate was assessed at $308,000 but the state wishes to re-assess it at about $2,000,000.

WILL FILE CROSS-APPEAL

Bloedel Will Also Carry Election Contest to Supreme Court.

Judge Dibell, acting on the stipulation of both parties to the action, has ordered an additional five days' stay of entry of judgment in the election contest of George J. Bloedel against James L. Cromwell. The time granted in the original stay of proceedings expired yesterday at which time the attorneys for the contestant and contestee got together and agreed for a further stay which will give Mr. Bloedel time to prepare his papers in a cross-appeal to the state supreme court from the order of the district court refusing to amend the findings so as to admit the Claus ballot. This ballot was thrown out by the court and if counted would have been favorable to Mr. Bloedel.

Mr. Cromwell has his notice of appeal and other papers all ready and these will be served within a few days. The court ordered a settled case at the special term last Saturday.

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm-hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

WILL NOT GO TO FORT RILEY

Third Regiment Militia Must be Content With Lake City.

The Third regiment militiamen will not take part in the maneuvers of the regular army at Fort Riley, Kan., as was hoped for, but will have to be content with the regular militia encampment at Lake City again this summer.

Owing to the reorganization of the militia, to conform to the requirements of the Dick bill, the Third has not its full complement. Five companies were transferred to other regiments, and there is no possibility of recruiting five new companies in the required time.

Duluth will have three companies at Lake City this summer. Company E, the newly-organized Duluth company, will take a full complement of men to Lake City. Companies A and C and the band will also attend.

SIX IN RACE FOR WISCONSIN TOGA

William D. Connor Expected to Announce His Candidacy Soon.

Madison, Wis., April 21.—Lieutenant Governor William D. Connor is expected to join the coterie of aspirants for Isaac Sephenson's seat in the United States senate within a few weeks. Unless present plans are changed, the millionaire lumberman of Marshfield will soon make his formal announcement and will begin an active and thorough campaign in preparation for the fall primary.

However, Mr. Connor's plan for landing the office, according to excellent authority, will differ in a marked degree from the methods to be used by the other candidates. The hardest work of the latter will be directed toward the voters, who will express their preferences in the primary, while Mr. Connor, it is said, will practically ignore the voter, so far as real campaigning is concerned.

Watch New Legislators.

In a word, Mr. Connor will watch carefully the candidacies of the various would-be assemblymen and senators. Despite the fact that the legislature is bound by joint resolution to respect the choice of the people for United States senator, when it meets to elect a successor to Stephenson, Mr. Connor will endeavor to secure the promises of support of as many newly-elected legislators as possible, as well as from those who hold over. Pledges of support from the candidates for the legislature will, under this plan, secure for Mr. Connor much support at the primaries and at election time. Ostensibly, however, he will be a candidate at the primaries.

Six to Be in Race.

The expected announcement by Congressman John J. Esch of La Crosse of his candidacy will bring the sixth aspirant into the field. Few doubt that Isaac Stephenson will enter the race, and the other three avowed seekers after the office are William H. Hatten of New London, S. H. Cook of Neenah and District Attorney Francis E. McGovern of Milwaukee. The name of Congressman Jenkins of Chippewa Falls has been mentioned, but it is not believed he will be a candidate. All efforts to get Congressman Cooper of Racine to join the toga-seeking squad have been fruitless, and Irvine L. Lenroot, having come out for congress, is no longer figured upon.

PATRICK FOGARTY DEAD.

Marquette, Mich., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Patrick Fogarty, one of the oldest residents in this city, died Sunday morning after an illness of two weeks, due to ailments brought on by old age. He was 70 years old. He had been employed by the South Shore for the past thirty-five years, a term of service which ended only two weeks ago when he was stricken with the illness which resulted in his death.

Mr. Fogarty was born in Kerry country, Ireland. He came to America as a young man and lived in the Copper country several years before he came to Marquette. Besides his widow, he is survived by three children and two stepchildren. They are John and Jerry Fogarty and Miss Mae Fogarty and Timothy and James Downs. The funeral is to be held Wednesday morning. Services will be held at St. Peter's cathedral and the interment will be in Holy Cross cemetery.

WERGLAND MONUMENT.

Fargo, N. D., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A cablegram from Norway to Dr. H. O. Fjelde informed him that the Norwegian government has decided to send Bishop Anton Vang, primate of the Norwegian church, and Thor. Kleveness, secretary of the Norilans Forbendek, to this country to deliver the Wergland monument. The ceremony will be held in the auditorium in Minneapolis, May 17 and the monument will be erected at Abercrombie this state, and dedicated June 17. The occasion will be made a great Norwegian celebration.

THE REASON

That Gidding garments have such a remarkable prestige and popularity throughout this section of the country, is because they satisfy the wearer at every point.

DISTINCTION in dress is not merely a matter of price—it's not necessary to spend a young fortune on your back in order to appear well. Gidding's garments include the long range from the most austere simplicity to the most elaborate elegance. Things which bear very modest price tags and those which bear price tags that the proud wearer might boastfully wear on the outside, should fashion say so. But each and every one possesses that subtle "something"—call it "style," "air," "distinction," or what you may, it's that "superiority," breathed by shapeliness, carefulness of detail and the ring of true quality.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Childhood is the happiest time of one's life.

By common consent this is admitted. In childhood you are told the things you must and must not do, and then are promptly spanked if you do or do not do them, unless perchance you happen to be blessed with moral sausion parents and then instead of being spanked and letting that end it, you are stood in a corner or requested to administer the physical chastisement on a person whose feelings are deeply injured at your misbehavior, or you are requested to take yourself off in solitary confinement, or you are kept home from going to see your friends, or you the sent to see your friends, or you are made to tell of your wrong doing before an audience which boasts abnormally large and penetrating eyes. In childhood your views which have required time and much labored thought to produce, are dismissed with a glance of censure.

Childhood untrammeled, simple, innocent, unaffected, frank, clear-seeing, adorable childhood.

This is a story of childhood. A group of Duluth children who gather each Saturday afternoon for kindly assistance in lines along which they may be remiss, were treated last Sautrday to a concert on a talking machine, after work for the afternoon had been finished.

The machine, the finest of the kind, was supplied with records of various sorts. The owner of the machine buys nice popular, rollicking, somewhat boisterous and thoroughly delightful records and his wife buys records of more culture and more expense. A selection of both was provided for the children's amusement.

The first record placed in the machine was by Tetrazzini, an Italian lady about whom half the United States is mad. Her bravura passages and her register and her voice production and all that sort of thing are wonderful. She chose for the Saturday concert an Italian aria or something or other, florid, exciting, grasping, agitated, and incomprehensible. The 150 young girls who were being cultivated sat with puckered brows and stiff attention trying to discover what it was all about. Then suddenly they found out that they were not supposed to know what it was about and delicious humor of the situation struck them in a bunch. They laughed and laughed and laughed. They laid their heads on each others shoulders and trembled with gusts of unrestrained laughter. They rested sobbingly for a moment, and Tetrazzini kept right on and then the children laughed again. When the last liquid note of canned music shivered on the air the guests straightened up and dried their eyes and looked pleased satisfaction for this delightfully funny afternoon.

Then a laughing song, over which half the men of the city just chuckle with delight every evening after dinner, was placed in readiness on the machine and the unrestrained "Ha, Ha's" of the gentleman in the machine swept through the room.

His "Ha, Ha's" were the only ones that swept through the room, however. The audience of children sat with sad down drooping countenances over which not the remotest wraith of a smile passed. The lugubriousness of the situation got on the nerves of the lady in charge of the talking macnine and she shut the laughing gentleman off right between the first and second parts of "Ha, ha." She shocked off gurgle and the mournful silence which followed and the pitiful looking children who looked anything but entertained, was annoying, so a Caruso record was next tried. The gulping sobs that Caruso emits in "Pagliacci" tore through the room. The children gazed at one another in silence and then as one person they arose and went hence. There was no waiting upon the order of their going. Those nearest the door went first, and those next followed immediately after. In a short time the room was cleared except for the philanthropic ladies and the talking machine which was still emitting gasping Italian "Ah's" of heart agony.

The ladies looked at each other, in the silence of the empty room.

"Ha, Ha, Ha!" said Caruso laughing musically in a way to suggest a broken heart.

The ladies looked at one another again.

"Ha, Ha, Ha!" said Caruso again in a way in which you knew his heart was broken.

"Shut that thing off, will you," requested one of the ladies of her who was presiding at the machine.

"Ha——" said Caruso, but was chocked off.

And in the room there was no other sound than that of records being placed away and the horn being removed, and a remark or two about the weather.

COST OF DRESS

$30,000 a Year, Says Paris Leader of Fashion.

A reporter who interviewed a leader of Paris fashions recently on the cost to a woman of being well dressed in that city, was told that $30,000 a year was about the lowest limit of possibility. With $50,000 and good taste any woman could make a showing, says the New York Sun.

"You see, she must have so much fine old lace for her underwear, and she must renew it so often," said the authority, "that a great deal of money is consumed on this item. A really fashionable woman can hardly wear anything but lace-trimmed corsets. They cost $200 to $250 apiece, and they can't be relied upon to hold the shape for more than a month or so.

"Then consider the item of stockings. Even for common wear they cost $5 a pair. They may cost ten times that, and there's no wear in them. Of course, wear is an element that a woman who is really trying to dress herself can't give a second thought to, anyway.

"As for dresses, a wearable one for $600 can be procured for ordinary wear; but $3,000 is not out of the way for a really distinguished creation. At the marriage of Alfonso XIII, in Madrid, the Duchess d'Almondovar wore a costumo that cost $7,000 in Paris. It consisted of a silk net gown, embroidered with topazes and a court mantle of lace embroidered with gold. There was an Empire gown of white satin in the trousseau of the Princess Marie Bonnparte, who married the king of Greece's son lately, which cost only $1,000, and yet was greatly admired. You see, it was absolutely plain—not a speck of lace on it.

"Dresses cost money, when you reflect that a woman in the swim needs from thirty to fifty of them in the course of a year; but I'm not sure that her furs don't cost even more. You see she must have at least six sets. The woman who would wear the same cloak in the daytime calling and at night going to the opera, or the same in her automobile that she would when traveling by rail, could not expect to have any status as a well-dressed woman.

"Hats, too, are important. A woman must have such a variety—satin, lace, fur, feather and flower hats, large ones and small ones. The hat should express the occasion, as it were—a somber spirit of devotion or a joyous elation of mundane affection.

"How much thought they need! And you really can't do better than from $200 to $250 apiece. I have heard of hats as low as $15 or $20, but I can hardly believe in their reality. At least one can imagine the pitying smile of the saleswoman as she shows them.

"Just now, by the way, very little need be spent on the headdress. The note of the moment is negligee. You run a band of blue or faded rose velvet through a tumble of curls, or a wild mass of waves, and there you are.

"What about the jewels, you ask? I will not open the casket. The topic is endless if you go into detail. But to sum it up in a word, for full-dress nothing is permissible between zero and $100,000. If you cannot be magnificent, be defiant."

TEA FORTUNES.

How to Tell Future From Tea Grounds.

Women's curiosity always has been a subject of much discussion and difference of opinion, but there is no woman, young or old, who will not find a vast amount of amusement and entertainment from having her fortune told. The popular hostess is the one who never is at a loss to amuse and entertain her guests. An easy and jolly way to tell fortunes is the old, old fancy for fortunes in a tea cup.

Brew the tea, but do not use a strainer. All but a few drops of the tea should then be drunk, and these serve to keep the leaves in circulation. The cup then must be whirled about three times—for three is the mystic number, you know—and turned into the saucer and turned again three times, and the cup then is ready to be read.

A lover—and surely this is the most interesting—either a man or a woman, is represented by a number of dots, in which one figure stands alone.

An engagement is represented by two dots, side by side.

A marriage is represented by three dots, side by side, and an offer of marriage is signified by a kneeling figure in the cup. A group of dots arranged three in a row means that the offer will be accepted.

Tears to be shed for one cause or another are represented by drops of tea in the bottom of the cup.

If you find large dots in a line in the cup, be prepared for the many trials and difficulties which are in store for you. If the large dots are mixed with small ones, you will encounter disagree people, and your affairs will be in confusion.

The different shapes and positions of leaves determine whether they are men or women or clothes. A long hand leaf represents a man, and if there are smaller leaves, or even points on or near this leaf, with the help of your imagination, you can easily see that these may be a silk hat, a cane, boots, or a cigar.

A broader leaf indicates a woman, and she often can be distinguished wearing broad skirts, a hat, a parasol, or umbrella.

A cross in a teacup means news of a death.

A group of trees standing separately means that your wish will come true.

Be on the watch for the leaf that folds over the rim of the cup, for this means that a stroke of good luck may be expected soon.

Feminine Philosophy.

Wives are so fascinating—other men's wives.

A man always pats himself on the back when he has composed a letter that breathes devotion, but would not be negotiable in a breach of promise suit, says Helen Rowland.

The greatest proof that marriage is not a failure is that widows and widowers are always anxious to try it again.

Genius, like anything else, needs distance to lend it enchantment; and the longer you are married to one, the more distance you are likely to give him.

The only way to be happy with a husband is to believe everything he tells you—even when you know it isn't so.

Life is a game in four rubbers, hearts are trumps when a man is very young; clubs are trumps after he marries; diamonds are trumps as he waxes rich and gouty; and lastly—spades.

The society reporter's wife is the only woman who never gets a flattering notice from him.

A man may like a girl ever so much until he finds out she likes him ever so much; then like cures like. See "Simple Homeopathy."

Household Suggestions.

Omelet With Oranges.

Beat the whites of four eggs until stiff enough to stand alone; beat the yokes lightly and add to them three tablespoonfuls of water and one of orange juice. Fold in the stiff whites, then turn an omelet pan in which one tablespoonful of butter has melted. Cook slowly until the mixture slips easily away from the sides of the pan; then stand in the oven until a golden brown. Fold over, turn out on a hot platter, garnish with sections of oranges and serve at once.

Roast Beef's Heart.

Wash the heart and soak for half an hour in cold, salted water. Wipe and stuff the ventricles with a forcemeat of bread crumbs and chopped ham or salt pork, minced fine and well seasoned, lying the heart upon a bed of minced onion and tomatoes, and pouring in a little hot water to make the gravy. Roast for two hours.

Suggestions.

Quickly apply raw egg to a cut; it will allay the pain and quickly heal the wound.—Sprinkle the cloth by dipping a whiskbroom in hot water; they will give quicker and iron smother and better.—Bathe the face during warm weather with diluted witch hazel; it is most refreshing.—Nothing takes the place of alcohol for removing candle grease. Place a lump of camphor in the chest with the silver and it will not tarnish.—Mold will not from on preserves and jellies if a box of lime is kept in the closet with them.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"The Cow Puncher."
METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.

PLENTY OF GUN PLAY.

"The Cow Puncher" Pleases Fair Sized Audience at Lyceum.

Teeming with thrilling moments, with enough gun play to satisfy the most ardent admirer of the "wild and woolly," "The Cow Puncher" was witnessed by a fair-sized audience at the Lyceum last evening. That the drama met with the approval of the patrons was evidenced by the enthusiastic reception. "The Cow Puncher" is a dramatization of Hal Reid's story of the Golden West and is not lacking in any of the characteristics that make plays of that class popular with the theater-goers.

"The Cow Puncher" is presented with a good cast. John A. Preston, in the title role portrays the big-hearted, fearless though unpolished hero of Western Star ranch, whom Geraldine Graham, the eastern-bred girl owner of the ranch comes to respect and then love. Miss Gertrude Ricnle is pretty and winning and appeared to advantage in the latter part. Alice Hawley gave a fine representation of Lutchia Cordova, the Mexican girl who is in love with Carlos Mendoza, and William F. Pfarr made a great hit in the character of Mandoza. Mondane Phillips, as Slattery, Ann, the Bowery girl transplanted in the West, and Fred Seigel as Tacoma Jim, the Irish cowboy, figured prominently in the comedy parts of the story.

The lariat spinning by the cowboys in the opening scene and the musical numbers by the male quartet were pleasing specialties introduced during the performance.

"The Cow Puncher" will be presented at the Lyceum again this evening.

AT THE BIJOU.

Mlle. Marzella and her trained birds furnish the feature act at the Bijou this week. The stage of the theater looks like a huge bird cage at the Zoo when Mlle. Marzella's pets are arranged for their act. Birds of almost every species are represented by the collection. The act is interesting as well as instructive. It shows the wonderful results that can be accomplished by careful training.

"Life behind the scenes" is the title of a comedy skit in which Edward McWade, Margaret May and Fred Campbell appear. This act snows the humor that often goes on, unknown to the play-going public, behind the scenes.

Charles Dill and Emily Ward have an entertaining singing and dancing act. Tierney and O'Dell singing and dancing comedians, scored a hit with the audience by their clever work. They have some new and catching parodies on popular songs.

Tops, Topsy and Tops have an acrobatic act that is a scream. It brings down the house. Trixie and Topsy, acrobatic clown dogs, assist the team in the fun making line nd come in for share of the applause.

"Gypsy Ann" is the name of the illustrated song that is being sung.

THE BURLESQUERS.

Two Genuine Comediennes and World's Champion Wrestler at Met.

Funny women are rather scarce even on a stage that is as rich in good material as America's, but the Weston Sisters, who appear at the Metropolitan this week with the Broadway Girls are real comediennes.

Their stunt in the ollo is the best thing in the show. They are not bad singers, clever dancers, and they have a burlesque boxing bout that is a loud shout. The comedy they get off during the early part of their act is very humorous and not the least bit vulgar.

Johnnie Weber is featured with the Gaiety company as the red-hot comedian, and he manages to gain a good many laughs in the course of an evening. In the present production, which is a two-act skit called "Suissette," and written by Epes Sargent and John Williams, he has an excellent feminine foil in Ha tie Chew, who is a very charming person when she does not have on an absurd make-up. Even then she is not so bad.

Blanche Washburn, Vaughn Comfort, Charles Douglas, Clarence Marks and a large chorus appear in "Suissette," and some of them participate in the vaudeville acts.

Beatrice Haynes opens the olio with a song and dance number. Her voice is nothing startling, but her choice of songs is good. Clarence Marks, with a minstrel bass voice, would sing very nicely if he would only open his voice and let the sound out instead of inhaling so much of it.

Hattie Chew Charles Dauglas, Vaughn Comfort and Blanche Washburn all appear in Miss Washburn's act, "A Jealous Woman," and Johnnie Weber and two girls appear in ten minutes of foolery. Most of the comedy is carried on between Weber and the musical director.

Frank A. Gotch, the wrestling champion of the world, appears at every performance of the Broadway Gaiety Girls at the Metropolitan this week.

ONLY ONE DIFFERENCE.

Open Shop All That is at Issue in Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 21.—Organized labor in Grand Forks is greatly interested in the announcement of the action taken by the Grand Forks Builders and Traders' exchange in declaring for an open shop and action relative to the proposition will very possibly be taken at the next meeting of the various unions of the city. The unions most directly affected by the open shop are the carpenters, the bricklayers, tinners, plumbers and painters.

Just what action wil be taken by the various organizations is uncertain as there is a difference of opinion among the members as to what course would be advisable. The building season, so far as Grand Forks is concerned, will not be a very busy one and this fact will no doubt have some bearing upon the move that the unions are liable to make. There seems to be only one difference between the builders and the union men, this being on the question of open shop. There is no dispute as to hours, wages, etc., the union rule being the only proposition to which the employers object.

PUSHING SOO WORK.

All is Activity Along Railroad Heading Towards Duluth.

Onamia, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thoreen & Sandeen, who have the grading of the Soo from here to Snake river, and who were working on the grade all last summer, are back again and have begun operations, by repairing old camps and building new ones. Work will soon be in progress all along the line. Contractor Folby, who has several miles this side of Snake river to complete, passed through here recently with his outfit.

Mr. Sandeen said that they would commence grading this week and that if the weather was favorable, they would have their contract completed by July 1.

While there is no definite information as to when the company will resume the work of laying rails, it is thought that it will not be long. All is activity along the line at present.

WANTS TO BE SHERIFF.

Crookston, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fight for sheriff of Polk county has been further complicated by Mayor J. D. McPhee appearing at the office of the county auditor and paying his filing fee, declared himself to be in the race. It has been generally understood for some time that the mayor had intentions in this direction, but he would not take the step until he had satisfied himself that he had a chance to win out.

CLAIMS PRICE IS TOO HIGH

County Figures Barker Property Worth About $50,000.

At the morning session of the appraisers for the courthouse site at Fifth avenue west and Second street, several contractors and real estate men testified relative to the value of the ground and buildings owned by Mrs. Charles Barker on the northwest corner. The real estate men claimed the land alone, comprising frontage of 100 feet on the avenue, is worth $20,000, while the contractors figured the building worth in the neighborhood of $37,000. This would bring the value of the property up to about $57,000 or $60,000. The county will introduce testimony tending to show that the property ought not to be valued so high; that a little less than $50,000 would be nearer a fair price for it.

DIES IN EVERETT.

Word was received in Duluth today of the death of W. M. Ross at Everett, Wash.

Mr. Ross was one of the old-time settlers at the Head of the Lakes. He was fromerly associated with Capt. Alexander McDougall of Duluth in the building of the famous whaleback steamers invented by the latter.

Mr. Ross left West Superior, where he was living, in 1891, going to Everett. He was successful in his business affairs in the West, being one of the organizers and directors of the Puget Sound National bank and of the Washington Improvement company. He served two terms as county auditor, and was also active in the chamber of commerce at Everett.

His family consisted of his wife, one son and three daughters.

Mr. Ross was a brother-in-law of Capt. Alexander McDougall, his wife being a sister of Capt. McDougall. His wife's mother, Mrs. Eleanor McDougall, also lives in Duluth.

Mr. Ross was a prominent member of the Masonic order, and many of the early residents of Duluth will hear with regret of his death.

"BRASS HEART" SAVES LIVES.

Death May be Foiled by Machine to Force Breathing.

Washington, April 21.—Following the international patenting of the artificial respiration machine invented by Prof. George Poe of Norfolk, Va., there has just been completed by Poe and several inquiring scientists a series of amazingly successful experiments with the little contrivance which mechanically puts oxygen, the breath of life, into inert lungs. Those who partiepated in the tests are firmly convinced that thousands of lives may be saved by the "brass heart." It will be especially valuable in cases of suspended animation caused by drowning and aspyxiation.

BRONSON HOWARD HAS BEEN VERY ILL.

New York, April 21.—Bronson Howard, the dean of American playwrights, has been seriously ill for four weeks, although the fact has just become known. A friend of Mr. Howard explained last night that the family did not wish to have the fact of his illness become known. He has been suffering with the same rheumatic malady with which he suffered while on his trip to Egypt, and at one time the physicians were much alamed. However, he is now thought to be on the road to recovery.

LARGEST ORDER

For Apple Trees is Sent by Duluth School Children.

The order for apple trees sent by the Duluth schol children to the educational committee of the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs was the largest received by the committee from any city or town of the state. The Duluth school children ordered more than 1,100 trees, and if good luck attends the young orchard planters, in a few years Duluth will be adding an apple industry to its many other pursuits. It is probable that a general day for the planting of the trees will be observed throughout the city, although it is likely that a day somewhat later than Arbor day, as a later season in the northern part of the state is considered more propitious for the growth of the trees.

The number of trees ordered by each school is as follows: Endion, 45; Jackson, 87; Adams, 36; Longfellow, 92; Washington, 12; Franklin, 91; Ely, 84; Irving, 75; Nettleton, 53; Lakeside, 82; Lincoln, 120; Washburn, 74; Fairmont, 24; Fond du Lac, 40; Emerson, 46; Monroe, 55, and Lowell, 30.

Through the efforts of the educational committee of the federation, arrangements were made to provide the school children of the state with young apple trees for planting at 9 cents each. This price included the freight charges and printed directions for the planting and care of the trees.

RAILROADS

DIRECT LINE TO WINNIPEG

Through Trains From Duluth to the Canadian Metropolis.

Rainy Lake Country Will be Opened to Duluth Jobbers.

Through rates from Duluth to Winnipeg will soon be announced to the Duluth shippers. The rates will be made by the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway to Virginia, from that point to Ranier over the Duluth, Rainy Lake.

Ranier over the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg and from the Canadian boundary to Winnipeg over the line of the Canadian Northern railway. This will give Duluth jobbers a continuous haul to the Manitoba capital, and will open a new field for them.

The completion of the bridge at Ranier over the Rainy river will be the signal for through trains to Winnipeg. The bridge is about completed and the announcement of the running of trais over the line will be made shortly.

The Rainy Lake country is a growing one. There is ample field for good business and the running of trains to Rainier will be the signal of an invasion by the local jobbing firms, which heretofore have been unable to reach this territory.

The making of through rates to Winnipeg will also facilitate trade between the Manitoba capital and this city. The new line will be an almost direct route to the Western Canadian metropolis, and will allow of Duluth competition with the Canadian houses in a territory that has heretofore been considered as belonging to the Canadians.

Accommodates Fishermen.

Beginning May 2 the Duluth & Iron Range Sunday train will arrive in this city at 7 p. m., instead of at noon, the former time. This will give fishermen opportunity to spend most of Sunday at their favorite trout streams. The train will leave here at 3:35 every Saturday afternoon, allowing the fishermen to catch it after the Saturday 1 o'clock closing. The new arrangement will allow more time at the streams than did the old arrangement.

INCREASE IN TRAFFIC.

Cutting of Rates Will Bring More Business to Duluth.

"The general cutting of rates will result in an increased passenger business for Duluth this summer," said H. G. Wells, a Chicago passenger official, who is in the city today. "Duluth cannot help but benefit by the reductions which cover a wide area," he said. "Besides the regular tourist traffic that you get up every year you will have the increased travel that will be gained by the reduced rates.

"With a reduced fare from the Head of the Lakes to Chicago and return, there is bound to be a lot of people take advantage of this rate. Then you have the general reductions on the eastern travel. Most of the roads will make a rate for the Yukon exhibition on the coast, which will result in a heavy travel to and from the coast. I look for the Duluth roads to do their share of this business.

"The freight business is very light at the present time, but indications throughout the West are very good for a heavy crop. Early spring seeding has started in many places and it looks as if a heavy wheat movement will result this fall. A heavy wheat crop would be the means of bringing back business to the roads. General freight business is due to increase considerably after the first of June. The eastern freight business is already showing an increased business, while the western roads will feel the increase within fifty or sixty days."

LOVER SLAMS DOOR; GIRL TRIES SUICIDE.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 21.—Following a bitter Easter quarrel which started when pretty Mattie Bryant reproved her lover, Andy Roe, for not sending her flowers, the girl late Sunday night swallowed a handful of headache tablets and lay down to die. When doctors brought her back to life several hours later, the woman's first words were, "If Andy really loved me he would not have slammed the door when he went out." She will live.

Shortly after the attorneys began impanelling a jury in the trial of M. E. Davis, the young druggist held for shooting his wife, Davis was served with notice of a suit for $20,000 damages started by Dr. J. E. Miller. Davis shot Miller, after firing a bullet at his wife.

HAD MORE APPETITE THAN RIGHTEOUSNESS.

St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Boys, with more appetite than righteousness, raided the larder at St. Peter's Episcopal church, Fourth and Maple streets, last evening, while the annual parish meeting was in progress. They made away with four cakes and nearly 100 sandwiches. They kindly left the coffee. The sandwiches and the cakes were to be served after the meeting.

ZAUFT HAS CONTRACT

Will Erect the New Postoffice Sub-Station.

Structure Will be Completed Early This Summer.

Emil J. Zauft has been awarded the contract for erecting the building which Dr. David Graham will build for the West Duluth postal sub-station.

Dr. Graham says that he will soon be ready to announce the cost of the new building. It will be a two-story brick building. The larger portion of the lower floor will be fitted to meet the requirements of the postoffice. The upper floor will be given over to lodge rooms.

Work will be started on the building as soon as possible, to take advantage of the favorable weather. It is likely that the ground will be broken for the foundation tomorrow. The work will be rushed with all possible speed to completion.

There has been some delay over the plans and specifications, which were in the hands of Clyde Kelley, some changes being called for when they were first presented. After today, however, there will be no further delay, according to Dr. Graham, who is very anxious to get the building completed before the summer is well advanced.

The new building will be located back of the Duluth hospital on Bristol street, just off Central avenue.

WANTS BIG DAMAGES.

Elmer Doan Sues for $25,000 for Loss of an Eye.

Elmer Doan has started a suit in the district court against Alger, Smith & Co. for $25,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received at the West Duluth dumping yards of the company. Doan claims that while he was unloading logs March 16, 1905, he was ordered to unfasten the chain that held some logs on a car. He alleges that the chains were defective, that they broke and the logs rolled on him, crushing his face and destroying the sight of one eye. Alexander Marshall represents Doan.

BELTING RECOVERED.

But Thief Flees Before Police Can Reach Him.

The West Duluth police last evening just missed getting the man whom they suspect of having stolen the leather belting from the Virginia & Rainy Lake sawmill last Saturday night.

Late yesterday afternoon the West Duluth police learned that a man had been seen entering 5616 Raleigh street, carrying a sack over his shoulder. On this slight clue they issued a search warrant and went through the boarding house. They found 25 feet of leather belting 6 inches wide, and two other strips of lesser width, under one of the beds. The total value of the cache is probably $125. After some delay they got an interpreter and learned the name of the man who occupied the bed. He works at the Zenith Furnace company and the police went after him, but when they got to the plant the suspect had flown, warned, probably, by his friends at the boarding house while the police were investigating. He left without drawing his pay or removing his belongings from the boarding house, and no trace has been found of him.

It is suspected that he is in Superior hiding among his friends. The police over the bay have been notified and are keeping a watch out for him.

GRANDSON GIVES BRYAN A SCARE

Hid Under Berth Where Nebraskan Hunted for Him.

New York, April 21.—William J. Bryan's grandson, little Bryan Leavitt, gave the Democratic leader a bad scare today. Mr. Bryan had gone to the pier to meet the steamer Minnehaha, upon which Mrs. Bryan, her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Leavitt, and Mrs. Leavitt's two children, were returning from a several months' visit in Europe. When the steamer swung in at the pier, Mr. Bryan was one of the first on board. He found Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Leavitt awaiting him on the upper deck. His granddaughter, Ruth, also was there, but little Bryan was nowhere to be seen. A search extending over the ship, from one end to the other, was not successful. Finally, his mother found him where he had hidden himself, under a berth in his mother's stateroom. When he was drawn out of his hiding place, little Bryan threw himself into his grandfather's arms, and the big crowd which had gathered on the deck, watched the meeting with enthusiastic appreciation.

From the pier the family went at once to the Hoffman house. Mr. Bryan was obliged to leave them at once to fill an engagement in Trenton, N. J. He will return to New York this evening, however, to remain with his family until they leave for Nebraska tomorrow.

WAS TRYING TO SAVE GIRL FROM EVIL COMPANIONS

Eva Gagne Told Mother She Was Going to Church.

Mother is Prostrated With Grief Over Daughter's Act.

Eva Gagne, the 15-year-old West end girl who drank carbiloc acid at the corner of Superior street and First avenue west yesterday morning, is resting easily at St. Luke's hospital. She is out of danger, and the physicians say she will recover.

"Boys and girls who say they are Eva's friends are the cause of the attempted suicide," said J. Pilon, stepfather of the girl, today. "They are all the time trying to get her to do wrong, and because her mother tries to make her life a decent life, and to keep her from bad associations, Eva tries to blame her for being unhappy.

"My wife is prostrated with grief over the occurrence. Every time she thinks of it she faints away, and she became so bad last night that I had to secure the service of Dr. Murray. She fainted away seven times yesterday and three times this morning. She is more ill than Eva, in fact.

"Young men and girls, who are a bad lot, have been trying to get Eva to travel with them. We have done all we could to keep her good. Her mother and I both have done everything we could for her. But when these kind of people come and want her to go to questionable places nights, you cannot blame us for trying to keep her home. When she went to the roller rink in Superior Sunday night she told her mother she was going to church. Mrs. Lundberg came for my wife to go to Superior with her to get the girls, and they went. Can you call it being mean to a girl when her mother tries to save her from disgrace?"

Mr. Pilon has the appearance of a respectable, hard working man, and apparently feels the whole affair very deeply. He called to see his stepdaughter at St. Luke's hospital last night.

"It all seems like a dream," Eva said to him. "Mother should not have come for me at the rink."

"Eva is a good girl, and would be all right if it were not for evil associations with which so-called friends try to surround her," concluded Mr. Pilon.

BIBLE STUDY FOR BOYS.

Seventy-Two Students Will Take Examinations on Bible Topics.

The Bible Study classes in connection with the boys' department, Y. M. C. A., will close their winter sessions with the international examinations, which will be held this week. These examinations are participated in by all the boys' departments in the North American association. The papers are prepared by the international committee of New York and are not opened until the evening of the examinations. Fifteen questions are asked, and the boys can select ten. Ten marks are given each for correct answers and the students winning 75 percent or more are awarded a diploma, which is prepared and signed by the New York committee. The boys' department winning the largest number of these diplomas is awarded the Dan McDonald silver cup, and the ten departments receiving the largest number of diplomas get a place on the roll of honor and receive a large wall banner. For the past two years Duluth has won a place on the honor roll, and this year there is a possibility of getting first place or at least very near the top, as there are more students taking the examinations than in any previous year.

Tonight, at 7:30, the boys, who have been taking the "Travels of Paul" studies, will take their examinations. There will be twenty-four boys in this group. Wednesday, at 7:30, "The Life of Christ" class of forty-one boys will be examined, and Saturday the "Men of the Bible" class of seven boys will write. "The Life of Christ" is the first year study; "Travels of Paul," second year, and the "Men of the Bible," third year. As soon as a boy receives a diploma he graduates into the next class.

Kidneys Cured by This Simple Treatment.

Get your druggist to mix the following ingredients: one-half ounce fluid ext. Buchu, one ounce of compound fluid Balmwort and two ounces of syrup Sarsaparilla compound. Shake well and take a teaspoonful before each meal and one when retiring. Drink plenty of water between meals and at night, but little of any liquid at meal times.

The buchu alone is an excellent tonic for the kidneys and bladder, but combined with the excellent qualities of balmwort and sarsaparilla, its efficacy is ten times greater. The great urinary specialist, Gaut, whose single fees range from $500 to $1000, acknowledges in his latest reports to the German Health Bureau that this simple mixture is most reliable and will cure all but the most complicated and aggravated kidney and bladder affections; thereore, it is well worth trying, as it is not an expensive formula.

Puffing under the eyes, backache, headache and dizziness, burning of the eyes, blurred vision, extreme nervousness, and insomnia all indicate urinary trouble. Many more symptoms could be named, but the reader will surley avoid neglect and prevent serious complications like diabetes, Bright's disease, apoplexy and rheumatism.

Resume Work on Approach.

The controversy between the Great Northern and the Omaha railway companies relative to the bridge approach on the Superior side seems to have been adjusted as Whitney Bros. have resumed construction work. The Omaha claimed that the approach was infringing on some of its track property. It is believed that the approach to the interestate bridge on the Superior side will be completed within the next month.

Farming in Australia.

Northeast Australia develops very slowly. Farmers grow maize in the old-fashioned way. The maize crop in Queensland last year was a record one. Nowhere is such barley grown as in the Northwest part of the United States—the golden grain belt, as it is called. This is the barley used to make the famous golden grain belt beer, the favorite beverage of the country. Order of Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing Co.

VOLSTEAD BILL THROUGH HOUSE

Gives Minnesota Right to Drain Private and Public Lands.

Washington, April 21.—The Volstead bill authorizing the drainage of certain lands in Minnesota, which was under discussion for some time in the house yesterday, was passed today under suspension of the rules.

According to the provisions of the bill the state of Minnesota is given the right to treat public lands subject to entry and entered lands the same as privately owned lands under the drainage laws of the state. The right was sought to enable the state to secure the drainage not only of the public lands but also of large tracts held in private ownership.

WET OR DRY.

Many Illinois Cities and Towns Are Voting on Local Option.

St. Louis, Mo., April 21.—Forty Illinois cities and towns, the majority of them in the southern portion of the state, are voting today on the local option question, and officials of the anti-saloon league are hopeful of adding five counties, Morgan, Scott, Perry, Calhoun and Pulaski to the list already totalled dry.

The battle in Cairo, which has sixty-five saloons, has been intensely bitter on both sides. On the first of the year the saloon men agreed to close their places on Sunday, and it is expected this action will have effect today. Thebes, also in Alexander county, will vote today, and it is claimed by the anti-saloon forces.

WOMAN'S POWER

The healthy woman; strong mentally and physically, whose ambition and magnetic influence urge men to deeds of grandeur and heroism; such women are all-powerful.

Weak, sick and ailing women have little ambition; their own troubles occupy all their thoughts. They dwell upon their pains, suffer from nervousness and headaches; often are extremely melancholy, and avoid society. For thirty years has been saving women from this awful condition.

Mrs. Louise Jung, of 332 Chestnut St., Detroit, Mich., writes:

"I suffered from a very severe female weakness for a long time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health. I hope it will do other women as much good as it has me."

Mrs. Emma Wheaton, of Vienna, W. Va., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was a walking shadow. My husband insisted upon my writing to you and trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did. It relieved all my pains and misery, and made of me a very different woman."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice.

JOHNSON DENIES OMAHA STORY

Did Not Make Any Unfriendly Criticism of Mr. Bryan.

St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—Governor Johnson returned yesterday from Lindsborg, Kan., where he addressed the students of the Swedish college at that place. April 30 he will speak at Ann Arbor, and on May 1 he will give a talk to the students of Augustain college, at Rock Island.

The Democratic executive is much displeased regarding the interview credited to him at Omaha, in which he was made to say that Bryan was a "has been." Yesterday he said he wished to add to the denial already issued by his secretary, Frank A. Day.

"The whole thing is so absurd that it would seem hardly worth my notice, but the statement credited to me has been given such wide circulation that I am compelled to deny it," said Governor Johnson.

"No man in my position would use such words, or even imply as much," he said.

"I was not interviewed at Omaha. I met a newspaper man near Council Bluffs, but no reference was made to Mr. Bryan. The whole thing was an untruth, and without any excuse."

Governor Johnson was greatly pleased with his reception at Lindsborg and at other points along the route.

He says he was most cordially received.

CANADIAN SOO MILL QUITS.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 21.—Because of the lack of orders the Algoma Steel company of the Canadian Soo, the second largest steel rail plant in Canada, announces that the plant will be closed indefinitely. The blast furnaces are to be continued in operation, but the open hearth plat will be idle. Several hundred men will be thrown out of employment.

ITCHING SKIN? DOCTOR THE SKIN.

When your face is dirty and grimy, you don't drink water to cleanse it. You wash your face with water and you keep your face clean by washing it with water.

Eczema, psoriasis, salt rheum, barber's itch and like skin afflictions are similar to dirt and grime in that they are caused by parasitic germs upon the skin. These diseases cannot be cured by drinking medicine any more than you can cleanse your face by drinking water. Cleanse the skin of these germs by applying the remedy right where the disease exists and the skin becomes white and smooth again.

The Lyceum Pharmacy, Duluth, sells simple oil of wintergreen, properly compounded with other soothing vegetable remedies in D. D. D. Prescription, as a positive specific for killing the bacilli and germs in the skin. This D. D. D. remedy is not a sticky concoction or a smeary paste. It is a liquid external wash, as easy and simple to use as water. It is applied right where the itch and sore is. Used with D. D. D. Soap, it is bound to cure. The first application brings instant relief—you will know this the minute you apply the remedy—and the skin once cured, stays cured in nearly all cases. Get rid of that itch right now—today.

FIRE IN WOODS BURNS FIERCELY

Heavy Damage Wrought Around Akeley—Narrow Escapes Reported.

Akeley, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A most destructive forest fire is raging in the woods north and south of Akeley. It has already spread over several miles of territory and continues to move south, destroying the valuable timber on thousands of acres of land. The road to Chamberlain was impassable on Sunday, because the fire was raging on each side. Robert Dunn telephoned out for assistance, and County Commissioner W. H. Day and several teams and a number of men from the Red River Lumber company's barns responded to help save his house and barns. The fire reached within a few yards of his buildings.

South of Dunn's, it jumped the county road and entirely destroyed the house, with its entire furnishings, and the barn and outbuildings of Cam Hulbert. Hulbert and his family were in the house at the time, and had a miraculous escape. The fire was raging at the east side of Hulbert's property, but he thought it would not cross the road. A heavy wind blew the fire across, and the house was burning beyond hope when Hulbert discovered the blaze. His wife fainted, and Hulbert carried her outside to a place of safety. He returned to find his daughter and two children missing. They had fled to the barn, and Hulbert rushed to the barn as the fire caught it and found the children hiding in the interior. Several large hogs were cremated, also some chickens, and all the machinery and lumber to build a new house. There was no insurance, and the loss exceeds $2,500, beside all the family effects, everything being burned, including clothing.

The sawmills of Holden & Sons were destroyed, with several thousand feet of logs, a loss of over $1,000. William Voshell lost $400 worth of logs, and C. Andrus had burned 300 cords of wood, valued at $900.

At the north part of Akeley, in the woods, the Red River Lumber company have had a large crew of men fighting the forest fire, and today the two logging trains came to town for more men. T. Lammis and a crew of men, with Rodney Hodge, left this morning for the fire district.

Dr. and Mrs. Desmond were compelled to drive through the fire, near Lewis, and Mrs. Desmond's hair was badly singed.

M. Hickson and his team had to go through the fire, and Hickson had the hair from his head and face burned completely off.

Farmer Abrozskwi lost $120 worth of cord wood, and the White Oak schoolhouse was saved after a desperate fight with the flames. The outhouse was burned and the fire ran within three feet of the school building.

Deputy Sheriff Brennan, with a crew of men, went out to assist in fighting the fire. The farmers think they have the fire confined to the north and west of the government road. Thousands of acres have been burned over, and the fire rages on several sections.

NORTHERN PACIFIC TO PAY REWARD FOR BANDITS.

St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Officials of the Northern Pacific railroad has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the bandits who last Thursday night held up the passengers in the sleeper on the coast train as the train was leaving Minneapolis. If only one of the men is captured, $250 will be paid. The posting of the reward is considered by many as an indication that hope of capturing the men is beginning to fade. While many persons have seen suspects, no one has yet been found who answered the description of either bandit and who could not give a good account of himself. Several of the city detectives and the railroad detectives are still working on the case, and they hope the reward will cause someone to give up valuable information.

Says Husband Was Cruel.

Mrs. Mary A. Nye has begun divorce proceedings in the district court against Fitz Willis Nye, on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment. WHITE SOX LOOK GOOD

How the Squad Looks to The Herald Sporting Expert.

By "Mac."

Given an experienced catcher, an experienced first baseman and one old head on the pitching staff, the squad which Manager Morrow has gathered at Rockford looks like a promising entry for a good pennant race. One can't tell much by the first few games. The pitchers are as wild as hawks, the boys haven't found their batting eyes, and the men are not well enough acquainted, nor sufficiently drilled to work together. Individual efforts count more than team-play, and the poor form of one man may upset the team.

That was the case yesterday. Iverson, the big Chicago man, who was signed for first base, threw the game in the dirt at the jump-off. He lasted on the sack for only two innings, but in that time he managed to make three rank errors, and was the principal contributor in the seven runs donated to Rockford. Couture, who had gone down from Eau Claire the day before, and wasn't in any kind of shape, was wild and ineffective. He tried to curve a few, but they wouldn't break, and then he took to sticking them right over the center. With unsettled work behind him, he was meat for the Wisconsin-Illinois leaguers, and they bunched their hits with men on the sacks, rolling up the score before the Duluth candidates even found themselves.

There is promise in the squad. Young Murray, who finished the game yesterday, looks like a pitcher who will come along. He can send them up to the plate at a 90-mile clip. He stands 6 ft. 1 in., and weighs over 180 pounds. He has the physique, the actions and the general bearing of a ball player and will be with the team when it strikes Duluth, unless his early showing is all veneer. Koepping, the shortstop, is another man who will certainly make good. He is fast, sure and stands up to the bat as though he knew something about baseball. Allwood isn't much over five feet tall, but he plays good baseball, and Pagels, who has been playing first base during the Rockford series, but is a candidate for the second sack, will probably land a place.

"Kling" Rorabaugh, the pride of the Northern Illinois semi-pros, is a likely man. He is built on Sam Meniece's lines and hits the ball like the Duluth boy. He is au outfielder, but his catching is better than that of the ordinary youngster, and he will make a good substitute backstop. Chrest, who looks as though he might fall apart any minute, was the surprise of the squad, rapping out two opportune doubles in the first game, one of them coming with the sacks all populated. For the present, the pitchers are unknown quantities. They are all young and inexperienced and have much to learn. Their arms are good, and if they can show some headwork, they will make it a go.

CONVERTED TO JOHNSON

Louisville Man Tells of Favorable Impression Made There.

Believes the South Will Rally to His Support.

James McCrea of Louisville, one of the Southern Democrats who met Governor Johnson while in the South, is at the St. Louis today. Since the Louisville speech of the governor, Mr. McCrea has come out strong for the nomination of the Minnesota executive. He says that Governor Johnson made a very strong impression in the South, both in his Shiloh and Louisville speeches. He says that the governor has won a large following and should he secure the nomination will pull a large vote south of the Mason and Dixon line.

"Many Southerners had never heard Governor Johnson until he delivered the Shiloh and Louisville addresses," said Mr. McCrea. "He has set the South wondering why they have not heard more of him. I met the governor personally while he was in Louisville. My impression of him as a man was more than confirmed. I must say that Governor Johnson made a most favorable impression during his short stay in Louisville. He is the man the Southern voters will unite upon, should he secure the nomination.

"Personally, I believe that Johnson will secure the nomination. There seems to be a feeling sweeping over the country that he is the man to lead the party to victory. Recent actions of state conventions would lead one to the opinion that Mr. Bryan is not going to secure the nomination. The outlook has undergone a radical change during the past month. I think that I can state the position of the Southern voters when I say that Governor Johnson is a strong favorite down our way. We don't know him as well as we would like to, but what we have seen of him we like and believe all the good things that we have heard of him.

"The Louisville reception of Governor Johnson was enthusiastic in the superlative degree. He was hailed as the next president by the Democratic leaders who were present on the occasion of his speech. Men of both parties paid respect to him. His speech was a clear and forceful statement of his position on matters of national importance. He is rational, far seeing and has a clear idea of the great issues that the American people must meet. We have known of his work before we met him, but since meeting him we have grown to believe that John A. Johnson is the only candidate who can lead his party to victory."

ELECTIONS IN ALL PARISHES

Episcopal Churches of the City Hold Their Annual Meetings.

All the Episcopal parishes in the city held annual meetings last evening in their respective houses of worship, the parish year being reviewed and officers elected to serve during the coming twelve months.

Reports showed all of them to be in good condition, with excellent prospects for increasing their wealth, their membership and the scope of their parish work during the next year.

At St. Paul's church, members of the parish elected the following vestrymen: Dr. J. E. Bowers, senior warden; Henry Taylor, junior warden; H. M. Peyton, F. S. Gilbert, W. J. Olcott, G. G. Hartley, Page Morris, J. H. Dight, G. A. St. Clair and F. W. Paine.

The treasurer's report showed a deficit of $324, but the Ladies' guild reported $1,000 on hand and a willingness to turn it into the general parish treasury if necessary. However, the Easter offerings more than made up the deficit.

Delegates to the annual convention of the diocese of Duluth, which is to be held here the last of next month, were elected as follows: Dr. Bowers, Henry Taylor, W. J. Johnson, A. E. Prudden, M. S. Lloyd, H. R. Spencer and James Wanless.

Members of Trinity parish met in the pro-cathedral, Twentieth avenue east and Superior street, and heard the annual reports of the parish officers and the various auxiliary societies. They showed the parish to be in excellent condition. The following vestrymen were elected: George H. Crosby, senior warden; Charles T. Fitzsimmons, junior warden; R. B. Knox, T. B. Merrill, C. G. Traphagen, A. Le Richeux, George S. Munsey, J. W. Lyder, Jr., treasurer, and S. L. Frazer, clerk; John S. McLaren, George H. Crosby, J. W. Lyder and S. L. Frazer were elected delegates to the convention.

Reports read at the meeting of St. John's parish, Lakeside, showed that gains of nearly 100 per cent in membership and church support had been made during the past year. The parish is out of debt and has money on hand, some of which, it was decided last night, will be used in painting and repairing the church. The following vestrymen were re-elected: C. V. Quillard, senior warden; W. E. Magner, junior warden; E. A. Forsythe, treasurer; Dr. L. S. E. Catherall, clerk; G. V. Heathcote, Dr. F. H. Barnard and S. J. Jones, and the following were added to the vestry: Elbert Bede and Frederic Waldron, Jr. Mr. Heathcote, Dr. Barnard and Dr. Catherall were elected delegates to the convention.

In Holy Apostles' parish, West Duluth, an enthusiastic parish meeting was held. The following vestrymen were elected: J. A. Scott, senior warden; Thomas Wright, junior warden; Walter Evered, Harry Mathews, William E. Cowden, J. A. Bowen and J. H. Campbell. The reports of the parish treasurer and of the auxiliary societies showed the parish to be in good financial condition.

WEST END

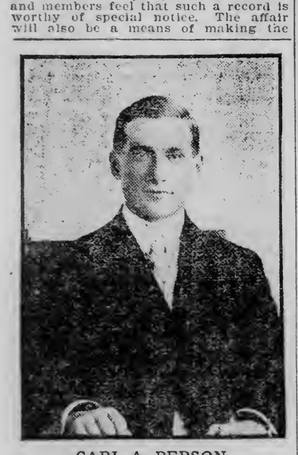

RECEPTION AT CHURCH

Swedish Baptist Young People Will Entertain New Members.

Elaborate Banquet Will be a Part of the Festivities.

The Young People's society of the First Swedish Baptist church will celebrate its big gains in membership at the church this evening, when a reception and banquet in honor of the new members will be held.

Plans are being made to make it one of the most successful affairs of the kind ever held in the West end. More than forty new members have been admitted to the ranks of the society since the first of the year, and the officers and members feel that such a record is worthy of special notice. The affair will also be a means of making the members of the society better acquainted with each other.

The services will be in charge of Rev. J. Wilfrid Longbridge, pastor of the church. The interment will take place at Forest Hill cemetery.

Mr. Ness was 57 years of age and had been a resident of the West end for nearly a quarter of a century. He leaves a wife, three daughters and a son.

FELLOW PUPILS ARE GLAD.

"Hi kids, Eva isn't goin' to die," yelled a youngster who had just received advices from the hospital yesterday afternoon, to a group of Adams school children.

"Gee, I'm glad of that!" came the response from half a dozen of the boys and girls.

Eva Gagne, the 14-year-old miss who tried to commit suicide yesterday by drinking carbolic acid, was a student at the Adams building up to two weeks ago and she is known by all the "kids," as she has resided in the neighborhood for a number of years.

When school let out yesterday for the noon recess, all the pupils knew about the Gagne girl's attempt to take her life and all of them were genuinely sorry when they heard that her chances for recovery were slim. So the news brought by the young courier at the close of school later in the day was received with great joy.

West End Shortrails.

Hugh McCormick's spirited young pacer ran away yesterday and came to grief at Twenty-second avenue west and First street. The buggy was smashed, but Mr. McCormick escaped unhurt and the horse came out of it with slight injury. The animal became frightened at a piece of paper blown across the street by the wind.

Mrs. John Wallin will entertain the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Swedish Mission church Wednesday afternoon.

Physicians say that the epidemic of smallpox which made necessady the closing of the Horace Mann school for a time, has just about been stamped out. No new cases have developed within the last week.

prepared to cry out against negroes as soldiers because I believe that members of the Twenty-fifth infantry at Brownsville disgraced the uniform and stained the honorable record of their race as soldiers. Lawlessness is not a distinguishing characteristic of any race or color."

The Missouri senator quoted freely throughout his discourse from testimony taken in the several investigations of the charge that the negro soldier shot up the town.

"It is to be regretted," he said, "that a studious and systematic effort has been made to arouse the race feeling of the negroes of the country against the president because of his action with reference ot those companies.

"It is incredible to me that any intelligent man, white or black, should have the hardihood to charge that the president, in issuing the order discharging those soldiers was influenced against them by reason of their color.

He pointed to the concurrence by Maj Penrose with the view of the citizens' committee at Brownsville as to the guilt of the negro soldiers.

While there were several motives for the negroes to shoot up the town, there was, he insisted, an absence of motive on the part of anyone else to do it. The people whose houses were shot up were the people whose attitude toward the soldiers was known to be hostile. There was direct evidence that the shooting was done by the soldiers.

He concluded by declaring that the three bullets in the Yurria house pointed conclusively to the point from which they were fired being the second porch of the barracks occupied by Company B.

PRONOUNCED HIS CASE INCURABLE

Whole Body Raw with Eczema—Life was Intolerable—Was Even Incased in Plaster—Discharged from Hospitals as Hopeless.

SUFFERED 14 YEARS CURED BY CUTICURA

"From the age of three months until fifteen years old, my son Owen's life was made intolerable by eczema in its worst form. He was all right until a red rash broke out on his forehead, but we were not alarmed at first. Very soon, however, the rash began to spread over his head and shoulders, and it caused him great discomfort. I took him to a doctor and tried half a dozen other treatments, all with the same result: no improvement at all. The disease gradually spread until nearly every part of his body was quite raw. We had to strap him down in bed, for he used to tear himself dreadfully in his sleep. The agony he went through is quite beyond words. No one thought we would rear him. The regimental doctor, a very clever man, pronounced the case hopeless; at least, he said the only hope was that he might, if he lived long enough, outgrow it to some extent. We had him in hospitals four times and he was pronounced one of the worst cases, if not the worst, ever admitted. From each he was discharged as incurable; in fact he got worse under the successive treatments. At one hospital they incased him in plaster, and this seemed to aggravate the soreness terribly. He looked so badly that no one liked to go near him and his life was a burden to him. We kept trying remedy after remedy, but we had got almost past hoping for a cure. Six months ago we purchased a set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent Pills and persevered with them. The result was truly marvelous and to-day he is perfectly cured, his skin not having a blemish on it anywhere. VANISHING ACQUIESCENCE.

In the light of what has happened in this country in the past two or three years, it is interesting to note the views of a clear-eyed observer, W. J. Ghent, in a book called "Our Benevolent Feudalism," written seven years ago. Then the upheaval that has since occurred had only assumed the preliminary form of a vague "unrest." People were beginning to see that conditions tended in the wrong direction, but were not quite sure, most of them, what was the matter. The free silver "craze" was an acute manifestation of that discontent, and the result of an aimless striving for a way out.

Ghent then found greatest fault with public acquiescence in burdensome conditions. He ascribed this to three causes. First was the rage for individual exploitation. A keen Italian observer, Prof. Angelo Mosso of Turin, said then: "I believe that the desire to become wealthy is so strong and powerful in every American that, in order to reserve the opportunity of realizing such desire, Americans willingly submit to the continuance of laws which allow such accumulations." "It is the petty gambler's faith," said Ghent, "the conviction that though everything be against him, he will somehow 'beat the game.' And just as his faith is fostered by runners and 'cappers' for gambling games, so is the faith of the industrial underling fostered by a tremendous trumpeting of the ways and means to worldly 'success.'" Since then, however, unless we mistake, there has been a change for the better. There have been too many proofs that great riches, so much coveted, are apples of Sodom that turn in the grasp to the ashes of bitterness, obloquy and vain regret when they have been attained at the sacrifice of everything else in the world that is worth while.

The second cause, growing out of the first, was the discouragement that almost inevitably awaited "reformers," or men whose clear vision enabled them to see what was wrong and the way out of it. They were abused, scorned, obstructed because they wanted to change things, and change always meets with the instinctive opposition of the crowd. Now, when the spirit of change has spread through the masses, when reformers instead of being few and weak are many and powerful, this cause is diminishing in force.

The third cause for acquiescence was the "continual output from pulpit, sanctum, forum and college chair, of our professional moulders of opinion. Now not all of this output, it is freely conceded, makes for acquiescence; but the overwhelming mass of it unquestionably does. From these instructors of the people we learn that conditions, while not perfect, either are reasonably near to perfection or, if evil, are not to be corrected except by individual regeneration. We learn of the irrationality or the moral obliquity of discontent; the viciousness or fanaticism of impertinent persons who seek to change things; the virtues of obedience; the obligation of toil (specially directed to those who are doing most of the world's work for the profit of others), and of the worth, benevolence and indispensability of our magnates."

A view of this true picture of the condition half a dozen years ago is encouraging because it shows, when compared with the present, that we have grown and are growing. These teachings are still proclaimed, but who believes them today?

We are moving ahead, and it is well.

THEIR MASTER'S VOICE.

Tillman, that South Carolina buzzard, the senate scavenger, knew what he was about when he accused the Republican senators and representatives of swearing by Roosevelt in the open, and at him, in the cloakrooms, restaurants and hotels. Even the Democrats themselves seldom dare touch off a full-blown giant firecracker under the presidential chair. They all fizz and froth inside but when the cork's out, a W. C. T. U. soft drink couldn't be flatter. They are like what the shipwrecked sailor said of the champagne bottle he found among his stores, "Champagne, I hope; beer, I guess; bilge water, by—"

But it's not Roosevelt they're really afraid of. It's the woodshed and the shingle their constituents have ready for them if they monkey with the Roosevelt program. So, they not merely talk for Buncombe, but they keep mum for Buncombe also. Now and then they flock by themselves and work off their feelings by making mouths at him and whispering hard names, whereas he calls them names through a megaphone with foghorn attachment.

Washington notoriously is the last place in the world to find out what the rest of the United States is thinking of. It is chiefly a lot of machine politicians peddling out official jobs and who, like Tennyson's villagers, generally mistake "the cackle of their burg for the murmur of the world." They mutually talk their grievances over or listen to corporation lawyers and lobbyists until telling each other the same thing a hundred times operates like a reverbator; it sounds to them as loud as several million other voices. Whereas it's only a multitudinous echo of their own. They "stew in their own gravy" until they think the rest of the country tastes of the same flavor.

It is true that they're afraid of Roosevelt, but it is because he is not afraid to put into plain words what the people of the United States have long been wanting somebody to say. They are therefore afraid of the people of the United States who elect their representatives and pay their bills, to represent them, instead of of the corporations, trusts and other vested interests. This is a great inconvenience and annoyance and even loss to some senators and congressmen, but they must make up their minds to give up either serving Mammon or serving God whose voice, the voice of the people is said to be. And as long as they vote for the public interests, their constituents won't worry over their hole-in-the-corner denunciations of Roosevelt. As long as they daren't pull the mastiff's teeth, they may pull his tail to their heart's content. If he scares them now and then by growling or even snapping at them, so much the more fun all around.

CURRENCY LEGISLATION.

The prospect of the passage of any currency measure at the present session of congress is now very slim. A few days ago the house committee on banking and currency shelved the Aldrich bill which had been passed by the senate, and after an all day session considering the Vreeland bill it decided yesterday afternoon not to make a favorable report on that measure. The committee voted to recommend the Fowler bill for the creation of a currency commission of forty-three members to study the whole financial and currency system and frame a bill to be presented at the next session designed to establish a permanent currency system.

There were several members of the committee in favor of the Vreeland bill, while the vote against the Aldrich bill was unanimous. Neither measure was intended to establish a permanent currency system but merely provided for the issue of emergency currency. The Vreeland bill permitted a number of banks to join in a voluntary clearing house association for the supervision of securities offered to guarantee currency issues. The secretary of the treasury and the comptroller of the currency were vested with the responsibility of deciding when and to what amount emergency currency should be issued, and in no event could the amount issued exceed $500,000,000. The real danger of such a measure is in fixing the tax on the emergency currency so low that it would cease to be an emergency currency and be retained in circulation for the benefit of stock gamblers and speculators instead of merely supplying the temporary demands of legitimate business.

Doubtless the committee felt that either the Aldrich bill or the Vreeland bill might result in more harm than good, and that there would be more danger in enacting either measure than in permitting the present situation to continue until a permanent currency system to meet the needs of the country can be devised. With this object in view, the committee decided to favorably report the Fowler bill for the appointment of a commission to prepare by Jan. 1, 1909, a measure "for a scientific financial and currency system," the commission to be composed of eleven senators, eleven representatives and twenty-one citizens to be named by the president. It is a question whether so large a commission is advisable, but the idea is all right and it will be better to wait until a proper currency measure can be prepared rather than experiment with one for merely temporary relief.

GERMAN MUNICIPAL FREEDOM.

Many have wondered, doubtless, at the multitude of enterprises in which German municipalities engage. Municipal ownership, which is never taken up in this country except after long battles between the entrenched interests that favor private ownership and the slow-moving masses that do not quite know what they want until they are aroused, is a matter of course over there, and is extended to lengths which have never been dreamed of in this country.

The reason is that under German law municipal corporations may engage in almost any kind of business which the councils may regard as for the welfare of the municipality, ranging from the ownership and operation of railroads, street railways, mines, smelters and factories, to mercantile establishments, bakeries and butcher shops. They may—and often do—fix the price at which bread, meat, beer or any other commodity, regarded as among the necessaries of life, may be sold. These powers are often invoked to prevent monopolies or the raising of the prices of foodstuffs through combinations of tradesmen. It is noteworthy that such power are, in the main, wisely used; a fact due largely to the habit of selecting city, town or village councilmen from the ranks of men of large affairs and independent means. Another matter that is a factor is the fact that a councilman's first term is for six years, and if he is re-elected after that, the job is his for life.

Such interference with private business would be bitterly resented in this country, and would be impossible, probably, for some time to come at least.

But why should we not have it?

In a German city, well-managed with a view to the best interests of the many, they have remedies against local evils that we are denied by the prejudice against interference by government in private business. Here we let private business do almost anything its greed may incline it to do before we resent or resist. There, they adopt a rule limiting prices or abolishing the evils of combination, or, if this does not work satisfactorily, the city goes into business for itself.

When municipal ownership is as much a matter of course in the United States as it is in Germany, one of two things will result: either the cities will have many more municipal plants than they now have, or the privately-owned plants will be managed more in the interests of the public and less exclusively in the interests of stockholders and bondholders.

Duluth has shown that municipal business can be run as well as private business, its water and light plants being gratifying successes and strong tributes to the possibilities of municipal ownership. If one city can do this, another can do as well; if it is done with one or two utilities, it can be done with more.

Was it a Duluth woman who scolded her butcher for sending her a sirloin steak when he knew that she "always ordered her folks a round?"

"Think of a rose!" said a little girl to her brother who was vexed and angry at some trifle. This is good advice for everybody, except that pessimists, when thinking of a rose, would think only of its thorns.

An English girl gets up asleep in the middle of the night, plays the piano, tunes her violin, studies and writes music and reads books. An eight—or even a nine hour—day law wouldn't help her much.

The modern "Gideon's Band" numbers some queer members, but they're not up to the original as described by the Sunday school superintendent who said that Gideon chose those who watched with one eye and drank with the other.

There's nothing like taking a bright look at things. An Irishman who, when both legs were smashed, was told it might have been worse, replied, "yes, s'pose I'd been a ballet dancer!" And when a Michigan boy had his eye shot out by a Flobert rifle, he proudly remarked, "Geel I'll be the only kid in town with a glass eye."

HOTEL GOSSIP.

W. J. James, at the St. Louis, who was recently in Chicago and Detroit, says both of these towns have gone over to the insane and delirious condition that comes with the umpire's cry of "Play ball." The thirty-three degree bugs have imbued many others with their spirit, says Mr. James, and the down-town score board are surrounded by a howling, frantic crowd that impresses the casual visitor to these cities with the idea that both Chicago and Detroit are housing a lot of wild and noisy lunatics.

Every newspaper office has a large score board telling of the progress of the game. Every thirst emporium likewise has a score board—upon the inside. The newspapers furnish you detailed information of the team's progress, and also the progress of the hated rivals, for nothing. In the case of the saloon information, you are expected to complacently sip you beer, if the home team has a comfortable lead—and frantically gulp it if they are trailing in the ruck.

Mr. James declares teams and pedestrians find it difficult to gain passage-way after the games have been called. Staid business men gather at the score boards, like stockholders around the market bulletin, and rub elbows with the less prosperous-looking brother. They are all animated by one interest—they are pulling for the home team to win.

It's a long look till next October, but the fans are counting every game for they realize that every game won in the early stages of the battle counts. They believe in moral courage and hope that if their respective teams get away from the baseball barrier with a flying start they will continue in the lead until the sceduie is over.

Baseball has become interwoven with social and business life, says Mr. James. If the Tigers or the White Sox lose father, or brother, or someone's steady company is exceedingly liable to carry a grouch around for the balance of the evening. Social intercourse is liable to be rendered gloomy and morose by the defeat of the home team. The ardent business lover of the game is liable to attempt to dope out the chances of his team during the hours when his time and attention should be given over to the solving of the problems having to do with the capture of the elusive dollar and the payment of the Easter Merry Widow chapeau bill. A defeat of the home nine, coupled with the receiving of a three-figure bill for a flossy Merry Widow tile is calculated to drive the average man of affairs to the brink of the boundary line of reason and insanity.

Mr. James was also in Cincinnati. "Have you ever been in Cincinnati?" How different our national trait is reflected in the German settlement! Here they peacefully and complacently sit around the rathskeller, about as enthusiastic as a bunch of bovines at the water tank, blowing the creamy foam off the gurgling Pilsener and casually glancing at the score board anon, taking defeat or victory with the same stolid indifference. Is it a wonder that Cincy never wins the coveted bunting?

The American dementia has begun. It will continue until after the world's series is completed next fall and one of the representatives is hailed the champions of the world. Leading citizens wax enthusiastic and upon sultry days some drop off with apoplexy; the relations of office boys are decimated with alarming regularity; business is neglected during the hours after the hands of the office clock point to 3:45; we yell and root and revert in our instincts to the copper-colored first inhabitant of these shores—we are baseball fanatics—and if the Merry Widow tile obstructs our view of the home plate we are going to adopt summary methods to keep it away from the ball grounds. Congress may move at a snail's pace, but let the Merry Widow put an awning on our baseball line of view, and you see American action swift and to the point.

Tomorrow evening the new cafe at the Hotel St. Louis will be opened with appriate ceremony. The event will be one that will long be remembered in the history of that hotel. Elaborate plans have been made for the event. F. W. Gould, who will have charge of the cafe, has done everything to make the debut a success in every way. He is in charge of the food schedule, and after a month's arduous labor announces that he is ready to meet the cravings of rapacious appetites. A large delegation from the range will be in attendance tomorrow evening.

The small boy, with staring eye and face lit with expectancy, is a daily hanger on in the lobby of the Lenox. He is not looking for a job, nor has he come upon any specific business. We have a new world's champion among us, you know, and the American youth is all agog to catch a glance of the man that made Georgus Hackenschmidt look like Bill Bozer's bone and grimy deuce in a clean, new deck. Remember when you used to get excited when old John L. Sullivan appeared in your town

A newly-married couple appeared at the McKay the other day. Both were visibly embarrassed. The woman was the more composed—women usually are. The groom reached for the registering pen with a hand that trembled with the momentous event of writing "and wife" after his John Hancock. The clerk is used to just such exhibitions of the red mantling color and hazy glance of swirling sentiments. He busied himself at the key board and let them blush and smirk unseen. When the brain storm was over he called the bell boy and advised him to ask no questions. A rude staring clerk would cause commotion and violent color changes among the newlyweds that occasionally appear at the local hotels. In union there is strength, all right enough, but give the contracting parties time enough in which to get used to the new constitution.

THE WEATHER.

The streets and alleys still lack the cleansing power of a good, heavy rain. There were indications on the weather map yesterday that Duluth might be visited by showers, but they failed to arrive, and beyond a slight sprinkle this morning there was nothing doing in the way of moisture. It was cooler last night, the mercury dropping to 32 degs., while the highest temperature here yesterday was 56 degs., while it rose to 80 in the shade in some points in South Dakota. The weather man opines that it will be warmer tonight and cooler tomorrow with brisk winds and generally fair weather.

A year ago today it was windy, dusty and cool.

The sun rose this morning at 5:09 and sets tonight at 7:04, making 13 hours and 55 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: 'Light rains fell during Monday or last night over Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Eastern Texas, Arkansas, Alabama, Western New York, Vermont and Manitoba, due to barometric depressions centered this morning over New England, the Red River valley, Nevada and British Columbia and falling pressures over the eastern slopes of the Rocky mountains and Red River valley. It is cooler this morning over the Dakotas and Manitoba. High pressure areas central over Lake Michigan and Alberta have caused colder temperature in the lake region, Ohio valley, New England states, the plateau region and Alberta. Indications favor generally fair weather in this locality tonight and Wednesday."

MERRY JINGLES.

Philadelphia Ledger: "We must have purity in politics," exclaimed the speaker, earnestly.

"But then we wouldn't have any politics," remarked an old campaigner, shaking his head disapprovingly.

Washington Star: "That orator says he feels that he can never repay his constituents for the honor they have conferred on him."

"Yes," answered the voter, "that's his polite way of telling us we needn't expect much from him in the way of actual work."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Tell me," said the young woman with literary aspirations, "how you contrived to get your first story accepted by a magazine."

The eminent author smiled. "I owned the magazine," he replied.

Chicago Tribune: Mrs. Quimby—Archibald, do you know anything about these people who are moving in next door?

Mr. Quimby—All I know about them is that they are people of some consequence. Two men have just carried in the madam's spring hat.

Puck: Farmer Barnes—I've bought a barometer, Hannah, ter tell when it's goin' ter rain, ye know.

Mrs. Barnes—To tell when it's goin' ter rain! Why, I never heerd o' seech extravagance. What do ye s'pose th' good Lord hev give ye th' rheumatiz fer!

Baltimore American: He was a bit of a wag, and he was piloting some members of a church conference about Washington to see the sights of the capital. Among other exhibits, he took them to the houses of congress.

"I fear," said one of the reverend delegation, after they had been in the house some time, "that our national legislature is not governed by religious influences."

"I don't know about that," answered the guide. "The house here is ruled entirely by Cannon law."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A man's idea of fun is something that wouldn't be if he could afford it.

The nearest most people can come to being natural is to make believe they are.

The chief reason a girl wants to get married is to prove to anybody who doubts it that she can.

The man who can make his vegetable garden pay is either ignorant of bookkeeping or of the truth.

There's nothing makes a man feel queerer than to have his wife describe a play to him all wrong, when he can't correct her because he told her he didn't go to it the night he worked late at the office.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

A large part of the machinery of the American Improvement company has arrived. Several skilled hands are already at work, and about twenty-five women, boys and girls have been engaged to begin work in a few days. When all the machinery arrives, employment will be furnished to fully 100 persons.

The sale of the corner of Superior street and Fourth avenue west, on which stands Duluth's pioneer hotel, the Bay View house, for $960 per foot, or a total of $48,000, has been made to Chicago capitalists, who will erect, this season, a fine store and office building, six or seven stories high, to cost not less than $150,000. Raeder & Humble of this city and Chicago are the archiects for the building.

John and David Schreiner of Lancaster, Wis., have purchased the N. C. Nelson stock and property at Two Harbors. Both are prosperous business men and uncles of Frank Nathan of this city. It is understood that the business will be placed in the hands of Adolph Schreiner, a son of John.

Capt. De Courcey of the harbor police states that several new men will be added to the force this season.

A. C. Jones and Frank Tims are on their way East to order new machinery for the b'y dock of the Northwestern Fuel company on the St. Paul & Duluth slip.

The French Musical association of Duluth has filed articles of incorporation. Only persons of French-Canadian birth are eligible for membership. The association will have a leader and continue practice as a band. The officers are: Napoleon Grignon, honorary president; P. Langlois, president; J. A. Robert, secretary; James La Fortune, treasurer.

W. W. Hoopes' clothing store on West Superior street will be opened next week.

W. G. Joerns has brought his family from Dubuque, and they will make their home in Duluth.

Rev. Dr. Ringland has left on his annual vacation. He goes to Keokuk, where his wife is very ill.

Capt. Anson evidently depends upon Duluth to make pitchers for the White Stockings. Baldwin and Byman, both brought out in Duluth, are the favorite twirlers with the Chicagos this season.

The Superior Inter-Ocean yesterday announced that the publication of the daily would cease with that issue.

It is said that Robert Weston, late of Marquette, will buy Capt. Lutes' Fifth avenue laundry, and move it to the West end.

The Democratic convention at Superior has made the following nominations for village officers: President, John Paden; trustees, A. J. McRae, F. R. Otis, Ed Keough, J. G. Foltz, B. T. Randall, P. J. McCann; treasurer, Dennis Dean; supervisor, A. Bertrand; police justice, A. H. Kelly.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Anoka County Union: The Duluth Evening Herald was twenty-five years old last Thursday, and it is real smart for its age. More so than is usually the case.

Albert Lea Times-Enterprise: The Duluth Herald is twenty-five years old and is one of the best dailies in the Northwest. It is a credit to the city of Duluth, one of which that city has every reason to be proud.

Princeton Union: Duluth's Commercial club is setting a good example for other organizations of like nature to follow. The club is extensively advertising Duluth and the range country by means of illustrated pamphlets and its treasury is continually kept in a healthy condition.

Stillwater Gazette: There was a big jump made by the Duluth Ski club's scaffold which put it into the big lake, breaking all records and also nearly breaking the club.

Perham Enterprise: The Duluth Herald, which by the way, is the most progressive and broad-minded daily paper published in Minnesota, celebrated its twenty-fifth birthday last Thursday. Northern Minnesota is proud of The Herald and wishes it a continuance of the success which it has so highly merited.

Aitkin Republican: The Duluth Herald was twenty-five years old last Thursday, and may well feel proud of its present greatness. Twenty years ago the Republican editor was an employe of The Herald—we hold the "sad" cases, and had plenty of time to set all the ads, that then appeared each day in the paper. There were five or six compositors employed setting straight matter, and the paper was printed on an old Cranston press that printed about a thousand copies an hour. The paper is now housed in a fine brick building, erected especially for its use. Ten or twelve linotype machines are necessary to set the type and two modern Potter presses are used to turn out the many thousands of copies sold every day. The Herald is a great newspaper. Its story of progress and prosperity is the story of Duluth.

Itasca County Independent: The Aitkin Age and The Duluth Evening Herald were both twenty-five years old last week. Like good wine, they both seem to improve with age and likewise they both fill their respective fields most acceptably.

Wabasha Herald: The Duluth Herald yesterday reached its twenty-fifth anniversary. We believe that as a newspaper The Duluth Herald has no superior in Minnesota today. It is a strong, clearly written, well printed and aggressive sheet. It is the only Democratic daily of large circulation published in the state today. It is Democratic enough to satisfy the most ardent disciple of Democracy. Democrats of Minnesota who want a vigorous and able Democratic paper should become readers of The Herald.

Ely Miner: When the Duluth Commercial club tackled the articultural possibilities of St. Louis county with a view to developing the same, it became at once an active factor for the good of the Northwest. The Duluth Commercial club is composed of the most active men in the county and their combined efforts will be felt in any movement they undertake.

Wahkon Enterprise: The Duluth Evening Herald is twenty-five years old, and is showing some of the older metropolitan papers a merry pace in the make-up of a live daily. The Herald is laudably fighting for a "bigger, better, busier Duluth." May its light never cease to shine.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: When jealousy gets busy, love takes a vacation.

If a man has enough push he'll manage to pull through.

The successful manicurist has plenty of business on hand.

A lazy man will not work himself so long as he can work others.

The fact that some men are self-made is stamped on the wrapper.

Some people are always looking for an excuse to make an excuse.

A woman considers any man nice looking who says she is good looking.

A stout widow has to be awfully rich in order to avoid being called fat.

It isn't the amount of money a man earns, but the amount he gets, that counts.

Clothes may not make the man, but paying for his wife's clothes may break him.

Religion that doesn't abide with a man twenty-four hours a day and seven days a week isn't worth having.

Spring Song.

Sun a-beaming
Overhead;
Brook a-gleaming
In its bed.
Sap a-flowing,
Birds a-wing;
Flowers a-growing;
Such is spring.

Rain a-falling
In a sheet;
Gales a-squalling
Through the sleet.
Hail descending
With a sting;
All these blending—
Such is spring.
—Kansas City Journal.

Not a Real Filibuster.

Boston Herald: Leader John Sharp Williams is correct. He is an accomplished scholar and linguist, and can truthfully say that he isn't filibustering. A filibuster, according to the accepted dictionary authorities, is a freebooter or a buccaneer, and Leader Williams is no such person. He is merely shaking things up, and making the dull routine of congressional proceedings more than ordinarily lively and entertaining.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: There is just enough opposition to Taft to maintain a little interest in the coming national Republican convention.

Long Prairie Argus: One good indication that Taft's nomination is practically certain is that some Democratic papers have begun to assail him.

Proctorknott Journal: Theodore Roosevelt cannot decline a second elective term of office and to name his successor without making his own personal desires paramount to the combined wishes and intelligence of the Republican party and the electorate of the nation.

Coleraine Optic: If the opposing candidates are Hughes and Johnson, the country may actually be treated to a noiseless campaign for a change.

Hendrum Review: Private fortunes have increased so wonderfully in the last ten years that the rich man of a decade ago is in only moderate circumstances today, judging his fortune by the present standard, but the number of millionaires willing to be assessed as such declines each year. In a year or so we may expect to be without a millionaire in the country at assessment time.

Albert Lea Tribune: It would look as if even The Duluth Herald was busily engaged boosting Hon. J. F. Jacobson for the Republican nomination for governor. The reaction toward Jake in the north part of the state is all the more remarkable when it is remembered how that section fought him to a standstill two years ago. With Attorney General Young's letter stating his position before the Republicans, the contest will take on added zest from now on.

Appleton Press: We have to admit it. The Populist party blazed the way and the Democratic party has driven the unwilling elephant along the path of progress thus marked out. It has been strenuous work, for the beneficiaries of the old order of things have been constantly trying to stampede the beast with the cry of socialism and the firebrands of anarchism and all manner of bugaboos.

Bovey Iron News: The "Merry Widow" hat for the ladies is consistent with the "Minnesota 40" for the gentlemen. Both are ample coverings, and both are worn slightly tilted.

St. Cloud Times: Attorney General Young, in his letter denying that he had withdrawn, designates Bob Dunn as the "general agent" of the liquor and corporate interests to take charge of the campaign against him. This is a bull's-eye shot, and if Bob does not open fire, we are mistaken in his makeup.

The Old Tramp Printer.

The old tramp print! What's come o' him,
Who dropped around 'bout wunst a year
In times gone by? That cherubim
We used t' see, half full o' cheer
An' railroad cinders—land o' love
He 'us all's that pole an' jest as ga'nt
And looked like sixteenth cousin of
Sum boardin' house, er rest-er-rant!

He'd walk right in an' git t' biz
An' choose sum absent feller's case,
Ferever like the shop was his,
An' that was his pre-empted place,
An' never say a word! But then
It allus seemed he'd timed it so'st
He'd git t'us most usual when
We seemed t' want an' need him most.

The dust of many climes lay brown
Upon his shoes; he used t' say
That some was there from every town
From Maine t' Cal-i-forn-i-a;
Perhaps his morals wa'n't the best,
Ner enny speshul good t' us,
But we could overlook the rest
In such an interestin' cuss.
There has been times, in twilight, when
I've knowed he felt the lonliness
'Mongst strangers, when he'd take my pen
An' write rare lines of tenderness
Of mother, home an' faces fair
An' fadin' dreams of other days,
An' then I've knowed some good was there
Behint his wild an' rovin' ways!

But now he's gone, an' sometimes when
The paper's out an' all is still,
I seem t' hark back there again
An' this ol' wizzen seems t' fill;
He wa'n't just what a man should be—
No doubt o' that—but when I look
There's sumthin' hurts me when I see
That "30" 's missin' off his hook!

ORDINANCE IS KILLED

Council Refuses to Compel Saloons to Remove Curtains.

Mayor Haven's Appointment of E. K. Coe Again Turned Down.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Killed Alderman Moore's curtain ordinance and its several amendments.

Again turned down Mayor Haven's appointment of E. K. Coe for city engineer.

Again put over Alderman Moore's resolution calling for an appropriation for the improvement of London road for one week.

Listened to protest of Garfield avenue property owners against construction of sewer along that thoroughfare.

Authorized board of public works to purchase two street flushing machines, to cost $1,000 each.

Received petition from wholesalers and jobbers along Michigan street protesting against the granting or transfer of saloon licenses in the wholesale district.

Cited Fred A. Merritt to appear and show cause why saloon license should not be revoked, on account of breaking Sunday closing law.

The council last night again failed to confirm Mayor Haven's appointment of E. K. Coe as city engineer, and refused to pass Alderman Moore's ordinance providing for an unobstructed view of the interior of saloons from the street after closing hours and on Sundays and election days.

The saloon curtain ordinace was laid away without discussion. It had enough amendments to sink a ship, but one by one they were voted down, and finally the original ordinance met the same fate as the amendments. Mr. Moore then introduced a substitute as a new ordinance, and it will again be brought up for passage at the next meeting.

Alderman Cromwell, a lid man, was absent, having been called from the city by the death of a relative. The father of the proposed ordinance made an attempt to have the matter laid over for one week, but the motion was lost, only three aldermen voting in favor of it. The aldermen voted as follows on the amendments, the McKnight substitute, and original:

Against — Foubister, Jordan, Tessman, Hogan, Shartel, Mueller, Ribenack and Trevillion. In favor of it—Moore, McKnight, Kennedy, Moe, Olson and President Getchell. Alderman Filiatrault was absent.

All the Democrats voted against the appointment of E. K. Coe as city engineer, and all the Republicans for it, the vote standing 7 to 7. In order to bring his name up for confirmation again he will have to be reappointed by the mayor.

I. Grettum was granted the privilege of appearing on behalf of the Garfield avenue property owners and lodged an oral, as well as a written, protest against the construction of a sewer in that district. He said he represented laboring men for the most part, who were very hard up, on account of a lack of work during the past season. He argued against the construction of a sewer either now or any future date, on the ground that it was not needed, for one thing, and that, for another, it would be folly to build a sewer there, as the entire district will soon be nothing but railroad and lumber yards. He said the residents were rapidly moving away, and their places being taken by lumber yards and railroad extensions. He cited Connor's Point in Superior as an example of what might be expected on Rice's Point in Duluth. The railroads have forced practically every family off Connor's Point.

He claimed the board of public works, after securing permission from the council to circulate a petition for the construction of a sewer, had no right to hire a man to do the work, thus delegating power to some one else after that power already had been delegated by the council. He intimated that the matter might be taken into the courts if the council turned down the petition of himself and other property owners. The matter was referred to a committee for further investigation.

Fred A. Merritt, found guilty in municipal court of keeping his saloon open on Sunday in violation of law, was, on motion of Alderman Moore, cited to appear at the next meeting of the council and show cause why his license should not be revoked.

A petition signed by twenty wholesalers and jobbers located along Michigan street, between Lake and Third avenues west, was received and read. It protested strongly against the granting of any more saloon licenses in that particular district, and also protested against the transfer of any licenses to that district. The petitioners explained that their places of business were closed after 6 o'clock in the evening, and that more saloons would make the district a dangerous one after dark, and a probable hangout for robbers who would be apt to get in their work in the wholesale houses.

City Engineer Thomas F. McGilvray submitted an estimate showing the cost of a sewer on Fourth street, from Mesaba avenue to Sixth avenue east, would be $8,000. This improvement had been put off three weeks at the request of property owners.

In quite a long communication to the council, the water and light board disclaimed the responsibility for the poor condition of the streets after water and light mains had been laid. L. N. Case said in the communication that 10 per cent of the cost of the work is retained by the water and light board until the department receives a certificate from the board of public works declaring the street to have been put in proper condition.

President Olson of the board of public works appeared before the council and declared that it was a very difficult matter for the board to determine if the work of replacing the street had been properly done, as it sometimes took two years for the filling to settle and adjust itself in the trenches. He said he would not pass any more certificates declaring the work properly done. He said he would hold such certificates back two years if necessary.

By motion of Alderman Moore, the city attorney was asked to report to the council if it were possible to hold the contractors responsible for the ruined streets in different parts of the city. Also on motion of Alderman Moore, the board of public works was instructed to send a special letter to the council advising the aldermen as to the issuance of certificates of the kind in question on the part of the water and light board, and also that the council be advised as to whether the street has been put in the proper condition after the laying of water and gas mains.

"I don't want to impose a hardship on any one, and I do not lay the blame of this thing on anybody's shoulders in particular," said Alderman Moore. "I simply want information to get to the council in regard to these matters, so the aldermen may look up for themselves and find whether the work has been properly done, before the final assessment is paid. East Second street all the way to Twenty-sixth avenue has been ruined by the contractors digging trenches. It was a fine macadam street before they dug the trenches. There is gross negligence on the part of somebody; I don't know who. Some one should look after these matters more closely."

Three weeks ago Alderman Moore attempted to get a resolution passed appropriating $4,000 for the resurfacing of London road from Ninth to Fifteenth avenues east. Since then the resolution has been deluged with amendments, until last night, if it had passed, the appropriation would have been large enough to bankrupt the city. Most of the aldremen have added an amendment calling for additional expenditures in street improvement. The resolution last night was laid over for one week.

The action of the board of public works in awarding the contract for extending the Twenty-first avenue west dock and dredging the channel to the Interstate Dredge & Dock company was approved. The bid is for $1,883.

The council also approved the action of the board of public works in accepting the bid of the Sanitary Street Flushing Machine company of St. Louis for two new street flushing machines. The price is $2,000 for the two machines. The board was also authorized to purchase two new street sprinklers.

The profile submitted by the street railway company relative to the Piedmont avenue street car extension was turned over to the city engineer with instructions to report as to the cost of making a grade as recommended by the street car company. The company calls for a grade of 5 per cent at street intersections, with a maximum grade of 7½ per cent elsewhere along the avenue.

The board of public works was instructed to see that East Second street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-sixth avenues west, is placed back in its original state. It is one of the streets damaged by the laying of gas and water mains.

Anton Hovland offered a communication asking $1,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received through the fault of a defective bridge on Seventyfirst avenue west, below the Northern Pacific tracks.

A petition was received from property owners interested asking that a lateral sewer on West Third street be constructed from Thirty-ninth avenue west to Thirty-fourth avenue, then south to First street and thence east on First street to the outlet sewer on Thirtieth avenue west. The petition provided that no assessment be levied unless an outlet sewer be provided.

The council accepted the invitation of the fire board to be present at the annual inspection of the fire department. The committee reported that rigs necessary to carry the city fathers from one fire hall to another could be secured at an expense of $20. Alderman Tessman suggested that automobiles be used, and said they could be secured from generous citizens free of charge. He suggested that the committee, instead of hiring carriages, get enough automobiles for the party without expense to the city. Alderman Moe moved that if the city could not afford to hire its own conveyances, but was compelled to ask for charity, the aldermen walk from hall to hall. The motion of Alderman Tessman regarding the automobiles was put to a vote and was lost, the vote standing 7 to 7. It was then decided to engage carriages for the occasion.

ORDINANCE IS KILLED

Council Refuses to Compel Saloons to Remove Curtains.

Mayor Haven's Appointment of E. K. Coe Again Turned Down.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Killed Alderman Moore's curtain ordinance and its several amendments.

Again turned down Mayor Haven's appointment of E. K. Coe for city engineer.

Again put over Alderman Moore's resolution calling for an appropriation for the improvement of London road for one week.

Listened to protest of Garfield avenue property owners against construction of sewer along that thoroughfare.

Received petition from wholesalers and jobbers along Michigan street protesting against the granting or transfer of saloon licenses in the wholesale district.

Cited Fred A. Merritt to appear and show cause why saloon license should not be revoked, on account of breaking Sunday closing law.

The council last night again failed to confirm Mayor Haven's appointment of E. K. Coe as city engineer, and refused to pass Alderman Moore's ordinance providing for an unobstructed view of the interior of saloons from the street after closing hours and on Sundays and election days.

The saloon curtain ordinace was laid away without discussion. It had enough amendments to sink a ship, but one by one they were voted down, and finally the original ordinance met the same fate as the amendments. Mr. Moore then introduced a substitute as a new ordinance, and it will again be brought up for passage at the next meeting.

Alderman Cronwell, a lld man, was absent, having been called from the city by the death of a relative. The father of the proposed ordinance made an attempt to have the matter laid over for one week, but the motion was lost, only three aldermen voting in favor of it. The aldermen voted as follows on the amendments, the McKnight substitute, and original:

Against.—Foubister, Jordan, Tessman, Hogan, Shartel, Mueller, Ribenack and Trevillion. In favor of it—Moore, McKnight, Kennedy, Moe, Olson and President Getchell. Alderman Filliatrault was absent.

All the Democrats voted against the appointment of E. K. Coe as city engineer, and all the Republicans for it, the vote standing 7 to 7. In order to bring his name up for confirmation again he will have to be reappointed by the mayor.

I. Grettum was granted the privilege of appearing on behalf of the Garfield avenue property owners and lodged an oral, as well as a written, protest against the construction of a sewer in that district. He said he represented laboring men for the most part, who were very hard up, on account of a lack of work during the past season. He argued against the construction of a sewer either now or any future date, on the ground that it was not needed, for one thing, and that, for another, it would be folly to build a sewer there, as the entire district will soon be nothing but railroad and lumber yards. He said the residents were rapidly moving away, and their places being taken by lumber yards and railroad extensions. He cited Connor's Point in Superior as an example of what might be expected on Rice's Point in Duluth. The railroads have forced practically every family off Connor's Point.

He claimed the board of public works, after securing permission from the council to circulate a petition for the construction of a sewer, had no right to hire a man to do the work, thus delegating power to some one else after that power already had been delegated by the council. He intimated that the matter might be taken into the courts if the council turned down the petition of himself and other property owners. The matter was referred to a committee for further investigation.

Fred A. Merritt, found guilty in municipal court of keeping his saloon open on Sunday in violation of law, was, on motion of Alderman Moore, cited to appear at the next meeting of the council and show cause why his license should not be revoked.

A petition signed by twenty wholesalers and jobbers located along Michigan street, between Lake and Third avenues west, was received and read. It protested strongly against the granting of any more saloon licenses in that particular district, and also protested against the transfer of any licenses to that district. The petitioners explained that their places of business were closed after 6 o'clock in the evening, and that more saloons would make the district a dangerous one after dark, and a probable hangout for robbers who would be apt to get in their work in the wholesale houses.

City Engineer Thomas F. McGilvray submitted an estimate showing the cost of a sewer on Fourth street, from Mesaba avenue to Sixth avenue east, would be $53,000. This improvement had been put off three weeks at the request of property owners.

In quite a long communication to the council, the water and light board disclaimed the responsibility for the poor condition of the streets after water and light mains had been laid. L. N. Case said in the communication that 10 per cent of the cost of the work is retained by the water and light board until the department receives a certificate from the board of public works declaring the street to have been put in proper condition.

President Olson of the board of public works appeared before the council and declared that it was a very difficult matter for the board to determine if the work of replacing the street had been properly done, as it sometimes took two years for the filling to settle and adjust itself in the trenches. He said he would not pass any more certificates declaring the work properly done. He said he would hold such certificates back two years if necessary.

By motion of Alderman Moore, the city attorney was asked to report to the council if it were possible to hold the contractors responsible for the ruined streets in different parts of the city. Also on motion of Alderman Moore, the board of public works was instructed to send a special letter to the council advising the aldermen as to the issuance of certificates of the kind in question on the part of the water and light board, and also that the council be advised as to whether the street has been put in the proper condition after the laying of water and gas mains.

"I don't want to impose a hardship on any one, and I do not lay the blame of this thing on anybody's shoulders in particular," said Alderman Moore. "I simply want information to get to the council in regard to these matters, so the aldermen may look up for themselves and find whether the work has been properly done, before the final assessment is paid. East Second street all the way to Twenty-sixth avenue has been ruined by the contractors digging trenches. It was a fine macadam street before they dug the trenches. There is gross negligence on the part of somebody; I don't know who. Some one should look after these matters more closely."

We Know How

Please learn what a difference there is in baked beans, and what makes it

First the beans. We pay $2.10 per bushel for ours, to get the choicest Michigan beans. Some sell for 30 cents.

We get only the whitest, the plumpest, the fullest-grown.

Then the tomato sauce. We could buy sauce ready made for exactly one-fifth what ours costs to make.

But we use only vine-ripened tomatoes.

We have spent 47 years in learning how best to prepare these beans

We cook in live steam, so the beans are not browned, not broken. They are baked until mealy, yet they are nutty

Our ovens are heated to 245 degrees, so the fibre is broken down, and the beans are digestible.

The beans, the tomato sauce and the pork are all baked together. Thus we get our delicious blend.

Compare them with home-cooked beans.

Home beans are heavy and hard to digest, because you lack the facilities to apply the needed heat.

And if you ever compare Van Camp's with other brands you will see why we advertise.

Beans are 84 per cent nutriment. They are Nature's choicest food

Beans form one of the cheapest foods, compared with their food value. And one of the very best.

Then why not serve the best beans, so that your people will want them more frequently?

And why not carry a dozen cans in the house? Then you have a hearty, delicious meal always ready.

10, 15 and 20¢ per can.

THE VREELAND BILL TABLED

Committee Will Report Measure Calling for Currency Commission.

Washington, April 21.—The house committee on banking and currency yesterday voted to lay on the table the financial bill offered by Representative Vreeland of New York, as a substitute for the Aldrich bill, and decided to report favorably the bill recently introduced by Chairman Fowler, providing for a currency commission, to consist of forty-three members, eleven members of the senate, eleven members of the house and twenty-one others, who must be citizens of the United States.

The action of the committee was taken late in the afternoon, after a meeting lasting all day. In the case of the Aldrich bill the committee decided to give no reason to the house for its action, simply reporting that the measure had been tabled. The motion to report the Fowler currency commission bill was adopted, 10 to 3. Those voting in the negative were Messrs. Pujo, James and Crawford, while Messrs. Burton and McHenry voted present.

Mrs. Worry: "Cook's going to leave; what will I do?" Her Indulgent Husband: "Get her Hunt's Perfect Baking Powder—it never disappoints"—and Extracts, too.

WRECK IN AUSTRALIA.

Melbourne, Australia, April 21.—Two excursion trains collided Sunday night at Braybrook Junction, a village about seven miles west of this city. Several carriages were telescoped and it is believed that twenty-seven people were killed and about forty injured. The actual number has not been definitely ascertained as the wreckage took fire, and was almost completely consumed. Nineteen bodies have been recovered.

BILLIK REPRIEVED.

Springfield, Ill., April 21.—Acting upon the recommendation of the board of pardons, Governor Deneen yesterday afternoon granted a reprieve until June 12 to Herman Billik, convicted of the murder of Mary Vrzal in Chicago by poisoning in 1905.

The reprieve is based upon the representation to the board that false testimony was given at the trial which led to the man's conviction, and it is for the purpose of giving the courts time to investigate this contention that the reprieve is granted.

SEEKERS OF LAND DUPED

Unscrupulous "Locators" Working in Oregon Says M. H. Kelley.

Michael H. Kelley, president of the Kelley- How-Thomson company, has just returned from the West and says considerable agitation is going on in Oregon over the fleecing of would-be-settlers by unscrupulous "land locators."

Mr. Kelley says that many persons from Minnesota and other states in this section of the country, have been going out there, upon inducements from these "locators," and have been paying their hardearned money to these agents for the purpose of securing lands to which they have no title, and can get none.

"So many persons have been buncoed by these professional 'locators' that Attorney General Bonaparte in a letter to the publisher of a Western lumbermen's paper, has warned people living on these lands not to make any expenditures on the premises without the advise of competent and experienced counsel," said Mr. Kelley, today.

The place where most of the fleecing has been going on and "squatters" have been filing, are the Oregon & California land grant lands. Some of the bolder spirits among the spurious land agents have been advertising that Attorney General Bonaparte had given his sanction to the filing on the lands, and this induced Mr. Bonaparte to write the following letter to the Oregon editor:

"George M. Cornwall, publisher, the Timberman, 54 Union block, Portland, Oregon.—My Dear Sir: I am duly in receipt of your letter of the 24th instant, with enclosed clipping. It would be a source of pleasure to me if I could write you at some length on the subject matter of your letter, but I am compelled to say that the interests of the government will not permit me doing so. I can only say that the department has uniformly advised correspondents on this subject that it proposes to undertake proceeding for the purposes of testing the rights and responsibilities of the present holders of the title to the lands to which you refer, and that it would be advisable not to make any expenditures in the premises, except upon the advise of competent and experienced counsel, in whom implicit confidence could be placed.

"Yours very truly,

"CHARLES J. BONAPARTE."

"It is the practice of these professional 'locators' is to secure from the prospective homesteader, a fee of $100 for securing him a tract of land, and makes him agree to give another $100 when the title is perfected," said Mr. Kelley, in discussing the matter. "The agents know the title to those lands is clouded and that a 'squatter' would have a hard time getting a good title, but they do not care; they are waxing fat on the $100 fees. Even if the homesteaders can secure a good claim to their property, the chances are that it will take ten years before the matter can be clearned up. It is best to take the attorney general's advise and not make any expenditures on the land."

Mr. Kelley, who is one of the largest stockholders in the Booth-Kelley Lumber company of Eugene, Or., was asked what the outcome of this mix-up was going to be.

"There are several large lumber concerns which have purchased heavily of Southern Pacific railway lands and they may be made parties to the impending suits, but it will depend upon what is done with the resolutions before the house," said Mr. Kelley. "I am positive, however, that the interests of the innocent purchasers will be safeguarded."

Mr. Kelley said that his company had purchased land in the tract in question and had one of the sections in that part which the government is seeking for a forest reserve. This the Booth-Kelley company sold to the government, and in buying it, the government examined the title and found it perfect.

"Now," said Mr. Kelley, "if the government itself found nothing wrong with the title of that property, with all its experts and its means of investigation, is it any wonder that we should have been deceived into believing it good."

In view of the muddle, Mr. Kelley thinks that the people of this section who have been planning to answer the call of these Western land sirens with their offers to "locate" people, had better look well before they leap.

Speaking of conditions in various lines in the Pacific coast country, Mr. Kelley said that they were fairly good, except in the lumber industry. He says there is too big a surplus of timber on hand and that it will take at least two years to work it off.

THREE RALLIES.

Salvation Army Will Hold Meetings for Benefit of Charities.

The local Salvation Army will hold three rallies this week for the benefit of the self-denial club, the money of which will be expended for the maintenance of the Rescue Home, Children's Home and other institutions.

They will all be held at the army's hall, Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street. On Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, there will be a Methodist rally, Rev. H. K. Madsen of the Norwegian Danish Methodist church will speak in Scandinavian. Mrs. Madsen will play several piano selections, and the choir of the Norwegian Methodist church, composed of twenty-five voices, will sing Easter songs. J. J. Moe will also give a vocal solo.

On Wednesday evening, at a missionary rally, Rev. Frederick Bloom will lead. Capt. and Mrs. Anderson, dressed in their Hindu costumes, will talk on the "Missionary Life in India" and sing native songs. There will also be music by the West Duluth Mission church band. The greater part of this meeting will be in the Scandinavian language.

The Salvation Army Corps band from Superior, dressed in uniforms, and composed entirely of Scotchmen, will perform on Thursday evening. The English language will be chiefly spoken at this gathering.

GREAT FEAT WITH A PEN

Wallace P. Welbanks Writes 35,200 Words on a Postal Card.

Would Fill a Ten Page Edition of the Herald.

Wallace P. Welbanks, draughtsman in the office of Maj. Graham D. Fitch, United States engineer in charge of the Lake Superior district, has accomplished the feat of writing 35,200 words on the back of and ordinary postal card. In doing this Mr. Welbanks has won the piano offered by a piano company of this city to the person who could write the largest number of words on one side of a card. The next nearest competitor found room for 20,000 words.

Mr. Welbanks' feat, so far as can be learned, has never before been equaled in this or any other country. The conditions of the contest are that every word must be legible, even though it has to be read with a microscope.

This is the third postal card contest that Mr. Welbanks has won. About two years ago he won a similar contest instituted by the Big Duluth store of this city, at which time he wrote 20,000 words.

Another interesting feature of the present contest, showing Mr. Welbanks' skill with the pen, is the fact that on the front of the card, in the space no larger than could be covered with a pencil, he wrote the Lord's Prayer twice.

As a comparison to give an idea of the immensity of the proposition, it might be stated that the 35,200 words written by Mr. Welbanks on the back of the postal card would, in ordinary print, be equal to a 10-page edition of The Evening Herald.

Mr. Welbanks believes that he can write 60,000 words on a postal card, were it necessary to win a prize in any contest he might enter.

FIRST CASES DISMISSED.

Still Several Thousand Sunday Cases on Kansas City Court Docket.

Kansas City, April 21.—Over 2,000 cases against theater people, actors, managers and others employed in Kansas City playhouses, which were brought as a result of the Sunday observance crusade started by Judge William H. Wallace of the criminal court last September, were wiped off the docket of the court yesterday afternoon, when I. B. Krimbrell, prosecuting attorney of Jacobson county, made a motion to dismiss them. All theater cases started since last September and up to the indictments returned April 3 are included in the list. There are now on the docket about 3,000 cases, which have been started during the past three weeks. According to Mr. Krimbrell it will take all summer to try these cases.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

Mr. Thos. Stenton, postmaster of Pontypool, Ont., writes: "For the past eight years I suffered from rheumatic pains, and during that time I used many different liniments and remedies for the cure of rheumatism. Last summer I procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and got more relief from it than anything I have ever used, and cheerfully recommend this liniment to all sufferers from rheumatic pains." FIRST STEP TAKEN.

Thaw to Sign Writ of Habeas Corpus Looking to His Release.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 21.—The first step in proceedings looking to the release of Harry K. Thaw from the state asylum for the criminal insane, at Matteawan, was taken yesterday. James G. Graham of Newburgh, formerly secretary to Governor Odell, appeared as Thaw's counsel before Justice Morschauser of the New York state supreme court, at White Plains, and applied for an order directing the superintendent of the asylum to permit Thaw to sign an application for a writ of habeas corpus. The order was promptly granted, and it will probably be served upon the acting superintendent of the asylum at once.

According to the usual proceedure in such cases, Thaw will sign the application for a writ of habeas corpus, which will then be submitted to a justice of the supreme court, probably Justice Morschauser. The date when the writ is returnable is fixed to suit the convenience of all parties concerned. Then Thaw will appear before a justice of the supreme court for a hearing, to determine whether he should be released from the asylum as sane.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY

In This Country and Workmen's Compensation in Foreign Countries.

Nearly All the Laws Obviate Necessity for Legal Proceedings.

Washington, April 21.—"The liability of employers for injuries to their employes, in the United States" and a "Summary of the workmen's compensation acts of foreign countries," are the subjects of articles in Bulletin No. 74 of the bureau of labor, of the department of commerce and labor.

In the first article Lindley D. Clark discusses at length the more important principles of the common law as generally applied to the subject of employers' liability in this country, together with such variations as appear in certain states. The article also reproduces the laws of those states which have passed enactments on the subject, and presents the construction put thereon where they have been reviewed by the superior state courts or the federal courts.

The impossibility of adequately securing to the workman the needed protection by a mere grant of right of action for injuries for which the employer can rightly be charged is only too evident from the discussion of the principles of law applicable.

In striking contrast with conditions in the United States is the position of the foreign workman who is injured by accident in the course of his employment. Practically every foreign country of any importance industrially has by legislation recognized the principle that the workman is entitled to compensation for injuries from accidents received in the course of his employment. Twenty-two foreign states have enacted such legislation, namely—Austria, Belgium, British Columbia, Cape of Good Hope, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Luxemburg, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Queensland, Russia, South Australia, Spain, Sweden, Western Australia.

While there is some variation in the provisions of the foreign laws as to the circumstances under which workmen are entitled to compensation, as a rule compensation is not payable unless the injury causes disablement for a specified number of days or weeks.

The employer may usually be relieved from the payment of compensation if he can prove that the injury was caused intentionally, or by willful misconduct, or, in some countries, by the gross negligence of the injured person, or during the performance of an illegal act. In none of these twenty-two countries does ordinary negligence on the part of the injured employe work a forfeiture of the right to compensation.

The industries usually covered by the laws are manufacturing, mining and quarrying, transportation, building and engineering work, and other employments involving more or less hazard. In Belgium, France and Great Britain the laws apply to practically all employments. In a considerable number of countries only workmen engaged in actual manual work, and in some cases those exposed to the same risks, such as overseers and technical experts, come within the operations of the law. These countries are Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Italy, Luxemburg, Netherlands, Norway, Russia, Spain and Sweden. On the other hand, in France, Great Britain, the British colonies and Hungary, the laws apply to salaried employes and workmen equally. Overseers and technical experts, earning more than a prescribed amount, are excluded in Belgium, Denmark, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Luxemburg and Russia. Employes of the state, provincial and local administrations usually come within the provisions of the acts.

The entire burden rests upon the employer in all but four of the countries, Austria, Germany, Hungary and Luxemburg, where the employes also bear a part of the expense. The laws in every case fix the compensation to be paid. In all countries but Sweden the compensation is based upon the wages of the injured person. It consists of medical and surgical treatment and of periodical allowances for temporary disability and annual pensions or lumpsum payments for permanent disability or death.

In most countries employers may contract with state or private insurance institutions for the transfer of the burden of payment of compensation. In a number of countries such transfer is obligatory. Provision is usually made for the protection of the beneficiaries in case of insolvency of employers.

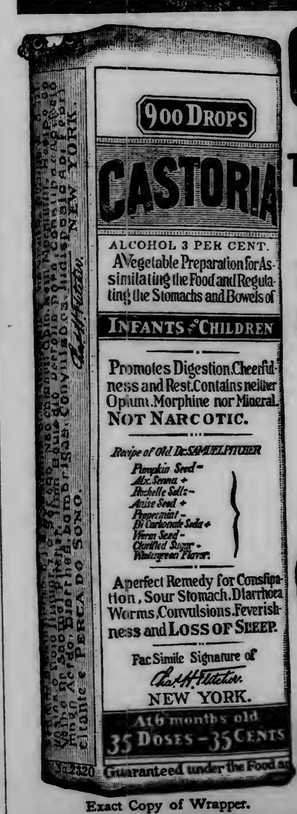

The acts of nearly all of the countries are framed with the view of obviating the necessity for instituting legal proceedings. The laws are so specific with regard to the compensation allowed and the regulations for its payment that agreements are usually amicably made between the employers and the victims of the accidents. If disputes arise, however, the law specifies the necessary procedure for their settlement, either by special arbitration tribunals or by the ordinary law courts.

SPEAKER SUSTAINED BY STRICT PARTY VOTE.

Washington, April 21.—With the exception of Messrs. Cooper and Nelson of Wisconsin, Republicans, the house of representatives yesterday, by a strict party vote, declared that the action of Speaker Cannon last Saturday in summarily adjourning the house was not "a breach of the privilege of the house affecting its safety, dignity and the integrity of its proceedings." The declaration was made when a resolution by Mr. Williams holding such a breech to have been committed, was tabled 146 to 119. The vote was preceded by statements by both Mr. Williams and the speaker. After disclaiming that, as a result of the episode, there would be a personal breach between him and the speaker, Mr. Williams maintained that the action was an unprecedented parliamentary act. On the other hand, Speaker Cannon called attention to the dilatory tactics of the minority leader for the past two weeks, and said it was the speakers's privilege and his duty to sweep aside a dilatory demand and declare the house adjourned.

RECEPTION IS CHILLY

Leader of Playground Movement Talks to Small Audience.

Gives Interesting Address on the Value of Recreation.

Lee F. Hanmer, field secretary of the Playgrounds Association of America, spoke last evening at the First M. E. church in the interest of the public playgrounds.

He came to Duluth at the special request of several Duluth people who are maturating the playground movement in this city and there were hardly forty people in the church to listen to what he had to say on the subject that has been discussed so much here of late. He will speak again at the Commercial club this afternoon.

"Play is the compelling force in the lives of boys and girls," said Mr. Hanmer, "and this play life of the boys and girls is growing less and less each year as the cities grow more and more complex. Where there were once vacant lots for the children to play in, now stands tall buildings, and the children are forced into the streets for their recreation, and from the streets and crowded quarters come bad influences characteristic of such places, and then juvenile crimes.

In addition to being unhealthful places for the soul and body of the young, the narrow, sordid streets are not healthful places for the minds of children even though they do not attend school.

Value of Play.

"We are coming more and more to the realization that there is an educational value in play. Our schools nowadays are beginning to combine play with study in all their work.

"Congestion is the evil that is detrimental to the health and moral welfare of the children who are so unfortunate as to have to live in it, and to obliterate this evil we must improve the conditions in the lives of thees unfortunates. In many big cities they discovered the necessity of breathing places long after they had grown congested, and in New York, in some cases, it cost the city nearly $1,000,000 an acre for public playgrounds, where they would do the most good. Now is the time for Duluth to start, while it is young and still has plenty of room. The space about the schools is the natural place for playgrounds, for public schools are unusually placed in thickly populated neighborhoods, and easily accessible to the children. In some cities they are making it a practice to keep the school buildings open in the evenings and during the summer vacations, for they realize that it is not right to expend thousands of dollars on the schools and only use them for only five hours a day during only part of the year. In these cases the teachers take charge of the boys and girls who come, and form them into debating clubs and social clubs. The population of the country is rapidly changing from rural to urban, and these things are becoming necessary.

"Last summer sixty-six cities conducted playgrounds, and before I again return to New York, I will visit forty-eight cities which are searting up playgrounds. So you see that the interest is growing widespread.

"Then there are the playgrounds in the parks as well as about the schools. In the near future it is to be hoped that there will be no longer be an any 'keep off the grass' signs in our parks. The parks should be turned over to the free use of the laboringman and the children.

"It is a mistake to think that education is a merely an accumulation of facts. There must be periods of relaxation and play to develop the boys and girls physically as well as to build them up educationally. Exercise arouses intellectual development. The old saying that 'all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy,' is very true, and educators are giving more and more time along play lines. The impulse to play is a very natural one and should be given full bent.

The Social Aspect.

"Besides the playgrounds are important from a social aspect. They are a maker of good citizens. The play is worth while in a nation. It makes a clean upright people. The play places form habits of fairness in the games in the children, which will stick to them through life and make fair, square business men of them.

"The city playgrounds should be under the supervision of proper people. Playgrounds furnished with equipments should not be turned over to the children without proper supervision, for if the children are allowed to run things themselves, they will destroy the apparatus and fight, and the whole benefit of the grounds will be lost.

"Freedom is the essential of play, but it must be the proper kind of freedom with proper guidance. The parents at home take all the burden of responsibility from their children's shoulders and make them reliant. The playground offers a freedom of its own, which makes resourceful men and women.

"These matters can not be let go," concluded Mr. Hanmer. "They are forced upon us. The playground is in keeping with the whole spirit of American freedom."

ACETYLENE GAS PLANT CAUSES BIG EXPLOSION.

Harvey, N. D., April 21.—An acetylene gas plant in the billiard room of the Hotel Louvre exploded with the result that several persons were injured, and the loss will amount to over $10,000.

Glass fronts in the neighboring stores were scattered for blocks and only by the efficient work of the fire boys was the town saved from possible destruction.

The roar of the terrific explosion was heard all over town and people rushed from their places of business and homes in fear. Several people were injured by flying glass, and several men in the billiard room were thrown heavily to the floor

ESTIMATES AT VARIANCE

Owner Wants $88,000 —Appraisers Valued It at $38,500.

The board of appraisers appointed by the district court to fix the values of the Fifth avenue west and Second street property that the county is acquiring for a courthouse site, did not complete its hearing for the property owners yesterday. The hearing is in progress today and the appraisers will continue meeting from day to day until they have taken testimony relative to all the properties that it will be necessary to acquire.

All the evidence relative to Capt. Alexander McDougall's residence at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue west and Second street was submitted yesterday, and a portion of the evidence on the Baker flat property at the northwest corner of the street and avenue, was heard yesterday afternoon. As soon as the appraisers are through with the Baker property they will take up in turn the Spalding, Miller and Thomson properties.

Capt. McDougall testified at some length about the advantageous location of his property. He placed the value of the ground at $70,000, the house, trees, vines and other improvements at $18,000, making a total of $88,000, which he asked for his property. Capt. McDugall admitted that about a year ago he offered the property to the county for $50,000 and that within the last sixty days, while the grouping plan was being discussed he gave Henry Nolte an oral option to buy for $55,000, the option expiring March 1, last. The captain explained his increase in valuation by stating that he has been doing some thinking" since he set the former figures.

Value of the House.

J. R. deWaard, the architect, a witness for Capt. McDougall testified that it would cost $15,000 to duplicate the house, as did R. J. McLeod, a contractor.

For the county William Prindle, C. P. Craig and Thomas Olafson, who comprise the board of appraisers of the Duluth Real Estate exchange, testified that the ground in the McDougall property is worth $22,750, and that all the buildings might bring as much as $5,000. They based their figures on the proposition that the present improvements are only temporary considering the value of the location per front foot.

L. D. Campbell and H. Fee, building contractors, who spent three days making a thorough examination of the McDougall house, presented a detailed statement showing the value of the material. They claimed that the house could be duplicated for $10,612. They also figured the depreciation of value of the old building, as compared with a new one, at 20 per cent. The contractors placed a value of about $1,500 on the other improvements.

George Claypool testified that about three months ago, when the grouping plan was being discussed, F. J. Pulford, Henry Nolte and himself made a preliminary estimate of the valuation of the McDougall property and placed its value at $38,500.

The matter of determining the value to be fixed on the McDougall property is now up to the board of appraisers.

In the matter of the valuation of the three double houses and 100-foot frontage on Fifth avenue west, owned by Mrs. Charles Barker, the testimony of J. A. Robert, the contractor who erected the buildings, showed that their cost, eighteen years ago, was $20,000, exclusive of the heating and plumbing. Mr. Robert thought the buildings could be duplicated today for $37,633, not including the heating and plumbing.

This morning the appraisers were hearing more testimony relative to the value of the Barker property.

PRESIDENT MAY APPOINT PURDY

Senator Nelson Has Not Furnished More Names for Judgeship.

Washington, April 21.—There is a good chance that President Roosevelt will hold out on the Minnesota federal judgeship appointment until after adjournment of congress and then fill the vacancy in the congressional recess.

No definite conclusion has been reached as to this matter, but on good authority it may be said that the president is seriously considering it. It would seem that, notwithstanding reports that such a course would be unusual and in violation of precedents, it has been adopted more than once by Presidtnt Roosevelt, and that the White House precedents furnish abundant warrant for it in nearly all of the previous administrations.

The most recent instance in which the president went over the head of a senator with such an appointment was in the case of Judge Sater of the Columbus, Ohio, federal district. Judge Sater was stoutly opposed by Senator Foraker, but the president, believing that he should have the appointment, gave it to him during the congressional recess, and he served on the bench without question.

The prevailing opinion here is that if the president should make a recess appointment, either M. D. Purdy or Judge David F. Simpson will be favored. Simpson's stock has been steadily rising here with everybody excepting Senator Nelson. It is an interesting fact that he is the only one of the candidates for the lace against whom no protests have been filed. His indorsement seems to be stronger than that of any of the other candidates, and it is understood that he is second choice of nearly all of the Hale and many of the Purdy supporters. Senator Nelson's opposition to Simpson and Purdy has not been removed.

The judgeship situation has not changed since last week. Senator Nelson has not replied to the president's request for additional names, and it is understood that he is not telling his callers that such a letter has been received by him.

THE COST OF PAPER

To be Investigated by a Special Committee of House.

Long Resolution Tells of Paper Makers' Combination.

Washington, April 21.—A definite step was taken yesterday toward a solution of the wood pulp and newspaper print cost question in the introduction by Speaker Cannon of a resolution for the appointment of a select committee of six members to investigate "and obtain all possible information" as to the reasons for the increased prices of white paper to the end that needful legislation may be enacted.

The resolution, which was referred to the committee on rules, of which the speaker is chairman, empowers the committee to sit "in Washington or elsewhere, during sessions of the house and the recess of congress," and confers the usual authority of subpoena, the administration of oath, etc.

The Resolution.

Following is the resolution in full:

"Whereas, It is alleged by the American Newspaper Publishers' association that the cost of print paper to the users thereof is at least $60,000,000 per annum greater at the present time than it was two years ago, and,

"Whereas, it is alleged by others that the cost of news print paper to newspaper publishers, magazine publishers and printing house managers, will, under the price now asked, be $65,000,000 greater for the current year than heretofore; and,

"Whereas, It is alleged by the American Newspaper Publishers' association that the statistics compiled by the bureau of the census concerning the cost and price of news print paper are erroneous, inaccurate and incomplete and valueless as a guide to legislation; and,

"Whereas, it is alleged by the American Newspaper Publishers' association that price of print paper has increased from 35 to 50 per cent during the past few months; and,

"Whereas, it is alleged and asserted that the alleged increased price of paper is in part the result of a combination and conspiracy on the part of wood pulp and paper manufacturers and dealers to control, regulate, monopolize and restrain interstate and foreign commerce and trade in the manufacture and sale of news print, manila fibre and other kinds of paper and products, and,

Advanced Price of Paper.

"Whereas, It is alleged by the American Newspaper Publishers' association that the International Paper company and other paper manufacturers and dealers have threatened to advance and have advanced the price of print paper $22 per ton during the last few months; and,

"Whereas, it is alleged that this great advance in the price of paper is made possible by the duty of $6 per ton on print paper, being the same rate of duty for the last eighteen years, and in the last three tariff laws; and,

"Whereas, it is claimed and asserted that the price of print paper is in no wise affected by the tariff; that the increase in the price of recent date has not been excessive, and is not the result of either tariff import duty or of any combination or conspiracy in restraint of trade or otherwise, but is the result wholly of the increase of the cost of raw materials and the increase in the wages paid for labor and the shortening of the hours of labor per day; and,

"Whereas, on May 11, 1906, judgment was entered in the circuit court for the district of Minnesota, dissolving the General Paper company as a combination in restraint of trade; and,

Has No Evidence.

"Whereas, the increase in the price of paper has occurred notwithstanding the dissolution of the said General Paper company, or paper trust, and the department of justice, though appealed to, reports that it has obtained no evidence sufficient to justify the institution of legal proceedings, either civil or criminal, against the alleged combination of wood pulp or print paper manufacturers; and,

"Whereas, it is stated by the attorney general of the United States that after complaint had been filed with said attorney general against the so-called paper combination or trust, the complainant refused to furnish legal proof or give the names of witnesses having personal knowledge of the facts; and,

"Whereas, it is alleged that the combination of paper manufacturers in the United States have purchased the output of all the paper mills in Canada in excess of the home consumption, which said purchase, it is alleged, is in furtherance of a conspiracy in restraint of interstate and foreign commerce; and,

"Whereas, it is alleged that the great production of wood pulp in the United states is rapidly depleting the forests of this country, and that legislation ought to be enacted which will permit and encourage the importation of wood pulp upon more favorable terms so as to conserve our national forests; and,

House Should Have Facts.

"Whereas, it is desirable that the house of representatives shall be fully informed as to all the facts in the case as to whether there does exist or can exist beyond the reach of the existing power of the department of justice and of the courts to prevent, a combination or conspiracy among the manufacturers or dealers or others to so increase the price, to control the character of the paper manufactured, or to regulate the output of wood pulp or the paper mills in restraint of trade among the several states or with any foreign country, to the end that needful legislation may be enacted;

"Now, therefore, resolved, that the speaker shall appoint a select committee of six members to investigate and inquire into the said alleged facts and to obtain all possible information in regard to the same to inquire into elements and conditions involved in the production and supply of wood pulp and print paper insofar as the same are or may be affected by any combination or conspiracy to control, regulate, monopolize or restrain interstate or foreign commerce and trade in the manufacture, supply, distribution or sale of wood pulp or paper of any kind, or any of the articles entering into the same, or any of the products of paper, and insofar as the same may be affected by the import duties upon wood pulp or paper of any kind, and insofar as the same may be effected by the rapid destruction of the forests in the United States and the consequent increase in the price of wood pulp, and also to inquire whether the present prices of print and other paper are controlled in whole or in part by any combination of persons or corporations engaged in commerce among the several states, or with foreign nations, and if so, to inquire into the organization, conduct, methods, and practices of such corporations or persons.

"Said committee, or any sub-committee thereof, shall be authorized to sit in Washington or elsewhere during the sessions of the house and during the recess of congress, and shall have power to subpoena and examine witnesses under oath and to send for records, papers and all other evidences that may be necessary to make the investigation and inquiry herein directed to be made full and complete and that they shall have authority to sign and the clerk to attest subpoenas during the recess of congress."

BEDE HAS TALK WITH PINCHOT

In Regard to President's Veto of Rainy River Dam Bill.

Washington, April. 21.—Representative Bede of Duluth had a conference of an hour yesterday with Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forestry bureau, regarding the president's veto of the bill relating to the dam in Rainy river. Mr. Bede first tried to take the subject up with the president, who referred him to Mr. Pinchot, who is a member of the inland waterways commission. The president has referred all similar questions to that commission, and is taking its advice as to what action should be taken on bills which run counter to the administration policy of conserving the natural resources of the country.

Representative Burton of Ohio, chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors, is also a member of that commission, and Mr. Bede later on will talk with him also. C. J. Rockwood, a Minneapolis attorney, who has been retained by the interests which have been constructing the Rainy river dam, has reached Washington. He will act with Mr. Bede in an effort to see what can be done to take care of the large equities the company has in the project. In his talk with Mr. Pinchot, Mr. Bede enlarged on the idea that the company has expended three-quarters of a million dollars on the project, all of which will be lost unless there is some remedial legislation.

The company secured its grant from the government in 1901, and the bill vetoed simply provided for an extension of time for completion of the work. It is Mr. Bede's idea that congress shall reimburse the company for money already expended.

SPECTATOR KILLED.

Bernice, La., April 21.—One spectator was killed and five others wounded, yesterday, during a street duel, here. Both duellists were wounded, but not seriously.

The fight was between C. J. Morton and W. F. Barham, both prominent in this section. The cause of their quarrel is not known. Morton was just stepping off an Arkansas Southern train, accompanied by his wife's 7-year-old son, when Barham appeared armed. Morton was carrying a repeating shot gun. Both men opened fire, and Morton's little boy fell, probably mortally wounded; T. W. Clarke was instantly killed, and Thomas Rives was wounded in the thigh. Conductor Akford of the train, and a male passenger, whose name was not learned, were painfully wounded. Morton was hit twice by his adversary's bullets, and Barham was struck once. A. J. Blanche of Covington, La., was probably fatally wounded while seated in the smoking car.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Upon the issuance of the bench warrants Monday for persons indicted as a result of the recent exposure of alleged gambling house conditions in the Tenderloin, two New York policemen were arrested and locked up charged with bribery.

Another attempt was made Monday to kill President Estrada Cabrera of Guatemala at Guatemala City, the capital of the republic, according to a cable dispatch received by Dr. Ramon Bengoechea, Gautemalan consul general at New York.

H. N. Conrad, proprietor of a jewelry store at Kansas City, was killed outright, and two women companions, one of whom is supposed to be his wife, were probably fatally injured in the collision of their motor car with a Brooklyn avenue street car late Monday night.

Angered because his young companion taunted him about his name, Ray Warwick, the 12-year-old son of A. J. Warwick, treasurer of the Leads Leather company, went to a drug store near his home, bought an ounce of carbolic acid and on his way home drank the poison, dying an hour later.

Most sections in Texas visited by the floods of the past few days report cessation of rains and the streams are falling rapidly. Reports of swollen streams are being received from points farther south, but the overflow seems small and the damage is not great.

A four-car motor train on the Bath Beach line of the Brooklyn Elevated system ran down a surface trolley car at the junction of Eighty-sixth street and Bay Nineteenth street, Bath Beach, Monday night. Several of the trolley passengers were seriously injured and one of them, Mrs. Alice Hughes, 23 years old, will probably die. Ten others were seriously hurt. The train men involved were arrested.

SENATE HAS NAVAL BILL.

Washington, April 21.—After consideration of less than two hours the senate committee on naval affairs yesterday reported the naval appropriation bill to the senate. It carries $111,546,549, an increase of $7,579,031 over the amount of the bill as it was passed by the house. On the battleship construction program the senate committee adopted the policy of the house, making no change in the provision for two vessels.

CROOKSTON HAS SENSATION.

Dead Body of Well-Formed Infant is Found.

Crookston, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sensation was created here yesterday when Mrs. Oscar Arness, 305 Spendley street, discovered a fully developed male child in an outhouse at the rear of her residence. The child had been dead but a short time, and Coronor Chesterman is making a thorough investigation. The body was found in the better section of the city, and many rumors are rife as to the guilty party. The police are working on a clue, and it is expected that arrests will be made within a very short time.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LACERATED BY BUZZ SAW

Martin Jennings Horribly Cut About Head, Near Fowlds, Minn.

Using His Hands to Remove Sawdust Under Revolving Saw.

Bemidji, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—While attempting to take away sawdust with his hands from a rapidly moving circular saw, on the claim of A. T. Wheelock, near Fowlds, Martin Jennings, who was operating the saw, received terrible injuries about his face and head. His injuries were of such a character that the attending physician marvels that Jennings was not killed outright.

At about 2:30 o'clock, Jennings, who was alone, got down on his hands and knees and began to scrape away the sawdust under the saw with his hand.

His head came in contact with the rapidly moving teeth of the saw, which cut and lacerated his face and front portion of his head, making ugly wounds, and hurling him into a cramped position under the box covering the saw.

Jennings got up from where he was thrown, and although badly cut and lacerated, walked a quarter of a mile from the sawmill to the house before he gave up.

Jennings was carried to Fowlds, from which place he was taken on a handcar to Wilton, and from that place brought to Bemidji, being placed in St. Anthony's hospital under the care of a physician.

Jennings retained consciousness all the time.

PRAIRIE FIRES IN NORTH DAKOTA

Considerable Damage is Reported to Property in Dickey County.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dry condition of the prairies in various parts of the state is causing numerous fires, in some of which considerable damage has been done in the past few days. The farmers suffered heavily by a destructive fire that swept over Dickey county. Buildings were burned on the Norton and Perry ranches and farms of Ed Baker, W. B. Walker and Hans Christopherson. C. P. Ward lost 150 tons of hay. The Dakota Central Telephone company was put out of business when about a dozen poles were burned. North of Crete a fire started on the farm of J. H. McGinnis and Abel Firts lost his barn and some stock.

A prairie fire north and east of Ojata west of Grand Forks burned over a wide area Sunday and caused the destruction of farm buildings owned by the George Wright Real Estate company of St. Paul. The loss is $2,000 with no insurance. A tenant had moved out of the buildings only a few days ago. There was no fire breaks. The buildings burned included a barn, residence and granary. It is supposed the fire started from spontaneous combustion in an old strawpile.

A prairie fire four miles north of Grand Forks threatened the destruction of a timothy meadow on the Jerry Norman farm, but it was saved.

NEIGHBOR A CHICKEN THIEF.

St. Cloud Man Catches and Beats Purloiner of His Broilers.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A chicken thief, who attempted to rob the coop at the McGivern home in the West end last night, bumped up against the owner just as he was making away with his booty and got an awful beating.

McGivern was awakened by a noise in the back yard shortly after 12 o'clock. He dressed and upon going outside to investigate caught the thief just as he was leaving the coop with a sack full of chickens. McGivern took him by the collar and gave him a beating which he will not forget for some time to come. The chicken thief, who was a neighbor, begged for mercy and promised to pay double the price of the birds if the owner would only let him go. He finally let the fellow up and warned him never to show his face in that section again.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE LOST.

Brainerd, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The debate of the question, "Should Women be Given the Ballot," at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening was attended by a crowd of over 100 people. The affirmative was ably upheld by C. C. Sorrenson and J. Templeton, while G. S. Swanson and Fred DuBois were the champions of the negative. The speakers all did well, the leaders each giving a short talk in rebuttal after all had spoken in direct argument. The judges who were Miss Millicent Mahlum, J. F. Smart and J. C. Marville were unanimously of the opinion that the debators for the negative had the best of the argument and gave their decision in favor of them.

SPINSTERS AND BACHELORS.

Effort to be Made to Bring Two Clubs Together.

Menomonie, Wis., April 21.—The Bachelors' club of Dallas and the Spinsters' club of Menomonie, have decided to pool interests with a view to developing what the world hath in store for the members of these two remarkable organizations. Frank H. Jackson, son of Former Governor Jackson of Iowa, is the promoter of the proposed alliance, by means of which he believes Dallas and Menomonie will profit.

Dallas is less than a year old and has a population of 600. Of this number 11 per cent are young bachelors, while there is an utter absence of marriageable young women.

Jackson has formed a bachelor's club into which he hopes to enroll every one of the sixty-six unmarried young men. Jackson recently heard of the Spinsters' club of Menomonie, and he took upon himself the task of negotiating a "treaty" between the two organizations.

MEMORIAL TO SCHURZ.

Raising Money for Wisconsin's Tribute Has Been Taken Up.

Madison, Wis., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work of securing the $60,000 desired for the proposed memorial chair to the late Carl Schurz at the University of Wisconsin is to be pushed earnestly in the next few months. The sum of $25,000 had been subscribed when the financial troubles of last fall brought the work to a temporary standstill. It was seen by those interested in the plan that it would be useless to attempt to go forward at that time and it was decided to wait until the business world had recovered from the check which it had received.

Now that matters have been straightened out and business is once more on normal lines it is felt that a strong endeavor should be made to complete the fund which will insure a fitting memorial to one who was an honor to Wisconsin as well as to the country. There is no question among those who have the matter in charge that the necessary fund will be raised with little trouble, once the work is organized and carried forward steadily on well defined lines.

BIG BRIQUETTING PLANT.

It Will be Built at Sully, N. D., and Employ 400 Miners.

Dickinson, N. D., April 21.—Plans have been completed by Haxby & Gillespie for an immense briquetting plant, which will be erected at Sully Springs, N. D., between Dickinson and Medora. Mr. Gillespie has left for the scene of the proposed operations to lay out the plant, after which construction work will be started at once. The plant will be large enough this summer for a capacity of 250 tons of briquettes a day, it being the present plan to work two shifts a day. According to the present announcement, 400 miners will be employed from the start.

The parties interested are John F. Baker, Philadelphia, president; S. F. Bradley, Fargo, vice president; George C. Baker and R. George Buchanan, both of Philadelphia, directors.

HAD CHORUS AMBITIONS.

Hancock Girl Steals Watch to Pay Expenses to Chicago.

Hancock, Mich., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hannah Turja, who said she was 14 years old, was taken into custody by Officer John Wright on complaint of Mrs. Christ Mattson, who charged the girl with having stolen her gold watch. The officer arested the girl as she was about to enter the postoffice with another girl with whom she had been keeping company for some time. On being taken to the city hall Hannah admitted having taken the watch and she turned it over to the officer.

When asked by Officer Wright why she did wrong she said she had run away from home with the intention of going to Chicago. She also said that she and some other girls had been corresponding with a theatrical agency in Chicago for the purpose of securing jobs as chorus girls and they were expecting a letter from the agency at the time giving them full instruction what to do. She said she took the watch so that she could raise money to buy a ticket to Chicago.

On being brought into Justice Olivier's court by her father Saturday, Hannah again admitted having taken the watch but remained silent when asked to give her reason for doing so. Owing to the absence of County Agent William H. Mason from the city, he being on his way home from a trip to the Industrial school at Lansing, the examination was adjourned.

BLOWS HIS HEAD OFF.

Winona, Minn., April 21.—Jule Brube, a retired tailor, shot himself in the head with a shotgun, presumably Friday night, and the remains were found Sunday. He evidently placed the stock of the gun against the floor and then attached a string to the trigger and wound the end of it around his wrist, firing the fatal shot by this means. The whole top of his head was torn off from the nose up.

WILLOUGHBY IMPROVING.

Prominent Milwaukeean, Who Killed His Wife, to be Arraigned April 29.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The condition of George Willoughby, a well known business man, who is now confined in the county jail awaiting preliminary examination on the charge of murdering his wife, is said to be steadily improving and he will probably be removed from the barred room in which he is confined and placed in an ordinary cell within a few days. Willoughby takes his incarceration cheerfully and is proving a model prisoner. Regarding his coming trial his aspect is one of apathy. No announcement has been made as to whether an insanity plea will be entered or not. The case will be called April 29.

A LASTING EFFECT

Relief from the pains and aches of a bad back is always welcome to every backache sufferer; but to cure a lame, weak or aching back is what's wanted. Cure it so it will stay cured. It can be done. Here's the strongest evidence to prove it:

J. Vaugan of 532 First street west, Duluth, Minn., says: "In the summer of 1898 I told the people of Duluth, through our local newspapers, of the splendid results I had obtained from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. My trouble was a kidney and bladder disorder, that was painful nd annoying, and had clung to me for considerable time. The kidney secretions were quite irregular, and contained a sediment which varied in color and condition. There were dull, heavy pains through the loins, and I was very restless at night, being unable to remain in one position for any length of time. The trouble was becoming worse, when I was induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I continued taking them until entirely relieved of the affliction I am glad to say that the cure has been permanent, and will always be pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

GOOD BILLIARDS.

French Expert Gives Splendid Exhibition at Liederkranz Club.

New York, April 21.—Fine work with the cue by Reroile, the French amateur billiardist, who held the French title for five years losing it to Mortier just before sailing, characterized his first exhibition games, played at the Liederkranz club. Of the three games which he played, all at 18.2 balk line, the best exhibition was with Edward McLaughlin, the professional. The Frenchman ran out his string of 300 in sixteen innings, averaging 18-12-18 and leading McLaughlin by ten points. His high runs were 50, 45, and 41. Earlier in the day Reroile defeated McLaughlin by 250 to 193, with a high run of 75. In a game with one of the club members, Reroile, although taking it easy, rolled up 82 in one inning.

Gotch Has Workout.

Jim McCauley of St. Paul gave Frank Gotch a good workout at the Metropolitan opera house last evening. Gotch agreed to throw him in fifteen minutes and did it in thirteen. McCauley worked almost entirely on the defensive, and Gotch was given an opportunity to display a number of his choice holds. He finally plumped McCauley to the mat with a toe hold.

GEORGE C. McCARTHY,

MUST NOT PLAY WITH OUTLAWS

Baseball Trust Will Not Allow Games With Independents.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 21.—The national baseball commission yesterday reinstated Players Garland, Stahl and M. J. Donlin, but fined each $100 for having participated in certain games with clubs or against clubs harboring ineligible players in the city of Chicago during the last season and because of the question raised, the commission gives warning that in the future no national agreement player will at any time, either during the playing season, after it has ended, or before it has started, be permitted to play with or against any club harboring any ineligible player.

The commission announces that "there is no objection on the part of the commission to players participating in exhibition games either before or after the close of the season in the respective leagues to which the club belongs, that have title to them, but in no instance can they participate in games with clubs or against clubs harboring ineligible players.

"A violation of this order at any time in the future will be followed by a fine of not less than $250 against each player for the first offense. In addition to this no national agreement club will be permitted in the future to negotiate for the services of a player having left a club or failed to report to a club where such player has participated in games with or against clubs harboring ineligible players unless the consent of the national commission has been first obtained and the player in question has been reinstated and any club violating this order will be fined not less than $250 for the first offense."

Player William McCabe, purchased by the Boston Nationals, but returned by them to Steubenville, which club then transferred him to Trenton, was declared to be a free agent, none of the clubs having property to him at the time of such transfer. He may play with Trenton, however, if he so wishes.

TRANCE WINS OZONE STAKES

Heavily Played Favorite Makes Track Record at Aqueduct.

Aqueduct, April 21.—Trance, heavily played, being backed down from 5 to 1 to 16 to 5, easily won the Ozone stakes for 2-year-olds, half mile, at the Aqueduct yesterday, defeating some fairly good youngsters. She carried 109 pounds and ran the distance in 46 2-5, equalling the track record and within 2-5 of a second of the world's record. Fitz Herbert was second with Erbert third. The surprise of the race was the performance of Erbert. He was ridden by a stable boy and was backed down from 30 to 1 to 10 to 1 at the close, and with good handling would have been closer up.

Trance went to the front soon after the start and, setting a fast pace, won by 1½ lengths.

The handicap at seven furlongs resulted in a fine finish. Shaw on Jubilee rode the best race he has shown this year. He was outrun in the early part, but Shaw waited with him until the stretch was reached, and managed to win by a head.

MORRISEY WINS THE MARATHON

New York Man First in Twenty-Five-Mile Run.

Boston, April 21.—T. P. Morrissey of the Mercury Athletic club of New York city won the twelfth annual renewal yesterday of the Boston Athletic association's Marathon road race, covering the twenty-five miles from Ashland to the finish mark on Exeter street in 2 hours, 25 minutes and 43 1-5 seconds. The time is second only to the record of 2 hours, 24 minutes and 24 seconds, made last year by Tom Longboat the Canadian Indian runner. Fifty yards behind Morrissey came J. J. Hayes of the Irish-American Athletic club, New York, who in turn led Robert A. Fowler of the Cambridgeport Gymnasium association by about the same distance.

"Cy" Young is still the marvel of the fans in the big leagues, and he is today the most interesting and picturesque figure in the baseball world.

Young has seen big league stars come and go, but like the streamlet of which Mr. Tennyson speaks, he "goes on forever." He seems to be back in the game this year stronger than ever, and has already pitched Boston to victory twice.

A pitcher like Young is throwing under a constant handicap. Fans and managers are only too ready to say of a veteran, "Well, he has gone bad at last." This thought must be constantly before Young, and cannot help but react upon his work. He knows that he has not only got to pitch as good ball as the younger men, but better ball. He is today, as he was ten years ago, one of the steadiest, headiest and cleverest pitchers in the big leagues, but if he strikes a streak of rough going, there will be a thousand fans ready to call for the trainware, and shout that Young is down and out at last.

As long as rowing is a popular sport there will be discussions as to the relative value of the long sweeping stroke, with a display of back muscles, and the short hard drive. Advocates of the short, hard drive with rigid back, will claim that the long reach tires a man needlessly, and that he loses more than he gains by it. On the other side, it is claimed that the short stroke does not enable a man to get his full reach and that he loses by cutting off. The Dulutn crews at Minnetonka and White Bear have been criticised for their short, "jerky" strokes. Rowed properly, the stroke is not "jerky," and there can be no question as to the sporting possibilities it gives, when so rowed. The Duluth crew demonstrated it two years ago at Lake Minnetonka. A green crew picked up two lengths in an eighth of a mile and won out in probably the prettiest spurt ever seen in a Northwestern regatta. The stroke is being used again this year, with some slight modifications, and it is being taught to the oarsmen by one of the greatest exponents of the stroke, and in fact the man who first introduced it, Dr. F. L. Lynam. For a race of a mile and five-eighths, it seems to be an ideal stroke. The man has not yet been found who cannot row himself out in that distance with the stroke, and there can be no question that his power is properly applied if he rows the stroke as it should be rowed. It was not the fault of the stroke that Duluth lost last year. The crew was up against two of the prettiest crews seen in western waters in recent years, in the St. Paul junior eight and the Winnipeg seniors, and with seven green men in the boat, the showig made was far from discouraging.

The chief criticism of Cornell crews which row a stroke nearer the Lynam stroke than any other college crews has been that their backs were too rigid, and to an oarsman who has rowed the so-called Lynam stroke, it sounds naively funny, as the great secret of the stroke is the rigid back, which allows the power to come from the hips and legs. Eastern critics cannot see how Cornell continues to win with this "defect," but perhaps the same "defect" may aid the Duluth crew at Winnipeg next July, if the present array of "huskies" stay with the game through the chilly winds of early May, and the pleasant June evenings when the "piazza sportsmen" at the boat club are keeping the canoes busy.

NEW GROUNDS FOR GUN CLUB

Located at Seventh Avenue East and Twenty-First Street.

The hills back of Duluth will resound with the reports from shot guns soon, for the Northwestern Gun club has secured shooting grounds on Twenty-first street and Seventh avenue east, and is planning to burn not a little powder there this season.

Activity among the local pigeon smashers will start next week, after they have installed their traps on the hill side and have completed the club's preparations for the season's shooting. As soon as possible they expect to erect a clubhouse on the new location, and get things in shape for the comfort of the members.

Heretofore the membership has been limited to twenty-five, but owing to the many requests for membership that have been coming in, the club has reconsidered its former decision and has decided to extend the privilege of the club to forty.

Everything now points to a most successful season, as all the members are enthusiastic, and expect to be on the grounds with their fowling pieces the majority of the pleasant afternoons during the summer and fall.

TEN TEAMS IN LEAGUE

The Interscholastic Baseball league will this year comprise ten teams.

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the boys' department Y. M. C. A. ten schools were represented, and the league was organized. This is the largest number of teams the league has yet had, and a very active season is promised.

Lawrence Duby of the Jackson school was chosen president of the league, and Gear Peterson, secretary. Norman D. MacLeod and Al Olson, secretary and physical director of the boys' department, will draw up the schedule.

A pennant will be given the winning team.

WHEAT HAS GOOD BULGE

Advance of First Hour Lost, But Close is Stiff.

Flax Half a Point Up After Fairly Active Session.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 21.—Wheat bulged 2 points during the first hour in the American markets today, and while that lead was lost, the closing prices all showed a stiff advance over yesterday just the same.

Higher cables and light receipts in the Northwest started the advance and sent the shorts to cover, helter-skelter. The market went up so fast, however, that it was largely fireworks and the volume of trading was not large. The nature of the market made it hard to do any business here with the East or with the foreigners, although a little wheat was worked by local exporters.

There seemed no cessation in the bullish situation. Receipts in Minneapolis and Duluth were 107 cars today against 664 a year ago. The bulls are talking now to the effect that nearly every mill in the Northwest will have to close this summer because of an inability to find anything to grind.

Liverpool closed 1⅜d to 2⅛d higher than Thursday, Berlin 3½c higher than Saturday, Antwerp ⅝c higher than Thursday and Budapest 3½c higher than Saturday.

The May option closed 1⅛c higher in Duluth, 1⅛-¼c higher in Chicago, ⅞c higher in Minneapolis, ⅜c higher in New York and 1⅜c up in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1⅛c higher in Duluth, unchanged in Chicago, ⅝-¾c higher in Minneapolis, ⅜c higher in New York and 1c up in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ¾-⅞c higher in Chicago and May oats ⅛c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Firmness characterized the early dealings in wheat and values at the opening were from 1½@1¾d higher. Offerings were light and support good, stimulated by the firmness in America yesterday, light Argentine shipments and decrease in the visible both in Argentina and in America. The nearby option as well as July showed further strength with an additional gain of ⅜@½d. The firmness in the spot markets and the heavy covering of shorts caused this advance. Toward midday, the demand appeared to have abated and longs started profit-taking, which resulted in some declines from the opening prices. At this time, the market was steady and from 1½d@1¾d higher than Thursday.

"Corn was steady and unchanged at the opening. Following this, the undertone became strong and the value of May at 1:30 p. m. was ⅞d higher than the opening. This strength was attributed to shorts covering on the firmness in spot, and the fact of no shipments to Liverpool from the United States last week."

Primary receipts of wheat were 220,000 bus, last year 710,000 bus. Shipments 229,000 bus, last year 411,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 88,140 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 521,000 bus, last year 516,000 bus. Shipments 277,000 bus, last year 704,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 3,000 bus.

Wheat was quiet after the first hour in the Duluth market. May wheat opened unchanged at $1.01 bid, advanced during the first hour to $1.03⅛, declined to $1.02⅛ and closed there, a gain of 1⅛c over yesterday. July wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.01½ bid, went to $1.03½ during the first hour, declined to $1.02½ and closed at that price, a gain of 1⅛c over yesterday. September wheat was inactive and closed ¼c higher than yesterday at 91c.

Durum wheat closed ⅜c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2¾c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was active and closed half a point up. May flax opened ⅛c higher at $1.17⅝, advanced to $1.17⅞, declined to $1.17⅝, reacted to $1.18⅛ and closed at $1.17⅞, a gain of ½c over yesterday. July flax opened ⅜c higher at $1.19⅝, declined to $1.19⅝, rallied to $1.20 and closed there, a gain of ½c over yesterday. September and October flax were inactive.

Coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Active and Strong, May Option Going Higher.

Chicago, April 21.—The wheat market today opened active and strong, the May option advancing one cent higher than the close of yesterday. Selling was light and the demand for May wheat was strong. July and September were firm because of reports that the rains in Kansas had been slight. Liverpool was reported as being 2d higher. May wheat opened ¼c to ⅞c higher, at 94¼c to 94⅞c and sold at 95⅛c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 290 cars against 192 cars last week and 729 cars one year ago.

Prices continued to advance until May touched 96¼c. From this point they reacted because of realizing sales. The close was strong, with May up 1⅛@1¼c at 95⅛@¼c.

Higher cables and the bulge in wheat caused a firm feeling in the corn market. May corn opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c higher at 66¼c to 66½c and sold at 66⅝c. Local receipts were 471 cars with 41 of contract grade.

The market became stronger as the session advanced, because of light receipts and in sympathy with wheat. The close was strong, with May ¾@⅞c higher, at 66⅞c.

The oats market was steady, in sympathy with wheat. May oats opened ⅛c higher at 53⅜c and for a time held around that figure. Local receipts were 321 cars.

The provisions market was easier because of a 10c decline in the hogs market. May pork was 2½c lower, at $12.77½. Lard was 5c lower at $7.90. Ribs were 7½c lower at $6.77½.

Close—Wheat: May, 95⅛@¼c; July, 87¼@⅜c; September, 83⅜. Corn—May, 66⅞c; July, 63⅛@¼c; September, 61⅝@¾c. Oats—May, old, 53⅜c; May, 51⅞c; July, old, 45⅜@½c; July, 43½c; September, 37@⅛c. Pork—May, $12.77½; July, $13.10@13.12½; September, $13.42½. Lard—May, $7.92½; July, $8.12½; September, $8.32½. Ribs—May, $6.80 @6.82½; July, $7.07½; September, $7.32½@7.35. Rye—Cash, 78@80c. Barley—Cash, 70@84c. Timothy—April, $4.25. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 95¼@98¼c; No. 3 red, 93¼@96¼c; No. 2 hard, 94¼c@$1.01¼; No. 3 hard, 91¼c@$1.00; No. 3 spring, 95c@$1.03; others, nothing doing. Corn—No. 2, nothing doing; No. 3, 64@65½c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Strong From Start and Advanced Another 2 Cents.

Minneapolis, April 21.—Strength was manifest from the opening and wheat advanced another 2 cents. Minneapolis receipts showed only 88 cars against 237, while in Duluth the remarkable comparison appeared of only 19 cars against 417. Minneapolis elevator stocks decreased 350,000 bushels for three days. May went up quickly to $1.05¼ and July followed to $1.03⅞, but this drew out selling and there was a decline towards the close. The market was very congested. May advanced a cent on the buying of 40,000 bushels and lost a cent on a sale of 60,000 bushels. May opened at $1.03; high, $1.05⅛; low, $1.03; closeed at $1.07⅞. July closed at $1.02½@⅝; September closed at 90½c.

Mixed conditions appeared in the cash market. No. 1 northern was quoted 2½c over May and No. 2 at 1½c over, but wheat out of elevators was reported later as selling at 1½c over No. 1 and ½c under May for No. 2. Late in the day No. 1 northern to arrive was offered at 2c over.

Cash close: No. 1 northern, $1.05⅝@1.06⅛ spot; $1.05⅝ to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.03⅝@1.04⅛ spot; $1.03⅝ to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 95⅝c@$1.00⅝; No. 3 yellow corn, 67¾c; No. 3 white oats, 49¼c; No. 2 rye, 71¾@74¾c.

Only one car came in today and barley was up 1c to 2c in early sales, 1c up later and about the same as yesterday on the last sales. Close, 58c to 80c. Flax strong and in good demand at 1c over Duluth May for No. 1. Close, $1.18⅝.

Bran firm, $21@21.25 in bulk.

Patents up 10c. Millers entered a larger number of orders yesterday and again today on the advances, but part of the business was at old prices and at the higher level of the last advance they report it hard to sell flour. Shipments 31,309 barrels. First patents, $5.25@5.55; second patents, $5.25@5.40; first clears, $4.10@5.25; second clears, $3.30@3.40.

Copper Gossip.

Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston, to Walter W. Carr: Our copper market today was somewhat lower with trading small and without feature. Metal prices from London were again lower and this had a depressing effect. Activity was in North Butte, Boston Consolidated and Greene-Cananea, but mostly in odd lots. We see nothing to affect the market at the moment and expect a dull narrow market to continue for the present with a sagging tendency.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: There was a rumor today that the Pennsylvania has placed $40,000,000 4 per cent long time bonds at a good price. If this is true, it is the most bullish news we have had for a long time. It will mean that the cash is available for railroad extension and will mean a renewal of business for the Steel company and the engine and car companies and a corresponding improvement in the metal market. Stocks closed at the best prices of the day and short interest will be run in tomorrow on confirmation of the bond sale. The remarks of the directors of the North Butte company were encouraging and the stock was well bought today. We figure they are earning about $5 a share on 13c copper and every cent advance in price will mean $1 more in earnings on the present output.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 21.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Farm orders show a decided decrease, which is offset by additional orders from the city teaming interests. A carload of horses were sold to one of the sub-railroad contractors from Montana. J. L. Record of the Minneapolis Steel & Machinery company purchased an extra fine bunch of mares for his large farm near Clinton, Minn. Two carloads of mixed saddle and carriage horses arrived on the market during the day, some of the shipment being high class quality.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Dull Most of Session, But More Active in Afternoon.

Gains Slightly Extended Near the Close, Which Was Strong.

New York, April 21.—Opening transactions in stocks today were so meager as to have no significance. National Lead declined ¾ and Republic Steel preferred a point. With these exceptions, none of the changes exceeded ½.

Trading at noon was listless and prices were little changed. The small advances were well held. American Beet Sugar declined 1; Pressed Steel Car preferred, 1½; Tennessee Copper, 1¾; Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati & St. Louis, 3, and Third Avenue, 4⅞. Bonds were irregular.

Stocks were in scant supply at ruling prices and bids were raised. Canadian Pacific gained 2 and Union Pacific, Consolidated Gas and the United States Steel stocks, 1. Kansas City Southern preferred and Manhattan sagged 2.

Purchases in the afternoon dwindled and the market became reactionary. Canadian Pacific lost about all of its 2-point advance and Illinois Central fell as much below yesterday's closing. Recessions otherwise were small. Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred yielded 1.

The market closed quiet and strong. The demand became more active and gains were slightly extended, Union Pacific and United States Steel rising Reading second preferred rose 1, American Smelting 1⅜. Chicago, St. Paul, 1½. Amalgamated Copper, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha preferred 5; Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie declined 2¼ and Federal Mining preferred 2.

The Cotton Market

New York, April 21.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 6@9 points and during the early session sold at a net loss of 12@15 points under renewed liquidation, and bear pressure, which was encouraged by weak Liverpool cables and very unsettling reports concerning trade conditions abroad. There was heavy covering at the decline, which carried prices into new low ground. During the middle of the morning prices rallied 2 to 3 points from the lowest, although the undertone continued very nervous and unsettled.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points advance; middling uplands, 10.00; middling gulf, 10.25; sales, none. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: April, 8.48; May, 8.54; June, 8.60; July, 8.68; August, 8.61; September, 8.62; October, 8.66; November, 8.65; December, 8.68; January, 8.69; March, 8.70.

HEAVY SNOW FALLS IN GERMAN EMPIRE.

WANTS RETRACTION.

Washington, April 21.—William Loeb, Jr., secretary to the president, today made public a letter written to Representative Sims of Tennessee, in reply to Mr. Sims' speech in the house yesterday regarding Mr. Loeb's connection with the Washington Railway & Electric company. PUBLISHERS ASK RELIEF

Representatives of 774 Newspapers Adopt Address to President.

Representatives of 774 daily newspapers gathered at the annual meeting of the Associated Press, respectfully ask the president and congress to grant immediate relief from the exactions of combinations of papermakers. In September, 1907, and again in November, 1907, the attention of the authorities was directed to the excessive prices then demanded by the paper combination.

"Immediately upon the assembling of congress, twenty or more bills aiming to correct these conditions and to put paper and pulp on the free list were introduced and referred to the ways and means committee. Persistent efforts to obtain a hearing have been refused. Dilatory tactics have been employed to prolong present conditions and to carry over to another session of congress every proposition designed for relief. All newspapers here represented protest against delay.

"Attention is also directed to the false reports of news print paper prices which were recently furnished to congress by the directors of the census bureau. The newspapers here represented use approximately 80 per cent of the news print paper consumed in the United States. We denounce the quotations as submitted to congress as misleading and unworthy of credence. The reiteration of the accuracy of these figures of the director after the error had been called to public attention tends to shake public confidence and respect for statistics thus compiled."

SARAH MARRIED.

New York Heiress Said to Have Wed Ensign Collins.

San Francisco, April 21.—The Examiner today publishes a dispatch from Los Angeles, saying that Sarah Delano, the wealthy Mamaronck, N. Y., heiress, was married there on Saturday night last, to Ensign Julius H. Collins of the cruiser Charleston. Miss Delano was involved some time ago in a marriage with Capt. Albert Deane Reid, an Englishman, at one time an officer in the guards, who was subsequently prosecuted for bigamy.

ANOTHER MAN MISSING.

Wealthy Cigar Manufacturer Accompanied MacCleverty.

San Francisco, April 21.—Besides Capt. C. MacCleverty, who is reported lost in the wilderness of Lower California, somewhere between La Pas and Magdalena Bay, there is also C. Taeger, a rich cigar merchant of Vera Cruz, who is said to have accompanied MacCleverty in his daring journey across the desert and over the mountains to catch the fleet before it sailed for San Diego. No word has come from either MacCleverty or his companion, and the old Spanish guide, who had been hired to lead them on their 120-mile trip, is also missing.

GLAZIER'S PETITION DENIED BY JUDGE.

Lansing, Mich., April 21.—Judge Weist of the Ingham county circuit court, today denied the petition of ex-State Treasurer Frank P. Glazier of Chelsea, for a change of venue for his trial on the charge of embezzlement and misapplication of state funds. Over $600,000 of state funds were on deposit in the Chelsea Savings bank last December when the crisis in Mr. Glazier's affairs resulted in the failure of the bank, from which he had borrowed heavily. Judge Weist, in denying the petition, declared that there was nothing in the state of public opinion in Ingham county as to Glazier which would prevent him having a fair trial.

FRUIT REFUSED THEM.

Doukhobors in Port Arthur Jail Go Without Eating.

Port Arthur, Ont. April 21.—The Port Arthur authorities refuse to feed the nineteen Doukhobors, in jail here, fruit, and the Doukhobors up to today have gone four days without food, although there is plenty of prison fare within reach if they will take it. LEG THROUGH CEILING.

Guests at McKay Hotel Startled by an Unusual Accident.

Guests of the McKay hotel were startled today by the appearance of a human leg being thrust rudely, not to say boisterously, through the ceiling. Plaster and broken laths preceded the intrusion of the foot. It was like a miniature shower of Mount Vesiuvus. Some thought the roof was falling through, while the clerk, who received most of the shower of plaster, ducked to avoid the deluge.

It was a bell boy who had made a misstep. David Frederickson, the bell boy, was sent to the second floor upon some errand. They are doing some plumbing on this floor, and the flooring had been removed in a dark spot. While hurrying along, the bell boy stepped into the cavity and came near going straight through to the next floor. He caught himself on the floor support and held on until one of the plumbers rescued him.

No one was hurt, not even the boy, but some of the guests were shocked by the sudden appearance of the leg and the falling plaster.

Crookston, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. G. Klinger and Christ Nelson, brothers-in-law, were fined $12.50 each by Judge McLean here yesterday under pleas of guilty of seining in Maple lake. Deputy Game Warden W. F. Munich caught the two red handed in the act of raising their net Saturday night and brought them here.

Reid intends to remove the wreck this season, and the government officials will look into the situation. On the return trip, Ashland will be visited. The cruise will occupy about a week.

TO INVESTIGATE.

Grand Jury to Look After Manufacturers of Manila Paper.

New York, April 21.—It became known today that a federal grand jury is about to begin an investigation of several of the largest concerns manufacturing Manila wrapping paper in this state. The purpose of the inquiry is to ascertain whether or not the manufacturers are conducting their business under an agreement in restraint of trade, and in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The officers of some of the manufacturers who were not affiliated with the International Paper company have been subpoened to appear before the federal grand jury in this city tomorrow. This investigation is believed to have no connection with the government's inquiry into the affairs of the so-called paper trust and it is understood, does not involve these companies which make a specialty of the manufacture of white print paper for newspapers.

My own wires to Copper Country. Also connections to Eastern Markets.

Butte & Ballaklava is fast crawling toward the point of becoming one of the greatest copper producers of Butte Hill. They are now hoisting ore from the 500-foot level into the ore bins and onto the dump. The Edith May, on the 500-foot level runs from 20 per cent to 35 per cent copper, and carrying silver values from 20 ounces to 97 ounces to the ton. On the 700-foot level the stations have been cut, and drifting has begun, and inside of the next three days this level should show up some of the greatest deposits of ores known to the Butte camp. Ballaklava should be as big a producer of high grade ore inside of two years as the North Butte property, for with over 3,600 feet of vein matter on the hill, there is no limit to its producing ability. This stock should gradually climb up to $40 a share this year.

There seems to be heavy buying of Calumet & Sonora stock from the South and East, and inasmuch as there are only forty-three thousand (43,000) shares issued, it is pretty hard to tell from the brokers' point of view, how high the stock will sell. Stronger men are becoming interested in this property, and it looks as if this mine would soon become one of the biggest producers in the Cananea district. If there becomes a general buying movement in this stock, and the mine looks good to the big fellows, Calumet & Sonora will sell anywhere from fifty dollars ($50.00) to one hundred dollars ($100.00) a share. The Greene-Cananea is now selling at the rate of twenty million, and this mine lies alongside of their property.

Shattuck is without question one of the best buys on the board, and if the people of our city would buy this stock while there is a little friction on between the insiders, they will all make big money, for the Shattuck mine could produce 600 tons of ore a day at the present time. Our correspondents in Bisbee say that it is just as big a mine as the Calumet & Arizona.

Butte & Superior, one of the favorites of the Butte camp is selling around $1 a share. Buy this stock to a standstill, for sooner or later this mine will make good. They have the biggest vein in the Butte camp, and when drifting begins on the 1,200-foot level they should encounter big ore values, both in silver and copper. Our wires reach all over the United States, and we can give you the best of service. Give us your business.

We are, tonight, in a position where we can trade you 1,000 shares of Greene-Cananea for 1,000 Calumet & Sonora, and give you some money besides.

CANNOT FIND MISSING MEN

Long Search Fails to Locates Bodies of Pine River Residents.

Pine River, Minn., April 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—After searching two nights and a day with search lights and dynamite, a gang of fifty men have been unable to find the bodies of Henry Moberg and Sam Glover, who are supposed to have been drowned in Lake Lizzie, eighth miles east of here, Sunday. Moberg's pipe, an oar, a boat seat and the false bottom of the boat have floated ashore.

Sherd Chambers, who was yesterday bound over to the district court on the charge of grand larceny with conclusive evidence, this morning made his escape from the sheriff, who left him in charge of a bystander, while he answered a call in the telephone booth. Chambers is an experienced woodsman and trapper and will be hard to recapture.

AGAINST THE STANDARD OIL

Roumania Government Objects to Petroleum Combine.

Bucharest, Roumania, April 21.—The Roumanian government has laid before the chamber of deputies a bill directed against the petroleum combine. This action is a result of the agitation against the Standard Oil company, which the Roumanian oil dealers have carried on for some time. Several municipalities where the Standard Oil company has attempted to establish oil tanks have made regulations, particularly in the matter of taxes, which have made it practically impossible for the Roumanians to conduct business. Minister of Finance Costinescu, speaker in the chamber, in behalf of the proposed measure, said, amid unanimous applause:

"The Americans say America for the Americans; we will say Roumania for the Roumanians."

The American-Roumania commercial convention, which was signed April 16, made exception of the petroleum industry, concerning which the government reserved freedom of action.

IF

You were out of a job—wanted and needed one to supply bread and clothing, you wouldn't think of walking into every store and office in the city and personally asking for work, would you? If you did, it would be slow, tiresome work—and look at the time consumed—you could starve before you saw everybody.

This method of asking for and securing work is out of date. The new, quick, sure, profitable way is The Herald "Want" ad way.

The cost for a Herald "want" ad is but a trifle, and every business man in Duluth reads The Herald.

CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN, EX-PREMIER, PASSES AWAY

British Liberal Leader Dies After Two Months' Illness.

Was a Notable Character In Politics for Many Years.

Recently Resigned Office and Was Succeeded by Asquith.

London, April 22.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, former British premier, died at 9:15 o'clock this morning at his official residence, No. 10 Downing street. The end was peaceful.

The death of Sir Henry, after a lingering illness of more than two months, did not come as a surprise. Although the doctor's bulletins had not declared his condition critical, that fact was perfectly understood and the public had been expecting the announcement of his end at any hour during the past fortnight. The news came in the form of the following bulletin issued at 10:30 o'clock this morning:

"Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman passed peacefully away at 9:15 o'clock this morning. The cause of his death was heart failure. (Signed) "R. W. Burnet."

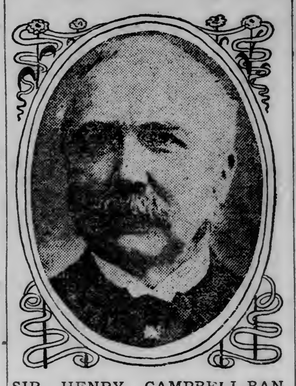

In the death chamber when the ex-premier breathed his last were his niece, Mrs. Campbell, who had acted as Sir Henry's host since the death of Lady Campbell-Bannerman, a little more than a year ago; Dr. Burnet, who was Mr. Campbell-Bannerman's personal physician, and who had been in constant attendance during his long illness, and Sir Henry's butler.

The ex-premier had been unconscious most of the time during the last two or three days, and his sinking was gradual. A few hours before his death telegrams were dispatched to King Edward, who, with Queen Alexandra, is visiting the Danish royal family at Copenhagen; the prince of Wales and the cabinet ministers. Immediately reporters were keeping vigil before the house of the dying statesman, but the only news handed to them was in the form of a bulletin, more than an hour after his death. A few minutes thereafter a crowd assembled in Downing street, but all persons were barred from approaching the house by a cordon of police.

Sir Henry's final dates from Feb. 12

OPPOSED TO OUTSIDERS

Congress Wants Commissions Named From Its Own Bodies.

Members Generally Object to Commissions of Any Kind.

Washington, April 22.—Congress is preparing to go on record against the policy of drafting legislation through commissions authorized for that purpose. Three propositions for the establishment of important commissions have been suggested in the present session, and may have to be disposed of before adjournment. The principal one of these commissions is that proposed to investigate tariff conditions and plan the revision that will take place next year. Another commission, now in prospect, is that before the house in connection with financial legislation, and a third has been suggested by the National Civic Federation. The last named would provide for a general review of legislation affecting capital and labor, with the object of suggesting amendments to the Sherman anti-trust laws, after the manner provided by the Hepburn bill, which was advocated by the president in a special message to congresss.

The leaders of the senate and house have given the subject of the appointment of commissions considerable thought recently, and have reached the conclusion that any such bodies

PLANS FOR A NEW RAILROAD

United States Steel Corporation to Have One Built.

Chicago, April 22.—The Inter Ocean today says: That the United States Steel corporation is in earnest in its reported plans for a railway to connect Milwaukee, Wis., Gary, Ind., and Joliet, Ill., was made evident yesterday when a trust deed was executed to the St. Louis Trust company at St. Louis for $20,000,000 to provide funds for the road.

The plans grew out of the failure of the Milwaukee-Southern deal, which road was to connect Milwaukee and East St. Louis by way of Joliet and by acquisition of the Illinois, Iowa & Minnesota railway. Of the money raised at St. Louis, $5,500,000 is to pay for the latter road, which will form part of the new system.

It is understood that the Steel corporation is working through St. Louis capitalists in securing the construction of the new road, which will connect the Allis-Chalmers company's plant and the Bay View Rolling mills of the Illinois Steel company at Milwaukee, with the Steel corporation's Gary's mills and the Joliet plant of the Illinois Steel company.

The Steel corporation has, it is understood, considerable interest in the Allis Chalmers company, which is working on a $15,000,000 contract for the Gary mills.

There have been heavy transfers of land along the proposed right of way of the new road near Milwaukee recently, and it is said that the preliminary work has all been done.

The new road will be a Steel corporation belt line around Chicago, interesting every railway entering the city.

SALOONS SUCCESSFUL IN ILLINOIS ELECTIONS.

Chicago, April 22.—The saloon forces were generally successful in the forty or more towns and villages of Illinois, which voted on local option question yesterday. Definite figures are lacking, but it seems certain that not more than 100 saloons were voted out of business, the larger communities almost without exception voting to retain their licenses for dram shops.

YOUNG MINER KILLED.

Stambaugh, Mich., April 22.—While descending in the cage of the Beresford mine of the Oglebay, Norton Co., here, Oscar Carlson, a miner aged 26, was struck on the head by a cross bar of the cage, which had accidentally been loosened, and instantly killed.

R. R. OFFICIALS SUBPOENAED

Four Prominent Men Summoned Before Federal Grand Jury.

St. Louis, April 22.—Subpoenas were served, last night, summoning four prominent railroad officials to appear and testify before the federal grand jury in Kansas City, April 30. From the railroad records they have been ordered to produce, it is understood that the inquiry is to be along rebate lines.

Subpoenas were served on R. E. Berger, auditor of the Wabash freight accounts; William Q. Marcon, holding the same position with the Missouri Pacific; James D. Nettleship, auditor of the Frisco freight accounts, and L. Lee West, assistant general freight agent for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas road. A subpoena was also forwarded to United States Marshal Morsey, here, from the United States district court at Kansas City for F. J. Hoffmann, general freight agent of the M. K. & T., in Oklahoma and Kansas, but Dr. Hoffmann is temporarily absent from the city.

The subpoenas for the various officials call for the production of way bills and other records of freight shipments before the Kansas City grand jury.

WANTS GIRL WITH FARM.

Young Iowan Supposed He Was Buying Bride With Land.

Clinton, Iowa, April 22.—After Koenig, in America only a few weeks, bought a farm because the owner of the land, John Engle, told him jokingly he could have his daughter if he made the purchase, was arrested when he tried to take possession of the girl. The parties live near the little town of Tampico.

After the real estate transaction Koenig visited the Engle home repeatedly, paying marked attention to pretty Bertha Engle, although he could not speak a word of English. His attentions finally became so obnoxious that the girl caused his arrest. An interpreter was engaged and the actions of young Koenig were explained. He told the court he simply was insisting upon his rights; that the girl had been promised him as part of the purchase.

Koenig was released after the judge explained to him that young women were not bought and sold after that manner in the United States.

BIG CROOKSTON ROBBERY.

Money, Watches and Clothing Are Taken by Burglars.

Crookston, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Burglars removed the panel of the rear door in the Rolch block last night and took $250 from the safe in John Smith's billiard hall. The same gang opened the rear door of the Guarantee Clothing company and took seven watches and a large amount of clothing. There is no clue.

HARVARD AND NAVY

Will Meet at Annapolis in Eight-Oared Race.

First Time Crews of Institutions Have Ever Contested.

Annapolis, Md., April 22.—For the first time in the history of the two institutions, eight-oared crews, representing Harvard university and the Naval academy will meet this afternoon. The race will be over the two-mile inner course, on the Severn river. While there has been a constant wind since the Harvard crew arrived here last week for practice, this morning dawned bright and minus the wind. The waters of the Severn, at 9 o'clock, were as nearly ideal for the contest as was the sky above, and barring some unexpected weather condition, there is every indication that the race will be started

MORE AUTOISTS ARE INJURED

Two Hurt on Course on Which Tuesday's Accidents Occured.

White Plains, N. Y., April 22.—The Briar Cliff Automobile race course, on which four men were injured yesterday, when a racing car plunged through a bridge and into a stream, was the scene of two more accidents today. In one of these accidents, George Robertson, who will drive a car in the 300-mile race over the course next Friday, was bruised and shaken up, but not seriously hurt. His car swerved and plunged into a ditch, near Armonk. Fortunately the driver was thrown clear of the car and landed on the soft turf along the side of the course.

The other man injured today was A. J. Campbell, who was to have driven one of the machines in the Friday race. While making a second circuit of the thirty-mile course at a high rate of speed, his car crashed into a telegraph pole. Campbell was pinned beneath the wrecked car, and when he was taken out it was found that his jaw bone had been broken and that he had a bad scalp wound. The car will be repaired in time to take part in the race.

A DEMONSTRATION FOR JOHNSON PROBABLE AT ILLINOIS CONVENTION

Platform May Censure Church for Meddling With Politics.

Springfield, Ill., April 22.—A probable demonstration in favor of Johnson and a certain vote for Bryan instructions are the developments looked for in tomorrow's Democratic state convention.

It is generally believed that when Johnson's name is mentioned in the convention, there will be a demonstration of approval, but it is not expected that any practical use will be made of the enthusiasm, no matter how great or how small it may prove to be. From present indications the convention will certainly instruct for Bryan, and the

IS UPPERCUT BY HIS FORMER WIFE

Grand Forks Man Gets Anything But Pleasant Reception.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was lots of excitement in the home of Mrs. Thea Arnovitch, formerly Mrs. John Goldstein, yesterday afternoon, when her former husband put in an appearance, accompanied by a policeman, and asked that he be allowed to see his children. She told him he could not come in, but the officer explained that it was the court's orders that he should be allowed to see the children, and so John and the officer went in the house. Before entering, Goldstein intimated that the reason Mrs. Arnovitch did not want him to come in was because David Boobes was within. His contention proved correct, for when they entered Boobes was found, and he called Goldstein vile names, the latter asserts. Mrs. Arnovitch joined in this, and finally struck John an uppercut in the face. The policeman persuaded John that it would be wise for him to leave, and he did so.

Last night Goldstein declared that he would secure a warrant and have his former wife arrested and brought into court on a charge of assault and battery. He also stated that he proposed to have the children taken from her custody and would have action brought in court at an early date.

J. Y. SANDERS, Elected Governor of Louisiana by the Democrats Tuesday.

TURKS WERE SURPRISED

Did Not Think Italy Would Act With Such Promptness.

Constantinople, April 22.—The promptness with which Italy resolved to take coercive measures against Turkey appears to have taken the porte and diplomatic circles somewhat by surprise. Nobody here imagined that the question of the establishment of Italian postoffices on Turkish territory would lead to a crisis. On the contrary, it was generally believed that Italy would quietly open the postoffices as the other powers did, without further discussion of the matter with the Turkish government, and then wait and see if the porte interfered with the working of these offices.

The conviction prevails here that the projected Italian naval demonstration was not merely intended to bring about a settlement of the postoffice question, but was for the purpose of adjusting other matters long pending, like the Italian coasting trade, the rights of Italians freely to purchase property of Turkish territory, and the Tripoli situation arising from the murder of an Italian missionary.

TAWNEY HURT IN COLLISION OF CARS

Minnesota Congressman Injured in Washington Wreck.

Two Street Cars Come Together at the Capital.

Washington, April 22.—Representative Tawney of Minnesota, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, was injured in the back, Representative John C. Chaney of Indiana was painfully injured on the hip and a score of other passengers suffered slight injuries as a result of a rear-end collision on the Pennsylvania avenue line of the Capital Traction company at Four-and-a-Half street and the avenue today.

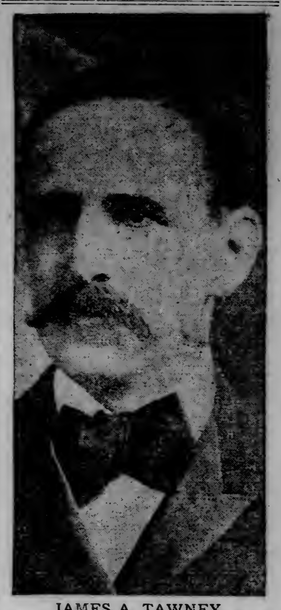

A heavy Mount Pleasant car was speeding rapidly behind a Georgetown car and the motorman of the former claims the accident was caused by the brakes of his car refusing to work. Benjamin F. Oden, private secretary to Representative Flood of Virginia, was among those shaken up by the accident. Frederick L. Trowbridge of Newton, Mass., manager of the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston, was a passenger on the Georgetown car, but escaped serious injury. The accident delayed street car traffic on Pennsylvania avenue for half an hour.

Injuries Not Serious.

Hospital ambulances and patrol wagons were summoned to the scene but none of those injured would go to the hospital for treatment. None of them received any cuts or serious bruises and Representatives Tawney and Chaney proceeded to the capitol explaining that they had been only shaken up by the collision. Many of those who were seated in the summer car attached as a trailer to the Georgetown car were thrown from their seats, one of the passengers, Mrs. G. G. Griffin, who is employed in the Congressional library, being thrown from the car.

The Georgetown train, east bound, had stopped and was just starting when one of the big yellow cars which had come from the Mount Pleasant division crashed into the rear end of the trailer with force enough to do considerable damage and frighten many of the passengers. Motorman Knighton of the Mount Pleasant car remained at his post, when he saw the collision was inevitable, but was uninjured. The noise of the impact and the crashing of the glass caused a large crowd to assemble. It was not until a considerable time after the accident that all the passengers left the scene and the disabled cars were moved to the barn.

Police Captain Byrnes directed that a thorough investigation of the accident be made but, in view of the motorman's statement that his brakes refused to work, he thought there would be no criminal proceedings. Witnesses of the accident told the police that they saw the motorman make an effort to stop the car.

FRANKS ARE ENJOINED

Judge Kohlsaat Issues Injunction Against Express Companies.

Must Not Transport Property in Exchange for Passes.

Chicago, April 22.—Judge C. C. Kohlsaat, in the United States circuit court, issued an injunction today against five express companies restraining them from issuing express franks and from transporting property in interstate commerce in exchange for franks. The companies enjoined are the National, American, Wells Fargo, United States and Adams.

Judge Kohlsaat's decision, which is the outcome of the suits filed several months ago by District Attorney Edwin W. Sims, declares that the issuance of franks by the companies is a violation of the Interstate commerce law. The decision is regarded by the federal prosecutor as of special importance for the reason that the cases against the express company depend to a large extent on the construction to be placed on the restriction against passes collected in a provision of the railroad rate law. The suits were brought, Mr. Sims said, to settle questions growing out of the application of Interstate commerce laws to express companies.

DECORATION FOR BOYNTON

Washington, April 22.—The Post prints the following: The emperor of Japan, through Ambassador Takahira, has conferred upon Col. Charles A. Boynton, superintendent of the Southern division of the Associated Press, the decoration of the fourth class of the Imperial Order of Rising Sun. In transmitting the decoration, which is an exquisite product of the Japanese art, the ambassador stated that it was given in token of the good will entertained toward Col. Boyton by the emperor and manifestation of the appreciation of the high ability and fairness of Mr. Boynton in the exercise of his functions as a directing spirit in the great news concern, which he represents.

Col. Boynton comes from a family of distinguished newspapermen, he being a brother of the late Gen. Henry Van Ness Boynton, and the son of Charles Boynton, editor of the Christian Nation of Cincinnati, on which publication he received his first newspaper experience. He was born Sept. 30, 1836, at Stockbridge, Mass., and went with his parents to Cincinnati. He was educated in the Knox college, Illinois. After the apprenticeship with his father he entered the service of the Western Associated Press as its New York representative. In 1894 he was promoted to his present position, with headquarters in this city. He is a member of the Gridiron club, but aside from his connections with societies he is one of the most widely known newspapermen in America.

FIRES LIGHT UP HEAVENS

Extensive Damage Reported in Vicinity of Crookston.

School House Burned and Family Has a Narrow Escape.

Crookston, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The granary of John Bonty, containing seed grain and four stacks of unthreshed wheat, were burned, yesterday afternoon, by a prairie fire, six miles north of here. The schoolhouse across the road was also burned. Bonty's barn and house would also have gone, and his family been cremated, but for Charles Solberg and John Dunn of this city, who happened by. The wife and children took refuge in a potato patch, and nearly dashing through the fire by Solberg, suffocated. The panic-stricken woman was restrained with difficulty from He chopped a hole through the room and Dunn carried water from a slough and put out the fire, which caught in the house repeatedly.

Dorothy Mullen, a teacher, had a trunk burned in the schoolhouse. The same fire swept northeast and destroyed hundreds of tons of hay and other farm buildings. Fires in all directions lit up the heavens last night.

PASSENGER TRAIN IS TURNED BACK

Ashland, Wis., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires have been making their appearance at various points along the south shore of Lake Superior since Saturday night. Dense volume of smoke appeared then at several places and there is considerable smoke today. The Wisconsin Central passenger train this morning was unable to get past North York, a few miles south of Ashland, and was obliged to reach Ashland by the way of Ironwood. A number of cars are reported burned at York. The weather is very dry. A general forest fire will probably never occur again in Northern Wisconsin, but considerable local damage is possible.

Norway Ridge, Wis., April 22.—Forest fires near here are doing heavy damage to timber in eastern Monroe county. This region has been extensively planted with young timber with the intention of replacing the original forests, but the spreading of the fires threatens the entire destruction of the timber and will put back the work of re-forestation several years.

Testimony was given before the courthouse site appraisers, this morning, showing that Mrs. Spalding values her property at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue west and Second street, at from $57,000 to $60,000. The real estate is figured in at from $50,000 to $53,000 and the brick residence at $27,000. The house is said to have cost the last mentioned sum when it was erected many years ago.

The county maintains that the real estate comprising the Spalding property is worth not more than $17,350 and the residence is worth about $21,000.

This afternoon the appraisers are hearing the final testimony in regard to the Spalding property, when they will adjourn until Monday and at that time consider the valuations to be placed on the Thomson and Miller properties on Second street.

FIREMEN AND ENGINEERS

Gather at St. Paul for Meeting of International Brotherhood.

St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A three-days' international meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers began in the old capitol building today, which will conclude Friday evening with a supper and ball in Elks' hall. It is expected that about 1,000 members of the order from every part of the United States, Mexico and Canada will attend the session. The sessions will be secret.

A public meeting is to be held this evening in the old capitol, at which Justice E. A. Jaggard, Insurance Commissioner J. A. Hartigan, Corporation Attorney J. C. Michael and Dan W. Lawler will speak. Tomorrow evening the railway officials of lines running out of St. Paul have been invited to attend the meeting. Among the national officers of the order who will speak and participate in the work at the secret sessions are: Grand Master J. J. Hanrahan of Peoria, Ill., and Vice Grand Masters A. J. Kelly of Chicago and E. A. Ball of Toronto.

One of the purposes of the meeting is to pave the way for bringing the national convention of the order to St. Paul in 1910. The national meeting is to be held in Columbus, Ohio, next September.

Nice Spring Day.

Duluth has been enjoying ideal spring weather today.

The temperature was around 55 degs. at noon and afterward. A breeze was blowing, which kept the mercury down farther than the warmth of the sun warranted. The wind was not too strong nor too chilly, however.

It seems remarkable for this region, but nothing can be considered remarkable in a month which chronicles a day warmer here than other places in the country except Jacksonville, Fla.

It might be midsummer, as far as W. B. Patton's yard, 1101 East Fourth street, is concerned, for some healthy tulips are blossoming there.

ANSWERS CHARGES

Albert M. Nelson Denies Wife's Allegations of Cruel Treatment.

Files Cross-Bill Accusing Her of Treating Him Badly.

The Nelson divorce case has bobbed up in the district court again. Albert Nelson, who was sued for a divorce by Ida Nelson, on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment, desertion and non-support, has filed an answer, making a general denial of the allegations of his wife, and instituting a counter claim for a decree for himself, on the ground that Mrs. Nelson has treated him cruelly and has deserted him.

Mrs. Nelson is 25 years old and her husband is 30. They were married in January, 1907, and their troubles appear to have commenced shortly after the wedding.

Nelson denies that Mrs. Nelson was a dutiful wife. He denies that he deserted her, and had to be arrested and taken in court to make him go back to her. Nelson denies that when sent after medicine for his wife he spent the evening at the "Met," watching the girls in tights do the high kicking stunt. He merely visited the theater two hours, to fill time while the druggist was compounding the prescription.

Nelson claims that he is unable to earn a fair salarw by reason of the injuries he received in being beaten up by two men, whom he alleges assaulted him at the instigation of his wife. He claims that his 80-acre farm is worth but $800, instead of $6,000, as Mrs. Nelson alleges.

The case came on for a hearing some weeks ago, but was not determined at that time. It will come up for trial again at the May term of court.

DOES NOT HELP STATE.

C. A. Congdon's Testimony Confirms the Estimate of the Appraisers

In the testimony of Chester A. Congdon of this city, as to the values of alleged iron ore property in Northern Minnnesota, belonging to the Frank W. Higgins' estate, the state did not obtain much to confirm its claim that the value of property was under-estimated by the appraisers.

The state is attempting to prove, in the probate court, that the estate in Minnesota is worth from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, instead of $308,000, on which latter amount was based the state inheritance tax. Mr. Congden's figures varied but little from those of the appraisers. The hearing was resumed this morning.

DROPS DEAD ON STREET.

Peter Gregory, a Stillwater Character, Expires Suddenly.

Stillwater, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Gregory, a well known character, fell on the sidewalk on Pine street yesterday afternoon and expired immediately. He was walking along a short distance east of South Third street when he was seen to fall. Before any one could reach his side he was dead.

In falling his forehead struck the curb, making a wound from which the blood oozed and some blood came from the mouth and nose. Coroner F. G. Landeen was summoned and made an examination. It was not apparent that the fall had caused death as the end came quickly and the presumption is that heart disease was the cause.

The dead man has been a familiar person about this city for years. So far as known he had no relatives in this vicinity. He was about 57 years old.

PROMOTER IN TROUBLE.

James Lambrecht Charged With Getting Money by Fraud.

Fargo, N. D., April 22.—James J. Lambrecht, president of the Northwestern Interurban railroad was arrested last night on a warrant sworn to by John Haas, a prominent liquor dealer of Moorhead, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with a town site deal at Lake Comorant, Minn. The proposed road is being promoted by Lambrecht and friends to run from Fargo to Detroit Lakes, Minn. Bail was fixed at $3,500. Lambrecht is well known in insurance circles in Minneapolis and is prominently connected at St. Paul.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

In addition to the housecleaning season, and the spell devoted to the entertainment of the spring dressmaker, the church societies of the city have also been more than usually busy during the spring weeks. The tieing of the comforters for the new Y. M. C. A. building has occupied the attention of a large percentage of Duluth women. Ninety of the comforters are spoken for and a good share of them are already tied. Some of the most enjoyable of very informal affairs have been the all-day church sessions of old-fashioned quilting bees, when the soft, warm, silkoline comforts were tied in the even and necessary tufts.

The women of Pilgrim Congregational church held an all-day session today. The circles of this church will have tied thirty comforts, when those now under construction are finished.

The women of the Presbyterian church will also tie thirty as their contribution toward the new home of the Young Men's Christian association, and the women's societies of the Baptist church will tie a like number.

The secretary of the association has not solicited this aid, but the offer has been voluntary on the part of those societies who have undertaken the work. There are still a few comforters remaining that the association will be glad to have tied by any little group of women so inclined.

PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS

Discussed by Field Secretary Before Club Women.

"For one-twelfth of its life a cat is a kitten," said Les F. Hanmer, field secretary of the National Playground association, yesterday afternoon, at his lecture before the club women of the city, at library hall. "One-tenth of a horse's life is needed to mature its powers, but one-third of the human life is used in the preparation for living the remaining two-thirds. In this there is food for thought, and one of the most vital questions to be considered is providing the proper places for the exercise and development of the children of our cities. Jane Addams put it rather strongly when she said that a growing boy will not choose to sit in a hot, dusty street to shoot craps, if around the corner there is a cool, fresh and inviting bathing pool and grass to be enjoyed."

Mr. Hanmer urged the women of the audience to make a beginning in some way for playgrounds for the children of the city, either by the formation of an association, or by one or two model grounds maintained for a while by private philanthropy, which may be pointed to as objects of what may be accomplished.

"The movement in many cities starts with the women's clubs, as do most of the efforts along the lines of civic improvement," said the speaker, "and now is the time for the first effort, for although your city is not yet built up compactly, and there are still many open spaces, the time will soon come when the lands for playgrounds will not be available, and in order to secure it large sums of money will need to be expended."

The meeting was not largely attended, but the women present were gratly interested in the subject, and following the lecture, an informal discussion was held.

Mr. Hanmer addressed the members of the Commercial club last evening on the subject of public playgrounds. His talk was finely illustrated by well chosen stereopticon slides, showing public breathing places in many cities of this country.

STUDIO RECEPTION.

Duluth Art School Managers to Receive May 2.

A self supporting art school was the ideal in view of the women of the board of managers when the Duluth Art school was started, and the experience of almost all other schools of this kind to the contrary the outlook now is most promising for the self supporting school. Those who had been identified with the beginnings of art schools in older communities were pessimistic in their attitude toward a self supporting school of this sort as the establishment of such a school has in almost every case required years of great effort before the institution was placed on a self supporting basis. Although the Duluth school has been in existence but a few weeks the outlook now is most promising for an independent organization. Much of this success has been made possible through the courtesy of the school board in allowing the use of the third floor of the Washington school building for art rooms.

The board of managers of the school will receive at an informal studio tea at the school, Saturday, May 2. The reception will be a public one for those interested in the new school and its work. A meeting of the board of managers will be held Tuesday afternoon of next week at the library.

Bridal Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Abraham entertained at the bridal dinner last evening at the Spalding in honor of their daughter, Miss Claire Abraham and Dr. Arthur H. Schwartz, whose wedding will take place this evening. The table decorations were in pink roses, and covers were laid for the members of the bridal party and the out-of-town guests.

Honor Mrs. Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stephenson entertained informally last evening in honor of Mrs. Cuyler Adams, who has been their house guest for several days. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Comstock will be hosts at dinner this evening in compliment to Mrs. Adams.

Alliance Banquet.

The Methodist Alliance banquet will be served at the First Methodist church, this evening, at 6:30 o'clock. The pastors and members of the Methodist churches throughout the city will be guests at the affair, and the dinner will be followed by a program of toasts.

Dancing Party.

The members of the Bachelors' club will be entertained at a dancing party, Friday evening, at the old Masonic Temple. The affair will be the last for the season.

For Mr. and Mrs. Bishop.

Among the hostesses for the week in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bishop will be Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marshall, who will enterain at dinner Saturday evening in their honor. Judge and Mrs. Page Morris will entertain at dinner Friday evening in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, who will leave Sunday for Chicago.

Personal Mention.

DECEPTIVE WOMAN.

Truth in the Sex—Scarce and Undesirable.

Every now and then we find a woman who does not tell lies. Once in a lifetime we find a woman who tells the truth. The difference is an intellectual one, and depends upon a recognition of that which constitutes truth, says an exchange.

For years women have been deceiving themselves. For years they have treated themselves as an indulgent audience before whom they enact the little play of life. Now deception forms one of their recognized virtues. It amounts to unwomanliness to be perfectly frank. How much this is true was evidenced by a remark made the other day by a very young and enthusiastic man, who, it is not necessary to add, was truthful with himself. "I love that primitive dissimulation in your sex," said he. "It's g reat. I wouldn't marry a woman without it."

That is about the state of things. Though most men would deny it, they distrust a woman whom they can absolutely trust. There is a certain fascination in the thought of the stealthiness of the kitten who plays so prettily at your feet. It gives one the same precarious feeling as tenting around Vesuvius. And most men would rather look forward to a life of wheedling and dainty cajoleries with the girl in "Man and Sepman," than they would to a prospect of serene understanding with David Copperfield's Agnes.

Now and then, however, in spite of the prohibitive masculine fancy for deception, we find a woman who is absolutely and superbly honest with herself. She doesn't go through life "just pretending" that she is a noble and misunderstood creature, and that she is always right and that the other person is always wrong. If she doesn't possess the conventional sentiments, she tells herself she doesn't. If her feelings are lawless, she is frank in confessing it. Furthermore, if she likes to make herself believe what is not true, she says so. She never blinks the motive which has caused her to perform some ostensibly worthy action. In fact, she never blinks anything about herself. She has the mental strength to see her imperfections, and she has the ardor for real truth to acknowldge them to herself. In brief, the rare woman who is honest with herself will tell the truth about her own lies.

Such habits as this, however, require training. For instance, Marie Bashkirtseff, that supreme type of the intellectually honest woman, kept for years the diary which now stands as the ultimate expression of a woman's soul. Since the time when she was 12 years old, she had lain bneath her own keen scalpel; for years she had submitted every motion to the keenest dissection. In the end, her clear and dazzling mind stands out as being eager in its search for truth as that of Huxley himself.

Household Helps.

The raveled threads from old linen will be found most satisfactory for darning tablecloths or napkins.

Stove polish mixed with vinegar and a small bit of sugar will give additional and more lasting luster.

To clean bronze, moisten salt with vinegar, rub briskly with a woolen cloth dampened in this, rinse in clear water and polish with a clean woolen cloth.

Cheese wrapped in a cloth previously steeped in vinegar and water will keep fresh for a considerably longer time than if kept in the storeroom in the ordinary way. A dry cloth should be kept wrapped round the saturated one, and the latter re-steeped in vinegar and water from time to time.

Very few home laundresses are aware of the fact that blankets, when they have been washed and dried thoroughly, should be well beaten with an ordinary carpet-beater. This has the effect of making the wool light and soft and ginving the blanket a new and fresh appearance.

A good cook adds a teaspoonful of sugar to each quart of water in which corn,peas or squash are cooked.

Wash your stove, then put a few drops of linseed oil on a woolen cloth, rub the stove well, and it will never have to be blackened. This is a great labor-saver.

Ammonia is the best specific to employ in cleaning coat collars, but it should never be used in this connection unless it has been much diluted with water.

After washing children's frocks, a hot iron should never be pressed over the colored embroidery itself, as this is apt to fade the colors and spoil the look of the garment.

An easy test for milk, failing the regular glass tube supplied by the public analyst, is to put a bright steel knitting-needle into the milk. If on withdrawing it the milk adheres and drops off slowly it is pure; if on the contrary, it runs off quickly, it has been adulterated with water, and further steps should be taken.

HEARING AT BEMIDJI.

St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The railroad and warehouse commission will give a hearing at Bemidji May 4 on the application of the Minnesota & International Railway company for an advance in the freight rates on wood pulp to equal the prevailing rates on cordwood. The company claims that the present rates are not sufficient to afford a fair compensation for the transportation of this material.

MARINE NEWS

CAUTION IS NECESSARY

Line Boats Will Not be Sent Against Ice Fields.

Start Set for Next Saturday May be Delayed.

Ice reports from Sault Ste. Marie are not particularly encouraging and some doubts are expressed by Duluth agents of line boats as to whether April 25, the date set at a meeting some time ago, will find a general movement of package freighters.

Reports from the Soo are that the St. Mary's river is not entirely clear and heavy ice fields exist in the vicinity of Whitefish point, being held in by the Northwest winds of the early part of the week. Otherwise, ice conditions are favorable, but the managers of the line boats are not inclined to take any chances anywhere. The underwriters have refused to give insurance against ice damage this year and bucking a few miles of ice is likely to cause anywhere from $5,000 to $10,000 damage without any chance of redress.

The only line boats in the Duluth harbor are the Troy of the Western Transit company and the Reynolds of the Mutual Transit company. The crew of the Reynolds is on the ground, but loading has not yet begun and it is doubtful if it will sail before Monday. The Troy is also fitted and the crew will arrive Friday. There is little likelihood that it will sail before Monday. Should ice conditions in the St. Mary's river continue unfavorable, the start may be delayed to even a later date.

Reports from the lower lakes are that all of the line boats are preparing to sail and the prospect of encountering damaging ice is the only circumstance that will prevent a start Saturday, in accordance with the original plans. The steamer Gratwick of the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company is loading at Chicago and advices are that it will sail Saturday, arriving in Duluth about Wednesday. The Huronic of the Northern Transportation company is loading at Sarnia and is expected to sail Saturday with freight and passengers and the Russia of the Port Huron & Duluth Transit company is loading at Port Huron. The Western Transit company, Mutual Transit company and Anchor line are all expected to start freighters from Buffalo Saturday.

MUTUAL OFFICERS.

Engineers and Assistants for Season of 1908 Appointed.

The Mutual Transit company has announced its chiefs and assistants as follows:

Northern King—A. Nagelvoort, chief engineer; W. H. Sheldon, assistant.
Northern Queen—P. J. McGinnis, chief engineer; L. Doyle, assistant.
Northern Wave—John Dee, chief engineer; Robert Stewart, assistant.
Northern Light—Charles Ryan, chief engineer; T. O'Connor, assistant.
North Wind—T. W. Jackman, chief engineer; John Dee, assistant.
North Star—W. T. Pike, chief engineer; O. Ryan, assistant.
Minneapolis—J. D. McMillan, chief engineer; G. A. Williams, assistant.
St. Paul—Henry Store, chief engineer; George Nesbit, assistant.
Huron—Alex Adams, chief engineer; William Rowland, assistant.
William Castle Rhodes—Guy A. Hemenger, chief engineer; Leslie Smith, assistant.

The appointments for the boats in the Union line are:

Starruca—Alex Brown, chief engineer; J. W. Smith, assistant.
Ramapo—H. Johnson, chief engineer; Frank Swinehart, assistant.
Chemung—Nelson Johnson, chief engineer; Newton Daniels, assistant.
Owego—E. T. Jenkins, chief engineer; W. J. Garret, assistant.
Tioga—W. A. Hayes, chief engineer; John T. Graham, assistant.

STILL IN THE DARK.

Duluth Engineers Do Not Know Result of Referendum Vote.

Duluth engineers have not yet received a full report on the referendum vote taken last Saturday among the locals of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial association on the Great Lakes on the question of favoring the "open shop." It has been learned that all of the first twenty-six locals to report sustained the executive committee in its contention against the establishing of the open shop by the vessel owners.

No official advices have been received from Cleveland by the Duluth local. Press dispatches say that President Yates of the M. E. B. A., refuses to discuss the vote or throw out any hints of what may be done by the executive committee in view of the strong encouragement given it to hold out against the open shop. It is not expected that any action will be taken for the time being. The owners are in no hurry to start their boats and it is felt that the engineers would gain nothing by making trouble at present.

In the meantime, the signing of engineers on the open shop plan by the vessel owners continues and nearly all of the big lines have signed their men. The engineers of line boats have signed and it is believed by the different managers that there will be no trouble in sailing as soon as ice conditions permit. Cleveland dispatches say that E. J. Jenkins, who signed an individual contract with G. A. Tomlinson, has resigned as second national vice president of the M. E. B. A. His action is taken to forecast the action which may be taken by a large number of engineers in case the executive committee should declare their action in signing contracts invalid.

Why Your Head Aches

You do not endure headache because you want to. It is because you haven't a satisfactory remedy. You haven't tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They stop pain quickly, leave no bad after-effects, do not derange the stomach. That ought to be satisfactory—if so, try them. Your druggist has them.

DECLARE "OPEN SHOP."

Dock Managers of Lake Erie Will Not Recognize Unions.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 22.—At a meeting yesterday of dock managers and superintendents, representing all the Lake Erie ports of importance, resolutions were adopted declaring "that the dock managers of Lake Erie do now declare that the open shop principle be adopted and adhered to on our docks."

It was announced that there would be no change made in wages or hours. The ore shovelers will get 14 cents a ton, which is the rate that has been paid for the past two years and the men on all the docks will work ten hours a day.

BOATS ARE MOVING.

The first slight show of activity is being made in the Duluth-Superior harbor, with the loading of grain boats, which will start down the lakes just as soon as ice conditions make a general movement possible. The steamer D. O. Mills, which wintered at Elevator M at Old Superior, took a portion of a cargo there and was moved yesterday to Elevator H on this side of the bay, where the remainder of the cargo will be taken. The steamer E. Zimmerman, which was taken to Elevator K at Old Superior last week to begin loading, was towed today to Elevator D on this side, where the remainder of the cargo will be taken. The steamer Carter will begin to load at Elevator K today.

The grain boats will not sail immediately after loading. Fitting out operations are not complete on any of them, though considerable work has been done on the Mills. They will load, be fitted out, take fuel and lie in the harbor until the general movement begins.

There is very little fitting out being done in the harbor. The engineers of one of the big Pittsburg boats arrived Monday and went to work on their boat. Other lines have not yet reported their engineers and masters, however.

Inspectors Busy.

The United States inspectors of hulls and boilers are getting into their usual spring rush, which was delayed this year. Requests for inspection are coming in more rapidly and it is expected that for the next two months they will be kept pretty busy looking over the craft in the harbor.

POSTOFFICE CLERKS MEET.

Stillwater, Minn., April 22.—The Minnesota state branch of the Unted National Association of Postoffice clerks, will hold its annual convention here on June 13. The program has as yet not been fully arranged but will be as soon as the executive committee can get together.

BEER AGENT IS KENOSHA'S MAYOR

First Act is to Give Warning to the Saloons.

Kenosha, Wis., April 22.—Matthias J. Scholey, agent of a Chicago brewery, was on Monday night inaugurated mayor of the city of Kenosha. The inaugural proved to be one of the greatest events of its kind in the history of the city.

Scholey was the idol of the workingmen of the city, and when he took his oath of office the city hall was all too small to hold the great crowd that gathered to cheer the mayor. The inaugural ceremonies were held in the circuit room. Fully 400 people crowded into the building to witness the ceremonies. Many personal friends of the new mayor came from Chicago and Milwaukee, and when he went up to the desk that had been arranged for him it was almost completely covered with flowers.

Mayor Gorman introduced the new executive. The new mayor delivered an address, in which he declared himself to be in favor of many measures for the betterment of the city. He said: "My associates—I realize that many of our citizens view with alarm my election to the highest office within the gift of the people of Kenosha. I am fully advised of the predictions that certain classes will violate all law with impunity, and that the good name of our city will be disgraced and that unknown and dire calamities will befall us. I may not be able tonight to dispel these delusions, but trust that by my actions I may be able to merit and maintain the confidence of the people. I fully appreciate the great responsibilities placed upon me as the chief executive officer of the city of Kenosha. My highest endeavors will be for the best interests of the people. I shall cling to and cherish the old motto, 'Equal rights to all and special privileges for none.'"

Ten years ago Scholey was an unknown bartender in Kenosha, but he got started in politics, and he worked his way to the office of mayor with his own party fighting him. It is declared that he has already notified the saloon men that the signs of the times are plain, and that if they desire to keep in business it will be necessary for them to have the most rigid regulation of their business.

CLAY COUNTY HARD HIT.

Glyndon, Minn., April 22.—One of the worst prairie fires in the history of Clay county swept across the county Saturday, burning two farmhouses, many haystacks and doing an enormous amount of damage. The loss will amount to $15,000. The fire started from the burning rubbish.

DULUTH WOMAN WINS.

Given Large Verdict Against Railroad for Death of Husband.

Eau Claire, Wis., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Anna Keeley of Duluth was given a verdict of $6,615 in her suit against the Great Northern and Terminal roads by a jury in the circuit court here. The suit had its origin with the death of the plaintiff's husband, Michael Keeley, railroad switchman, who was killed in the Terminal company's yards last May. Keeley was employed in Grand Forks, N. D., for many years.

At the time of his death Keeley was in the employ of the Great Northern road. He was standing between two cars of his train, when a Terminal switch engine with a string of cars ran into the Great Northern train, crushing him to death. Mrs. Keeley subsequently retained Attorney W. P. Crawford of Superior, and suit for $10,000 damages was instituted jointly against the Great Northern and Terminal. The suit was brought in the superior court some months ago.

LATHI HELD FOR MURDER.

Man Who Shot and Killed Victor Aho, to Answer for Act.

Chatham, Mich., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—An inquest in connection with the shooting of Victor Aho, who died at St. Mary's hospital at Marquette Friday, was held yesterday with the result that John Lathi, who did the shooting, is held for murder. He is to be tried for the crime in June at Munising. The shooting resulted from a quarrel between the two men and occurred near the railroad station at Chatham about ten days ago. Lathi has a wife and two children in Finland.

NEGAUNEE ELK LODGE.

Negaunee, Mich., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The committee appointed to arrange for the institution of the Negaunee lodge of the Fraternal Order of Elks has been advised that the grand lodge has granted the dispensation, but it has not yet been decided when the initial meeting will be held. Wednesday of next week, the 29th, may be decided on.

ON THE IRON RANGES

IRON RANGE LOSES MANY CROSS TIES

Fifteen Hundred Destroyed by Forest Fire —Tie Men Scared.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The exceedingly dry condition of the woods is causing worry, and every one is being cautioned as to extinguishing camp fires or any small blaze that they may start. Monday an unusually large forest fire was burning near Drummond, eleven miles away, and some cinders were carried to this place, but as yet no damage has been reported. Yesterday the Iron Range road lost 1,500 ties by a forest fire at Mile 60, near Bassett station.

Owing to there being small demand for ties and the price being reduced to 35 cents per tie, the Alger-Smith company has a large number on hand, which will be held until conditions are better. To save them from danger of forest fires they will be stored at Knife River station. The company has leased twenty-five flat cars from the Duluth & Iron Range for hauling the ties, the cars being delivered to Bretton pit yesterday.

MONROE MINER BLINDED.

Frank Skerbez Loses One Eye and Other Nearly Gone.

Chisholm, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hot grease dropping from his lighted candle into a box of dynamite caps he was holding caused the explosives to go off and will probably cost Frank Skerbez, a miner at the Monroe, his eyesight. One eye was torn from its socket by the force of the explosion and the other was so badly injured that it is gradually growing weaker. The fingers of one hand were nearly torn off.

LEAVES IT TO COMMITTEE.

Hibbing Council Passes Up Selection of City Hall Site.

Hibbing, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council had two petitions presented last night, each numerously signed, urging the selection of sites for the city hall, one on the north side of the Missabe tracks and the other on the south side. The council passed the question up to a committee consisting of Recorder Gandsey, and Trustees Roddy, Rogalsky, Hayes and W. J. Ryder to look over the two sites and report at the next metting.

The council authorized the chief of the fire department to appoint an additional fireman, the recent purchase of a chemical outfit necessitating more help.

BROAD GAUGE POLICY.

Virginia Council Liberal in Water Main Extensions.

Virginia, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night decided to adopt a broad-gauge policy with regard to desired water main extensions on both sides of town and the light and water committee was instructed to have resolutions prepared for the next meeting ordering all the extensions asked for in recent petitions.

The matter of accepting Anderson's addition to the city again came up and the plat was referred back to Mr. Anderson for correction.

An ordinance relating to the licensing of dogs was given its first reading. President Osborn criticised the ordinance because it placed too much blame on the dogs and not enough on the owners, and the ordinance committee was requested to suggest amendments along that line.

The plans and specifications for a 6-foot sidewalk to the cemetery prepared by the city engineer were accepted. The estimated cost is $2,250 and the walk will be nearly 5,000 feet in length.

It was decided to establish the city pound at the foot of Cleveland avenue on the lake shore and the street commissioner was instructed to fill in a sufficient space for a pound.

The city engineer was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for cement walks around the public library and establish the grades for same. This is the beginning of a plan to provide a pretty little park surrounding the library.

The matter of providing a drinking fountain for horses was referred to the committee on streets and alleys.

FIRST CHISHOLM BALL GAME ON SUNDAY NEXT.

Chisholm, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first ball game of the season to be played in Chisholm will take place Sunday afternoon between the Chisholm second team and the Hartley nine. A fast game is expected as both teams have been practicing for some time. The game will be called at 2:30 and will be played on the Chisholm field.

STRUGGLE FOR WORK.

Five Hundred Men Besiege Virginia Mill When It Opens.

Virginia, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the time came for starting up the sawmill of the Virginia Lumber company yesterday morning, the mill was so crowded with men seeking employment that it was necessary to drive many of them outdoors before the machinery could be started. It was estimated that there were fully 500 who could not be given employment. It is stated that many of these idle men came from different parts of the range seeking employment here. The mill employs about 200 men on day and night shifts, and nearly all employed were old hands.

MANY CASES HEARD.

Eveleth, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unusually large number of cases were handled yesterday by Special Judge McInnis, most of them being drunks. Vic Sapare was fined $3 for being drunk and disorderly, while Mike Belle and George Priblich were fined $5 for the same offense. Frank Kanildo, George Raprel and Gus Johnson forfeited their bonds. The case against John Sevenar was dismissed for lack of evidence.

EVELETH DESIRES RAINY LAKE ROAD

Council and Business Men's Association Have Committee on It.

Eveleth, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night elected D. P. McIntyre, clerk in a local jewelry store, city clerk to fill out the unexpired term of the late E. D. Skeel. The new clerk will hold until Jan. 1, 1910.

The question of granting liquor licenses was discussed at length. The limit is forty-two and the council decreed that hereafter applications must specifically describe the place wherein liquor is to be sold. A saloonkeeper who maintained a dumb waiter to his second floor was ordered to remove it forthwith. The question of inducing the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Virginia road to extend its line here was freely discussed.

A communication from D. W. Freeman was read, urging the city council to do something more about the railroad affair, as that would be of great value to the city. A committee, consisting of Mayor Smith, Aldermen Hatch and Andrews, was appointed to confer with the Business Men's association, and a like committee from that organization, who should see the officials of the railroad and try to secure their running into Eveleth, thereby giving this town more and quicker service to Duluth.

Attorney Arnold presented a resolution for the adoption of the municipal court act of 1905 code and showed the advantages that were to be gained by working under that code. Other attorneys also spoke for the adoption of the code, but the council deferred acting until it could be more fully advised by the attorneys as to what they were voting for.

The old water board, composed of Messrs. Trezona, Hearding and McInnis, to whom the arbitration in the case of Dowling Bros., against the city, was given, sent in the result of their work, which allows $2,474.65 to Dowling Bros. This report was referred to the city attorney and the attorney for the city in the case, for their advice. An ordinance regulating the operation of vaudeville theaters within the city was introduced and referred to the ordinance committee.

The bids for the spring cleaning were received, but nothing will be done until the regular adjourned meeting next Tuesday night. By that time the board of health can meet and decide whose is the best bid. The following bids were read: Max Petlich, $1,283; Andrew Skaari, $1,190; Nelson & Lindgren, $1,269.50; Sacuis Lapi, $1,149.98; Mrs. M. Maxwell, $1,200; John Gants, $1,199.99.

Colvin & Robb were awarded the contract for supplying 600 tons of coal at $4.75 per ton delivered. The only other bid was that of Nelson & Lindgren for $4.89 a ton delivered.

Mr. Carlson, who has had charge of the sprinkling before, will do the same work again at $5 a day, until the council will be able to make a contract for sprinkling. Bids for the work will be advertised.

THEY MEAN BUSINESS.

Eveleth, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—An enthusiastic meeting of baseball lovers was held in the city hall yesterday afternoon and steps taken to place this city in the baseball game in good shape.

Mat Doyle was elected manager of the team, and J. J. Gleason, secretary-treasurer. The men back of this move are prominent, and from the way they have started, will easily wake up the other baseball fans.

NEARLY CAUSED STAMPEDE.

Passenger With Limburger Cheese, Invades a Street Car.

A passenger armed with a piece of overripe Limburger cheese nearly created a stampede in an interstate street car, late yesterday afternoon. The possessor of the noisy smelling dairy product boarded the car near Tower avenue and Third street, in Superior, and sat down well toward the front end, in proximity to five Duluth school teachers, who had been visiting schools in Superior.

The car was close, and the cheese was not long in warming up to its business. Soon the school teachers began fidgeting among themselves, questioning glances passed, and dainty handkerchiefs were held to five noses. The odor seemed to increase.

One school teacher in blue, with a brown trimmed hat, stood it about as long as she could, then, with a disgusted look up and down the car to see if she could locate the offender, she got up and seated herself in another part of the car. The other four were game. They stuck to their posts nobly, but it was an awful ordeal.

Two male passengers, who had been watching the proceedings, grinned at their plight, but their glee was short lived, for the conductor opened the front door of the car to collect a fare, and the wind carried another stanza of the cheese straight to the young men. This was too much. With a muttered imprecation, to the effect that the "low-browed rough neck," possessing the cheese should be consigned to the bottom of the bay, one young man broke for the rear platform and lighted a cigar. He was quickly followed by the other young man, and a council of war was held. They insisted that the conductor search the passengers and eject the disturbing element.

The conductor was nearly overcome with the odor. He looked worried, but refused to make an investigation. The conductor suggested that somebody was attempting to smuggle a corpse across the bay, and said he would telephone the Duluth police to be on the lookout as soon as he could reach a telephone.

When the car reached the ferry dock there was a rush for the exits. Everybody but the man with the cheese rode in the bow of the boat, to get all the fresh air possible. The school teachers held an indignation meeting. Some of them had begun to show traces of a sick feeling, by reason of the nauseating odor in the car.

On the Duluth side of the bay the man with the cheese was one of the first on the car. He sat down about the middle of the car. The school teachers filed in. The one dressed in blue, with a blue trimmed hat, sat down first, close to the center of the disturbance. She got one whiff and fled to the rear of the car. Another of the party sat down near the cheese, and she, too, performed a flank movement. A school teacher in green, however, was of German parentage. She sat down and ...ained in proximity to the man with the cheese and made the trip uptown without a sign of discomfort.

It is understood that the school teachers are willing to head a petition to the city council, asking for an ordinance that will class Limburger cheese as a nuisance and make it a misdemeanor for any person to carry a piece of the same on a public vehicle.

Spring Medicine

The best is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the best because it does the most good.

While it makes the blood pure, fresh and lively, it tones the stomach to better digestion, creates an appetite, stimulates the kidneys and liver, gives new brain, nerve and digestive strength.

An unequaled list of cures—40,366 testimonials in two years—proves its merit.

Mrs. J. F. Gee, 50 Gould Street, Stoneham, Mass., says: "In 25 years experience I have never known Hood's Sarsaparilla to fail, for spring humors and as a general blood purifier; it cures scrofula, eczema; has no equal as a general spring medicine. It gives me genuine satisfaction to say this."

Sarsatabs—For those who prefer medicine in tablet form, Hood's Sarsaparilla is now put up in chocolated tablets called Sarsatabs, as well as in the usual liquid form. Sarsatabs have identically the same curative properties as the liquid form, besides accuracy of dose, convenience, economy,—there being no loss by evaporation, breakage, or leakage. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

WILL MOVE NEXT MONTH.

Y. M. C. A. Will be in Its New Home Then.

Officers and directors of the Y. M. C. A. expect that the association can move into its new building, at Third avenue west and Second street, before the end of May.

The association's new home was to have been occupied long ere this, but there have been any number of delays in the completion of the work there. Some of the contractors have been unable to get the material they desired, and this retarded work.

The directors held a meeting last evening at the old building. They decided to change the fiscal year, and in the future it will end on May 1 instead of on the first of January. The association men are very busy in the winter and have more time to prepare annual reports and so forth in the spring. Moreover, the directors are anxious to start the association records fresh when the occupancy of the new building begins.

A representative of the Narragansett Machine company is expected here today to oversee the installation of the gymnasium apparatus, which has begun to arrive.

It is more. All the nourishing elements of wheat and barley, so prepared as to be promptly absorbed by the system for rebuilding brain and nerve cells, and for storing up energy—the capacity to think and act—that's Grape-Nuts.

The flavor of this world famed food adds to its value by promoting the appetite.

ARGUING MOONEY CASE.

Evidence in Buffalo Murder Trial Has All Been Submitted.

Buffalo, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The closing arguments are being made in the Mooney murder trial, which has been dragging along here for nearly three weeks, all of the evidence having been submitted. The cross examination of the defendant, who is alleged to have slain his wife with a stick of wood, was most severe. County Attorney Woolley put the rich accused through a merciless grilling.

When reaching the acts relating to the homicide, he compelled the defendant to account for each and every action on his part directly connected with the crime. At one point in the examination of the defendant, he was asked if Mrs. Mooney had not threatened to procure a divorce. The witness replied that he did not remember. Quick to seize the advantage that the reply gave him, Attorney Woolley began questioning him in regard to his having a month or two before the homicide transferred personal property, consisting of telephone stock and bank funds to McDonald without consideration.

The defense objected strenuously to the admission of testimony on this matter, it having been ruled out on the state's direct examination. The court indicated an inclination to admit the testimony, bt took the matter under advisement, and later decided to admit it.

Gravitation and the Blood.

The attraction of gravitation is ordinary thought of only as producing what is called weight, and as governing the motion of the earth and other planets in their orbits. But gravitation acts in a very important manner upon the circulation of the blood. For producing rich red blood and strong nerves, there is nothing like the tonic properties of golden grain belt beer. A glass at mealtime and before retiring insures restful sleep. WOMAN'S DEATH CLEARS MYSTERY ABOUT INFANT.

Crookston, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the death of Mrs. Bertha Donstad Monday, whose husband was killed three years ago, the mystery surrounding the finding of a baby in an outhouse at the rear of the next door neighbor's has been cleared up. Because a bottle of oil of cedar had been found on the dresser in the room where Mrs. Donstad retired Monday afternoon, shortly before she died, the rumor spread that she had committed suicide. Dr. Randolph who was with the woman for an hour before she died positively denies this. She died from lack of care, as she did not acquaint members of her family as to her condition. The funeral of Mrs. Donstad was held from the family residence this afternoon.

A Laxative that is as Harmless as Food

If you ate plenty of fruit, coarse food and green vegetables, the bowels would never need help.

But when you eat fine food, and rich food, you must supply the laxative in some other way.

Do it in Nature's way.

Don't employ salts or pill cathartics, for they violate Nature. They irritate and injure the stomach and bowels.

Nearly all dyspepsia—all constipation is caused by the use of harsh physic.

Cascarets—a vegetable laxative—have precisely the same effect as a laxative food.

You know they don't harm you because they don't gripe.

They do for the bowels just what right living would do. And they do it as gently and naturally.

You can take them any hour of the day.

And that is the proper method. Carry them with you. Take one just as soon as you need it.

That is the way to keep well at all times, without the ill effects of a physic.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with C C C on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

FIRES ARE VERY THICK

Much Property in North-Western Minnesota Already is Destroyed.

Town of Akeley Has Close Call From Burning Logging Train.

Crookston, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the past three days more damage has been done by prairie fires than during any spring for the past sixteen years. Reports of losses are coming to the city every day, the loss on hay stacks in meadows being particularly heavy and in addition a large number of farmers have lost their buildings.

One of the heaviest losses occurred yesterday in which J. H. Porter of Huot, about ten miles east of this city, was the loser. Porter has operated the Huot creamery for the past few years and resigned this spring. Yesterday he was moving his household goods and family from Huot to a farm a mile and a half distant from that place. A prairie fire swept to the buildings on the farm, destroyed the house, four barns, all the hay, the members of the family escaping with the clothing they had on their backs and one wagon load of household goods. Everything else was burned, an the members of the family barely escaped with their lives. One barn, standing off to one side was all that escaped the flames.

George Trafton, residing east of Winters, also lost several stacks of hay. George Radl, near Fisher, came near losing his farm buildings, the wind fanning a fire, which had been smouldering in a manure pile in the barn yard and which was supposed to have been extinguished.

W. M. Brown of Nesbit township had a timothy field swept by a prairie fire, losing some hay and barely saving other stacks. Yesterday afternoon a fierce prairie fire swept over the town of Hammond and men, women and children had to turn out and fight the flames in order to save the elevators at Kittson.

Another fire started on Section 12 and it required hard work to save the few buildings at Russie station.

Everything is as dry as tinder, and the gale that blew Sunday, Monday and Tuesday made it impossible to control the flames that ordinarly could be stopped with a few furrows.

If the winds continue and no rain falls there will be further losses by fires, as a spark from a passing engine is certain to start in the grass where it lodges.

BURNING LOGGING TRAIN

Brought Into City of Akeley, Threatening Life of Town.

Akeley, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—But for the energetic action of the Red River Lumber company officials, assisted by their employes, the entire plant, mills and yard would have been destroyed by fire, as well as the town of Akeley. A Great Northern logging train came into town at noon with whistle blowing for help, and through some misunderstanding the logger ran into town with two cars of logs on fire. When the train came to a standstill the burning logs and car were within a few feet of the lumber of the Red River Lumber company. There was a fierce wind blowing, and the railway timbers began to burn. The logging train was backed with the two loads of logs past the town, and the two cars were uncoupled within fifty yards of the lumber yards below. The Akeley fire department responded with the chemical engines and the hose, and soon were fighting the fire on the cars. Meanwhile the fire from the blazing logs had scattered fire along the railway track, and it ran into the forest and the big pine belonging to the Red River Lumber company. R. F. Pray organized a big force of men and began to keep the fire from spreading towards the mill. The fire quickly ran and burned over the land south of the railway track, and was stopped by the lake and the back fires. The fire turned and made towards the mill yards, and Oliver Lee's house next to the mills was threatened. Back fires and shoveling dirt and watering again stopped the fire.

The two loads of logs and the cars were destroyed. Scores of men are guarding the farms near town, but the fire is running towards the northwest.

Forest fires are also burning north of town and have destroyed some logs and timber, and it is reported that one of the big logging camps was burned last evening. With the exception of the north side, the town for some time today was practically encircled by fire.

The fire succeeded in entering the mill yard, but has been beaten out by the men.

The school children were taken out of the Foster schoolhouse, south of town, in the afternoon, the fire being in that vicinity. It is also burning east of town near Bennett's farm, and men and teams have been sent out to prevent it spreading from there to town.

Schroeder's house, near the lake, was burned last evening.

The farmers are all organized into gangs fighting the fire. Thousands of dollars' worth of logs and cordwood have already been destroyed. But heroic efforts are being made to stop the fire.

BRUNO'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Village Near Sandstone Has Close Call From Forest Fire.

Sandstone, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires are raging in different parts of the country around here. The village of Burns was saved by all the people turning out and fighting the flames. Several fires started near Sandstone, but quick and efficient work by a number of men kept the fire from any buildings.

IS HARD ON DAMS.

Present High Water in Red Lake River Doing Damage.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high water in the Red Lake river has been playing havoc with the dams that are constructed across the stream at every town on its banks. The large power dam in Thief River Falls was repaired at a cost of $8,000 last summer and many cords of rock were placed in its piers to prepare it for the yearly inundations. This season it has withstood the high water with no loss of any kind.

The next dam below this city, the one at St. Hilaire, was undermined and on Saturday went out and is a complete loss. This dam was considered a valuable one and it was being improvided for manufacturing purposes and its destruction is a distinct loss to the village.

Some miles below this town is the village of Red Lake Falls and the high water there carried away a portion of the new Healey dam. The loss is considerable and can be repaired at a moderate cost. The vicinity of Crookston was subject to not a little danger and the lowlands near the city were all inundated, but no apparent damage was done the dam there. A new dam site has been surveyed on the Red Lake river, some three miles below the city of Thief River Falls, and water privileges are now being obtained. This property is considered valuable and the city may determine to purchase the right and dam site. As Thief River Falls owns its own water works and electric plant, it is probable that the dam would prove of value in the near future to the municipality.

SUING WHOLE FAMILY.

Waukesha, Wis., April 22.—After several years' litigation the famous $25,000 conspiracy suit of Charlotte E. White of this city against her mother-in-law Frances L. Stewart, an old servant in the White household, finally has come to trial. A jury trial was waived and Judge Lueck is hearing the case.

The wife charges that the defendants conspired to separate her from her husband. Wood, it is alleged, was employed after she and her husband had separated, to come to Waukesha and endeavor to compromise her so that her husband might secure an absolute divorce.

Mrs. White testified to her elopement with Fred White, Jr. to Waukegan, Ill., Dec. 11, 1900. The evening of their return they went to her husband's home, where she says she was treated coldly by his mother. Because of this they left and went to the home of the bride.

STUDENTS MUST NOT GAMBLE.

President Northrup of University Scores Sporty Element.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Gambling is rottten and it will rot you," was the way President Northrop put the case to the university boys assembled in the chapel of the state university.

The president had been advised through a letter of the propensity for gambling displayed by the students, and declared that it must be stopped. The boys at the "U" are fond of trying their luck at the slot machines and other conveniences of the kind placed in the cigar stores and other stores not far from the campus, and the warning of the president seemed to refer to these machines and their growing popularity.

The president thought it not fair that money sent to the students by their parents should be wasted in such a way, and he put the case very forcibly when he said that gambling was rotten.

"It is dangerous and cannot be permitted," was the conclusion of the president.

A HEAVY ACREAGE PLANTED IN CANADA.

Toronto, Ont., April 22.—Official reports received from agents throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta show that the total acreage under crop in the Canadian west this year will be about 20 per cent greater than last year with all indications pointing to a record yield of wheat.

Reports indicate that the arrival of American settlers to take up land will be this year largely in excess of last year. The increased influx of immigration from the Western states will, it is expected, nearly make up for the falling off in immigration from Great Britain and other European countries.

BOY STRUCK BY A STREET CAR

Arthur Bushman Rendered Unconscious, But No Bones Broken.

Arthur Bushman, a 12-year-old boy, residing on Fifth avenue east, will not chase street cars again. About 8 o'clock last evening, young Bushman and several companions of about the same age were amusing themselves by chasing cars at Fifth avenue east and Superior street. While running behind a westbound car, Bushman suddenly turned across the eastbound track and was hit by an East end car. The car struck him on the right side of the head, and he was hurled several feet, striking the curbing and pavement. The blow rendered him unconscious for a time, but he came to before being removed to St. Luke's hospital. The attending physician stated that no bones were broken.

Only the fact that the boy was running is said to have saved him from more serious injury. Neither of the cars were running fast, as they were passing at the crossing, and the motorman on the eastbound car could not see the boys running behind the other car.

SNOWSLIDES BLOCK CANADIAN TRACKS.

Winnipeg, April 22.—All Canadian Pacific trains have been held up in the Rocky Mountains the past two days by remarkable slides of snow.

The snow descending the sides of the cliffs carried with it immense quantities of ice, rock, earth and gravel, and completely blocked the track in places, carrying it away at others, as well as telegraph poles. The weather is very mild all through Southern British Columbia, and ice melted with the greatest rapidity on the mountains, resulting in the rapid rising of rivers and movement of large quantities of snow.

Hundreds of men were hurried forward by special trains from Donald and Revelstoke to open a way through the debris, but it will be another day before it will be cleared.

CHANGES IN THE SENATE

In Recent Years Recalled by Rumored Retirement of Aldrich.

Unusual Things Happening These Days in the Upper Branch.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washingon, April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rumor thhat Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island has about determined to quit congress at the end of his term and retire to private life brings one face to face with the changes that have occurred in the upper branch of congress in the past few years, and there is a distinctive bit of pathos in the determination of Senator Aldrich to quit the cares of legislation, if it be true, because he is among the last of the old guard who performed valiant service for the country in shaping lesislation during the decade just past.

Senator Aldrich has been for years a power and an influence in the senate of the United States and while unlike the reasons given by Senator John C. Spooner for his retirement, that he wanted to do some work for his family before it was too late, he probably has reached the conclusion that with the changing conditions in the senate with the old chivalry and the old courtesy gone and with a group of young men pushing for preferment and rough riding over precedents and practice, Senator Aldrich looks askance upon continuing in a body whose personnel has so vitally changed in the past dozen years.

At one of the tables in the senate lunch room the other day there sat three or four of the older representatives in the lower house and they discussed the changes that have occurred in the upper branch of congress during their careers. One of the elder statesmen said, in speaking of the rumor of Senator Aldrich's retirement: "I do not wonder at it whatsoever. Aldrich cannot but notice the unusual things that are happening these days in the upper branch. He cannot help but recall the dressing down which Senator Burkett gave Senator Hale the other day, because Senator Hale had the temerity to ask the return of the army appropriation bill from conference because of certain features of the measure had been passed during his absence from the chamber and with which he was not favorably impressed. The senate gasped for breath at the audacity of Burkett in presuming to read a lecture to so eminent a statesman as Senator Eugene Hale, and even though the occasion might have warranted a gentle protest the vitriolic language of the senior senator from Nebraska made the entire chamber sit up and take notice. It was nuts for the Democrats, but it was wormwood for the Republicans. These things go to show how rapidly the old customs and the old forms, the quiet dignity, are disintegrating to make room for a pushing, self-asserting group of men who have been raised in a wholly different school of politics from that of Aldrich, Hale, Allison and Daniels. Many of the new men who are serving their first terms in the senate are in the formative period of their careers as statesmen. They have not builded their foundations and, like in the lower house, the men who have been longest in the service and who have conscienceously worked for the public weal are the men who wield the power and prestige in either branch of congress."

And Senator Aldrich is one of this fast disappearing type of workers. Himself a hard worker, he is helpful to all those who commend theselves to him along similar lines. While it is true he is austere to the great mass of the people, Aldrich is warm-blooded and warm-hearted, and his knowledge of the busines of legislating has been of the first importance in effecting legislation. With Aldrich's going will go one of the bulwarks of the older senatorial conception of that body's place in the scheme of things in this government, and he will be followed shortly by some who have been an influence in the work of congress for a generation and more. The ranks of the leaders are thinning, and within your life you will see a new order of things come to pass in the senate of the United States, for it is written that the "old order changeth."

France has called an international congress for October, to be held in Paris for the purpose of discussing the amount of damage done to the rock surface thoroughfares by automobiles. To many it may seem beyond belief that a pneumatic rubber tire can work any injury to a road composed of bits of crushed flint rock, but it becomes plain when the theory of such roads is explained. The macadam road, named after John Lowden Macadam of Ayr, Scotland, who was for years highway surveyor for Bristol, was first laid down by the enminent French road engineer, Tressauget of Limoges, who wisely figured that slowly-moving, iron-tired wagons would crush dust particles from the stones of the road's surface; that those particles would be constantly sifted between the interstices of the large stones; that every passing wagon would crush them firmer into all ruts and inequalities; that rains would aid, and the ultimate result would be a smooth surface, water-shedding highways. This was all very good as far as it went, but along came the automobile and the rubber tire, being soft, creates no rock dust itself, as does the iron tire of a wagon, and it has become a demonstrated fact that the very life of these roads demands a constant supply of that material. It is the surface-binder that keeps roads smooth. The auto, whirling along at dizzy speed, simply flattens its tires against the ground as its speeds, and the attractive force so exerted hurls the precious rock dust into the air, and from where it is swept to the adjacent farms and lawns in blinding clouds.

On some stretches of thoroughfare, especially in New England, where many broad and smooth roads have been constructed, the retrogression is not less than 40 per cent, and it has been forced upon the director of public roads that if some plan is not speedily devised for overcoming the bad effects of men's latest and most sensational mode of land transportation, the monetary loss will be stupendous and the good work of many years go for naught. It is for the purpose of discussing dust proof road surface material that the director not only will push his investigation during the coming summer, but in the fall will meet the engineers in Paris for the purpose of discovering an absolute antidote for the action of the automobile.

LARGE CROWD HEARS BRYAN

New York, April 22.—Rounding out a day that had a pleasant beginning in the welcoming of his family returning from a sojourn in Europe and then carried him on a flying trip to Trenton, N. J., for a brief speech, W. J. Bryan returned here last night and addressed the civic forum on "The Brotherhood of Man," at one of the largest gatherings ever assembled in historic Cooper Union hall. Mr. Bryan's lively day was ended at midnight when he made a brief address at the supper of the Missouri society.

Several hundred people were turned away from Cooper Union last night, unable to find seats and when Mr. Bryan arrived, he was greeted with much applause.

After the speech Mr. Bryan was interrogated by the audience. He was asked:

"Is the Democratic policy of disfranchising the negro in the South in accord with the spirit of brotherhood of which you have been speaking?"

"The white man of the South puts a qualification on negro suffrage in self defense," replied Mr. Bryan. "There is not a community in the North that would not put on a similar qualification under the same circumstances. The white man in neither the North nor South will permit a few men to take the solid black vote and use it for the making of money regardless of the interests of the community, as was done by the carpet baggers in the South."

ASSOCIATED PRESS ELECTS DIRECTORS.

New York, April 22.—The annual meeting of the Associated Press was held at the Waldorf Astoria hotel yesterday, with an exceptionally large attendance of members from every section of the country. The choosing of directors resulted in the re-election of the seven directors whose terms had expired, as follows: Charles Grasty, Baltimore Evening News; W. R. Nelson, Kansas City Star; T. L. McLean, Philadelphia Bulletin; George Thompson, St. Paul Dispatch, and Adolph S. Ochs, New York Times.

No changes in the present rules and regulations of the service were made.

The Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers' association will sit down to a joint banquet tonight at the Waldorf Astoria, at which W. J. Bryan will be the chief speaker.

TO STOP FOREST WASTE.

Duluth Man Looks for Good to Result From Washington Conference.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The conference which has been called by President Roosevelt on May 14 in Washington for the purpose of stopping the enormous waste of the forests in this country will be watched with eager interest by cotton millers, flour millers, and the owners of paper mills throughout the country," said T. F. Gordon of Duluth, who is stopping at the Republican. "This conference will do something towards abating one of the greatest evils and also one of the most serious menaces to the industrial life of this country. Few people realize that last year alone the cotton millers of the South and the water power companies all over the country have lost over $100,000,000 by this waste of the American forests. It decreases the water power of rivers and increases the danger from floods.

"Last year the people of this country used over four times more wood than the combined forests of the United States will grow in a year, and at that rate it is estimated that the forests of the country will not last twenty-five years longer. The Roosevelt conference will take this matter in hand and take steps for the establishment of national forests probably in the Appalachian and the White mountains, while steps will also be taken to prevent the devastation of the American forests. Foresters will be sent through the woods with a view of instructing people how to cut a tree and the useless waste of the larger lumber companies will be stopped. People do not think that the manufacturing industry is affected much by the cutting down of the trees but it is a fact, nevertheless. They are losing heavily from this cause every year. This same cause also raises the price of rent and commodities because it increases the price of building material."

Hale and Happy at 101.

Mrs. Mary E. Curtis, of Farley, Iowa, who is 101 years old, hale and happy, praises Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for building her system up and driving out the pains in her back after many other medicines had failed to give her relief.

Mrs. Curtis says that with the help of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey she hopes to live many happy years yet.

Mrs. Curtis recommends Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a tonic stimulant for both old and young.

"I have had a great deal of trouble with pains in my back, which the doctors told me was kidney disease. I doctored for a long time, but found no relief. I finally was induced to get a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It did me good from the start. The pains in my back are gone and I feel as well as ever. It has done more for me than all the other medicine I have ever taken, and I cannot say too much in praise of it. I am 101 years of age and have never had anything to help me so quickly and continue to keep me so strong and well as your valuable whiskey. My heart action has been strengthened and my entire body built up. I feel now as if, with the aid of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, I can live in happiness for many more years.

I feel it my duty to write my thanks for the good Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done me, and I hope you will publish my letter for the benefit of old people who wish to become strong and vigorous, and for young people who wish to continue in good health and spirits."—Mrs. Mary E. Curtis, Farley, Iowa, August 15, 1907.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system; is a promoter of health and longevity; makes the old young and keeps the young strong.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold only in sealed bottles; never in bulk. Price $1.00. Look for the trade-mark the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Write Dr. R. Curran, Consulting Physician, for free illustrated medical booklet and free advice. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

PET DOG IS DROWNED BY A LARGE TROUT.

Sheridan, Wyo., April 22.—With a stout fishline securely fastened about the animal's neck, the pet dog of A. E. Case of Dayton was dragged into the water and drowned by a Tongue river trout. The dog's body was recovered, but the fish got away. Case's 10-year-old son and the dog were fishing some distance from home and the boy securely hooked a larger fish than he could land. The cane pole was jerked from his hands and the dog, accustomed to retrieving and thinking the boy had thrown the pole for that purpose, jumped into the stream. In some manner the strong line became wrapped about the dog's neck, and with the cord slowly cutting off his wind, the dog was unable to contend with the big trout at the other end of the line. The animal was dead when taken from the water by the boy's father, who was summoned by the lad's cries.

FIND CHILD'S SKULL.

Grewsome Discovery May Clear Mystery About Little One.

Sandstone, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—While returning from work last Saturday some men discovered the skull of a child. It is supposed to be that of the child which was lost in the woods two years ago and which was never found. The skull was found about a block from the main road, but in a wood that was not searched, although searchers went all around it. The place is about two miles from the house where the child lived.

THE DAUGHTERS GIVE ATTENTION TO REPORTS.

Washington, April 21.—At the second day's session of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, consideration was given to the routine business before the congress. Today was devoid of any social features, so that the delegates devoted the time to discussing the reports of officers.

First on the program came the announcement of committees by Mrs. Donland McLean, the president general, followed by the reports of national officers.

THE PEOPLE ARE "TO BLAME."

There is too great a disposition to blame the predatory rich for the manner in which they have brought about the economic serfdom of the American people.

The fault is not theirs so much as it is that of the people.

The people have let partisanship run the country.

They have let selfish interests supply the campaign funds that made partisan government possible.

The interests that supplied the campaign funds have used the power this gave them to take their pay out of special privileges, and if they have taken a thousand dollars in pay where they put in a cent, that is because they had "good business sense," and were acute enough to make the most of the opportunities a negligent people gave them.

Says the Denver Post: "There are in this country today three actual political parties: the Democratic, the Republican and the Socialist parties. And of these three the Socialist party is the only permanently organized, self-supporting party. The other two parties are merely occasional. Their campaign funds are derived suddenly for campaign purposes from the coffers of 'business' and the public utility corporations of all kinds; while the Socialist party gets its funds from the regular monthly contributions of its properly registered members."

If the people wish the government conducted in their interests, instead of for the benefit of big business, they will have to take a card from the Socialist party and support their own parties instead of letting big business support them.

They mustn't expect that business interests are going to supply all the campaign funds and not take pay for it. The corporation, if it is an individual as some legal views make it, is the most cold-blooded, most selfish and most practical kind of individual in the world. It has no patriotism, no conscience, no principle except the principle of making money. When it contributes to a campaign fund it looks upon the contribution as an investment, and it expects a greater return than it does out of any other form of investment it makes. And don't forget this for a moment:

WHEN THE CORPORATIONS TAKE PAY FOR THEIR CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS EVERY PENNY OF THAT PAY COMES OUT OF THE POCKETS OF THE PEOPLE.

So in the long run it is quite clear that it would be very much cheaper if the people would support their own political parties. They have to do it anyway, since the thousand per cent which the corporation gets back from its political investment comes out of the people. They might better do it directly, because it would be very much less expensive.

So long as the people let the corporations supply the campaign funds, the parties thus supported are the purchased tools of the corporations.

If the people want the parties to conduct partisan government in their interests, they will have to support the parties.

"UNCLE JOE'S" SCHEME.

Speaker Cannon yesterday appointed a committee of six in accordance with his resolution for an investigation of the allegations against the paper trust. The committee is authorized to sit during the sessions and recesses of congress, with power to summon witnesses and call for papers. This is a clever scheme of "Uncle Joe" to shelve all free wood pulp and free print paper legislation at the present session of congress. The purpose is to furnish a plausible excuse for not carrying out President Roosevelt's recommendation for the removal of the tariff on wood pulp.

"Uncle Joe" is not a trust buster, and he has appointed a committee that will not report any action at the present session that will disturb the paper trust. He is endeavoring to help out about 120 congressmen who are in a hole. Their constituents are enthusiastic for the Roosevelt policies and there is a widespread sentiment in favor of the executive recommendation for free wood pulp. If they go home at the close of the session having ignored the president's wishes they will have some troublesome explanations to make. Therefore "Uncle Joe" has furnished them with the excuse that the subject is being investigated.

SMOTHERING LEGISLATION.

Did you ever stop to think how seldom it is that measures desired by the people and refused by legislative bodies are defeated in open contest upon the legislative floor?

This applies to congress and the legislatures alike. Measures that the people want and the legislators do not want them to have are not beaten, as a rule, by being voted down. That puts the legislators on record, which is awkward. Nine out of ten of such measures are stifled in committee.

It is the practice of stifling bills in committee that prevents the enactment of needed legislation, more than all the other evil practices of legislatures put together.

The corollary of this is that if there is some way to make law-making bodies carry on their fights openly and above board, legislation for the people will proceed more speedily.

If the people were granted the privilege of direct legislation, this condition couldn't exist. If a congress or a legislature showed reluctance to heed the people's wishes, the people could compel them to act. If they didn't act then, they could recall the obstructing lawmakers. But the obstructionists in the legislatures, and the interests whom they serve, have said that the people are not competent to legislate for themselves, so these privileges are still withheld.

Some day they are coming. They are coming as soon as the people realize that they are competent to legislate, and that they are as able to do justice to themselves as are legislatures controlled by reactionary champions of selfish interests. In the meantime, something should be done to stop that stealthy practice of smothering bills in committee.

A hard and fast rule, limiting the time which committees can devote to the bills referred to them, would help. In most law-making bodies there is no limit now whatever. A bill is sent to committee, and the legislature must wait until it is returned by the committee. It can be called out by a majority vote, usually, but that is a hard thing to get, especially if a large number of members are afraid to go on record upon the bill.

It is not a committee's duty to kill a bill, but to consider it and to report it back within a reasonable time, either favorably or unfavorably. Then the legislature can act upon it as it sees fit. But if the bill is "dangerous," or if a considerable number of members fear to go on record upon it, the common method now is to let it die in committee. This is a skulking, bushwhacking method of defeating legislation. It is not open and fair. The people lose, when it is done, nine times out of ten.

If the legislators could be compelled to fight in the open, and if committees could be compelled to report all bills back within a reasonable time, both in congress and in the legislatures, it would be very much fairer, and legislation would proceed much more smoothly.

MR. BRYAN'S INCOME.

When William J. Bryan was in New York this week an interviewer questioned him regarding the charge that, on account of the wealth he is credited with having amassed during the past few years from his lectures and writings, he is no longer a representative of the laboring class but a full fledged plutocrat. Mr. Bryan talked quite freely on this point and while not telling the exact amount of his income he pointed out that the best test of the effect of his income is to be found in the things that he advocates and that his views have not changed on public questions with the increase in his earning power.

This point is well taken. There is no just reason whatever why Mr. Bryan should be criticised adversely because he has had the business sense to utilize his ability as a speaker and a writer and his political prominence in adding to his wealth. All the money that he has made has been obtained honestly and legitimately. It is stated on good authority that he receives about $100,000 a year from his lecture engagements and the profits of the Commoner. This income is honorably obtained and he gives full value for all he receives. There is no more popular lecturer in the country today and no one begrudges the small price of admission to his lectures, while the Commoner's subscribers and advertisers are undoubtedly satisfied with the returns or they would cease to patronize it. Certainly the money which Mr. Bryan has accumulated cannot be classed under the heading of "predatory wealth."

And Mr. Bryan is making good use of his increased income. He has used part of it to travel around the world, acquiring information that has enlarged his knowledge of public questions and broadened his views. He has also been enabled to send his family on European tours and he was in New York this week to meet them on their return from a trip abroad, which must have increased their fund of accurate information regarding foreign peoples and their ideas and customs, from which store of knowledge Mr. Bryan himself will also be the gainer. Mr. Bryan also spends his money freely in advocacy of the political views which he entertains and devotes much more time to public work than to private gain, so that it cannot be justly contended that he has acquired any of the characteristics of the plutocrat. Mr. Bryan has prospered financially in a legitimate way, and he has generously used much of his large income to spread broadcast his views on public questions and educate the people regarding the ideas and principles that he supports. For this unselfish use of his wealth, obtained in a thoroughly honorable manner, Mr. Bryan is deserving of commendation rather than unkind criticism.

FIGURES GONE WRONG.

If it is true that figures won't lie, it's equally true that if you handle them correctly, or rather incorrectly, you can prove anything by them. But as a matter of fact they are like eggs which are either fresh or otherwise. If figures are not entirely sound and trustworthy they are false and misleading.

It has been recently stated by some statistical automaniac that the number of recorded accidents caused by automobiles the past year, is considerably less than those caused by horses and horse vehicles. Therefore the horse is more dangerous than the automobile. But until we compare the total number of horses with the number of automobiles these figures in regard to accidents are of no value. If, for example, it could be shown that though horses killed or injured 10,000 people and automobiles only 5,000, there were one hundred times as many horses as automobiles in use, it would follow that proportionally the automobile did fifty times as much damage as the horse.

Another article which tries to let the railroads down easy for killing and wounding more people every year than were killed and wounded at the three days' battles of Gettysburg, says the number of victims is less than the casualty roll of the kerosene can and from putting up the humble stove. But without knowing the total number of railroad passengers and especially railroad employes, and the total number of people using oil and putting up stoves, the statistics mean little. The number of lamp and stove users is probably so much greater, that the danger from domestic occupation doesn't compare with that from railroad work and travel. Again an elaborate article apparently intended to oppose restricted immigration says that 75 per cent of the illiterates and criminals in this country are native whites; so are 57 per cent of the paupers. But until we consult the totals of the native and the foreign born, we can learn nothing from these figures, as to which element furnishes the greatest number of such undesirable citizens.

The same article says that the number of insane has increased from 109,000 in 1890 to 160,000 now, twice as many as in Russia. But these figures fail to show whether the later census is not more accurate than the former, or whether the apparent increase in the number is not due to an increase in the number now cared for.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

In the flush of spring men's thoughts turn to—patent medicines. Indeed, in many of the rural communities the patent medicine has almost as heavy a batting average as has the infectious germ of love. The need of the former is stimulated by light literature of a decidedly fictional nature—while the balmy lethary of spring, that softens the tongue of the village shrew and perks up the village bachelor, is the cause of many soul mates being rolled into one.

So do chemical ingredients and love usher in the ides of welcome spring.

Eugene West, a commercial traveling man, who used to wrap up prescriptions in a little rural Iowa drug store, was telling of the annual spring raid upon the patent medicine stock, at the Lenox hotel last evening. The most optimistic calculations of the proprietor in predicting a heavy sale of the health building remedies, were invariably overtopped by the heavy rush of seekers after a panacea for their imagined ills.

Most of these rural people were so healthy that they would do for a picture of "after taking two boxes of your pills, I have felt like a new man." They were "ailing," as they say in the country; they had read the advance prospectus of the spring deluge of patent medicine and they imagined that their liver and other internal cogs of the human machine were in need of tinkering and lubrication.

Many of the farmers would come to town and order twelve bottles. They described their fancied ills to the druggist. Of course they had read of these maladies in the reading matter that is distributed in generous quantities throughout the rural districts. Imagination gripped tight and supplied symptoms of approaching breakdowns and liver complaints. Their ailments were limited to the vocabulary of the prospectus, which means that they were without limit. They were staking their faith on some vividly described symptom and sure enough the turn of imagination would supply the approaching illness.

After taking the spring renovator the farmers and their wives and children would feel like well people. They had passed the crucial point of impending breakdowns, and the fancied ills sped with the draining of the contents of the bottles. Health returned and once more they could sit up and look nature in the face without a qualm as to possible insidious attacks of disease. The advance literature of spring maladies was thrown away, the farm work continued unabated and the druggist went to Des Moines or Dubuque to see the sights of a city.

Which goes to prove that Christian Science is not the only practical institution that has a strangle hold on immigration. If you don't believe it, just read a health guide and be scared.

Suicide, according to W. T. Whittaker, who is at the St. Louis, is subject to fads like any other act of humans. Just at the present time, according to Mr. Whittaker, carbolic acid is the method chosen by many to end their earthly troubles. Some time ago it was rough on rats that furnished exits for many a suffering mortal. It is a well established fact, according to Mr. Whittaker, that most people electing to end their lives choose the drug or poison that has the most violent reaction. They do this either through willful indifference or through ignorance of the effects of the poison they are taking.

Some years ago Mr. Whittaker used to work for the man that invented rough on rats. He was a poor druggist in Jersey City. He put the preparation on the market and the money began to come in. He took the first thousand dollars and placed it in advertising. Now he is able to count his deposits in five or six figures.

But Mr. Whittaker was saying that during those early days of the discovery of rough on rats many people used to commit suicide by taking this poison. Everybody understands that business is cold blooded. When the discoverer of rough on rats would hear of some poor mortal choosing his preparation for his exit from this world, he would tell his employes that it was the best possible advertising that he could have. "If people learn that it will kill human beings, they will surely know that it will prove an excellent rat killer," he is reported to have told his employes.

Paris green was once quite commonly used to end the lives of despondent persons. Mr. Whittaker says it is a fact that physicians cannot explain the fact that persons planning suicide are as a rule indifferent to the means employed to that end. This, he believes, is proof that a persons contemplating suicide is temporarily insane. The effects of carbolic acid have been vividly described in the accounts of the violent deaths of numberless victims of its use. Yesterday, according to Mr. Whittakes, it is the poison most commonly use by suicides. He sincerely believes that the use of poisons by suicides has been subject to fads. If such a whimsical terms can be applied to the pathetic subject of suicide.

THE WEATHER.

The warm wave that came down upon Duluth from the West last evening was accompanied by smoke and the odor of brush fires that are causing much destruction. Early and heavy showers of rain are devoutly to be wished for, to quench the fires, and put needed moisture into the parched earth, but there is nothing on the weather map to indicate any rain in the immediate future. The weather man forecasts fair weather tonight and Thursday with cooler temperature and fresh northeasterly winds. It was warm all through the Northwest yesterday. In Duluth the highest temperature was 67 degs., and the lowest 47 degs., while farther West the thermometer recorded 90 degs.

The sun rose this morning at 5:07 and sets tonight at 7:06, making 13 hours and 59 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The Manitoba low pressure area has moved to Eastern Lake Superior and the barometer remaining low over extreme Western Canada and Utah, with falling pressures over the lake region and Far West. These conditions have caused rains in Gulf states, the lake region, the lower Missouri valley, the Pacific coast and plateau region. It is also somewhat warmer in the lake region, Upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys, North Atlantic states, the Southwest, and extreme Western Canada. A high pressure area over Manitoba has caused cooler weather there and in the Dakotas and Eastern Montana. The easterly movement of the Manitoba high and the Western low barometer areas will be attended by cool northeasterly winds and generally fair weather in this locality tonight and Thursday.

He leaves a wife and sister in Duluth and a brother in St. Paul.

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Le Sueur News: Governor Johnson, on the old battlefield at Shiloh, upon the occasion of the dedication of a monument to the memory of the Minnesota soldiers who laid down their lives there, spoke eloquently and feelingly upon questions of vital importance to the American people. His talk had a true American ring to it and his words are worthy of serious consideration at this time when legislators are working night and day to bring to a common center every department of the government, and in reality to take from the people the right to govern themselves.

Middle River Pioneer: Governor Johnson in his speech at Shiloh handled without gloves the supreme court's recent decision in the Minnesota and South Carolina rate cases. While he decried this attempt of the court to deprive the states of their rights and establish a centralized bureaucratic government, he is optimistic as to the future and believes that conditions will right themselves so that the proper distribution of power between the state and national governments will be maintained.

Ogilvie Sentinel: In his speech at the Shiloh monument dedication last week, Governor Johnson very frankly asserted that a sovereign state should have the power to govern its own domestic affairs, etc., alluding of course, to the recent railroad rate case decision by the United States supreme court. The governor is eminently right in this view of the matter.

Los Angeles Times: John A. Johnson isn't saying much, but he has the look of a man who wouldn't be a bit surprised to have the lightning strike him.

Providence Bulletin: The little cloud in the Bryan sky, no bigger than a man's hand when the name of the governor of Minnesota was first mentioned, seems to be assuming a portentous inkiness.

Norfolk Landmark: Governor Johnson of Minnesota appears to think that he has a chance to get the nomination in spite of Mr. Bryan's long lead. We think so, too.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Governor Johnson of Minnesota is perfectly eligible to the presidency of the United States, if he can get it.

Newark Star: One thing in favor of Governor Johnson is that he knows a whole lot of things not to say.

Chicago Inter Ocean: The effort of Willis J. Abbott, head of Mr. Bryan's personal press bureau, to sneer at as "impertinent" any mention of Governor Johnson of Minnesota as a Democratic presidential possibility, and to describe Mr. Johnson as an "interloper," is bad politics and worse taste. The Hon. John A. Johnson has risen from the ranks on his merits. He has won a fair degree of material prosperity, not by the reckless arts of a demagogue, but by the constructive work of a citizen who grows up in and with his country. He has political power because he has deserved public confidence. However, any of us may disagree with some of his political ideas, he is recognized by all who have taken the trouble to learn anything about him as a man of sound and sincere character.

Have Other Resources.

Border Budget: International Falls is again receiving its periodical spasm of free advertising. This time it is not of the beneficial nature, but comes through the misfortune of Roosevelt's veto of a bill extending the time for the completion of the waterpower. There appears to be an opinion prevalent abroad that the dam was the one asset on which International Falls based its hopes of becoming a metropolitan city, but such is not the case. While the dam was our pet hobby, and a year or two setback will prove a disappointment, the loss is only temporary, and can be endured. With vast timber resources, matchless agricultural lands and an ideal lake which is fast gaining fame as a summer resort at our doors, a determined, energetic and harmonious populace have no fear of the future.

Governor Johnson a Gentleman.

Minneapolis, Tribune: The story that Governor Johnson called Mr. Bryan a "has-been" passed without notice in Minnesota.

Nobody who knows him ever believed it. Nobody ever supposed that anybody else would believe it. The routine contradiction of an assiduous private secretary provoked a smile.

The occurrence is of no use except as a peg on which to hang a general statement for the benefit of persons outside of Minnesota who do not know Governor Johnson. He is going to be in the limelight of publicity and under the sounding board of the press for three months, and these breed strange delusions. All manner of things will be printed as coming from him. Some of these will be true and some not.

One generalization is safe. One sure test of truth is always at hand. Any word or act that departs ever so little from the standards of courteous intercourse among gentlemen will be falsely attributed to Governor Johnson. Any rudeness of speech or crudeness of manner related of him will be the purest fiction. This assurance may be useful out of the state.

Governor Johnson's simple nicety of dress, his unfailing refinement of manner, his unvarying courtesy of speech, are valuable political assets. A man of the people, grown from a child of penury, he shames the Brahmins of New England and the Knickerbockers of Manhattan.

Says There is One Cause of Action Sufficiently Alleged.

Judge Dibell has overruled the demurrer of Hippoleit Buyck to the complaint filed in the action brought by the town of Buyck to recover $35,000 of the town funds alleged to have been acquired in an illegal manner by Buyck, the treasurer.

Judge Dibell, in his memorandum, says:

"Most of the allegations of the complaint state no ground for recovery and are of no legal significance. Many of them are so general and indefinite in their statement that it is quite uncertain what the real ground of the claim is. It is clear, however, that at least one cause of action is sufficiently alleged, perhaps more, and the demurrer, therefore, should be overruled."

METROPOLITAN—Burlesque.

AN EQUINE ACTOR.

"Broncho Boy" in "Coming Thro' the Rye," is a Veteran.

After their racing days are over horses of the turf often get jobs as actors. The horse actor is selected partly for his looks and partly for his intelligence. When such plays as "Ben Hur" "The Clansman," "The County Fair," and the musical comedy "Comin' Thro' the Rye" are on the boards there is a lively demand for these clever horses. In dramas like "Ben Hur" and "The County Fair," the illusion of galloping is produced by means of a treadmill on a level with the stage, but in "Comin' Thro' the Rye" the horse, "Broncho Boy," actually gallops across the stage at full speed, bearing a fair-haired soubrette, Miss Isabelle Lowe, and keeps time with the music.

It takes weeks and months to accustom even intelligent race horses to the requirements of the stage, consequently experienced actors are always preferred. "Broncho Boy" has appeared in "Ben Hur" and is an old-timer, who knows the stage from "A to Izzard."

The other evening the manager of "Comin' Thro' the Rye" dreamed he had an interview with "Broncho Boy." He had just received his "salary envelope," consisting of a small bag of provender. He immediately began to whine because he had been fined a quart of oats for saying in the second act.

"I have been on the stage seven years," he neighed, "and I am seriously thinking of buying a country place and retiring. I have appeared in eight big productions and the glare of the footlights is beginning to tell on my eyes.

"When I was in 'Ben Hur' I worked harder on that confounded treadmill than when I was winning handicaps.

"Stage life has but little fascination for me. If I could get a chance it might be different, but 'Mazeppa' is about the only play that affords stellar opportunities, and that is no longer played. Now, if Augustus Thomas would only write me a play I might decide to stay on the boards. I should get a star's dressing room anyway, then, and you know the smaller dressing rooms are terrible. I may go into vaudeville. Keith & Proctor made me a big offer the other day, but you know art is not everything in vaudeville, and * * * still the salary is very tempting. How does the house look tonight? Did you notice what a fine reception I got on my entrance? Do you know Miss Lowe actually thinks it's for her! Let her be pushed on there on a hobby horse and she would soon find out whom the applause is for!

"Well, I 'm sorry I have to leave you, but I must get my makeup off and get home, as I have a rehearsal at 9 tomorrow. Good night."

"That's a fine fellow," mused the manager after "Broncho Boy" had departed. "Of course, he has his minor kicks, but he is usually so well behaved. He never knows what it is to go on a strike, never objects to the part assigned him, and is always on time. He is a standing example for the chorus girls!"

Green Room Gossip.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be at the Lyceum Friday.

Johnnie Weber sings several German ditties during the action of "Suisette" at the Metropolitan this week, and they make a hit. Weber is German through and through and he delights to break forth into the mother tongue at intervals during a performance. With the assistance of two chorus girls, he gives an amusing monologue.

Thursday night there will be a chorus girls' contest, and Friday evening will be amateurs' night. Tomorrow afternoon there will be the ladies' matinee.

organized shall be composed solely of members of congress. So far as a currency commission is concerned, the members seem to prefer one of ten members, five from each body. If a tariff commission is to be authorized, which is not now thought probable, the number might be increased to twenty members, equally divided between the two houses. Congress leaders are almost unanimously opposed to any commission to suggest amendments to the Sherman anti-trust laws.

It has been pointed out that commissions made up of outside talent are expensive. Usually the salaries authorized are much larger than those received by members of congress. There are many other expenses attached to such organizations, and they are usually larger than the cost of preparing legislation in the ordinary channels. It was pointed out today that little has been accomplished by the large number of commissions created to suggest legislation, although one notable exception was that which prepared the preliminary draft of the gold standard law.

promptly at 4 o'clock, the hour scheduled.

In addition to the fact that today's race is the first between the two institutions, the uncertainty as to the result has greatly increased the interest in the event. Neither crew knows anything about the other through previous experience, except that they have each watched the other at practice. This has only led to the discovery that the strokes and "form" of each is as radically different from the others as is night from day.

Harvard has been drilled in Coach Wray's reaching, body stroke, that has the appearance of being a short one because of the lack of arm work at the end. Nevertheless, this stroke has plenty of power in it and is backed up by the greater weight of the crimson men who outweigh the midshipmen more than ten pounds on the average.

The Navy's stroke is the same which Coach Glendon has used ever since he began making fast, strong crews out of comparatively light material. It is devoid of "sliding," but is a long arm catch, followed out to the very end with every ounce of "steam" kept in it to the last. In fact, there is an added "lift" to the boat at the end of the stroke, while with the Harvard form the main pull is in the start after which the stroke is simply followed out easily. Taken altogether, the race promises to be one of the best ever rowed over the Severn course. While the mid-week events at Annapolis do not ordinarily attract very large crowds the chances are that there will be a big attendance this afternoon.

Fleet little launches, each commanded by a midshipman, will keep the course clear and police the side lines.

party leaders are a unit in declaring that such action will be taken.

Roger C. Sullivan of Chicago, who will practically dictate the work of the convention, arrived today and declared that there is no possibility of any anti-Bryan instructions.

The predicted contest from Cook county, to be headed by Robert E. Burke and Carter H. Harrison, is generally regarded as a joke. None of the contesting delegates have so far put in an appearance.

Opposition to Platform.

Much opposition had developed today to the adoption of a platform at the present convention. This is due to the wording of the platform planks, which the United Societies or liquor interests are urging for adoption. One of these censures the church for interfering with political matters, and demands in effect that clergymen be respectfully advised to attend strictly to the laws relating to this spiritual, and to leave alone the statute dealing with things spirituous. It is too early yet to confidently predict the fate of this resolution, but there is a strong feeling among such of the delegates as have arrived, that resolutions of this character are better left out of the platform, and many of them believe that no declaration of principles should be made at this time. This element favors putting off the issuance of a platform until it can be brought out in strict conformity with the provisions of the new primary law—and that means the middle of August.

The Johnson Sentiment.

Chicago, April 22.—The Record-Herald says: A convention of the "untrammeled" Democracy to select a contesting delegation to fight for Governor Johnson at Denver is among the possibilities if the Democratic state convention at Springfield Thursday instructs for William Jennings Bryan.

The phenomenal growth of Johnson sentiment in Illinois since headquarters were established by the friends of the Minesota executive at the Grand Pacific hotel led the suporters of Roger C. Sullivan yesterday to express the fear that gavel rule may be required to put through Bryan instructions.

On the heels of this gossip came the report that many of the local leaders who are with Sullivan for Sullivan, but not with Sullivan for Bryan, will arrange a rival convention. Among the leaders of the "untrammeled" Democracy, as it was at once called, are expected to be John P. Hopkins, George Brennan and others.

The situation developed out of the relations now existing between Roger C. Sullivan and the Nebraskan and the frills and embroideries attached thereto. Bryan and Sullivan are the best of enemies. Months ago, however, when Bryan was the only presidential candidate apparently in sight, Sullivan said that the Illinois convention would instruct for him. Since then conditions have been turned topsy-turvey, and the politicians are of the belief that Johnson sentiment is strong enough to head off Bryan instructions, unless there is recourse to the gavel.

Sullivan sticks to his promise and insists that he is for Bryan, although it hurts him every time he recalls that he threw his cards on the table earlier in the game than necessary. Inasmuch, as he will be in control of the state convention, Bryan instructions will come as his own gift to the Nebraskan.

An Iroquois club member sent 200 postal cards to other members who are residents in Illinois, with the following statement: "Democrats of Chicago are being asked to indicate their preference for the Democratic nominee for president. Would you kindly place a cross opposite the candidate of your choice on return postal card." Up to yesterday thirty-five replies had been received, as follows: Johnson, 22; Bryan, 9; Gray, 2; Douglas, 1; Chanler, 1.

CORRECTS MR. PILON.

A. E. Lundberg Claims Sister Did Not Take Eva Gagne to Rink.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In several items in your valuable paper regarding the attempt at suicide of Miss Eva Gagne, it appears to me that The Herald has been incorrectly informed as to some of the facts in the case. Mr. Pilon, stepfather to the young lady, seems to think very lightly of other people's characters and, it seems, wishes to make it appear that the blame for his daughter-in-law's attempt at suicide should be laid upon the young woman's friends. Mr. Pilon has very carelessly used the names of several young people in this case, particularly Miss Lundberg, my sister, and Mrs. Lundberg, my mother, and I wish, through this column, to right a statement made in your paper of April 21, which states that Mrs. Lundberg called upon Mrs. Pilon for the purpose of going to Superior to bring back the girls. This statement is an untruth. Mrs. Lundberg has been an invalid for over two years, and cannot move about the house, to say nothing of going to Superior to bring back someone else's daughter, whom she has never seen.

Miss Lundberg had permission to go to Superior on the evening in question, and if Miss Gagne was at the same place no blame can be laid to my sister. Mr. Pilon has left an impression and tried to make it appear by the frequent use of Miss Lundberg's name, that my sister had a great deal to do with the entire affair, while, in fact, only a slight acquaintance between the two girls can be mentioned.

I would thank you to publish this, and by so doing right some of the misleading statements that have been published, which have been very humiliating to my mother and other members of the family, and also to a great many others who are very well acquainted with the facts in the case. Respectfully,

A. E. LUNDBERG,

FIRE IN THE BRUSH.

Dry Weather Causes Many Blazes Just Outside the City.

This dry spring weather is resulting in many brush fires over the hills.

Many reports are coming in from points just outside the city, saying that stubborn blazes and smouldering fires are creating some havoc in brush and, in some instances, in heavy timber.

Sparks from locomotives, the fires of campers, and other causes have started the fires, and the brush is so dry that the flames spread rapidly.

As yet there have been no serious results from the brush fires.

CANDIDATE IS AFTER HARMONY

Would-Be North Dakota Congressman Makes Plea for Action.

Northwood, N. D., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. R. Sinkler, candidate for congress on the Republican ticket, delivered a stirring address to a large crowd here Monday night, in which he struck the keynote which should govern the deliberations of the Minot convention.

"Let factional differences continue to disrupt our party and our friends, the enemy, will find an easy victory at the November elections, but let us unite and certain success will meet our efforts at the polls," said Mr. Sinkler. "There is now no need of factional differences. The primary election law has eliminated the necessity of factionalism in Republican ranks. The inception of factionalism in our party was brought about through the efforts of a few persons to control party affairs. No man or set of men can control party affairs and dictate the policies, and the candidates of the party in the face of the primary election law. Gang rule having received its death blow upon the action of the primary election law, and it now being impossible for gang rule to successfully control political affairs the cause for the existence of factionalism is removed. The cause for factionalism removed and factionalism itself should be a thing of the past.

"Wisdom and intelligence, and the desire for party success will govern that Minot convention. The spirit of compromise is in the air. I have traveled from one end of this state to the other and delivered addresses in a large number of places and I have felt the pulse of Republican public opinion all over the state. That public opinion is in favor of union, getting together, and the burying of factional differences. Stalwart and Insurgent are not far apart, I mean the stalwart and insurgent in the ranks."

EQUITY SOCIETY'S CLAIMS.

Members Assert Society Kept Up Grain Prices During Panic.

Fargo, N. D., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the American Society of Equity in Minnesota and the Dakotas responsible for keeping the price of spring wheat up in the face of the financial flurry of last fall and winter is the claim made by the representatives of the organization in these states, who are now here discussing plans for work in the spring wheat states this summer. It is proposed to inaugurate a campaign that will continue for forty days and do more cooperative work in the three states. One of the main features discussed is united action in the spring wheat sections for terminal elevators in Duluth and Minneapolis to be owned and controlled by the society. Delegates have been in session here for three days and are formulating plans for a summer campaign.

IS SPLENDID FOR PEOPLE WITH STOMACH TROUBLE

Five Minutes After Eating One 22-Grain Triangule All Indigestion and Stomach Misery Goes.

When your stomach is weak or lacking in gastric juice, anything that you eat, no difference what it is, will sour on your stomach, raise the bile and acids to cover your food like oil on water, causing indigestion, dyspepsia, stomach nervousness and belching of sour poisons, which produce foul odors, nasty taste, bilious headache, heartburn, intestinal griping, and make you an object of misery. This is stomach trouble which can not be overcome with ordinary digestive medicines. It is caused by fermentation of your food, which will be remedied at once by a few 22-grain Triangules of Dlapepsin, a preparation pleasant to take and as harmless as candy, though each will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood 3,000 grains of food.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause of your stomach. If the stomach is sour and unhealthy, your food becomes tainted, and that's what is causing the indigestion and gas on stomach and other miseries. Pape's Diapepsin is an antacid, most powerful digestive and thorough regulator for weak stomachs. These Triangules will digest any kind of food you put in your stomach and intestines in a natural way which makes you feel fine five minutes afterwards.

Any good pharmacy here will supply you with a case of Pape's Diapepsin for fifty cents, which contains complete curative instructions; also tells the formula, so that you know exactly what you are taking. Just reading about Diapepsin will not help. You should go now and get a case. Put your stomach in full health and by tomorrow you will forget the misery of stomach trouble. Your case is no different. It isn't stomach, or gastritis, or dyspepsia. It is food rotting—Food fermentation—that's all—and takes about five minutes to overcome.

Exclusive Styles in Spring Hats!

We wish to announce the arrival of our Spring Hats. If you are looking for style and durability, you can find both here, in any "shape." Our uniform prise is $3.00. We make a specialty of fitting correctly, every type of face. We also clean and repair hats—and fully guarantee our work.

ADDRESS BY WU TING FANG

Chinese Minister Principal Speaker at New York Banquet.

New York, April 22.—Bearing messages of peace and goodwill from the Celestial empire, and expressing the conviction that the relations between China and the United States will become closer day by day, Wu Ting Fang, minister from China, speaking last night at the banquet of the American Asiatic association at Delmonico's, made his first public address since his return to America after several years absence. Wu Ting Fang's auditors, many of whom had entertained him at a farewell dinner over seven years ago on his departure for the Far East, greeted him with enthusiasm that betokened an appreciation of the diplomat and his services in the behalf of the Chinese citizens of the United States.

The awakening of China to western civilization and the broad industrial field opened in consequence to American trade were themes interestingly developed last night by Judge L. R. Wilfley of Shanghai, judge of the United States for Shanghai and John Barrett, director of the International Bureau of American republics, both of whom shared with Wu Ting Fang the principal guest, in the honors of the evening.

PRESIDENT HAS NO PLANS.

White House Denies Reports as to Where Roosevelt Will Go.

Washington, April 22.—At the White House yesterday announcement was made that the public should take no stock in the various stories recently published to the effect that the president is going to this or to that place in the United States or abroad after he is through with his work as president. It may be said on ample authority that he has not considered even in a tentative way what his plans may be after next March 4. That he will undoubtedly spend a good deal of time in travel for purposes of rest and recreation there is no doubt, but he has not yet made up his mind where he will go.

OLD SORES
KEPT OPEN BY BAD BLOOD

Whenever a sore refuses to heal, it is because of bad blood. If the place existed simply because the flesh was diseased at that particular spot, it would be an easy matter to apply some remedy directly to the ulcer that would kill the germ; or the diseased flesh might be removed by a surgical operation and a cure effected. But the very fact that old sores resist every form of local or external treatment, and even return after being cut away, shows that back of them is a morbid cause which must be removed before a cure can result.

The impurities in the blood which keep old sores open, come from different causes. A long spell of debilitating sickness, which breeds disease germs in the system, is a common source. These morbid impurities get into the circulation, and the blood becomes a polluted, infectious fluid, which, instead of nourishing the fibres and tissues of the flesh, irritates and ulcerates them, and continually discharges its impurities into the open sore, and prevents the place from healing. Another cause for bad blood is the retention in the system of the refuse and waste matters of the body. Those members whose duty it is to carry off the useless accumulations, become dull and sluggish in their action and leave their work imperfectly done, and this fermenting matter is absorbed into the circulation. The weakening or polluting of this vital fluid may also come from the results of some constitutional disease, while persons who are born with an hereditary blood taint are very apt to be afflicted with sores and ulcers.

ENTIRE FOOT A SOLID SORE.

Some time ago I had a sore to come on my foot, and nothing I used would do it any good. It continued to grow worse and eat deeper into the surrounding flesh, until the entire foot was a solid sore, and gave me a great deal of worry and trouble. I tried almost everything I heard of, but got no benefit until I commenced S. S. S. In a short time after commencing this remedy I began to improve, and I continued to use it until it drove the poison from my blood, and completely cured this obstinate sore. I recommend it most highly as a remedy for sores and ulcers.

DAVID C. MILLER.
242 W. 49th St.,
New York, N. Y.

Local or external applications can not cure an old sore, because they do not reach the blood. Such treatment may reduce the inflammation, lessen the pain and discharge, and tend to keep the place clean, and for this reason should be used, but it can do no real good toward effecting a permanent cure.

S. S. S. cures sores and ulcers by purifying the blood. It removes every impurity and taint from the circulation, and completely does away with the cause. When S. S. S. has cleansed the blood, the sore begins to heal, and it is not a surface cure, but the healing process begins at the bottom; soon the pain and inflammation leave, the discharge ceases, and the place fills in with firm, healthy flesh.

S.S.S.
PURELY VEGETABLE

S. S. S. is purely vegetable, made only from roots and herbs, and is an absolutely safe medicine for persons of any age. Under the purifying and tonic effects of S. S. S. the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired because of the drain and worry of an old sore, will be doubly benefited by its use. Special book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at all drug stores.

VITAL ORGANS TWISTED ABOUT

Remarkable Discovery Made in Body of St. Louis Judge.

Baltimore, April 22.—Surgeons in John Hopkins hospital, during an autopsy on the body of Judge J. E. McKeighon of St. Louis were astonished to discover that instead of the usual setting of the organs, those in the body were scattered about in almost unbelievable ways.

His heart was turned in a position the reverse of normal, his kidneys were united by a ligament in the shape of a horse shoe, and the liver was upside down, with the gall bladder on top. Many of the smaller organs were a chaos of entanglement of cords and fatty substances.

How Judge McKeighon lived with such a strange transposition of the organs of his body appears marvelous. Surgeons are mystified at it. Whether he was born with his organs in abnormal positions or they were put in this state through disease or freak of nature is not known.

Judge McKeighon lived to be 66 years old and was considered one of the ablest lawyers of St. Louis. He became seriously ill in St. Louis in February and his physician were unable to fathom his symptoms. He was brought to John Hopkins hospital early in March, where an operation was performed, during which discoveries were made of such a startling nature that the family consented to an autopsy.

DISMISSES SUIT; STARTS ANOTHER

Roots Company Begins New Action Against G. H. Decker.

Representing the P. H. & F. M. Roots company, which started suit a few weeks ago in the district court to recover several thousand dollars from G. H. Decker and others, on two promissory notes, A. N. McGindley dismissed the action yesterday, and immediately filed a new case in which the same amount is demanded. The plaintiff company alleges that it loaned Mr. Decker $14,000, that he reduced the indebtedness to $8,000 and gave his promissory notes for the balance, due in four months, at 6 per cent interest. Default is claimed to have been made in the payment of the notes. The plaintiff company alleges that Decker owns a valuable patent in a car-loading apparatus, and that he assigned the patent to his wife to avoid payment of the debt from the royalties received in the manufacture of the apparatus. Mrs. Decker and the manufacturing company are made parties to the action.

PENSIONS INCREASED.

Over 200,000 Widows Will Get $4 Per Month More.

Washington, April 22.—The new pension act, which went into effect on April 19, gives to 201,051 widows and other pensioners an increase of $4 a month. All pensioners getting less than $12, will receive that amount, commencing April 19, without the necessity of putting in new claims. The increase will operate automatically.

In addition to the increase of $9,650,448 in the amount of the pension roll, it is estimated that $2,592,000 in additional claims will be filed during the coming year, on account of the provisions in the new act granting a pension of $12 to widows of officers and enlisted men who served ninety days or more in the army or navy during the Civil war.

INSISTS ON COE.

Mayor Haven Says He Will Appoint Nobody Else.

Mayor Roland D. Haven says it will be E. K. Coe or nobody for city engineer. In speaking yesterday of the turning down by the council of the Coe appointment, he declared that he would insist on having the appointment confirmed, although the matter may not be brought up again next week. As soon as a favorable opportunity presents, the appointment will be pushed.

IS WELL NAMED.

Applicant for Citizen Papers Breaks All Former Records.

"What's in a name?" quoted Deputy Clerk of the District Court V. A. Dash, reflectively, yesterdty, as he wrote out an application for first citizen papers. "Some times there is a great deal in a name, and the forms furnished this office would have to be revised so as to give more space for the same if all names were like this one."

"If I am any judge," continued Mr. Dash as he checked his work back to see if he had all the words, "I should say that this man's mother gave him all the names in the family."

The applicant, Sigvard, etc., Borwick resides in Duluth.

HOSPITAL AT BIG RAPIDS, MICH., BURNS.

Big Rapids, Mich., April 22.—Fire yesterday destroyed Mercy hospital, here, a $75,000 establishment, erected twenty-eight years ago. All of the patients and the forty Sisters of Mercy, who were in the building, escaped without injury.

There were, fortunately, when the fire broke out, but twenty-five or thirty patients in the institution. The fire was first discovered near the roof. It spread rapidly, but there was time to remove all of the patients.

The structure was destroyed, except a small addition. The hospital was on the outskirts of the city, and the water supply was so low that the firemen were unable to check the flames.

URGE PASSAGE OF DAM BILL OVER THE VETO.

Washington, April 22.—Representative Bede and C. J. Rockwood appeared before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce yesterday on the Rainy river dam question and secured the passage of a motion for the appointment of a subcommittee to consider this and all other river and dam questions now before the committee in which Minnesota is interested.

This subcommittee, which is not yet named, will have hearings at which Messrs. Bede, Rockwood and others will appear. Mr. Bede hopes to have the committee recommend to the house the passage of the Rainy river dam bill over the president's veto, and says he is sure the president vetoed the bill without full knowledge of the facts.

According to Mr. Bede, the president was not aware when writing the veto that there had been any expenditure of money on account of the dam.

THE REVOLVING DOOR PROBLEM

Merry Widow Hats Bar Wearers From Office Buildings.

It is far easier for a person of extreme proportions to wedge into one of the little pie shaped compartments of the storm door, than for a young lady wearing a head piece nearly four feet in circumference to navigate through the same space. It is evident that the inventor of the revolving door, never dreamed of the Merry Widow hat and its dimensions, or he would undoubtedly have been more liberal with space.

More difficulty seems to be encountered by the fair wearers of the Merry Widow in the Torrey than in any other building. There the storm doors have been folded together dividing the entrance into halves. Yesterday a young woman bedecked in an exaggerated example of the modern head gear tried to force her way through this enrance. She failed at the first attempt, backed up and tried again. This time she cocked her hat on one side, and with her hat at an angle maneuvered her way through.

when he last appeared in the house of commons and moved the closure of the Scottish land bills, although he had been ailing since Nov. 13, 1907, when he participated at an entertainment in honor of Emperor William at the Guild hall. On Nov. 14, after addressing a political meeting at Bristol, he was seriously stricken with heart weakness and later influenza was added to his heart trouble being on his fatal illness. The ex-premier fully appreciated his condition and realized that his recovery was improbable. He offered to give up office some time before he formally resigned early this month. Few invalids have been the object of so much solicitude and attention as was bestowed upon Sir Henry, there having been a constant stream of callers at his Downing street residence, including King Edward, who visited him on two occasions; Queen Alexandra, and the dowager empress of Russia, the prince and princess of Wales, and many diplomats and men prominent in public life.

Sir Henry's last published utterance was a warm letter of thanks to his Scottish friends who presented him with a portrait of himself.

It is known that the ex-premier was opposed to a public funeral, and it is believed that he will be buried without ostentation beside the body of his wife at Meigle, in Perthshire, Scotland.

David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, on receiving the news of Sir Henry's death said:

"I never met a great public figure since I have been in political life who won so completely the attachment and affection of men who came in contact with him."

Born Sept. 7, 1836.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was born Sept. 7, 1836. He was the youngest son of the late Sir James Campbell of Stracathro, Forfarshire, some time lord provost of Glasgow. He assumed the additional name under the will of his maternal uncle, the late Henry Bannerman of Hunton Court, Kent, who bequeathed to him a large estate. He attended Glasgow university and Trinity college, Cambridge. In 1860 he married Charlotte, daughter of Maj. Gen. Charles Bruce. She died in 1906 and from that time Sir Henry's decline in health may be dated.

For nearly forty years he sat for the same seat—the Striking Burghs—and his record of office goes back to 1871, when he was financial secretary to the war office, which post he held a second time from 1880 to 1882. During the next two years he was secretary to the admiralty, and in 1884 he succeeded Sir George Trevelyan as Irish secretary, filling that office ably and unobtrusively until the fall of the Gladstone ministry in 1885, in spite of the fact that the Irishmen described him as "the Scotch sandbag." In the short government of 1886 he was secretary for war, and to that post he returned under the last Liberal government. He was chosen leader of the Liberal opposition in succession to Sir William Harcourt in February, 1899. The Boer war proved a stumbling block to the administration, but notwithstanding the differences between Liberal Imperialists and other Liberals over this question, a unanimous vote of confidence in his leadership was carried at a meeting of the Liberal party held at the Reform club in July, 1901.

Liberal League Formed.

In 1902 a passage of words took place between him and Lord Rosebery over the doctrine of the "clean slate" in regard to the Irish question and other public questions, and the Liberal league was formed. Sir Henry again received the solid support of the Liberal party in the house in 1903, 1904 and 1905, in opposing the education and licensing acts, Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal policy, and the government's action with regard to licensing and to Chinese labor in South Africa. On the resignation of the Balfour administration in December, 1905, Sir Henry was summoned by the king and formed a Liberal cabinet, himself becoming first lord of the treasury and prime minister.

The general election followed and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman entered the new parliament with the greatest majority ever given to a British premier.

It was prophesied at that time that the incoming of the new party into power would make a complete upsetting of the old order of things; that the Liberal government was in power for at least its full term under the septennial act and that within the next six years new names would be made and new statesmen would appear.

But with his passing the forces which he held together as a party appears to be approaching dissolution, unless by some strong act the new premier, Mr. Asquith, can weld and hold together the various factions that are striving for one particular object in the house of commons. Recent bye-elections have resulted in the defeat of the Liberal candidates on every hand, and no Liberal seats are regarded as too safe at the present time, a matter that has been given consideration in view of the reconstruction of the cabinet and the necessity of holding further bye-elections in case certain appointments to that body are made.

Had Dogged Determination.

During his term as premier, as indeed throughout his entire life, Sir Henry showed a dogged determination that won him many adherents and countless admirers, and caused his opponents to hesitate before throwing down the gauntlet to him. He was able to withstand attacks from whatever quarter with stolid indifference and to come back to the fight apparently undismayed, as though nothing had happened. His unfailing humor and his good will towards all men endeared him even to those who opposed him or whom he opposed.

Among the most important measures of the Liberal government brought before the parliament in 1906 was the education bill, but the house of lords gave it its death blow by adopting amendments which the house of commons could not consider. The premier withdrew the measure on Dec. 20 of that year in a memorable speech in which he repudiated the claims of the peers to dictate to the commons, and adding:

"It may be necessary to submit for the moment, but neither the resources of the British constitution nor of the house of commons are yet wholly exhausted, and a way must and shall be found whereby the will of the people, expressed through duly elected representatives in the house of commons, can be made to prevail."

Almost immediately after there followed efforts on the part of the government to check the powers of the house of lords, and on June 24, 1907, the premier himself moved:

"That, in order to give effect to the will of the people, as expressed by their elected representatives, it is necessary that the power of the other house to alter or reject bills passed by this house should be so restricted by law as to secure that within the limits of a single parliament the final decision of the commons shall prevail."

Eventually it was decided to appoint a select committee to consider and report upon "the suggestions which have from time to time been made to increase the efficiency of the house in matters of legislation."

Ill All the Session.

From the very beginning of the present session of parliament Sir Henry had been suffering ill health and after the opening day he practically had not been able to attend the sessions at all, Chancellor Asquith acting as premier in his absence. He was seriously stricken after a big political meeting held at Bristol on Nov. 13, and he was obliged to give up his plans for a series of political speeches that he intended to make.

On his resignation, April 5, the representatives of all parties united in paying tribute to his ability and strong character. Mr. Asquith said of him:

"In the annals of our history there is no man who, after long years spent in the thick of public contention, has ever laid down the highest office under the crown more universally and deservedly beloved."

Mr. Redmond, leader of the Nationalists, said that in Campbell-Bannerman's disappearance Ireland suffered a loss second only to the loss caused by the retirement of Gladstone. "There is not an Irish Nationalist in any part of the world," said Mr. Redmond, "who will not deeply deplore that this consistent, brave, honorable friend of Ireland has been taken from the arena of public life."

The Secret Revealed for Thin Women.

Madame Moneaux, deceased beauty specialist of New York, long possessed the greatest of all secrets pertaining to feminine charm. And what is this great secret, so much desired by women—the secret that has made a vast fortune for the madam's heirs, and that brought her all the famous actresses and society leaders for patrons?

"What, you don't know?"

It is a simple, but sure method of developing the bust, arms and neck of women, who through defect of nutrition and circulation, are humiliated by undeveloped arms, neck and bust. The treatment consists of applying a powerful but harmless nerving-stimulant to the cells of the skin, to be absorbed and utilized as nourishment to the flesh cells and tissues. Beautiful changes are wrought. Ugly, deformed women are developed into charming personages, with well rounded arms and neck and full normal bust of exquisite curve and proportion so much admired in our great actresses and society leaders. Any leading druggist will supply the ingredients to mix at home, and as they are used for various prescriptions no one need be the wiser as to what they are to be used for, which is as it should be for modest womanhood. Get separately "two ounces glycerine," "three ounces Rose Water" and "one ounce Tincture Cadomene" and 5 cents worth of borax. Take home, mix the glycerine with Tincture Cadomene, shake and let stand two hours; then add a teaspoonful of borax and the rose water. Shake well and apply to the neck, arms and bust, rubbing and massaging until completely absorbed; then wash thoroughly with hot water and soap and dry thoroughly. Apply morning and night regularly for several weeks and the most beautiful development will begin to reward the efforts. It is believed by experts to be the most necessary and effective prescription ever conceived.

This is worth keeping, if not for yourself, for some dear friend who needs it.

RUNAWAY HORSES IN A BIG CRASH

Buried Beneath Debris of Two Wagons; Drivers Were Absent.

Two sturdy steeds attached to an ice wagon ran away on Fifteenth avenue east this morning, colliding with another team belonging to a contractor, and all the horses were badly hurt. The drivers of the teams were not in their rigs at the time.

There is a steep grade at Fifteenth avenue, and the runaways, with their heavy wagon and load of ice, were traveling at a lively clip when they struck the contractor's wagon.

The smash wrecked both wagons and bruised and maimed the horses. The ice wagon horses were pinned beneath their wagon and its load, and were quite seriously hurt. The other horses escaped more fortunately.

INSPECTION COMPLETED

Lodging House Conditions Exposed by Herald Not Exaggerated.

Proprietors Are Given Orders to Clean Up at Once.

The health department, under the direction of Commissioner Patton, has completed its inspection of local lodging houses, and has ordered the places to be cleaned up, where such steps were found to be necessary. Officials of the department found The Herald had not exaggerated in picturing the filthy, unsanitary and unhealthful conditions prevailing in many of the cheap lodging houses of the city.

Proprietors were notified that they would have to make their places presentable, and were told that a little later on another inspection would be made. If it is found that the hotels in question have not complied with the orders of the department, it is liable to go hard with them. They will be made to clean up, whether they want to or not.

The health department now has contagious diseases pretty well under control. Scarlet fever cases have been almost entirely stamped out, and there are only a few scattered cases of diphtheria. There are fewer cases of both these diseases than a week or two back. The smallpox situation is also well under control, with fewer cases at the detention hospital than for some time past.

Lumberjacks coming in from the woods are responsible for what smallpox cases there are here. In almost every instance the disease can be traced to incoming woodsmen, who have exposed people of the city. The department is keeping a close watch on the newcomers, and doing everything possible to stamp out the disease entirely. The police department is lending valuable assistance in this respect, and the bluecoats are helping a lot in spotting cases among the woodsmen.

WIFE FEARED HER HUSBAND

Claims He Has Frequently Threatened to Kill Her.

William Granquist was arrested last night on a warrant sworn to by his wife. She says he has frequently threatened to kill her, and is afraid that he will carry out his threat to the extent of doing her great bodily harm, unless steps are taken to prevent it. He appeared in municipal court this morning, and his hearing was set for this afternoon.

THREE CHILDREN ARE CREMATED

Fire Believed to be Incendiary, Destroyes West Virginia Home.

Huntington, W. Va., April 22.—Three children of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Brumfield of Lincoln county were cremated, early today, in a fire which damaged their home. Brumfield, who discovered the fire, aroused his wife and leaped from a window to the ground with her in his arms. She was severely injured. The three children, all under 12 years, sleeping in another room, were burned to death before they could be rescued.

It is alleged that there has been a bitter feeling against Brumfield among the neighbors on account of testimony given by him in a conspiracy case in the federal court. The fire is believed to have been incendiary.

RACE MAY NOT OCCUR ON BRIAR CLIFF COURSE.

New York, April 22.—There is serious doubt if the automobile race, scheduled to be run on Friday over the Brair Cliff course in Westchester county, will take place. State Engineer Skene has demanded a cash deposit of $4,600 to indemnify the state for possible injury to the road by the racing machines. The race promoters' offer of a bond for that amount was refused and the race has been declared off. However, several of the men interested in the event are endeavoring to induce the promoters to reconsider their action and are hopeful that an arrangement can be made which will render possible the fulfillment of the program.

INJUNCTION DENIED.

Order From Nebraska Court on Sibley Act, Still Stands.

Lincoln, Neb., April 22.—Attorney General Thompson was today notified that Judge Munger of the federal court at Omaha had denied the request of the express companies for an injunction. The express companies sought to overthrow an order of the state supreme court directing that the Sibley act be enforced. This measure reduces express rates 25 per cent.

The attorney general regards the decision as an important victory for the state. Evidence will now be taken to ascertain the effect of the Sibley act. Referee Sullivan and the attorney general will go to New York today to gather evidence for the suit.

RUNS SHORT OF PLANS

Courthouse Commission Cannot Take Care of All Applications.

Many Outside Contractors Would Like to Bid on Work.

The St. Louis county courthouse plans and specifications, thirty-two sets in all, went like hot cakes, and now Secretary Claypool of the courthouse commission is in a quandary to know how to take care of the applications that are coming in by every mail from contractors from all over the country. The applications are accompanied by certified checks for $200 each, one of the requirements being that the contractors should make a deposit for the safe return of the plans. The plans and specifications are complete and are valued at $20,000 by the architects, D. H. Burnham & Co.

The local contractors got the first chance at the plans and specifications, as they were on the ground, and practically all of the sets were kept in the city. Contractors in Chicago, Cleveland and other large cities are anxious to get an opportunity to bid for the work, but the architects have furnished all the plans and specifications they have at hand and those who have already secured sets of the same are hanging on to them.

Secretary Claypool believes that he could have placed double the number of the sets of plans furnished.

Some of the local contractors were rather aggrieved at the requirement that they deposit a certified check for the return of the plans, but the commission holds them as valuable and the contractors from the outside would gladly put up a check for even more than $200 if they could get a set of the plans.

ESTABLISH RUSSIAN COLONY.

Menominee, Mich., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Russian colony is being established by several Russians in this county. A number of Russians and Russian-Polanders from Buffalo, Chicago, and other cities are already on their lands and building homes. A new post office known as Orloff will be established. The land has been sold in small tracts, and the colonists will devote their time to growing sugar beets, tomatoes, cucumbers and truck gardening.

Negaunee, Mich., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sporting fraternity on the Swanzey range is showing interest in a Cornish wrestling match between Mike Dooley, who for several years held the lightweight championship of the upper peninsula, and Dick Champion of Ishpeming, to take place at Riverside hall a week from Saturday night, May 2. They will wrestle for a purse of $25, the winner also to take 60 per cent of the door receipts. The contest will be best three falls in five.

ASPHYXIATED IN WELL.

Courtnay, N. D., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—George H. Bigelow, who was digging a well on the farm of L. H. Larson near here, was overcome by the noxious fumes of a dynamite explosion and perished before he could be rescued.

Bigelow had encountered a rock and had to use dynamite in order to clear the way. Some time after the dynamite had been discharged he went down in the well, and thinking there was no danger, untied the rope with which he had been let down, but it was only a few minutes until he discovered there was gas in the well and he called for help, but owing to the fact that the well was curbed with 18-inch tiling it was impossible for Mr. Larson to descend to him, as he was too large to get down through the tiling. Every effort possible was made to save Bigelow, but by the time they secured a man who could go down into the well it was too late, and after every effort had been made to revive him he was pronounced dead.

BREAK ABOUT EVEN.

Neither Side Won Out in Anti-Saloon Fight.

Sioux Falls, S. D., April 22.—W. L. Doolittle, a veteran railroad engineer defeated Mayor F. M. Pillsbury, who was a candidate for re-election by 498 majority yesterday. The anti-saloon party was defeated by a majority of 553.

The saloon was the main issue in numerous town elections throughout the state. The sharpest contest was at Mitchell, which went dry for the first time in thirteen years by the narrow margin of twenty-one votes. Last year license carried by 234. Canton and Miller also abolished saloons by small majorities. Returns from other towns indicate little change in the present standing.

Their home was broken into between 7 and 9 o'clock Sunday morning and about $175 taken from its hiding place in a small wall closet.

SOX LEAVE FOR AURORA

Candidates Will be Thoroughly Tried Out This Week.

Long String of Exhibition Games Beginning Next Sunday.

The candidates for places on the Duluth team of the Northern league played their last game at Rockford yesterday and leave today for Aurora, where they will work out for the remainder of the week. The games at Rockford were premature, as the boys went out on the field for play immediately after reporting and their work was naturally very crude.

Morning and afternoon practice will be the rule at Aurora this week and Morrow will get a fine chance to see just what the men can do under favorable conditions. They couldn't be expected to put up a good game without having practiced together, and the results of the games at Rockford give no indication of what the strength of the team will be when the men get working together.

Beginning at Aurora next Sunday, the team has a long string of exhibition games scheduled, which will try it out thoroughly before it reaches Duluth. Three games will be played at Aurora, three at Freeport and three at Madison. The team will reach Duluth May 7 and will play one exhibition game at the local park before going up on the range for games May 8, 9 and 10 with Virginia, and May 11 and 12 with Hibbing. The weakened and well-grooned Sox will then leave for Winnipeg to open the season May 14.

Of the five pitchers Morrow now has on the staff, Murray and Manley look like the men most likely to stick. Both have good arms and good heads and, with their early wildness corrected, will make good. Couture was wild in his first efforts, but may come around. He is young, but has good speed and curves. Nash has a fine arm, but his head is evidently not any too good and the same is true of Brandt.

Allwood, who has been playing third base, signed as a shorstop. He is 22 years old and stands about 5 feet 4 inches. He is chain lightning on his feet and stands up to bat well. His home is in Toledo, Ohio, where he owns a barber shop and he plays baseball every summer. This season he tried out with Fort Wayne in the Central league and practically had the shortstop position double-riveted, when Comiskey turned Osteen back to Fort Wayne and Allwood lost out.

The Sox will need a southpaw pitcher and one will be reported before the team leaves Aurora. Jim Haney, Walter Lard and another southpaw are under contract and at least one of them will be attached to the squad. Josie Krick may also be ordered to report at Freeport.

Si Bennett, the Duluth boy playing with Butte in the Northwestern league, started the season well. He rapped out three hits out of his four times at bat

The Rockford team of the Wisconsin-Illinois league has three men from last year's Houghton team of the Northern Copper Country league. Ned Rogers is pretty sure of a place on the pitching staff. Kid Taylor is playing shortstop, and Al Meyers is in right field.

Jack Corrigan is again manager of the Green Bay team of the Wisconsin-Illinois league and has gathered around him a fine crowd of players, a number of whom appeared in the Northern league at some time.

The Winnipeg team reports at Quincy, Ill., today and, after being put through their paces for a few days, the Maroons will start on a schedule of training trip games. Herr has signed a new first baseman to take the place of Luderus and he thinks he will need no more men. The following have been ordered to report::

Manager, Edward Herr, who threatens to pitch again.

Pitchers—Reiser, Winam, Murphy, Williams, Geincke, Saltness.

Catcher—Urik.

Infields—Kling, Sensenbach, Metzer and the unknown first baseman.

Ot fields—Beattie, Pierce and Wilkinson.

Artie O'Dea has signed Harold Bond, the elongated first baseman, who performed for Winnipeg two years ago. Bond is some pitcher and O'Dea has made a good stroke in getting his name on the contract.

YOUNG SOX DROP THIRD GAME

Brandt is Wild and Errors Behind Him Lose to Rockford.

Rockford, Ill., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Costly errors on the part of Duluth and wild pitching on the part of Brandt were the big factors in the loss of yesterday afternoon's game to Rockford. Allwood dropped one easy foul while three were on bases in one inning and Brandt forced in a run once on four successive passes and following this a double by Palmer sent in two other runs.

Rockford batted well and was lucky, while for Duluth it was the opposite. The score:

INDOOR FIELD MEET.

Silver Medal Will Go to the Best Boy Athlete.

Friday evening at 8 o'clock the last indoor field meet, in connection with the boys' department gymnasium work for this season, will be held, and will decide who will receive the silver medal for the best all-around athlete. The events are: 15-yard dash, three standing jumps, standing broad jump.

The events are open to all members o fthe intermediate classes. Each boy will receive a diploma with his record on it. Regular work is being conducted in the gymnasium and many of the members are taking this opportunity of getting into training for the interscholastic and high school meets. The gymnasium classes will continue until the closing of school, after which the summer schedule will be inaugurated.

To Play at New York.

New York, April 22.—Tt the annual meeting of the Polo association, held here last night, it was decided that the national championship this year be played at Van Cortlandt park in this city, from Aug. 29 to Sept. 5.

One can't tell anything about baseball teams by the result of the games on the training trips. Ante-season exhibition games are to teach the players. They get errors and dumb plays out of their systems and that's what the games are for. The results don't count for anything with a good manager and let a team be beaten ever so badly and have the manager find out one fault that can be corrected or one good point in a player, the object of the game has been attained.

"Kid" Morrow knows baseball. He has been in the Texas, Pacific Coast, Western, Northwestern and Wisconsin State leagues and has worked in the American association also. He knows a ball player from a shine and, unless the impression gained of him in a few days is all wrong, he will give Duluth a team of which the fans need not be ashamed. Morrow doesn't claim to be much of a player now. He scales over 200 pounds and will go but little below that mark with all his training. If he can get down to play field and is a slugger. He will lend his own aid to the winning of games as a player.

As a manager, however, he intends to shine. He knows his men and has the faculty of inspiring them with the ginger he certainly possesses himself. With his experience as a player and manager, he is to all appearances a safe man in whose hands to place the fortunes of the Duluth team. If one man doesn't do, another can be secured in his place. Given a free rein, Morrow should make good and the support of the fans is due him in every effort he makes to grab the pennant for Duluth.

At last, Kid Constantine and Scraps Costello have agreed to get together. After the long wind-jamming fest, it's about time they did something besides talk and write. Some astute promoter, seeing a chance to allow them to settle their differences, have matched them and they will go at it. Constantine backed down on the weight proposition and Costello plucked up enough courage to accept the challenge.

Here's hoping Constantine pulls off a big celestial display for the Costello boy and Scraps puts his left mit in the Eyeleth child's face forty-seven consecutive times with a right wallop once in a while for good measure. After all the talk they put up, both boys ought to give the spectators a run for their money. Square away and let the better man win or the worst man climb down a well.

The sporting editor of the Minneapolis Journal bungled last week and casually mentioned that Brandon, the new town the Northern league was in Ontario. Artie O'Dea, who was in Minneapolis at the time, went straight up and seventy-four erstwhile Brandonites, who read the paper, accompanied the duke of Manitoba in the balloon ascension act. The erring scribe was worried to death and retracted his statement, putting Brandon firmly and securely on the map in the province of Manitoba, Donlion of Canada. The worst of it is, a Duluth sporting writer referred to the genial "Artie" as "Paddy" the same day as the Flour City man slopped over on his geography. For unkind cuts, that's got one Brutus fellow beaten forty times around the block and once the whole length of Superior street.

Rudy Unholz is to get his chance to establish a claim to the lightweight championship of the United States and it's a mighty slim one. The Boer is going up against Joe Gans, and, unless all the dope is away off the track, Rudy is due for one fine trimming, such as only the Old Master can give. Unholz is a willing boy who took a few jumps up the ladder of fame by tapping George Memsic and Battling Nelson many times in his bouts with them. With the money and a funny Dutch accent, he has been traveling around the country keeping his name before the public. Now he is to meet Gans. From an unknown to champion lightweight pugilist is a pretty big jump and Unholz will not make it with Gans in the way.

WAS GREAT VICTORY.

American Did Not Lose Game in Chess Tournament.

New York, April 22.—Baron De Rothschild of Vienna, referee in the Anglo-American chess tournament for the Newnes trophy, cabled to the Brooklyn chess club yesterday as follows:

"Consider both games drawn."

The message had reference to the two games left unsettled on March 14 and upheld the contention of the American committee that the games could not be won by the Englishmen, despite the fact that each of the latter had the advantage of a pawn.

Thus A. B. Hodges, at the first board, is credited with a draw against J. P. Blackburn, the American, incidentally maintaining his unbeaten record; and E. Delmar, with a draw against G. W. Richmond. The final totals of the match therefore are 6½ games for America and 3½ for Great Britain. Not a single defeat is charged against the American team and the victory is the most pronounced yet recorded in the annals of the series.

JENKINS COMES BACK

The Old-Time Champion Wants to Wrestle Frank Gotch.

Gotch Knows Nothing of It and Wants a Rest.

New York, April 22.—Tom Jenkins, America's ex-champion wrestler, is once again on the warpath. He is after the scalp of Frank Gotch, the recent conqueror of Hackenschmidt, to whom Tom lost his laurels a year ago.

Jenkins defeated Gotch in Madison Square Garden a couple of years ago in the most bitterly fought wrestling contest ever held in this country. Shortly after that Hackenschmidt took the American's measure, and in doing so injured Jenkins' side. It was while still suffering from this injury that Jenkins took Gotch on in Kansas City and was beaten. Time and again he tried to get Gotch to give him a return match, but without avail. Then Jenkins was appointed wrestling instructor at the military academy at West Point and went into temporary retirement.

Since Gotch beat the "Russian Lion," Jenkins has been lending a willing ear to the call to battle. When in proper condition he was always Gotch's master, and the work that Tom has been doing at West Point has put him in fine shape. He says that if Gotch is a champion, he knows that he is twice one, and that he will not rest until he forces the farmer into a match.

Gotch can give no good excuse for not meeting, as Jenkins can secure no end of backing in the event of the same being necessary. He is also willing for the winner to take the entire purse. It's up to Frank Gotch.

"If Tom Jenkins or any other would-be champion is breaking his neck to get at me and my title, I don't know anything about it," said Frank Gotch, champion wrestler of the world, who is appearing at the Metropolitan Opera house this week. "I intend to stay with this show for the remainder of its season and then I will hike back to my Iowa farm and take a rest. I believe I have earned it. My match with Hackenschmidt was enough to earn a few months' rest, but that was only the finisher of as hard a season as ever a wrestler or any other athlete put in.

"From the opening of the season last fall I traveled and gave exhibitions, often meeting men who taxed my strength and ability. Just prior to the match with Hackenschmidt, I wrestled forty-one exhibition matches in as many nights. For the Russian, I trained only fourteen days, although my steady wrestling had kept me in good condition.

"Hackenschmidt was certainly a big surprise to me. I expected to win, but thought it would be a much harder battle than it was. I am satisfied now that I have the world's championship. After the summer on my farm, I will be ready to meet anybody in the world to defend my title. I don't know of anybody after me now and, if there is, they may as well wait until next fall now."

SCHOOL LEAGUE OPENS SATURDAY

Ten Teams Will Begin Race for Baseball Pennant.

Much interest is being manifested by the school boys of the city in the athletic events that are being arranged for them by the boys' department Y. M. C. A. Ten schools are represented this year in the baseball league. The executive committee will meet this week and arrange the schedule of games. The first game will be played Saturday. The school winning the largest number of games will win the banner presented by the boys' department. The banner will be made of silk in the colors of the school winning it. The committee has adopted the following rules and regulations:

1. Any boy of any grade school can become a member of the team from his school. All players must be registered.
2. The Boys' department will furnish the referees for each game and notify the teams where and whom they will play.
3. Games will be pulled off on scheduled time, except in the case of wet weather when the game will be postponed. Any team not ready when the referee calls the game will forfeit it to the opposing side.
4. Members of the home team will treat the visiting team with all courtesy, and both teams will endeavor to put up a clean game.
5. Smoking or profanity at league games by members of the league will be a sufficient cause for suspension from the league.
6. League members agree not to play Sunday games.

PREPARING FOR WHITEHEAD

Tom McCune After Victory and Match With Austin.

Tom McCune, a little marked after his fight with Eddie McGoorty at Hibbing last week, but smilingly confident of his ability to take care of himself in the ring, left yesterday for Ely, where he will train a few days for his match with Walter Whitehead on the range next Saturday night.

For a long time, McCune has been after a match with Vernon Austin, the Port Arthur middleweight. The winner of the coming fight has been promised a match with Austin and McCune is right after the victory. He wasn't very badly used up in his bout with McGoorty and is ready to give Whitehead a game.

Little is known of Whitehead, but he is said to be there with a healthy wallop hanging at both sides and some fistic ability. Both he and McCune have the sleep producers and the bout will certainly not go the limit, if both men sail in for the knockout. The spectators will get a run for their money and a knockout, unless all the dope goes wrong.

KELLEYS AND FITWELLS

Semi-Pro Teams to Play First Game Next Sunday.

Next Sunday afternoon, the Kelleys and Fitwells will meet at Athletic park in the first semi-professional game of the season in Duluth and the first baseball game of any consequence. Both teams have been together for the past two weeks, have had some practice and will be in good shape for the first contest.

Out of the squad of stars, which he took out for the first trials, Manager Ziegler of the Kelleys has picked a nine, which he thinks will be a winner. Every man has played considerable ball in and around Duluth and is well known to the fans, so that the team will be a home aggregation. Ernie Larson will probably do the pitching next Sunday, with Wegman behind the bat.

The Fitwells, under the captaincy of Frank Schaefer, are strong and likely and are being backed heavily for a victory Sunday and several of them during the season. Earl Cummings is the principal hillman, while Schaefer will be at the receiving end of the battery.

LAST MATCH TO DECIDE TITLE

Fitwells Running Close to Bankers in City Bowling League.

The last match of the season will decide the championship of the Duluth City Bowling league. During the first week in May, the First National bank and Fitwell teams, which are separated by but one game, will meet in a match of three games, the last of the series. The two have been running close together all season, alternating in first position. The Bankers took a good lead by winning from the Columbias Monday night, but last night, the Fitwells came back, winning two out of three from the Centrals and pulling up to within one game of the leaders.

Last night, the Centrals won the first game, but they fell down in the last two and they were easy for the clothingg men. Max Mitchell of the Centrals secured the high average of 203 and Teske of the same team rolled the high score of 215. Sam Olsen rolled in good form, getting an average of 200½ from scratch.

Death Was On His Heels.

Jesse P. Morris of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

NO TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

Precautions Taken at Louisville Against Pool Rooms.

Lexington, Ky., April 22.—A representative of a racing news service of Cincinnati was denied priviliges at the race meeting, and as yet no permit to establish a telepraph office has been granted. It is understood that if a branch telegraph office is established that a bond will be required that no messages will be handled for pool rooms and that censor will be placed in the office to see what is offered. This is the result of the new rule prohibiting associations furnishing racing information.

How to Stop Drinking

It was formerly customary for the habitual drinker to take the pledge regularly, sometimes once a year, and sometimes in every fit of remorse that followed his debauches, and then—Break it.

But now it is gradually dawning on the world that pledges do not stop drunkenness. The nervous system of the habitual drinker is diseased and he must have treatment that will cure this condition. Orrine is sold under a positive guarantee to cure the drink habit or the money will be refunded. Can be given secretly.

WHEAT IS STILL HIGH

Scarcity of Offerings Puts Prices Up Again in America.

Flax Has a Good Bulge in the Local Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 22.—Wheat was as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth in the American markets today and while it made business narrow, it sent the prices up and all the markets closed higher.

Only four cars of wheat were received in Duluth today and receipts in the other Northwest markets are correspondingly light.

The demand from abroad continues firm but local exporters were unable to offer the foreigners much wheat for the fear that they would be unable to get it themselves. Some little wheat, both spring and durum, was worked here during the session, however, and it was reported that considerable September-October winter wheat worked from the gulf.

Liverpool closed unchanged to ½d higher, Berlin unchanged, Budapest 1⅜c lower, Paris ¼c@⅜c higher and Antwerp unchanged to ⅝c higher.

The May option closed ½c higher in Duluth and Minneapolis, 1¼-⅜c higher in Chicago, and ⅛c higher in New York and Winnipeg. The July option closed ⅛c higher in Duluth, ⅛-¼c higher in Chicago, ½-⅝c higher in Minneapolis, unchanged in New York and ⅛c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ⅛c lower in Chicago and ⅜d higher in Liverpool.

Primary receipts of wheat were 318,000 bushels; last year, 733,000 bushels. Shipments, 305,000 bushels; last year, 373,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 131,000 bushels.

Primary receipts of corn were 602,000 bushels; last year, 486,000 bushels. Shipments, 326,000 bushels; last year, 616,000 bushels. Clearances of corn were 108,000 bushels.

Wheat trading was light during the session in Duluth. May wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.02, advanced to $1.02⅞, declined to $1.02¼ and closed at $1.02⅝, a gain of ½c over yesterday. July wheat opened unchanged at $1.02½, advanced to $1.03¼, declined to $1.02½ and closed at $1.03, a gain of ½c over yesterday. September wheat was inactive and closed ⅝c lower at 90¾c.

Durum wheat was unchanged and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2¾c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was quite active and closed higher. May flax opened unchanged at $1.17⅞, declined to $1.17⅝, rallied to $1.18½ and closed at that price, a gain of ⅝c over yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.20, declined to $1.19¾, rallied to $1.20½ and closed there, a gain of ½c over yesterday. October flax opened ⅛c higher at $1.20½ and closed at $1.21, a gain of ⅝c over yesterday. September flax was inactive and closed ⅝c higher than yesterday at $1.21.

Oats closed ⅛c higher and the other coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Feature of Wheat an Advance of 1 Cent in May Delivery.

Chicago, April 22.—The feature in the wheat trade here today was an advance of over 1c in the May delivery. Offerings in May were limited and eagerly taken by commission houses. Small receipts in the Northwest and an improved demand for cash wheat were bullish factors. Deferred deliveries were strengthened by the action of May despite the predictions of wet weather in Kansas and Nebraska. May opened a shade to ⅝@¾c higher, at 95¼c to 95⅞c and sold up to 96⅞c. July opened ⅛@¼c lower to ⅛c higher, at 87⅛c to 87¾@½c and sold at 88⅛c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 145 cars against 101 cars last week and 605 cars one year ago.

Sentiment was less bullish in the last half of the session and there was considerable profit-taking. The market closed steady with May 1¼@1⅜c higher at 96½c. July sold off to 87⅛c and closed ⅛@¼c higher at 87½c.

Corn was firm on small receipts and on the strength of wheat. Trade was light owing to limited offerings. May opened unchanged to ⅛c lower, at 66¾c to 66⅞c and sold up to 67⅛c. July opened ⅛@¼c to ¼@⅜c lower at 62⅞c@63c to 63c and sold at 63⅛@¼c. Local receipts were 180 cars with 12 of contract grade.

The market was weak during the last half of the session on profit-taking by a number of the leading elevators. May sold off to 66¼@⅜c and July to 62⅛c. The close was weak with May unchanged to ⅛c lower at 66¾c to 66¾@⅞c and July ½@⅝c lower at 62⅝c.

Oats were dull and firm with other grains. May opened ⅛c higher at 53½c and sold up to 53¾c. July opened ⅛c higher, at 45½c and sold at 45⅞c. Local receipts were 129 cars.

There was only a moderate trade in provisions and the market was barely steady. A 5c decline in live hogs had a weakening influence. The principal trading was in July and September options. July pork was 7½@10c to 10@12½c lower, at $13.00 to $13.02½. July lard was 2½c to 7½c lower, at $8.05 to $8.10. July ribs were 5c lower at $7.02½.

Close: Wheat—May, 96½c; July, 87½c; September, 84⅜c. Corn—May, 66¾c to 66¾@⅞c; July, 62⅝c; September, 61⅛c. Oats—May, old, 53⅜c; May, 52c; July, old, 45⅞c; July, 43½c; September, 37⅛c. Pork—May, $12.77½; July, $13.10; September, $13.40. Lard—May, $7.92½; July, $8.12½; September, $8.32½. Lard—May, $7.92½; July, $8.12½; September, $8.32½. Ribs—May, $6.77½; July, $7.05; September, $7.30. Rye—Cash, 78@80c. Barley—Cash, 70@84c. Timothy—April, $4.25. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 96¼@98¾c; No. 3 red, 93¼@96⅞c; No. 2 hard, 95¼c@$1.02; No. 3 hard, 92¼c@$1.00; No. 3 spring, 95c@$1.03; others nothing doing. Corn—No. 2, nothing doing; No. 3, 64¼@64½c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Northwest News Regarding Wheat as Bullish as Ever.

Minneapolis, April 22.—The clearing of the straits and the movement of boats on the lakes made the only new influences in wheat. Northwest news was as bullish as ever, Minneapolis stocks decreasing 425,000 bus for four days. Minneapolis received 121 cars today against 237 last year, and Duluth only 5 against 250. But the trade has become more used to these figures, and seems less disturbed by them. Crop news from winter wheat states and spring wheat seeding reports from North Dakota and Western Canada were favorable. The market advanced sharply early but weakened later. May opened at $1.03⅝, high $1.05, low $1.03⅝; close, $1.04⅜; July closed $1.03⅛; September closed 89⅞c.

The cash market was quotable 2½c over May for No. 1 northern and May price for No. 2, with demand moderate, and wheat offered cheaper to come out of elevators. Cash close: No. 1 northern, $1.06⅛@1.06⅝ spot, $1.06⅛ to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.03⅛@1.04⅜ spot, $1.04⅛ to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 96⅛c@$1.02⅛.

No. 3 yellow corn, 67¾c. No. 3 white oats, 49¼c. No. 2 rye, 72¾@74¾c.

Flax, 1c over Duluth May and in good demand. Close, $1.19¼.

Bran in bulk, $21.00@21.25.

Flour sales have been checked by the recent advances. Quotations today are unchanged. Foreign demand was very light.

Shipments, 45,395 barrels. First patents, $5.35@5.50; second patents, $5.25@5.40; first clears, $4.10@4.25; second clears, $3.30@3.40.

The Cotton Market

New York, April 22.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 7@9 points in response to better cables than expected, and during the early session sold about 11 to 14 points net higher on covering by shorts and a moderate demand from the scalping contingent. DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Movement Was Very Narrow and the Close Was Steady.

Additional Large Gold Exports Had No Effect on Market.

New York, April 22.—First prices of stocks today showed no important changes from yesterday's closing with the exception of a few specialties, and the dealings were small. Mixed gains and losses of ⅛ to ¼ were general. Reading first preferred sold at an advance of 2; North American, 1¼; American Beet Sugar, 1, and Interborough-Metropolitan preferred, and Distillers' Securities, ¾.

Additional large gold exports were without effect on the market, prices rising moderately with a considerable demand for the minor specialties. American Beet Sugar was bid up 4, the preferred, 2; North American, 3; Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, 1¾; National Biscuit, 1⅜; Distillers Securities, 1¼, and Reading, Wheeling & Lake Erie first preferred, National Lead and Third Avenue, 1. American Malting preferred fell 4.

The tone of the market became rather dull and heavy, but recession were slight. Missouri Pacific, Ontario & Western, Westinghouse Electric and American Car preferred rose 1, Chicago Union Traction preferred, Trust Receipts, 1¼, and American Steel Foundry preferred Trust Receipts, 1½. Bonds were steady.

Selling stopped and the market became firmer, although the improvements were very slight. Louisville & Nashville receded a point.

Prices held rigidly throughout the period of dullness in the afternoon, but there was no feature to the dealings. Atlantic Coast Line gained 1, and St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred lost 1¼.

The market closed steady. Light realizing sales after the announcement of the Pennsylvania bond issue caused small recessions in prices. The movement was very narro wand the trading dull. Third Avenue declined 1.

Copper Gossip.

Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston to Walter W. Carr: Our copper market today was somewhat stronger with trading small and without feature. North Butte was the leader. Metal prices in London opened slightly lower, but closed a trifle better. Metal prices in New York were unchanged. We see nothing to affect the market, but expect a dull narrow market to continue with slight a improvement daily.

St. Paul Livestock.

St. Paul, April 22.—Cattle—Receipts, 500; active, steady and unchanged. Hogs—Receipts, 3,000; 5c lower; range $5.00@5.55; bulk, $5.45. Sheep—Receipts, 100; dull and a tendency of prices lower. Quotations unchanged.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—Barrett & Zimmerman's report: Demand was somewhat indifferent, with buyers contending for lower values. Second-hand horses out of the woods were in liberal demand and offer real bargains to country buyers. Mules on the market are of good quality and a number of head were sold to local contractors for grading work about the city. Delivery horses were active. The demand for saddlers and family drivers increases.

ONE HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY

Philadelphia, April 22.—With all the splendor of the ritual of the church, and with prelates from many sections of the country in attendance, a solemn pontifical mass of thanksgiving was celebrated in the Roman Catholic cathedral here today, in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the diocese of Philadelphia. Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishops Ryan of Philadelphia, Farley of New York and O'Connell of Boston, and about twelve bishops occupied seats in the sanctuary during the mass. Mgr. Diomede Falconio, the apostolic delegate to the United States, was the celebrant, and priests attached to the cathedral were deacon and sub-deacon. The sermon was preached by Bishop Garvey of Altoona, Pa. The music of the mass was rendered by the students of the Overbrook seminary, assisted by the cathedral choir, which was augmented for the occasion.

Big Cathedral Crowded.

Despite the fact that admission to the mass was by card, thousands gathered about the cathedral in Logan square in the hope of being admitted. The big cathedral was crowded when the services began. The procession to the cathedral of the dignitaries clad in their rich vestments, and the other clergymen, was impressive. More than 500 priests of the Philadelphia diocese led, and were followed by several hundred visiting priests and members of various religious orders. The bishops, archbishops, Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ryan and Mgr. Falconio brought up the rear.

The beginning of the mass was announced by the ringing of the bells of the Catholic churches in the city.

Banquet to Visitors.

After the mass a banquet was tendered the visiting clergymen in the boys' Catholic high school by Bishop Ryan. Toasts were responded to as follows: "Our Holy Father, Pope Pius X," Mgr. Falconio; "Our Sister Jubilarians," Archbishop Farley, New York; "Our Guests," Bishop McFaul of Trenton; "The Province of Philadelphia," by Bishop Hoban, Scranton, Pa.; "The Bishops Who Have Ruled Us," by Bishop Horstmann, Cleveland, Ohio; "Our Clergy," by Bishop Prendergast, Philadelphia; "Our Priests in the Episcopale," Bishop Fitzmaurice, Erie, Pa.; "Our Laity," Bishop Conavin of Pittsburg.

Archbishop Ryan has received hundreds of telegrams of congratulations from all sections of the country, from persons of all creeds. Among the telegrams received was one from President Roosevelt. It probably will be read at a dinner to be given tomorrow night to Archbishop Ryan by the laymen of Philadelphia.

SUPERIOR NEWS

DEDICATE NEW BUILDING.

New Federal Structure Will be Formally Opened Next Week.

The formal opening and dedication of the federal building of the city of Superior will be held next week, on Wednesday or Thursday. The exact time has not yet been decided.

A committee has been appointed by the Commercial club to meet with the committee from the council, to decide the date and arrange the program for the dedication formalties. They will meet tonight.

Invitations to attend the ceremonies have been extended to Congressman J. J. Jenkins, ex-Senator Spooner, Senator LaFollette and several other prominent men outside the city. The invitations also include the judge of the district court and the district attorney.

TOO MUCH FOR ATTORNEY.

Superior Girl Makes Address to Court and Wins Case.

Carl M. Wilson, one of Superior's prominent attorneys, was no match for Anna Niska, a 17-year-old girl, in the Superior court yesterday.

Mr. Wilson was appearing in the defense of Jake Lake, who was charged with having defrauded Mrs. Hannah Johnson of a $17 board bill. Miss Niska, who is a friend of Mrs. Johnson's, took notes of the attorney's speech, and at its close she arose and delivered a twenty-minute address to the court, in which she tore the attorney's arguments to pieces.

The court immediately convicted the prisoner and sentenced him to thirty days on the rockpile.

"That's quite a victory," said the girl to the attorney at the conclusion of the case.

"I must congratulate you," said Mr. Wilson, taking his defeat in good part, and shaking the hand of his "learned friend."

Presents Message to Council.

In his message to the council last evening Mayor Crumpton reiterated his promise to keep the lid on the saloons, stated that his policy would be against any extravagance in the expenditure of public funds, urged economy, the building of a new high school, the retirement of outstanding bonds as fast as possible, and caution in the way of pushing street and sidewalk improvements this year. He advocated small parks and play grounds for the children, recommended concerted action for a change of laws as regards the taxation of railroad property, and urged harmony and cooperation on the part of the city officials.

Names Official Family.

Mayor Frank Crumpton of Superior made known to the council last evening his official appointments. The following named persons will hold office under the present administration: city attorney, T. E. Lyons; assistant, T. L. McIntosh; health commissioner, Dr. P. G. McGill; city engineer, E. B. Banks; street commissioner, C. E. Anderson; city clerk, R. F. Willcuts; members of board of public works, George B. Hislop; alderman Second ward, William Penn; president of council, Alderman A. F. Chadwick. The last named official was elected by the council which confirmed the mayor's appointments. Victor Linley, the outgoing mayor introduced Mayor Crumpton, and both made short speeches of a congratulatory tone.

Dillan is Guilty.

After being out eighteen and a half hours, the jury in the "Mickey" Dillan case, this morning, at 10 o'clock, brought in a verdict of guilty of grand larceny in the first degree, but up to 3 o'clock this afternoon, no sentence had been imposed.

Two of Dillan's confederates got terms of four years at the Wisconsin state prison, and it is expected that Dillan will get the same.

SITUATION IS MORE SERIOUS

St. Petersburg, April 22.—The situation on the Persian frontier is considered here to be steadily becoming more serious despite the check to the Persian brigands April 20, when the Russian forces drove the bandits back with heavy losses. The rising is gradually spreading, the other mountaineers now flocking to the assistance of the Shaksetan and Beglivin tribes against whom the operations are being conducted. Col. Konovalosef, the Russian chief of staff of the frontier guard, who for years has been stationed on the Persian frontier, believes that the struggle will not be terminated until the Persians have received a lesson like that of fifteen years ago, when a Russian punitive expedition crossed the frontier, and, after extended operations, killed over 1,000 tribesmen and compelled two tribes to sue for peace.

The tribesmen are intensely hostile to the Russians and they mutilate savagely the wounded Russians that fall into their hands. The brigands are well armed and the operations against them consequently are made difficult for the troops.

The frontier guard is inadequate to cope with the situation and a military expedition is required to assist them. No aid is expected from Persia, as the tribesmen neither acknowledge nor fear the government at Terehan.

BACK FROM THE EAST.

Steel Plant Manager Has Nothing to Give Out at Present.

George L. Reis, vice president of the Minnesota Steel company, returned this morning from New York, where he was in consultation with the head officials of the United States Steel corporation, regarding the plans for the new steel plant at Spirit Lake.

Mr. Reis stated that he had no information to make public at the present time regarding the plans for the summer work on the plant.

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS GRANTED HARRY THAW.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 22.—A writ of habeas corpus was granted at White Plains today by Justice Morschauser on application of Harry K. Thaw. The application for the writ was presented by James G. Graham and the papers bear the signature of Harry K. Thaw.

The writ is made returnable at Poughkeepsie on Saturday, May 9, at which time District Attorney Jerome of New York, will be given opportunity to oppose the proceedings for Thaw's relief.

AGED MAN HANGS HIMSELF.

Hokah, Minn., April 22.—John Geiwitz, Sr., an old resident of Hokah, hanged himself early Monday about a mile west of town. He was 63 years of age and leaves a wife and several children. Ill health was the probable cause of the act.

TWO MEN WOUNDED.

Mount Vernon, Ill., April 22.—Two men were found dying on a Louisville & Nashville freight train yesterday from wounds they said were inflicted by five tramps. Ray Yest, 20 years old, whose home is in this town, had his throat cut from ear to ear, and Frank Harrison, who lives in Mount Vernon, Ind., was bleeding to death from cuts on his wrists and face. The men were found in different box cars. They are not expected to live.

Mildred Baly Dies.

Mildred Baly, 3903 West Third street, died last night at the St. Mary's hospital after a lingering illness of heart trouble. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the St. Clement's church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street. The interment will be at the Calvary cemetery.

Union Banquet.

There will be a union banquet of all the Methodist churches tonight at the First M. E. church. All the Methodist churches of the city are expected to be represented at the feast.

Dr. E. C. Clemens, presiding elder of the district, will preside as chairman and toastmaster and there will be speeches from the following: R. D. Haven, Watson Moore, Rev. W. E. J. Gratz, Rev. Thomas Grice, J. R. Davies, Rev. H. K. Madsen, J. L. Thwing, Miss Hirsch and Mrs. M. J. Kriedler.

FRAUD ORDER AGAINST ST. PAUL CONCERNS.

St. Paul, April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A "fraud order" has been issued at Washington, as Postmaster Yarnish was informed today, against the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Seattle Railway company, the Co-operative Construction company, the Great Northwestern Fiscal Agency and the Northern Investment Bureau. This means that the several concerns will hereafter receive no mail, because they are believed to have been using the post for fraudulent purposes.

Ballaklava continues strong at present levels. Soon we will get news from this mine that should send stock up several points.
Butte & Superior is taken in big lots everywhere. The large blocks that have held the price down are about cleaned up and soon we should see higher priced Butte & Superior stock.
Calumet & Sonora, located alongside of the great Greene-Cananea, is attracting the attention of the public at the present time, and he stock is very cheap at these low prices. Only 43,000 shares issued and with its four shafts in ore, it should be a dandy buy. They have 1,100 acres of land and possibilities as great as those of the Greene-Cananea with its 2,500,000 shares. The Cananea & Duluth is, as I understand it, one of their richest mines, and the Calumet & Sonora, with its rich ores, compares favorably with this mine, and they have several times as much rich ground.
Shattuck is one of the greatest mines in the country, located in Bisbee, Ariz., and should produce as much ore as the Calumet & Arizona. Buy Shattuck at this level and you will make money fast.

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

Minneapolis, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—George W. Kehoe, district chief of the Minneapolis fire department, veteran fire fighter and hero of many daring rescues, died yesterday in St. Mary's hospital after a long illness. He was 47 years old. His wife and four children survive him.

CRUSHED BY LOG.

West Duluth Man Suffers Painful Accident on the Range.

Dan Arbour of West Duluth was last night brought from Hibbing suffering form painful injuries. He was helping unload logs from a logging train near Hibbing, when one of the chains slipped, freeing several of the logs. Arbour jumped, but was not quick enough, one of the logs rolling upon his back and shoulders.

He was taken last night to St. Luke's hospital, where he was examined by a physician. No bones were discovered broken, and it is thought that he has suffered no internal injuries, though the physician is not certain of this. The only injuries received appear to be a general bruising of the body, though it seems miraculous that he could have escaped without serious internal injuries.

RAILROADS

CHEAP RATES TO BOTH COASTS

Week-End Reduction Will be Announced Later.

Week end rates on several of the roads will be announced within a short time. This rate will be to Eastern points and will afford the Duluth traveling public a substantial reduction over the rates now in force.

The new tourist rates will be good as far as New York city over connecting lines. The rate will be good for return, with a long stopover allowed. Passenger officials are at work on the rates at the present time.

Taken in connection with the reductions that will be made for the Yukon exhibition at Seattle, and the rate-cut east of Detroit, the traveling public of this city are assured of a low rate to both coasts. There is a rate cut both east and west of Detroit at the present time, so that the announcement of a cut from this city to Eastern points will mean that travel via Duluth will be a healthy stimulus.

IMMIGRATION HEAVY.

The spring rush of homeseekers to the wheat lands of Western Canada has begun on the Soo. Settlers' effects and cars of farm machinery are crossing the line at Portal. The rush this year, according to passenger officials who have been to Winnipeg this spring, promises to come near breaking the record made two years ago.

Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin are sending farmers across into the Dominion in search of homes. Most of these settlers take their own farm machinery with them. Some of them are so prosperous that they have included automobiles in the effects. The government inspectors at Portal are kept busy examining the effects that are shipped across the line. The tide of immigration will last well into the summer months.

ACTION DELAYED.

Northern Pacific Has Made No Effort to Enforce Bond Order.

No effort has been made as yet by the Northern Pacific officials to enforce the order compelling the conductors on the passenger and freight trains to take out bonds insuring their personal honesty. A healthy fight between the trainmen and the officials of the road is promised when enforcement of the recent order is attempted.

The conductors of passenger trains will be compelled to pay $10 of their salaries for the bonding while the freight conductors will be charged just half that amount. It is said that the Order of Trainmen has taken up the matter and has instructed the men to say nothing until the company attempts to force the new rule. It is said that the men will have the trainmen's union in the fight that will be made to prevent what the men term a personal affront to their honesty.

WOMAN MADE ARREST EASY

Police Spotted Range Man by His Huge Companion.

"He is accompanied by a woman weighing 300 pounds."

These few words in a telegram from Coleraine caused the arrest of James Law, alias Edward Collins, at the Union depot today.

Chief Troyer this morning received a message from the town constable in the range town to the effect that he had in his possession a warrant for the arrest of Law, who is charged with jumping his board bill. Aside from the name, the telegram contained practically no description of Law, but it explained that he had with him a woman of considerable weight, and it was this fact which made identification an easy matter.

Capt. Fiskett went to the depot upon the information that the man was expected on the Missabe train, due here about 10:30 a. m. He took up his position inside the gate of the train shed, and watched the passengers as they left the cars. There was the usual large crowd from the range. In the bunch was a very large woman, dressed in white, wearing a big hat and ponderous feather to match. There was no doubt in the captain's mind as to the identity of the woman, or the man with her, and he took the two in tow. His suspicions proved to be correct, for the two acknowledged that they probably were the people wanted. They were taken to police headquarters, and the man will be held awaiting further orders from Coleraine. He claims that he promised to send back the money due as soon as he earned it.

Former Professor at Ann Arbor Tells His Marital Troubles.

Prayer and No Meals Broke Up the Learned Family.

She Staid in Bed and Made Him Do the Housework.

PROF. W. S. HAZELTON.

MRS. JULIA V. HAZELTON.

Detroit, Mich., April 23.—That because of his weak physical condition his wife ruled him with an iron hand and he lost his personality and became merely a body servant for her, were allegations made by William S. Hazelton, former professor of engineering at the University of Michigan, in his divorce case against his wife, Julia V. Hazelton, which began before Judge Hosmer, Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Hazelton is contesting the case, but was not in court, her attorney saying that she would come from Ann Arbor for the afternoon session.

The Hazeltons were married Sept. 16, 1903, in Duluth, and since they separated, after a very unhappy mar-

IMPORTANT DAY FOR DAUGHTERS

Elections and Reception at White House the Program.

Washington, April 23.—This was the most important day of the continental congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, not only because it was "election day," but because of the interest attaching to the reception accorded the daughters by President Roosevelt at the White House.

This is an "off year" and the president-general, Mrs. Donald McLean, holds over, but there were ten vice presidents-general to be chosen. An editor and a business manager of the official publication were also voted for.

The candidates for vice presidents-general presented by the different states included:

For re-election, Mrs. Truman Handy Newberry, wife of the assistant secretary of the navy, Michigan, and Mrs. Drayton W. Bushnell, Iowa.

The balloting began shorty after the morning session opened and continued throughout the day. The announcement of the elections will be made at tonight's session.

DYNAMITE A WITNESS

Evident Attempt Made on Life of Frisco Ex-Supervisor.

House in Which He Was Staying Badly Shattered.

Oakland, April 23.—An evident attempt was made upon the life of J. L. Gallagher, one of the main witnesses of the prosecution in the San Francisco bribery case las night at the home of William H. Scheneck, his brother-in-law, at East Twentieth street and Ninth avenue, East Oakland, when a huge bomb placed on the porch exploded and tore away the whole front of the house.

Gallagher was upstairs with his wife at the time and Scheneck was in a rear room with his wife and four children and Dr. Guy Brown. All escaped but one boy who was hit in the neck by a flying missile. That no one was killed was little short of a miracle. Gallagher's hat was pierced by a splinter and taken away as a souvenir. The house was completely wrecked.

The report was heard all over Oakland and many windows in the neighborhood were broken, and a post belonging to the porch was hurled 100 feet away.

So quickly did the news spread that Gallagher's home was dynamited that 2,000 persons were on the premises in a few moments. The former supervisor was espied in the crowd and some one remarked "I guess that was meant for you."

"Yes, I guess it was," replied Gallagher, "but it missed me."

Gallagher was a member of the board of supervisors of San Francisco who confessed to receiving bribes. He was chairman of the finance committee and according to his testimony acted as an intermediary between Abraham Ruef and the members of the board.

TALK OF LODGE FOR CHAIRMAN

Republicans Begin to Consider Officers for Convention.

Washington, April 23.—Convention politics are already under discussion at the capitol, and some of the Republican leaders, realizing the possible danger of friction developing between the rival aspirants for the nomination in connection with the organization of the convention in Chicago, are cautiously taking soundings to develop the attitude and probable course of action of various eligibles for the convention offices. It is now learned that a strong effort is being made to induce Senator Lodge of Massachusetts to accept the permanent chairmanship. His friends are urging that he presents in his personality the best compromise elements, standing in a most favorable attitude towards each of the persons who have figured in the public prints as possible candidates for the Republican nomination. The senator himself does not care to discuss the matter openly, and in fact it is probable that it has not progressed beyond a tentative stage.

"DEATH TO FLIES" IS THE SLOGAN

New Yorkers Will Wage War on the Little Pest.

New York, April 23.—"Death to flies" is the slogan of the water pollution committee of the New York Merchants' association. It is hoped that by taking vigorous preventive measures early in the season the heavy mortality from typhoid and other intestinal diseases due to the filth-devouring, germ-carrying habits of the fly may be materially diminished. The experts of the committee charge 7,650 deaths from these diseases annually to the common house fly.

From now on the energies of the association's committee will be directed to the correction of conditions which make it possible for flies to multiply. Its inspectors, regular and volunteer, will report before the hot weather sets in, all the hiding places of filth which are favorable to the breeding of flies.

"Of course, the danger to health is greatest," said Edward Hatch, Jr., yesterday, "in all parts of the city where sanitary precautions are most neglected. But, even if you live in a comparatively well cared for part of town, don't receive the fly into your home as a harmless visitor, for he may come in a carriage or on horseback from the filthiest part of the river front. All places in which filth may accumulate and flies breed should be carefully cleansed now and kept clean. Large sums of money are spent every year on screens, fly traps, fly poison and fly paper, most of which would really be better spent on labor to keep streets, stables and houses clean, and on simple disinfectants where absolute cleanliness is impossible."

Rev. Russell Wilbur No Longer Member of Episcopal Church.

Milwaukee, April 23.—A Journal special from Fond du Lac, Wis., says: The Rev. Father Russell Wilbur, now a member of the Jesuit order in St. Louis, Mo., ex-archdeacon of the Episcopal diocese of Fond du Lac and ex-deacon of the Chicago cathedral, was formally deposed from the Episcopal church today by the Right Rev. Charles Chapman Grafton, bishop of the Fond du Lac diocese. The ceremony took place in the cathedral in the presence of the Rev. Canons Sanborn, Douglas and Coxe.

When asked why action was taken so promptly when the canons of the church give him six months, Bishop Grafton said:

"I did it to cut off all opportunity for his return."

Mr. Wilbur was well known in Fond du Lac as a student.

It is said when he was connected with the Chicago cathedral he permitted Jane Addams to deliver a lecture in the church after the regular service.

Bishop Grafton said: "Father Wilbur has not been in the Episcopal church more than two or three years. He never was an Anglican at heart. In fact he was always a Roman and he is now probably where he belongs."

IMPORTANT TO GRAIN GROWERS

Special Agent Appointed to Investigate in European Countries.

Washington, April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. H. Davis of Shelby, Ohio, was today appointed a special agent of the bureau of manufactures, department of commerce and labor, to go abroad to investigate the wheat and flour milling industries of European countries. This appointment was made upon the recommendation of the National Millers' association at its last meeting held at Chicago.

Mr. Davis is a practical miller and has been in the business practically throughout his life. He will sail from New York about May 1, and his investigations will include England, France, Germany, Italy, and possibly Russia. The object of Mr. Davis' tour is to gather all information which may be of aid to American millers in placing their products in European markets. It is considered that the data which Special Agent Davis will gather will be of the greatest importance to the great Northwest wheat growing belt, as well as the elevator men, the millers and, in fact, all interested in the export of wheat or its manufactured products, as well as other grains.

BIG WHEEL EXPLODES

Two Men Killed and Several Hurt at Waukegan, Ill.

Pieces of Wheel Damage Hotel About a Block Distant.

Chicago, April 23.—Two men were killed, two hurt seriously and several others slightly injured, last night, in the plant of the North Shore Electric company at Waukegan, by an immense flywheel, which flew from its bearings. The wheel was released by the burning of the belt which connected it with other machinery. The electric plant, valued at $135,000, was virtually destroyed and several other buildings were damaged.

The dead:

J. H. JENSEN, manager of the telephone exchange at Waukegan.

Unidentified man, mutilated beyond recognition, supposed to have been about 25 years of age.

The injured: P. F. Dodd, draftsman at North Chicago naval training school, scalp wounds and arm injured; — Kacin, instructor for Waukegan Electric Light company, scalp wound and bruised.

All of the killed and injured, except Jensen, were spectators.

At the Hotel Edmund, about a block distant from the lighting plant, a piece of the wheel ripped a hole in the roof and knocked plaster from the walls and badly frightened 100 guests.

FEW DIAMONDS BEING BOUGHT

There is No Shrinkage in the Prices of the Gems.

New York, April 23.—Louis Abrahams, president of the great diamond syndicate of international fame, which controls 98 per cent of the diamond output of the world, says that there is to be no shrinkage in the price of diamonds, despite the fact that there is now a marked decrease in the demand for the precious stones.

Mr. Abrahams is making his first visit to America, having arrived recently from his home in London.

"It is true," said Mr. Abrahams, "that since the beginning of the recent period of financial stringency in America the demand for diamonds has been materially reduced. Within the last two or three years, more especially in 1905 and 1906, the demand for diamonds had increased beyond all precedent in America, and in this country during 1906 fully 60 or 70 per cent of the world's total diamond output found its market.

"But the recent American crisis in finance has now altered things materially. From having been the largest of consumers, you Americans are now buying practically no diamonds at all. In consequence of these conditions the mines, within the last two or three months, have been decreasing the output about one-half.

"In my opinion it will not long be necessary to restrict the normal output of the mines. I believe the period of financial depression is not destined to be of long duration in America, or anywhere else, and that within a comparatively brief time business will resume its natural equilibrium, and America will move on its destined career of prosperity."

BARNES GETS JUDGMENT.

New York, April 23.—Thurlow Weed Barnes, who sued the American Development company and the members of the Chinese railway syndicate to recover $900,000, which he said was due to him for obtaining certain concessions for the syndicate from the Chinese government through Wu Ting Fang, its minister at Washington, has obtained a judgment for $398,481.19 against the company.

CHANGES MADE IN COMMANDERS

Rear Admiral Thomas Will Succeed Evans on May 9.

Washington, April 23.—Orders were issued at the navy department yesterday detaching Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas from duty as commander of the Second squadron on board the battleship Minnesota, to duty in command of the United States Atlantic fleet, on board the Connecticut. This change is to take effect on May 9, when Rear Admiral Evans is relieved.

Rear Admiral W. H. Emory is discharged from duty in command of the Second division, First squadron, and will command the Fourth division, Second squadron. Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry is relieved from command of the Fourth division, Second squadron and will command the Second squadron.

Capt. Seaton Schroeder is detached from command of the battleship Virginia to command the Second division, First Squadron. Capt. Alexander Sharp is relieved from duty at the Washington navy yard and will take command of the battleship Virginia.

CLUBHOUSE IS ROBBED

Four Men Loot Hot Springs Resort of Large Amount.

Occupants Locked in Room and the Robbers Escape.

Hot Springs, Ark., April 23.—Four masked men with leveled revolvers entered the clubhouse of the Indiana club, on Central avenue early today, forced the occupants to line up alongside the wall and looted the place of a large amount of money. The occupants were then locked in a room and the robbers escaped. No definite statement concerning the amount of money taken can be secured, but it is estimated between $500 and $10,000.

The Indiana club is located along the mountain side. House detectives are employed to prevent any interference with the amusement of the members. Notwithstanding the vigilance of the guards the four masked robbers made entrance from the mountain side through a window and quickly lined the occupants up against the wall. A number of guests of the various hotels were in the clubhouse at the time. No individual was robbed of his money, the robbers devoting themselves to looting the club funds. After gathering up all the money in sight the robbers forced the occupants into a small room and the door was locked. The robbers fled and so quietly was the robbery conducted that persons in the cafe were unaware of the proceeding. One man finally crawled over the transom from the locked room and then liberated his companions. The alarm was at once given and the police were called on to search for the robbers.

IMPORTANT DAY FOR DAUGHTERS

Washington, April 23.—This was the most important day of the continental congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, not only because it was "election day," but because of the interest attaching to the reception accorded the daughters by President Roosevelt at the White House.

This is an "off year" and the president-general, Mrs. Donald McLean, holds over, but there were ten vice presidents-general to be chosen. An editor and a business manager of the official publication were also voted for.

The candidates for vice presidents-general presented by the different states included:

For reelection, Mrs. Truman Handy Newberry, wife of the assistant secretary of the navy, Michigan, and Mrs. Drayton W. Rushnell, Iowa.

The balloting began shortly after the morning session opened and continued throughout the day. The announcement of the elections will be made at tonight's session.

DYNAMITE A WITNESS

Evident Attempt Made on Life of Frisco Ex-Supervisor.

House in Which He Was Staying Badly Shattered.

Oakland, April 23.—An evident attempt was made upon the life of J. L. Gallagher, one of the main witnesses of the prosecution in the San Francisco bribery case last night at the home of William H. Scheneck, his brother-in-law, at East Twentieth street and Ninth avenue, East Oakland, when a huge bomb placed on the porch exploded and tore away the whole front of the house.

Gallagher was upstairs with his wife at the time and Scheneck was in a rear room with his wife and four children and Dr. Guy Brown. All escaped but one boy who was hit in the neck by a flying missile. That no one was killed was little short of a miracle. Gallagher's hat was pierced by a splinter and taken away as a souvenir. The house was completely wrecked.

The report was heard all over Oakland and many windows in the neighborhood were broken, and a post belonging to the porch was hurled 100 feet away.

So quickly did the news spread that Gallagher's home was dynamited that 2,000 persons were on the premises in a few moments. The former supervisor was espied in the crowd and some one remarked: "I guess that was meant for you."

"Yes, I guess it was," replied Gallagher, "but it missed me."

Gallagher was a member of the board of supervisors of San Francisco who confessed to receiving bribes. He was chairman of the finance committee and according to his testimony acted as an intermediary between Abraham Ruef and the members of the board.

PAPERS ON THE STREET

Waste Paper Gives City a Most Unsightly Appearance.

The police, acting under instructions from Mayor Haven, are after people who throw paper in the streets and alleys. Any one violating the waste paper ordinance, and the ordinances governing the disposal of other waste material, such as shavings and materials along this line, will, if found guilty, be punished to the full extent of the law.

"Waste paper on the streets is one of the worst nuisances of the city," said the mayor this morning. "Something must be done to do away with it. The police have instructions to arrest all offenders in this line, and anyone caught, no matter what his position in life may be, whether a common laborer or the proprietor of the biggest department store in town, will be properly punished."

Some of the stores are said to be the worst offenders. They make it a practice of throwing old newspapers and paper used in packing into the alleys in the rear of their buildings, and the first brisk breeze that comes along lifts them into streets and alleys ries them into the streets and alleys of the city, cluttering up the thoroughfares and giving them a very untidy appearance.

As the mayor was talking, he pointed to that portion of Second avenue east visible from his office window. Probably 100 pieces of paper, from newspapers down to the small paper bag, were twisting about in a wind eddy formed in front of the Temple roller rink. This eddy extended for half a block, and the papers were kept almost constantly in motion, going up one side of the street and down the other. The same sight may be seen daily in almost any part of the city. The streets may be otherwise clean, but the good effect is lost in the unsightly papers that litter them. In fact, it is said that the streets are in better condition at present than they have been at this season for many years past.

There are three or four ordinances governing the disposal of waste paper and similar waste material. One provides a fine of $25 or ten days in jail for placing papers where they will be apt to be blown into the streets and avenues, and another provides similar punishment for any one caught scattering hand bills about. A third provides a fine of $100 or ninety days in jail for any one placing shavings and similar refuse in a street or alley in anything but a covered receptacle. The merchants and everybody else will hereafter be made to live up to these ordinances in all particulars.

Arrangements Under Way for Agreement With Canadian Northern.

Regular traffic on the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railroad will be established by June 1, if present plans are gcarried out. Secretary Anderson of that road has returned from Winnipeg, where arrangements regarding through traffic arrangements with the Canadian Northern officials were partially completed.

The bridge over the Rainy river, near Fort Frances, is nearly complete and it is expected that trains will be running to the Manitoba capital within the next two or three weeks. Arrangements will be completed with General Manager MacLeod and Traffic Manager Shaw of the Canadian Northern regarding through traffic both for passenger and freight services.

The business men of Fort Frances are planning a banquet to celebrate the event of the completion of the connecting lines between Duluth and Winnipeg. It is probable that a number of Duluth railroad men will attend this celebration.

Substitution.

It is presumption to say that you haven't a mind of your own, yet that is what is practically said to you, when you ask for an advertised article and are offered a substitute by a dealer. When you order a case of golden grain belt beer for the home table, see that you get it. There is no other just as good., It is not only the purest of all beverages, but also the most wholesome and nourishing. Order of Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

WOULD-BE CITIZENS' SPONSORS OBJECTED TO.

Marquette, Mich., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because their character witnesses were saloonkeepers, who had been convicted of violating the liquor law, a number of applicants for United States citizenship in Dickinson county have been refused the naturalization papers for which they petitioned the circuit court. Judge Stone has taken occasion in that connection to notify all prospective applicants that sponsors of that kind will not be accepted at any time.

LYNCHED AT SKIDOO, CAL.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 23.—Joseph Simpson, who shot and killed James Arnold last Sunday, was lynched at Skidoo, Cal., last night.

Scientific Methods Cure

Surgical Diseases Without the Knife. Drugging the System Slowly Kills Thousands.

The human body is more complex than any machine or device ever invented, and if anything is going wrong with any of its parts, the ends of the nerves send the message by their numerous strings up to the brain, and there the danger is manifesting itself in pain, because of the inflammation, pressure or decay, which impedes upon the nerves of the suffering parts. People make the greatest mistakes in constantly drugging and doping the body in order to rid themselves of the pain. This pain is a safety valve, pointing out to us the danger certain parts of the body are in, and instead of going to doctors who know how to cure chronic diseases, they go to the drug stores and buy some dope which deadens and poisons the nerves. Meanwhile, the destructive work of the disease goes right on and the body slowly will be destroyed. That is the reason why people lived longer in olden times, when they didn't have so many drugs and pain killers. We are getting away too far from nature and that is the reason our young people are looking old and die young.

Science has made a greater advance in the last 50 years than it did in 2,000 years previously, and the method of dissolving chronic pathological lesions diseased organs is one of the greatest achievements of medical specialists. In Duluth the Progressive Medical Specialists, on Superior street and Lake avenue, are the only ones who practice this method. A man don't like to have steel, sharp and cutting, put into his abdomen to get rid of his gallstones or appendix. Nor does he like to have the knife or red hot iron put into his rectum to be relieved of piles or cancer, or a sharp cutting instrument put into his bladder to cut a stricture or prostatic gland. That method of getting rid of diseases is old and barbarous. This process of dissolving is the most wonderful, though natural process. There is no pain nor cutting, nor blood shedding, and it never fails to get results in the hands of these Expert Specialists. You can be cured by this process of cancer, RUPTURES, kidney trouble, lung and heart disease, paralysis, skin diseases, syphilis, rheumatism, liver and bladder trouble, or if you are an unfortunate victim which forces you to practice that secret vice which leads you to ruin, loss of manhood and the insane asylum, you can be cured and made happy. Remember that these doctors are experts in men's diseases and can cure you of your trouble, no matter how long you may have had it. You may consult them without any cost from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., and it would pay you to have their opinion and advice free of charge.

FEARS MAN WITH KNIFE

Half-Clad Lunatic Causes Excitement on Central Avenue.

Fearing Imaginary Pursuers, Nels Anderson Leaves Home in Hurry.

Without hat, coat, shoes or stockings Nels Anderson of 27 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, ran down Central avenue yesterday afternoon, "tryin' to get away from a husky big fellow with a long knife," as he expressed it. Before he had gone far, however, the police took him in charge and placed him behind the bars at the West Duluth station, as the man was evidently insane.

All last night he paced up and down in the jail, muttering to himself, but not once taking a moment's sleep. This morning when he was asked how he had rested, he said, "Fine, never slept better in my life. I've been doing odd repair jobs on these windows and doors of mine here all night, and I'm so afraid I don't dare to sit down for fear I'll go to sleep. You know a sleeping man never looks well and I want to look at my best when they take me away."

He explained his presence in the jail by saying that he was there through the fault of his son, who had had him arrested wile he was on his way to Virginia, where he had been locked up all last night and had just got back this morning. The statements are but samples of the confused state of Anderson's mind. At one time he thinks he is at home, at another in Virginia, and then again busy dodging a man with a long knife.

"I took off my coat and hat, and my shoes and stockings and layed down to get a little sleep at my house, for I hadn't had a wink for two nights. A big man with a knife started sticking holes in the wall right near me. I watched my chance and skipped out, for I didn't want him to poke a hole in me," he said.

Anderson was removed this afternoon to the county jail, where he will stay until he can be examined as to his sanity.

It is said that he has been drinking hard since last fall and it is thought that is the cause of his mental derangement.

TO SUPPRESS THE FANATICS

British and Italian Troops Being Mobilized Near Peshawur.

Simla, April 23.—A mixed force of British and Indian troops is at present being rapidly mobilized near Peshawur for another punitive expedition against the fanatical tribes who recently have been raiding and looting villages on the Peshawur border.

The prime movers in the present rising are the Mohamands, a Pathan tribe occupying the hills between Peshawur and Kopat. The mullahs raised the Mohmands with the view of assisting their fellow tribesmen, the Zakkakhels. In their fighting last February against the British, but the Mohmands were too late, arriving on the scene after the Zakkakhels had been put down.

Disappointment in their hopes of fighting, the Mohmands started to ravage the country; villages were looted, the people thrown into a state of panic, and the sniping of British outposts was inaugurated. The ranks of the raiders increased rapidly until now 10,000 of the are gathered at Kamali, twenty miles from Peshawur. The situation is seriously complicated by the presence in this territory of Afghans, who are flocking in large numbers to the standards of the mullahs. Several thousand Afghans are said already to have crossed the Kabul river and to be on their way to join the malcontents. Officials of the ameer of Afghanistan are apparently making no effort to check this movement, which seriously disturbs the Indian government.

The British force now being organized near Peshawur will be commanded by Sir James Willcocks, who was so successful in stampting out the recent Zakkakhel uprising.

The suit against the Nebraska State Lumber Dealers' association was instituted by Attorney General Norris Brown more than two years ago. He is now United States senator. The case was prosecuted by Attorney General Thompson, who succeeded Brown.

It was charged that these "poachers" were blacklisted and compelled to sell to the regular dealers only.

The state also charged that prices were regulated by the association throughout Nebraska. "I join in your protest. Get the speaker to recognize me or some one else to make a motion, and it will pass. It is up to him."

He said that the committee will not begin its work with any cut and dried plan, but will go into the subject impartially. DISTRICT JUDGE U. S. COURT

Recommends Pe-ru-na as an Invigorating Tonic.

Judge John W. Bixler, formerly United States Circuit Judge, now United States District Judge, of Kansas, endorses Peruna.

I can unhesitatingly recommend your Peruna as an invigorating tonic, also an excellent remedy for coughs and colds.

JUDGE JOHN W. BIXLER.
1750 P. STREET.
WASHINGTON, D.C.

Pe-ru-na Testimonials

When any man or woman, out of pure gratitude, writes us a letter, commenting upon the benefits he has received from the use of Peruna, when he does this without any solicitation or remuneration of any sort, and furnishes us a recent photograph, so that his identity and responsibility in the matter is beyond question, then do we consider a testimonial available for our advertising purposes.

We are at the present time publishing many hundreds of testimonials. We give the name and address in full of each one of these people.

We have no use for, nor would we publish for any sum of money, a fraudulent testimonial. To do such a thing would be dishonorable from a moral standpoint, and commercial suicide from a business standpoint.

Tonic and Appetizer.

W. H. Parsons is ex-State Senator and ex-Special Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, also Brigadier General in Confederate Army. In a recent letter from 925 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C., this prominent gentleman says:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials of the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip, with which I have been affected for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment of this justly celebrated formula.

"I feel a decided change for the better after using it only one week. It is especially good in toning up the stomach, and has a decided effect upon my appetite. I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her Veteran Cavalry, in a four-year war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merit of Peruna from a sense of obligation for its wonderful efficacy."

Appetite and Digestion Poor.

Mr. Charles Schwelhs, Lexington, Texas, writes:

"I suffered from catarrh of the liver. What I ate disagreed with me. I was weak and feverish. I slept very poorly, had rush of blood to the head. I was very despondent, and took no pleasure in anything. My appetite was changeable, digestion poor.

"Your medicine made me well again, for which I express to you my heartfelt thanks. I firmly believe that for all who suffer in like manner it would have the same good effect."

Disordered Liver, Constipation.

Mr. W. O. Clement, Assistant Manager "Rome Georgian," Rome, Ga., writes: "It affords me pleasure to voluntarily testify to the true merits of your wonderful Peruna.

"I have for several years been suffering from disordered liver and chronic constipation, for which I had tried a great many remedies, but none did me any good. My whole system was so thoroughly overcome that I was easy to catch cold and the consequence was that a chronic case of catarrh was fast developing.

"I have been taking Peruna for six weeks and am happy to say that it has had the desired effect. My liver is in good condition, constipation disappeared, and I no longer feel any of the symptoms of catarrh.

"In truth I am now in better health and feel stronger than I have for several years and it is all due to the wonderful effects of Peruna."

Systemic Catarrh.

Mr. Moses F. Merrill, Route 8, Columbus, Kansas, writes:

"The improvement in my health has been wonderful. My bowels are regular as clock-work. I can now eat like other people and my victuals digest completely. I think I am cured of systemic catarrh.

"It has been a hard fight, but I came out victor. Many thanks for your kind counsel and management."

THE WORK OF ENEMIES

James Scully, Homesteader, Held on Assault, Alleges Persecution.

Says He Was Jailed So Timber Could be Stolen.

Is James Scully, a homesteader residing near Floodwood, the victim of a plot to steal the timber from his land while he is held in jail on the charge of assaulting E. C. Osborn of Floodwood.

Osborn, the complaining witness, is the person who was given the option of paying a fine or of going to jail for assaulting the postmaster at Floodwood about a month ago. He was placed in jail in the morning of April 4 last, but his father arrived on the scene by noon and paid his fine.

Scully was brought to the county jail a couple of days ago to be held until May 2, when he will be taken back to Floodwood for examination.

Since he has been in jail the report has become current that the charges against him were trumped up for the purpose of getting him out of the way while parties interesting in getting away from him the homestead he holds near Floodwood have the opportunity of denuding his land of a quantity of valuable timber that is on it.

Scully, who formerly resided in this city, has some friends who have been active in his behalf since he was brought to the county jail and these wanted to employ an attorney to start habeas corpus proceedings to secure his release. Scully, however, refuses to be taken out of jail in that manner. It is understood that he is laying grounds for an action for damages that will be instituted against some prominent people at Floodwood.

Scully, it is said, claims that while he was under arrest at Floodwood certain parties interviewed him and gave him his choice of relinquishing his claim or of going to jail on the charge alleged.

As to the assault, Mr. Scully claims that the charge is absolutely untrue; that it was trumped up, and he expects to have no trouble in clearing himself.

GROVER CLEVELAND ILL WITH STOMACH TROUBLE.

Lakewood, N. J., April 23.—Ex-President Grover Cleveland, who is suffering from an attack of stomach trouble, was not quite so well today as he was yesterday. Mr. Cleveland is at the Lakewood hotel, where his apartments have been kept open after the closing of the remainder of the hotel. He has had similar attacks in the past and it has always been his custom to leave his home at Princeton for Lakewood, where his recovery has been aided by the mildness of the climate. Mrs. Cleveland, who went to Princeton yesterday, has returned to Lakewood.

CONVENTION OF WOODMEN

First Big Gathering of Summer Scheduled for May 6.

Delegates From All Parts of the State Will Assemble.

A delegation from the local lodges of the Modern Woodmen called on Mayor Haven this morning and asked him to deliver an address of welcome at the opening of the state convention of Woodmen, to be held in Duluth next month. The meeting will open Wednesday, May 6.

The convention will attract 500 or 600 Woodmen from different parts of the state to the city. There will also be a number from outside the state, notably from Wisconsin. National officers from the East will be on hand to make addresses.

Local members of the order are feeling jubilant over having been able to land the big convention for Duluth. St. Paul, Minneapolis and one or two other cities of the state made a strong effort to land the meeting, but the work of the local delegation proved so effective that combined with the reputation Duluth has established as an ideal summer convention city, they were able to get the gathering for Duluth.

There will be quite an elaborate program, extending over two or three days. Features of entertainment in addition to the regular routine business and speeches will provided. These will include a drive around the boulevard, an excursion on the lake and about the harbor, and possibly a banquet at one of the leading hotels.

CLAIMS BREACH OF CONTRACT

Wabasha Banker Sues Land Company for His Commissions.

The civil action of Charles C. Hirschy, a banker in the town of Wabasha, Minn., against Parker, Smith & Warner, Canadian land agents of this city, is being tried before Judge Dibell today. The suit involves a claim of Mr. Hirschy of a breach of contract on the part of the local firm in failing to pay a good-sized commission on which the Wabasha banker alleges is due him on the business that he threw in the way of the land agents by securing for them a large number of customers in the vicinity of Wabasha, for the Canadian lands that the company had for sale. The defendants make a counter claim to the effect that they made Mr. Hirschy a tender of $800, and that he refused it.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The class in copper work, which has been organized at the Duluth Art school, promises to be one of the most popular of the classes. Already fourteen students are enrolled, and many of these are workers of some experience, and the class is sure to be one of the most interesting in the school. The members have been working on design during the last three weeks and the first regular work with the metal will be done at the meeting tomorrow afternoon. This class has been organized into a small Guild, and the members have contributed the money for the purchase of the necessary hammers and tools. The committee in charge of this portion of the work is composed of Miss Jessie Hopkins and Mrs. H. S. Mahon, with C. C. Rosenkranz, the director of the school. The meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon at the school in the third floor of the Washington school building. It is probable that a class of beginners will also be organized, if applications enough are received.

ALLIANCE BANQUET.

Methodist Congregations Enjoy Delightful Affair.

The Methodist Alliance banquet, which was held last evening at the parlors of the First Methodist church, was a most successful and enjoyable affair. Covers were laid for 150 guests and the twelve local churches were all represented, as well as the Two Harbors and the Hibbing Methodist churches. The object of the banquet was to bring the various congregations of the city into closer touch. The tables were prettily decorated in potted plants and candelabra, and one table was reserved for the officers and members of the Queen Esther Circle of the city churches. At another table were seated the speaker, and a third table was reserved for the graduates and former students of Hamlin university.

During the program of toasts, which followed the banquet, Dr. E. C. Clemans, presiding elder of the district, presided as toastmaster, and a splendid program of speeches was presented. The program follows:

"The Genius of Methodism," Dr. M. S. Rice; "The Women of the Church," Rev. Thomas Grice; "The Needs of Duluth Methodism," Watson S. Moore; "Methodism on the Iron Range," Rev. W. E. J. Gratz; "Our Methodism in Other Languages," Rev. H. K. Madsen; "What the General Conference Ought to Do," a minister's view, Rev. J. A. Roberts; a layman's view, J. L. Thwing; "What a Deaconess Home Would Mean to Duluth," Miss Eva V. Hursh, Ironwood, Mich.; "The Deaconess of the District," Mrs. M. J. Kreidler; "Our Hamline University," B. N. Wheeler.

There were musical numbers by Miss Mary Holmes and Miss Isadore Dodge.

HOME WEDDING.

Miss Claire Abraham Is Bride of Dr. Arthur Schwartz.

At a pretty home wedding service, last evening, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Abraham, their daughter, Miss Claire Abharam, became the bride of Dr. Arthur H. Schwartz of this city. Only the immediate friends were present for the ceremony, which took place at 7:30 o'clock, the service being read by Rabbi Maurice Lefkovits. The rooms were decorated in green and white and the wedding party stood before a curtain of ferns and roses. The bride was attended by Miss Elsie Silberstein, and the groomsman was Rudolph Abraham. The bride's gown was a white embroidered robe over silk and she wore a veil and carried a Bible and a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was gowned in pink liberty silk and carried a bouquet of pink hyacinths. Mrs. Abraham wore a gown of gray voile and lace.

A large reception followed the ceremony. The dining room was decorated in pink roses and lights, a basket of the roses forming the centerpiece. Assisting in the dining room were Misses Deborah Leo, Marion Levine and Stella Abraham. At the punch bowl Miss Hazel Levine presided.

Dr. and Mrs. Schwartz left for a wedding trip. The bride's going away gown was of gray cloth, with hat to match. After their return they will be at home at 1426 East First street.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were: M. D. Schwartz of Norway, Mich., father of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Abraham of Atlantic City, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stadinger of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. E. Kayser of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Schloss of Minneapolis, and Mrs. J. Buxbaum of Philadelphia.

PUBLIC SMOKING.

Women of Paris Calmly Light Their Cigarets.

In these days when the congeniality of women and the cigaret is being so heatedly discussed on this side of the water it is interesting to read this pen picture by the Paris correspondence of "Vogue" in regard to the prevalence of the habit on the Riviera:

The habit prevails everywhere. In all the smart hotels, cafes and restaurants I have entered, and they are many, I have seen at tea time, after dinner, and after supper late at night, correct-appearing women of all ages, with equally correct men, sit calmly lighting with knowing gestures, their tiny Russian cigarets.

Other women, whom one counts out, do the same thing differently. Their gestures are more pronounced, their attitude more coquettish—their pretty feet are perhaps crossed, revealing dainty embroidered lingerie skirts and laced stockings to match their gowns. They make much of the pretty poses taken in the frequent lighting of their gold-tipped cigarets from the wax taper held by an obsequious attendant It is a living picture, and an interesting one—like a page from a French novel. When first I saw women of convential manners smoke in a public room it was at the beginning of my stay here.

I was sitting alone over my tea in the palm-shaded, flower-decked tearoom of a great hotel idly listening to sweet music from a hidden band. Just opposite me sat two women, unmistakably English, and, after the manner of many traveling Englishwomen rather dowdy in dress. A puff of smoke caught my eye; one had lighted a cigaret, the other was carefully selecting one from a carved silver cigaret case. I looked about with interest, wondering what was going to happen. At the next table I saw as I turned my head, a beautiful dark-browed woman, spendidly gowned in embroidery white cloth and wearing draped gracefully over her arms, a long, straight ermine-lined velvet scarf. She lifted her hand with a slight gesture which brought a waiter to her side with a tiny tray of cigarets; daintily she selected one, lighted it, then leaned back luxuriously into the soft depths of the big easy chair to watch serenely the wreaths of smoke float above her head.

STATE SECRETARY

To Be Speaker at Sunday Devotional Service.

The speaker at the Sunday afternoon devotion service at the Young Women's Christian association will be Miss Daisy M. Griggs, the state secretary, who will arrive in the city Saturday for a several days' visit at the local association. There will be special music.

Fashion's Fads.

The silk petticoats with lingerie flounces are prettier than ever. A very dainty one is of lilac, the flounce embroidered in a trailing design of lilac blossoms, and finished with a button-holed edge of the same color.

All the gold laces are dull in tone. Some of the new scarfs are in the oxidized silver, others of a tarnished Etruscan gold. Nothing could, however, be more fully feminine than the new ones of filmy lace in pastel tones.

Hair ribbon and sash sets are in Roman striped ribbon, soft and lustrous and in very beautiful blendings. It is well known that these colors, in both light and dark combinations, are the newest revival of a style formerly popular.

The scintillating pailleted nets are more popular than ever in the ballroom. The same fancy reappears in the large fans with spangles, on the beautiful pink shade of a seashell, in a dazzling yellow, or the new shades of blue.

All the tones of yellow, corn color, Jaune dore, bistre, will be de rigueur for evening dress, and the warm tans and butter shades for street wear.

A Parisian table decoration for an early spring luncheon is all in delicate blues and white. The exquisite lace cloth is lined with shimmering blue satin. Crowning the center of the table is a quaint antique vase, Greek in design, of fragile white porcelain with a border of gold lattice work. This is heaped with white grapes. Fruits are fast supplanting flowers for the central ornament of a table. Surrounding the vase at a short distance is a garland made of tiny bouquets of pale blue violets—having for their background their dark green leaves. Radiating from this toward the four corners of the table are shallow crystal dishes, filled with delicate orchids and here again is found a note of blue to harmonize with the others. The porcelain used should be in keeping with the rest. White, with a little gold band, is very attractive as well as refined.

Receptions.

Miss Patty Smith Hill, who has been lecturing in the city yesterday and today, was the guest of honor at a luncheon yesterday, at which Miss Marjorie Quilliard entertained at her home at Lakeside. Covers were laid for eight.

Miss Hill was also the guest of honor at a luncheon today, given at Washburn hall.

Rev. and Mrs. George Bebauer will be the guests of honor at a reception tomorrow evening, which will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Stearns of 1105 London road. Vogue Points.

Kid gloves, while very beautiful, cannot possibly be worn every day all summer and the only things that take their place are chamois and silk. The former become stiff and shrink when washed, so the latter are now more generally worn. This year they come in all colors, all lengths and are embroidered in self-tones, they are in good taste.

No ordinary black dress, except for mourning purposes, is good enough for the present fashion, no matter what lace and embrodiery may be used thereon. Some color must be introduced either in the lining, which shows through a voile or chiffon dress skirt, in the bands of the sleeves or in the belt. Sometimes this bit of color is used in ribbon of the yoke of the dress. One gown of the kind was made of black crepe de chene, the only touch of color being two pieces of soft taffeta ribbon, one of brown and the other of palest sage green, laid in folds and placed diagonally across the black lace yoke.

Another black dress of chiffon cloth was trimmed with brown chiffon, used around the waist to form a sort of bolero, and again appearing at intervals on sleeves, belt and collar.

Embroidered handkerchiefs can be cleverly used for yoke. It will be necessary to use two pieces for the front, joining the notched edges down the center front. It is a clear way to finish a thin white waist. Wide embroidery is used for the same purpose and the full-waist portion is stitched to the notches that outline the yoke.

Meteor silk makes some of the prettiest robes for evening wear. The fabric is soft and clinging, and the coloring is attractive. Those of rose and lavender mauve are most beautiful.

The latest to which fashion is giving more than ordinary approbation is a charmingly smart and pictorial design which comprises a skirt made of cloth and a coat carried out in striped velvet.

Severely close fitting princesse jumpers that button over a simple blouse of lawn or batiste are popular for morning dresses. For early spring these are made in cloth, later in raw silks, taffetas and linens.

Skirts are plaited, circular and gored, many of them with front panel effects. wide band at the hem which tips upward at the back, is one of the latest fads. It has been conspicuous on the other side of the water.

Among the ready to wear linen, silk and cotton suiting frocks as well as among spring wool gowns of dressy pretensions, the princesse is often accompanied by a wrap of more or less frivolous shape and decoration.

Now it is cretonne coats they would have us wear, and whether or not these will meet the same fate as cretonne hats and cretonne trimmings remains to be seen. If women all over the country refused it in small quantities on hats, is it likely they will adopt such a striking effect as a whole coat of cretonne? Well, stout women will not wear it at any rate.

Dancing Party.

The members of the Dy-Wyk club were hosts last evening at the first of the after-Easter dances. The affair was given at the Steinway hall and the adjoining rooms of the club. The decorations throughout the rooms were suggestive of spring. In the dancing hall violet and white were the colors. The lights were shaded in violet and streamers were hung from the chandeliers to the corners of the room. Di Marco's orchestra played the program of music. In the clubroom red and white was the color scheme followed, and roses and palms were used in an effective decoration. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Charlton of St. Paul, Mrs. H. H. Hawkins, Mrs. E. F. Webb and Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Millard.

Lecture By Miss Hill.

The first of a series of two lectures on child education was presented last evening by Miss Patty Smith Hill at the Assembly hall of the Central high school before a large audience of teachers and others interested in child training. The subject of Miss Hill's lecture last evening was "The Problems of Work and Play in Elementary Education" and it was presented in an interesting and instructive manner. Miss Hill is an educator known throughout the country, and her lectures, coming as they do from years of personal experience and deep thought, are of great value. The matter was presented in a clear and logical manner and the history, psychology, theory and practice expounded at length.

Big Kelly

Alfred Henry Lewis reports a conversation, in substance and almost in phrase, that passed between a Tammany district leader, celebrated in his own circle for a philosophic depth, and certain of his followers.

It relates to the tactics of the Anti-Roosevelt forces and their lack of good strategy.

Here are some extracts:

"Say, if you've got a ship to launch you don't sand th' ways; you slush 'em down with soft soap. An' that goes when it's a case of gettin' rid of a man."

"Diplomacy is any move that lands th' trick—see?"

"Also, it's exactly what them Wall Streeters ain't got."

"Diplomacy does it; diplomacy, an' payin' strict attention to Teddy's blind side."

"What's th' use of kickin' in the gate, when you know where a board is off th' fence?"

TATTOOING IS VERY GENERAL

Percentage of Persons So Decorated on the Increase.

Washington, April 23.—Tattooing in navy, as shown by the records of the receiving ship Independence is the topic of an interesting contribution to the current issue of the United States navy medical bulletin, contributed by Surgeon Ammen Farenholt. It says that while tattooing originated as an odornment of uncivilized peoples, it is far less common among them today than it was formerly, partly through the influence of missionaries, of public sentiment and government interference, as is at present the case in Japan.

On the other hand the total extent of this habit, Dr. Farenholt says, has probably never been greater than it is at the present time. Although it may be there is a slight decrease in the percentage of tattooed persons adopting the sea as a means of livelihood, there is certainly a marked increase among those who travel and even among those who live at a distance from the influences of the sea. There is hardly any large city, but has one or more professional tatooers.

Dr. Farenholt examined the enlistment records of 3,573 men, being the enlistments on the Independence for eight and a half years. It shows that the percentage found tattooed on examination for second and subsequent enlistment was 53.61 and the percentage found tottooed on examination for first enlistment was 23.01. The opinion is expressed that about 60 per cent of the persons who have served over ten years in the navy are tattooed.

Dr. Farenholt says it is not fair to assume from the figures presented that 23 per cent of all male citizens are tattooed as a considerable proportion of applicants for enlistment are seafaring men. He was suprised to find so many, probably 8 per cent of the recruits who are tattoooed and who denied having been at sea or even having lived in seaport towns. One of every three men tattooed selected a design, some part of which is a female figure, and less than 1 per cent show indecent subjects. Coats of arms and national emblems, Gibson heads, crucifixes, Jerusalem crosses, the goddess of Liberty, ships, eagles, pigs and apprentice knots were among the tattooed marks noticed.

HIGHWAYMEN GET BUT NINE PLUNKS

Hold Up Three Finns Crossing Bridge Over Longyear Lake.

Chisholm, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bold hold-up occurred Tuesday night at the end of the bridge over Longyear lake. Three Finlanders were returning home from town, and as they came to the end of the bridge they were accosted by four men, who pointed revolvers at them. They were relieved of all their valuables, which did not amount to more than $9, and $7 of this amount belonged to Nick Ahona, one of the party held up.

Chief of Police Madden started for the scene of the robbers as soon as he was notified of the happening, and after scouting around for some time, he returned with eight suspects who carried concealed weapons. They were later released, as no evidence could be found against them.

HIBBING PRIEST ENTERTAINS.

Father Gomache Host at Banquet Given Church Members.

Hibbing, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Father Gomanche, priest of the English Catholic church here, was the host at a reception and banquet given to about sixty members of his flock at the Hibbing hotel last night. The reception is a feature of Father Gommanche's church work in Hibbing and has usually been given twice a year, although none has now been held for more than a year. Those entertained were the members of the choir, the trustees of the church, the heads of the various societies and others who assist in the church work in various ways. Father Gommanche responded happily to a toast during the evening. Heinie's orchestra of six pieces furnished the music.

AURORA CHURCH ROW.

Affair Aired in Biwabik Court Without Definite Result.

Biwabik, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A jury here that heard the evidence in the case preferred by Father Saloven, the priest in the Aurora Austrian Catholic church, against John Gersich, one of the Aurora village trustees, Joe Rezanic, Stephen Paulivich and John Roznac, parishioners in the Aurora church, who are alleged to have assaulted the priest within the church, was unable to agree. The salary of the priest was reduced from $50 to $40. He read a letter from Mgr. Joseph H. Buh, in charge of Austrian church work, saying the congregation must accept. Father Saloven, and following the reduction in salary the priest formally deposed the four men alleged to have assaulted him. The Aurora church row has been brewing for some time and efforts made towards its settlement by church officials are expected soon to be successful.

HELD BILL TOO LONG.

Italian "Stung" in Accepting $20 Confederate Money in Deal.

Eveleth, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—An old Confederate $20 bill was the cause for an odd case between Mr. Cavalira and Mr. Bondi, two Italians. The plaintiff, Mr. Cavalira sold his shop to the other for $40. When he went to the bank with the money the cashier found this bill in the roll. Cavalira then gave the bill back to Bondi, who said he would see about it, as he had borrowed the money from a saloonkeeper in Virginia. After about two hours deliberation Judge Moylan at the Mesabe Mountain township hall, who tried the case decided that, as the plaintiff had received his $40 and waited too long before returning the bill, the defendant could not be held for the money.

FINE HORSE SHOT.

Eveleth, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the best horses from Jesmore's livery, valued at $250 was shot last night because of the breaking of his foot just above the hoof. One of the women of the town known as Clara, in an intoxicated condition was driving the horse like mad, on the Fayal road, and as she tried to turn up the main street the horse's hoof snapped. The animal stood up for a while, but gradually sank to the ground.

INFANT BOY DIES.

Eveleth, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hjalmar Torrela, the 14-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Torrela, died Monday of pneumonia at Sparta, after a short illness. The funeral was held yesterday, the interment being at Virginia.

NEW BIWABIK MINISTER.

Biwabik, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Congregational church here has extended a unanimous call to Rev. H. R. Harris of McIntosh, Minn., and he is expected here soon to take up the work. The pulpit has been vacant several months, since Rev. E. Larke accepted a call to Bagley.

MONROE BEING STRIPPED.

Chisholm, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Monroe open pit has started stripping with one shovel and a force of about 200 men. This mine is being stripped by Winston Bros. & Dear, contractors. They will increase the number of shovels used as they progress in work.

FLAMES DRIVE OUT TENANTS

Six Families Escape From West Michigan Street Terrace.

A fire in the Seton terrace, 905 West Michigan street at 9:30 o'clock last night damaged the building to the extent of $1,000, and drove six families into the street. Some of the people escaped barely in time to save themselves from suffocation.

Two of the rear flats were gutted and the three-story building was filled with smoke from floor to garret. John Anker and William Blair occupied the flats which were destroyed. Several of the tenants had retired for the night, but the alarm of fire was given in time for them to get out of the building.

The blaze started in a woodshed back of the Blair flat on the second floor. Because of the location of the building, close to the edge of a cliff, the firemen had some trouble in fighting the blaze. In view of this difficulty and the fact that the structure is built of wood, the firemen performed remarkably efficient work in extinguishing the blaze, which had gained good headway before the department arrived.

FARMS ARE FIRE-SWEPT

have narrowly escaped with their lives.

For many miles north of Bemidji the air is filled with dense smoke, which has grown blacker, but word received in the city during the past few hours is to the effect that there is no danger of the fire spreading cityward. Considerable timber country has been burned over and much damage has been done to standing timber and other property.

Backfiring to Save Town.

Mallard, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires are raging here, and the country hereabouts looks like a blackened waste, as the result of back-firing to save the town and valuable property adjacent to this place.

The fires ignited the farm residence of Charles McCarthy, three miles south of Mallard, and Mrs. McCarthy barely escaped with her life.

Mrs. McCarthy was asleep in the upper story of the house, when the fire caught on the frame building, and she awoke to find the rooms filled with smoke. She rushed out of the house and to a place of safety, none too soon. The house and several small buildings were burned to the ground, as the fire swept on in its destructive course through the woods.

Sawmill Burned.

Solway, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires are raging south of this place, and considerable damage has already been done, both to buildings and timber.

The sawmill belonging to Ole Selvog, south of Solway, was totally destroyed, together with some 400,000 feet of logs which were stored at the mill.

The settlers to the south of here have back-fired over a considerable territory wich has checked the fires somewhat.

Hard Work Saves Town.

Puposky, April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires raged about this place nearly all day Tuesday, and but for prompt action of residents of this place and farmers nearby the settlement might have been wiped out. By hard work, back-fires were set and all dry stuff was consumed for a considerable distance about the town.

Many Cars Burned.

Staples, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sixty-three stock and box cars belonging to the Northern Pacific railway company standing on storage tracts about a mile west of here caught from the brush fires yesterday and were destroyed, involving a loss of about $30,000. There were 600 cars on the tracks and as soon as the fire was discovered switch engines were hurried to the scene and many of the cars were saved.

NO LID FOR KENOSHA.

Kenosha, Wis., April 23.—The Kenosha city council has put itself on record as being in favor of violating the law, so far as the Sunday saloon is concerned, and at the meeting of the council Monday that body voted unanimously to table a petition, signed by E. G. Simmons and 575 taxpayers, asking that the Sunday closing state law be enforced.

BUILT RIGHT.

Brain and Nerves Restored by Grape-Nuts Food.

The number of persons whose ailments were such that no other food could be retained at all, is large and reports are on the increase.

"For 12 years I suffered from dyspepsia finding no food that did not distress me," writes a Wis. lady. "I was reduced from 145 to 90 lbs., gradually growing weaker until I could leave my bed only a short while at a time, and became unable to speak aloud.

"Three years ago I was attracted by an article on Grape-Nuts and decided to try it.

"My stomach was so weak I could not take cream, but I used Grape-Nuts with milk and lime water. It helped me from the first, building up my system in a manner most astonishing to the friends who had thought my recovery impossible.

"Soon I was able to take Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast, and lunch at night, with an egg and Grape-Nuts for dinner.

"I am now able to eat fruit, meat and nearly all vegetables for dinner, but fondly continue Grape-Nuts for breakfast and supper.

"At the time of beginning Grape-Nuts I could scarcely speak a sentence without changing words around or 'talking crooked' in some way, but my brain and nerves have become so strengthened that I no longer have that trouble." "There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

COMMITTEE MISTRUSTED

olutions were presented, and the committee on second-class postage handed in its report.

During the sessions a resolution was adopted, thanking President Roosevelt for his kindly and courageous message in favor of free pulp and print paper. Another resolution was adopted, which reads as follows:

Cannon Condemned.

"The American Newspaper Publishers' association, comprising representatives of daily newspapers printed in every section of the country, and gathered in annual convention, protests against the subterfuge just designed by Speaker Cannon and Representatives Payne and Dalzell, creating a committee on paper inquiry, and thereby blocking the Stevens bill for free paper and free pulp. We charge that this device was inspired in bad faith. Since early in December, 1907, a committee of this body has been clamoring at the doors of the ways and means committee for an opportunity to show the power of illegal combinations of paper makers. Messrs. Payne and Dalzell have repulsed all such efforts. The speaker of the house has turned away his face whenever any member tried to raise the issue on the floor of the house. We are now amazed to find that Messrs. Cannon, Payne and Dalzell have changed their tactics, and avow a desire to study the tariff phases of this paper question. They say they want the whole matter investigated thoroughly, though they know that such inquiry will carry over the entire proposition to the next session of congress. They now pose as champions, who have been eagerly asking for what they for months refused to recognize.

Mistrust Committee.

"With the utmost respect and deference for the authority of congress, we respectfully state that we mistrust the committee just appointed. We challenge the intentions of those who have thus far succeeded in side-tracking the Stevens bill. We charge that action on the Stevens bill has been delayed to the advantage of a combination of paper makers, who, in a desperate effort to maintain artificial prices on a declining market have shut down nearly 50 per cent of their mills, and who, by throwing into idleness a considerable number of their employes, have shown the insincerity of their professions that the tariff duty on paper was needed to protect that paper."

ried life, friends have tried to reconcile them. Both are young, and they have a 2-year-old baby, which Hazelton testified he had never seen.

"Our life was unhappy," he said. "I didn't seem to be able to please her. She left me May 24, 1906, and went to Duluth. She said that she would never come back. On many occasions I had stopped her from leaving me, but on that date she left despite my protests.

Don't Like Housework.

"She said that she didn't love me; that she couldn't stand to live in poverty with me. She didn't like doing the housework, and as a matter of fact I did most of it. She said she hated me, hated the sight of me, and never wanted to see my face again."

"Did she ever try to dictate your conduct in the house?" asked Attorney Alex J. Grosbeck, representing Hazelton.

"Yes, I had to give in to her because of my physical condition. It would have been a continued fight, and I couldn't stand it. I had to give up my personality. She ruled me absolutely. She expected me to be her body servant and do errands for her. She said she would conquer me absolutely or die. She wanted to wear me down and finish me; that was the way it seemed.

"I had to do the housework at her bidding. She would let the work go and the rear rooms would always be dirty. She would keep the front rooms clean for company, and I would have to do the work in the rear rooms. For the first two years of our married life I did more than half of the work besides attending to my duties in the college."

Prayer vs. Classes.

"Did she used to insist on prayers?"

"Yes, she insisted on a long prayer of blessing at meals and especially at times when I was in a hurry to get back to my class. She also insisted on Bible reading for an hour or so everyday, and made me join her."

"What time of the day did she read the Bible?"

"It was her theory that the reading ought to be done in the morning, but she didn't get out of bed until after 10 o'clock any morning, so there were hardly ever any prayers in the morning. She tried to keep me from my classes for the Bible reading. I always had to get my own breakfast. She often said she would have married a religious man, and referred to Dr. Clark, a missionary in Asia, and other missionaries, who were her ideal men."

"Did she abuse you?"

"I never knew of anyone who had a tongue half as bitter as hers. She nagged me and often battered me."

"Battered you?"

"Yes, with her fists. She often lost her temper while playing cards and abused me shamefully when she was losing. On one occasion we had company and she became angry and acted so terribly that the crowd got up and went home."

Professor Does Sweeping, Etc.

"She made you do housework?"

"Yes. I even had to do the sweeping and the dusting of the house. She would never mend my clothes and I had to have my mother do these things for me. She often told me, too, that she thought she would like to be a missionary, because she wanted to promote the spirit of Christianity."

Hazelton has left the University of Michigan, and is now working for the Trussed Concrete Steel company at $3.50 a day. He said that he is heavily in debt.

Several depositions were read, including that of Miss Maude E. Taber, a former girl friend of Mrs. Hazelton, who says that Mrs. Hazelton was a poor housekeeper, and tells of an instance of Mrs. Hazelton washing her hair in the dishpan.

Miss Taber also says that Mrs. Hazelton told her that she wished she had married a man who was more spiritual than Hazelton, and that she hated him, hated the air he breathed and the ground he walked on.

Owing to a large number of depositions, and an equally large number of witnesses to be heard, the case will take a couple of days to try.

When Mrs. Hazelton comes into court, Hazelton for the first time will see his own child, whom she will bring with her.

A marriage license issued to William S. Hazelton and Julia V. Johnson, both of St. Louis county, on Sept 10, 1905, is recorded at the office of the clerk of the district court. Miss Johnson was a school teacher and boarded at 509 Grand avenue east. Previous to becoming a school teacher she was a student at Ann Arbor, and it was while she was a co-ed that she met Prof. Hazelton, whom she subsequently married.

RESTRICTIONS TO BE RETAINED

On Fullbloods' Lands on the White Earth Reservation.

Washington, April 23.—Recently several petitions have been received from Northern Minnesota asking members of the Minnesota delegation to have legislation passed removing all restriction of lands held by fullbloods on the White Earth reservation The petitioners became rather insistent, and Representative Steenerson made inquiries relative to the attitude of the department of the interior and the Indian office toward such legislation. He was told that neither Commissioner Leupp nor Secretary Garfield would favor such legislation, but on the other hand, probably would make a strong adverse report on any bill having for its object the removal of restrictions on land held by fullbloods. There was also an indination that the president would veto any such bill, if it should be passed in the face of departmental objections.

Under the present law a fee patent for his allotment can be given any full-blooded Indian by the secretary of the interior, provided the latter is satisfied that the Indian can manage his own affairs, and the fullbloods on the White Earth reservation who want patents without restrictions will have to apply for them under this law and make the necessary showing. Mr. Steenerson has concluded that he won't introduce a bill on this subject, in view of what he learned at the interior department.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The decision of the United States supreme court, ending a ten-year struggle over water power rights of the St. Marys river, has caused great satisfaction here, as it is believed it will open the way for an agreement between the Chandler-Dunbar company and Michigan Lake Superior Power company by which all power in the river can be developed and by which all government improvements planned, involving an expenditure of $6,000,000 or more, can be carried out at once. The decision settles for all time the right in the rapids.

COL. L. W. POWELL CHOSEN

One of Arizona Delegates to Republican National Convention.

The Arizona territorial Republican convention last week was a very exciting affair marked by numerous contests and finally ended in Governor Kibbey bolting and holding a separate convention. The regular convention indorsed the Roosevelt administration, thanked Senator Foraker for saving Arizona from being linked with New Mexico in statehood, and elected Judge Richard Sloan and Col. L. W. Powell, manager of the Calumet & Arizona company, as delegates to the national convention. No mention was made of Taft and the delegates are unistructed. The Kibbey faction passed resolutions indorsing the administration, thanking Foraker and favoring the nomination of Taft, but not instructing the delegates. Judge Sloan and Hoval A. Smith were chosen as delegates to the national convention.

WRONG KEY STRUCK.

Mistake of Stenographer Gave Condemned Man Longer Respite.

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—Because a careless stenographer hit the wrong typewriter key the life of Bill Jefferies, under sentence to hang at St. Charles, May 4, may be prolonged two months.

When Jeffries' sentence was affirmed by the supreme court no official notification was given, through some clerical oversight, to the officials at St. Charles, and Jeffries' lawyers made a fight and delayed the execution on this ground. Then Governor Folk granted a thirty days' respite from April 4, the date set for the hanging.

The official notification of the respite reached St. Charles finally, and then a mistake was found. At the bottom the stenographer intended to date it thus: Mar. 4, 1908." What he wrote was this: "May 4, 1908." Now Sheriff Hines in wondering whether he must delay the execution until thirty days after May 4.

Jeffries killed William Mussler, a dairyman of St. Charles, in an effort to rob him. Mussler's 7-year-old daughter was the chief witness against him.

MAKES BALLOON TRIP.

Wilmington, Del., April 23.—Balloon No. 1 of the Signal corps of the United States army, which left Washington yesterday afternoon, landed, at 5:15 last evening, one mile above Delaware City. The balloon was in charge of Capt. C. DeForest Chandler, and had as passengers Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Capt. FitzHugh Lee and Capt. Robert O. Van Horne.

The landing was made without accident, though in a previous attempt to bring it to earth, several miles below Delaware City, the anchor caught in a tree and broke off. The balloon was permitted to float until a hold was secured in a large field on the Reynolds estate, where the landing was made. The passengers came to Wilmington and boarded the 9 o'clock train for Washington. They report having had a very pleasant trip, with no serious difficulties.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., sent several messages from Wilmington before leaving. One of these was to his father and the other to his sister, Miss Ethel. They announced his safe landing.

The balloon will be packed and shipped back to Washington. The distance traveled by the balloon is 135 miles.

COUNTY IS WELL FIXED

Facts Concerning Its Financial Status Compiled by Auditor Halden.

Sale of Certificates of Indebtedness Offers a Good Investment.

County Auditor O. Halden will receive at noon on April 30 sealed proposals for the purchase of 600 certificates of indebtedness of the county of St. Louis, in the denomination of $1,000 each, issued to raise funds for the construction of a courthouse. One hundred of the certificates will mature in four years from the date of issue; 100 will mature six years from the date of issue and 100 each year thereafter until all have been paid. The certificates will bear interest of 4½ per cent, payable semi-annually, May 1 and Nov. 1.

The board of county commissioners, at its last meeting authorized the call for sealed proposals for the sale of the certificates. The time limit for the reception of bids is not so far off as is usual in such proceedings, but County Auditor Halden has taken steps to bring the matter to the attention of a large number of the big bond companies, as well as individual firms that are in the business of buying or placing bonds, and it is expected that there will be a large response in the way of bids.

In line with his policy of advertising the fact that the county has some certificates of indebtedness to sell, County Auditor Halden has issued and sent through the mails a large number of printed circulars containing notice of the proposed sale of the certificates, besides quoting the law authorizing the issue, the resolution of the county board, and furnishing concise and valuable information to prospective bidders of the financial status of the county.

State census of St. Louis county in 1905, 117,500.

Total bonded debt, $517,000, not yet due.

There are no floating debts aside from the bonds outstanding.

Assessed valuation, 1907, $234,347,180.

County rate of taxation 1.81 mills.

Purpose of issue, construction and furnishing of a courthouse.

"There has never been a default in the payment of bonds or interest. There is no controversy or litigation pending or threatened affecting the existence of the boundaries of said county or the title of its respective officials to their respective offices, or to the construction of the courthouse."

Viewed from the investment standpoint the county of St. Louis is offering a good opportunity to the individuals and concerns that make it a practice of buying county or municipal bonds. The statement of the county auditor shows St. Louis county to be "well fixed" as regards its finances. No other county in the state, it is claimed, can make a better showing on its past record of taking care of its indebtedness, or hold out better assurances of fulfilling its obligations in the future.

The county will accept bids for all or any part of the certificates. It is the intention of the county board to encourage the local buying of the certificates as much as possible.

A certified check for 5 per cent of the bid must accompany each proposal and the county reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids.

SCHEME OF A BRYAN BOOMER

Is Cleverly Nipped in the Bud by Frank A. Day.

St. Paul, April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anticipating its use as a scheme to harm Governor Johnson's presidential chances in Minnesota, Frank A. Day has made public a letter received from James McGruggan of Waseca, a Bryan boomer. McGruggen threatens to expose the Johnson crowd, because of the alleged use of money.

McGruggan, while talking with Chairman Day over the telephone, was taken for Peter McGovern, also of Waseca, and a Johnson enthusiast. Telling him it was all Bryan down that way, Day, he declared, on the supposition that he was talking to one of his own crowd, said that he was surprised, and informed him that if any money was needed by all means to let him know. According to McGruggan, a few other secrets not intended for the Bryan men were sent over the wire to him.

Writing to Chairman Day, McGruggan says he intended to make the whole conversation public, and to acknowledge his deception in permitting Mr. Day to believe that he was talking to Peter McGovern. For, says the Waseca man, "I think I am justified in doing so in order to keep you and your gang from defrauding Bryan, the people's choice."

To this Chairman Day has made answer in which he authorized McGruggan to give the alleged conversation all the publicity he desires. He claims to have not said anything that could be construed as showing that he and the committee were using money to carry the state for Johnson.

"What I did tell him—and I admit that I did think I was talking to Mr. McGovern—was, that if there was any expense attached, to let me know and I would help him as far as I could, though he must understand to start with that our money was limited. What I desired to convey in the way of expense was postage and literature and time consumed in making an appeal to the Democrats of the county."

The Johnson followers say this is only one of the many tricks that the Bryan people are resorting to, in order to get the state away from Governor Johnson. Knowing that the whole thing would be published, and a Bryan color be given it, it was decided to make the whole thing public, before the other side had a chance to do so.

STAG PARTY AT ST. LOUIS

Opening of New Cafes Occasion for Much Hilarity.

The Hotel Management Entertains Hundreds of Guests.

In every way was the dedication of the new St. Louis cafes last night a complete success. The first opportunity was given to inspect the result of the work that has been going on all through the winter months. The congratulations showered upon President James A. Butchart and Manager Thomas Michaud by many of the guests attested to the beauty and taste of the decorations.

There are four rooms in the cafe group. The main dining room is in the colonial style. The color scheme is blue and cream color. Large pillars carry out the colonial effect, while the light comes from large electric candles, which further carry out the general decorative scheme.

The street cafe is in the Italian style. The color scheme is gold and white. The French and German rooms are in the rear of the Superior street cafe and are models of the decorator's art. Heavy, antique furniture is used in the German room and the decorations carry out the Teutonic effect. Both the French and German rooms are finished in dark, stained wood, the color effect being in decided contrast to the finish of the other two cafes. Forty thousand dollars has been expended upon the four rooms, and it is safe to say that in finish, design and beauty they will compare with an cafe in the West.

The stag banquet was in every way a success. The rooms were crowded shortly after the doors were thrown open at 7 o'clock. An orchestra led by Charles D. Ostegren furnished the music during the evening. During the latter part of the evening numerous guests assisted Mr. Ostegren in the providing of entertainment.

Milton C. Spencer lent his melodious Home in the Dark," sang by Mr. Spencer and the assembled guests, proved the hit and the assembled guests proved the hit of the evening, and Mr. Spencer was forced to respond to many encores. Other guests furnished stunts that brought rounds of enthusiastic applause from the banqueters. "Tommy" Michaud was hoisted to a chair in the midst of the hilarity and forced to respond to the demands for a speech.

The menu card was a design of extreme beauty. It bore the design of King (St.) Louis X on heavy embossed paper. The silverware, heavy plated metal, and the large solid serving dishes, represent a cost of over $5,000. The linen is imported. In every way both the cafes and the service are as complete as money and experience can make them. F. W. Gould, who has had charge of some of the leading cafes of the country, will be the manager of the new cafes. Regular service will be opened at 5:30 this afternoon.

COUSIN OF LORD ROBERTS.

Coachman Who Became Official of Now Defunct Toledo Bank.

Toledo, Ohio, April 23.—Through the financial entanglements of the Dorr Street Savings bank, which closed its doors last week, it leaked out here that Earnest Roberts, vice president of the defunct bank, it no other than a cousin of Lord Roberts, the war lord and idol of the English people, and that it was through his relationship with the Roberts family that the Toledo banker came into a big bequest, Roberts came to Toledo twelve years ago, sought and found employment as hostler in Ballard's livery stable, on Lawrence avenue, now conducted by Steve Brown.

Roberts was a quiet, unassuming young fellow, and his docility and timidity made him the butt of the rough jests and sports of the barn men. Later he left the Brown livery, and became a private coachman for a family on Collingwood avenue. While under their employment had received news that he had fallen heir to £30,000, or $150,000. He told his employers his secret, and they have kept the same faithfully until now. Roberts invested his money in Toledo real estate, and in the Dorr Street bank. Mr. Roberts is reticent on the subject of his inheritance, but he is assured that the $30,000 already received is but a small portion of the vast fortune now held in the guardianship of the English chancellor. Roberts refuses to make any statement as to why he left home.

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm-hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

THE PRESIDENT ACTS PROMPTLY

Will Veto Naval Bill Unless Money is Appropriated for Ships.

Washington, April 23.—President Roosevelt will veto the naval appropriation bill, should the senate, as did the house, fail to make an appropriation for the two battleships which are authorized in the measure. The prompt announcement of this fact to senate leaders is regarded as responsible for the announcement by Mr. Hale that he should propose an amendment, appropriating $7,000,000 towards the construction of those ships.

The president stated his position on this point with his usual emphasis, upon learning that the bill, as passed by the house, was simply a "paper" provision for naval increase. Authorization of the ships was made, but no money carried to make the provision effective. Such legislation as this, the president made known to his numerous congressional callers, was a travesty as to effectiveness, as well as bearing all the earmarks of legislative legerdemain, intended to make ridiculous his campaign for the greater navy.

The president's action will be effective, as the senate committee announce that they will recommend the $7,000,000 amendment at the proper time.

Any attempt to travesty legislation, and not appropriate for ships, the president declares, he will defeat by the exercise of his constitutional power of veto.

NOT THIS SESSION.

No Show for Anti-Race Track Gambling Bills in New York.

Albany, April 23.—All probability that the anti-race track gambling bill will be called up again in the senate before the close of the regular session of the legislature disappeared yesterday when Senator Foelker of Kings, who voted for the bill was excused on the ground of illness, from further attendance. With Senator Foelker absent, the friends of the bills could not hope to muster more than 24 votes against 25 in opposition. It is known that Governor Hughes will call the legislature in extraordinary session for the consideration of the anti-race track gambling bills and other measures which he desires enacted, but which are not likely to be reached during the regular session.

FLOOD DAMAGE REPAIRED ON GREAT NORTHERN ROAD.

Helena, Mont., April 23.—After a week of strenuous effort in which the services of a small army of men has been vigorously engaged, the Great Northern railroad has completed the rebuilding of its line between Wolf Creek and Cascade, which was washed out by the breaking of the Hauser lake dam. Henceforth no delay to traffic is expected.

ANOTHER DRY COUNTY.

Chicago, April 23.—One more Illinois county was added to the totally dry column by late returns from Tuesday's local option election received yesterday. In addition two more counties were found to have voted out the saloons in all but one village or town within their limits. The totally dry counties now number thirty-six.

WON HIS WIFE FROM HIM.

New York, April 22.—Charging him with alienating his wife's affections, marrying her when she was not legally free to wed, and instigating her suits for stock and salary in his paper, the Clubfellow, Percival Harden, editor and owner of that paper, has brought suit against William F. Hoops of the Consolidated Stock exchange for $150,000 damages.

Harden says he was married on Nov. 1, 1899, in Chicago, to Maude Alene Sullivan, and that in June, 1905, she abandoned him. They became reconciled and lived together until February, 1906, when she again left him. Once more they became reconciled and lived together until January, 1907, when, Harden says, she abandoned him for the last time.

Hoops, he declares, was at all times cognizant of these facts as well as of the suits which Mrs. Harden had brought for 247 shares of stock of the Clubfellow. He adds that on Dec. 18 Mrs. Harden brought suit in Chicago for absolute divorce on the ground of cruelty, and that a decree was granted in January.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Committee to Report Against Forest Reserve Bill in Present Form.

Washington, April 22.—The house judiciary committee today decided as unconstitutional the Lever-Currier bill, appropriating $5,000,000 for the acquisition by the government of forest lands in the Appalachian and White mountain chains for the preservation of stream supply and the regulation of stream flow. The committee, however, has decided by a substantial majority to report to the house that if forest reserves are an aid to the navigability of streams the acquirement of such reservoirs by the government is constitutional. These two conclusions are to be formally promulgated in an adjourned meeting to be held later today. It is unofficially understood that the rivers and harbors committee will be called on to decide whether reserves are an aid to navigability.

St. Louis, April 22.—Fred Warner, who was last night sentenced to two years' imprisonment for bribery, will, it is said, continue as a member of the house of delegates and finish his term, which expires next year. Warner has his liberty on bond pending appeal. The trial of Fred Priesmeyer, also a member of the house of delegates, who was jointly indicted with Warner on the bribery charge, was called today in the criminal court.

MILLS TO CURTAIL.

Fall River, Mass., April 22.—Practically all of the cotton mills in Fall River have decided to adopt a drastic policy of curtailing production in an effort to offset adverse market conditions, and it is estimated that the output this week will be less than the normal by nearly 125,000 pieces.

BUSINESS A PAYING ONE

Portable Sawmills Are Numerous in the Duluth District.

An Important Aid in the Development of Farming Sections.

The portable sawmill industry is assuming large proportions in the Duluth district, and owners of mills of this description are taking in big profits. There are now about ten such plants within a few miles of the city, and new ones are being installed in different parts of Northern Minnesota right along.

These mills are taken into regions which have been logged over once. Their purpose is to cut up all marketable timber that was passed over one. Their purpose is to cut up all marketable timber that was passed up by the original logger, or that has since become large enough to cut. Pine, spruce, balsam, birch, poplar, maple, and other woods known to this part of the state are taken to the mills, which may be moved from place to place at small expense, and sawed up.

Some of the mill proprietors own the timber that is cut, while others saw for other people, charging a rate that leaves a comfortable margin of profit. There are thousands of acres of timber in Northern Minnesota, where the operation of a portable sawmill is made profitable, but which it would not pay to cut over if the timber had to be hauled any distance to market. If the timber is sawed into lumber on the spot and then hauled to the city, the price that may be obtained is large enough to justify the trouble and expense.

Portable mills vary in price, but the average one used in this part of the country may be procured for about $1,000 or $1,200. In many cases they pay for themselves, with all expense of operation and wages of men, in less than a year's time. Reports from different parts of Northern Minnesota are to the effect that new mills of this sort are being put in operation right along. The industry is developing into an important one, and will increase in importance for the next two or three years. Portable mills are of particular benefit where farmers are settling in forest districts, for as the timber is cut in clearing the land it may be taken to the mill, sawed and then hauled back to the farm, thus giving building material at small expense at a time when the new settler is apt to need every cent he can lay his hands on.

HORSE THIEF FOILED.

Attempted to Escape While Being Brought From Seattle.

Leeds, N. D., April 22.—Sheriff John Aker and Deputy John Shultz returned Monday, having in charge Shaffer, the noted horse thief who was recently arrested in Seattle, Wash., on an information sworn to by the officials of Benson county. The defendant made a strong fight for liberty in the courts of Washington and later, while en route to Leeds, he made a desperate effort to gain freedom by attempting to force his way out of the passenger coach.

On the train the man was handcuffed and shackled so as to guard against any possibility of escape. Several nights ago, while the prisoner and three men were in the sleeping car, Shaffer managed to slip the handcuff from one wrist and also to free his legs, then made a bolt for the car door. The door, however, stuck in some manner and the prisoner was again caught.

He has been removed to the county jail at Minnewaukan, where he will be closely watched. The hearing will be held as soon as the witnesses can be secured.

EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS

Enjoy an Elaborate Banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Bryan, Knox and Other Prominent Men Were Guests.

New York, April 23.—There was a notable gathering of editors and publishers at the Waldorf-Astoria last night, the occasion being a joint banquet of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers' association, both of which are holding their annual meetings in this city. Every state and territory of the United States was represented by those who have earned distinction in the newspaper profession and their guests included William J. Bryan, United States Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania and others of public influence.

The grand ball room was filled to the limit of comfort when the 600 diners had found their places. The boxes which were half hidden by a wealth of carnations and apple blossoms were occupied by the families and friends of the banqueters. The scheme of decoration was as beautiful as it was elaborate, the national colors of course predominating.

Souvenirs of Banquet.

The souvenirs of the banquet were daintily printed little volumes, bound in Japan vellum, one containing a history of newspaper printing from the earliest times, and other a list of members of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

Mr. Ridder began the evening's formalities by proposing the health of the president of the United States. The toast was drunk standing, while the orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner."

"In the name of Frank B. Noyes, the president of the Associated Press, and in behalf of the American Newspaper Publishers' association," said Mr. Ridder, "I bid you all tonight, our guests, a warm and hearty welcome."

Mr. Ridder then explained, jokingly, that he had promised not to make a speech. Accordingly he was obliged to bluntly introduce "one of the most distinguished journalists of this country, the editor of the Boston Globe, Gen. Taylor."

Speech by Gen. Taylor.

This gave Gen. Taylor, who was received with tumultuous applause, an opportunity to say: "I do not think that the committee need to have tied Mr. Ridder down in such a way that he could not give me some complimentary praises, for I own to you that I am one of the ordinary sort of men who would rather have an ounce of taffy while I am alive than a ton of epitaphy after I am dead."

In a more serious mood, Gen. Taylor answered the charge that a tinge of commercialism had come into the press in the last quarter of a century. After pointing out that whereas an eight-page paper, twenty-five years ago, was sold for 4 cents a copy, the reader now receives from eight to twenty-four pages for 1 cent. He added that there was not a 1-cent paper in the country but that was worth 2 cents. What journalists really needed, he said, was a copper half cent, in order that they might go the limit and give a 2 or 3-cent paper for half the present price.

"Journalists are criticised fairly and unfairly, and we are criticised as other people are because we are human. I want to say this of my brethren of the press, that they have just as high ideals, they are just as anxious to promote the greatest good of the greatest number, they are just as eager to build up the best institutions of their communities, they are just as anxious to carry as much sunshine and as little trouble as they can to the homes of the American people, as are the men of any other profession, or any other business in the United States."

Taylor then explained the unavoidable absence of Governor Hughes, whose presence had been hoped for.

Rabbi Wise Speaks.

Rabbi Wise addressed the diners as fellow muckrakers and for a half hour kept them in roars of laughter as he related a series of pointed incidents.

Mr. Bryan, who had received a cordial greeting when he entered the dining hall, was given another kindly expression as he rose to speak.

Mr. Bryan spoke for some moments in a humorous line of thought, replying in kind to earlier sallies at his expense.

Mr. Bryan had something to say also upon the tariff and continued.

"For a long time I was arguing tariff reform, when I could find mighty little support among the newspaper fraternity. I found after a while that I was too general, that to get the newspaper men with me I must be more specific.

"And so I went to my good friend, our German brother (pointing to Mr. Ridder) and asked him what I could do to be sure of the unanimous support of the newspaper fraternity in my advocacy of tariff reform. He said 'pulp,' and I took it up and for the first time in my life I found myself on the side of the majority. I congratulate you that there is at least one question upon which we can be sympathetic and work together, for it costs me something as well as you."

Mr. Murphy made a witty speech in response to the toast "Time and Chance."

STATUES HELD IMMODEST.

Work Exhibited in Many Cities is Rejected by Baltimore.

Baltimore, April 22. — Baltimore has double-crossed the high art goddess. The truth is out today with the return shipment to Philadelphia of two life-size figures—a plaster woman and man—the work of Giuseppe Donato, the Philadelphia sculptor, which was selected by a jury of the National Sculpture society of New York, for the exhibition which is now being held in the Fifth Regiment armory.

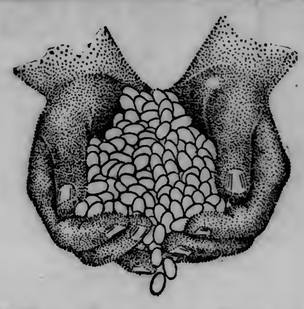

The executive committee of the Baltimore Municipal Art society, sturdily on guard to conserve the moral integrity of the community, after a heated discussion, has decided that the figures are immodest, and has refused to allow them to be exhibited.

Both figures are of symbolic import, and having already been exhibited in Philadelphia at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, in Paris at the Old Salon, and in Chicago at the Art institute, and have, in each instance, excited favorable comment. The male figure the sculptor calls "Inspiration—that burning desire within me which gives me no rest"—and the female figure "Nature's Melody."

We could buy beans as low as 30 cents per bushel, yet we pay $2.10 for ours

We use Michigan beans picked over by hand.

We buy only the whitest,, the plumpest, the fullest-grown.

They are baked in live steam—not in dry heat. Thus the skins are not broken, the beans are not scorched.

The result is, all the beans are baked until they are mealy. Yet they are nutty, not mushy.

We could buy tomato sauce ready made for one-fifth of our cost to make it

Tomato sauce is often made from tomatoes picked green, and ripened in shipment. Such sauce is flat. Some sauce is made from scraps of a canning factory, but such sauce is not rich.

Ours is made only from whole vine-ripened tomatoes.

That is why you get a sparkling zest in Van Camp's, a piquant tang which never is found in others.

Beans, above all foods, should be factory cooked.

It requires a fierce heat to break down the fibre—to make beans digestible—and no home can supply it.

Our ovens are heated to 245 degrees.

Then you miss, in home cooking, the delicious blend that we get by baking the sauce and the beans together.

Put the can in hot water, and your meal can be served in ten minutes

Beans are Nature's choicest food—23% nitrogenous, 84% nutriment. Even wheat falls below them in nutriment.

No food is liked better; no food is cheaper.

Then why not serve the most delicious beans that you know? Make your people want them daily. And why not keep a dozen cans in the house—a dozen meals always ready?

BRUSH FIRE SHOWS BODY

Decomposed Remains of Missing Long Lake Man Finally Located.

John Swenson Perished in Blizzard of Two Years Ago.

Bagley, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The heavy forest fires which have been prevailing in this section, destroying much standing timber, considerable farm property and cordwood, have cleared the mystery surrounding the disappearance during a blizzard in the winter of 1906-07 of John Swenson, a homesteader. The fire has cleared the underbrush and tall grass on the Asleson farm, near Long lake, and revealed the badly decomposed body of the missing homesteader. Coroner C. A. Wagner, who has examined the remains, says that there is little doubt they are all that is mortal of Swenson. By means of articles found in the clothing the identification was established.

In one of the pockets was found a Norwegian coin, which Swenson always carried, and also $11 in money. Part of his hand was amputated, which made his identification complete.

The fact that there was still money in the dead man's pocket is proof that he wandered from his homestead and died from exposure.

Swenson had proved up on his claim and was living on the place in his shanty. He mysteriously disappeared, and hope had been given up of ever again seeing him alive.

DURUM WHEAT MEN AT DEVILS LAKE

Decide to Continue Their Fight to Secure Better Prices.

Devils Lake, N. D., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The raisers of durum wheat in this state comprising the North Dakota Wheat league at a meeting held here yesterday, at which there was a fairly representative attendance, decided to continue the fight to secure the same prices for durum as other kinds of wheat until the millers and elevator men gave them their rights. Members are cheered by the progress made in the fight and hope to make stronger prices for the fall market, even if it is not possible to secure all that the wheat is believed to be worth. A special committee was named to work with the special legislative committee.

Prof. Ladd of the North Dakota Agricultural college, made the principal address. He charged the Minneapolis mills with using durum wheat freely in the manufacture of flour they sent out as being manufactured from the hard varieties, and told of having analyzed flour sent out by a Minneapolis mill and to have discovered that it showed 50 per cent of durum wheat had been used in its manufacture. He wrote to the milling firm, congratulating its members on the success they had in mixing the varieties, and asked for their receipt. Needless to say he received no reply.

Addresses were also made by John L. Cashel of Grafton, president of the league, Secretary Bachelder of the Grand Forks Commercial club an dothers. Barton, an Oakes miller, and Severtsen, a Crookston miller, were present in behalf of the millers, and denied any such work was being done outside of the big cities.

HONEST MAN RETURNS MONEY OVERPAID HIM.

Fergus Falls, Minn., April 23.—F. C. Barnes of Ashby received a postal money order a few days ago from Charles Johnson of Eagle Bend for $1.20, with a letter explaining that sixteen years ago he had bought a ticket from Mr. Barnes to Long Prairie, and that on reaching that place he had discovered that he had been given too much change. Mr. Barnes had gone to another point shortly afterwards, and he had never been able to locate him.

GASOLINE EXPLOSION.

His hair, eyebrows and mustache were burned off and his hands badly burned. The explosion caus a fire, and the department was called to the tailor shop. The blaze was put out and the loss is slight. Keitel will recover.

If you suffer from backache—
From urinary disorders—
From any disease of the kidneys,
Be cured to stay cured.
Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.
Duluth people testify.
Here's one case of it:

L. P. Schneider, butcher at McAuley's Washington Market, and living at 210 West Fourteenth Ave., Duluth, Minn., says: "A statement I made in 1898, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills and which has been publshed in the local papers, very mildly expressed my opinion, of that remedy. After suffering for a long time with pain through the back and loins, which made it almost impossible for me to stoop and life anything without torture, and after using various medicines and treatments without effect, Doan's Kidney Pills cured me, and the lapse of six years has proved that the cure has been permanent. I suffered the worst tortures of kidney trouble. Often the pain felt as if a sharp knife was piercing me. At night, although, tired out, I could not rest or lie in one position without becoming sore all over. The kidney secretions were irregular and contained a heavy sediment. Since I found this sure cure I have time after time advised others to use Doan's Kidney Pills, and I never miss an opportunity to speak well of them."

NERVY ST. PAUL HIGHWAYMEN

Try to Hold Up Four Men at One Time, But Fail.

St. Paul, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Andrew J. Myhre, K. P. Myhre, H. Herseth and J. H. Herseth, while on their way home from a lodge meeting Monday night, were held up on the Rice street bridge by seven men, who attempted to rob them.

The four men put up a desperate resistance and finally made their escape. J. Herseth, an old man, was held by two of the robbers, while a third went through his pockets. He had changed his clothes and had no money with 'im, and the highwaymen, thinking his companions might be in the same condition, at a signal from one of the men, released their victims and fled.

The four men set out to find a policeman and after half an hour's search located one and returned with him to the scene. Everything was quiet and no traces could be found of the thugs.

WILL ENTERTAIN GOVERNOR.

Houghton Planning Warm Reception for Governor Johnson.

Houghton, Mich., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eliminating all politics the reception to be tendered Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota upon the occasion of his visit here next week, when he will lecture, promises to eclipse anything of the sort seen in the Coper country in years. Well known business men are taking an interest in his coming and many will resolve themselves into committees to welcome and entertain the governor. He will be met at the South Shore depot and escorted to the Douglas house, where, later he will be given a luncheon. An automobile ride to the College of Mines and other points of interest will be features of the entertainment.

Secretary A. K. Cox of the Grace M. E. church entertainment course, under whose auspices Governor Johnson is coming here, has wired for particulars as to when the executive of Minnesota would reach Houghton and the self-constituted entertainment committee will base its plans on the reply. The business men are taking considerable interest in the coming here of Governor Johnson, who just now, as a candidate for president, is prominently before the public, and there is little doubt he will be accorded a reception which his position entitles him to.

A number of citizens have expressed a willingness or rather desire to personally entertain the governor during his short stay in Houghton, and there seems no need for any fear that he will not be properly taken care of while here.

SHOULD NOT USE SALT.

Professional Advice to North Dakota Farmers in Treating Grain.

Fargo, N. D., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. H. G. Bolley of the botanical department of the agricultural college has been receiving many inquiries from the farmers over the state as to whether it will do any harm to add salt to the solution of formaldehyde when treating grain for smut.

The object of adding salt to the solution is for the purpose of making the solution heavy enough to float other seeds that might be in the grain such as king head, wild oats and pigeon grass. This has been thoroughly tested at the college, and it has been found that from one to one and a half pounds of salt had to be added to float the heaviest of these weed seeds and that the solution of this strength killed the seed grain. A weaker solution floats but very few of the weed seeds, but harmed the grain considerably. For this reason Prof. Bolley cannot recommend the use of salt, and wishes to discourage it when treating grain for any purpose.

WARDEN PUNCTURES FAKE.

Prison Official Did Not Refuse to Accept Condemned Man.

Bismarck, N. D., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Warden Hellstrom of the state penitentiary, to whom Noah, the convicted Ward county murderer was turned over to be hanged, according to the law, denies the story he refused to accept the condemned man because he questioned the constitutionality of the law.

Warden Hellstrom says that no one but the supreme court can take the condemned man away from the penitentiary, at which place he will remain until his execution in November. However, it is true, Mr. Hellstrom says, that there is no appropriation made in this state for the erection of a gallows, and if Noah is hanged at the appointed time it will be necessary for the warden to erect the scaffold from private funds, and then wait until the next session of the legislature to be reimbursed.

TWO SOLDIERS "MIXED."

Sergeant and Private From Fort Lincoln Engage in Fight.

Bismarck, N. D., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—On a vacant lot, southeast of the city, the night before last, a pitched battle was fought. The principals were a private and a sergeant from the forces at Fort Lincoln. The men agreed to disagree on Main street, and decided to fight out their differences to the bitter end by repairing to some more secluded spot. Followed by a large crowd, they wended their way to the battle ground before mentioned. A referee was chosen, a timekeeper installed, and the men "mixed."

The result was that the sergeant came out the better man of the two, administering a severe drubbing to his antagonist.

THE VALUE OF RECREATION.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, who has lately attained much fame as a dispenser of wholesome advice about the way to live in health and comfort, talked the other day to some Brooklyn women about the need and value of recreation, and what he said is good for women everywhere, and for men as well.

Time spent in recreation is never wasted unless it is at the sacrifice of greater interests—if there can be any greater interest than that of keping a sound mind in a sound body—and there are times when it is better to sacrifice business than it is to sacrifice health by shutting out recreation and devoting one's entire time to business. Men or women with no wholesome recreation in their lives cannot be healthy and complete. Analyze the word; see what it means: to recreate, and to make over, to renew.

Dr. Hutchinson told the Brooklyn women that work is a comparatively new employment for the race, while it has been familiar with play for thousands of generations; that the present generation has a mania for work and makes a vice of it more than of indolence. The point of fatigue in either work or play should be regarded as a danger signal and be heeded as soon as possible. Neither work nor play has a right to become the exclusive business of life, but a certain proportion of time, depending in amount upon the intensity of one's work, is owed as a duty to rest and relaxation.

He said that the business woman—he was talking to business women—who works under the direction of intelligent and fair employers usually lives under more hygienic conditions than the woman who keeps irregular hours and whose work is "never done" in the home. The business woman should feel the dignity of her position, and seek to bring about fair conditions in the establishment where she is employed, and for herself and her fellow employes make use of the hours free from business for real recreation.

First among the things which rest one, Dr. Hutchinson placed walking in the open air. He advocated tramps through the city streets as well as along the country roads. He emphasized the value of dancing if practiced without late hours and other frequently accompanying evils, also indoor and outdoor games and all such employments as divert the mind while bringing into play sets of muscles not used in one's ordinary employment. He also spoke of the need for regarding the hours spent at table in the light of recreation for the sake of intellectual companionship as well as that of physical well being. In closing he reiterated the need for regular hours for sleep with plenty of fresh air.

Change, exercise, diversion, fresh air, sunlight, pleasant and uplifting and broadening companionship—these are the chief ends of recreation, and the means by which they are attained matter less, so long as they are wholesome and honest.

REFORM IN THE CONGO.

After years of world-wide scandals and of constant protests by humane citizens of many countries, there is hope of reform in the Congo Free State, where Leopold of Belgium and his agents have scattered a horde of cruelties and evils in their greedy pursuit of gain.

Immediate and satisfactory results have flowed from the representations Secretary Root recently made to the king of Belgium in regard to conditions in the Congo. Definite and positive assurances have been received that measures will be taken to correct the abuses which American consular officers claim to have found. The Belgian government does not admit that these abuses exist. It insists that everything possible has been done, compatible with the interests both of the Congo Free State government and the natives, to lead them from savagery to civilization. Such outrages as have been perpetrated in recent years are claimed to have been the result of attacks made by natives upon each other, for which Belgian officials were not responsible. Nevertheless, the American government is satisfied that the conditions described by the American agents do exist. These agents are James A. Smith of Michigan and Lucien Memminger, formerly a young newspaper man from the South. Both men are absolutely reliable, and full credence is given in Washington to their statements and conclusions.

The Belgian government has been advised to this effect, and has also been told that in the judgment of the president and Secretary Root it is imperative that the crimes which have been perpetrated upon the natives shall cease. What it is particularly sought to end is the condition of slavery that exists in the Congo. The Belgian authorities swear there is no slavery; that the natives are merely required to pay taxes, in lieu of which they must serve the state by collecting rubber. But the natives are invariably unable to meet these taxes, and are therefore forced to discharge their debts by labor in the rubber fields.

King Leopold realizes that since the United States has become a party to the international representations in regard to the Congo, reforms must be introduced into that region if it is to remain a part of his domain. For years the British government has been insisting that the obligations incurred by the king under the treaty of Berlin shall be observed. No attention was paid to these representations because Leopold believed himself able to form a European combination which would make Great Britain helpless. Supported by the United States, however, Great Britain is in a very different position.

If conditions are not improved, it is probable that an international conference will be held, and control of the territory taken away from the Belgian monarch. The latter is trying to dodge this solution by transferring the Congo to the Belgian government. It is now under his personal charge. Though the charges of slavery and cruelty have been denied, they are fully proven, and Great Britain and the United States are in earnest in their determination that they shall be stopped. If they succeed, another blow for human liberty will have been struck by this nation.

TARIFF REVISION.

An indication of the growth of tariff revision sentiment among the Republicans is furnished by the narrow escape from defeat by Congressman John Dalzell for delegate to the Republican national convention, at the recent primary election in Pennsylvania. Dalzell is a member of the ways and means committee of the house and with Cannon, Payne and the other leaders who control legislation in that body is responsible for the failure of congress to heed the country's demand for a revision of the tariff. When Dalzell, who was elected to the present congress by a majority of 7,352 over his Democratic opponent in a total vote of 21,000, finds it difficult to secure election now as a delegate from such a strong protectionist state as Pennsylvania, it must be apparent that the revolt against the burdens of an inequitable tariff, and against robbery by the trusts which the tariff has created and is supporting, is widespread.

The Republican party has repeatedly promised in its platforms to revise the tariff, but the Republican majority in congress has treated the promise with contempt. The people are growing very tired of being tricked by the politicians who promise tariff revision when the campaigns are in progress, collect contributions from the trusts for campaign purposes with the secret understanding that the tariff schedules will not be disturbed, and then, when the elections are over, keep their pledges to the trusts and refuse to carry out their promises to the people. The time has come for the voters to compel the senators and representatives to listen to the popular demand or to retire them to private life and elect men who will obey the people's wishes. The people are being ground down to poverty by the high prices exacted by the trusts and monopolies built up and protected by the tariff. The only way they can save themselves from the blood-sucking system is by electing a president and congress pledged to put an end to it, and by repudiating those who have failed to carry out their promises. Those who have deceived the people once on this important question should not be given another opportunity to betray them.

BILLIONS OF NEWSPAPERS.

Nothing shows the great growth and development of this country more closely than the tremendous development of its newspapers.

Gen. Charles H. Taylor, editor of the Boston Globe, gives some striking figures upon this development in an article in Appleton's magazine. He shows that statistics of American newspapers, giving the number of each state, were first compiled in 1810, when there was a total of 366 papers in the entire country. Of these only twenty-five were dailies, thirty-six were semi-weeklies, fifteen were tri-weeklies and 290 were weeklies. Of the twenty-five dailies six were published in New York, only one of which, the Evening Post, still survives under its original name.

The latest available figures show that there were in the United States in 1907 a total of 21,535 newspapers, reviews, etc., of which 2,415 were dailies, 16,288 weeklies, 2,655 monthlies and 177 quarterlies.

In 1900 the total newspaper circulation was 8,168,148,749, a figure that spreads beyond easy comprehension. This was an increase of 74.5 per cent over 1890, while the increase between 1880 and 1890 was 126.4 per cent. Basing his conclusions upon these figures, Gen. Taylor estimates that the total circulation of the newspapers of the country in 1907 was not less than 10,000,000,000 copies, while he places the income from sales and advertising at $200,000,000.

Of the advance of the newspaper as a news-conveying agent, Gen. Taylor says that there never was a time when the newspaper reader gets so much for his money as now, and he illustrates the point by recalling that in 1851, when America won the yachting cup that has since become so famous, the New York and Boston papers printed only 250 to 300 words about it, while at the present time the papers in these cities devote two or three pages to a cup race. Similarly, in 1861 one telegraph operator sent out all the press matter from the convention that nominated Lincoln, while at present a single company will employ over a hundred operators at a national convention.

"Our papers are what the people make them," says Gen. Taylor, speaking of the quality of the matter presented. "The public decides what it wishes to read; the editors and publishers, trained in their business, gather the raw material and work it into the finished product, to meet the demand. Journalists have a much heavier responsibility than any other business men. The idle, the self-seeking, the untruthful, the vicious, begnile them at every hand, to use the powerful engine of the press to carry them a little way along their chosen road. The editor must watch ceaselessly for these unwelcome passengers and eject them on sight. He appreciates the responsibilities of his trust. He reaches his ideal as nearly as he can, and does far more for the morals of the community than he is usually given credit for."

One curious thing about a live newspaper is that its latest editions are always "just out," as well as its back numbers.

The clergyman at the Illinois Republican convention prayed for the "success of our own favorite son—'Uncle Joe.'" The real wonder is that such a clergyman didn't call him "Thy own favorite son."

In many Massachusetts towns the dogs, with $2 license, mostly support the public libraries. Quite appropriate. The Saxon word for "book" shows that the early books were made out of "bark."

A New York bank receiver got $80,000 for six months work; a Chicago street car receiver nearly twice as much. Yet the genius with foresight enough to call such officials "receivers," is unknown.

A congressman says he'd rather have his constituents criticize the things he leaves undone than the mistakes he might make. But the things he leaves undone this session are the very mistakes most likely to undo him.

A British scientist declares that, by finding out the speed at which radium produces helium, the present age of the world can be figured out. According to the preachers and the moralists, the "present age" knows altogether too much about "the world."

HOTEL GOSSIP.

W. G. Forsythe, who was at the opening of the St. Louis hotel cafe last night, is from the Lone Star state. Mr. Forsythe didn't come all the way from Texas to attend the banquet, but is simply here on business. In speaking of the settlement of Texas by homesteaders, Mr. Forsythe said that the attempt to have the Japanese start colonies in Texas had proved to be a failure. The movement promised to be very successful. It was proved that rice could be raised in Texas, and as there is a very good profit in the makeing of this product it was thought that the Japanese who settled in Texas would do very well.

However, they have not prospered. Many of the original homeseekers have left the state, and the influx of Japanese has been reduced to a very limited number. They have not proved good tillers of the soil. They were very anxious to learn the art of farming, took a very great interest in the work, but somehow have failed to make a success of the plan of starting colonies.

In place of the Japs, Texas at the present time is getting American farmers who are taking advantage of the cheap land rates and are buying their farms outright, in many instances. The Jap has moved on and the white man is taking his place. The immigration is not as heavy as it was two years ago. The flow of settlers to Texas is now steady, but they are not pouring in by the trainload as they did when the cheap lands of Texas were first opened up.

Mr. Forsythe says there is a prohibition movement sweeping over the South and the Southwest that is bound to result in the closing of nearly all the saloons in that section of the country. Even in Texas, he says, they are agitating the closing of the saloons. This is something that has opened the eyes of the oldest inhabitant. They are not troubled with the negro problem down there so much as they are in the more central South, but they still have agitators who are working for the closing of the saloons. It is probable that some measures looking toward this end will be introduced into the next legislature.

In the South, says Mr. Forsythe, the prohibition movement did not result from the work of reformers so much as it did from a business-like view from the employers of colored labor and the farmers. They simply found that the saloon was responsible for 50 per cent of all the crime among the negroes, while it rendered them unfit for work. They looked at the matter in the light of a business proposition and voted to put the saloon out of business. It wasn't an emotional reform wave that was responsible for the passing of the saloon in many of the counties of the Southern states—it was the degeneracy that liquor was causing among the laborers upon whom the Southern labor employer must depend.

Mr. Forsythe says that it was fought vigorously by a whisky lobby plentifully supplied with money, but that the ire of the people was raised and there was no chance of resisting the reform movement.

Pressers of trousers are sometimes very slow. Yesterday a guest of the Lenox hotel remained a prisoner in his room for the space of two or three hours, simply because the only pair of trousers he had brought with him were in the tedious hands of the clothes presser. He communicated with the office by means of the telephone, tried in every way to have the trousers hurried through the process of having the wrinkles ironed out, but all to no avail.

It was found necessary to have his breakfast brought up to his room. He waited until 9:30, hoping that he would be able to get his nether garments in time to take his place at the breakfast table. Then he informed one of the proprietors of the hotel that he would like to have something to eat. A menu was brought up to him and he ordered his breakfast, which he ate in the solitude of his room. He was kept a prisoner in his room until late in the morning.

If you see "make good" after the name of any guests at the local hotels, you can be sure that that person hails from Minneapolis. That is the motto they are using down in the Mill City at the present time. The traveling men from that city are wearing the button and signing "make good" after their names upon the hotel register. The "make good" slogan is not only for advertising the city, but is also for working reforms in the city government. They are going to improve the city lighting, enforce certain ordinances and in every way improve the city government.

Translated.

Harper's Weekly: A college professor, in company with his son, was enjoying a walk in the country, when he met an old farmer. It had been a very wet season, and the professor, thinking to start a conversation in a way that would prove interesting to the farmer, remarked:

"There has been a rather abnormal precipitation of late."

The farmer seemed somewhat embarrassed, and the professor's son, who used a different vernacular, though he was a student in the college to which his father was attached, attempted to straighten out the matter. Drawing the farmer to one side, he said in a superior way:

"The governor means that we've been having a hell of a lot or rain."

THE WEATHER.

And now the prospects are that Duluth is to be visited by an old-time northeaster, that has been conspicuous by its absence so far this spring. The storm signals have been hoisted, the vessel masters have been advised to use caution, and the weather man talks familiarly about rain and probably fog and dangerous northeast gales tonight and Friday, probably accompanied by thunder. The wind blew at the rate of thirty-four miles an hour during the night from the northeast. The highest temperature in Duluth yesterday was 61 degs, and the lowest last night was 34 degs.

A year ago today it was clear and warm.

The sun rose this morning at 5:05 and sets tonight at 7:05, making 14 hours and 2 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "A storm of marked intensity is central over Eastern Colorado and the western portions of Nebraska and South Dakota. It has caused higher temperatures over the eastern Rocky mountain slopes and Central states, rains over the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys and west of the Rocky mountains, and strong easterly winds on western Lake Superior. A disturbance central off South Atlantic states is attended by rain in that section. The barometer is high over California and Lake Superior. The easterly movement of the Colorado depression will be attended by rain and probably fog and dangerous northeast gales at the head of Lake Superior this afternoon, tonight and Friday."

Writers Who Should Thoroughly Reverse Themselves.

Brooklyn Eagle: Those who think that James J. Hill and John A. Johnson of Minnesota ever have been friends in politics should change their thinking; in fact, they should reverse it. Those who think that because both these men live in Minnesota, Hill will naturally favor Johnson for president should change their thinking; in fact, should reverse it.

If Mr. Johnson's nomination for president could be prevented by Mr. Hill's support of him, Mr. Hill might affect to support him, in the hope of handicapping him. But, while that might seem unnatural, it would be transparent, and, in fact, a little too transparent for Mr. Hill to undertake.

Every policy favorable to railroads in Minnesota has been supported by Mr. Hill, for the railroads there are his railroads. Every policy favorable to bringing railroads in Minnesota within the control of the government of Minnesota, on matters exclusively related to the rights and the power of that state, has been favored by Governor Johnson, because he is governor of Minnesota and has been made so twice, and has now the support of the state for any ambition he may entertain or for any nomination that may be brought to him.

Johnson may or may not be nominated. If he is, James J. Hill will not be pleased. If he is not, James J. Hill will not be displeased. The mere fact that both men call themselves Democrats and that both live in Minnesota makes them favorable to one another only in the minds of newspaper scribes who do not know politics, or the relation of politics, and who, therefore, paradoxically, are able to write at great length, on politics in uninformed newspapers.

S. S. Cox once told a contentious congressman "thoroughly to reverse himself, and act accordingly." This advice need not be tendered here to fluently ignorant writers on politics in ignorantly fluent newspapers—for it has already been given in the preceding parts of this article.

A Place for Boys.

Ma, she says: "S-s-h-h!" Pa, he says "Don't!"
Aunt Lou, she says: "Kee-eee-eep still!"
An' Grandpa says: "Oh, go outside
If you mus' wissle, Bill!"
An' even Jane, the hired girl,
Says: "Goodness, hush that noise!"
It's plain enough to me at home
Ain't no fit place for boys.

'En Pa says: "S-s-h-h!" an' Ma says "Don't!"
An Grandpa says: "Land sakes!"
An' on' Aunt Lou says: "Gracious me!
What noise one youngster makes!"
An' Jack, the hired man, he says:
"My heavens! W'at a noise!"
So I jist have to go outside,
'Cuz home's no place for boys.

'En I go down to Uncle Jack's,
An' he says: "Gracious me!
Here is that nevvy boy of mine,
Come on, Aunt Moll, an' see!"
'En wo go inside an' make
Such a big lot of noise.
It seems to me 'at Uncle Jack's
The only place for boys.

Nobody ever says "S-s-h-h!" there
Or "Don't!" an' Uncle Jack
'St cuts up capers like a boy
Till it's time to go back
An' 'en, jist like it was before,
Aunt Lou says: "Tush, boy, tush!"
Pa says: "Now, Bill, don't slam the door!"
An' Ma, she jist says: "Hush!"

Gosh, but I'd like to live somew'eres
W'ere people don't say "Tush!"
Or "Goodness me!" or "Sakes alive!"
Or "Don't!" or "S-s-h-h!" or "Hush!"
W'enever I jist squeak a chair
Or make a little noise,
'Cuz such a place as that would be
A bully place for boys.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder for nearly half a century has been giving the people pure food—long before a pure food law was thought out for either state or nation.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

Made from grapes—pure and healthful.
No Alum—No Phosphates.

Chemical tests show that alum baking powders leave unchanged alum, an injurious metallic acid, in the food.

Be on your guard. Alum powders may be known by their price—10 or 25c a lb., or one cent an ounce.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It is stated that John Ware, who owns the twenty-five feet of land adjoining Cormany's photograph gallery, as well as that building, will put up a brick building 25 by 120 feet this season, doubling its width when the wooden building can be moved.

Duluth harbor will doubtless be open to all classes of craft this week. The tugs moved about to some extent today and found the ice everywhere weak and brittle. But the ice in the lake is still firm and it is not likely a boat from below will reach Duluth before May 15. Today is the first really warm day Duluth has experienced this year.

A scaffold fell at the new building on the corner of Seventh avenue west and Superior street being erected by Mr. Quimby. The three Tulloch brothers, Roderick, Thomas and Robert, were on the scaffold, which fell about twelve feet and Roderick was seriously injured.

The subscriptions to the Duluth, Red Wing & Southern fund have reached the handsome figure of $156,000. The amount required before the railway is assured is $250,000, and there is little doubt that it will be raised this spring.

The remains of P. H. Hirschman, who died yesterday, were escorted to the St. Paul & Duluth train by the Duluth Turn Verein, of which deceased was a member.

W. B. Dean, a St. Paul politician, is a possible candidate for congress from the Fourth district. St. Paul has candidates enough to fill all the offices in the state.

The proprietors of Grassy Point addition, west of West Duluth, have contracted for the building of fifty dwelling houses this season. They will cost about $35,000.

Carroll Mauseau, formerly stenographer at St. Paul with the St. Paul & Kansas City railroad general office, is visiting Cashier Siverts of Bell's West End bank. He intends to locate in Duluth and open an office for stenographers' and typewriters' work.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Cass Lake Times: The old political war horses of the Republican party do not appear to be as prominent in the political arena as in former years. Tom Lowry, Tom Shevlin and all the old gang have been left out in the last shuffle.

Cass County Pioneer: The vice president has administered a stimulating cocktail to the agitation for early tariff revision.

Onoka County Union: Tom Lowry pulled out as a candidate for delegate to the national Republican convention. He never was really in the game for he had no chance of winning.

Moorhead Citizen: Of course, we are extremely tired of Boni, Sagan, Madame Gould and Evelyn Thaw, but we ought to be grateful that they have not taken to the lecture platform.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: And now that Minnesota Republicans have had their say about president-making, the gubernatorial fight should liven up a bit.

Norman County Herald: Kelliher, up in Beltrami county, is the "wettest" town in the state—and the nation, perhaps—there being eight saloons in the village. At the recent village election there were eighty votes cast, which gives one saloon to every ten voters.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: Judge Landis, who imposed a fine of $29,700,000 upon the Standard Oil company, last week fined a man 1 cent. The difference between the amounts is $29,699,999.99. But the government got the cent.

Le Sueur News: What will the present members of congress tell the people this fall when they come home and are asked why they did not even make a bluff at earning their increased salary? They must remember the people will not forget that President Roosevelt warned them.

Brainerd Arena: An inquiry among the real estate men of the city develops the fact that they are receiving many inquiries from men in Iowa, Illinois and from southern portions of Minnesota in regard to land in the northern part of the state, and when the spring operations are concluded on the farms in states south of here, it is expected that there will be a lively condition of the real estate market in this section.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: About the busiest thing on earth is an idle rumor.

A man has his reason and a woman has her because.

The bread of idleness often causes mental indigestion.

The offspring of strait-laced parents often turn out crooked.

Even the dignified head waiter occasionally puts his foot in it.

What some people say is of less importance than what they leave unsaid.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: People insist on morality unless it's for themselves.

When a woman hasn't a good figure it's a sign everybody is an old cat not to think she has.

A man can sit up all hours of night with a girl and never get bored until after they are married.

A wife calls it not being faithful to her when her husband thinks another woman's hair curls naturally.

Nobody should blame a poor girl for not screaming at being kissed when her mouth is all stopped up that way.

SMILING REMARKS.

Chicago Tribune: Archie—"Pahdon me, but did you evah notice what lange feet Mr. Stockyman has?"

Miss Capsicum—"I think I've never noticed that—but I have observed that he wears a man's size hat."

Baltimore American: "I hardly know what to make out of my son. He is developing no positive qualities of any kind."

"Then make him a photographer."

"Why, a photographer?"

"Haven't you just said that in regard to qualities, he is developing negatives?"

Washington Star: "So you are sick again," said the solicitous friend.

"Yes," answered the man who worries about his health.

"Are you on the road to recovery?"

"I should say not. I haven't even learned to spell and pronounce what's the matter with me."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Can you tell your present fiance's ring?" inquired the romantic girl as the doorbell sounded. "Why, certainly," answered her practical friend. "It's the newest of the lot."

"Do you think he could stand it?" was the whispered response.

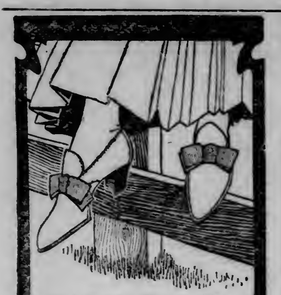

"Hold on there," said the patient, forgetting his burns. "Perhaps I could stand it, but I won't. I'm ready to pay a reasonable fee, but that's the limit."

Of course, they had to explain that theirs was not the ordinary skin game.

MUCH OF STOLEN MONEY FOUND

Police Recover $961.98 Taken by Kehle From Convents.

St. Paul, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Of the money stolen by Gustav Kehle from various convents and religious institutions in the Twin Cities within the past month, the police have recovered $961.98.

After his arrest, Kehle admitted that he had sent $357 to his brother, Herman Kehle, who lives at Judd, N. D. Detectives were sent there, and, although the brother denied having received any money from Kehle a remittance was found hidden in a haystack. It amounted to exactly the sum Kehle said he had sent to Judd.

This morning another search of Kehle's rooms on Eighth street was made and it resulted in the finding of two grips, stolen from convents in St. Paul. They were filled with articles stolen from the several places he burglarized and the sum of $568.98 was found in one of them. A full kit of burglar tools was also found.

The money recovered approximates the total sum Kehle is known to have stolen in his recent operations in the Twin Cities.

MARINE NEWS

BAD STORM IS COMING

Genuine Northeaster is Predicted by the Weather Man.

Booth Line Boats Are Warned to Stay in Port.

Weather Observer H. W. Richardson ran up storm signals on the tower at the weather bureau on the hill about 10 o'clock this morning and notified the Booth line, the only one operating at present, not to send any boats out today. The America, which was waiting at the dock to sail, was held and will not leave on her first trip to Port Arthur until tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and not then, unless the storm has passed. The steamer Moore will arrive in port this afternoon from Port Arthur.

Indications are, says Mr. Richardson, that the storm will strike some time this afternoon and will be a genuine Lake Superior northeaster. The wind will attain a velocity of at least forty miles an hour tonight and will blow up an immense sea on Lake Superior. Coming from the northeast, the wind will probably bring rain.

The storm is expected to last until tomorrow some time. The wind freshened early this morning and about noon, the forerunner of the gale was on hand in a brisk breeze off the lake.

LAST ICE REPORT.

Fields Are Disappearing From All of the Great Lakes.

The last ice report has been issued by Norman B. Conger, inspector and marine agent at Detroit. The ice has nearly disappeared and general navigation will be resumed on all lakes shortly. The report indicates that the ice fields have practically disappeared from Lake Superior. The ice in the St. Mary's river is wearing rapidly away, though the cold night of April 20 was rather unfavorable. A week of warm weather will cause the ice to break up and move out so that it will not be necessary to force a passage. The ice in Green Bay has broken up and has moved out of the bay, except in the extreme northern portion, north of Escanaba, where it is moving with the wind. The ice extends northward from Harbor Springs to the Straits. It has become honeycombed and soft and apparently does not offer much obstruction to navigation.

At the Straits, the ice is moving out slowly. The west end of the Straits is still full of ice, though the east end is free. There have been no ice fields reported in Lake Huron during the week and in Lake Erie the ice fields are confined to the extreme eastern portion, where the westerly winds have packed them; they extend from the Buffalo harbor beyond vision. Lake Ontario is reported free of ice and general navigation in operation.

At Houghton, the ice in Big Portage is still intact, except along the edges. It is rotten, however, and will probably break up in a few days. There is loose ice in the harbor at Marquette, but none in the lake. At Munising and Grand Marais, Mich., the ice is honeycombed and will not interfere with navigation.

COSTS MORE THAN MILLION.

Improvement Work in St. Mary's River Will Begin June 1.

Bids for more than a million dollars' worth of improvements in the channels at Hay lake and Middle Neebish, St. Mary's river, were opened Friday afternoon in the office of Col. C. McD. Townsend, United States district engineer at Detroit.

The work is to be done in four sections. The general width of the excavation is 300 feet with a width of 650 feet at the angle, and the cut is about 18,540 feet long. A depth of 21 feet will be provided in the new channel.

In all there were twelve bids, of which the lowest tender on each section follows: (1) Charles Simonio, Two Rivers, Wis., $81,951; (2) Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company, Chicago, $587,600; (3) Zenith Dredging company, Duluth, $175,167; (4) Edward Bros., Sault Ste. Marie, $234,699.

Work will begin about June 1, or when the new West Neebish channel for downbound ships is placed in commission. The time for completion of the various contracts runs from 225 to 300 working days. Material to be removed consists of clay, some silt and sand, a small amount of gravel and boulders, and loose stones. The work is a continuation of previous improvements in the river.

Will Remove Wreck.

Specifications were issued today by Maj. Fitch, United States engineer, and bids asked for the removal of the wreck of the steamer Alex Nimick of the Gilchrist fleet, which was wrecked Sept. 21 last year in Lake Superior, eleven miles west of Whitefish Point. The wreck has been pronounced a menace to navigation. Bids will be opened at the engineer's office here May 15, and a contract awarded for removing the obstruction.

DECIDE ON LATE START

Independent Vessel Owners Agree to Delay Opening Until May 12.

Down Cargoes Will be Scarce for Some Months.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 23.—Owners and managers of the big independent coarse freighters have entered into an agreement in regard to the starting of their vessels. The coal and ore carriers will not be placed in commission before May 12. A meeting of the vessel owners that are in the agreement will be held here on that date, and unless business conditions warrant the starting of the fleet at that time another date will be fixed for placing the freighters in commission.

Indications are that the starting time will be delayed at the meeting to be held here next month. There has been very little improvement in the trade since the agreement was made and it is not likely that there will be much change in the situation when the vessel men get together.

Down cargoes will be very scarce during the early part of the season, and some of the ore shippers are not figuring on starting their own ships until after the middle of May. A few boats of the Steel trust fleet will probably be sent out early next month, but it is not likely that a general start of the wild vessels will be made until June.

A number of freighters that have been chartered for the first trip in the grain trade will have to sail as soon as navigation opens. They were placed during the winter and the boats will be laid up as soon as they deliver the cargoes. Few of the coal carriers that are loaded will have to start out at the opening. There is very little inquiry for tonnage in any line and the freight market is as dull as it was during the winter.

There is no change in the lake labor situation and it is not likely that there will be anything doing in that line for a number of days.

WOULD LICENSE CATS.

Alderman Thinks Felines Should be Treated Same as Dogs.

New York, April 23.—Alderman W. C. Herbert is advocating an ordinance before the Jersey City board of aldermen, providing that a license fee of $1 a year be charged for cats, that they be tagged and that unlicensed cats be collected the same as dogs. The ordinance was laid over for ninety days, when it will come up for final reading.

"I present this ordinance in all sincerity," said Mr. Herbert. "I think it is a wise provision for the city and the cats. Moving time is drawing near, when people change their homes and leave their cats behind to starve and suffer."

Alderman Herbert received the following note: "You have very little to do, it seems, if you cannot get busy on anything else besides cats. Move if you don't like the noise."

ROBBED OF BIG SUM.

Park River Man Loses Large Amount in Grand Forks Depot.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. Swennumson of Park River lost about $3,000 worth of securities and $300 worth of watches and jewelry yesterday in Grand Forks while on his way to Jamestown to attend the funeral of his wife, who died in the state hospital there. Swennumson, who is about 60 years old, left his grip and overcoat in the Great Northern depot yesterday morning and went down town. When he returned, his overcoat was there, but the grip was gone. In it were the securities and watches.

Two men were in the depot at the time Swennumson left the grip there. They left for Winnipeg on the morning train and an effort is being made to locate them.

RAILROADS

FIRST TRAIN NEXT FALL

Wisconsin Central Will Enter Duluth by That Time.

Railroad Men Are Optimistic Regarding Outlook for Business.

J. C. Pond, general passenger agent of the Wisconsin Central, is in Duluth today on business connected with his road. Mr. Pond states that the trains of the Wisconsin Central will be running into Duluth this fall if indications are correct. The work is being carried along with a rush. A large force of workmen are employed on the work of track laying and every effort is being made to complete the work so that trains will be entering the city by next October.

Mr. Pond says that probably an arrangement will be made to have the Wisconsin Central trains enter the Union depot. The engineering officials have found that the excavating for the tunnel is most difficult, as most of the work is through rock which renders the progress of the work very slow. For that reason it is probable that the work of finishing the track laying to Duluth will be completed before the excavation for the tunnel and the depot are completed.

According to Mr. Pond the outlook for increased freight business is very good. He says that already indications are at hand that point to an increase in general business. Freight men throughout the country, he says, are seeing a general improvement in the railroad business, while the outlook for a return to normal business is very good.

Mr. Pond says that business is as good as can be expected at this time of the year. General freight movements are increasing, merchants are shipping more, while the outlook for a heavy crop is excellent. If the crop proves to be good he says that the roads will have need for all of their cars. Reports received by his road indicate that the early spring conditions are of the best. With the outlook for a good crop most promising, the railroad men are inclined to look at the brightest side of the freight situation.

Oscar L. Hill, Northwestern freight and passenger agent of the Chicago & Alton railroad, who is also in the city today, says that as far as his road is concerned, business is improving. Shipments are heavier, while general business is better. Freight receipts will show an increase for the present month over a similar length of time two or three months ago.

"If there is a large crop in the Northwest," said Mr. Hill, "the railroads will have use for all of their cars. The Northwest has not been seriously affected by the money tightness and if the farmers get a good crop the railroads will have all they can do to furnish cars for the wheat movement.

"There are two things that will effect business. These are the crops and the presidential election. After the nominations the railroad men look for a decided increase in business. Shippers and others are in a large forward movement are waiting. They are waiting to see which way the presidential nominations turn out. I believe that the conventions of the two parties will serve to clear the commercial atmosphere and increase the confidence of the people, thereby increasing business.

"From what information we have received we are led to believe that the outlook for a splendid crop is very promising. A good crop will not only place the railroad business back in a normal condition, but it will tax the carrying powers of the roads. We are not exactly depending upon the crop though. Business is showing a steady increase right along. Business here in the Northwest will pick up during the summer, I believe, and by fall I think you will see almost a return to normal freight business."

AGREEMENT REACHED.

Officials and Trainmen of Western Roads Define 16-Hour Law.

Chicago, April 23.—The general managers of the principal railways west of Chicago and the representatives of the men engaged in train service announced today their agreement as to the application of the 16-hour law. Crews are not to be tied up unless it is apparent that the trip cannot be completed without the lawful time, and not then until after the expiration of fourteen hours on duty under the federal law, or within two hours of the time limit provided by state laws, if state laws govern. Crews tied up a less number of hours than mentioned above are to be regarded as tied up under the law and will be paid. When crews are tied up between terminals under the law they are to be considered on duty and under pay immediately upon the expiration of the minimum legal period off duty applicable to the crew, provided the period of rest for any member, eight or ten hours, be the period of rest for the entire crew. Crews tied up will be paid the time or mileage of their schedules from initial point to tieup point, and when "towed, or deadheaded" into terminal will be paid the same as if the run were made. Pay is also allowed for any service required of an engine crew or if held responsible for the engine.

Otis Appointed.

St. Paul, April 23.—Judge W. H. Sanborn in the United States circuit court late this afternoon appointed Judge Charles E. Otis of St. Paul, master in chancery, to take testimony in the suit of the state against the ten railroads operating in Minnesota to test the validity of the new rate law.

Shipments Increase.

The freight department of the Northern Pacific is authority for the statement that locally the business of that road is showing an increase. Lumber and coal shipments have been better the past two weeks, the general freight movement has been heavier, and the indications are that the increased business will be permanent.

More cars are in demand than a month ago, and indications are that the business will continue growing until normal conditions are reached. The lumber movement has shown quite an improvement during the past two weeks.

Cars Installed.

The parlor cars service will be placed in service on the Northern Pacific Short line on April 27. The parlor cars were taken off so that could be repaired and given a fresh coat of varnish. This work has been completed and the cars will be installed on the regular trains Monday.

Met by Fargo Strikers, Given Dinner and Then Leave City.

Fargo, N. D., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are some funny features to the strike of the painters here and just now the strikers have the laugh on the master painters. The latter had secured a large force of non-union men in the Twin Cities and advertised they were ready to accept all the jobs offered. When the recruits arrived they were met by the strikers, escorted to a hotel and given a big supper, after which they agreed to return to St. Paul on the next train. Their return fares were paid by the local union. Only the big jobs are hung up in the city. The strikers have taken individual contracts and are painting the smaller buildings and repainting the old ones. In this way they are not losing any time.

BOAT CAPSIZES.

Count and Countess Szechenyi Are Thrown Into the River.

Vienna, April 23.—Count Laszlo Szechenyi and the countess, formerly Miss Gladys Vanderbilt had a disagreeable adventure on Easter Sunday, which fortunately had no serious results. They were boating on the River Laborcza, when their boat capsized and the couple were thrown into the water and were forced to swim quite a distance to reach the shore. A friend residing near the scene of the accident supplied them with dry clothing. Neither the count nor the countess suffered any ill effects.

Both men were from Edgerton, Ohio, and were en route to the Flathead reservation to take up land.

The bullet passed through Glunsauke's lung, entering the breast and emerging at the back. The shooter was arrested, and in case the wounded man, now at a hospital here, dies, as seems likely, there will be a murder trial. The man who was stabbed is being cared for at Hurley.

TAFT WITHOUT OPPOSITION.

Upper Peninsula Republicans for Big War Secretary.

Marquette, Mich., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—William H. Taft is the unanimous choice of the Republicans of the Twelfth congressional district of Michigan, which comprises the fifteen counties in the upper peninsula, if the district convention held yesterday afternoon reflects their wishes as the gathering declared for the big secretary of war with a hurrah. No other candidate got a look in.

"The splendid administration of Theodore Roosevelt" was a phrase in the platform that elicited great applause as did every mention of Taft's name, as well as the declaration for a continuance of the Roosevelt policies.

W. H. Johnson of Ishpeming and Chase S. Osborn of Sault Ste. Marie, were elected district delegates, while James A. MacNaughton of Calumet, general manager of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company, was indorsed for delegates-at-large and Judge J. W. Stone of Marquette for the supreme bench. The convention was held in the city hall, beginning at 3 p. m., and all the ninety-one delegates were present. Harmony with a large "H" marked the proceedings.

CASES OF INTEREST.

CONCLUSIVENESS OF EXECUTIVE'S APPROVAL OF LEGISLATIVE ACT.—In Powell vs. Hayes, 104 Southwestern Reporter 177, the supreme court of Arkansas holds that a bill passed by the legislature becomes a law when the acting governor approves and signs the bill even though it is not transmitted to the secretary of state and that his successor cannot veto such bill even though such veto is proclaimed within the time allowed for approval or veto of bill by the chief executive.

THEFT OF SERVANT'S TOOLS.—Plaintiff, a carpenter, in the employ of subcontractors, furnished his own tools, and was given a locker in which to keep them. Notwithstanding a watchman was furnished, the tools were stolen. It was held by the New York supreme court in Dewling vs. Klappert's Sons, 107 New York supplement, 511, that, as no negligence was shown, defendant, not being an insurer, was not liable.

STOPPING AT DESTINATION OF PASSENGER.—Plaintiff inquired of the agent in Philadelphia the time of departure of the next train through to Lower Jamesburg. Being told, he purchased a ticket, showed it to the gateman, requesting to be directed to the train for Lower Jamesburg, which he took. Before reaching Trenton he was told by the conductor that as the train did not stop at that station he would have to get off at Trenton. Refusing to alight there, he was forcibly ejected. Plaintiff contended that the purchase of the ticket and representations of the agent constituted a contract obliging the company to stop at his destination. The New Jersey supreme court in Runyon vs. Pennsylvania Railroad company, 68 Atlantic Reporter, 107, held this was not a contract obliging the company to stop, and that plaintiff's duty, when informed the train did not stop, was to get off or to tender the fare that would enable him to ride to a stopping point beyond.

DEATH OF COURT STENOGRAPHER BEFORE MAKING UP RECORD.—That the court stenographer had died during the time allowed defendant for an appeal, before the transcription of his notes necessary to prepare the record, and that no one could be found to transcribe them, was held by the supreme court of Oklahoma, in Butts vs. Anderson, 91 Pacific Reporter, 907, not a ground for new trial.

APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER.—An application for the appointment of a receiver for a corporation was opposed on the ground that its misfortunes were due to the wrongful conduct of the applicant. The New Jersey court of Chancery, in McMullin vs. McArthur Electric Manufacturing company, 68 Atlantic Reporter, 97, considered the sufficiency of this claim to defeat the application, and decided that any creditor, however unworthy, had a statutory right to apply for a receiver, and that upon such application the court must ascertain the necessity of a receiver to enable the corporation to resume its business with safety to the public and advantage to its stockholders, and, if necessary, to appoint one.

DOCTRINE OF TURNTABLE CASES OVERRULED.—In Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad company vs. Harvey & Swarts vs. Akron Water Works company, decided together in 83 Northeastern Reporter, 66, the supreme court of Ohio disapproves of the doctrine of the so-called "turntable cases." The leading case of Sioux City & Pacific Railroad company vs. Stout, 17 Wall. (United States) 657, is referred to, but not followed.

CONVEYANCE OF HOMESTEAD BY HUSBAND.—A husband executed a deed of his homestead to his wife without her joining in the conveyance, and made a will eo instante by which, after making certain specific bequests, he devcised the remainder of his property to defendant as residuary legatee. The supreme court of Illinois decided that the conveyance by the husband without joinder by the wife was void, so far as the homestead rights were concerned, to the extent of $1,000, and that the fact that the will was made at the same time as the contract made no difference. The case is reported as Smith vs. Hollenbeck, 83 Northeastern Reporter, 206.

SLEEPING CAR REGULATION NOT VALID EXERCISE OF POLICE POWER.—A law was enacted in Wisconsin providing that any one paying for a double berth in a sleeping car should have the right to direct whether the upper berth should be open or closed unless actually occupied. In State vs. Redmon, 114 Northwestern Reporter, 137, it was held by the Wisconsin supreme court not to be a valid exercise of police power, and unconstitutional; as its operation was made dependent on the willis of the occupants of lower berths.

RIGHT OF STREET RAILROAD TO GRANT FREE TRANSPORTATION.—The Oklahoma constitution provides that no transportation company shall issue free tickets except to certain designated persons. The list did not include firemen, policemen, mail carriers, etc. In Oklahoma City vs. Oklahoma Railway company, 93 Pacific Reporter, 48, the supreme court of Oklahoma held that the above provision did not prohibit a municipality from granting franchises to street railways on condition that such persons should be carried free of charge.

SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS BY CLUB.—Where the statute forbids the sale of intoxicating liquors without a license, but permits an incorporated club to sell without license to its members, the supreme court of errors of Connecticut holds, in the case of State vs. Warcholick, 68, Atlantic Reporter, 379, that it does not authorize a sale to one not a member, though believing him to be such, and affirmed the conviction.

FRENZIED FINANCE.—A cereal company of Michigan organized with a capital of $500,000 alleged to be fully paid up. It appeared that it consisted of $2 cash and a breakfast food formula of the supposed value of $499,998. A portion of the stock was sold, and the proceeds were turned in to the firm. The corporation was adjudged a bankrupt, and the trustee brought action against the stockholders to enforce contribution for payment of creditors. A demurrer to the complaint was overruled; the Michigan supreme court intimating that payment for stock should have been by property of substantial value. It is reported as Wood vs. Sloman, 114 Northwestern Reporter, 317.

PREFERENCES BY BANKRUPT.—In Macon Grocery company vs. Beach, 156, Federal Reporter, 1009, Judge Speer of the United States district court of Georgia had occasion to comment upon an alleged preference made by a bankrupt. His liabilities were over $13,000. The account paid consisted of lemonade, soda water, Coca Cola, a bar of soap and a dressed doll. Says the court: "The soda water and lemonade, to the value of 50 cents, with which Beach allays the thirst proper to his clime, were inexpensive refreshments, as innocuous sa the 'cup which cheers, but not inebriates.' More debatable is the effect of Coca Cola. But his purchase of this mysterious elixir announced to only 5 cents. The bar of soap, worth 5 cents, is without the pale of judicial discussion. It is true there was a dressed doll, the price of which was more extravagant. This was $2.15. Beach testifies that it was 'for a present.' The evidence fails to disclose upon whom this marvel of art and fashionable millinery was bestowed. It, however, appears that Beach is a bachelor—'old bachelor,' we may presume—and perhaps the dressed doll made happy the heart of some tiny maiden, whose lovely face and graceful form brought back to the veteran and hapless heart of the alleged bankrupt the memory of features which 'love used to wear,' in the words of Ossian, 'sweet and sad to the soul like the memory of joys that are gone.'"

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL AS ENGAGED IN INTERSTATE COMMERCE.—The supreme court of Wisconsin in the case of the International Text Book company vs. Peterson, 113 Northwestern Reporter, 730, holds that carrying out a contract for furnishing text books and instruction by a foreign correspondence school does not constitute interstate commerce.

REMOVAL OF FIXTURES ON SALE OF PROPERTY.—In Brunswick Construction company vs. Burden, 101, New York Supplement, 716, defendant sold his dwelling house to plaintiff on condition that he might "remove all fixtures attached to said premises." He subsequently carried away mantels and hinges, made to match the furniture, and parquet flooring laid over a permanent floor. In an action brought for damages to the freehold, the New York supreme court held that they were not distinctively realty, and refused to grant any relief.

The wife brought suit for divorce this afternoon, charging desertion. She states that they were married in Hibbing on April 23, 1901. She claims that her husband has deserted her, and asks the court to grant her a divorce and restore her maiden name. Both husband and wife are 37 years of age.

COPPER STOCKS HAVE A RALLY

Copper Range Dividend Helps Market, After Weak Opening.

An advance of 50 cents over the last quarter in the dividend on Copper Range helped the copper stock market today and caused it to recover from the weakness which prevailed at the opening. Prices showed some improvement over yesterday at the close.

The weakness at the opening was caused by a report from Butte to the effect that J. D. Ryan had left for New York on a hurry call and that his going meant another shutdown in the Butte camp, on account of the condition of the metal market. Also, the brokerage firm of Wallace H. Hopkins company, with offices in Chicago and the Copper country and elsewhere, was reported to have failed.

The early news was discounted, however, during the latter part of the session. The quarterly dividend on Copper Range was $1.50, an advance of 50 cents over the last quarter.

North Butte opened at $53, declined to $52.50, rallied to $53.75 and closed at $53.50 bid and $53.75 asked. Amalgamated opened ex-dividend at $87.50, declined to $87.25, rallied to $89 and closed at $89 bid.

Greene-Cananea opened at $7.87½, advanced to $8.12½ and closed at $8 bid and $8.12½ asked. Butte Coalition opened at $21, declined to $20.62½, rallied to $21 and closed at $20.87½ bid and $21 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $109 and closed at 2109 bid and $102 asked. Anaconda opened at $90.50, advanced to $87.87½ and closed at $87.87½ asked.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $11.75 and $12 and the close was about $12 bid. Denn-Arizona sold at $2.50 and closed at $2.50 bid and $2.62½ asked; Globe at $6.50 and $6.25, and closed at $6.37½ bid and $6.50 asked. Calumet & Sonora at $7 and closed at $6.87½ bid and $7.12½ asked; Butte & Superior at $1.12½ and closed at $1 bid and $1.12½ asked, and Copper Queen of Idaho at $1.12½ and closed at $1 bid and $1.12½ asked.

Black Mountain sold at $5.12½ and $5.25 and closed at $5.25 bid and $5.37½ asked.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The sophomores are the busy, important and mysterious bunch, holding the center of the stage at the high school this week, for on Friday night their annual hop will take place. The committee in charge is planning to open the eyes of the freshmen, who on this occasion make their first, formal appearance on the social stage, and even hope to surprise the upper classmen.

Chef Colby will supervise the spread, which will be laid in the lunch-room and promises to make it a real after-Lenten feast. The members of the faculty are racking their brains to find witty and wise saws to hand out to the students as all the antique jokes are strictly tabooed, or have been appropriated by those fortunate ones who are to have the pleasure of responding to toasts.

At 7:30 dancing will begin in the main hall of the school. The dance cards are very original and clever. The class colors and numerals appear in flaming red on a pale background.

Frank A. Munsey
on the Business and Political Situation

IN the May Number of Munsey's Magazine, Mr. Munsey has an article on the panic and the causes that brought it about. He says some things and says them straight from the shoulder. He hands it out good and hard to Wall Street and to the Grand Dukes who have been running things in this country with a high hand—running them as the Grand Dukes of Russia have run things over there. The title of the article is—

There isn't money enough in the world today to do the world's work

Mr. Munsey takes emphatic issue with Wall Street and the followers of Wall Street who hold the President responsible for the panic. It is not his purpose in the discussion to acquit Mr. Roosevelt of blame, but rather to get at the facts, as the facts are necessary to intelligent progress in the recovery of our business activities.

"If these facts," Mr. Munsey says, "acquit the President, he is, as a matter of common honesty, entitled to the acquittal." What we want to know, and should know, is the truth. And the basic purpose with Mr. Munsey has been to lay bare the truth.

Mr. Munsey in this article clears away a vast amount of the distorted and awfully befogged ideas about this financial crash. The article is clear, convincing, forceful. It is not a dry, ponderous handling of the subject, but is swift and dramatic in expression, with all the sweep and picturesqueness of a novel. You cannot afford to miss reading it. No one who has any interest in the vital things of the day can afford to miss reading it.

WILL PUT ON BIG CREW MAY 1

C. N. Kalk, chief engineer of the Wisconsin Central railroad, is in Duluth today conferring with Resident Engineer D. A. Reid. In speaking of the work that is being done on the approach to this city, Mr. Kalk said that upon the first of the month a large crew of men will be placed on the work. The frost is just beginning to leave the ground, so that the work of ballasting and grading can be started. Work will be pushed from now on as rapidly as possible.

Mr. Kalk said that it was impossible to state at just what time the line would enter Duluth. The greatest trouble so far has been encountered in the blasting for the tunnel. Mr. Kalk said that old sewers and mains, rock foundations and other obstacles to the work are being found in the excavation work. The nearness of buildings makes the blasting very difficult, as it is impossible to use heavy charges. The work, however, is progressing as satisfactorily as could be expected under the conditions.

Was Due to Drink.

Nels Anderson, who was taken in charge by the West Duluth police on account of his queer behavior on Central avenue, yesterday afternoon, was this afternoon examined at the probate court, and it is thought that he is not insane. He will be taken to the detention hospital and kept there for a while to watch further developments. It is alleged that Anderson has been drinking hard all winter, and that his present mental derangement is due to that.

TO TRAIN HIS HORSES.

W. S. Lycan of Crookston Ships String to Fargo This Year.

Crookston, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. S. Lycan, who two years ago trained his string of fast horses at Hamline, has shipped five of his most promising ones to Fargo to prepare for the summer's campaign on the tracks there. His string includes Lockstep, who was in the money in every race he was entered in the Wisconsin circuit last fall; Harry Shaw, Blackford, Jr., Donna L., Lord Craven and Muscomar, the latter two years old, showing wonderful spurts of speed. Mr. Lycan has made four entries for the Fargo race meets, and entered three horses in the Winnipeg fair races and is confident that he has the most promising string he ever owned at the opening of the racing season. Trainer Billy Keemer will have charge of the string this season.

The time was Harvard, 10 minutes and 30 seconds; Navy, 10 minutes, 32 seconds. The race was a beautiful one from the standpoint of the spectators.

MEMORIAL TO FATHER OF GAME

Baseball Players and Followers to Honor Memory of Chadwick.

New York, April 23.—Baseball players and followers of the game throughout the country are to be asked to contribute to a fund to be used in the erection in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, of a memorial monument to Henry Chadwick, the "Father of Baseball," who died recently in this city.

The matter has been taken in hand by Patrick R. Powers, president of the National Association of Baseball clubs, and he will ask each club in organized baseball to devote a substantial sum to the fund and every baseball player in the country to contribute $1. It is Mr. Powers' idea that $1 should be the maximum individual contribution. He also suggests that amateur players and followers of the sport be permitted to contribute and that newspapers throughout the country accept the contributions for their respective cities and transmit the sums so collected to the permanent treasurer of the fund, to be chosen later. Mr. Powers recommends also that boxes for contributions be maintained at the entrance and exit of all baseball parks.

President Powers yesterday issued an order that the flags at all baseball parks in America be hung at half mast today, the day of Mr. Chadwick's funeral.

BERRY MAID WINS.

Cohort Tires and Falls Back in Stretch at Aqueduct.

Aqueduct, N. Y., April 23.—Berry Maid, heavily played ta 16 to 5, easily won the Averne stakes of six furlongs at Aqueduct yesterday, defeating a good field of sprinters. Musgrave had the mount on the Odd Fellow, and he rode a perfect race. Cohort was an added starter and carried 116 pounds and was made a 7 to 5 favorite on the strength of some fast trials, but after racing well up to the stretch he tired badly and finished fourth.

Besom, a quick breaker went out to make the pace followed by Berry Maid and Cohort. This order remained until well in the stretch, when Berry Maid went to the front and won by one and a half lengths. Besom was second, two lengths before Hulket. The latter was poorly handled, but closed with a strong run through the stretch.

LADIES IN THE STAND.

Lexington, Ky., April 23.—For the first time in history ladies occupied the judges' stand at the races here yesterday. Mrs. John C. Tenceyeck of New York, granddaughter of Gen. John C. Breckenridge, and Mrs. Henry Oliver, daughter of Gen. James F. Robinson, were by invitation of the board of directors, acting as honorary judges.

This was out of courtesy to the memory of these two gentlemen, who half a century ago were prominently connected with the Kentucky Racing association. Pool room service was missing at the track and even all press reports were held up twenty minutes.

Three weeks from today, the umpires in Winnipeg and Brandon will give the cry "Play Ball," and the Northern league season of 1908 will be on. Fans in four widely separated cities here in the North will scan the sporting pages and pick their favorites from their own observation. To the baseball fan, all other sports are at the end of the rainbow. Baseball is the real thing and the Northern league, despite its vicissitudes will draw encouragment and support.

Manager Morrow of the Duluth team has three weeks in which to round his team into shape for the opening of the season. At present, he has a crowd of green youngsters at Aurora, Ill., putting them through their paces. Three weeks from today he is expected to have a well-engineered machine, which will work all through the season and make a bid for the bunting. Whether he can turn the trick remains to be seen, but there's nothing like giving him a chance.

Whatever may be the result of the exhibition games, it is up to the fans to reserve their anvil efforts until the league season begins and they have some cause to knock. It is no easy task for a manager to take a lot of youngsters, band them together, whip them into shape and send them out on the chase for a pennant, a finished team. The task certainly cannot be accomplished in a day, or a week. Morrow has picked out some pretty nice material. He will need a few additions, but he has the nucles of his team now. The boys need the training of the pro-season games. Whatever the results of them may be, they will have no bearing on the pennant race. It Morrow doesn't make good in the sprint for the rag, it will be time enough to knock. For the present, let hopes mount high and enthusiasm be unconfined.

Abe Attell, featherweight champion of the United States, took young Eddie Kelly of Buffalo, on again at Seattle last Monday night and walloped him heartily. Edward saw fifty-seven varieties of stars in the eighth round of the bout and lapsed into the beautiful island of dreams under a series of Gatling gun wallops. Abe took down the money and still regards his title as unblemished.

Kelly was no match for Attell. He proved it in the former bout, when the Hebrew put it over him. He was too young and inexperienced to go against a master like the Californian. There is only one man in the ring at present with any kind of a chance against Attell. He is Owen Moran, the English boy, and it's up to Abe to give him another go. Owen earned it, when he went to a draw with Attell on the occasion of their previous meeting. Until Abe beats Moran, he cannot claim an unblemished title.

When the new sacrifice hit rule was adopted last February, it was claimed that it was unfair in some ways. Opponents claimed that it either went too far or didn't go far enough, in that a sacrifice should be given on any kind of an out, which scored a runner from third base or simply on a bunt. Now that the new rule has been in effect for some weeks, it appears that there was some sense to the arguments against it.

The new rule will help the outfield hitters to increase their batting averages, but only very slightly, not over a point or two in a season. In that respect it accomplishes practically nothing. It really does not encourage sacrifice hitting, for no batter goes to the plate determined to knock a fly into a fielder's hands. He may try to keep the ball off the ground, but his object is to land it in safe territory, if he possibly can. He tries for an outfield hit. If the ball is caught, but allows a runner to score, well and good, but that was not the batter's real intention. Therefore the new rule practically kills interest in the sacrifice hit column. Before its adoption the number of sacrifice hits made by any player was an index of his value to the team in at least one respect, namely, his ability to advance base runners at his own expense. A man who stood high in the number of sacrifice hits was known at once to be a good and successful bunter. That knowledge could now be gained from the record of sacrifice hits, and there is no proportionate gain in any other way. The rules makes no change at all in the actual playing of the game. It simply takes away the value of the sacrifice hit record.

NOTHING TO IT, SAYS GOTCH

Champion Will Not Go to London Until Next Fall.

A press dispatch from Boston says that Frank Gotch, world's champion wrestler, who is at present performing in Duluth, has signed to meet Zbysco, the Polish wrestler, in Olympic hall, London, June 10, for a purse of $5,000 and a side bet of a like amount. The dispatch says Gotch is to sail for London the middle of next month and will have a few weeks' training in London before the match.

"There's nothing to it," said Gotch over the telephone this morning. "I don't intend to wrestle Zbysco or anybody else after June 1, for I'm going out to my Iowa farm and take the rest which I feel I have richly earned. Next fall, if Zbysco is still wrestling and anxious to meet me, I will talk business to him, but until then, he will not get a chance at the world's championship.

"I will sail for London the latter part of August and will probably give exhibitions there in cities on the continent. I will certainly wrestle Zbysco if he wants a match, but I don't intend to leave the United States before I have rested after the strenuous work of the wilnter season."

A MONTANA MAN SHOOTS BROTHER.

Lewiston, Mont., April 23.—In a row over a division of ranch property, near Moore, S. A. Francis shot, and probably fatally wounded, his brother, Henry Francis, yesterday, and is now in jail here. Francis claims he shot his brother when he thought the latter was about to pull a gun. He was married last week, and was spending his honeymoon on the ranch. Both men are well known ranchers and stockmen.

O'DEA HAS FINE SQUAD

Artie's Men Break Loose With Club in Exhibition Games.

George Krick Will Report to Morrow at Freeport May 1.

Artie O'Dea's Brandon team is tearing things up in Iowa state and the duke of Manitoba sees nothing but a pennant in sight for the newest spot on the baseball map. Artie has a strong squad gathered at Burlington and he's working the boys hard to get the winter stiffness out of their joints for the race for the pennant.

O'Dea made his Canadian constituents sit up and take notice, when the returns of the first exhibition game reached the wheat city. The Brandon recruits took on the Monmouth, Ill., team and trimmed them by a score of 25 to 12. The Brandon squad swatted the ball in awful shape and if they turn many tricks like that when they get into the sprint for the rag, the other teams will be forced to import a few Lajoies and Wagners to keep up with the pace.

O'Dea's two catchers, Mills and Kosta, are showing up in fine shape. His pitchers on the ground are Dalgren, Smith, Nelson and Fay, with Harold Bend enroute. Smith has been showing form, O'Dea is sweet on Nelson, the South Dakota boy, and Fay is a promising young southpaw. Artie is covering the initial sack, with our own Louie Livingston doing great things around second. Third is well covered by Wagner, a St. Paul recruit, and Cook, a Rockford, Ill., boy, is working out at short. Cook isn't showing the right spirit in O'Dea's estimation and Artie is after Toot Thompson, last year with Houghton. Thompson, who is a descendant of the aboriginies is a mighty good man and would be a catch for O'Dea.

The outfield is Duluth all the way through and promises to remain so. Frank Summers is in left, covering all kinds of ground. Frank McGraw is showing up well in center and Sam Meneice is playing right and hitting the ball like fury. On paper, the team appears well balanced and the Brandon fans may well leave it to O'Dea to give them an aggregation that will be in the running.

The Duluth White Sox are working out at Aurora, Ill., this week and preparations are being made to bolster the squad. "Doc" Voss and Joe Snooks will report to handle the catching. Forsythe, who caught Tuesday's game at Rockford, is an acquisition from the Freeport team of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, which was overloaded with backstops. Berry, the pitcher, who started Tuesday's game, is believed here to be a young southpaw, who also worked out with Freeport and on whom Morrow had lines.

Josie Krick, who will be the veteran of the pitching staff, says he will report at Freeport May 1 for the series there. He will accompany the team through. Jimmy Leighty is still in Duluth and will not report until the team comes here. Lighty is working and the management has consented to allow him to continue until within a few days before the opening of the season. He is keeping in condition and will be able to jump right into the game. It is not believed any of the youngsters can displace him, although Keeping will certainly land a place on the team and will go to second, if he doesn't beat Leighty out of the shortstop position.

World's Pennant Raised.

Chicago, April 23.—The champions won their first home game in easy fashion. Coakley was wild and was hit freely in the five innings he pitched. Sheckard had the honor of making the first double play, Steinfeldt the first triple, and Lobert the first home run, the latter being a mighty drive to the seats in center. The new grand stand extensions were packed with an enthusiastic crowd gathered largely to witness the raising of the National league pennant.

This ceremony, scheduled to be performed by the contending teams and a brass band, succeeded only after the bleachers had come to the rescue. The big flag, in order to clear the bleachers, from the rear of which rose the flagstaff, had been rolled in a bundle, with the purpose of unfurling it by pulling an auxiliary cord when the champions had hoisted it to the top. The cord, however, refused to work, and the flag had to be lowered, while an urchin in the top row untied the ball. On pulling up, the flag was then rehoisted, the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner," while the spectators arose from their seats, waving their hats and che r ling. Score:

Giants Take First.

New York, April 23.—The fairest weather so far this year greeted the players and spectators at the opening game of the National league baseball season here on the Polo grounds yesterday. It was an interborough contest, in which New York beat Brooklyn 3 to 2. The visitors held the lead up to the final inning. Then, with two men retired, Donlin saved the day with a home run, scoring Tenney ahead of him. Score:

Ovation for Wagner.

Pittsburg, April 23.—With ideal weather, a crowd of over 13,000 baseball enthusiasts saw Pittsburg beat St. Louis in the opening game of the local season by a score of 6 to 1. Wagner received a great ovation when he came on the field, and justified the confidence in him by knocking a two-base hit in the fifth inning with two men on bases. Abbattiho followed with a three-base hit, netting Pittsburg three runs in this inning. Both pitchers were strong and succeeded in keeping the hits pretty well scattered. Score:

BATTLE OF THE IRISH

William Nesbit Sawed Wood and Claims He Was Underpaid.

Woman Wanted Him to Pile Wood Before Paying Him.

"It strikes me that this is an Irish case all the way through," said William Patrick Nesbit, who confessed to the North of Ireland as a birthplace, in municipal court before Judge Windom yesterday afternoon.

Nesbit appeared in the role of plaintiff in the case. He brought suit against John C. McGreevey and Mrs. John C. McGreevey for $4, alleged to be due him for sawing wood. Attorney A. E. McManus acted as attorney for the defense. Three or four witnesses who have an uncontestable right to appear in St. Patrick's day parades were called to the stand.

This is one of the smallest amounts ever sued for in the courts of Duluth. Nesbit says in his complaint that between March 7 and March 18 he sawed four cords of hardwood for the Mc Greeveys, for which service he was to receive $8, or $2 a cord. When he came to collect the money Mrs. McGreevey refused to pay him until he had carried all the wood into a shed and piled it up, he said, and claimed that this was not in the original contract. Finally he was paid $4, and alleges that he could not collect the remainder until he carried in the wood, which he refused to do.

It developed during the examination of witnesses that it was also in the verbal contract that Nesbit was to be given several hot cups of tea, to strengthen him for the work.

There were some lively verbal tilts between Mr. Nesbit and Mr. McManus. At one point, when the plaintiff hesitated about an answer, the attorney said:

"Don't be afraid; I'm not trying to trip you."

At another point Nesbit swore by heaven that he was speaking the truth.

"Do you expect to get to heaven when you die?" questioned the attorney.

"Yes, sir, but there are some here as won't," said Mr. Nesbit.

At times the wordy battle between Mr. McManus and Nesbit became so heated that sounds of the fray penetrated to the upper floor of the building.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

YOUNG WILL NOT CONTINUE FIGHT

Case Closed, So Far as Supreme Court is Concerned.

Washington, April 23.—Inquiry at the supreme court yesterday elicited the fact that no mandate will be issued in the Young case, and so far as that court is concerned, the case is closed.

Officials of the court are not looking for an application for a rehearing or review of the decision, and the court never issues a mandate in original cases, such as the Young case, which came here on application for a writ of habeas corpus. It was explained that the procedure now will be to have the United States circuit court in Minnesota take judicial notice of the decision of the supreme court and call on Attorney General Young to obey the injunction issued by Judge Lochren.

Counsel for railroads can call the attention of the court to the decision of the supreme court, and thus secure the payment of the fine imposed on Young and the dismissal of the mandamus proceedings in the Ramsey county district court, or Mr. Young himself can go into court and pay the fine and announce that he has discontinued proceedings in the state court, for which he was held in contempt of the federal court.

Officials of the supreme court are not looking for an application for a rehearing or review of the Young decision. They base their conclusion on the advice given T. D. O'Brien when he was here a short time ago. Mr. O'Brien went to court and asked one of its officers what would be the probable action of the court on such an application.

"He was told that it would not have any more show than a one-legged grasshopper in a coop of turkeys," said that officer today. "I suppose he advised Mr. Young and no petition has been filed."

Kokomo Woman Gives Fortune

To Help Women Who Suffer.

In the past few years Mrs. Cora B. Miller has spent $25,000.00 in giving medical treatment to afflicted women.

Some time ago we announced in the columns of this paper that she would send free treatment to every woman who suffered from female diseases or piles.

More than a million women have accepted this generous offer, and as Mrs. Miller is still receiving requests from thousands of women from all parts of the world, who have not yet used the remedy, she has decided to continue the offer for a while longer, at least.

This is the simple, mild and harmless preparation that has cured so many women in the privacy of their own homes after doctors and other remedies failed.

It is especially prepared for the speedy and permanent cure of leucorrhoea or whitish discharges, ulceration, displacements or falling of the womb, profuse, scanty or painful periods, uterine or ovarian tumors or growths; also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness and piles from any cause, or no matter of how long standing.

Every woman sufferer, unable to find relief, who will write Mrs. Miller now, without delay, will receive by mail free of charge, a 50-cent box of this simple home remedy, also a book with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer and how they can easily cure themselves at home without the aid of a physician.

Don't suffer another day, but write at once to Mrs. Cora B. Miller, 6071 Miller building, Kokomo, Indiana.

CHILD'S SIGHT IS RESTORED

Blind From Birth, Can Now See the World's Beauty.

Hoboken, N. J., April 23.—"Oh, papa, I can see you and I'm so glad!" exclaimed Lena Ludwig, 9 years old, when she sprang into her father's arms as he boarded the steamship Nieu Amsterdam las night.

"Oh, how glad I am that I can see you and mamma, and when we get home I can see dear old Billy and all the trees and everything," cried the child.

Herman Ludwig seemed to be even more delighted than his daughter, and he declared she should see "everything in the wolrd."

The child had been totally blind, being born so. Her parents have a fruit ranch in California, and acting upon the advice of a young physician the child was taken to Europe for treatment.

Little Lena told her father how the specialist had operated on her eyes, had bandaged them, and how she was kept in a dark room where each day was permitted to grow a degree lighter until it was light as day. Then she had to put on glasses, which she will be always compelled to wear.

Tears streamed down the man's face as he listened to the story of his only daughter.

"Oh, papa," she cried in conclusion, "you don't know how beautiful everything is. I feel as I look at things that I had been dead. I never dreamed the world was so beautiful. Aren't you glad papa, that I can see?"

MUST WEAR SKIRTS.

Gaudy Posters No Longer Permitted in New Jersey Town.

New York, April 23.—As a result of an ordinance which became effective in Paterson, N. J., yesterday, the gay chorus girl who formerly disported herself on Paterson billboards in tights and decollete waist, now must hide her shapely figure in skirts or discontinue her appearance entirely on gaudy posters which advertise burlesque shows.

The ban also has been placed on billboards portraying plays of the sensationally melodramatic type.

The ordinance was the result of a movement started some time ago by ministers and other residents of the city. Several clergymen told the council of good results that were sure to follow the passage of such an ordinance.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Fire in the lumber yard of the Joseph J. Knowles Lumber company of Cleveland avenue, Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday night caused a loss estimated at $30,000. The grandstand in the American association grounds adjoining, was threatened, but saved by the vigilance of the firemen.

John W. Kern of Indianapolis, who was indorsed by the state Democratic convention as a candidate for the vice presidency, has publicly announced that he would not allow his name to go before the Democratic national convention as a candidate.

LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATES GETTING IN GAME EARLY.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contest for the primaries in this legislative district is becoming interesting even at this early date. The first candidate to file on the Republican side is Harry Ives of St. Hilaire, in the central part of Red Lake county. Representative Opsahl of Bemidji will also soon formally appear, and another candidate will be found in Beltrami county to oppose him. Clearwater county, which is in this legislative district, has a party with a bee buzzing in his bonnet, and Bagley will not be left out in the race for representative in the fall primaries. It is probable that Red Lake county will produce another candidate besides Mr. Ives, so there will be a merry war before the matter is finally disposed of.

PRUNES A LUXURY.

Crop This Year to be Third Less Than Average.

Chicago, April 23.—Prunes threaten to become a real luxury and disappear from the menu cards of many restaurants and boarding houses. Reports from the Sacramento valley and Sonama, Napa, Tehama and Colusa counties in California indicate that late frosts have damaged about 50 per cent of the growing crop. Damage in the Santa Clara valley also is thought to be heavy.

A normal crop of prunes would total about 150,000,000 pounds. Last year about 75,000,000 pounds were produced, and this year, merchants say, the crop is not expected to total over 50,000,000 pounds. This deficit is expected to send prices skyward.

As an offset to the prune crop California growers say they have the best peach and apricot crops they have seen in two years.

VANDERBILTS TO AGREE?

Reconciliation Deemed Probable Because of Mother's Intervention

New York, April 23.—A reconciliation between A. G. Vanderbilt and his wife, formerly Elsie French, whose divorce suit against the multi-millionaire is now pending, was declared probable today, as the result of a new intervention by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

JOIN STATE MILITIA.

Thief River Falls Company Mustered Into Service.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lieut. Col. F. E. Resche of the Third regiment, Minnesota infantry, Tuesday night mustered into the service of the state the militia company recruited here. After the men had been sworn in they were addressed by Col. Resche, who called to their attention the necessity of living up to a high standard of efficiency, and encouraged them to endeavor to become one of the best disciplined and drilled companies in the state.

The men held an election, which resulted as follows: Chris Wiste, captain; James Bulan, first lieutenant; W. B. Fuller, second lieutenant.

Those three officers are all veterans of the Spanish-American war, and Capt. Wiste is also credited with several years' service as a regular in the United States army.

Hancock Sons of St. George Ask Noted Man to Speak.

Hancock, Mich., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ambassador James Bryce, the British ambassador, and the prominent English statesman in America today, probably has in his hands at this hour a letter from a committee representing Copper Country Sons of St. George, asking that he attend and deliver the crowning address at the great annual reunion of the state lodge, to be held in Hancock the week beginning July 13.

Ambassador Bryce is to address the Chicago Sons of St. George the same week, and when it was learned that he would be so near the Copper country, the committee lost no time in extending him a pressing invitation. As he has never visited the Copper country, and as this section is at its best in July, there is every reason why he should accept.

In addition to Mr. Bryce, one of the chief orators will be Supreme President Green of Chicago, head of the American branch of the order. President Green has already received his invitation, and it is generally believed that he will accept.

BECKER'S LATEST STUNT.

Ex-Mayor Rents Headquarters and Will Furnish World News.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 23.—Ex-Mayor Becker has rented the office rooms over the Milwaukee road ticket office, in the Iron block, and will use them as his campaign headquarters for the Republican nomination for governor. He has made arrangements with a news agency to furnish him, over a special wire, with all important news of the world, which will be displayed in the windows as soon as received. Among the many parcels and chattels removed from the mayor's office, with the exit of Becker, was a huge revolver of the long barrel Smith & Wesson type. It had been resting safely in the vault for two years. No cartridges could be found which could have been used with the gun.

MOSINEE THREATENED BY SEVERE BRUSH FIRES.

Mosinee, Wis., April 23.—Mosinee is surrounded by brush fires which the inhabitants are fiercely fighting from within and hundreds of men from Wausau, who arrived last night, are battling without. The district hereabouts is praying for rain, as there is no telling what extent the damage will amount to if the elements do not interfere. Fires are raging in many localities in Marathon county, but so far only one farm house has been reported here as destroyed.

BRAINED WITH AX.

Rhinelander, Wis., April 23.—Walter Applebee was killed yesterday with an ax by Fred Nephler after a quarrel. Applebee carried the ax in his brain three hours before death.

DOUBLE CREAMERY OUTPUT.

Crookston, Minn., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual meeting of the Crookston Creamery association the following officers were elected: President, E. M. Walsh; vice president, E. M. Mathews; secretary, C. C. Strander; treasurer, H. R. Robertson; board of directors, L. Ellington, E. M. Walsh, H. R. Robertson, C. C. Strander and E. M. Mathews. The plan is to double the output of the creamery during the present season.

DULUTH MAY BE ENTERED

National Spelling Bee Will be Held in Cleveland.

Feature of National Educational Association's Annual Convention.

Duluth school children may have an opportunity to compete in a national "spelling bee" in Cleveland, June 29 to July 3, when the forty-sixth annual convention of the National Educational association will be held.

The executive committee has sanctioned the spelling contest project and is sending letters to school superintendents all over the country. R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of Duluth's public schools, has received a letter from William G. Rose, secretary of the executive committee, stating that it is the desire of those in charge at Cleveland to have Duluth represented in the tournament, which is open to grammar school students from all parts of the United States.

Whether Duluth will send some of the best spellers from the grades, or not, will develop later. Supt. Denfeld will present the proposition to the members of the board of education, which will meet Friday evening, May 1.

It is proposed to hold the spelling contest in the Cleveland Hippodrome on the morning of June 29, which is the first day of the National Educational association convention. Details are being arranged and suggestions are being welcomed from all interested.

In his letter to Supt. Denfeld, Mr. Rose says:

"This spelling contest is designed to stimulate interest in spelling among the school children throughout the country, and the invitation to participate is open to the schools of every city in the United States.

"Pittsburg and Cleveland have already accepted, and I sincerely trust that your schools will be represented."

CHANGES HIS MIND.

Walter Hirchley Gives Up Hobo Ambitions and Becomes a Soldier.

After Walter Hirchley, aged 19 years, had passed the examination and was about to be accepted by the United States as a regular soldier, he disappeared. That was two weeks ago. Now he is back again and has enlisted.

Hirchley explained to the recruiting officers yesterday that he had been "bumming" his way on trains with a companion named John Walsh, who had advised him not to join the army. Two weeks as a box car tourist filled Hirchley with a desire to reconsider and become a soldier, with three square meals a day and a nice uniform.

To Enlarge the Canal.

The enlargement of 10 feet in the width of the Panama locks is being urged by the navy department. This is a small concession to the demand for increased accommodations for the coming big vessels, which builders claim will be much larger in the next few years. The use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is urged in every case of stomach, liver or bowel disorder, because past experience has proven it to be the best for such ailments. A few doses at the first symptom will save you a lot of unnecessary suffering. Therefore get a bottle today from your druggist or dealer and always keep it handy. It will restore the appetite, aid digestion, keep the bowels open and thus prevent sick headache, flatulency, heartburn, dyspepsia, indigestion, female ills and malaria, fever and ague.

NO IMPROVEMENT.

Nearly All Branches of the Iron Industry Continue Dull.

New York, April 23.—The Iron Age says there has been no improvement in the iron industry and the feeling of discouragement is spreading. In those branches in which the majority of manufacturers are acting in harmony, the reports of moderate concessions are being received with indifference since there is really not enough doing to seriously test the markets. Manufacturers point to the fact that in the lines in which there is an open market, for instance in bolts and nuts and in shafting, the low prices are not stimulating business, and therefore nothing is to be gained, as yet, by any revision of prices.

In the Central West and in the South the markets are a little weaker, with iron available on the basis of $15 at furnace for No. 2.

For the Chicago street roads there have been placed orders for 8,000 tons of girder rails and 500 tons of guard rails, while Pittsburg reports a lot of 2,200 tons for export. Steel billets are being offered by merchants at a concession of about $1 per ton, without tempting consumers.

The plate trade is exceedingly dull. The eastern bar iron manufacturers have reaffirmed prices on the basis of $1.65, but merchants and jobbers are taking what orders there are at about $1.40. The tin plate industry continues the most active of all. It is estimated that the leading interests have 85 per cent and the independents mills 75 per cent of the capacity in operation. The merchant pipe trade is somewhat better.

The copper market is quite steady, with electrolytic at $12.75.

BURGLAR WAS SCARED.

Woman's Bluff About Husband and Bulldogs Won Out.

Chicago, April 22.—Nerve displayed by Mrs. Joseph F. Kelley yesterday in bluffing a burglar, who was attempting to force an entrance to her home, was only equaled by that of the burglar, who tipped his hat and accepted the situation with graceful equanimity.

Mrs. Kelley was reading in the parlor when she heard a noise at the front door. Opening an inner door she found herself face to face with the burglar, who was busily at work with a jimmy attempting to pry off the casing in an effort to get at the lock.

"Good evening, madam," said the burglar, putting his jimmy in his pocket and raising his hat. "I am the agent of a new laundry, and I have called to solicit your patronage."

"You are nothing of the kind," returned Mrs. Kelley. "You are a burglar, and if you don't get out I will call my husband and our two bulldogs."

"Oh, well," said the burglar, with a parting bow, "if you feel that way about it, I'll go."

And he went.

"If that burglar had refused to go, I don't know what I should have done," said Mrs. Kelley, after she had notified the town hall police. "I was alone in the house. I have no bulldogs and my husband was down town."

GRISCOM AT FLORENCE.

Florence, April 22.—Llyod C. Griscom, the American ambassador to Italy, and the Rev. Walter Lowrie, rector of the American church at Rome, arrived in this city today to participate in the ceremonies on the occasion of the laying of the foundation stone of the American Episcopal church here tomorrow.

Chamberlain's Has the Prefernce.

Mr. Fred. C. Hanrahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Va., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoe Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purposes that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." For sale by all druggists.

ELECTRICALLY-RUN SAWMILL IN MENOMINEE.

Menominee, Mich., April 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sawmill, run entirely by electricity, will be a novelty which will be seen here if the plans of Charles Zeiser materialize. Arrangements have been completed by Mr. Zeiser for building a sawmill plant upon a portion of the old K. C. company's millsite. The plant will be in operation by the latter portion of the summer. The novelty will be that it will have no fire hole boilers or engine, and will be run by a powerful electric motor. It will be the first plant of its kind to be operated by electricity in this portion of the country. The mill will be equipped to cut from thirty to forty thousand feet of lumber each day. The timber will be brought in by rail.

Now, Therefore, it is Resolved, That this Board does hereby reconsider its said certificate and hereby withdraws the same so far as it relates to any of the following described property mentioned in said petition, viz.: Lot 5, in Block 28, Roe's Rearrangement of Block 28, Hunter's Grassy Point Addition; Lot 9, in Block 10, and Lot 4, in Block 20, Carlton Place Addition, and that as to said three lots said petition is not true because subsequent tax titles have been acquired by other parties as to said lots, but that the balance of said petition is true so far as this Board is now informed.

Commissioner Kauppi moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous vote.

By Commissioner McMahan:

"In Duluth It's the Herald"

"Say, Grace, you've the dandiest position of any girl in town—how'd you get it, any way?"

"Well, it was a miracle that I struck it so lucky, but then, hundreds of others in this very town have secured just as good, in the same way. You see I came to Duluth alone, with only a few dollars in my pocket. To be sure, I had something in view, but I saw the first day that it was 'no go,' so I went to the Herald Office that night and put in a good strong want ad; received a reply from my present employer, secured the position and have stuck to it. So my nice salary is the dividend from a Herald want ad—that's the story in a nutshell. Really, it's surprising what those little things do. The Herald puts employers in touch with employees, landlords with tenants, sellers with buyers, mistresses with maids, losers with finders, and there's no end what not!

"There's mother and father, brother and myself—and there isn't one of us that feels as though we could get along without that paper. Really, it has done more to increase father's business than any other one force. It's mother's source of outside information; it keeps me informed of the social doings, and through it brother keeps tab on the stock market.

"You know it's one of the most reliable, best arranged and evenly balanced papers in the country. In short it is a precise chronicle of the world's doings in the most authentic and comprehensive form. Then there's the advertising end of it.—Why it's just wonderful to go down town some mornings and see women swarmed around bargain counters like bees around a hive! And how did they get there?—A well arranged, well written Herald ad did the trick—without it there wouldn't have been a half dozen women who knew about the bargain.

"And the reason the Herald is the best medium to bring these results is because it has the largest circulation and is therefore the strongest and most independent paper in this vicinity. This is probably due to the fact that it reaches everyone at a time of relaxation—after the day's work, when men seek home as a harbor from business storms of the day, when mothers have finished the day's work, and, in short, when concise, reliable and refreshing reading is a welcome diversion."

Flax is Firm and Closes at Better Prices Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 23.—The anxiety of numerous shorts to cover and a strong domestic and foreign demand put prices up in the wheat markets again today. It was almost a steady advance from the opening and the close was at the high level of the day.

Shorts fell all over themselves to get on the band wagon and the foreigners eagerly took about all the American wheat they were offered. Twenty loads were worked for export in the local market during the session, eight of which were No. 1 northern and the rest durum and Manitoba wheat.

Argentine shipments of wheat are estimated at 2,860,000 bus.

Cables were firm. Liverpool closed ⅞d to 1⅛d higher, Paris ½c to ½c lower, Berlin 1½c higher, and Budapest 2⅜c lower for October wheat.

The May option closed 2c higher in Duluth and Chicago, 1½c higher in Minneapolis, 2¼ higher in New York and 3c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed 2¼c higher in Duluth and Chicago, 1⅞c higher in Minneapolis, 2c higher in New York and 2¾c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ⅝c lower in Chicago and unchanged in Liverpool. May oats closed unchanged in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The weaker American cables yesterday was offset by the fact of yesterday's continued heavy cargoes sales, firmness of La Plata offerings and further talk that Armour was cornering May wheat stimulated by covering of shorts. The opening market was firm and generally ⅛d higher, followed by additional gain of ¼d to ½d during the morning. The nearby options were particularly well supported, in which offerings were light. At midday, the market was firm and unchanged to ⅝d higher than Wednesday.

"Corn was firm at the start with values unchanged. Later, some pressure developed as a result of a smaller demand for spot, and prices lost ⅛d."

Primary receipts of wheat were 248,000 bus, last year, 783,000 bus. Shipments, 409,000 bus, last year, 220,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 451,000 bus., last year, 331,000 bus. Shipments, 261,000 bus., last year, 551,000 bus.

Wheat was fairly active in the Duluth market. May wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.02¾, advanced to $1.03, declined to $1.02¾, rallied to $1.04⅝ and closed at that price, a gain of 2c over yesterday. July wheat opened unchanged at $1.03, advanced to $1.03½, declined to $1.03¼, rallied to $1.05¼ and closed at that price, a gain of 2¼c over yesterday. September wheat opened ¾c higher at 91½c, declined to 90c and rallied by the close to 91½c, a gain of ¾c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed 1½c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 3c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax opened unchanged at $1.18½, advanced to $1.18¾, declined to $1.18⅜, rallied to $1.20 and closed at that price, a gain of 1½c over yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.20½, advanced to $1.20¾, declined to $1.20½, rallied to $1.22 and closed at that price, a gain of 1½c over yesterday. October flax opened 1c higher at $1.22, advanced to $1.22¼ and closed at $1.22, a gain of 1c over yesterday.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, April 23.—May wheat was up 1c on the local exchange today, compared with the previous close. There was an active demand for May from shorts and leading bulls, but the offerings were limited and the advance was well maintained. The deferred futures showed a slight gain at the start along with May, but later eased off on profit-taking. Weather conditions were favorable for the new crop, and this lead to the realizing. Firm cables and small receipts in the Northwest were bullish influences. May opened ¼@1c higher at 96¾@97½c and held within that range. July opened ⅜@½c higher at 87⅞@88c and sold off to 87½c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts at 146 cars against 117 cars last week and 629 cars one year ago.

The market became very strong in the last half of the session on a forecast of small shipments for the week from Argentina. May advanced to 98⅝c and July to 89¾c. The market closed at almost the high point for the day. May being up 2c to 2⅛c at 98½c to 98⅝c and July up 2¼c to 89¾c.

Corn was dull and the market was steady on firm cables and light receipts. May opened a shade higher at 66⅞c and and sold at 67@⅛c. July opened unchanged at 62⅝c and sold at 62⅝@¾c, later receding 62½c. Local receipts were 196 cars with 9 of contract grade.

The market rallied later with the upturn in wheat prices. May sold up to 67⅜c and July to 63⅛c. The close was strong with May up ½@⅝c at 67⅜c. July closed ⅝@½c higher, at 63@⅛c.

Oats were dull and steady. The bulk of trading was in July. May opened ⅛c higher at 53½c. July started ⅛c higher at 45½c and advanced to 45½@⅝c. Local receipts were 162 cars.

Provisions were quiet and steady. A 5 to 10c decline in hogs tended to depress prices. July pork opened 2½c lower to 2½c higher at $13.07½@13.12½. Lard was unchanged at $8.12½. Ribs were unchanged to 2½c lower at $7.02½@7.05.

Close: Wheat—May, 98½@98⅝c; July, 89¾c; September, 86¼c. Corn—May, 67⅜c; July, 63@⅛c; September, 61⅝c. Oats—May, old, 53¾c; May, 52½c; July, old, 45¾c; July, 43⅝c; September, 37¼@⅜c. THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Strong Cables and Rumors of a Corner Send Wheat Upward.

Minneapolis, April 23.—strong cables decreasing stocks, light receipts and rumoprs of a corner in Chicago on May wheat sent wheat sharply higher. There was evident manipulation of the May option which advanced quickly on any purchase of a minimum quantity. July was also strong. Minneapolis elevator stocks decreased 525,000 bushels for five days. Receipts here were 118 cars against 298; in Duluth, 20 against 306. The higher market in Liverpool and an estimate of only 2,800,000 bushels for Argentine shipments made additional strength. May opened at $1.04¼; high, $1.06; low, $1.04¼; close, $1.05⅞. July closed at $1.05; September closed at 91½c.

In the cash market the demand was only fair and there was reluctance to follow the option. No. 1 northern sold at 2½c over and No. 2 at May price to ½c over. Cash close: No. 1 northern, $1.07⅞@1.07⅞ spot; $1.07⅞ to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.05⅞@1.05⅞ spot; $1.05⅝ to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 97⅝c@$1.03⅝.

No. 3 yellow corn, 67⅜c. No. 3 white oats, 49½c; No. 2 rye, 73¾c@75¾c.

The barley market was about the same as yesterday. Close 60@80c.

Flax—Demand was excellent, the light receipts only 18 cars sending all the local crushers into the market for it at 1c over Duluth May. Close: $1.20¾.

Bran in bulk strong at $21.00@21.25.

Floor sales were light, prices were advanced another 10c for all grades in line with higher raw material, but millers said they were unable to sell at the higher range. Shipments, 45,171 barrels. ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Closed Strong and at Highest Figures of Session.

Rise Checked by Big Offerings of Union Pacific and Steels.

New York, April 23.—Semi-stagnation prevailed in the opening dealings in stocks today, and there was no defined tendency in the price movement. Canadian Pacific fell 1, and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie ¾. National Biscuit rose 1½.

A declining movement which began after the opening, was checked before it had proceeded far, and the entire market advanced when Pennsylvania and some of the representative stocks began to rise. The buying ceased after awhile and small reactions ensued. Rising quotations in the outside market for the new Pennsylvania bonds when issued stimulated the market. Pennsylvania, Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Louisville & Nashville, Colorado & Southern first preferred, American Car preferred, Minneapolis & St. Louis, North American and American Beet Sugar gained 1; American Tobacco preferred, 1½; Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic preferred, 1¾; Consolidated Gas fell 1, and Tennessee Copper, 2½.

The advance of Union Pacific to 130⅝ was a feature of the market. Trading was only moderately active, but the tone was strong. St. Paul, Southern Pacific, Reading, Illinois Central and the Iowa Central stocks gained 1; Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, 1¾, and the preferred, 3½; Twin City Rapid Transit lost 1. Bonds were firm.

Fractional additions were made to the morning list of advances in the important stocks. Amalgamated Copper and International Paper improved 1, American Smelting 1¼, and Federal Mining preferred 2.

The trend of the market continued slowly upwards, with the demand for the low-priced specialties conspicuous. Leading stocks were quiet, but the general tone was strong and there was no realizing of consequence.

The market closed strong and at the highest. An advance in Union Pacific to 131 and in United States Steel to 36 brought enormous offerings to those stocks which checked the rise. Southern Pacific gained 1¾, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie 1½, Central Leather preferred 1¼ and Canadian Pacific and others 1. A fresh advanced in Union Pacific carried it above 131.

Copper Gossip.

Hayden, Stone & Co., Boston, to Walter W. Carr: Our market while quiet, was by no means weak, and what trades were made, were generally at fractionally advanced prices. Uncertainty is keeping trading in check and yet holders are not letting go in a hurry, and in fact, are displaying considerable confidence in the future of the copper shares. North Butte, Butte Coalition, Copper Range, Mohawk, Trinity and Shannon were the active stocks, with advances ranging from ½ to 1½ points.

The days' markets have been more encouraging to holders than any since January and in the general list record prices in some cases were made. The success of the Pennsylvania bond issue, which is reported many times over-subscribed, has had a great influence on sentiment. In our opinion, it definitely marks the beginning of betterment in business and financial affairs. The demand for bonds is becoming very large, and investment stocks are in demand. This is the proper and natural kind of a beginning for an advancing stock market. We have consistently predicted it for some time and can now definitely say that it has arrived. It will be followed by improved business generally and a return to semi-prosperous times.

The Trimountain company, today, declared a dividend of $5 per share and the Copper Range company one of $1.50. This means the total payment into the treasury of the Copper Range Consolidated of $650,000, besides any contribution from Baltic, and makes the company's dividends for the balance of the year unquestioned. Before very long, people will begin to realize that they are not so badly off as they thought they were and that an opportunity to make money again exists. Too many people are engaged in contemplating the hole in the doughnut and not the article itself. A reverse of this process will prove profitable.

St. Paul Livestock.

St. Paul, April 23.—Cattle—Receipts, 400; market 25c higher for the week; steers, $4.50@6.75; cows and heifers, $3@4; calves, $1.50@5.20; stockers, $2.50@4.25; feeders, $3.75@4.75. Hogs—Receipts, 1,500; market 10c lower; range, $5.30@5.40; bulk of sales, $5.35. Sheep—Receipts, 500; market dull to lower; quotations unchanged.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 23.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Market active. Movement was composed largely of farm mares and chunks bid in at the sale. A number of good sales of second-hand logging horses to contractors were reported. The Virginia Lumber company consigned in forty-eight head of good, big work horses, the bulk of them being young mares, just the thing for the farm. William Relbolt is remodeling his stables, which will add greatly to their appearance. He just received two loads of drafters and drivers. Mark & Mark report a good demand for Western ponies and broke range horses.

The Cotton Market

New York, April 23.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 10@15 points, making new low records for the season in response to weakness in Liverpool, good weather, poor trade accounts and liquidation by recent buyers for a reaction. There was a slight rally on covering immediately after the call, but there was no demand of consequence and prices later sold 13 to 17 points net lower under renewed liquidation and bear pressure.

Spot closed quiet, 5 points decline; middling uplands, 10.05; middling gulf, 10.30; sales, none. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: April, 8.28; May, 8.33; June, 8.41; July, 8.49; August, 8.43; September, 8.35; October, 8.43; November, 8.42; December, 8.45; January, 8.46; March, 8.49.

EXPRESS OFFICIALS HERE.

C. B. Cooper, general superintendent of the Northern Express company, and W. S. Hay, superintendent of the eastern division of the same company, are in Duluth today. Both of the men are here in connection with business of their company at the Head of the Lakes.

Mr. Cooper and Mr. Hay came to Duluth to look into the matter of securing an uptown office. Just when this office will be secured cannot be stated at this time. It has been the aim of the company officials for some time to establish a centrally located office, and it was with the view of looking over conditions here that the two officials are in the city today.

The establishment or an uptown office will not affect the present office of the company in the Union depot. The uptown office will be for the facilitating of general delivery and the handling of general business.

The Gagne Case.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Reading the statement you had in The Herald last night, I was very sorry it happened. My father said it was not his mistake that Mrs. Lunberg's name was mentioned, but it was a misunderstanding with the reporter. It was Mrs. Charles McKinnon, 1423 West Michigan street, a neighbor of my mother, who called at our house and told my mother the girls had gone to Superior to the roller rink. It isn't the first time Mrs. McKinnon called for my mother to go with her when Eva was in bed sleeping. My father always objected to this. My father is not acquainted with the Lunberg family and is very sorry that such a mistake was made. Respectfully,

MRS. GERALD BLACK.

LOCAL OPTION LAW CONSTITUTIONAL

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—The supreme court today decided that the new local option law, passed last year, is constitutional.

Upon this decree depended the effects of three saloon elections which have been held under provisions of the present law. These elections resulted in thirty-six counties barring out saloons altogether, while thirty-six other counties turned the liquor dispensaries out of all but one or two towns in the county. At least 2,500,000 people in Illinois, who have lived in prohibition districts would perhaps be put back into saloon territory if the supreme court declared that law unconstitutional.

The Police Court.

Scotchmen were prominent in the police grist this morning. There were three of them. William McGregor, a tall lumberjack, drew a $15 fine on the charge of being drunk. The police believe he robbed Hugh Ross, a companion, of all the later's money. Ross, another Scotchman, was also given a term of three days in jail for drunkenness. Malcolm McLeod, a third man from the Highlands, drew a $3 fine or three days in jail for being intoxicated.

Finland and Sweden were also represented in the grist. Herman Maki pleaded guilty to the charge of being drunk, and drew $3 or three days. Emil Carlson also admitted he was drunk, and was given the same fine, with the same alternative.

* * *

John E. Brown, a negro, pleaded not guilty to the charge of stealing a watch from a friend. His hearing was set for this afternoon. He said the watch had been loaned to him, and that he intended to return it.

ASK BALM FOR WOUNDS

More plums from the personal injury suit tree, are sought by four clients of L. H. Corcoran and Alexander Marshall, who filed suits asking damages aggregating $24,000 in the district court this afternoon.

The largest amount is asked by Martin Panian, who sues the Oliver Mining company for $15,000. He claims that his skull was fractured in the Adams mine on Sept. 14, 1907. He was a skip tender at the mine.

Anton Dahl wants $5,000 for the loss of his eye in the lath machine in the mill of the Virginia Lumber company at Virginia, on Nov. 21, 1906.

August Strobel is suing the Milwaukee and Northern Pacific roads for $2,000, because a defective boxcar door fell on him on Feb. 3, 1907, when he was unloading the car in the Duluth yards.

John Fruznik wants the modest sum of $2,000 because a few tons of earth caved in on top of him in the Susquehanna mine, on Feb. 3, 1907.

RAIN WILL BE WELCOME

Duluthians view with pleasure the prospects of a rain storm tonight and tomorrow, which are held out by the weather man. The whole city is dirty; the streets are laden with dust, which blinds as it is carried before the wind and flies through the inviting open windows to worry the housewives. A heavy rain will lay the dust, cleanse the streets and put the entire city in more presentable condition.

The storm will do more good, perhaps, in checking the ravages of forest fires in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin than in any other way. The dry brush is ready food for the flames, which seem to have sprung up simultaneously in scores of places. Settlements are menaced and millions of feet of timber destroyed and lumbering contractors with offices in Duluth are viewing with alarm the rapid spread of the flames.

By extinguishing the less advanced fires and wetting the forests in the path of those which have already ravaged large areas, a heavy storm will doubtless do much toward stamping out the fires altogether and will relieve many loggers and settlers who are already heavy losers.

WILL OPEN BIDS FOR SUPPLIES

The board of public works and other city departments are getting ready to let contracts for furnishing supplies to the city during the ensuing year. Bids for supplies, chiefly in the line of miscellaneous printing, will be read at the meeting of the council, next Monday evening, and the lowest bidder will be awarded the contract. Printers are numerous around the city hall just now, and it looks as if there would be a good list of bids to pick from.

Bids for publishing the board of public works with maintenance supplies will be opened at the regular meeting tomorrow morning. Bids for sprinkling contracts will be opened for paving work, as well as for certain sewer jobs, will be opened by the board.

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

Winnipeg, April 23.—John McNabb, the oldest man in Canada, died on the shores of Lake Manitoba this week. McNabb was born in Western Canada in 1800 and would have been 108 years old in August. He had been in the employ of the Hudson Bay company from boyhood.

St. Louis, April 23.—Mrs. Polly Morgan, a negress, who was freed from slavery when she was 62 years old, died here yesterday at the age of 107 years. Mrs. Morgan was born in 1801 on the plantation of Thomas Cox, near what is now Beechfolk, Tex.

BUCKET SHOP BILL PASSES.

Albany, N. Y., April 23.—The senate bill making it a felony to conduct a bucket shop was passed today by a party vote in the assembly. It now goes to the governor.

AN EXPLOSION KILLS FOUR MEN

Pittsburg, April 23.—Four men were killed, three seriously injured and 100 others had a narrow escape from death early today when an explosion occurred in a mine at Ellsworth, Pa., Washington county.

It is supposed the accident resulted from an accumulation of gas in a new entry becoming ignited in some manner at present unknown.

Deputy Mine Inspector J. W. Louthitt left for Ellsworth today to make a complete investigation.

Unusual presence of mind is said to be responsible for about 100 miners escaping from the mine. Although the concussion threw them to the ground, all retained their composure and after great difficulty reached the surface.

DEMOCRATS OF ILLINOIS

Chicago, who completely dominated the convention, took no part in the applause that followed Bryan's name, but sat impassive until it subsided.

The first session of the convention came to an end with the receipt of the reports of the various district caucuses and the naming of the various committees.

The sentiment against the adoption of any platform at the present time gained somewhat in strength over night, but the party leaders went ahead with their discussion of planks, and members of the committee on resolutions were appointed at all of the district caucuses, held just prior to the convention proper.

Discuss Personal Liberty Plank.

The personal liberty plank of the platform was this morning the chief subject of discussion, and a greater number of resolutions was in evidence today than had been brought out last night. The resolution most discussed was one giving the city council plenary power in regulating the liquor traffic. It had many advocates, and immediately numerous enemies.

Three candidates for governor were active today: Douglas Pattison of Freeport, and James Hamilton Lewis and John P. McGoorty of Chicago.

All of them had open headquarters and were busy with their booms. After the convention was called to order, and after organization and accepting the reports from the various district caucuses, the delegates listened to the address of Free P. Morris of Watseka the temporary chairman, who was also selected as the permanent presiding officer of the convention.

Signs of Democratic Year.

Mr. Morris said in part:

The signs portend that this is a Democratic year. Success is within our grasp, but in order to attain it, discord must not, at a time like this, be engendered, for it would mean an inevitable defeat, and he who incites it is not loyal to the cause of Democracy.

Under Republican rule every avenue of individual industry and enterprise is closed to the competitive ingenuity of the people. Consolidations are the stock-in-trade of modern Republicanism, and as the greater combines absorb the lesser, the volume of their real or fictitious valuations are enlarged and they become more tyrannical and oppressive to the material prosperity of the government. These evils, culminating in powerful aggregations, must be arrested by the concerted action of an outraged people, and relief can only be afforded through the instrumentality of the Democratic party.

The Republican party has repeatedly trifled with the urgent demand of the people in respect to a revision of the tariff, and the recent agitation in that direction, and then postponing action until after the presidential campaign, is a mere subterfuge to further beguile the public.

Demands Just Revision of Tariff.

The Democratic party demands a wise and just revision of our commerce, and to the end that the disparity between the expenses of living and production may be adjusted on a basis of common fairness.

The federal government should not transgress the inheritent rights of the state as guaranteed by the Constitution, except when it is necessary to preserve our national integrity, and the Constitution should be regarded as a sacred bulwark of our liberties, not to be suspended or overcome at the pleasure of a chief executive, who has repeatedly invaded the security of the courts and dictating decisions, who in his list of "undesirables" attempted to strike a deadly blow at the heads of certain labor organizations at a time when they were standing in the shadow of the gibbet. The vindication of these men, while it may be humiliating to the president, should be a startling lesson to him and prevent future attempts to influence the courts of this country.

The mention of Mr. Bryan's name by Mr. Morris called forth an outburst of applause, many delegates leaping upon their seats, and walving their hats and handkerchiefs. The greater part of the enthusiasm, however, came from the delegations outside of Chicago and Cook county. The conclusion of the address was marked with repeated rounds of applause.

The reports of the district caucuses, naming members of the various committees were then received.

After the reading of the report of the caucuses, a recess was taken until 2:30 o'clock.

Harmony Lacking.

The state central committee met last night and it developed that the harmony program was not nailed down as tightly as was supposed. The first thing to come before the committee was a proposition to adjourn until some time next month with the alternative of a contesting state delegation at Denver if the adjournment was refused.

The request for a postponement came from Judge William Prentiss, J. D. McMahon and George F. Milligan of Chicago, representing the federation of Bryan clubs of Cook county and the county Democracy. Judge Prentiss, acting as spokesman for the three, asked for the postponement on the ground that under the primary law of 1901, which is still in force no legal convention can be held before May, as the law states that the convention must be held between May 1 and some later date. Before entering the committee room, Judge Prentiss declared that if his proposition was rejected he with McMahon, Mulligan, members of the federation and others, will hold a rump convention and send a contesting delegation to Denver.

The proposition to adjourn was rejected by the state central committee on the ground that there is no state primary law, that the act of 1901 affects the selection of delegates in Cook county only, and cannot be made to apply to a state convention.

Butte-Ballaklava will hit it so rich one of these days that it will make your hair stand on end. We are expecting news any minute which will advance the price of shares several points.
Butte & Superior is again very busy and stock is hard to find. Big blocks have disappeared and it looks like $1.50 stock very soon. We are bidding $1.12½ today for big lots, but this price does not seem to bring it out. Butte & Superior will surprise the people some of these days, for they are only 50 feet from the 1,200-foot level, and when they open up the big Black Rock vein on this level there will be things doing in this stock. The shareholders will again see the day that Butte & Superior will sell up around $4 a share. It may take a little time, but it has got to come, for they have the mine and the management.
Calumet & Sonora is gradually tightening up. Stock is going out West and South fast, and the East is also buying this stock. Only 43,000 shares and one of the biggest properties in Cananea, with possibilities as great as those of the Greene-Cananea, which has about 70 times as much stock issued. Think it over and see if there is not a big chance for big money in Calumet & Sonora.

W. H. HOPKINS, BROKER, HAS SKIPPED TO CANADA AND POLICE IN PURSUIT

Investors Lose $100,000, and Rapid Living is Blamed for Tangle.

Case Before Grand Jury and He Will be Indicted.

Hopkins is Said to Have Young Woman With Him.

Chicago, April 24.—The police received information today that Wallace H. Hopkins, head of the bankrupt brokerage firm of Wallace H. Hopkins Company, and for whom the police are searching, left last night over the Michigan Central railroad for Detroit, Mich., en route to Canada. According to the information, Hopkins was accompanied by a young woman. Telegrams were immediately sent to police officials at Detroit to arrest the pair and hold them until the arrival of a Chicago detective. The train on which Hopkins is supposed to have traveled, is scheduled to arrive in Detroit at 7:15 a. m., and fears were entertained by the police that Hopkins had succeeded in crossing the river into Canada.

Chicago, April 24.—Another frenzied financier has found the pace too swift. He is Wallace H. Hopkins, president of the Wallace H. Hopkins company, 181 La Salle street, stated by themselves to be dealers in stocks and bonds.

Hopkins himself flitted from the city Wednesday afternoon, with less than $50 in his pocket, after having sunk approximately $100,000 of his clients' money in private speculations and rapid living. His company's offices were closed under a writ of attachment and the sheriff took possession. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against the company as well by three of the creditors.

In addition to all this sea of litigation troubles, it is intended to present evidence to the grand jury which, it is said, will result in Hopkins' indictment on the charge of embezzlement.

Hopkins' own lawyer, Francis A. Harper, admitted that his client had no defense to any of the proceedings, either criminal or civil, except that "he did not intend to take anybody's money."

Fails in Big Schemes.

The story of Hopkins' career and his final failure is the old one of an ambitious man seeking to make a fortune by handling schemes which either did not go or he hoped or were impossible of fulfillment. Mr. Harper said that the chief cause of the "blowing up" of Hopkins, who is well known in La Salle street, was his attempt to float Consolidated Zinc in New

THE LAWS OF NATIONS

Secretary Root Discusses Them From International Standpoint.

Talks of Development of the Force of Public Opinion.

Washington, April 24.—Secretary Root, president of the American Society of International Law, opened the meeting today with an address on "The Sanctions of International Law," in which he took occasion to discuss most interestingly the development of the force of public opinion in international affairs. He said:

"One accustomed to the administration of municipal law who turns his attention for the first time to the discussion of practical questions arising between nations and dependent upon the rules of international law must be struck by a difference between the two systems which materially affects the intellectual processes involved in every discussion and which is, apparently, fundamental.

"The proof and arguments adduced by the municipal lawyer are addressed to the object of setting in motion certain local machinery which will result in a judicial judgment to be enforced by the entire power of the state over litigants subject to its jurisdiction and control.

When the international lawyer, on the other hand, proceeds to seek the establishment of rights or the redress of wrongs in a concrete case, he has, apparently, no objective points to which he can address his proofs or arguments, except the conscience and sense of justice of the opposing party to the controversy. In only rare, exceptional and peculiar cases do the conclusions of the international lawyer, however, clearly demonstrated, have behind them the compulsory effect of possible war.

Absence of Sanction.

"In the vast majority of practical questions arising under the rules of international law, there does not appear on the surface to be any reason why either party should abandon its own contention or yield against its own interest to the arguments of the other side. This apparent absence of sanction for the enforcement of the rules of international law has led great authorities to deny that those rules are entitled to be called law at all, and this apparent hopless-

DESTROYED BY TORNADO

Walls, Miss., Wiped Off Map by a Heavy Wind.

Frightful Storms Rage in Several Other States.

Memphis, Tenn., April 24.—A tornado swept over Walls, Miss., at 2 o'clock this morning and it is reported to have destroyed the town. Three people are reported killed and several injured.

Telegraph and telephone wires are down between Memphis and Walls. The roof of the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley railroad depot was blown off and the building otherwise wrecked.

Baby Killed at Bancroft, Neb.

Bancroft, Neb., April 24.—A tornado passed over the country twenty miles north and nine miles west of here at noon yesterday, resulting in the death of a baby girl and the serious injury of her father, Samuel Mangleson. The family of eight was seated at dinner when the tornado struck the dwelling, a large two-story house. The family consisted of Mr. Mangleson, his wife, mother and five children, all of whom were more or less injured. Not a board of the dwelling was left, and every building on the place was razed.

The storm, which was accompanied by a terrific roaring noise, next hit the farm residence of Richard Waacker, a mile from the Mangleson home. The dwelling was entirely demolished, but none of the nine members of the family was dangerously injured. Barns and outbuildings were leveled at several other farms in the track of the storm and live stock suffered greatly

Texas Town Hit.

Paris, Texas, April 24.—bout 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon a tornado destroyed the eastern portion of Deport, a town twenty miles southeast of Paris, killing W. R. Isbell, a druggist, and injuring several others. Practically all the residences on the east side of the town were destroyed, at least twenty-five or thirty being scattered over the country in fragments. The town of Oak Grove is reported almost destroyed, many houses being demolished, but without fatalities.

Thirty Buildings Demolished.

Sioux Falls, S. D., April 24.—Information received in this city is to the effect that at tornado struck Valley Springs, about twenty-five miles east of Sioux Falls, last evening and demolished about thirty buildings. Nothing further has been heard as communication has been cut off with Valley Springs, and it is not known as yet whether there was any loss of life.

BRINGS SUIT FOR CHICAGO LAND

Minneapolis Man Has Claim Which is Seventy-Two Years Old.

Chicago, April 24.—On a claim seventy-two years old, Samuel H. Bowman, a Minneapolis lumberman, filed suit in the United States circuit court yesterday to recover lake front land valued at millions of dollars and held by the city of Chicago, the South park commission and the Illinois Central railroad.

The suit is based upon title declared to have been in dispute through three-quarters of a century, but which recent investigation has cleared up to such an extent as to warrant legal action. The belated case strikes at land included in the "Chicago Beautiful" plans of public-spirited citizens, the Illinois Central's suburban track reservation, a part of the Michigan boulevard and sections of Grant park.

The land consists of two parcels, one of Cleven and the other of twent-six acres, and was purchased from the government May 31, 1836, at $1.15 an acre, or a total of $46.25.

SUSPENSION OF BROKERS

T. A. McIntyre & Co. of New York Have Failed.

New York, April 24.—The suspension of T. A. McIntyre & Co., brokers and members of the New York stock exchange and of the New York cotton and produce exchange, was announced on the stock exchange today. The firm did a large business and had branches in Chicago, Baltimore, Boston, Hartford, Binghamton, Syracuse, Hartford, Binghamton, Syracuse, Rochester and Hot Springs, Va.

The members of the firm are Thomas A. McIntyre, George C. Ryan, John G. McIntyre, Thomas A. McIntyre, Jr., J. E. Hulshizer, James M. Hudson and Edward T. White.

The suspension was without effect upon the stock market. It was stated that while the firm has engaged in heavy stock transactions in the past, their present commitments are not large. They had taken a position on the bear side of the market and the recent advance in prices was the cause of their suspension.

All Forest Fires Extinguished and Great Loss is Prevented.

Crookston, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A welcome rain covered the Red River valley last night and this morning, which will start all grain, meadows and lawns. There is general rejoicing. Seeding can be resumed Saturday.

Bemidji, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A soaking rain, which set in this forenoon has extinguished all forest fires west as far as Crookston and east as far as Grand Rapids, and saved many thousands of dollars worth of property and possibly prevented loss of life. Fires have been raging noth and east of Bemidji and threatened last night to reach the east shore of the lake in close proximity to the sawmills. It rained slightly about midnight which stopped the fires somewhat. The rain this forenoon was heavy and steady, putting out all fires.

Yesterday large amounts of wood.

THEIR NERVE FAILED THEM

Bandits Attempt to Hold Up North Coast Limited.

They Ran Away as Soon as Train Came to Stop.

Butte, Mont., April 24.—Lack of nerve at a critical moment caused the failure of a desperate attempt last night to holdup the westbound North Coast Limited, at a point two miles west of Welch's Spur and about twelve miles east of Butte, on the line of the Northern Pacific. Rudolph Wenk, Paul Filenius and Albert Teasdale have been arrested for complicity in the attempted hold-up, and are being held in the county jail here. Wenk and Filenius, who are Germans, admit having participated in the flagging of the train, claiming, however, to have been forced to act by two armed and masked desperadoes, who, when the train had come to a halt, lost their courage and made a quick getaway. Filenius and Wenk walked to Welch's Spur station, where they arrived, and told of the affair. Wenk and Filenius declared that the bandits had

Divorce Granted to Wife Whom He Married in Paris.

Minneapolis, April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—William H. Vanderburg of Minneapolis, of St. Paul, of Paris, of Berlin, of London, son of a former justice of the supreme court of Minnesota, is in the spotlight once more as the defendant in a divorce case brought by his wife, Jeanne P. Vanderburg. The case was heard by Judge Brown of the Hennepin county district court, and a decree was granted to the plaintiff.

To a rich young man, with all the advantages of refinement and cultivation within easy reach, the world offers many desirable things, such as books, art, music, social amenities, high thinking, the fulfillment and fruition of lofty aspirations, devotion to one's fellow men, the development of the religious sense.

And on the other hand, the balances on the other side are good fellowship.

PLANT HAS CLOSE CALL

Dastardly Attempt Made to Burn Allis-Chalmers Works.

Automatic Sprinklers Save Big Shops From Destruction.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 24.—The Sentinel today says: A desperate attempt was made early Wednesday morning to destroy the Allis-Chalmers plant at West Allis, or at least stop its operation for a time.

All that saved the big plant from heavy loss was the automatic sprinkler equipment which extinguished the flames before they gained enough headway to be dangerous.

The attack was directed on the pattern shop, the most vital part of the plant. With patterns destroyed work would have to come to a standstill until others could be prepared. From this it appears the attempt was the work of men who are well acquainted with the workings of the plant. They took a desperate chance and it was not their fault, but the good fortune of the plant that they did not succeed.

The determination of those back of the plot is shown by the fact that they had with them a dozen one gallon cans of kerosene which were brought to the place in three telescope cases.

From the appearance of the shop a premature explosion of the oil scared the wrecker away before the preparations were completed. So hurried was the departure of the incendiaries that they left on the fire escape, by means of which they gained entrance to the building, two telescopes filled with cans of kerosene as well as the third, which was about emptied of its contents.

Allis-Chalmers company officials last night admitted that there had been an attempt to set fire to the pattern shop, but intimated that the loss was slight and were inclined to minimize the trouble.

FAST TRAIN JUMPS TRACK

Erie Engine Loses Tire and is Derailed With Express Car.

Rochester, N. Y., April 24.—Erie train No. 4, known as the Chicago express, jumped the track while passing Canisteo at 8:30 o'clock this morning at sixty miles an hour. A score of passengers were injured, but no deaths have been reported. A wrecking crew and officials have left Hornell for the scene.

New York, April 24.—At the office of the Erie railroad in this city it was stated that the locomotive of the Chicago express lost a tire while passing through Canisteo and was derailed with one express car. The official report of the company said there were no casualties.

ASQUITH NOT TRUSTED.

Some Irish Nationalists in Favor of Opposition to Liberals.

Dublin, April 24.—The change of prime ministers is likely to have important consequences on the political situation in Ireland. H. H. Asquith, the new prime minister, is not trusted by the Nationalists, and his accession to office is giving rise to a recklessness similar to that which followed the rejection of the Irish council's bills. Some of the junior members of the Irish party are eager for a campaign of actual opposition to the Liberals, to be opened by an attack on Winston Churchill's candidature at Manchester.

The more experienced members, however, are in favor of giving Mr. Asquith a trial.

TO END TRACTION WAR.

Security Grant to Ratify Cleveland Settlement---Six Tickets for Quarter

Cleveland, April 24.—The city council will formally ratify the settlement of the street railway war in Cleveland Monday by passing a security grant. It is probable that on the next day formal papers will pass consolidating the various street car lines of the city into one system. A straight 3-cent fare all over the city will be put into effect by May 1.

The consolidated system will be run by the Municipal Traction company, and President A. B. Dupont will have complete charge.

Popular opinion appears to be practically unanimous in favor of the settlement. The bargain will be sealed by the passage of a security franchise, which will authorize a rate of six tickets for a quarter.

Duc de Chaulnes Expires Suddenly While on Wedding Trip.

Death Due to Embolism, an Obstruction of an Artery.

Married to Daughter of T. P. Shonts in New York Recently.

Paris, April 24.—The Duc de Chaulnes, who in February was married in New York to Miss Theodora Shonts, daughter of Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough-Metropolitan Railway company, was today found dead in bed in his apartments at the Hotel Langham in the Rue Boccador.

The dead body of the duke was found by his wife. The death of the young man was due to embolism, the obstruction of an artery.

New York, April 24.—A cablegram to Theodore P. Shonts of this city, received today announced the sudden death in Paris of his son-in-law the Duc de Chaulnes. The duke and Miss Theodora Shonts were married in this city recently and were in Europe on their wedding trip.

The news of the death of the Duc de Chaulnes came as a great shock to Mr. Shonts and his family. There had been no previous intimation that he was not in good health, and the letters from the duchess received recently were happy in tone, recounting merely the incidents of their trip and of their life in France.

The cablegram to Mr. Shonts gave no details of the duke's death, not even stating the cause of death. Immediately on its receipt Mr. Shonts sent a cablegram asking for further information.

Mrs. Shonts will leave for Paris tomorrow on the steamer St. Louis.

Chicago, April 24.—The sudden death of the Duc de Chaulnes is confirmed in a cablegram received here today from Mrs. John A. Drake. The cablegram is dated Paris, and is addressed to Col. Robert Rae, Mrs. Drake's father. The Shonts' family and Mrs. Drake are relatives.

The cablegram gave no particulars. It read as follows: "Duc de Chaulnes died last night. Please telegraph family."

STORE IS FLOODED.

Hot Water and Steam Do Heavy Damage in Crookston.

Crookston, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five thousand dollars worth of damage was done to the New York store stock this morning. The radiator was taken out yesterday on the first floor and the steam pipe was not plugged. The weather turned cold last night and at 5 o'clock this morning the janitor of the Fournet block steamed up The steam and water gushed up from a two-inch pipe and when the clerks opened the store the floor was flooded and the store filled with steam.

RACE WON BY STRANG

Driver of Italian Car Comes in First in Auto Race.

Cedrino Finished Second and Guy Vaughan Was Third.

Briarcliff, N. Y., April 24.—Louis Strang, driving the Italian car No. 4, crossed the finish line at 11:44, winning the Briarcliff trophy. The elapsed time of the winner was 5 hours, 14 minutes 13 1-5 seconds.

Cedrino finished with car No. 2 at 11:49:05 3-4.

Guy Vaughan driving No. 8 finished third at 12:02:29 5-8. Elapsed time 5 hours 28 minutes 29 2-5 seconds.

Briarcliff, N. Y., April 24.—Twenty-two automobiles of the finest American and foreign types started at dawn, today, in a 259-mile race over one of the most hazardous courses ever chosen for a motor car speed contest. For just a little over thirty-two miles the course winds, through picturesque country in Northern Westchester county. Almost every turn of the course is a danger spot, and there had been many predictions of serious accidents before the race was run. The danger of the course, and the possibility of serious mishaps, had added tremendously to the interest usual in contests of this kind, and long before the hour scheduled for the start the course was lined with automobiles filled with spectators. As early as 3 o'clock this morning it was estimated that not less than 11,000 automobiles were packed along the course. Thousands of persons crowded the vantage point, and when the first racer was sent away he entered a course lined with humanity on either side, from end to end.

The start had been scheduled for 4:25 o'clock, but it was forty minutes later before preparations for the beginning of the race had been completed. At exactly 5:07 the starer's pistol rang out, and car No. 1, with

JAIL NOT INCLUDED

No Provision in Courthouse Plans for the County Bastile.

County Board Will Have to Build Jail Near Courthouse.

The plans for the new courthouse do not make any provision for the county jail.

The courthouse commission, it is said, was created by the legislature to build a new courthouse, no reference in the law being made to the construction of a county jail.

That a jail will be necessary, in proximity to the new courthouse, is obvious, but the board of county commissioners will have that matter in charge.

When the first plans for the courthouse were considered there was some suggestion that a portion of the building be used for a jail, but that idea never found much favor with the county officials. After the various officials had outlined to the architects the amount of space that each would require in the new building it was found impracticable, anyway, to include quarters for the jail under the courthouse roof, unless an additional story or wing were added. Besides the sentiment against putting the jail under the same roof as the courthouse, the additional expense of providing jail quarters would, it is said, run the cost of the building up to a higher figure than the courthouse commission has planned, so the jail will have to be erected by the county board in some other portion of the site that the county has already acquired, or is acquiring at Second street and Fifth avenue west.

It is understood that the county board, when it gets ready to erect a jail, will select a site near enough to the courthouse so that the two buildings may be connected by an underground passage. In some counties the courthouse and jail are connected by a covered passageway over ground, but in recent years the tendency has been to use the underground passageway as it does not detract from the appearance of the buildings.

The present jail building at Sixth avenue east and Third street is in good condition, though it is inadequate for the county's needs. It is not thought probable that the building will be moved to the new courthouse site, but that a new jail with a style of architecture in keeping with the courthouse will be erected soon after the last named structure is completed and occupied.

Up to the present time there has been no definite discussion as to the location of the jail on the new site. The courthouse commission and the county board are quite content to let the matter rest until the courthouse is finished.

FOUR OF FAMILY PERISH IN FLAMES

Prairie Fires Cause Death in Tramping Lake District, B. C.

Battleford, Saskatchewan, B. C., April 24.—Anna Matthews is the only survivor of a family of five as a result of prairie fires in the Tramping lake district yesterday. The father went to fight the flames, which were creeping down on their little home, and perished in the attempt. The house took fire and Anna Matthews, 8 years old, with her clothes ablaze, carried her 5-year-old brother and sister to a place of safety. She then returned for her mother, but was too late. She fought her way again through the sea of fire, only to find that the other children had wandered into the fire and perished.

WILL SOON SCOUR SEAS

Battleship Gopher Will Come Out of Winter Quarters Saturday.

Naval Reserves Will Have Number of New Small Boats.

If the weather is favorable the naval training ship Gopher will be taken out of her winter quarters in the Lake avenue slip, tomorrow morning, and run out into the lake for a few miles to take water. On her return to the harbor the Gopher will be anchored in her usual berth in front of the boat club.

The engines and boilers of the Gopher have been thoroughly overhauled and are in good condition. After the boat is at her anchorage she will receive a new coat of paint and be otherwise improved for service this season.

The new gasoline motor boat, and the steam launch have been received and put into commission. These are important additions to the Gopher as they will provide better facilities for handling the men between the ship and the shore.

Several new small boats for the Gopher are on their way from the New York navy yard. These include two twenty-for-foot whaleboats, one twenty-foot whaleboat and a gig.

Within a few weeks the naval reserves will begin making their weekly Saturday evening trips out on the lake for ship practice and drill. The Gopher will remain out until Sunday evening. These events have been highly instructive and enjoyable to the men and serve to keep up interest.

WOMEN WILL SETTLE ON GOVERNMENT LAND.

Chicago, April 24.—Twenty self-supporting Chicago women today formed an organization, to be known as the "Art Craft Colony," their object being to take up and settle on government irrigated lands in the West. Funds were subscribed sufficient to make entry on 160 acres. The membership of the organization includes representatives of the dressmaking, millinery and metal working crafts, and several who have devoted themselves to financial pursuits and poultry raising. The women expressed confidence in their ability to successfully "farm" the irrigated lands without the aid of men. Mrs. T. Vernette Morse of Chicago was elected president.

BANKS TO REORGANIZE.

Owensboro, Ky., April 24.—The Owensboro Savings Bank & Trust company and the Davies County Bank & Trust company are declining to receive the deposits, and have suspended cash payments, pending a proposed reorganization of both institutions. The bank is capitalized at $200,000, and has deposits of more than $1,000,000, $500,000 of which is held by depositors residing in thirty-six states and six foreign countries.

CONCRETE IS FAVORED

No More Wooden Bridges Will be Built in Duluth.

Concrete Will Also be Used in Reconstruction Work.

No more bridges of wooden construction will be built or rebuilt in the city of Duluth during Mayor Haven's term of office.

"I shall most certainly veto any measure providing for the construction or reconstruction of wooden bridges within the corporate limits of the city," said the mayor this morning.

The city engineering department is now conducting its annual inspection of the 169 bridges in Duluth. Nearly all of them are in need of some repair work, and a number are so far gone that they will be a danger to the community very soon unless steps to strengthen them are taken. Concrete will hereafter be the favorite material for bridge building in the Zenith city. It probably will be given precedence over steel and every other kind of material.

Concrete has several advantages over everything else for bridge construction, except, of course, where the bridge is so high as to make the use of this material impracticable. One advantage is that a bridge made from concrete, if properly designed, is much more attractive to the eye than those otherwise built. Concrete is getting to be a prime favorite in bridge construction in various parts of the country, and in Europe it is used almost exclusively in many sections, especially where beauty is taken into consideration. The mayor has a framed collection of fifteen colored views of European bridges, presented to him by A. H. Comstock, who collected them while abroad. Mr. Comstock is very much interested in this direction, and is a strong advocate of concrete bridges in Duluth.

It is believed that this city has many more bridges than necessary, and steps will be taken to do away with some of them, by the filling in process. It is expected that the engineer's annual report on bridges will recommend that earth dug in foundation work, broken rock and clean waste material be used to fill in certain ravines and gullies, where the flow of water is small, providing concrete culverts to allow a movement of water.

An agitation has been started for a concrete culvert at Thirty-second avenue east, and probably this will be one of the first steps taken in the bridge improvement line. The structure in use at the present time at Thirty-second avenue is rather unsightly, and people interested are doing all they can to have it done away with entirely, replacing it with a concrete culvert, and filling in the approach with earth or rock.

In the general line of improvement, Mayor Haven is strongly in favor of an attractive concrete bridge on Third street, just below Lincoln park. The bridge, at present constructed of wood, faces the park. Concrete of attractive design would add much to the beauty of Lincoln park. The cost of this improvement would be about $16,000.

AMERICUS WAS LUCKY

Fred Beell Says He Will Throw the Baltimore Wrestler.

Wisconsin Wonder is in Duluth to Meet Frank Gotch.

Fred Beell of Marshfield, Wis., the best wrestler in the world at his weight, arrived in Duluth this afternoon and tonight he will go on the mat at the Metropolitan with Frank Gotch in a handicap match. The regular time limit of fifteen minutes, set by Gotch in which to throw opponents has been extended to thirty minutes, in deference to Beell's ability and the doubt is freely expressed that Gotch can throw him in that time. Beell is credited with being the greatest master of wrestling science in the world. Under the handicap of lack of weight, he has failed to throw the present world's champion, but with his speed and science, he can give Gotch a bad half hour any time.

Beell met with a surprising defeat this month, when Americus, the Baltimore wrestler, threw him in straight falls at Baltimore. Followers of wrestling didn't expect any such outcome of the match and Beel has been busy since explaining how it happened and trying to arrange another match, that he may redeem himself.

"I have thrown Americus time and again and his victory was purely accidental," said the Wisconsin wonder today. "I had traveled half way across the country to meet him, was in poor condition and, after wrestling about twenty minutes, he picked me up and let me down heavily on the back of my head. The blow took the starch out of me and helped him to a victory. Americus is a big man and I will admit he is a clever wrestler, but I know I can throw him and will prove it when we meet again."

Chicago wrestling promoters see a big card in a return match between Americus and Beell and they are trying to arrange it. Beell has written to the Baltimore man, asking for a match May 1 at Chicago and, if the Easterner agrees, they will go on before a Chicago club for a sizable purse.

"I find wrestling has come into its own again," said Beell. "All over the country people are flocking to see the matches and just as long as things continue right, the game will be popular. Cleveland is a fine wrestling city, but the Cuban nearly killed the game there when he made a fiasco out of the match with me. He wanted the money, but wouldn't work on the mat, and, when he saw I was putting a crimp in him, he laid down. When we went on for the second fall, he ran away. The crowd hissed him heartily and he had it coming. Wrestling is our profession. We are trying to give the people their money's worth and discourage everything that may hurt the game."

Beell says he is in good shape to give the world's champion a run for the money tonight. It is his first meeting with Gotch since the Iowan won his new honors and the smaller man is anxious to make a good showing.

BREAKING THE NEWS.

Capt. Pritchard of the Mauretania was talking about sailors.

"We are a bluff lot," he said. "Did you ever hear about the sailor and the parrot? Well, once upon a time, an old lady was returning from abroad with a parrot, of which she was very fond. She entrusted the bird, with many admonitions, to a sailor for the voyage.

"Seasickness, or something, killed the parrot the third day out. The sailor, knowing how upset the old lady would be, could not bring himself to tell her the sad tidings, but asked a companion, famous for his skill in such matters, to break the bad news to her very, very gently. The man assented.

"And approaching the old lady with a tragical face, the famous newsbreaker touched his cap and said:

"'I'm afraid that 'ere bird o' yourn ain't going to live long, ma'am.'

"'Oh, dear!' exclaimed the old lady in alarm. 'Why?'

"'Cause he's dead,' was the reply.

KENNEY & ANKER

INSTRUCTED FOR BRYAN

The Illinois State Convention Enthusiastically Indorses Nebraskan.

Plank in Platform Declares Strongly for Personal Liberty.

Springfield, Ill., April 24.—The Illinois Democracy yesterday adopted the unit rule and instructed its delegates to the national convention at Denver to vote for W. J. Bryan and to "use all honorable means" in securing his nomination. The friends of Governor Johnson of Minnesota were completely in the minority.

After a hot fight in the resolutions committee, which was carried into the convention, the party adopted a platform plank declaring in favor of the "greatest possible personal liberty" to individuals, provided such liberty did not infringe upon the rights of other people.

Instead of naming the usual four delegates and alternates at large to the national convention, it was decided to send eight, allowing each man half a vote. Two presidential electors, at large were also chosen.

The resolution endorsing Mr. Bryan was adopted with enthusiasm and a flattering demonstration followed the action. When his name was mentioned there was invariably great applause, and the reading of the resolutions in his favor was greeted with cheers.

Delegates and Alternates Elected.

The following list of delegates and alternates at large to the national convention was adopted: At large—Roger C. Sullivan, Samuel Alschuler, Fred J. Kern, Harry M. Pindell, Carroll C. Beggs, Edward F. Dunne, Andrew J. Hunter and Reddick M. Ridgeley.

Alternates—Henry Phillips, H. E. Lemon, W. E. Dever, Albert Watson, Walter L. Manny, Isaac B. Craig, Joseph S. Martin, Paul A. Bratz.

For presidential electors at large—Richard Kinzela of Sagamon county and Caleb Johnson of Whiteside county were chosen. The remaining business of the convention was the consideration of the resolutions, which congratulate the party in both state and nation on the splendid prospect of victory at the coming election in November, and are for the strict application of the federal principles of Democracy as the only corrective of the evil tendencies of Republican administration.

Personal Liberty Plank.

On the subject of personal liberty the resolutions declare: "We believe that orderly customs and habits long pursued should not be disturbed by intolerance, and we hereby declare in favor of that fundamental doctrine of Democracy and free government which gives to the individual the largest measure of personal liberty, so long as he does not infringe on the personal right of others. We are opposed to all sumptuary laws."

Another plank reads: "We pledge ourselves as being in favor of the constitutional amendment providing for a bond issue for the construction of the lakes to the gulf ship canal."

The Bryan plank says: "Recognizing the broad statesmanship, matchless eloquence and untiring efforts of our great leader, the Hon. William J. Bryan, in the cause of humanity, we, the Democrats of Illinois, honoring a native son and taking pride in his distinguished leadership, instruct the delegates to the national convention of our party at Denver from this state to support his candidacy for the nomination for the presidency, and to use all honorable means in his behalf. We further instruct the Illinois delegation to the Denver convention to act as a unit on all propositions."

NEW CONCLAVE PALACE.

Structure, Costing $300,000, Adjoining Vatican, Nearing Completion.

Rome, April 24.—The huge building constructed in the rear of the Vatican palace, and which is known as the Palace of the Conclave, will soon be ready for occupancy. It is five stories high, and each story has twenty-five front windows. The palace has 200 rooms, distributed among seventy apartments, each of which will constitute the accommodations needed for one of the cardinals when all come together to elect a new pope. Each cardinal brings to the conclave a private secretary and a lay attendant, so that several rooms are needed for each member of the sacred college. The last two conclaves were held in the Vatican, but the difficulty there was that the huge halls of the palace had to be partitioned in order that apartments might be provided for the cardinals, and privacy was practically impossible. It is said the building cost about $300,000, and that the pope has expressed deep regret at the magnitude of the sum.

Death Was On His Heels.

Jesse P. Morris of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

THE RAIN IS A BLESSING

Puts Sudden Stop to Brush Fires Around Duluth.

Woodland Residents Were Alarmed Thursday Over Approach of Flames.

Last night's rain came as a blessing to residents of Woodland, who were alarmed yesterday over the near approach of numerous brush fires. All these fires have now been checked and no more trouble is anticipated from this source, unless there is another long period without rain. The brush and grass are now too wet to burn.

Firemen were pressed into service yesterday afternoon and last evening to check the flames in the vicinity of Forest Hill cemetery where the fire seemed to be the most serious. The blaze swept over several square blocks of stumpage and brush, causing serious alarm to residents in the neighborhood. A few firemen remained on duty near the cemetery all night. They breathed a sigh of relief when the first few droys of rain began to fall at an early hour this morning.

Assistant Chief Randall, after sending men to Woodland yesterday afternoon, at the time the brush fire started, was apprised of incipient blazes in Lakeside. They were soon extinguished by firemen who went to the scene. Persons clearing up their land and burning the brush are thought to be responsible for the fires which have been alarming residents of different portions of the city for several days past.

This has been an exceptionally dry spring, and the brush and grass got in a condition where it burned as readily as paper. It isn't often that fires of this description occur so early in the year, for usually there is enough rain in the spring to make the spread of flames in the brush and grass impossible.

The high wind blowing last night made the fires more dangerous. The wind blew down several trees and one of them, in falling, struck William Johnson, from fire hall No. 4. He was knocked unconscious by the blow, but recovered his senses in a minute or two, and beyond a cut on the lip was unhurt.

CATCHES BIG RAINBOW TROUT

James A. Wharton, Jr., Gets One Weighing Nearly Six Pounds.

Not satisfied with breaking all records at Lester river when he caught a five and one-half pound rainbow trout, a few days ago, James A. Wharton, Jr., of Lester Park, pulled another trout from Lester river near the railroad bridge, early this morning, that weighed five and three-quarter pounds. The trout is a magnificent specimen, being over twenty-five inches long. It took Master Wharton about twenty minutes to land the big fellow. There have been some good catches of trout from Lester river since the season opened April 15. More big trout have been caught thus far since the opening of the season than ever before during the month of April.

DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE.

New Duke Expected to Win Enviable Place in Hereditary Chamber

London, April 24.—In the new duke of Devonshire, who has just succeeded his uncle to the title and the vast possessions that go with it, the house of commons has lost one of its most respected members. Although lacking the usual incentive for hard work, as for many years it was certain that he would succeed to the Devonshire dukedom, he always "sweated" conscientiously for his party during the nineteen years he represented West Derbyshire in the lower house. The new duke is expected to win an enviable place for himself in the hereditary chamber by his solid qualities of mind and heart.

One could hardly say that the present duke was born with a silver spoon in his mouth; but fate soon made up for the deficiency. As a matter of fact, he was born the eldest child of the third son of the seventh duke, and there seemed only the remotest prospects of his ever succeeding to the great title which his grandfather bore. Death, however, removed those that intervened. The eighth duke, who has just died, spent his youth and his early manhood in casting sheep's eyes at a woman who was married to another man, and in the course of time it became tolerably certain that, baring his premature death, Victor Cavendish, familiarly known as "Vic" by his friends in the house of commons, would be ninth duke of Devonshire and the owner of one of the largest estates in Great Britain.

EEL FISHERIES LEASED.

Serious Matter for Three Thousand People in Ireland.

Dublin, April 24.—Attention has been called to the hard case of a number of Irish fisher folk, residing near Lough Neagh. It seems that from time immemorial they and their forefathers have been accustomed to earn their livelihood by catching eels from the lough, and now, by a decision of the Irish land judge's court, if it is not reversed on appeal, they will no longer be able to "scoop" the eels. Lord Shaftesbury is the owner of the fishing rights of the lough, and he has leased to one Edward Armstrong O'Neill and others the eel fisheries. It is the lessees who have obtained a declaration of title to the exclusive right of fishing for eels. When it is stated that there are 3,000 people who live entirely by this industry, it will be seen that the injunction is a serious matter for them. They contend the lough is an inland sea, free to every subject of the realm, and they appeal for funds to enable them to carry the case to a higher court.

GEN. LINEVITCH PASSES AWAY

Aide-de-Camp to Emperor Nicholas Succumbs to Pneumonia.

St. Petersburg, April 24.—Lieut. Gen. Linevich, aide-de-camp to Emperor Nicholas and commander of the First Manchurian army, died from pneumonia last evening. He had been ill for a little over a week.

Gen. Linevich was 68 years of age. He was fighting in the Caucasus when he was 21, and took part in the Russo-Turkish war of 1877-78. Since then he served in all of Russia's Asiatic campaigns. He assumed command of the First Manchurian army Nov. 14, 1904, replacing Gen. Kuropatkin as commander-in-chief of the Russian forces on March 17, 1905. Gen. Linevich was in the battle of Mukden and a number of other important engagements, in which he was reported as displaying great bravery. When he returned to St. Petersburg in March of the following year he was received with but little enthusiasm.

COULD NOT WALK FOR FOUR MONTHS

Mass of Itching, Burning Humor on Ankles—Feet Fearfully Swollen—Opiates Alone Brought Sleep—Many Treatments Failed but

TORTURES OF ECZEMA YIELDED TO CUTICURA

"Cuticura Remedies are all you claim them to be. I had eczema for over two years. I had two physicians, but they only gave me relief for a short time and I cannot enumerate the ointments and lotions I used to no purpose. My ankles were one mass of sores. The itching and burning were so intense that I could not sleep. I could not walk for nearly four months. One day my husband said I had better try the Cuticura Remedies. After using them three times, I had the best night's rest in months unless I took an opiate. I used one set of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent Pills, and my ankles healed in a short time. It is now a year since I used Cuticura, and there has been no return of the eczema.

"I had a small lump in the corner of my eye for over a year which was very painful and got larger all the time. I thought I would try Cuticura Soap and Ointment on it, and now it is gone. I am seventy-three years old and have lived on the farm I now occupy for twenty-seven years. Cuticura Remedies are the safest and most reliable I have ever used for all skin humors. Mrs. David Brown, Locke, Crawford Co., Ark., May 18 and July 13, 1907."

MONKEY BASIS OF SUIT.

Mistress Asks $10,000 for Charge She Trained Pet to Steal.

New York, April 24.—One of the most peculiar suits ever placed on record in the supreme court has been brought by Miss Cora Cahier, who demanded $10,000 for alleged defamation of character from Samuel Van Grasten. The most important "witness" for Miss Cahier is a little monkey.

Moses A. Sachs, counsel for the young woman, submitted an affidavit in which he says his client has owned the monkey for some time, and that it is the innocent cause of the trouble which has occasioned her much heart pain and chargrin.

"Mr. and Mrs. Van Garsten," said Miss Cahier, "have occupied rooms adjoining mine for a long time. Some time ago I heard they had complained of missing jewelry and other small articles. I paid no attention to it. Subsequently I was horrified when told the Van Gartens had deliberately said I had trained my monkey to seal their goods."

MRS. OGDEN GOELET IS TO RENT BIG MANSION.

London, April 24.—There has been a flutter of excitement in Mayfair during the past week because of a persistent rumor that Mrs. Ogden Goelet would take Devonshire House in Piccadilly, the town house of the duke of Devonshire during the coming season. As a matter of fact, the new duke and his wife would be very glad to let it, as they will not entertain very much for many months to come and can have no possble use for the great house. Moreover the rent to be derived would come in very handy to keep the new peer in pocket money, for, despite the fact that he succeeded to one of the largest estates in England, the enormous death duties he will be called upon to pay in the very near future will be a severe drain even on his well-lined purse. Also he will have to hand to the dowager duchess a very large sum. I hear that he is going to close indefinitely Chatsworth, his beautiful place in Derbyshire, Bolton Abbey, and his seat at Eastbourne. But even then he will not want for a considerable number of residences.

Society would welcome Mrs. Goelet as a London hostess with wide open arms. We all remember with pleasure her entertainment when she was here last summer. Claridge's was the scene of most of those affairs. There is no doubt that with a house of her own she would blossom out as one of the largest and most popular hostesses of the season. We should all like her to put a little "ginger" into her daughter, the duchess of Roxburghe, who has been a great disappointment to those of us who expected her to make a big splurge when she took Stratford House, the town residence of Lord Colebrook, about a year ago.

The Only Laxative Used by Those Who Know

People never use harsh physic after they know what it does.

That griping and pain are symptoms that the bowels are irritated.

You have come to think, perhaps, that such effects are necessary, else you would never endure them.

But they are not; they are wicked.

That irritation of the stomach is the cause of nearly all dyspepsia.

That irritation of the bowels—causing the lining to callous—is the cause of constipation.

Cascarets bring the same results without injury.

They never gripe—never pain. They are as harmless as laxative foods.

Salts and pill cathartics increase the trouble that you seek to cure.

Use them frequently and you'll need them always—in constantly larger doses.

But Cascarets cause the bowels to resume their proper functions. One never needs them long. This is the only laxative taken by those who know.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with C C C on every tablet.

The box is marked like this:

Cascarets

The vest-pocket box is 10 cents.
The month-treatment box 50 cents.
12,000,000 boxes sold annually. 810

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The committee of the Women's council in charge of the domestic science school have decided to re-engage Mrs. Emily F. McCurdy of Chicago as instructor of the summer classes during the summer. The domestic science school, which has been maintained at the Adams school for three summers is one of the most valuable efforts undertaken by the council. Last year 120 young girls, between the ages of 10 and 16 years, attended the school and received two lessons a week. The value of the training has been realized by the mothers and regular teachers of the young pupils, and the work of the school has been most valuable. Mrs. McCurdy, who is a woman of splendid training and ability, has been in charge of the school since it was first organized, and the committee are delighted that she is available for this year.

The school will be maintained during July and August. The students come from all parts of the city, although the greater number are from the West end and West Duluth. Many of the young girls from lower Lake avenue and the central part of the city attend the classes. Through the efforts of the committee a year ago a permanent fund of more than $200 for the school was provided by philanthropic Duluth men and the school is on an easy financial basis.

The new work of the council for the coming summer will be a manual training school for young boys. This school will be held in the manual training department of the Central high school building.

SOME QUIET TIPS.

More Weaknesses of Man Are Exposed.

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

It takes a flirt to fool a flirt.

It's a funny thing about being in love, that the minute a man begins to get serious, he begins to get foolish.

A husband always expects his wife to look up to him, even if she has to get down on her knees to do it.

Some men will go to the devil quite regularly, just for the pleasure of being reformed by another pretty woman.

Even Job would have gotten mad, I suspose, if he had varnished the piano and come in and found the cat asleep on it.

Before marrying a man, ask yourself if you could love him, if he lost his front hair, went without a collar, smoked an old pipe, and wore a ready-made suit—all of these things are likely to happen.

If you want a man to do anything, don't coax him and don't bully him; just tell him his nose is Greek, or that he looks like Napoleon in a frock-coat; there may be several ways round him, but the short cut is straight through his vanity.

Courting is like cooking—you've got to be born with the knack; brains don't take the prizes, and theory doesn't count.

THE "NECKTIE AGE."

Mother Gives Her Views On Raising Boys.

Two East end women, mothers of children, who were on their way from a shopping expedition on a street car, late yesterday afternoon, fell to discussing the "boy question."

"It is just impossible," declared the elder lady, "to keep a boy clean until he reaches the 'necktie age.' After he passes that stage you do not have to worry about his personal appearance, or make a personal examination every morning to see if his neck and ears are clean before he starts for school. I've raised two or three boys and I have never known it to fail that the turning point in their own efforts toward cleanliness of person is the 'necktie age.'"

"I think you are right," replied the younger woman, whose family comprises some girls. "I notice that it seems just as natural for girls to take to dirt as the boys. I do not wonder that some women, who have no help about the household work, do not find the time to keep their children looking clean. It takes about all of my time to keep my girls looking presentable. I was passing one of the fountains in the East end yesterday and saw two little girls playing about it. They were attempting to see how dirty they could get themselves. Their mother stood near and seemed to enjoy the fun as much as they did. I heard her tell them, 'That's right, girls. Go ahead and have a good time, and then come home to get cleaned up.' I believe that mother understands children, and that, after all, her system is a good one."

BISHOP'S CLUB.

Mrs, M. H. Kelly Entertains Members at Her Home.

The members of the Bishop's club and a few invited guests were entertained last evening by Mrs. M. H. Kelley at her home, 606 East Second street. The rooms were prettily decorated in flowers and palms. In the library and hall Easter lilies were the decorations chosen, and about the parlors, vases of American beauty roses were placed.

Receiving with the hostess was Bishop McGolrick, Mrs. L. H. Corcoran and Miss Lydia Poirier.

A musical program was presented by the Ensemble club of the Flaaten school, with Gustav Flaaten directing and Mrs. Flaaten at the piano. A soprano duet, by Leo Ball and Miss Hyland, was enjoyed, and a piano number by Miss Sybilla Hartman and Miss Alice Lambert. Miss Thiers sang, and readings were given by Miss Laura Frankenfield and Miss Agnes Poirier.

NO LONGER RED.

Fashionable Hair is Chestnut in Shade.

A very pretty effect is obtained in hair dressing by introducing several tiny bouquets of flowers among the twists and coils, four of these providing a charming garniture.

Instead of representing the usual make of artificial flowers, these little posies are fashioned of fine ribbon work, in simulation of the ribbon embroideries so popular nowadays, being carried out in various soft, faded shades of pale pink, blue, lavender and lily-leaf green, while they are pinned flat against the waves of the hair in lieu of standing upright in the style which has recently obtained such favor.

Instead of the auburn shade bordering on red, which was the ideal tone of color in the eyes of those who had no idea of adhering to the neutral tinted locks with which an ungenerous nature may have endowed them, chestnut is the favorite shade of the moment, the hair being still waved elaborately, while most women wear a tiny parting on one side, from which the full waves of the coiffure fall from left to right.

Naturally enough, with the return of the fashions of the second empire, which are almost keeping pace with those of the first Napoleon, quite a number of women have adopted the genuine Eugenie coiffure, with one long lovelock, supported by two short ringlets, falling on the neck from behind the ear.

This requires a great deal of hair to work upon, some of which is piled on the top of the head, and some on the nape of the neck, to hide the spring of the hanging ringlets, the effect of these being to define very clearly the soft contour of the cheek and jaw. Clusters of feathers are still worn extensively as coiffure decoration for great occasions, an unadorned head being, apparently, almost an anachronism nowadays, while strands of shot green and silver, and pink and silver ribbon powdered with a blurred design of tiny pink or mauve roses, are threaded in and out of the postiches and tied in a large wide bow at the back.

Skeleton flowers, fashioned in gold thread and representing little more than an outline, are likewise to be seen, and are nearly always repeated as corsage bunches to correspond with those in the hair.

Saturday Club.

The members of the Saturday club will be entertained tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. M. H. Kelley at her home, 606 East Second street. The afternoon will be in charge of Miss Josephine Carey, who will give an interpretative musical talk on "Italian Music." She will be assisted by George L. Tyler, who will sing some Italian folk songs.

The Amazing Sash.

It's a Parisian.
It's six yards long.
It's one yard in width.
The ends are beautifully figured.
Or these ends may be fringed.
At its best it is of painted gauze.
First it is fastened, say, at the bust line.
Then, while her maid holds the end, madame winds herself up.
One end is left long enough to fall over the whole of the train.
Such a "sash" is best worn over white chiffon in the classic cut.

Barbaric Bracelets.

They're immense.
Each shows a big gem.
The gems are semi-precious.
Antique silver is the metal used.
There's a faceted look to the metal work.
The stones are rounded masses, en cabochon.
Rose quart and amazonite are both effective.
Carnelian, natural and colored, figures to advantage.
Jade, chrysophrase and malachite, are among the green stones.

Rhubarb Delicacies.

To Can Rhubarb, Cold Water Process—Select the rhubarb when young and tender and of a pretty pink color. Wash thoroughly, peel and cut into small pieces as for pies. Pack into glass jars that have been thoroughly sterilized; fill the jars to overflowing with freshly drawn water, put on the covers and let them stand over night. By the next morning you will find that the rhubarb has taken up more or less of the water and that there is quite a vacuum to be filled. Drain off the water and fill again to overflowing with fresh cold water, letting it rush into the jars with as much force as possible. Put on new can rubbers, seal closely and put away in a cool, dark place. When opened these will be found to require less sugar than fresh rhubarb and will make excellent sauce and pies. If the jars are airtight the rhubarb will keep for years.

Rhubarb Canned With Sugar—Peel, then cut into three-quarter inch lengths. Weigh, and to every pound allow a pound of sugar. Make a syrup, allowing a cup of water to every two pounds of sugar. Let it boil and skim well. Put in the rhubarb and cook rapidly for five minutes. Put into sterilized jars with fresh rubbers and seal.

* * *

Rhubarb Marmalade—This is excellent to use with pancakes or sandwiches for the picnic basket. Remove the outer yellow rind from a dozen oranges and one lemon and chop fine. Strain the juice over three pounds granulated sugar and stand aside while you cook the chopped rind with four pounds cut rhubarb to a pulp. Add the sugar and juice and cook until thick. Turn into small jars, and when cool cover with parafin paper.

Another delicious jam or marmalade is made by combining pineapple, rhubarb and cranberries in equal proportions.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Pie plant, 5 cents a lb.
New cabbage, 5 cents a lb.
Cucumbers, 15 cents each.
Tomatoes, 30 cents a basket.
Pineapples, 20 cents each.
Strawberries, 2 boxes for 25 cents.
Chickens, 20 cents a lb.
Milk fed broilers, $1 each.

Gradually the price of the early spring vegetables, which have been in the market all winter, is descending and soon, very soon, any sort of desirable eating plant may be had at reasonable rates.

The most luxurious luxury offered are milk fed broilers, which have a nickle egg shaped tag attached to their legs, telling that they are premiere braid. These broilers, dainty morsels they must prove, cost $1, and the size of them does not admit of an extra unexpected guest to dine with you if one has been provided for two.

The fruits are nice.

SUPERIOR NEWS

Threatened by Forest Fires.

Forest fires near Nebagamon, Wis., yesterday threatened the destruction of a large number of houses on the south side of the lake. Late last night word was received from Nebagamon that unless the wind shifted before morning the buildings could not be saved. Citizens of Nebagamon have been fighting fires for the past two days.

Beat Her Landlord.

Because her landlord attempted to put a "for rent" sign on the house she occupied, Mrs. J. Jebuboe attacked Thomas Cameron, a confectionery dealer of Fifth sweet and Tower avenue, and gave him a black eye, besides numerous scratches and bruises. Cameron swore out a warrant for Mrs. Jebuboe's arrest on the charge of assault and battery. Cameron claims Mrs. Jebuboe gave him notice she would vacate his house May 1, and he was in the act of tacking up a sign to get another tenant, when Mrs. Jebuboe fell upon him. During the melee some boys on the street destroyed the sign.

Anderson Will Retain Office.

It is understood that Mayor Crumpton has settled the fight over the job of meat and milk inspector by reappointing John Anderson. The candidates for the office were Mr. Anderson, who had the backing of Alderman Chadwick, and Charles Stewart, who was backed by Alderman Erbelding. It is thought probable that Joseph Morrissette will be appointed health officer.

RESULTS OF THE D. A. R. ELECTION.

Washington, April 24.—The result of the election to fill the ten vacancies in the list of vice presidents general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which was held yesterday afternoon, was announced today. The successful candidates include Mrs. Truman H. Newberry, Michigan, and Mrs. D. W. Bushnell, Iowa. The most important matters up for consideration at today's session were amendments to the constitution and bylaws.

WORK UNDER UMBRELLAS

Some of the clerks in the county auditor's office had to work under umbrellas this morning to keep from getting wet from the water that came through the ceiling from a leaky roof. The roof that is leaking so badly is on that particular "wart" known as the "Dluham addition" to the old courthouse. Every few days a few more bricks crumble and fall from the corner of the east and south walls of the old building and the courthouse employes are giving odds that the walls will fall before the new courthouse is completed.

MOVING DAY DRAWS NEAR

May First is Time for People to Switch Flats.

Leases Are Dated From That Day, as a Rule.

A week from today, every moving van in the city will be taxed to its capacity with household goods, for it is May 1 and moving day the country over.

Most leases on flats, houses and offices are dated from the first of May, so when people become dissatisfied with their quarters, they plan when the glad May days come, to seek other places of abode.

If a plan to move is under way, milady has been enjoying that gentle pastime of house-hunting during the last week or two.

She picks the wheat from the chaff of her excursions and after the list has been boiled down to a dozen choice possibilities in different parts of the city, hubby is dragged around to look at them.

This season the number of available vacant flats and dwellings is small. The demand for them is in excess of the supply, and rents are very fancy. The choice offered prospective house renters is therefore, very limited, and those who are permitted to remain in their present places of abode without an advance in rent, consider themselves fortunate.

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"Uncle Tom's Cabin."
METROPOLITAN—Burlesque and wrestling.

"THE DUSKY BEAUTIES."

"Duluth Girls in Cork" Appear at the Lyceum.

"The Dusky Beauties," a company of Duluth girls in burnt cork, sang, danced and made merry on the stage of the Lyceum theater last evening for the benefit of Duluth Hive, No. 1, Ladies of the Maccabees.

A fair-sized audience was on hand to greet the Beauties, and every number was enthusiastically received. Mrs. G. E. Budd acted as interlocutor, and the girls who acted as endmen did their pretty best to be funny, and succeeded.

When it is considered that all of the people who took part are amateurs, the performance ran off very smoothly and was well received. After the regulation minstrel first part, which was replete with good old gags and some good songs, there followed an olio of dark and light acts. The company did a hoe-down or two, and then washed its face and appeared in all its loveliness. Some young men appeared to fill out the picture, and were all right, except that they kept their hats on when they were supposed to be sitting in a cafe with ladies.

Mrs. Budd directed the performance, and had for her star Harriet Nobles, a clever young woman, with an excellent voice. Miss Nobles had a number of opportunities and looked fine and fancy when she imitated Della Fox. Others who took a part were: Edna Dunlop, end lady; Agnes Mae Johnson, who portrayed Queen Vashti; Mabelle Reilly, Mae Ballee, Lizzie Dunlop, Ciara E. Paul, Ida Balser, Eleanor Mousso and Rose Rosetti, Mrs. Neil Bailey, Mrs. H. J. Fetzner, and Messrs. Olin Ingmus, Jack Norvell, Arthur Meagher, John Monaghan, Harry Baker and Elmer Linsey.

Amateur Night.

Tonight is amateur night at the Metropolitan and there are excellent prospects of an interesting entertainment. In addition to the amateurs and the Broadway Gaiety Girls' show, Fred Reed, the famous wrestler, will go on with the champion, Frank Gotch. All of this takes place in one evening at the "Met," and it might be said to be "bargain night."

Tomorrow there will be a matinee and the Gaiety Girls and Mr. Gotch will conclude their engagement in Duluth, tomorrow evening.

ness of finality carries to the mind which limits its consideration to the procedure in each particular case a certain sense of futility of argument. Nevertheless, all the foreign offices of the civilized world are continually discussing with each other questions of international law, both public and private, cheerfully and hopefully marshaling facts, furnishing evidence and presenting arguments, and building up records designed to show that the rules of international law require such and such things to be done or such and such things to be left undone. And in countless cases nations are yielding to such arguments and are shaping their conduct against their own apparent interests in the particular cases under discussion in obedience to the rules which are shown to be applicable.

Sanctions For Enforcement.

"Careful consideration seems to lead to the conclusion that there are sanctions for the enforcement of international law no less real and substantial than those which insure obedience to municipal law.

"In the vast majority of cases men refrain from criminal conduct because they are unwilling to incur in the community in which they live the public condemnation and obloquy which would follow a repudiation of the standard of conduct prescribed by that community for its members. There it happens that the law and public opinion point different ways, the latter is invariably the stronger. The force of law is in the public opinion which prescribes it. Conformity to the standard of business integrity which obtains in the community is necessary to be a success. Social esteem and standing power and high place in the professions, in public office, in all associated enterprise depend upon conformity to the standards of conduct in the community. Loss of these is the most terrible penalty society can inflict.

"The rules of international law are enforced by the same kind of sanction, less certain and peremptory, but continually increasing in effectiveness of control. A decent respect to the opinions of mankind, did not begin or end among natios with the American declaration of independence; but it is interesting that the first public national act in the new world should be an appeal to that universal, international public opinion, the power and effectiveness of which the new world has done so much to promote.

Once Regarded Only Physical Power.

"In former times, each isolated nation, satisfied with its own opinion of itself, and indifferent to the opinion of others, separated from all others by mutual ignorance, regarded only the physical power of other nations. Now, however, there may seem plainly the effects of a long continued process which is breaking down the isolation of nations, permeating every country with better knowledge and understanding of every other country, spreading throughout the world a knowledge of each government's conduct to serve as a basis for criticisms and judgment, and gradually creating a community of national standards of conduct are being established and a world wide public opinion is holding nations to conformity or condemning them for disregard for the established standards.

"Parl pasu with the breaking down of isolation, that makes a common public opinion possible, the building up of standards of conduct is being accomplished by the formulation and establishment of rules that are being gradually taken out of the domain of discussion into that of general acceptance—a process in which the recent conferences at The Hague have played a great and honorable part.

"There is no civilized country which is not sesible to this general opinion, none that is willing to subject itself to the discredit of standing brutally on its power to deny to other countries the benefit of recognized rules of right conduct. The deference shown to this international public opinion is in due proportion to a nation's greatness and advance in civilization. The nearest approach to defiance will be found among the most isolated and least civilized of countries where the ignorance of the world prevents the effects of the world's opinion and in every such country internal disorder, oppression, poverty and wretchedness mark the penalties which warn mankind that the laws established by civilization for the guidance of national conduct cannot be ignored with impunity.

Power of Public Opinion.

"Manifestly this power of international public opinion is exercised not so much by governments as the people of each country whose opinions are interpreted in the press and determine the country's attitude toward the nation where conduct is under consideration. International opinion is the consensus of individual opinion in the nations. The most certain way to promote obedience to the law of nations and to substitute the power of opinion for the power of armies and navies, is, on the one hand, to foster that 'decent respect' to the opinions of mankind which found place in the government declaration of 1776, and on the other hand to spread among the people of every country a just appreciation of international rights and duties and a knowledge of the principles and rules of international law, to which national conduct ought to conform, so that the general opinion, whose approval or condemnation supplies the sanction for the law, may be found and just and worthy of respect."

The Man from Rome

This is the title of a continued story by Marie Van Vorst, starting in this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

An American, rich beyond the dreams of avarice; a young son with pockets bursting with spending money, a daughter spoiled and beautiful; also the man from Rome. These persons act a powerful story, tragic in places, which will be illustrated by A. B. Wenzell and Vernon Howe Bailey.

The title suggests a hinted international marriage — but not this one.

Better begin to read this story now. It is hard to get back numbers of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST. This week's issue is now on sale.

At the News-stands, 5 cents.

USE OF IRONS PROHIBITED

As Form of Punishment in the United States Navy.

Washington, April 24.—On the strength of a letter from Mrs. Emma Olberg of La Crosse, Wis., Senator Nelson has secured the adoption of an amendment to the naval appropriation bill which prohibits the use of irons as a form of punishment in the United States navy in any shape, form or manner. In November of 1906, Mrs. Olberg went to visit her son, an enlisted man in the navy, who was found at that time at Boston harbor. She found him ill and at the same time in irons under command of his superior officer. She protested vainly and finally took the matter up with Mr. Bonaparte who was at that time secretary of the navy.

He told Mrs. Olberg that unless the case came up to him in regular channels he could do nothing as the law placed it in the hands of commanding officers to use their discretion in such matters. But he did advise Mrs. Olberg to take up the matter with the congressman from her district, which she did.

She also took it up with Senator Nelson with the result that the senator secured the passage of his amendment. The placing of iron shackles on hands and legs of American seamen is an old custom that has been in vogue for many years.

MARINE NEWS

GRAIN BOAT IS LOADED

Eugene Zimmerman Will Take Grain to Depot Harbor.

Package Freighters Will Begin Movement in Lower Lakes.

The steamer Eugene Zimmerman, owned by L. S. Sullivan of Toledo, will be the first boat to start down the lakes from the Duluth-Superior harbor this season. The loading of the Zimmerman at the Peavey elevator has been completed, clearance papers have been taken out, and everything is in readiness for sailing just as soon as advices are received that the Soo river is clear.

The following, received over the Western Union wires from the Soo this morning, gives hope to vesselmen, who are anxious for an early sailing:

"It is probable boats may reach here through the river today. A small fleet of about fifteen left Detour this morning on the upbound trip and is now in the ice above Lime island, making good headway. Reports from Whitefish say that the ice from Persian island to Iriquois will need a south wind to clear it out."

If further advices during the day warrant, the Zimmerman may sail early tomorrow morning. She will carry grain to Depot Harbor, some for direct export and the remainder for re-entry on the Atlantic seaboard.

The Carter and the Mills are now the only boats loading in the local harbor. The Carter was transferred this morning from Elevator K at Old Superior to Elevator E on this side of the bay. The Mills is loading at Elevator H.

Duluth agents of line boats have received no advices to the contrary, and believe that the package freighters will get into motion in lower lake ports tomorrow. The steamer Gratwick is expected to sail from Chicago for the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company; the Huronic of the Northern Navigation company, from Sarnia; the Russia of the Port Huron & Duluth Transportation company, from Port Huron. The Anchor line, Western Transit company and Mutual Transit company will all send boats out of Buffalo.

There may be some delay in the start from Buffalo on account of the ice. Buffalo harbor is packed with ice, driven in by the wind, and it is doubtful if the boats can force a passage. The steamers Charles Beatty and Ketchum and the tug Torrent, which attempted to run the ice blockade and effect an entrance to Buffalo harbor this week, were forced to turn back after battling almost a whole day. It may be impossible for the freighters to force their way through.

There will probably not be a sailing from Duluth until next week. The Reynolds of the Mutual line will clear as soon as it is loaded, and the Troy of the Western will probably sail next Tuesday.

OPEN NEXT THURSDAY.

Booth Line Boat Will Make First Trip to Portage Lake.

The northeaster, which came up yesterday, prevented the sailing of the steamer America on her first trip of the season to Port Arthur, as scheduled. There will be no boat from Duluth to the Canadian port until Sunday. The America will sail at 10 o'clock Sunday morning and will continue on the north shore route for the season.

The steamer Easton is being fitted out and next Thursday the schedule on the south shore run will go into effect. Either the Moore or the Easton will sail for Houghton, Hancock, Eagle Harbor and other points on the south shore. The Moore will continue on the south shore route for the season and the Easton will alternate between the north and south shores.

TO LAUNCH LIVINGSTON.

New Tomlinson Boat Will Slide Into Water at Ecorse.

Tomorrow at the Ecorse yards of the Great Lakes Shipbuilding company, the steamer William Livingston, constructed there for G. A. Tomlinson of Duluth, will be given to the water. Mr. Tomlinson is in Detroit to attend the launching, which will be witnessed by a large party of people prominent in marine circles.

The Livingston is the third and last of three boats constructed this winter for Mr. Tomlinson and launched this spring. The Harry A. Berwind was launched at Detroit some weeks ago and the Hartley went into the water at Toledo three weeks ago. The Livingston is a duplicate of other new boats of the same fleet. She is 552 feet long over all, 58 feet beam and 32 feet depth. Capt. D. P. Crane will sail the new boat.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE OFF.

Lumber Carriers and Lake Seamen Cannot Reach Agreement.

Detroit, Mich., April 24.—The Lake Seamen's union last night broke off negotiations with the labor committee of the Lumber Carriers' association, protesting that after the seamen had requested a renewal of last year's wage scale, the carriers had submitted a counter proposition, which contained no statement of wages and simply bound the men to their ships. William Penje of Chicago, secretary of the Seamen said that the seamen, before leaving the conference, had agreed to allow Sunday work, to waive the prohibition against discharging a man except at the end of the trip, to accept the lumber carriers' interpretation of proper ventilation, to concede that vessels could be shifted at any time regardless of the "watch and watch" rule and to waive what is known as the fitting out class.

The Carriers will resume negotiations with the Cooks' and Firemens' unions. It is understood that the carriers are asking the cooks to accept a reduction in wages of $6 to $10 per month and the firemen to submit to a reduction from $50 to $45 per month.

Neff is Turned Out.

The steamer M. C. Neff, which was put in drydock at Grignon's shipyard about two weeks ago for repairs, has been turned into the water again and is lying in the slip at Second avenue west. Several tugs are still at Grignon's undergoing repairs preparatory to beginning the season's work.

Gould's cabin, met her at the door, lifted his hat and kissed her hand. The prince refused to be interviewed or make any statement. The tutor of Mme. Gould's children, however, in a brief interview, said:

"Rest assured that the marriage will occur, but nobody can say when or where. My conviction rests on what I have seen and heard from Mme. Gould. I am sure it is a true love match."

TERRORIST LEADER DEAD?

Remarkable Career and Strange Power Exercised by Gershuni.

St. Petersburg, April 24.—Gerstuni, the ex-student, pioneer and ruling spirit of the present revolutionary Terrorist movement in Russia, is reported by the newspapers to have died in exile, but a free man.

He escaped from a life sentence in the East Siberian political penal settlement two years ago by getting some fellow prisoners to conceal him in a coal barrel which, with a load of others, was to be taken further north. The driver was bribed and "lost" the barrel, its occupant escaping, after many perils, to Japan, and then to America.

Among his young comrades he was credited with strong powers of hypnotism, by which he became the real pivot of their movement. Most of the attempts against the heads of the Russian government in recent years were of his devising. It was his instruments who assassinated Prince Obolensky and M. de Plehve, and since his escape he organized some of the chief attempts of recent months.

He never took personal part in the actual deeds, but by choosing men among his desperate comrades, fascinating and frightening them, he directed the most daring coups.

Once, his friends admit, he was foiled completely. He had instigated an attempt on the life of the late M. Pobiedonostzeff, procurator of the Holy Synod, which was to be carried out at the funeral of M. Sipiaguine, the minister of the interior, whose execution he had decreed. For an assassin he had chosen a young subaltern of radical learnings. After four "seances" with Gershuni the officer promised to kill the procurator.

On the morning fixed for the deed the chief went to his agent's room and found him terrified from remorse, swearing that he could not commit murder. Gershuni upbraided and derided him, finally giving him a bottle of streng wine and telling him to do as he was bid. The officer went out obediently with his revolver and poisoned bullets and took his position on the line of the funeral procession.

As M. Pobiedonostzeff approached on foot the eyes of the two men met, and the would-be assassin, who had cowered under the eye of Gershuni, left himself even more helpless as the aged procurator's cold, gray, masterful eyes did not release their hold from him. It was as if they met and fought in a life and death combat and the terrorist was vanquished. He broke down, turned, and fled. They found him in his lodgings in a hysterical state, exhausted with throwing off the spell of Gershuni.

PETTICOAT INFLUENCE

Said to Have Caused the Downfall of a French Ambassador.

The Inside History of a Recent Incident at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, April 24.—The farewell dinner which M. and Mme. Izvolsky gave in honor of M. and Mme. Bompard was a very amusing affair for the onlookers, for everyone was perfectly well aware that the hostess had forced the French ambassador to resign in order to avenge herself on his wife. A charming story about Mme. Bompard was told in St. Petersburg almost as soon as the news arrived that her husband had been appointed ambassador. It was stid that one of the attaches of the Russian embassy in Paris called on her to offer his congratulations on M. Bompard's advancement and that she blandly remarked: "Well, we arranged affairs in Madagascar very nicely and I don't see why we should not do the same in Russia." Her visitor replied: "You will find the climate very different, madame."

According to her enemies in St. Petersburg society Mme. Bompard lived up to the reputation which preceded her, and a master stroke of tactlessness incensed the wife of the minister of foreign affairs and finally brought about the downfall of the ambassador. It was all about a bal poudre at the French embassy. Mme. Bompard made up her mind that the rooms should not be overcrowded and she refused to allow people who wanted to bring their nieces and cousins with them to do so. A lady in waiting on the Grand Duchess Vladimir wrote to ask if she might bring two nieces and was promptly told that it was out of the question and similar demands were met with stern refusal. In this way half the great ladies of the capital were mortally offended. But the ambassadress determined to make no exceptions and when Mme. Izvolsky asked if she might bring her niece she fared no better than the rest. However, that lady mentioned the matter to her husband and the next time that the ambassador called at the ministry of foreign affairs M. Izvolsky laughingly protested.

A Fatal Stipulation.

M. Bompard probably gave his wife a piece of his mind when he returned home; at any rate, the lady wrote a note to Mme. Izvolsky asking her to bring her niece to the ball. But she ruined her chances of re-establishing herself in her good graces by stipulating that the young lady should be passed off as a daughter instead of a niece. Naturally, she did not come to the ball, and Mme. Izvolsky, who could not stay away on account of her husband's position, arrived at the embassy in a Louis XV costume with a smile on her lips which was not entirely amiable.

A short time ago a private letter written by M. Bompard to a friend fell into the hands of his enemies. The ambassador had expressed himself very frankly, condemned the Russian government, showed up the rottenness of St. Petersburg society, dilated on the extravagance and viciousness of the grand dukes, and, worst of all, said that the French government should give Russia no further supplies of funds. Mme. got wind of the letter and saw her opportunity for revenge. She persuaded Prince Meschchersky to publish a biting attack on the ambassador in his paper, the Citizen.

The article appeared and was the one subject of conversation in the capital for a couple of days. Soon after its publication the ambassador and his wife went to a dinner party at the house of M. Branchaninoff, a wealthy man who writes for the Liberal papers. The hostess, a woman connected with half the great families in Russia, told the ambassador and his wife how shocked she had been to see the attack made on him, and the other guests expressed themselves in the same way. M. Bompard had made up his mind to ignore the statements made by Prince Meshchersky, but when the fact was forced on him that everyone was talking about them, he could not any longer pretend to do so, and he sent his resignation to the French government.

This is the inside history of a diplomatic incident which made much stir at the time and has never been fully explained before. It throws a lot of light on the kind of thing that mostly keeps great ambassadors busy. You can be assured that the French papers will copy it from your columns.

PRINCESS SUED FOR DEBT.

Disowned Daughter of Belgium King Again in Financial Trouble.

Paris, April 24.—Poor Princess Louise of Belgium is in trouble again. This time Count Festetics, an Austrian noble, is suing her for repayment of money lent. The sum advanced to the impecunious and disowned daughter of Leopold II. was about $20,000; and the princess has only managed to pay half of that amount. The count is hardly likely to get much satisfaction, for the attempted distraint on the jewels of the late Queen Marie Henriette, the princess's mother, seems to have been definitely shelved. However, both Louise and her sister, Stephanie, have great expectations from the private Congo estate of their royal sire when the latter dies. Both princesses are past mistresses in the part of spending money; but there is this difference between them—that while Stephanie has in Count Lonyay a rich, though despised, husband, her elder sister not only has no husband to pay her debts, but cannot even get her yearly allowance out of her stony-hearted papa.

If You Are "Blue," This Will Make You Pink.

Are you ever "blue"? As a rule people with stomach disorders always are. If before breakfast, dinner and supper you do not feel a hearty-hungry feeling and longing for food of almost any kind, if you feel finicky and want something to eat but can't say what, then you are most likely bordering on chronic dyspepsia.

If you feel, bloated, have heartburn, sour stomach, bad breath, and feel languid, dull or nervous and irritable, then you surely have need for the following simple recipe, which it is claimed has cured many famous people. The Battle Creek specialist who first announced its wonderful efficacy says: "I have prescribed it for several years with the utmost success. Its power over stomach disorders is now well known to many physicians, and probably lies in the peculiar blending properties of concentrated essences. Take a half-pint bottle and get two ounces of syrup of Ginger and two ounces of essence of Pepsin mixed together. Then get that rare but most valuable concentration known as essence of Cardiol, which is packed in one-ounce packages only. Take this and mix all together. Then take one or two teaspoonfuls after each meal. To excite appetite, take a spoonful before eating. May be taken freely by adults and children with weak stomachs."

SNUFF HABIT ON INCREASE

Its Manufacture is Now a Large Industry in Ireland.

Dublin, April 24.—Snuffmaking is a considerable industry in Ireland. In England its use is largely on the increase in towns, though decreasing in the country. An immense amount is consumed at the general postoffice, and both wholesale and retail drapery establishments are excellent customers of the snuffmakers.

"The bulk of snuff takers are women of the working classes in the north of England, who would think it improper to smoke," says the representative of a large English firm. "My firm alone sends half a ton of snuff to Newcastle every month. Dundee takes snuff to the extent of half a ton a week, and Edinburgh and London comes next in proportion to their populations."

Snuff stalls are very conspicuous at the tobacco exhibition in London, and probably it is only an accident that articles lauding the virtues of snuff as a preventive of various diseases have been circulated in the English newspapers at a time when the manufacturers are giving special prominence to the product. Much snuff is used in the factories at Belfast.

WOMAN SCORNED, TAKES REVENGE WITH REVOLVER.

Geneva, April 24.—Arthur Weber, a young man employed in a tobacco factory at Reinach, in the Canton of Argovie, was shot by a woman a couple of days ago under the most dramatic circumstances. For some time past Weber had been pestered by the woman—a beautiful young Italian. She declared that she had fallen violently in love with him and implored him to marry her.

Unfortunately, Weber's affections were engaged elsewhere, and when he informed the Italian of this fact she threatened to kill him if he did not marry her. She nearly carried out her threat when, with a revolver in her hand, she entered the factory, brushed by the workmen, and going up to Weber, shot him in the back.

"This is my revenge," she said, and, throwing down the revolver, she walked out of the factory before any of the astonished workmen could interfere. She was arrested the same night. Her victims is dangerously wounded, and there is little hope of his recovery.

KAISER IS SHOCKED

By the Democratic Manner of Germany's Crown Prince.

Berlin, April 24.—The kaiser and his eldest son have not been on the best of terms lately, but the alleged cause seems hardly adequate to justify any serious estrangement. It is understood the emperor considers that both the crown prince and the crown princess were not sufficiently dignified and reserved in their attitude towards the cosmopolitan crowd of visitors at St. Moritz, where they recently spent a prolonged holiday. He was particularly annoyed at the character of certain photographs which showed his son and daughter-in-law tobogganing with their male friends before the admiring gaze of the vulgar crowd, and used very blunt language in expressing his displeasure. The prince resented this, and has now become all the more determined to have his own way about his projected visit to London in the early summer.

CATTLE DRIVING NOT NOW POLITICAL FORCE.

Dublin, April 24.—Cattle-driving has at any rate for the present ceased to be a force in Irish politics. The deal between the chief secretary and the Roman Catholic hierarchy over the state-aided Roman Catholic university bill, inaugurated the "give Birrell a chance" campaign, and, as a natural corollary, cattle driving was scotched. A United Irish league executive meeting, held here, has given its death-blow. Prior to the meeting it was an open secret that the future of cattle driving was to be discussed. The local league organ devoted columns of space to the subject, and demanded an authoritative pronouncement from the Irish party. Michael Reddy, M.P. for the division, traveled from London specially to represent John Redmond and his party at the meeting, but, strange to say, not a word was said about cattle driving. Mr. Reddy had a mandate from his colleagues that they could no longer support it. The bishops had publicly disapproved of it, and the priests, taking their cue from their superiors, had denounced it as immoral. So the Irish party bowed to the inevitable and not a word was said about the matter at the league meeting.

Apart from the other considerations, cattle driving brought about a state of commercial insecurity, and threatened widespread bankruptcy. Hundreds of farmers are practically ruined because they cannot get accommodation from the joint stock banks. The latter will not lend $25 on security that a couple of years was good for ten times the amount. Every local newspaper is full of auctions of farms, and the marketable value of land has certainly depreciated at least 20 per cent since the beginning of 1807. The merchant, the farmer and the laborer everywhere have the one complaint, and the outlook for the future is black indeed.

WOULD LOWER THE PRICE OF DIAMONDS.

London, April 24.—The big diamond mine owners of South Africa are apparently beginning to realize that the price of diamonds can be too high. That at least, is the suggestion of Mr. Henderson, a former mayor of Kimberley. He holds that the price of diamonds should be lowered so as to bring the gems within the reach of the masses in Europe and America. Lowering prices, increasing the output, and giving increased employment, especially to white labor, is the object of the ex-mayor's proposal. Obviously it would save the mine owners, in advance, from the possibility of a future struggle with a new mine, which might appear in German Africa and cut suddenly into their prices.

HAS STARTED AGAIN.

Mysterious Revival of Clock After Silence of Thirty Years.

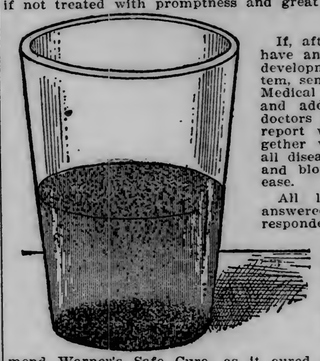

Philadelphia, Pa., April 24.—Stopping more than thirty years ago at the exact moment that its owner, Christian C. Gronbeck, first president of the Danish Society of Philadelphia, died, despite the efforts of nearly a score of expert clockmakers to make it run, a French clock owned by Mrs. Harry Foster, Gronbeck's daughter, a resident of Darby, has suddenly started ticking again.

Mrs. Foster's home was destroyed by fire, and to the surprise of all concerned the clock has been running ever since. For fifteen minutes the clock endured a terrific temperature. The glass dome was broken by the heat. When the firemen arrived the clock was among the few articles saved. When picked up it was ticking, after a silence of three decades. It is supposed that the fire caused the spring to expand, which set the clock in motion.

All letters from women read and answered by a woman doctor. All correspondence in strictest confidence.

Thousands of unsolicited letters are received daily from grateful men and women who have been cured by Warner's Safe Cure.

Mr. Chas. A. Gregory of 2238 Larimer St., Denver, Colo., a prominent Knight of Pythias, recently wrote:

"I am very pleased to recommend Warner's Safe Cure, as it cured me of a severe case of Kidney trouble, from which I had been suffering for several years. After having used several remedies without results, I was induced to try Warner's Safe Cure. I found, in a couple of weeks, that it was beneficial. I soon got rid of the aches and pains in my back and loins. My ankles and feet did not swell up as badly and in two months the swelling had entirely disappeared—the urine was healthy—the waste matter carried off through the proper channels and now I feel perfectly well and ten years younger.

When the kidneys are diseased the uric acid is not carried off and this causes Gout, Lumbago, Rheumatism of the Joints, Rheumatism of the Muscles, Rheumatism of the Heart, Rheumatism everywhere. Warner's Safe Cure drives out the uric acid and purifies the kidneys and bladder.

In kidney disease the bowels are often constipated and the liver torpid. Warner's Safe Pills quickly relieve this condition, and no ill after effect is experienced.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE is put up in two sizes and is sold by all druggists, or direct, at 50 CENTS and $1.00 A BOTTLE. Refuse substitutes containing harmful drugs which injure the system.

TRIAL BOTTLE FREE! To convince every sufferer from disease of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood that WARNER'S SAFE CURE will absolutely cure, a trial bottle will be sent FREE OF CHARGE, postpaid, to any one who will write WARNER'S SAFE CURE CO., Rochester, N. Y., and mention having seen this liberal offer in the Duluth Evening Herald. The genuineness of this offer is fully guaranteed by the publisher.

TREATIES SIGNED.

Berlin, April 23.—The North Sea and Baltic treaties were signed at the foreign office today by Herr Von Schoen, German secretary for foreign affairs, and the British and French ambassadors and the Danish, Dutch and Swedish ministers to Germany. It is expected that an agreement will be reached by the powers concerned regarding the time when the text of these treaties is to be made public.

TO PROTECT LIQUOR SELLERS.

Albany, N. Y., April 23.—Both houses of the legislature today passed a bill, which if approved by the governor, will prevent a liquor seller from being put out of business by the erection of a church or school within 200 feet of his place of business.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

FLEET MAY RETURN TO SANTA BARBARA.

Santa Barbara, Cal., April 23.—In confirmation of recent publications to the effect that the Atlantic battleship fleet will return here after the review by Secretary of the Navy Metcalf in San Francisco bay, an advertisement has been inserted in a local paper by the navy department asking for bids for supplies for the battleships. The bids are to be opened here May 12, and it is assumed that the supplies are to be taken aboard the warships shortly afterwards.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a flower which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. Few young women appreciate the shock of the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed comeliness. More than a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and make its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine, nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Bad Symptoms. The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional indorsement of each of its several ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as complete and correct.

In any condition of the female system Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of the "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Doctor's All Agree. The most eminent writers on Materia Medica, whose works are consulted as authorities by physicians of all the different schools of practice, extol, in the most positive terms, the curative virtues of each and every ingredient entering into Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. In fact it is the only medicine, put up for sale through druggists for the cure of all diseases of the mucous surfaces, as nasal catarrh, throat, laryngeal, and bronchial affections attended by lingering, or hang-on-coughs that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any amount of lay or non-professional testimonials.

Do not expect too much from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will not work miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. Nor is the "Discovery" so good for a sudden attack of acute cough, but for the lingering, obstinate, hang-on-coughs, accompanying catarrhal, throat, laryngeal and bronchial affections, it is a most efficacious remedy. In cases accompanied with wasting of flesh, night-sweats, weak stomach and poor digestion with faulty assimilation, and which, if neglected or badly treated are apt to lead to consumption, the "Discovery" has proven wonderfully successful in effecting cures.

The formula is printed on every wrapper of "Golden Medical Discovery," attested as to correctness under oath, and you can't afford to accept any substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret remedy no matter what selfish interests may prompt the dealer to urge such upon you. In fact it is an insult to your intelligence for him to do so. You know what you want and it is his place to supply that want.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They cleanse, invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels, curing biliousness and constipation. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce may be consulted by letter free of charge. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

MINOT'S MAYOR MEANS BUSINESS

One of His First Orders is Better Observance of Law.

Minot, N. D., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)— Mayor Clark, who assumed the reins of the city government Tuesday evidently intends to see that there is a strict enforcement of laws as one of his first orders was to the chief of police to striotly enforce every law.

The new mayor's appointments were as follows: Chief of police, Thomas E. Hagen; city auditor, George Morrow; city attorney, Robert H. Bosard; city engineer, Ed Severance; street commissioner, J. L. Hyatt; fire team driver, Ed McDermott.

In giving Chief Hagen his instructions, Mayor Clark laid particular stress on the fact that the sale of cigarettes, tobacco, dime novels and everything in fact that would have a tendency to demoralize the youth of the city must cease at once. Any pool hall proprietor who shall allow minors to frequent his place will be arrested at once and will be severely dealt with.

Every bawdy house and the people who frequent these places must leave the city at once; they will no longer be tolerated within the city limits, and even while outside of the city limits they will be at all times under strict police surveillance.

CLEANER GRAND FORKS.

May Day Will See General Clean-Up in That City.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks is to have such a cleaning up on May day as was never known in the history of the city. As the result of plans which have been under consideration for several months past by the Women's Civic league an organized effort will be put into execution on that date which is expected to result not only in ridding the city of offensive rubbish, leaving its public and private grounds, streets, avenues, alleys and by places in a cleanly condition, but to maintain a condition of scrupulous neatness throughout the year and eventually to beautify the city by the cultivation of flowers and the improvement of lawns to a much larger extent than heretofore about the homes of the city, and to also improve and embellish to some extent vacant property. In fact Grand Forks is to be made "The City Beautiful" by concerted and aggressive effort of its citizens.

That Sole LEATHER BURN

¶ All sole leather looks the same.

Some manufacturers can't select the best sole leather. Others won't.

To be on the safe side we select the leather for the soles of our shoes.

You have put on a pair of nice appearing shoes, and after wearing them a short time the soles of your feet began to smart.

Do you know what caused it?

The sole leather was acid tanned. The perspiration from the feet caused the acid to act. Perhaps it created blisters.

Oak-tanned sole leather won't do that—can't do it. There is no virile acid in oak-tanned sole leather. That is why we insist on oak-tanned sole leather on our shoes. And we get it.

That is the reason why people who buy their shoes at Suffel's never complain that their feet burn. They never have any other complaint either.

Suffel's shoes are made right from the cutting of the leather to the silk stitching in the uppers. They are made as strong as shoes can be. Suffel's shoes are always the most stylish; they fit the feet right.

When you need another pair of shoes come to Suffel's and give your feet a treat by having a Suffel expert shoeman fit you with shoes adapted to the individual and peculiar shape of your foot. We'll guarantee your foot troubles will be over. Very few men know how to fit shoes properly; Suffel's experts do know, and do it. Shoes for all the family.

WILL ELECT OFFICERS

Adams School Alumni Association to Hold Important Meeting.

Other News of the Western End of the City.

The alumni association of the Adams school will hold an important meeting at the school this evening, when officers to serve during the ensuing year will be elected and the time and place for the annual banquet will be decided upon.

W. E. McEwen is president of the association now and the members are anxious to have him serve again. Mr. McEwen will not take the office for another year, however, as he declares that he has not the time. There are several aspirants and the election tonight should be quite a spirited proceeding.

The banquet will probably be held next month some time and in the school house. The one last year was a huge success and it is planned to have this year's function far outshine it. Invitations will be sent to all the former students of the school whose addresses are known to the arrangements committee.

There are a number of men, now in different lines of business here, who went to the Adams school in their younger days and some of them will be invited to speak.

The Adams school is one of the oldest in the city.

FARNUM SUED BY HIS WIFE

Mrs. Dustin Farnum Makes Application for Absolute Divorce.

New York, April 24.—Dustin Farnum, the young actor who was mentioned by Howard Gould in his answer to the suit brought by his wife, Katherine Clemons, for separation, is being sued by his wife, Agnes Johnston Farnum, for absolute divorce. The papers were handed to Justice Dowling in the supreme court Wednesday, and in response to requests of counsel for both sides, Former Lieutenant Governor M. Linn Bruce was appointed referee. Every possible effort to keep the matter quiet was made, the style of suit being "A. Johnston Farnum vs. D. Lancy Farnum."

The young leading man's middle name may be Lancy, but no one ever called him by it, and "A. Johnston Farnum" is not at all suggestive of Mrs. Dustin Farnum.

"The troubles of Dustin Farnum and his wife would have come to a head some weeks ago had it not been for the unpleasant notoriety thrust upon the actor through the mention of his name by Howard Gould," said a friend of Mrs. Farnum. "This action—the Farnum case—predates any publications of a disagreement in the Gould family, and would have been brought long ago had it not been for complications caused by Mr. Gould."

It was charged that Mrs. Gould had followed Farnum about the country when he was starring in "The Virginian," had entertained him frequently and had taken him for long rides in her automobile.

"Mrs. Gould's name is not mentioned," said a friend of Mr. Farnum, "nor are any of the other co-respondents. Although it is necessary to prove a statutory offense in New York to secure an absolute divorce such as is being sued for, we understand the case will not be contested excepting in a formal manner. This would have certainly been the case had not Farnum's name come out in the Gould suit. But, of course, there is a bare chance that this will bring about some sort of a compliication that may alter this understanding.

"In these papers," he continued, "Mrs. Farnum asks only for the decree of absolute divorce. Later she will make application for counsel fees and allmony."

FIREMAN IS ROUTED BY SIX-FOOT ALLIGATOR.

Fargo, N. D., April 24.—Flight to the basement of the Grand theater saved the life of Ed Manning, assistant chief of the Fargo fire department, who was attacked by a vicious alligator yesterday afternoon. The animal was left in a long crate unsecured. Manning's curiosity took him too close to the brute, which, rearing up, made for the fire fighter. After a struggle with its trainer, the alligator, measuring six feet, was overcome and placed in a crate.

CERTIFICATE.

Being a state official and authorized to administer oaths and certify documents, I hereby certify that correspondence laid before me this morning from an Eastern city, states as follows: "A Dr.. B——, an old practitioner in this city has had Bright's Disease for years, is bed ridden, and is simply waiting for his time. He has taken three bottles of Fulton's Renal Compound with more than the usual results, Wednesday, of last week, a brother physician called to see him. The latter, upon finding he was better, asked what he was taking. Dr. B—— replied, "It is in the window." The Dr.'s rejoinder was, "And so you are taking that stuff, too, are you? I had a severe case of Diabetes in a patient who left this city and whom I expected to die. Yesterday I had a letter from him stating that he had taken Fulton's Compound and was well."

The following report is made by another prominent physician in the same city, using Fulton's Compound on an acute case of Bright's—"case is now on the second bottle, with astonishing results."

Witness my hand and seal in evidence of the genuineness of this correspondence affixed at Oakland, Cal., this December 28th, 1907.

(Seal.) T. C. LANDREGAN, Notary Public.

No matter whether you call it kidney trouble, Nephritis or Bright's Disease, it is a case of inflamed kidneys, and as the old-time kidney medicines are kidney excitants, it is clear why they are futile. Fulton's Renal Compound is the first successful Renal emollient thus reducing kidney inflammation, which is now curable for the first time. Even the serious, supposed incurable forms yield.

ADMITS SELF DESTRUCTION.

Note on Body of Dead Man Saying He Killed Himself.

Spooner, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Unke has arrived here with the coroner of Beltrami county, after examining the body found by Arthur Skepel, which proves the correctness of the theory that the body was that of his brother, Henry Unke, and that he killed himself.

A not was found in one of the pockets, stating that he died at his own hands. A revolver was lying on his breast, and it is supposed the shot was fired at the head, as that part of his body was missing. It is probable the parts of the head were carried off by some wild beast.

WELL-KNOWN FARMER DEAD.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 24.—Nic Laubach, a well-known Spring Hill farmer, is dead at the age of 68 years. He passed away at Melrose, where he moved only recently.

The deceased was born in Germany in the year 1840. He came to this country when a young man, and at first located in the East. Forty years ago he moved to Minnesota and took up a homestead in the town of Spring Hill.

TRAVELING MAN TAKES POISON AND SUCCUMBS.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 24.—Otto Peters, 43 years old, was found dead in the toilet room in the Old Style inn yesterday. He had been dead about twenty-four hours, and had evidently taken carbolic acid. Peterson was a traveling salesman for a Baltimore clothing firm, and made his headquarters at the Midland hotel in this city.

NADEAU THIRTY MILES AWAY, MAKES THRILLING JOURNEY.

Menominee, Mich., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is estimated that the damage caused by the fire which destroyed the Nadeau Bros.' mill at that village will amount to close to $10,000. The $5,000 estimate given by Louis Dobeas covered only a portion of the damage. The mill itself was worth the greater part of the latter figure, and the machinery far out-totaled the balance. The lumber and the other stock which were consumed were worth several thousands of dollars. The mill will probably be rebuilt, although the owners say that they have not as yet decided what will be done. One of the thrilling features of the fire was the ride of Louis Nadeau from Menominee, where he was when he heard of the fire. Hiring an auto and an expert chauffeur, he immediately set out at a law-defying speed to his burning property, which was thirty miles away.

James also returned and is able to be about with the aid of crutches.

BIG FARM SALE.

Eau Claire, Wis., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The biggest real estate transaction of the season was the sale, the other day, of the Porter property, sometimes known as the "Horn farm," between Porter's mills and this city. This splendid farm, all bottom land, was sold to a Chicago concern for $28,000. Commodore Kim Rosholt, the banker, has the particulars of the transaction and will place them before the public in a few days.

WEATHER RECORD BROKEN.

Moorhead, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Observer Grasse states that Tuesday broke the record of the local weather bureau for April weather at that date. On April 25, 1891, it was 91, and on April 27, 1897, it was 90, but at no time in the history of the Moorhead weather bureau has 90 degrees been reached as early in April as the 21. The previous high record for that date runs about 86 degrees.

DOCTORS NOT IMMUNE.

Oshkosh, Wis., April 24.—Hastening to an emergency case is no excuse for violating the auto speed law. This was the ruling made by Judge A. H. Goss in municipal court, when Dr. Neil Andrews was brought into court. Dr. Andrews was charged with running his auto on Merritt street at more than twelve miles an hour, Sunday afternoon. He admitted the charge, but said he was on his way to an emergency case. He paid a fine of $10 and costs.

STUNNED BY LIGHTNING.

Deadwood, S. D., April 24.—In the first thunderstorm of the season lightning struck the new home of L. A. Carlson, a section boss on the Northwestern railroad, five miles east of Deadwood. Mrs. Carlson, her son and baby were stunned, but escaped serious injury. Flames consumed the house, and Carlson's roll of savings in the chimney.

YOUNG COUPLE WEDS.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Bruce, aged 18 years, and Agnes Marie Johnson, aged 18, were married yesterday by Judge Church. They are the youngest couple for whom licenses have been issued for a long period in the office of Judge L. K. Hassell of the probate court.

The consent of Bruce's father to the match was secured.

SAVINGS OF YEARS GONE.

Waseca, Minn., April 24.—The overturning of a lamp in the farmhouse of Andrew Erno, residing near this city, caused the destruction of the house and all the household goods. Among the things burned was a trunk containing several hundred dollars in bills, which represented his savings for years.

NEW COMPANIES ORGANIZED.

St. Paul, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Vig-Johns Hardware company of Litchfield, has filed articles of incorporation with the state. The capital stock is $25,000. O. N. and Edward Vig and W. H. Johns are the incorporators.

The Long Iron company of Duluth also filed articles with the state. The incorporators are R. F. Grant, F. W. Sullivan and S. L. McNulty. The capital stock is $50,000.

PASS JOHNSON BACK.

Menominee, Mich., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles O. Johnson, a Calumet jeweler, who has been wandering about Menominee for the past two weeks, was taken into custody by the police and yesterday was sent back to Calumet. Johnson's life has been rather a roaming one, as the Calumet authorities shipped him to Hancock, and the officials there sent him on to Menominee.

PRIMARY LAW UPHELD.

Pierre, S. D., April 24.—The state supreme court has sustained the state primary law in general, but cut out a few features, none of which, however, affects the validity of the law.

WILL BEGIN LONG TERM

May Term of District Court Will Open May 6.

Jury Lists Will be in Sheriff's Hands This Week.

The May term of the district court will begin Wednesday, May 6. There still remain a few more days during which the notes of issues for cases to be tried at the coming term may be filed with the clerk of the district court. It is expected that the grand and petit jury lists will be in the hands of the sheriff by tomorrow so that summonses may be issued and placed in the hands of the deputies for service. The May term is the longest of the season in that it is likely to last four instead of two months. The court business is usually pretty well cleaned up by the first or middle of July. Outside of an occasional court case or the hearing of motions the judges have from a month to a month and a half interval in which they are not so busy as during the other terms of the year.

The number of new cases to be filed for trial next term is comparatively few, but there may be many which will come in just before the expiration of the time for filing.

The prospects are that there will be at least one and probably two murder cases for trial next term.

ANCIENT RIVALRY AGAIN CROPS OUT

Each of Twin Cities Desires Its Talent be Recognized.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The traditional rivalry between Minneapolis and St. Paul that has been more or less of a joke for years is by no means dead and continually crops out. The latest manifestation is the difference that has developed over the acceptance of a design for the Col. Colville statue. Maj. C. B. Heffelfinger, Judge William Lochren and other veterans of the famous First Minnesota regiment, believe that Mrs. George J. Backus' model for the statue of Col. William Colville, for which funds were appropriated by the Minnesota state legislature, should be accepted. Despite the recommendation of the State Art society that the award go to J. K. Daniels of St. Paul, it may yet be given to the Minneapolis woman. The monument commission will be asked to make a thorough investigation before the award is made. The members of the statue commission are Maj. C. B. Heffelfinger of Minneapolis, M. T. Taylor of Anoka, J. N. Searles of Stillwater, R. L. Gorman and H. T. Bevans of St. Paul.

When the legislature granted the appropriation of $10,000 for a statue to be raised to William Colville, colonel of the famous First Minnesota regment, Cass Gilbert was asked to suggest some Minnesota sculptors, who might compete for the honor of modeling the statue. Mr. Gilbert was the architect of the new state capitol, and as the statue was to occupy a niche in the rotunda of the capitol it was though he might have some suggestions to make. He did—but they were not in line with those of the statue commission.

"There is no one in Minnesota who can make a statue suitable for the capitol," he said decidedly.

It was hinted that until Mr. Gilbert did it, no one had supposed a Minnesota architect could erect such an artistic building as the new state capitol. The architect shrugged his shoulders and looked things that somebody translated: "But there is only one Cass Gilbert."

CONSPIRACY UNEARTHED

President Cabrera Tells of Plot Against His Life.

Guatemala City, Guatemala, April 24.—President Cabrera, against whose life an attempt was made by students on Monday last, yesterday received the representatives of the various powers and made a lengthy statement to them that he had unearthed an extensive conspiracy against him that led to his attempted assassination. He declared that eighteen of the leaders had been shot to death by his orders, and that the death penalty would be meted out to others at the hands of the military. Among these are the men who were imprisoned a year ago, having been implicated in a plot to assassinate the president. They were sentenced to death soon after their arrest, but the sentence had not been carried out.

The president has issued a proclamation stating that he is confident the people are with him, and that he will preserve order with a strong hand. Although there is a surface tranquility here, conditions are serious. The military is in control of the city, and a partial suspension of business has resulted. The revolutionary feeling is strong in many quarters, and there are those who will not hesitate to go to any length or face any danger in their efforts to make away with the president. Cabrera, for this reason, has been seen but twice or thrice in public in the last few months.

DREDGING HAS COMMENCED.

Work Started for the Season at Fort Williams, Ont.

Fort William, Ont., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dredging for the season of 1908 has commenced. Work will be concentrated at the commencement on the Mission branch, and the dredges will work also in dredging out the channel at the entrance to the Mission river. During the winter months the dredges have all undergone extensive repairs and alterations, and although they are not all ready to start today, No. 8 and No. 5 will be in commission, dragging up from the bed of the river tons and tons of sand and impediments.

The inspectors for the season will be: Chief Inspector McColl on the dredge Dominion; Inspector F. J. Flanagan, No. 8; A. G. Forest, on No. 5, and J. Horrigan on No. 7.

The Dominion has been fitted with underfeed boilers, steam dumping apparatus and new gears, and is probably one of the finest and most complete dredges at work on the continent. W. P. Merrick, the government engineer, is in complete charge of all the work, and efforts are being made to have the Dominion government extend the work by enlarging the width of the navigable channel to such a width as to provide for all contingencies.

CALLS SPECIAL SESSION.

Governor Hughes Summons New York Legislature for May 11.

Albany, April 24.—The legislature of 1908 closed its regular session yesterday afternoon. The echoes of its closing hours had hardly died away before Governor Hughes caused to be filed a proclamation, summoning an extraordinary session, to begin on Monday, May 11.

The proclamation gives no intimation of the purpose for which the governor calls the extra session. He would make no statement last night. The general expectation that he will recommend for consideration the propositions of his annual and special messages of this year, which the legislature failed to enact.

BANDITS HANGED.

Manila, April 24.—Ciphen Omongo, alias Tiducduc, and Afronio Fernandez, noted bandits, were privately hanged at Bilbi prison, yesterday. Omongo practically started the Pulajane movement in Samar. Fernandez participated in the attack on Leyte, and aided in the killing of four policemen and the burning of the municipal buildings.

Remarkable Luck of a Young Roulette Player at Monte Carlo.

Monte Carlo, April 24.—There is nothing that "booms" the business of the gambling tables here like an occasional sensational success on the part of a punter. A fresh lure for fortune-hunters has thus been provided by a recent thrilling incident at the casino. Entering the rooms, a young man proceeded to plaster a number with rouleaux to louis, and amid the greatest excitement on the part of the onlookers, twice succeeded in bringing off a maximum en plein on No. 5. The result was that in less than five minutes he was richer by nearly $25,000, which he had the common sense and coolness to take away there and then.

CONGRESSMAN TAWNEY SUFFERS FROM INJURIES.

Washington, April 24.—Representative Tawney of Minnesota, who was injured in a street car accident, remained in his hotel apartments yesterday. He suffered considerable pain from his injury, and it was said today that he might not return to the capitol this week. B. F. Oden, private secretary to Representative Flood of Virginia, also is confined to his nome as a result of the accident.

As the result of Mr. Tawney's absence from the capitol the house committee on appropriations of which he is chairman, postponed until Saturday its report on the sundry civil bill carrying over $100,000,000.

INSTRUCTED FOR TAFT.

Nashville, Tenn., April 23.—The Republicans of the Eighth congressional district met at Camden yesterday and nominated P. H. Thrasher for congress. Roosevelt's administration was indorsed and the delegates were instructed for Taft for president and H. Clay Evans for vice president.

NOT MANY IDLE.

Small Number of Union Men Are Now Out of Work.

Michael J. Harney, agent for the Structural Building Trades' alliance, stated last evening that out of the 1,600 men in Duluth who had been affected by the lock-out, only about 320 are out of employment. All the rest are at work and are doing well.

"The list of union men taking contracts for themselves is every day increasing," he said. "These union contractors are employing a number of their fellow unionists. It looks as if all of our men will be working by summer, as the conditions are improving right along.

"The existing troubles, so far as I know, stand just about the same. Conferences with the Builders' exchange have been refused us by the members of that organization, and we surely will not make any more advances. That we are strong and still able to get along nicely is shown by our competition for work."

CHASING BEARS through the tall timber gave our forefathers stomachs that could digest anything. The man with his nose on a desk has to "coddle" his stomach. The best "coddler" is "FORCE" the food that combines the life of the wheat with the soothing, invigorating tonic of barley-malt. Try it for breakfast. You will like the sweet, crisp, malty flakes.

"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam-cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "crisp" it before serving it by pouring into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.

Your Grocer sells it. No other Flaked Food is "Just as Good."

HOW GERMANY DOES IT.

Because the opponents of measures tending to deprive stock and grain speculation of some of their grosser evils are declaring that ruin to the country will follow the adoption of such regulations, it is worth while to note that Germany has laws much more rigid than any now proposed in this country, and that the ruin predicted has not followed their adoption there.

Stock speculation in Germany is under strict government control. Dealing on margins is absolutely prohibited, and so are dealings in "futures." There is a penalty of fine and imprisonment for any broker, speculator or other middleman who buys or sells products of the soil or factory or mine except in the process of distribution.

All stocks and bonds, before being admitted to any of the German bourses, must be examined by a government committee. A prospectus must be presented, and there are severe criminal penalties for making false statements. This includes withholding pertinent information. Stocks of new corporations are admitted only after a balance sheet has been published at the expiration of a year. No transactions may take place on the bourse except in bonds or stocks that have been regularly admitted.

Furthermore, no one may speculate in stocks except registered brokers. This means just what it says, and it is intended to prevent merchants, business men and others from speculating. If they wish to speculate, they must register as stock dealers. If any one who has not registered speculates, the party with whom he deals takes the risk of repudiation, because no stock transactions except between registered brokers are enforceable at law. Unauthorized stock transactions are placed upon the same plane as gambling debts.

That does not mean that investment, as distinguished from speculation, is curbed in the slightest degree. Any private investor may buy stock of a registered broker, pay for it and take it away. But no "investor" can buy a hundred shares of $100 stock at $10 a share, and settle later on a basis of the difference in price. No "investor" may sell stock which he does not possess to a man who does not want to buy it. No "wash sales," fictitious transactions designed to fix the market price of a stock, are permitted.

All prices are fixed by the government committee through official "quotation brokers," who can have no other business. It is the duty of these brokers to prevent manipulation of prices by "wash sales" or other devices. The prices as fixed by the committee through the quotation brokers are official prices. There is no chance to "rig the market" in order to shear the lambs for the benefit of the bulls and bears whose warfare between themselves is just pretended, and whose only real warfare is a campaign of plunder upon outsiders. It is a crime for a broker to give false advice, and the stock ticker is prohibited.

Yet Germany seems to keep up fairly well under it. It has fifteen bourses, and not a single Wall street. It has an aristocracy, but no arrogant plutocracy. We should have found it hard to build up our plutocracy without the friendly aid of Wall street.

THE ECONOMICS OF ADVERTISING.

Julius Chambers, in an entertaining and philosophical article in the Brooklyn Eagle, explains lucidly and convincingly why advertising an active business should not be regarded as an extra expense, but a fixed charge like rent, heat or insurance. The owner of the property pays part of the advertising charge because he doesn't receive any more rent if your business is increased thereby. You do not pay any more insurance or light bills, even if your trade be doubled by the new custom brought by your publicity.

This is illustrated by the case of a merchant who fails to see the need of advertising, and that of one who sees the profit in it. The first merchant pays $1,000 per month rent and $27,500 per month in salaries; $400 for light and heat and $1,600 for office and stable expenses, making a total of $30,000 a month. He is a careful buyer, a quick seller—because he keeps his stock close to the sales limit—and if he clears up a profit of $1,200 to $1,500 per day he is well satisfied. According to old methods, he is doing a "safe and sane business," with a profit of $35,000 a month.

There is another merchant on the same street who hasn't quite so much capital, but more energy and more modern methods. He pays the same rent, his salary list is $30,000 per month, and the cause of his larger pay roll is that he spends $5,000 per month in advertising, which brings more business. His light, heat and office expenses are practically the same, say $2,000 per month. This makes a total of $38,000 per month, including the advertising at $60,000 a year. The average net profit, figured at twenty-five days per month, last year was $285 per day, or $82,125 per month—less the cost of his advertising, namely, $5,000. This is kept in a separate account, although it is regarded as a fixed charge. Even assuming that the $2,500 additional salaries paid be deducted, making $7,500 in all, he has a monthly profit of $74,625, as compared with his competitor's $35,000, who employs the same capital but does not turn it so often.

"Now I reach the fine point," says Chambers; "does the customer or the merchant pay that $5,000 per month for advertising? Absolutely not, and permit me to show you why not. The landlord stands part of the expense, because he does not receive any more rent, as he would if the increase in business came from the increased value of the location. The salesmen in the second instance stand part of the expense, because they receive only a slightly larger percentage in wages, although they sell three times as much merchandise. The electric light and coal companies pay part, because they do not receive any more money from the second merchant than they do from the first.

"This same principle applies to any mercantile business conducted under fixed charges. The non-advertiser saves the money he'd spend in lost trade!"

NEW COLLEGE WRECKING COURSES.

The architecture and construction of new buildings being already among the courses of some universities, the preliminary study on how to destroy old ones, recently adopted by the Michigan university, is attracting considerable attention. It overlaps the athletic courses now constituting so large a fraction of university instruction and so will probably engage the interest of future subfreshmen and of those parents who consult the base and football scores before selecting for their offspring a grand-stand seat of learning. Already a law-abiding father telegraphed his young Ann Arbor rioter to "cheer up," for he would stand by him and furnish bail.

As this new course of study prospers, we shall read now and again:

"New Haven—The Yale picked wrecking crew of 175 stalwart men in the finest training, backed by 2,500 students, today tore down the new million dollar courthouse, in 18 minutes, beating the record by three minutes. Morris Johnson, the crack demolisher of the university, led the valiant hosts of Yale. His feat of pulling down the handsome Grecian portico in five minutes aroused the greatest enthusiasm. The students went wild with cheering. The town is ablaze tonight with students celebrating the event.

"The students had been recently fined in the courthouse for disorderly conduct in the streets. There is talk of challenging Harvard to tackle the Boston state house, the Massachusetts legislature having lately passed a law making it a felony to wantonly destroy a building without the owner's permission."

"Chicago—On account of the refusal of the prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company to dine with Don Conners, head of the Flying Squad of the Athletico-Architectural department of the university, he led a picked crew of 250 men against the Auditorium in the presence of 10,000 spectators, including 3,500 students; tearing it to pieces in 35 minutes. Considering the size and strength of the building the national championship will now go to the Chicago university."

Of course the faculties of the various institutions of learning will regret that so much of the students' time and attention will be diverted by this new and thriving department of erudition; but, as even more than athletics, it will build up their physiques, make them manly and courageous, discourage mollycoddles, and fit them to fight the battles of life, university authorities will feel obliged to favor this absorbing addition to their program of studies.

LEGACIES TO WIDOWS.

Very often legacies left to widows are dissipated through incompetent management, and some valuable counsel for the widow which is given by a writer in World's Work deserves wide circulation, with the hope that the advice thus volunteered may prevent unfortunate cases of this kind happening in the future. There are two cardinal principles cited—one, to secure absolute safety; and two, to make the income, in one form or another, enough to meet the demands made upon it. In view of the fact that a large majority of legacies are left to the discretion of some friend of the family, or to the widow, without adequate restrictions on the exercise of that discretion, admittedly much of the fault lies with the maker of the will. The gist of instructions designed to regulate a fund left in this way is given as follows:

(1) No stocks of any kind must be bought with this legacy.

(2) No real estate must be purchased except for a home.

(3) The investment must be restricted to first mortgages on real estate, not to exceed 60 per cent of the market value of the property; to bonds secured by mortgage on going concerns, railroad or industrial, of good reputation and of long standing; to municipal bonds of the state in which the testator lived; to deposits in the banks of the same state; to certain other securities specifically named in these instructions.

But even these instructions are not sufficiently strict. It is generally considered satisfactory, where a sufficient estate is left to support and educate those dependent, to stipulate that the money shall be invested only "in such securities as are legal for the investment of trust funds in this state." But generally this means that the savings bank law of the state shall guide, and the savings bank laws of many states are inadequate, while such investments yield but a small income. It is a subject that requires careful study.

The New York legislature furnished a surprise in its closing hour by passing a bill that will knock out every bucket shop in the Empire state.

William G. Conrad, a Montana banker, say he is willing to take the Democratic nomination for president. Mr. Conrad is running the risk of being called "impertinent."

Last year 80,000,000 pairs of canvas gloves and mittens were made in this country. The number of hands employed to make them is not stated, but it took 160,000,000 to wear them.

A physician predicts that 50 per cent of the people will be in lunatic asylums 200 years from now. It is a safe prediction, because long before 200 years have passed it will have been forgotten.

President Roosevelt generally gets what he wants. He desired to elevate M. D. Purdy to the federal bench, and when the Minnesota senators recommended another man, he found a serious objection to him and promptly appointed Mr. Purdy.

Courts are like Emerson's "Brahma"—"we little know the subtle ways they keep and pass and turn again." The New York supreme court has decided that a woman's legal working day of ten hours is constitutional, but it is unconstitutional to forbid her working at night.

Although the Italian government has just passed another stringent law to prevent the exportation of works of art, the picture dealers declare that it will not interfere with the regular output of "old masters" for any rich American millionaire, long on cash and short on art.

Everyone is glad that rain has come at last This has been a remarkably dry spring all through Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin and the numerous brush fires have done a great amount of damage. The rainstorm should put out the fire and give the farming lands the moisture of which they are so sadly in need.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

George T. Forrester, at the St. Louis, has been on the Pacific coast for the past month and believes that the lumber trade is improving. He says the eastern movement of freight has improved because of the increase in the lumbering business during the past few weeks. Mr. Forrester attributes the increase in the amount of lumber being shipped east to the fact that more building is being done this spring than during the past winter months. More lumber is being used at the present time throughout the country than we anticipated two months ago, according to his opinion.

On the coast the building trades are still very dull. The reaction from the boom in Seattle, Tacoma and other cities of the coast country has been very severe, and they are not doing any building to speak of at the present time. Other parts of the country, that have not experienced the setback that the coast cities have suffered, are doing a fairly heavy amount of building, and their activity in this line is booming the lumber trade, comparatively speaking.

Compared with a month ago, the trade will show quite a large increase. Northwestern cities, which have not been affected by the money stringency as severely as the coast cities, are doing more building at the present time, according to Mr. Forrester, than at any time since money became tight. They are using a good deal of lumber and are boosting the trade by their orders.

A traveling man at the Lenox yesterday swore roundly after discovering that he had talked through, or rather into the telephone, for fully five minutes, the telephone being disconnected during the period of his eloquent flow of highly descriptive adjectives.

It has not been ascertained whether the person who was supposed to be at the other end of the wire was a male or female. From the tenor of the language one would imagine that the person who was not addressed was of the gentler sex.

The man asked the boy at the desk for a certain number. He was told to go to the wall telephone. He did, and taking down the receiver began to talk volubly, never waiting for an answer, either on the part of central, assuring him that he had the right number, or on the part of the party he believed he was talking to.

The conversation apparently was a most onesided one. For fully five minutes the one at the Lenox end of the telephone rattled on in a highly persuasive tone. At times his line of talk rose to positive eloquence. He conversed in a tone of voice that made it easy to follow his conversation.

After he had failed to receive any applause comeback from the other end of the wire, the traveling man asked what was the trouble. Then the boy looked up from his work and informed him that he was not connected. The boy said it so innocently and sweetly that the traveling man really didn't have much to say to the boy. He swore earnestly and soulfully to himself, however.

A guest of the St. Louis got crossed on the telephone wires in some manner yesterday. He was telephoning from outside and believed he was talking to his wife. Instead he was talking to some other man's wife. Finally the mistake was discovered and explanations followed. A decided opinion on Merry Widow hats is said to have been the clue that led to the discovery that some one else's husband was talking to some other man's wife.

THE WEATHER.

The welcome rain has come at last, and with the continuance of the storm for another day the forest fires will be a thing of the past, the farm lands will get the much needed moisture and the city's streets and alleys will be cleansed from the winter's accumulation of dust and dirt. The rain started in during the night, accompanied my winds at Duluth that reached a maximum of forty-two miles an hour and had decreased to eighteen miles at 8 o'clock this morning. The rain is general all over Northern Minnesota and North Dakota and will do a world of good. The weather man says the storm is likely to continue here on Saturday. The highest temperature in Duluth was 51 degs., and the lowest was 37 degs.

A year ago today it was cloudy, raw and chilly.

The sun rose this morning at 5:04 and sets tonight at 7:08, making 14 hours and 24 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The Colorado storm has moved its center to the eastern portion of Kansas and Nebraska, where the barometer is extremely low this morning. This storm caused light to heavy rains or thunder storms and high winds throughout the Northwest and Southwest, the western lake region and Missouri and Mississippi valleys during the past twenty-four hours. Rising pressures are attended by cooler weather over the Rock mountains and eastern slopes, the highest barometer being over California. Pressures continue low over British Columbia. Indications favor continuance of rainy weather and strong northeast winds in this locality tonight and Saturday."

PASSING PLEASANTRIES.

Chicago Tribune: Lil—Doesn't it cost a good deal to do as much roller skating as the rink as you do?

Jen—Naw! More cheap skates then than any place I know of.

Chicago Record-Herald: "What kind of a fellow is Binksley, anyhow?"

"Well, I think I can best describe him by saying that he keeps Lent in his wife's name."

Baltimore American: "Young Mutanhod, who is dangling after that frisky Mrs. Highroller, who has only worn the willow six months, is strictly in the fashion."

"How so?"

"He is a merry widow beau."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Do you," she asked, "think there is anything dangerous in ice cream?"

"Yes," replied the impolite old bachelor, "if knew a fellow once who invited a girl in to have a dish and got engaged to her before she had finished it."

Washington Star: "Why don't you insist on having all offices filled by strictly careful and conscientious men?"

"One reason," replied Farmer Corntossel, "is that it seems to be against the rules to let the offices stand vacant while we look for them.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: A goat found a "Merry Widow" hat and ate all he could of it.

Then he died of overeating.

Does Ma Wish She Was Pa?

"I wish I had a lot o' cash,"
Sez pa, one winter's night;
"I'd go down South and stay a while Where days are warm and bright."
He set an' watched the fire die
(Seemed lost in thoughtful daze),
Till ma brought in some fresh pine knots
An' made a cheerful blaze.

"I wish I had a million shares
O' stock in Standard Oil,"
Sez pa; "I wouldn't do a thing."
Ma made the kettle boil,
An' mixed hot biscuits, fried some ham
An' eggs (smelt good, you bet!)
Fetched cheese an' doughnuts, made the tea,
Then pa—set down an' et!

"I wish I was a millionaire,"
Sez pa; "I'd have a snap."
Next from the lounge we heard a snore;
Pa—at his ev'nin' nap!
Ma did the dishes, shook the cloth,
Brushed up, put things away,
An' fed the cat, then started up
Her plans for bakin' day.

She washed and put some beans to soak
An' set some bread to rise;
Unstrung dried apples, soaked 'em, too,
All ready for her pies;
She brought more wood, put out the cat,
Then darned four pairs o' socks;
Pa woke an' sez, "It's time for bed;
Ma, have you wound both clocks?"

MILLER AND BEDE.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: There will be a battle royal in the Eighth. Congressman Bede has opposition in Representative Miller. Mr. Miller is one of the brilliant men of Northern Minnesota, and was the leader of the last legislature. He has the backing of the Duluth politicians, very largely, and will make an aggressive fight. On the other hand, Bede is a most effective campaigner.

Biwabik Times: And we are not sorry that J. Adam will find it necessary to cater to the voters for a few weeks at least.

Royalton Banner: Clarence B. Miller has announced himself as a candidate for congress from the Eighth congressional district. We prophesy one of the warmest campaigns ever waged in Minnesota. J. Adam is a famous vote-getter, and while he doesn't satisfy that craving for knowledge that some seek, he does say the very things you want him to say, and that's all anyone can expect of him. Mr. Miller is an able man and is really the first man ever to represent St. Louis county in the legislature that didn't care a tinker's damn for the steel trust.

Eveleth News: Instead of eulogizing Speaker Cannon, as he is reported to have done at the Pine City convention, Congressman Bede should be joining forces with the Wisconsin representatives in an effort to break the speaker's tyranny by parliamentary reform. Mr. Bede has been assailed for some very trivial matters. Here is true ground for criticism.

Hinckley Enterprise: In his speech before the convention at Pine City, Wednesday, J. Adam Bede said that if he was not the right man he should be left at home. The entire Eighth district will agree with him in this.

Spooner Northern News: J. Adam Bede seems to get an occasional reminder that he is not the only article of political popularity in the Eighth congressional district, and we predict that upon the clearing of the atmosphere next November he will have learned a lesson not soon to be forgotten. In other words, that it will be Congressman Miller and ex-J. Adam Bede.

Mesaba Ore: The Bede-Miller contest will probably be the hardest-fought political battle ever waged in this district, but there is a growing tendency on both sides to carry on a clean campaign. Both are clean gentlemen, and it is up to their adherents to conduct themselves accordingly.

Carlton County Vidette: Clarence B. Miller is developing into a real live candidate for congress, and a fight royal time is predicted in the big Eighth next fall when Jadam dons his birch-barks.

Anoka County Union: The rest of the world looks upon J. Adam Bede as a joke. The Eighth congressional district thinks he is a serious mistake, and the people are going to correct the error this fall.

Ogilvie Sentinel: In the candidacy of Hon. Clarence B. Miller, the able Duluth legislator, for congress, from the Eighth district, it is a foregone conclusion that J. Adam Bede will have "the fight of his life" on his hands, for Mr. Miller stands very high in the estimation of the people of his home city of Duluth, and the people and press of the entire district. It will be no joking matter, either, and we predict it will be one of the hottest and most closely contested congressional fights in the state.

Sauk Center Herald: Clarence B. Miller of Duluth is in the race for the Republican nomination from the Eighth congressional district in opposition to J. Adam Bede. Mr. Miller will be remembered as the man who delivered an eloquent Memorial day address in Sauk Center a year ago. He is a man of character and ability, and if sent to congress will not only make his mark, but will represent his district faithfully and well.

Itasca County Independent: J. Adam Bede, congressman from this district, is being knocked plenty by his political enemies, and his friends do not seem particularly aggressive in their defense of the congressman.

Alice—Season Rusher.

Yesterday Alice gazed out of her window
And noticed the roadway with sunlight ablaze;
The blue of the skies was as bright as her eyes,
And she said: "Spring is here with her wonderful days.
So bless me.
I'll dress me,
In costume befitting the advent of spring;
I will don,
I'll put on
My peek-a-boo waist and my furs I will fling."
This she did, for the truth must be told,
This morning fair. Alice is down with a cold.

Yesterday Alice arose bright and early
And noticed the sunbeams that danced all about;
The birds' merry chatter her heart made to patter,
She said: "I'll look swell when today I go out.
Hooray! Now here goes,
For my open-work hose,
My oxfords of tan without rubbers I'll wear;
Though mother may scoff,
My heavies I'll doff
And go for a stroll while the weather is fair."
This she did—and of course, all the truth must be said,
Today her blue eyes are most woefully red.

Today Alice speaks with a thick, foggy accent,
So cloudy her voice, which was clear as a bell;
She gurgles and sputters, each word that she utters
Proclaims the sad fate that to Alice befell.
"I'b got a bad gold,"
I'b a sight to behold,
She murmurs, "my head is stuffed ub, I can't talk;
I'b bot sure the way
I got it. I say,
But I dink dat I caught it while oubt for a walk."
So she says, but her waist and her open-work hose
Have gone back on the shelf till the May blossom blows.

Perfection in Monopoly.

Philadelphia Ledger: The anthracite situation, if it were closely studied today, would perhaps disclose a monopoly as nearly perfect as the world has ever seen. Its power is unlimited and its rapacity merciless. The consumers of domestic coal know its iron hand, and the treatment of the business world which uses steam coal is such that an embargo has been laid upon the industry and prosperity of Philadelphia. Without regard to the cost of coal or to the supply and demand or any other factor or consideration which rules in the general world of trade and commerce, the anthracite trust lays its relentless hand upon business energy and either paralyzes it or squeezes out the last dollar.

Johnson and Tariff Revision.

New York World: Real revision of the tariff and resolute resistance to the encroachments of the federal government are the watchwords Governor Johnson sets for his party. With Mr. Bryan as the Democratic candidate neither would have any meaning. Tariff reform interests him little more than economy in public expenditures does President Roosevelt. If the Democratic party is to enter the campaign with any prospects except of renewed disaster it must be in a position to take the offensive with a candidate of Governor Johnson's principles and character. Mr. Bryan's candidacy means that from the day of the convention to the day of election the sham Democracy will be kept forever on the defensive because of his past record of defeat and his present devotion to the doctrines of disaster.

REFORM IN DOMINION

Loose Methods Found in Fisheries Department of Canada.

Civil Service Reform Now Brought Rapidly to the Front.

Ottawa, April 24.—Civil service reform in Canada has been brought rapidly to a front position in the political life of the country through the report of the civil service commission. It is not because the commission reports in favor of the principle of civil service reform in any detailed way, as that has not been done, but on account of certain loose methods discovered in the marine and fisheries department. Civil service reform has been talked of for years and was given recently considerable prominence because of an eloquent address delivered in the house in favor of it by the Hon. Clifford Sifton, but it is only because of suspected wrongdoing in the service that the people and the government find real need for reform. A bill will likely be introduced this session bringing into force the British competitive system in the service, so that political appointments will disappear, generally speaking, and the business of the country may be carried on by men who, upon examination, receive their position because of merit and fitness to discharge their duties. In the meantime Judge Cassels, of the exchequer court, is carrying on an investigation into the accusations made against officials of the marine and fisheries department in the report of the civil service commission. There were no names given in the report, although certain instances of wrongdoing were referred to in a general way. The duty of Judge Cassels is to examine the witness on oath and to look into all the official documents in the department relative to these matters. As some of the members supporting the government say, the time has arrived when no harm can be done to lift up the lid, and let the whole facts, whatever they are, be given to the public, and if wrongdoers are found, they should be severely dealt with.

Colonies Making Arms.

When the imperial conference was sitting in London, England, a few months ago the secretary of state for war, referring to defense, outlined a new policy in regard to the relation of Britain and the colonies. At one time it was held that the colonies should be supplied with the same arm as Britain and that our guns and cordite should be brought through the war office. Sometime ago Canada started a small arms factory, and more recently made a contract for the Ross rifle, the factory being on the plains of Abraham. At the imperial conference the secretary of state for war advocated the colonies going into the manufactory of small arms and cordite as a matter of policy because in the time of war supplies from Britain might not be available. Canada had been pursuing that course on its own account and Premier Deakin of Australia promised to do the same thing. A report has just been received from Canada's trade agent at Melbourne, Australia, saying that the Commonwealth government has secured the necessary land for a cordite factory and also for a small arms factory. These will be the first of the kind in Australia. Negotiations have been going on in Canada for some time for a gun factory to be located in the vicinity of Ottawa.

Foreign Trade.

The aggregate foreign trade of Canada for the twelve months ending on Feb. 29, 1908, as computed by the department of trade and commerce, amounted to $842,728,055, as compared with $598,200,699 in the previous year, and $516,735,571 in the year 1906. The total imports of $365,183,529 represented a gain of $35,500,000 over the previous year 1906. The total exports of $477,544,526 represented a gain of $1,900,000 over the previous year and a gain of $38,750,000 over the year 1906.

The exports to Great Britain of $134,279,942 represented a decrease of $1,280,000 from the record of the previous year, but a gain of $7,816,000 over 1906. The imports from Great Britain of $95,998,842 represented a gain of $29,963 over the year 1906. The exports to the United States of $313,255,783 represent a gain of $24,123,000 over 1906. The imports from the United States of $215,747,402 represent a gain of $15,163,000 over the previous year and a gain of $48,150,000 over 1906.

There was a debate in the house of commons on Monday and Tuesday last against bonusing agents in European countries in connection with immigration. The opposition attacked the class of immigrants Canada was receiving from Europe. It is somewhat singular that when there is any knocking being done against Canada it is by this same class. It is also worthy of note that one never reads a word of complaint from the thousands of American immigrants who come to Canada. For these people the conditions are similar to the circumstances with which they have been familiar all their lives. They find our climate and our customs congenial. They buckle to with a will, recking nothing of minor initial difficulties. They are welcome on account of the spirit of optimism, cheerfulness and confidence which enables them and inspires others to surmount difficulties and make light of the trials inseparable from pioneer life. The Englishman is Scotsman or the American, but he carries wherever he goes his inherent right to grumble and to point out how much better "they do things at home." It is this characteristic savoring of conscious superiority, which tends to make him, it would not be just to say unpopular in Canada, but certainly to render him less popular than his fellow immigrants from other lands. With his national downrightness, he says what he thinks regardless of the fact that Canada is just now in a stage of development which renders her people somewhat sensitive and impatient of criticism—just as sensitive as the American people were half a century ago and less.

Canada's Revenue.

Canada's revenue for the last financial year was $96,708,982, by far the largest in the history of the country. The consolidation fund expenditure, that is, on ordinary account, was $77,590,000, being a surplus of about $19,000,000. There are yet some expenditures not acounted for. During the year there was expended on the National Transcontinental $33,000,000, which would make the total expenditure $110,000,000, making a net addition to the public debt of $12,000,00. The customs revenue for March declined $750,000.

IS BLOW TO ABERDEENS

Au us Personage Would Prevent Inquiry Into Dublin Scandal.

Fear That the Disclosures Would Cause Social Earthquake.

London, April 24.—England is trembling on the brink of a social earthquake. At least, so declare the people who claim to know. The scandal in connection with the theft of the Dublin crown jewels is to blame. The friends of Sir Arthur Vicars, the deposed Ulster king-at-arms, contend that the publication "cannot be prevented by all the power of England and within a short time the world will be familiar with a blot on English society that will shock the world."

Readers are, of course, familiar with most of the points in the crown jewel theft and inquiry. For weeks the cables have carried the story. But it is strange to Americans that the British press has not, ere this, solved the entire mystery. For weeks the daily papers in this country carred news paragraphs and articles always asking the question: "Who stole the crown jewels?" There was never the suspicion of a definite answer. In the United States in a very few days the press would have pointed its all-powerful finger and declared, "There is the man."

Scored by Corelli.

It is little wonder that Marie Corelli has declared that she is determined to vindicate his fair name. Sir Arthur Vicars, in an appealing letter to the press, asked the public to demand an inquiry. This has been followed by other letters and articles and by questions in the house of commons by Irish members, notably by the brother of the leader of the Irish party, William Redmond. But the government has turned a deat ear to all entreaties. It is declared that by order of no less a personage than King Edward a public inquiry has been forbidden.

And so it remains for the friends of the discredited Sir Arthur Vicars to make public the scandals involved in their own way. They are even now looking for a Herr Harden, an editor courageous enough to take his chances of imprisonment, and are engaged in raising a fund to fight the law cases which would ensue.

It is strange that the libel law in England, the boasted most free country on the face of the earth, is such that a paper may not publish anything derogatory about any person, even if absolutely true, while a court of law has first found that person guilty.

Want a Herr Harden.

But it is going to be very hard work to find an English Herr Harden. The German may be called phlegmatic and slow. But the Englishman is far slower, colder and difficult to rouse. A German is easily excited. In fact, a native of any part of Continental Europe can be worked up to hysteria in short order. In England it is only the Socialists and the suffragettes who appear to get at all excited over national affairs. To rouse the Englishman one must tread on his personal and individual corn. Then only would he chance jail by attacking you.

The great editors of Britain do not number a Harden amongst them. George Buckle of the Times has his own troubles just now in wondering what is going to become of his paper under the newly reorganized company. C. Arthur Pearson also has his own worries. Harmsworth, or as he is titled, Lord Northcliffe, is making too much money and is too strong a friend of the powers that be to dream of mixing up in any unsavory boiling pot such as this great scandal. The editor-owners of the other big papers of Britain are far too respectable and calculating to associate themselves with any scandal. They are also too busy looking after political questions such as the navy, the church and education, the liquor license act and the suffragettes.

To find a Harden it will be necessary to go to the editors of weekly papers. Labouchere of Truth, the boldest pen in England, has practically retired from the arena. He is very old, and the strongest thing his paper has said of the Dublin scandal is contained in one sentence: "It is justice a la carte for the prominent, the set forms for the poor."

A. Moreton Mndeville of London Opinion, the journal that originated the limerick coopetition, is head of the London and Paris exchange, a big financial corporation which also issues a financial paper called the Daily Report. He is, perhaps, too prosperous to touch the scandal except with a pair of tongs. In such manner has he been handling it for the last few issues of his weekly.

Would Be Dangerous.

There is as a possible last resort Horatio Bottomley of John Bull. He calls his paper the Penny Truth. Mr. Bottomley has appeared in the law courts and knows what they are like. He has been before the bankruptcy court and has been charged with running a lottery in connection with his paper. He has financial interests in the city, owns racehorses and is a member of parliament. He has a vitriolic pen and is outspoken enough in his paper generally. But Mr. Bottomley knows English law. He knows that the government is all powerful. By becoming in this case the Harden of England, he would be the man of the hour. His paper might have a furious circulation for the time being. But the position against the all-powerful government, against certain sections of society and titled aristocracy, and even against the king's august majesty, would be fraught with danger not alone involving imprisonment and a stupendous expenditure of money, but the loss of position as member of parliament and many other improtant privileges.

Sir Arthur Vicars, or his half-brother, Pierce O'Mahony, may possibly soon write out a full and detailed account of the scandals, and if no paper will publish it, will endeavor to make it public in pamphlet form, as was done in similar cases a century ago. I have here a statement by Pierce O'Mahoney, which is about as strong as it could be without mentioning names. Here it is, written and signed by the half-brother of the man who claims he has been wronged:

"The robbery of the crown jewels was discovered on July 6 last. But it was not until October that charges were brought against my brother. From that day to this I have never ceased to work for the vindication of my brother's character from the stain sought to be cast upon it by a minister of the crown, Mr. Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland.

Have Done All Possible.

"I have done everything of possible to date. I have openly accused the chief secretary of conduct unworthy of a gentleman. I have brought this accusation before the speaker of the house of commons once called the finest club in Europe. I have brought it under the notice of his majesty, the king. The Right Hon. Augustine Birrell has taken it lying down, because he knows that if he challanges me in public court I will drive this accusation home, vindicate and expose the corruption and rottenness of Dublin castle officialdom, over which he presides.

"I have accused the police of willfully withholding evidence in their possession that is in favor of my brother. I now go further, and I state deliberately that the government does not wish to find the thief, because one suspected man and one of his associates, also suspected, are known to the police as men of unclean lives, and have threatened to involve society in an unsavory scandal.

"And so, in this twentieth century, under the enlightened rule of the most constitutional monarch in the world, an official of hitherto unblemished character and name is to be dismissed and ruined and denied the opportunity of meeting his accusers in the open—right accorded to the meanest criminal—because a few titled members of what are falsely called the Upper Ten, and who circle around the throne, possess characters so absolutely rotten and degraded that they fear to face the threats of two men whom Mr. Birrell knows and whom he has described as 'abandoned ruffians.' My brother's honor is of no account to them—titled corruption must be shielded from the public gaze. Not thus, however, can they stem the feild tide. We will leave no single stone unturned until we have justice."

Blow to the Aberdeens.

The whole affair has been a sad blow to the Aberdeens. Both Lord and Lady Aberdeen are known all over the English speaking world. They are interested in religion, in philanthropy and in numberless good works for the plain people which has brought them on occasions dangerously near the line of Socialism. In Canada, when Lord Aberdeen was governor general, he and his wife were very popular and did much good. They had many American friends, entertained largely and frequently visited the United States.

What will be the result can hardly be foretold. That the earl of Aberdeen will in the next six months resign is almost a certainty. Lord Beauchamp, it is reported, will be his successor. Lord Beauchamp has been the governor of New South Wales, the youngest governor in the history of the empire. He and his wife are very wealthy and very well connected, she being a sister of the present duke of Westminster. Lord Aberdeen has just started extensive alterations on his London house, which seem to indicate that when he resigns from Ireland he will take some other cabinet position and come to live in London. His brother-in-law is Lord Tweedmouth, who is the present secretary of the navy. The Aberdeens' Grosvenor street house is having a grand staircase put in, the drawingroom doubled in size and two new reception-rooms built.

HOTEL ST. REGIS, NEW YORK

A Famous Kitchen.

MODERATE RATES.

The kitchen of one's favorite hotel or restaurant is in reality its most important department. Many of these places where food is prepared will not bear close inspection, and one prefers to eat in ignorance, feeling that a knowledge of actual conditions might spoil the appetite.

A visit to the kitchen of Hotel St. Regis, New York's most famous living and dining establishment, is worth the while of anyone who appreciate cleanliness and wholesomeness. This series of great white-tiled, marble-floored halls, which Mr. Hann, the proprietor of the St. Regis, calls "The Soul" of his hotel, may be called "a kitchen," but it is fit and fine enough for a banquet hall. It will bear the closest inspection, for it is scrupulously clean and perfectly ventilated. The small army of cooks and assistants who here evolve and create the tempting foods which have made the St. Regis restaurant famous are in harmony with their surroundings, and the edibles provided there, under the watchful eye of Chef Bailly, are such as royalty might partake of with delight.

What is true of the St. Regis kitchen is true of every part of this matchless hotel. And yet the cost of living is comparatively reasonable. The restaurant charges are those standard in the best hotels, while a beautiful outside room may be had for $4 a day, or one with private bath for $5 ($6 for two people). The rates for a parlor, bedroom and bath are $12 and upward.

Ever since woman's beauty held sway over man and brought her power, influence and wealth, she has sought a way to stay the processes of old age and banish deep lines and furrows from the brow.

Chemists, beauty doctors and skin specialists have for centuries past vainly tried to fathom the sealed secrets of nature and find a way to keep the beauty of youth in a woman's face and form.

Harriett Meta was no exception to the general rule of women. Trouble and worry left their unsightly lines and marks upon her face. She saw the beauty of her youth giving away to the heavy imprints of coming age.

Her first resort was to facial massage, cold cream and steaming pots; then next to beauty specialists; but all in vain. The wrinkles seemed, if anything, to grow deeper and deeper. Massage even appeared to stretch the skin; more wrinkles came. She had spent all the money she could afford to spend, and was ready to give up in despair when one day a friend made a happy suggestion.

This gave her a brilliant idea. She set to work on the thing herself, and after several months' hard labor and almost endless experimenting, she succeeded in producing a wrinkle remover entirely different from anything she had seen or heard of. She tried it on herself, and lo and behold it worked a wonderful transformation in a single night. She tried it a second night, and her wrinkles were practically gone. A third night—three treatments in all—and her wrinkles had entirely disappeared and her skin was soft, clear, rosy and smooth.

Many others also have used this remarkable process with wonderful results.

Mrs. Moran Elmer of New York City writes: "Your treatment removed all my wrinkles in one night." Mrs. Turnhani, of Seattle, Wash., says: "My wrinkles are all gone; words canot express how grateful I feel to you for what your treatment has done for me." Mrs. A. M. Brooks, of Howe, Texas, writes: "Your treatment is the first I ever tried that really had the desired effect in banishing face lines. I am 68 years old, and yet many say I do not look more than 45."

Miss Gladys Desmond, the actress, of Pittsburg, Pa., says: "Your treatment made my wrinkles disappear in one night. It is certainly a Godsend to womankind. I tried cold creams, skin foods and various advertised wrinkle removers, but they all failed absolutely, and I confess I was very sceptical about your treatment, but in one night my scepticism had entirely vanished. When I looked at my face on the following morning and saw what a wonderful transformation had taken place, I was sure at last I had found the right thing."

In speaking of her discovery, Miss Meta says: "Yes, I know it sounds too good to be true, but really I do not think removing wrinkles is half so wonderful as the telephone. Before the telephone was invented it appeared ridiculous to think of talking from New York to Chicago.

"Those who have used cold creams, etc., cannot understand how my treatment can act quickly. Yet, after all, it is very simple, and I wonder that some one did not discover the process long ago. My letters from patients tell the whole story. Here is one from a lady who says my treatment made her look 20 years younger; also letters from many others. I do not see how any one can doubt in the face of such testimony as this. I tried cold creams, massage, etc., myself, without results, and I can thoroughly sympathize with those who have tried to get rid of wrinkles, and I am truly glad that I feel I can now offer womankind a surer and shorter way.

"I will give further particulars to all those who write me within the next ten days. I must exact a promise of secrecy from every one for my own protection before I give full information—you can use my treatment on yourself or in your own family, but you must not tell what it is to outsiders.

"I guarantee my treatment will in no way injure your skin. On the contrary, it will give it a soft, velvety feeling, and greatly improve your complexion, as well as banish unsightly lines and wrinkles. It takes only a few minutes to use it.

"Address Harriett Meta, Suite 813C, Syracuse, N. Y. I will send everything in plain sealed envelope, that our correspondence will be strictly private."

PROPOSED VISIT OF KAISER CAUSES STIR.

Berlin, April 24.—The French have received some strange news about the kaiser's visit to Corfu. A correspondent in Paris says that if any special explanations were required of Emperor William's interview with King Victor Emmanuel, the following would, perhaps, be nearer the truth than any other. It is understood that during the German emperor's stay at Corfu he will go for a shooting excursion to Albania. When this first became known it caused some little stir in certain Italian circles. It is no secret that Italy's spirit is evident when it returns at the end of a day's trip with the mails, neck arched, and apparently as fresh as when it started out. It knows every stopping place on the route as well as Dehne himself.

hopes for her share in the eventual liquidation of the "Sick Man's" heritage are centered in Albania. If ever the Eastern question is solved, it will not be without Italy saving an important voice in the chapter. Therefore, it is not surprising that the report of the emperor's visit to that part of Ottoman territory should have caused a flutter in the circles referred to. Its importance was magnified to the extent of comparing it to the now historical trip to Tangier. It would, therefore, not be surprising if the emperor had taken advantage of his visit to Venice to reassure his royal host as to the purely sporting character of his excursion to Albania, in case he should carry out his original intention. Many Englishmen have visited Albania with the same object, and Corfu, though a delightful residence for invalids and dreamers, does not offer unlimited recreation for an active and elert mind like that of the German emperor.

ONE-LEGGED SKATER.

Pennsylvania Boy Who is Pronounced Quite a Wonder.

Reading, Pa., April 24.—Three years ago a 9-year-old lad in this city did the same thing hundreds of other city boys have done—jumped coal trains—and Elmer H. Sterling, now 12 years old, jumped once too often and lost his left leg. At that time he was without much hope either for his recovery or for the future, in case he should recover.

Today he is one of the happiest lads in Reading, but he never goes near a car any more. He enjoys much of the sport there is in life. With the aid of crutches he goes all over the city on one roller skate, for he is an expert skater. He can go almost as fast as others with the aid of the crutches, throwing his weight forward on the skate and covering a great space in a short time.

Not only is he handy on his roller skate, but when he has an ice skate attached to his shoe in winter he performed some astonishing feats.

Master Sterling awaits with eagerness the coming baseball season, not to witness the games, but to take actual part in them. Yes, this lad plays ball, and very well, too, considering his misfortune. He catches well, and is an excellent batter. He is a member of one of the leading juvenile clubs in the city.

He is a faithful boy at school, stands at the front in the fifth grade, and an earnest Sunday school scholar at Ebenezer. He is rapid at figures, and writes an excellent hand.

INTELLIGENT HORSE.

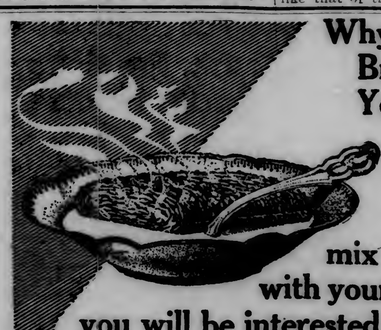

Knowing Beast in the Rural Free Delivery Service.

York, Pa., April 24.—"If every mail-carrier in the rural free delivery service had a horse as good as is owned by one of my men, a big difficulty in this method of delivery would vanish," says Postmaster Samuel Lewis of this city. The animal referred to has just completed its fifth year between the shafts of one of the little white wagons which mark the service in the county, being owned by William C. Dehne, who covers route No. 12.

The most unusual feature of this record is that, until recently, Dehne has had but this one horse. It is the general rule among the rural carriers to have two, driving them upon alternate days. Each averages about twenty-four miles a day, in all sorts of weather, and over roads notoriously bad. The carriers, all except Dehne, learned from experience that the daily drill was too much for a single animal.

Dehne's remarkable horse, which is almost pure white, is thought to have Arab blood in its veins. It was purchased in the West for the stable of the Smalls here, and was used by the women of the family under a saddle. It was found a little too spirited and this

TITLES ARE DECIDED

Thousands See Navy Pugilists in Action at Los Angeles.

Henry Trainer, Middleweight Champion Seven Years, is Defeated.

Los Angeles, April 24.—The last of the navy prize fights held here in connection with the stay of the American battleship fleet at the port of Los Angeles, were decided yesterday at Chutes Park, with Champion J. J. Jeffries as referee. All of the sailors on shore leave were gathered about the open-air ring, and much money was wagered on the three contests which decided the featherweight, middleweight and heavyweight championships of the fleet. In the heavyweight battle it is said that the crews of the New Jersey and Missouri put up a total of $7,500 each on the result.

Lieut. Wenver, the fleet athletic officer, was present at the ringside during all of the bouts, to see that they were carried out in strict accordance with the fleet's boxing regulations. In addition to 3,000 or more sailors who were present, there were several thousands of civilians in the throngs which witnessed the fights, among them being a large number of women. The local reception committee gave cash prizes to the winners of the bouts.

The results were as follows:

Featherweight class—Frank Raferty, battleship Alabama, defeated "Bud" Fredericks, battleship Illinois, in six rounds, retaining the championship.

Middleweight class—Dennis Tighe, battleship Alabama, defeated Henry Trainer, battleship Vermont, in six rounds, winning championship, held by Trainer for seven years.

Heavyweight class—Philip Schlossberg, battleship New Jersey, defeated Walter Altieri, battleship Missouri, in six rounds, winning championship held by Altieri for two years.

AMATEURS WILL BE BUSY SUNDAY

Games Arranged for Opening Baseball Season of 1908.

The corner lotters will get their real start in and around Duluth next Sunday. The local season will be opened with the Kelleys and Fitwells opposing each other at Athletic park. The team are the two strongest bidders for Duluth honors and the rivalry between them is keen.

The Scott-Graff team will go to Scanlon Sunday for its first game of the season. Scanlon is said to have a strong squad and the Scott-Graffs expect a good argument. They will line up as follows: Catcher, Piering, pitcher, Swanstrom; first base, Bailey; second base, Collins; third base, Burns; short stop, McKinnon; right field, Watt; left field, Ralphs; center field, Flynn.

A meeting will be held tonight at Co. C club rooms at the armory to organize the Columbia baseball team for the season of 1908. All candidates for positions on the team will be welcomed by the manager.

The manager of the Minks is real angry because the Duluth Heights team called off the game arranged for next Sunday. The Minks are looking for dates with other amateur teams in and around the city. Their headquarters are at 327 West Fifth street.

BOOKIES ARE HARD HIT.

Victory of High Private at Aqueduct Complete Surprise.

Aqueduct, N. Y., April 24.—The first big killing of the year occurred at Aqueduct yesterday when High Private, a maiden 2-year-old, belonging to E. A. Forsythe, won the Canarsie stakes at four furlongs. He was backed down from 30 to 1 to 12 to 1 at the close. He had worked very fast for this race and his condition was kept a secret. As soon as the prices were put up the money began to show and the books were kept busy doubling his price. The books suffered a heavy loss by his victory.

After a few moments' delay at the post they were sent away to a fair start and Musgrave sent High Private into the lead. As they swung into the stretch, Private was leading by two lengths steadily increasing it to the finish and won easily by five lengths. Fitz Herbert, the favorite was second, with Uncle Jim at 20 to 1, third.

DECISION TO SULLIVAN.

Mike Twin Outpoints Jimmy Gardner at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, April 24.—In an arena erected just outside of the city, Mike Sullivan of Boston, was given the decision over Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, Mass., after twenty-five rounds that were all in favor of Sullivan. The verict of James J. Jeffries, the referee, was a popular one.

"Bill" McNeil, manager of the new Fargo team of the Northern league, will bring a storm about his ears, if he attempts to place Brookins, third baseman with Houghton last year, in the league again this season. Reports circulated last fall that Brookins was a negro were pretty well founded and there is no disposition on the part of the national commission to allow a black man in organized baseball.

Brookins may not be a negro. No proof positive has been given that he is, although an investigation conducted in St. Louis, his home city, was dead against him, it is said. Acting on the principle of justice, Brookins is to be presumed innocent until he is proven guilty. Brookins' appearance is against him, however. He doesn't look the part of the Indian he played last season, and the fans believe he is of African descent.

If McNeil can show that Brookins is really an Indian and not a negro, the man will be allowed to play in the Northern league. Otherwise he will be barred. Brookins is a good ball player. He is a gentleman on and off the field. He plays the game all the time and minds his own business. The prejudice against the blacks being allowed to play organized ball is strong.

Pearl T. Beeman of Houghton, Mich., blew into town the other day and was wafted out again the next day in the direction of the range. Beeman is a middleweight wrestler and has been wrestling in St. Paul all winter under the name of Pearl Trueman. He has been getting away with some of the best of the St. Paul middleweights and promises to come up in the game.

There was a time when Beeman wasn't so good. He was a young fellow just breaking in when he ran a foul of M. J. Dwyer, one of the cruftiest men ever going on the mat. Beeman was the victim of a nice little game in Houghton a couple of years ago. It was made possible by his inexperience and Dwyer couldn't pull the same trick on him now.

Beeman had thrown Dwyer, who is getting too far along in years for active work. A return match was arranged and Dwyer drew into a corner and framed up a scheme. On the night of the match he was afflicted with a severe cold, announced that he had not been able to train and couldn't go on. He said, however, that he had secured a man from Chicago to go on, and produced him, so the crowd would not be disappointed.

The unknown quantity, bearing the name of Joe Collins, appeared with a coat thrown over his shoulders and a pair of thin scrawny links supporting him. Beeman saw nothing but easy money in sight. He agreed to go on, winner take all. Collins stripped off the coat and showed shoulders of fine development, with bulging muscles. Still Beeman thought he had an easy mark. They went to the mat and Beeman took more punishment in an hour than a prize fighter would get in twenty rounds. Collins used every rough tactic known to the game and Beeman was as a child in his hands. It developed afterwards that Collins was Ed Adamson, one of the cleverest middleweights in the country.

After his beating Beeman dropped out of the wrestling game and took to training until this past winter, when he branched out again at St. Paul. He has been making it go since and Duluth followers of the game will probably see him in action soon.

The fans of St. Paul will probably get out a band to meet their representatives in the American association and make the home coming May 1 a glorious event. They will probably have a string of carriages at the station to ride their heroes all over the city that the joyous populace may greet them. The St. Paul team has achieved the feat of losing nine straight games, without turning a victory. In the percentage column, its portion is .000. Of course, it would be too much of a shock for the St. Paul fans to have a team that would win. They aren't accustomed to it and nine straight victories instead of nine straight defeats might create a terrible mortality list among the weak-hearted ones.

S.S.S. CURES RHEUMATISM

The aches and pains of Rheumatism are only symptoms which may be scattered or relieved with liniments, plasters, blisters, etc., or quieted with opiates. As soon, however, as the treatment is left off or there is any exposure to dampness or cold, or an attack of indigestion, or other physical irregularity, the aggravating pains, swollen joints and tender places on the flesh return, and the sufferer finds that he has merely checked the symptoms, while the real cause remained in the blood. Rheumatism is due to a too acid condition of the blood, brought on by indigestion, chronic constipation, weak kidneys, and a general sluggish condition of the system. This acid circulating in the blood produces the pains, aches, and other disagreeable symptoms of Rheumatism. S. S. S., a purely vegetable remedy, cures Rheumatism by going down into the circulation and driving out the cause and making this life-stream pure, rich and healthy. When the blood has been cleansed of the irritating, pain-producing acids by S. S. S., the pains and aches cease, the muscles become soft and pliable, the health is built up, and Rheumatism completely and permanently cured. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

OLD TIMERS LINING UP

Holes in Duluth Lineup Will Soon be Well Filled.

Catcher and First Baseman Report to Morrow at Aurora.

Herman "Doc" Voss, catcher for the Winnipeg team two years ago and a general utility man, has reported to Manager Morrow of the Duluth team at Aurora, Ill., and the big gap in the catching department is now filled. A dispatch to The Herald this morning says that the first base hole was also filled by the arrival of Ness from Sioux City. Nothing is known of Ness here, but he has all kinds of recommendations. He is a big fellow, with ability to use the club as well as play the sack, and it is believed he will make it a go.

Pitcher George Kerr and Outfielder Dan Tucker will join the squad Saturday. Kerr comes from Oshkosh, Wis., and has a good record. He is an old head in the game and is expected to be one of the regular pitchers. Tucker was with Grand Forks and Winnipeg in the days of the old Northern league and was the heaviest sticker on the Grand Forks team, which started the season two years ago. He has been in the game a good many years and knows baseball. If he can get the stiffness out of his joints, he will be a valuable man for his swatting ability.

Pitchers George Krick and Jim Haney and Outfielder Monroe of last year's squad have been ordered to report to Morrow immediately. By the time they join, Morrow will have tried out all his youngsters thoroughly, and will know just what course to pursue. Before he leaves Aurora, there will be a general weeding out and several heads are slated for the block.

"We will have a baseball team this season that will not finish last," said A. W. Kuehnow this morning. "If the men now on the squad can't get into the running and stay there, others will be secured, who can. Morrow will give the youngsters a thorough try-out and I believe we will be able to secure several, who will hold their own in the league. The others will be released as soon as they demonstrate that they are not fast enough for the league. With Voss, Krick, Haney, Monroe and Leighty on the team, we know we have a good starter for a team, and it's up to Morrow to fill in the other places with men, who can play ball."

THROUGH HOLY LAND AFOOT.

Tennesseean Avoids Tourist Paths and Tastes Peasant Life.

Bristol, Tenn., April 24.—I. E. Soard of Morristown, arrived here last week on his return from a visit to Jerusalem and the holy land. He comes back with a fund of information that is different from that gained by the average tourist. Mr. Soard states that his purpose was to gain a correct impression of the conditions among all classes in that sacred region.

He traveled afoot through portions of that land, and, instead of following the usual route of tourists, he mingled with the poorer classes, visiting them in their homes, and frequently sleeping in their hovels. He thinks that the knowledge thus gained is far different from the impression of the average tourists. He states that Jewish capital is now engaged in the erection of a new Jerusalem of imposing proportions, and that in this enterprise Jewish capital from all over the world is being used. Mr. Soard expects to write a story of his travels.

BUSINESS IS QUIET

Market Has Been Steady and Unchanged During the Week.

Cheese Lower—Heavy Demand for Strawberries Sends Price Up.

The week in the produce markets has been a quiet one, as is always expected right after the Easter holidays.

There has been scarcely a single variation in prices from last week and business has been rather quiet.

A break in the cheese market was one thing that did occur, however. All winter long, cheese prices have been on a very high basis. Not for several years had cheese been as high as it was for several months past and until this week.

In the winter when the cost of making cheese is increased, prices usually seek a high level, but during the past season they went abnormally high.

Quotations on nearly every grade of cheese are off a point to two points from last week. Full cream twins are selling at 13½ to 14½ whereas at the same time last week they could not be bought at any place along Michigan street for less than 14 to 15 cents.

Receipts of cheese have increased considerably.

Strawberries are a little more expensive than they were a few lays ago. The warm weather throughout the country must have filled people with a strong penchant for strawberry shortcake because there was a marked increase in the demand.

Supplies were not bountiful enough for the market to withstand the demand without undergoing an advance. so prices for both pint and quart cases have been marked up.

It is rather remarkable the way cranberries hang on. Time and again during the last month, it has seemed as if the cranberry had said its last farewell, but in the course of a day or so, some more appear. They are not offered in any uarge quantities, but some are to be had yet.

As long as they last, there will be a good demand, but the cranberry pie must of necessity be a scarcer article than two months ago when it is considered that the berries cost $14 to $16 a barrel on Michigan street at the present time.

Orange prices have not changed during the week, despite the fact that a week or so ago the shippers in California threatened to curtail shipments, because at the low level of prices existing then, they were making too small a profit, if any at all. They complained that orange shipments had been altogether too liberal to profit those people directly interested in the orange business.

But receipts are still heavy enough to warrant the commission men in offering navels for $2.75 to $3.25.

Apples are unchanged as to price. Dealers say that the present stocks are choice storage house goods and very fine as to quality. New York apples are selling at $3.75 to $4; New England apples at $3 to $3.25, and Idaho apples at $1.75 to $2.

• • •

Grape fruit is selling around $5.50, with the Cuban fruit about $1 higher. Receipts are quite liberal.

• • •

Conditions in the banana market remain about the same. The market has as yet shown no recession from the advance it took two or three weeks ago. At that time it bulged a half cent. Bananas are now selling at 4½ cents a pound, but the price is expected to ease off a little during the coming week.

Quotations on all the hothouse vegetables remains the same, but the market for them is liable to break any time now.

• • •

The stiffness of the poultry market shows no abatement. Chickens, both springs and hens, are scarce, even at 15 cents, and turkeys are to be had only at 20 cents a pound.

• • •

The meat market has done nothing during the week. Prices eased off from their high level, but although business is not heavy, they have not taken any decided declines.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

FIRE PROVES GOOD THING

Land Was Well Cleared and Owners Saved Much Expense.

While Damage Was Sometimes Heavy, a Benefit Will Result.

Akeley, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The forest fires in this vicinity which have caused much apprehension and destruction are under control. Wednesday evening citizens were busy patroling the outskirts of the town on horseback, or were working with shovels or ploughs and "backfiring." The fire department was out and on duty fully twenty-four hours, doing heroic work, and the farmers worked night and day for three days. It is now conceded that the fire will prove a blessing to the country in destroying the vast underbrush and the heavy tops and brush on the cut-over lands. These lands have never been cleared since the logs were cut off the land and at any time have been a menace to the farms and to life. The fires have entirely cleared the land for miles and has left the land ready for the plough or for sowing clover or grass seed. While much property was burned, it has saved the farmers thousands of dollars in clearing the land. Where one could only see a few yards because of the underbrush, now one can see through the timber for miles. More land will be cleared this year than has been for years. Farmers have now a full view of their land and can easily see over all they own. The fire was so complete that it has done a far better job than any farmer would be expected to take time to accomplish.

The fire has also taken away the constant fear and dread of a fire again, and more improvements will be made than ever in the history of Hubbard county. Farmers are already beginning to take advantage of the cleared land and will begin to clear it at once. Others are already beginning to put in their crops on a larger basis than ever.

It will take eight years before the underbrush can grow as thick as it was before the fire, and then there will not be the tops and slashing to contend with again. The heavy pine being all cut off most of the land in this vicinity.

FIND EVIDENCES OF THE ROBBERY

Steel Cash Box Taken From Crookston Establishment is Found.

Crookston, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last evening some boys discovered the steel cash box which had been taken from the safe in the Smith pool room, which was robbed of $250 on Tuesday night. The small steel door to the box had been smashed in, the money taken and the box hid. The thieves had left three checks for small amounts in the drawer.

The police are positive they have clues as to the guilty parties. Two young men of the city disapeared the night of the robbery. They bought tickets for Grand Forks, but did not take the train. It is supposed they hid somewhere on the outskirts of the city all Wednesday, for on Wednesday night they appeared at P. J. Lachapelle's shack on the outskirts of the city and bought some milk and wanted to remain there all night, but he could not allow them to stay.

A description of the two boys has been sent out and it will be impossible for them to get very far away before they are apprehended.

LARGEST CLASS WILL GRADUATE

From Michigan College of Mines at Houghton This Year.

Houghton, Mich., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The largest graduating class in the history of the Michigan College of Mines will participate in the class exercises and class banquet on Friday and Saturday evenings of next week. There are seventy-one members in the class which is by several the largest ever turned out from the local institution.

On Saturday, May 2, the annual banquet of the graduating class will take place at the Douglass house, and covers will be laid for upwards of 100, as there will be present in addition to the students, at least some of the members of the board of control, faculty, alumni and President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin, as the guest of honor. H. W. (Brownie) Morgan, the toastmaster, of this year's class, has completed his list of toasts as follows:

"Class of 1908," J. H. Reeder.
"Michigan College of Mines," William P. Langworthy.
"Loyalty," President F. W. McNair.
"Alumni," R. C. McCullum.
"Bouquets," W. J. Dobbins.
"Post Garduate Course," William Kelly.
"College Democracy," H. W. Moore.
"What We Are Up Against," C. T. Peacock.
"Retrospection," Prof. G. A. Koenig.

In addition to the toasts there will also likely be a few remarks by President Van Hise, although his talk to the students will be given the night preceding the banquet.

DOCTOR SCARES UP DEER.

Is Sorry the Law Prevents His Shooting Animals.

Grand Marais, Mich., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—While driving up the road which skirts the western end of town and in the vicinity of the farms of John Peterson and Frank Boelin, Dr. O'Brien ran into four deer which crossed the highway ahead of his horse and disappeared in the woods. The animals did not become frightened at the approach of the driver, but loped off leisurely and unconcerned. The doctor says that it was a pretty sight and that it made him hungry for his shooting iron and the hunting season. The fact of the deer venturing within the town limits leads to the conclusion that wolves are getting in their work.

HE SHOOTS TO KILL.

Minneapolis Colored Man Tries to Finish Son-in-Law.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—"I'll kill you," and without further demonstration or warning Watkins Hall, colored, shot and seriously wounded his son-in-law, Sam King, in the presence of the latter's wife on the second floor of 1405 Washington avenue south, Wednesday night. Mrs. King rushed between the two struggling men with her baby in her arms and begged her father not to shoot. Hall then turned and fled, shouting, "I'll kill him yet."

King is now in St. Mary's hospital in a critical condition and Hall is locked up at police headquarters.

The two negroes were having an argument over a grocery bill when Hall fired. The bullet took effect in King's arm. King then grabbed his assailant and tried to wrest the revolver from him. During the struggle Hall fired another shot, which took effect directly over the heart.

RAILROADS WIN AGAIN.

Supreme Court of North Dakota Knocks Out Another Law.

Bismarck, N. D., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state supreme court has declared unconstitutional the state law requiring to furnish 1,000-mile mileage books good for families at $20, flat, being in line with the decision of the United States supreme court.

The case came up on application for a writ of mandamus by the attorney general, asking that the roads be compelled to obey the law and the case was argued last week.

SEEKS IMMENSE DAMAGES.

Milwaukee Man Sues Railroad for $80,000 for Injuries.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge L. W. Halsey has brought suit for $80,000 against the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad company. Mrs. Halsey was killed and Judge Halsey was seriously injured as the result of a wreck on the road at a bridge crossing a stream near Maysville, Ky., eleven months ago. The suits are filed at Maysville, which is the county seat of Mason county.

The suits follow a long endeavor by Judge Halsey to adjust the matter out of courts.

"I was unable to secure satisfactory adjustment from the railroad company, and there was nothing left to do but to bring action for damages," said Judge Halsey.

William C. Quarles of Quarles, Spence & Quarles, is attorney for Judge Halsey.

YOUNG PLOWMAN INJURED.

Team Runs Away, Dragging Plow Over Him, Breaking His Ribs.

North Branch, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore Swanson, living with his folks about a mile and a half southeast of town, was the victim of a serious accident Monday afternoon. He was plowing in the field and the horses made a dash for home, running over him and dragging the plow onto young Swanson.

Swanson had stopped the team for a few moments to give the horses a rest and had stepped in front of them, and without warning, the horses commenced to run rapidly toward home, leaping over Swanson, who was directly in front of them. The young man was knocked down and struck by the play. A deep cut was made in the side and two ribs broken. The doctors were called immediately and washed out the wound and sewed it up, but they were unable to state immediately just how serious the injury might prove to be.

MINING MAN DEAD.

Houghton, Mich., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Wallas Cake, aged 55, superintendent of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company stamp mill at Lake Linden and one of the pioneers in copper stamping, who was with the Calumet & Hecla company for twenty years, died suddenly yesterday of acute inflammation of the heart. He was prominent in the mining world.

IRON COUNTY ROADS.

Sum of $100,000 to be Expended in Betterment.

Iron Mountain, Mich., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A conference of the leading tax-payers having declared in favor of the proposition, the expenditure of $100,000 for good roads is contemplated in Iron county. A bond issue for that amount will shortly be submitted to vote of the people. That it will carry is considered a foregone conclusion.

It is proposed to build a system of roads along scientific lines and in accordance with the state specifications. The good roads movement is making surprising progress in Upper Michigan generally. Already there has been planned an expenditure estimated at upwards of a million dollars and extending over a term of years. The county system has been adopted in a number of counties, and in many instances the roads that are built earn the state's highest bonus of $1,000 a mile.

GRAND FORKS PAPER SUED.

Boy's Mother Seeks Damages for Injury to Son.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 24.—Suit has been instituted in the district court by Maria Fawcett, as guardian of Harvey Fawcett, a minor, against the Times Publishing company of Grand Forks, to recover damages in the sum of $7,500 for an injury sustained by Harvey Fawcett, aged 14 years, while engaged in the employ of the defendant as a carrier. According to the complaint Harvey was engaged in taking papers from a folder when his hand was caught between cog wheels. One finger was completely destroyed and his hand was crushed and crippled. As a result of the accident, it is set forth, the hand is almost useless and will continue so permanently.

FORMER RECEIVER NEGLIGENT

Failure to Enforce Liability of Stockholders Counts Against Him.

St. Paul, Minn., April 24.—Gustav Willius, deposed receiver of the Germania bank, which failed in 1899, must pay $31,012 for neglecting to enforce liability against stockholders. Judge O. B. Lewis of the Ramsey county district court so held in a decision handed down in the action by the creditors of the bank against Mr. Willius.

"The unexplained lack of diligence and delay of the former receiver," says the court, "can only be designated by one term—negligence on his part."

Judge Lewis says that after all legal obstacles had been removed in 1904, the receiver still had fourteen months under the statute of limitations in which to collect $100,000 from stockholders. He could have brought twenty-five actions, but instead he only brought one, and that several months too late. The suit was brought last year by creditors of the bank.

FOUR AMENDMENTS WILL BE VOTED ON THIS YEAR.

St. Paul, April 24.—Secretary of State Schmahl has placed an order with the Great Western Printing company of Minneapolis, for 800,000 constitutional amendment ballots. The agreed price is 85 cents per thousand and the lot will cost just $50 less than two years ago, when 750,000 ballots were ordered.

The ballot this time will carry four amendments, wide-open tax, road and bridge fund, permitting the state to do a hail insurance business, and providing for educational qualifications for county school superintendents. The ballots will be shipped direct from the print shop to the various counties.

DOGS CAUSE OF DIVORCE SUIT

Woman Files Bill Because Husband Had Too Many Pets.

Chicago, April 24.—Dogs—that's all—caused Mrs. May M. Sharp to file a bill for divorce in the superior court yesterday against Harley C. Sharp.

Mr. Sharp had no affinity. He did not pay attention to other women. He was not cruel to his wife. He had no very bad habits. But he had twenty dogs. Mrs. Sharp says he loved his dogs better than his wife.

When Mr. Sharp bought an $18 silver cup for one of his canine pets, Mrs. Sharp considered that he had committed an unpardonable sin. She packed up and left him to his dogs.

Some of the Counts.

Here are the counts scored by Mrs. Sharp in her bill against her spouse and the bow-wows. She says Mr. Sharp:

Spent all his money on dogs and left the grocery bill unpaid for ten months.

Used his wife's cooking utensils to cook dog meat.

Filled the house with vile odors by cooking concoctions for his dogs.

Kept sick dogs in the house when his wife was ill, and when her physician said their presence was dangerous to her.

While his wife worked to help make ends meet, he bought an $18 silver cup for one of his dogs.

Bathed his dogs in the family bath tub.

Dried his dogs after their ablutions on the family towels.

Wrapped them in Mrs. Sharp's counterpanes.

Let the dogs sleep on beds and davenports.

Was frequently absent from home on hunting trips with his dogs.

Had trouble with landlords who threatened to evict them on account of dogs.

Too Much Dog.

"Life with so many dogs in the house was unbearable," said Mrs. Sharp yesterday. "Whenever I crossed the room I stumbled over a foxhound. If I started upstairs I tripped on a bulldog. If I attempted to sit down I sat on a French poodle. If I wanted to take a nap I had to throw half a dozen pugs and Blenheim spaniels off the sofa.

"When I cooked dinner, Scotch collies and Irish setters followed me about the kitchen poking their noses into the pots and dishes. At the table I had to toss food to the circle of canine beggars that sat around like hungry coyotes about the campfires of a plainsman. I used to like dogs, but I am a woman who knows when she has enough."

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me." J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

EATS ELECTRIC LIGHT BULB.

Condemned Murderer Makes Desperate Attempt to Kill Himself.

Bismarck, N. D., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Noah, the condemned murderer from Ward county, now confined in the penitentiary, awaiting execution in a few months, tried to commit suicide Tuesday night by eating an electric light bulb. The attempt was frustrated by the guards, however. Noah, after writing a letter to his wife and also one to Governor Burke, seized the electric light bulb that hung just outside his cell, broke it and began to eat the glass. Dr. Smyth was called and Noah calmed down after the examination and spent the rest of the evening in solitude.

URGES PLANTING OF TREES.

Governor Burke Points Out Benefits That Will Result.

Bismarck, N. D., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Friday, May 1, is Arbor day in North Dakota, and in his proclamation urging a general observance of the day, Governor John A. Burke says:

"There has never been, in the history of the world, such widespread interest in forest culture. To save their vineyards and orchards, France and Italy are now reforesting their watersheds, while in our own land the best authorities claim that in twenty-five years our forests will be exhausted. The rapidly disappearing forests have caused our government to set aside our national forest reserves, large tracts of timber which are under the care and supervision of the government.

"Our state should not be behind the times in this great movement. Ours is a prairie state, an agricultural state; and the influence of trees and forests in producing and conserving moisture, in breaking winds and in tempering the climate is well known. North Dakota does not need forests for lumber alone, but it needs forests also for the great benefit that they are to agriculture.

"I recommend the planting of trees and shrubbery in school yards and public grounds, and that the only exercises held in the public schools on such day be those relating to forestry, the influence of forestry upon the air, the soil, the rainfall and the conservation of moisture, so that the rising generation may grow up with a knowledge of its greatest benefit to agriculture in this great agricultural state."

SALVATION NEEDED UP HERE.

Argument for Crookston That Secures Sunday School Meeting.

St. Paul, Minn., April 24.—The Minnesota Sunday School association in session here voted to hold the 1909 convention at Crookston. There was considerable rivalry between Crookston and Mankato for the next meeting and strong arguments were put up by the supporters with honors about even, until some one said the northern part of the state needed the influence of Christ much more than did the southern and that even if there were corduroy roads and things to put up with, this was the chosen field. In the face of such an argument, the Mankatans could do little other than preserve a modest silence.

Th following officers were chosen for the year: President, W. H. Gold, Redwood Falls; first vice president, Watson Moore, Duluth; recording secretary, C. F. Woodward, Minneapolis; treasurer, A. C. Herman, St. Paul. Twenty-four delegates were chosen to attend the national convention at Louisville, Jan. 17 to 23.

BURN CHURCH MORTGAGE.

Crookston, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special service was held at the First Presbyterian church last evening at which the last mortgage against the church was burned, Maj. G. H. Mix, who has been a deacon in the church for the past twenty-six years, officiating at the burning. Maj. Mix was the first agent of the Great Northern in this city. Addresses were made by Rev. W. S. Word and others and a banquet concluded the evening.

NOVEL SWINDLE BARED.

Two Hundred Chemists in Paris and Suburbs Tricked.

Paris, April 24.—Some 200 chemists in Paris and the suburbs have been swindled out of a considerable sum of money by two young men who had an original idea. Messengers were sent by them to several hundred chemists with a doctor's prescription, which, besides quinine or some other drug, mentioned a bottle of "Neriot Ferment," which was to be included. The "Neriot Ferment" was a product which was unknown to any of the chemists, but as the address of the central warehouse, where it was sold at 12 francs a bottle, was given, most of the chemists sent for a supply.

At the warehouse in question, which was only a shop hired for the occasion by the two young men, the latter had all they could do to satisfy their customers, who came in scores all day long. To each a bottle was delivered for 12 francs, with a wrapper mentioning how the "Neriot Ferment" was to be used. The young men must have netted thousands of francs in a single day, with which they disappeared in the evening. On examining the contents of the bottles the chemists found that the "Neriot Ferment" was pure water.

SPENDTHRIFT TO BE CURBED.

French Court Asked to Restrain Countess for Thriftlessness.

Paris, April 24.—Whoever, in the opinion of French courts of law, lives beyond his or her means, can at any time be legally restrained and reduced to the status of an infant. The mother of the Countess de Cholet now petitions for an order placing her daughter under the guardianship of a "family council," on the ground of her alleged thriftlessness. The countess, when she married, had a fortune of $440,000, and her husband, from whom she has since separated, had a post in Constantinople. Moreover, when she and the count came to Paris on visits, they did not live in their flat, because she preferred to stop in a hotel in the Place Vendome, taking pension in a neighboring restaurant at $20 a head per day. Two children were born in Constantinople, and the countess attached a doctor to her person, at a salary of $2,400 for two or three weeks at a time. Eventually, she returned to Paris and separated from the count, when her "spending fury," according to her mother's counsel, increased. He keeps all sorts of animals, poultry, dogs and cattle, and has a kennel in England; she builds houses constantly, and constantly alters them at great expense. She is accordingly in debt, has mortgaked her property heavily and pawned her jewels.

LILLEY CRITICISED

For Allowing Statements to Go Uncontradicted for a Month.

Washington, April 24.—Interesting developments followed each other in close succession yesterday in the hearing being conducted by the special committee of the house on charges preferred by Representative Lilley of Connecticut against the Electric Boat company. They ranged from the participation of the Lake Boat company in the preparation of a resolution of inquiry introduced into the house by Mr. Lilley to matters of a personal nature, in which the criticism of the committee played a prominent part. Incidentally, Representative Lilley was severely taken to task by members of the committee for allowing published criticisms of its actions over his signature to stand for a month without being contradicted. Mr. Lilley and the committee locked horns over the question of the production of letters, which he claimed are confidential, and the question of whether they should be produced had not been decided when adjournment was taken for the day.

The question of the authorship of the two anonymous letters that have played such an important part in the investigation was also gone into, and it is the belief of the committee that the identity of the writer will be established within the next forty-eight hours.

CROOKSTON EPISCOPALIANS HAVE SECURED RECTOR.

Crookston, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Christ's Episcopal church, which has had no rector for about a year past, has called Rev. Richard Cox of Weyburn, Saskatchewan, Canada, and he will be installed by Bishop Morrison of Duluth on May 3. There will also be a large class for confirmation at that time. The church is being renovated and improved for the reception of the new pastor.

WAS DUMB FOR 44 YEARS.

Woman Fully Regains Speech, According to Witch's Prophecy.

Florence, April 24.—A woman named Carlotta Tani, living in the village of Castellina Torre, near Florence, has recovered the power of speech after being dumb for forty-four years. She astounded her family by suddenly speaking, and now has completely control of her voice.

In her home, a farmhouse, which goes by the name of Belle Ragazze, she related how, when she was 7 years old, an old beggar woman called the "witch" gave her a quince. Immediately after eating it she became dumb, and in forty-four years that have elapsed since has been able to express only her most pressing needs by sounds which her brothers and parents could understand. She has always been very quick of hearing.

Before dying the "witch" summoned the girl, promising a cure, but Carlotta reached the "witch's hut too late. The woman, however, had prophesied Carlotta's recovery when she reached the "witche's age, and this, the villagers say, occurred last week. At any rate, Carlotta's parents spent half their substance in seeking a cure from scientists.

Carlotta's first words, spoken to her sister-in-law, who woke her in the morning, were, "Come, come and dress me." News of the "miracle" spreading, the villagers flocked to the house whereupon Carlotta rated them and told them to be off. She is a cherry, healthy woman, but very shy. She remembers very little of her past, save in the case of a few incidents which caused her violent emotion. One such incident was a proposal of marriage from a bunchback. She told how she tried to show her indignation by gestures.

The other morning she went in procession to the village church with numberless relatives, and confessed vocally for the first time in her life. Previously she had written her confessions. After the service she said her present happiness was at times disturbed by visions of the "witch," whom she called a "creature of the devil."

STATE HOME QUARANTINED.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., April 24.—Supt. A. W. Wilmarth and family, at the state home for feebleminded, are placed under quarantine because the cook in his quarters is ill with smallpox. The strictest precautions are being taken to prevent an epidemic among the 700 inmates.

HARDIE REGAINS HEALTH.

Made Tour of the World That Lasted Eight Months.

London, April 24.—Keir Hardie, M. P., who set out in a tour of the world in search of health eight months ago, has landed at Plymouth, with every indication upon his sunburnt features that his quest has been completely successful.

That he should have brought back from his long journeyings some vivid impressions of his experiences is no surprising thing; it says much for his renewed vitality, however, that he has already found time to satisfy the curiosity of many reporters concerning his adventures. To one he has spoken of the wretched condition of things that still prevails in South Africa, where able-bodied men are wasting their energy upon unproductive relief works at the equivalent in wages of 25 cents per day; to another he has spoken in glowing terms of New Zealand as the emigrant's land of promise, and of Canada as a place to be avoided by the work-seeker; while, to yet a third, he has discussed tariff reform and imperial duty.

NO ALTAR OR PRIEST

One of Strangest Temples of Worship in the World.

Chapel of Ascension in London is Intended for Rest.

London, April 24.—In the very heart of this city, not far distant from the Marble Arch, there stands one of the strangest temples of worship in the whole world. It is called the Chapel of Ascension, and it contains no pulpit, no altar, no font, no band of choristers. No services are held in it, and no priest or minister crosses its threshold except as a visitor. The chapel is a place not of Christian routine and service, but simply where a man or woman may "rest a while and commune with his own soul amid pictured walls," as the notice which hangs over the door says.

The chapel is the idea of Mrs. Russell Gurney, who, during her lifetime, was a member of one of the best known families in London. She received her inspiration from a small chapel in Florence, and conceived the idea of building a place of communion in the heart of London, set apart for rest and filled with consecrated art.

Remarkable Painting.

But while the purposes of the chapel itself is unique, more remarkable still are the religious paintings that cover its walls from floor to ceiling. For fourteen years Frederic Shields, the famous English painter and friend and contemporary of Ruskin, Dante, Rossetti and Ford Madox Brown, has devoted his whole time and thought to their execution. Although the task is not yet complete, there are but few vacant spaces on the walls of the little building. Very nearly 200 paintings, illustrating the Scriptures, have emanated from the fertile brain and gifted brush of this artist.

The chapel was finished in 1894 after considerable difficulty had been experienced by Mrs. Gurney in finding a site that suited her. In that year Mr. Shields began work on his paintings. The little building has been open for a few weeks now to the general public. As one enters and looks around, one may see the whole story of the Bible told by the pictures on the four walls. The scheme begins over the gallery arch with the creation of man, followed by the union of man and woman. On the south wall is pictured "The Goodly Fellowship of the Prophets," beginning with Enoch, caught up and delivered from a violent world flowing with rivers of blood, ending with Malachi, who looks back on his predecessors and points across the space of the chapel to the north wall to John the Baptist and his successors "the Glorious Company of the Apostles."

Some are preaching, others praying, prophesying, confessing sins, beholding the beatific visions, or standing triumphant as martyrs. Below the prophets and the apostles are small subject pictures above, in intimate relation with these figures, are angels performing missions of mercy and judgment; while alternating the figures are large paintings, giving spiritual renderings of the familiar stories of the Gospels, and of the incidents of the Acts of the Apostles.

The Key Pictures.

But it is to the east wall where eyes are first directed and are held by the pictures which give the keynote to the whole of the design—the conceptions of the crucifixion and of the ascension. Subject paintings surround them, and many figures, such as those of faith, hope, love and patience—the final virtue.

Mr. Shields began his career as an apprentice to a firm of lithographers and went through a long period of the direst poverty. Finally one day while "down and out" he wandered into an exhibition of paintings in Manchester and decided to become an artist. He immediately went home and made a water color sketch, which not only sold for $45 but brought another commission to the needy youth.

A few years of this work brought him an order to illustrate "The Pilgrim's Progress." He took the contract at so low a figure that he soon found that he was reduced to a bread and water diet. A little later he executed some designs for an edition of "Vanity Fair," which so pleased Ruskin that he said to him:

"I do not know of any artist in England who could have done these pictures but yourself. You may become more celebrated than any painter of the day."

From this time on the path of the young toward success and fame was a smooth one. He came to London in 1874, when his reproductions of his drawings of town and rustic children were selling like hot cakes.

In 1889, when Mrs. Russell Gurney was looking for an artist capable of carrying out her ideas for the decoration of the chapel which she was to build, it was to Mr. Shields that she turned. Five years later when the little house of rest and communion was completed he set to work on the fourteen-year task.

DISPUTE SETTLED

As to When Lincoln Began to Grow Whiskers.

Omaha, Neb., April 24.—The hot dispute which has raged in Omaha for a month as to whether or not Abraham Lincoln had whiskers when he was inaugurated the first time has been settled in the affirmative by a letter written by Lincoln himself to a little girl, Grace Bedell, who is now Mrs. Billings of Delphos, Kan., a copy of which has just reached this city to settle the dispute.

The letter is an answer to one the little girl wrote Mr. Lincoln, advising him to grow a beard. Just before the election Mr. Lincoln answered her and told her he had never worn whiskers, but as he was en route to Washington he passed through the town in which the little girl then lived and she called upon him. He told her he had decided to follow her advice, and then stroked the beard which he had raised on her suggestion.

The question of the beard arose here because of the statute of Lincoln, which has just been erected by pupils of the high school. The statue shows no beard and caused a hot controversy on this subject.

TO MEET THE SHIP GROWTH

Chelsea Section Opens Greatest Coast Mile in the World.

New York, April 24.—Entire rearrangement of the 450 miles of improved water-front in this harbor is to follow the building of the superstructure and concourse on the new Chelsea piers, which has begun by the city. Into the most dense mile of trans-Atlantic wharfage in the world, between Christopher and West Twenty-third streets, more of the big liners than dock in the whole of any other port have already arranged to warp. Plans to fill the old berths of the ocean greyhounds further down the island are this week being made by a host of coast and gulf lines that now lie scattered off other points. Every foot of other available dock room in this port is engaged for years after the opening of the new piers, shipping authorities declared today, and soon steps are to be taken to eventually improve the entire 800 miles of harbor shore which is available for wharfage here.

Although London posseses less than half, and Liverpool, Hamburg, Rotterdam and Havre each less than a quarter of New York's present docking frontage, this Chelsea district is to be the most congested shipping mile in the world, according to figures obtained by the American Seamen's Friend society today. Within sight of the large home for seamen which the society is now putting up in the center of this stretch, 7,500 sailors will be constantly arriving when the building is completed. Fully 500,000 merchant seamen have entered the port within the past year, the records show, and many thousands of them swarm about this section every day.

Like a great modern hotel the new headquarters for Jack-ashore is today rising in the midst of this shore line that bristles with the tallest masts in the world. Private bedrooms for some 200 sailors, clubrooms for hundreds more, separate quarters for officers, stewards and engineers, billiards, bowling, showers and swimming pools are some of the things which will be set before the sailor host that presses about the quarter. An honest "slop shop"—the seaman's department store—a shipping bureau, a bank and a modern restaurant are to be other features of this sailors' caravanserie, which will cost $325,000. Thousands of crimps, steerers and boarding house runners lie in wait at just this vantage point of the Chelsea district for the paid-off sailors who swarm ashore, and it is the idea of the American Seamen's Friend society to make their big building a timely point of refuge.

"New York is the third largest port in the world, with the largest vessels and the most sailors in the world coming into this section," said George McPherson Hunter, secretary of the society, today. "Now it is, I hope, going to have the best facilities for looking out for the men who move this tremendous merchant fleet direct to and from 225 other ports. Our home and institute is to be a means of practical good to the greatest host of idle sailors that set foot on any one bit of shore. We have some $250,000 toward its erection already and hope soon to complete it with the $75,000 more which is needed. As a headquarters for good to the sailor, our new institute in the Chelsea section will reach to every shore on the globe."

He Got What He Needed.

"Nine years ago it looked as if my time had come," says Mr. C. Farthing of Mill Creek, Ind. Ter. "I was so run down that life hung on a very slender thread. It was then my druggist recommended Electric Bitters. I bought a bottle and I got what I needed—strength. I had one foot in the grave, but Electric Bitters put it back on the turf again, and I've been well ever since." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c.

ONLY THOSE KIDS

Whose Grandmothers Have Died Are Wanted in Baseball Season.

Chicago, Ill., April 24.—"Wanted—Boys over 16 years old, whose grandmothers are known to be dead, and whose relatives are immune from sickness common to the baseball season, as pages at the public library. Position pays $25 a month. Apply for examination at the civil service board."

The civil service board has exhausted its supply of boys who act as pages at the public library and wants more to fill the vacancies.

WIDOW PENSIONERS.

Important Notice by the Pension Agent at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 24.—Capt. F. H. Magdeburg, United States pension agent, has received notice from Washington that all widows, minors and helpless children now on the pension rolls at a less rate will be increased to $12 per month under the act of April 19, 1908, from the date of the act. No application is required to obtain the increased rate, but the same will be paid by the United States pension agent at the next quarterly payment upon receipt of the voucher properly executed, which is now in possession of the pensioner. The present pension certificate should be retained until its return shall have been requested by the pension agent from whom the pension is received. Widows applying for original pensions should address the commissioner of pensions, Washington, D. C., direct.

HE USED "NU SPELL."

Everybody's Magazine: A man with a waistcoat and diamond shirt stud that fairly screamed "Prosperity!" at all within seeing distance, blew into the public stenographer's office in a New York hotel.

"Say," he demanded, "can you write a letter to my goil?"

The stenographer assured him that she could.

"Well," directed the sport after giving the name and address, "tell her I've connected with a barrel of money on the ponies and that I'm goin' to Narragansett Pier for two weeks. See!"

For a few seconds the typist's fingers flew. Suddenly she stopped.

"I can't for the life of me remember," she explained in a puzzled voice, "how to spell 'Narragansett.'"

The man behind the waistcoat tossed his cigar stump in the waste basket and scratched his head.

"N-a-r-nar-r-e—rer-r—oh, h——, cut it out! I'll go to Newport!"

Broken Down

Over-work, worry, mental effort, sickness or any strain upon the nervous system affects the whole body. All the organs depend upon the nerves for strength. If they don't get it they can't do the work demanded of them. Dr. Miles' Nervine restores nervous energy, and builds up the broken down system.

"Two years ago my wife was almost at the point of death with nervous prostration, I shall never forget how she suffered, it was night and day, until we commenced to use Dr. Miles' Nervine and she speedily began to recover. Today she is enjoying as good health as she ever did.

LOW VITALITY

A Dangerous Attendant Symptom of Anaemia.

Many Serious Disorders May Result from Impoverished Blood, but Dr. William's Pink Pills Prevent and Cure Them.

Besides the thinning of the blood in anaemia there is a low vitality which is a matter for serious consideration because it gives opportunity for any latent trouble to develop. Thus, anaemic (bloodless) people often have reason to fear consumption, and that blood failing to give proper nourishment to the nerves, debility, neuralgia and even some form of paralysis may result.

In no disease is delay or neglect more dangerous than in anaemia, or poverty of the blood. It is common in young girls and in persons who are overworked or confined within doors and makes its approach in so stealthy a manner that it is often well-developed before its presence is recognized.

But taken in time the disease is readily curable, the specific being a tonic medicine which increases the number of red blood-corpuscles thus enabling the blood to carry the life-saving oxygen to all the tissues of the body. Such a tonic is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills have had unbounded success in curing this stubborn disease because of this wonderful property. The cure of anaemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything in medical science.

Mrs. Julia Richmond, who lives at 1221 Maumee avenue, Fort Wayne, Ind., was cured by this treatment. She says:

"When I was eighteen years old I had an attack of the grip and it left me a physical wreck. I suffered for months and failed to get any help. I was so weak and short of breath that when I went up stairs I would have to sit down at every other step and when I got up stairs I would have to lie down and rest. I had no color at all and my lips were blue. I had headaches most all of the time and black specks would float before my eyes. I had dizzy spells, when I would lie down because I was afraid I would fall and hurt myself. I had palpitation of the heart and was always drowsy. I would no more than sit down before I would fall asleep. I had a bad cough and everybody thought I was going into consumption. I didn't dare to leave the house for fear something would happen to me. I was nervous and had no ambition.

"I was under the care of a doctor, but didn't get any better and he gave me no encouragement. I finally gave him up and then for a time tried every medicine that was recommended to me, but none of them did me a bit of good. An aunt told us about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and my father bought a box of them. I would not take them at first but after he had coaxed me a while, I said I would try them and if they failed I would never try another medicine. So I started to take them and after a while I could see a little change; my lips, ears and the tips of my fingers began to have some color. I cannot tell how grateful I am for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me for I thought I should never get well again."

A helpful booklet "Diseases of the Blood" giving more information about anaemia will be sent free upon request. If you are suffering from impoverished blood you cannot afford to wait another day before giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a thorough trial. They are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

ON THE IRON RANGES

COMMITS CRIME WHEN RELEASED

Louis Falloco Stands Good Chance of Returning to Stillwater.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Louis Falloco, who was convicted of the crime of assault with a deadly weapon in 1905 and sentenced to Stillwater from Grand Rapids for a term of three years, was released on parole some time ago. He went to Coleraine, where, on Monday last, he stole $50 in cash from Mrs. James Mora, who keeps an Italian boarding house at that place. Chief of Police Harry received word from the Duluth police authorities that Falloco had been in that city and left Tuesday afternoon over the Soo line with railroad transportation to Montreal and steamship tickets on the Cunard line to Italy. County Attorney Thwing communicated with the penitentiary authorities, who will endeavor to intercept him.

DEBATING ROW PROBABLY OVER

Virginia and Minneapolis to Withdraw, Allowing Montevideo to Win.

Virginia, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. Bliss has returned from the state university, where he attended a joint meeting of the debating board and the board of directors of the State High School Debating league. With the exception of the Minneapolis member, the board of directors composed of members from each congressional district, declared unanimously in favor of Virginia in its dispute over the recent debate with the Minneapolis north high school team, and so advised the debating board. While the members of the latter body acknowledged that they had exceeded their authority in declaring the Minneapolis-Virginia debate invalid, they also act as debating board for the state university and very much disliked to reverse their decision for fear of being ridiculed by the university students. Hence they suggested that if an amicable adjustment could be reached between the contending parties it would be most agreeable to the board.

On suggestion of Supt. Bliss of this city, after consultation with the board of directors, both Minneapolis and Virginia agreed to withdraw from the contest and permit the championship to go to Montevideo by default. While this does not do the Virginia team justice, it prevents Minneapolis from claiming an unearned championship.

The board of directors will hold their annual meeting on May 8, at which time an effort will be made to simplify the present complex governing powers of the state league and to so clearly define the powers of both boards that there will be no opportunity in the future for such disputes as occurred this year.

MANY CEDAR POSTS BURN.

Fire Does Damage at Little Trout Lake---Grand Rapids Notes.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A forest fire at Little Trout lake last Saturday destroyed about $3,000 worth of cedar posts and ties belonging to E. O. Moore & Co. A crew of men were taken to the scene of the fire by special train from Deer River, but were unable to save the property. Forest fires have been numerous about Grand Rapids the past few days, but no damage has yet been reported.

On Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Mothers' club at the kindergarten room in the Central school. Two subjects will be discussed, the first being "The Foundation of God Government." This subject will be discussed by Mrs. C. L. Pratt, Miss Burlingame and F. E. Reuswigg.

Otto Jurgenson, formerly an employe at the Rasca paper mill, and who had just returned from a year's sojourn in the West, left Monday morning for Erie, Pa., where he has accepted a position in a large paper mill. Mr. Jurgenson's family is still in the West, and expected to join him in the Pennsylvania city in a few weeks.

George Meyers and L. F. Knox are building a speed launch for Pokegama lake that will be a winner. The boat is 25 feet long, 56-inch beam, knife-blade cutwater, and will carry a 12-horse-power engine.

The Socialist women and men will meet in social, literary and musical entertainment at Socialist hall, in the building formerly occupied by the Independent, next Wednesday evening, April 29.

LAURA MINE SHIPPING.

Is Sending About Thirty Cars of Ore Down Daily.

Hibbing, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Inland Mining company enjoys the distinction of being the first to ship ore from the Mesaba range this season. At present about thirty cars are daily being sent to the dock via the Great Northern road. It is understood the company has a boat engaged for May 1.

The Laura is the only mine shipping, and there are no preparations under way for the shipping season at any of the other mines as yet.

All of the Hibbing underground mines are depositing ore in stock pile, however, except the Webb and the Nassau. The Webb shut down last fall and the Nassau. The Webb shut down last fall and the Nassau closed down about six weeks ago.

WORKED OLD GAME.

David E. Watson Said to Have Caught Grand Rapids People.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief of Police Harry has gone West with a warrant for the arrest of one David E. Watson. Mr. Watson had been in Grand Rapids a few days and stopped at the Hotel Pokegama while he solicited advertisements from local business men for a time table of the Great Northern railway which he proposed to issue. For these advertisements he is said to have collected various sums of money and left town without producing the promised time card. He also forgot to settle his bill at the hotel. For these oversights he will be called to account before the local court, if the officer brings him back. Watson is said to be in Bemidji now working his graft.

CHISHOLM'S FIRST GAME.

Scott-Graff Nine Will Meet Range Aggregation May 3.

Chisholm, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first baseball game to be played by the city team will be played Sunday afternoon, May 3, with the Scott-Graff team of Duluth. The Chisholm team will be one of the strongest aggregations on the range. The new players signed by Manager Sullivan are arriving every day. Repair work is being done every day this week on the grounds to have them in fine shape for the practice work which will be started at once.

GET MUCH SPAWN FOR HATCHERIES

Interesting Operations at Pike River Falls This Week.

Tower, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work of taking fish spawn is rapidly progressing at Pike river falls where Game Warden James Beatty with a crew of men has spent the week. The fish have been running well and an unusually large amount of spawn has been taken this year. An average of from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 a day will result in a total of 75,000,000 or 80,000,000, the greatest number ever secured here. It is likely that the work will be completed this week. Scores of people from here have taken advantage of the chance and gone to the falls, nine miles distant, to view the operations, which are very interesting. The river is dammed just below the falls and as the fish come over the dam, they are caught in small nets by several of the employes. Then placed in the large net from which they are taken one by one, the spawn removed, and the fish thrown back into the water, uninjured.

Pans are provided for the purpose, about 50,000 being the usual amount placed in one pan. An average of from 12,000 to 15,000 eggs is secured from each female, a certain percentage of the male germ is added, it being necessary to mix the two immediately as the male germ dies in about four minutes unless intermixed. When the desired amount is secured for each pan, it is washed in a solution of corn starch to prevent sticking, then in several waters and finally allowed to stand in clear water.

The eggs are then shipped to the hatcheries where about 40 to 75 per cent generally hatch, the small fry being then planted in the various streams. The eggs taken in the natural state will average as stated while those having been secured from along the stream where they have been deposited by the fish, seldom average over 1 per cent.

The gathering takes place annually in the spring as soon as the ice is out and the fish come down stream, the season this year being unusually early. Supt. Fullerton has not been in charge here this year as he is similarly engaged elsewhere.

MISSABE OFFICIALS VISIT.

Look Over Track and Other Work Being Done in Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The political pot at Gilbert is boiling over, for the ticket originally planned is not the ticket to be put into the field. The ticket now has as supervisors Capt. Mathews, John Siegel and Joseph Brula. The name of S. T. Bonino has been taken off in favor of Capt. Mathews of the Hebart mine. This is taken to indicate that the mining companies are to take a hand in the game, as they have secured the name of Capt. Crane as village president. The cause for the fear of the mining company interference is that the town's necessary improvements will be opposed by the companies on the ground of economy.

The election takes place today. Both interests are striving to carry the day, and the result is in doubt.

GILBERT ELECTION FRIDAY.

No Little Interest in Outcome in New Range Town.

Eveleth, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. Kreitter and other officials of the D., M. & N. road were in town yesterday, and were especially interested in the work being done at the Adams mine near the old shaft of the No. 2. The track work is progressing rapidly. The old shafthouse is to be razed as soon as possible, so that the ore can be taken out in the No. 6 shaft.

The dynamo that was in the Adams No. 4 enginehouse has been moved to the Gilbert mine. The space is now being used as a paint shop.

The Steel corporation has drills working at the edge of the right bank of the Adams stripping. In the stripping the three shovels are working to the fullest capacity. Work has been temporarily suspended in the milling pit at the edge of the No. 4 Adams.

AURORA SCHOOL NOTES.

Voters to Decide Upon Building School at the Meadow Mine.

Aurora, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Notices have been posted calling for a special meeting of the voters of this school district at 4 o'clock on May 1 at the school building of Aurora for the purpose of deciding whether or not to construct a school building at the Meadow mine location. There are about twenty children there at present. During this year they have been transported to the Aurora school at an expense of $50 a month.

The members of the school board have voted to add some work in manual training and domestic science in the Aurora school next year. The two rooms in the south side of the basement will be fitted up for this work and one teacher will be hired to take charge of them. The boys and girls of the fifth grade and above will take part in the work. The girls will do sewing and cooking while the boys will do work in wood. All the manual training work will be bench.

The work of General Contractor Harry Pearson on the Stephens school was accepted by the board and final payments of $10.52 was made. Mr. Pearson will probably do the work of moving the dirt on the Aurora school grounds next week.

Misses Dennis and Parks visited with the Sousan teachers from Thursday evening until Sunday morning. While there they went down into the mine to a depth of 1,239 feet. The Soudan mine is the oldest iron mine and probably the deepest.

Miss Frances Adams visited with Mrs. Cressman of Ely from Thursday until Sunday morning.

Miss Vida Thomas of the Ely high school visited with Alice Brown over Sunday. They went over to the Gilbert Saturday and Miss Thomas visited the school Monday.

Miss Mildred Curtiss spent the holiday in Duluth with her friend.

Miss May Brown gave an Easter breakfast at 10:30 Sunday morning for the teachers. The following teachers were present: Misses Dennis, Savage, Parks, Graham, Adams, Brown and Fredolph Anderson.

M. Tredway, Dr. C. B. Lenon, D. E. Cuppernull, James Clark and Joseph. CAUGHT WITH GOODS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 24.—(Special to the Herald.)—Justice Kearney is to look into the charge against Andrew Salter, who was caught with a fish net by Deputy Game Warden Seamans and Sheriff Hoolihan, early in the week. The net was well filled with pike, pickerel, black and rock bass and whitefish. The officers evidently suspected Mr. Salter of violating the fish laws, as they went out to his farm at Pokegama late Wednesday morning, and about 6 o'clock they found him in possession of the net and fish, which he had just raised from the water.

FISH STORY SEASON ON.

Eveleth, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first of the large catches of the fishing season occurred recently at Ely lake, a few miles from town. Andrew Olson was the fortunate man as he pulled in a forty-two-pound muskellunge after a struggle to get to shore that almost overturned the boat he was in.

FORT FRANCES BANQUET.

Affair Has Been Postponed Until Next Tuesday Evening.

Virginia, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The town of Fort Frances, Ont., has sent out notices that the proposed banquet to the officials of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railway to commemorate the advent of the railway into Fort Frances has been postponed to next Tuesday evening, April 28. It was originally intended to give the banquet last evening, but owing to the fact that some of the officials could not be present, the postponement was decided upon. A number of Virginia prominent citizens have been invited and will attend.

FIFTY-POUND PIE.

Aurora, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supper given by the Sunday school last Wednesday was attended by 106 children. The tables were packed and the youngsters had their pictures taken. The feature of the supper was a huge meat pie which weighed in the neighborhood of 50 pounds. Some idea of the size of the pie can be gleaned from the fact that it consisted of two legs of veal and one peck of potatoes. The pie was made by Mrs. Charles Hill.

MANY WATCH DRILL.

Eveleth, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large crowd witnessed the drill of the new local militia company last night at the Vail hall. VIRGINIA SHOOTERS WON.

They Beat Aurora Sports by Nineteen Birds.

Aurora, April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The shoot between the Virginia and Aurora Gun clubs on the Aurora grounds yesterday resulted in a victory for the former. Out of 210 birds Virginia secured 159 and Aurora 140. Following is the individual score out of a possible thirty birds:

Walter Case, attorney, Dr. Whittemore, dentist and Richter's bakery were more or less damaged but the total damage was less than first reported.

An Expensive Fad.

Of all the fads in the world, that of collecting and saving old and rare editions of printed books, is perhaps the most costly. The prices of many of these books run up into the thousands. Another fad that is growing more popular every day, and one that can be enjoyed by rich and poor alike, is that of serving golden grain belt beer at mealtime. This beverage is refreshing and appetizing—an aid to digestion and a muscle builder. Order of Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing Co.

W. H. HOPKINS, BROKER, HAS SKIPPED TO CANADA

York. This plan, which is for a combination of all the zinc mines in Wisconsin and Missouri, attracted a good deal of attention from financiers.

"Hopkins, according to his own statement, was to have cleared a commission of a quarter of a million dollars," said Mr. Harper. "With that he intended to pay back the money of his clients and establish himself firmly on his feet."

It has been known in certain quarters for more than a week that Hopkins was "drifting on the shoals." Last week he called a meeting of his creditors—the term "creditors" being, in Hopkins' view, synonimous with those persons from whom he had taken money and given absolutely no return—and explained the position. Some of them were willing to let him try to get out of the tangle. Others, however, could not se it that way.

Gives Hopkins $5,000.

One of the most angry of the creditors was Henry Eder, a retired brewer. He insisted upon his lawyer, Gustavus J. Tatge of Tatge, Abbott & Koepke, laying his complaint before State's Attorney Healy. Messrs. Eder and Tatge had several conferences with Mr. Healy, with the result that Mr. Tatge announced that he would go before the grand jury with the evidence. Mr. Eder gave a check for $5,000 to the Hopkins company at the beginning of April, with orders to buy for him Rawhide mining stock. This order was never filled, and Mr. Eder has been unable to obtain either money or stock from Hopkins. The new fugitive financier simply "stood off" his client with excuses.

This was the method Hopkins is stated to have pursued for some weeks past, it being declared that his methods were the "rawest" seen on LaSalle street for many a day. At the time of the Yukon Gold Mining company advertisement of Thomas W. Lawson it is stated that Hopkins took in over $25,000 from Chicagoans. This money was to have been used to buy Yukon, but Hopkins is said to have either tossed it into his Consolidated Zinc scheme or spent it personally.

Puts on "Big Front."

Hopkins, who has been making his Chicago headquarters at the New Illinois Athletic club, is said to have been spending about $30 a day for the last four months in high living and "putting up a front." Most of the money was spent in New York, where he was trying to impress the financiers who, he hoped, were to take hold of his zinc merger.

Eder, however, was not the only creditor who could not be calmed by the persuasive Mr. Hopkins, who is described as being "one of the smoothest articles extant." Charles W. Clark of the Clark Brothers Belt company, 69 Dearborn street, also vowed vengeance. He had paid $4,675 to the Hopkins company in March. The money was to be used in buying Tonopah mining stock. Mr. Clark had the same experience as Mr. Eder. Hopkins would give him neither stock nor return his money.

"I'm doing the best I can," was all that Hopkins had to say.

Mr. Clark finally instructed his attorneys, Gann and Peaks, to bring suit and get an attachment. Suit was started in the superior court Wednesday afternoon, an attachment writ being issued at the same time. The sheriff then took possession of the gorgeously furnished offices on the seventh floor of the Borland building, 181 La Salle street. About two dozen employes were found at the offices. They were told to "skidoo." Most of them are stated to have claims for wages, for Hopkins has been paying none of his running expenses for some time past.

Following the suit by Mr. Clark, came, an hour later, the filing of a petition in bankruptcy. The petitioning creditors were Mr. Clark, Mrs. Harriet Borland, who has a claim for rent, and a man named Anderson, with a merchandise account.

No Assets, Lawyer Says.

"I do not believe that Hopkins has any assets whatever," said Mr. Harper.

"When he skipped from town Wednesday afternoon he had not more than $500 in his pocket. Even the furniture in the Borland building suite is not paid for. Hopkins owes about $400 to the Reveal company for it. He simply sank every dollar on which he could lay his hands in zinc or in keeping up his front. If he had swung his zinc scheme he would have been all right. He had no intention of stealing his clients' money. He thought he could borrow it for zinc and other ventures of his own and then repay it in full when his plans matured successfully. He failed, that is all."

Mr. Harper explained that the Hopkins company, which was incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin, was a "one man" concern. Mr. Harper owns one share of stock. So does Thomas J. De La Hunt of Milwaukee, the company's secretary. The rest of the stock is owned by Hopkins. The company is capitalized at $50,000, the shares being at $100 each.

Hopkins had been in the brokerage business for about five years. He had offices in Milwaukee, Sheboygan, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Escanaba, Ishpeming, Ironwood, Goldfield and St. Augustine, Fla. He has spent a large amount of money in newspaper advertising.

Mr. Gann, Mr. Peaks, Mr. Tatge and Mr. Harper united in declaring that Hopkins' victims number scores. Many of them are residents of cities other than Chicago. One man in Arizona is said to have committed $50,000 to Hopkins recently. It is also said that numerous Chicagoans occupying good positions have recently intrusted money to Hopkins for the purchase of highly speculative mining stocks. They are said to be afraid to come forward, because of the notoriety, an dare pocketing their losses in silence.

Hopkins is said to have been spending a lot of money in New York on automobile parties, at which women were conspicuous. He is about 45 years old.

farm buildings and other property in the timber districts were destroyed and it was impossible to stop the fire except by back firing, and but for the rain the entire country would have been burned over. What was supposed to have been the report of torpedoes, thought to have been placed on the tracks, were reports of shots fired at the engineer by the two bandits, according to the two Germans.

PLAN NEW BILL FOR RAINY DAM

No Effort to Push Old Measure Over President's Veto.

Washington, April 24.—At the close of a hearing on the Rainy river dam bill before the sub-committee of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, C. J. Rockwood, attorney for the dam company, was directed to file a statement with the committee showing the grants made by both Canadian and American governments for the construction of a dam, the amount of money expended under those grants, what interests the company has in connection with the dam, including railroads, lumber business and other facts pertaining in any way to the business of the corporation.

In the course of his argument before the committee, Mr. Rockwood contended that the federal government had no right to the bed of the stream, but could only control navigation. The interstate commerce committee has been operating under the policy that goes further than Mr. Rockwood's contention, and in considering and reporting bills of this character has insisted that all companies granted the right to construct dams across navigable streams shall be required also to construct locks and other works to overcome the obstructions placed in the channel.

The president has even gone further than this, however, and insists that the grantees shall pay a tax to the federal government in return for rights given them, the proceeds of this taxation to be applied to the general improvement of navigable streams. It is probable that as a result of the consideration of all differences over the Rainy river dam a new bill will be reported from the committee in which the president's suggestions will be adopted in part, at least. There will be no attempt made to pass the old bill over the president's veto. Representative Lindbergh has a bill pending granting the right to construct a dam across the Crow Wing river near Brainerd, which he was ready to press before the subcommittee. He will not take any steps looking to a favorable report at present, but will ask those interested in the company to present the same facts in regard to the Brainerd company that Mr. Rockwood was requested to present on behalf of the Rainy River company.

TWO HARBORS COUNCIL.

Several Matters of Importance Are Transacted by Lawmakers.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a lot of routine business transacted by the city council at the regular meeting this week. The trustees of the First M. E. church, through its chairman, Thomas Owens, were granted permit to build an addition, 26x44, north side of the church.

Helmer Holden made application for the position of fireman at the city power plant.

Fred Hogberg was granted liquor license and his bond, with the American Surety company, was accepted.

Bids for the construction of dams and ditches for diverting surface water in connection with the sewer system were as follows:

Nelson & Rosen, 1,295 yards earth excavation at 49 cents per yard, $634.55; rock, 75 cents per yard.

Axel Essen, 1,295 yards excavation at 57 cents per yard, $738.15; rock, $2.50 per yard.

Haugstein & Johnson, 1,295 yards earth excavation at $1.45 per yard, $1,877.65; rock, $5 per yard.

The contract was awarded to Nelson & Rosen.

Ed McGowan was granted permission to secure dirt from cleaning up streets at 15 cents per load, to be used for filling in his property.

The committee appointed to investigate the proposition for a sceptic tank and filter bed at the outlet of the North side sewer reported in favor of the project, the estimated cost being $4,500 against $5,100 running the sewer into the lake, and only the sceptic tank being necessary at present.

Prompt action was recommended.

A resolution was passed adopting plans for and authorizing a call for bids on the construction of it. The tank is to be located at or about where Willow street and Sixth avenue would intersect.

The Democratic county committee was granted permission to use the city council chamber Wednesday evening, May 6, for holding the primary, and Saturday, May 9, for holding the county convention. Permission was also granted to use the North side fire hall May 6 for the primary election.

The street commissioner was authorized to make improvements on Third avenue opposite block 10.

Hearing of petitions and letting of contract for the construction of the Ninth avenue sewer was set for 8 p. m. Monday, May 4, the plans and specifications being adopted.

Bills amounting to $359.75 were allowed.

NOTHING DOING ABOUT ORE SHIPPING SEASON.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—As yet there are no rumors or evidence of when the ore business will start. Lumber shipments are expected to start as soon as the boats can get through the Soo.

ROMANCE IS ENDED

talent in story telling, capacity for champagne, versatility in profanity, the wanton pursuit of women and the primrose way.

When Mr. Vanderburg was in Paris he fell in love with the daughter of the concierge of the hotel where he lived. She was petite and pretty, with many fetching gestures, fascinating pouts and shrugs of dimpled shoulders and an affectionate disposition. So they married in June, 1904, when all the roses nodded assuraness of everlasting bliss, and the moon, rising from its nest in the mountains, fairly dripped honey as it grinned felicitations.

When the father of the husband died, he left an estate to the young French wife, and she finds herself in the possession of Minneapolis real estate of the value of some $175,000, which will yield her a revenue abundant in the eyes of a poor French girl. She has two children and came from France to prosecute her divorce, on grounds of cruelty.

RACE WON BY STRANG

Sartori at the wheel, shot across the line and started away on the long, perilous journey. The other cars followed at intervals of one minute without the slighest untoward incident to mar the start. The veteran Barney Oldfield, who braved the fate associated with the No. 13 by driving a car bearing those figures, was given a rousing cheer when he stood at the starting line awaiting the signal. He accepted the greeting with confidence and sent back a grateful look to the shouting thousands as he sped across the line.

Making High Speed.

It became apparent within a very few minutes after the start that, despite predictions to the contrary, tremendously high speed was to be made over at least some portions of the course. Forty-two minutes had been reported as the best time over the thirty-two mile course in the trials, and many believed that no better time than this could be expected during the race. At 5:25 o'clock, seventeen minutes after the first car had left the starting point, however, word came back from Armonk that four cars already had passed that place, seventeen miles away. One of these four cars had been only thirteen minutes on the road, another fourteen, a third fifteen, and another seventeen minutes.

That the drivers found it impossible to maintain this great speed over the entire length of the crooked, hilly course became apparent before the end of the first round. Stang, in car No. 4, the first to complete the circuit, crossed the line in 39 minutes 42 seconds. He was leading Lytle, in car No. 3, only by seconds, but he maintained his advantage through the second round, which he completed in 38 minutes 23 seconds, with a lead of two minutes 24 seconds over Lytle and also was in the lead at the end of the third round, which was made in 19 minutes 18 seconds.

Strang held his lead through the fifth lap, which he completed in 38 minutes 28 seconds, with total of elapsed time for the distance, two hours 34 minutes 40 seconds. Lytle, Cedrino and Vaughan had not been able to hold the pace in this round, and Poole, in No. 11, had swept up into second place. Both Poole and Strang were driving cars of Italian make.

The finish of the fourth round furnished one of the prettiest sprints of the race up to that point. As the cars swung around the sharp curve above the judge's stand, Barney Oldfield in No. 13 and Hillyard, in No. 16, were fighting it outside by side. They came down the narrow course at frightful speed, the sides of their cars separated only by inches. Almost in front of the judge's stand Oldfield forged to the front and in an instant flashed away well ahead of Hillyard.

While the leading cars were in the fifth round word came to the judge's stand that Murphy in car No. 10, of Austrian make, had met with an accident in the stretch of road between Valhalla and Eastview. One of his front wheels collapsed and he and his mechanician were thrown out. Fortunately, neither man was injured, but as Murphy had no spare wheel with him, the car was shoved to a place of safety at the side of the road, and was officially declared out of the race.

MRS. D. G. PENNEY DEAD.

Former Resident of Duluth Passes Away at Spokane.

David G. Penney, for many years foreman of the composing room of The Herald and for the last five years a resident of Spokane, Wash., is in the city today, having come East on a sad mission. His wife, who had many friends in Duluth, died last Sunday and her funeral took place yesterday at Mineapolis, her former home, where her parents are dead. The Spokane Chronicle thus referred to her death:

"Mrs. May A. Penney, wife of David G. Penney, assistant foreman of the Chronicle composing room, died Sunday morning at the Washington hospital from peritonitis, after a short illness. Mrs. Penney has lived in Spokane about five years and during that time she endeared herself to a large circle of friends to whom the announcement of her death comes as a shock. Her's was a character which left its impress in the home and in the social circle. She was a prominent member of Spokane Sorosis. Besides her husband, deceased is survived by two children, a baby about a week old, and a son 8 years of age, also a brother, Lyle Matthews of this city, and a sister, Mrs. G. G. Cushing of Denver."

Mr. Penney leaves tonight for Michigan to visit relatives and will return to Spokane by way of Denver and Salt Lake City.

ASTOR PRESENTS FLAG TO BRITISH MUSEUM.

London, April 24.—The flag of the American frigate Chesapeake, which was taken by H. M. S. Shannon, June 1, 1813, and which was recently sold at auction in this city, has been presented to the Royal United Service museum by William Waldorf Astor. This is the first intimation that Mr. Astor was the purchaser of the flag, though it was announced at the auction that the agent who secured the trophy was acting on behalf of an American. The bugle upon which the famous Balaklava charge was sounded, as well as some Crimean medals auctioned at the same time, also were bought by Mr. Astor and have been presented by him to the same museum.

Exposed to Smallpox.

Before health officers had a chance to quarantine the place, boarders in a house on Second avenue, who had been exposed to small pox, left the building and scattered to different parts of the city. Yesterday, one of the boarders was sent to the pest house as a result of the exposure, and it is feared other cases will develop.

Remove Rock Crusher.

The board of public works has put men to work taking apart the stone crusher at Twenty-fourth avenue east, preparatory to moving it. People living in the vicinity objected to the location of the crusher there because of its unsightly appearance. The crusher will be stored, for it is believed it could not be run on a paying basis this year.

Street meetings are being held but the rest of the Army's work is being delayed. New quarters have not been secured yet.

Temple Services.

"Friends and Friendship" will be the subject of the sermon by Rabbi Lefkovits at Temple Emanuel this evening.

Evidence Is Finished.

Judge Dibell has heard all the evidence in the action of C. C. Hirschy of Wahaska, Minn., against Parker, Smith & Warner, the Canadian land agents of this city, and the attorneys will argue at some later date, next Friday, probably. The action is for an accounting, Mr. Hirschy claiming that he has a large amount due him in commissions for securing customers for the Canadian lands.

ORDINANCE IS STRICT

Provides Penalty for Owners Neglecting to Clean Up Yards.

Rain Storm Will Help the Good Work Along.

"It shall be unlawful for any owner, agent, lessee, or occupant of any private property in the city of Duluth to permit or suffer any accumulation of garbage, manure, offal, rags, soiled paper, tin cans, old shoes, rubbers, filth, or any mixture of ashes and garbage, or any kind of filth, or decaying animal or vegetable substances whatsoever to exist upon property of which they have any control."

The above is quoted from the city ordinances, which ordinance goes on to say that any one refusing to comply with the law shall "be subject to a fine not exceeding $100 or to imprisonment not exceeding ninety days."

Today's rain is lending its assistance in helping the good work of cleaning the city along and will aid materially in washing the streets and alleys of dirt and filth. But there will still be plenty of work for property owners in some sections of the city.

The few warm days that Duluth has been favored with, have brought forcibly to notice, that some alleys and back yards are in great need of the garbage man and would be greatly improved if their collections of garbage were removed.

Chairman Mann has called a meeting of the special committee for tomorrow at 2 p. m. He assigned to each of the members of the committee some special subject of investigation, upon which they have been working since their appointment.

Board Acts on Paving Job and Garfield Avenue Sewer.

At the meeting of the board of public works this afternoon, the assessments for the Garfield avenue sewer and the improvement of Twentieth avenue east, were confirmed.

The property owners on Garfield avenue have been fighting against the sewer, claiming that their property will in time become railroad yards, and that the sewer is not needed. The council will probably hear the dispute Monday evening.

ACTOR'S READY WIT.

English Illustrated Magazine: On one of the first nights of the opera of "Cymen" at Drury Lane, a dissatisfied critic when Mr. Vernon began the last air in the fourth act

Torn from me! torn from me!
Which way did they take her?

immediately sang, in the exact time of the air, to the astonishment of the audience:

Why, toward Long Acre, toward Long Acre!

Vernon was for a moment stunned, but recovering himself he sang in rejoinder:

Ho! Ho! did they so? Then I'll overtake her!

and precipitately ran off amid the plaudits of the whole house.

In "Sancho Panza," a comedy in three acts, by Dufreni, the duke says at the beginning of the third act: "I begin to get tired of Sancho." "So do I," said a wag in the pit, taking his hat and walking out. This sealed the fate of the piece.

When John Reeve was playing Bombastes at Bristol, upon being stabbed by Artaxominus he denied the fairness of the thrust and appealing to the pit said: "It is not fair, is it?"

A bald-headed gentleman, who probably took the whole representation to be serious, and to whom Reeve directed his glance, replied: "Really, sir, I cannot say, for I don't fence."

PHEASANTS THRIVE IN ILLINOIS.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: Two years ago the first consignment of English pheasants was received from State Game Commissioner Wheeler by the game warden of Clinton county.

The latter official has kept a close watch on the birds and is pleased to report them increasing. A few months ago another lot was liberated, and all are reported as being alive. They are so tame that they will enter the farmers' yards and eat with the chickens.

Farmers throughout the county are eager to assist the department in increasing the pheasant population by hatching out eggs to be supplied by the department. Quail are abundant in the parts of the county where there is plenty of cover, and prairie chickens can be counted in flocks of fifteen up to sixty. Before the new game law was passed chickens were almost extinct.

DIFFICULTIES.

Success Magazine: One of the most active opponents of pure food legislation at Washington was Warwick M. Hough, general counsel of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association. On the very day that Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, succeeded in getting an executive order forbidding the adulteration of whisky, Mr. Hough while driving a motor car punctured a tire directly in front of that bureau.

Just then Dr. Wiley himself appeared on the scene.

"This is certainly one on me," said Mr. Hough, genially, pointing at the punctured tire.

"Yes," replied Dr. Wiley, grimly, "you can get by everything in this country except the bureau of chemistry."

HIS PRAYERS WERE ANSWERED.

Judge's Library: Little Willies was 6 years old and had a very bad habit of telling falsehoods about everything he saw or heard. One day, while out on the street playing, he saw a large dog, and, becoming frightened, rushed into the house and said:

"Oh, mother, I saw a big bear on the street and he chased me home, and he's waitin' on the steps for me now."

"Now, Willie," said his mother, "you go right to your room and ask God to forgive you for telling that falsehood."

Willie went, and soon came back to his mother with tears in his eyes.

"Oh, Willie, I know you have prayed and been forgiven—haven't you, Willie?"

"Yes, mother," exclaimed Willie: "I asked God to forgive me, and He said: 'Oh, that's all right, Billie; I thought it was a bear myself at first.'"

CHINESE WEDDINGS.

The Engagements Made by Parents in Their Children's Infancy.

Butler Collegian: The editor is in receipt of a letter from G. B. Baird, Butler, who is with the Christian mission at Nankin, China, where he has been working since graduation from college. In the letter, which follows, he tells of weddings in the Orient:

Last spring a young man graduated from the Union Christian college at Nankin. Shortly afterward he returned to his old home, about 200 miles north of here. He had been employed by the Presbyterian mission in Hwai Yuen. In his early childhood he had been engaged by his mother to a neighbor girl, but he knew nothing of the girl and cared less.

One day an old woman and her daughter came to the place where he was staying. They were both dirty and clothed in rags. They were famine sufferers, who lived on what they could beg. They carried all their possessions in a little bundle under their arms and the old woman calmly announced that she had brought him his betrothed, the girl to whom he was engaged years before without his consent.

The girl with her few belongings was dumped down in his house and the mother left them alone. Public opinion and custom are the despot of China. These demanded that the young man carry out the agreement which he did not make and marry the beggar girl. He did not have the courage not to conform to these two conventions and assert his independence, so he went through the outward forms of marriage.

After his marriage, day in and day out, he complained against and reviled his mother for engaging him to such a woman. He was in no frame of mind to carry on his work at the mission, so it was neglected till he was asked to resign. Today he wanders from place to place and his life is ruined by a custom which the Chinese realize is doomed to pass away.

Another case that came to my notice was that of one of the senior boys in my school. He received a letter from his mother saying that she wished him to come home at once and marry a farmer girl of her choosing. He knew nothing of the girl, having never seen her. In reply to this he said to one of the teachers: "It was not myself that desired, not myself that decided it. Don't blame me. I don't want to get married."

Nevertheless, he was married last week and for several days took part in the wedding ceremonies which were so distasteful to him. This week he returned to school and his mother came also to arrange a series of feasts for the occasion. One was given for the Chinese teachers, one for the senior class and one for the foreigners connected with the school. The young man was present at the one for the teachers. His mother presided over the ceremonies of the feast and we saw from the beginning that we were going to enjoy a spread of the most sumptuous type. It began with sixteen different dishes for an introduction and was followed by about eight or ten regular courses of nicely prepared meats and vegetables. Tea was served throughout the feast and several times a servant brought in steaming hot towels for our faces and hands. About the middle of the meal the young man came in and apologized for the poor feast—they are always full of polite sayings and often say that they have nothing at all fit to eat.

At the close of the meal one of the foreigners made a bargain with the mother for a boatload of straw. Business is allowable at almost any time or place in China. We were furnished with little sacks that we might carry some of the remaining dainties home.

These seemed to be joy for every one except the one for whom it was intended. The mother was asked why she married her son to this girl, and without any embarrassment she explained that she needed a new servant and of course this was the most expedient way in which to obtain one.

THE GLORY OF LIFE.

O. S. Marden in Success Magazine: The human race is still in its infancy. Up to the present moment, with a few grand exceptions, man has lived mostly an animal existence. The brute is only partially educated out of him. He has not yet evolved that superb character, that diviner man, foreshadowed in the beast.

How few people ever get anything more than a mere glimpse of the true glory of life! Few of us see any real sentiment in life or anything above the real animal existence and animal pleasures. Most of us look upon our occupation as a disagreeable necessity that somehow or other ought to have been, and might have been avoided.

The trouble with many of us is that we think too meanly of ourselves. Our sordid aims and material, selfish ambitions, have so lowered our standards that we think downwards instead of upwards, we grovel instead of soaring.

Our lives are materialistic, selfish, greedy, because we live in the base of our brains, down among the brute faculties. We have never explored to any great extent the upper regions of our brain, never developed our higher intelligence.

LEMON SQUEEZERS.

Success Magazine: We all know people whose particular occupation seems to be to squeeze the sour out of everything. They never see anything sweet. Everything is bitter to them.

They cannot enjoy a friend because of his faults. His mistakes and weaknesses loom up so large that they cannot appreciate the good in him. They cannot see the man God intended, perfect and immortal; they see only the deformed, diseased, crippled, handicapped man who, in their opinion, will never come to any good.

Nor do they see the world that God made. The beauty that looks out of the landscape, from the trees that rustle in the wind, that is wrapped in the flower, is lost to them. They only see the floods, the fire, the earthquakes, the lightnings, the wrecks which destroy. They are blind to beauty. It is all covered up in the ugly, the forbidding. They do not hear the infinite harmonies that entrance the ear that is in tune with the infinite. This is all lost to them in the discord of their thoughts.

EVERYTHING WAS WORK.

Success Magazine: On a warm Tuesday afternoon in February—there are such in New York—after "Polly of the Circus" has been at the Liberty theater nearly two months, Frederick Thompson, detecting some carelessness in the work of two of his actors, called a rehearsal. The company, frightened into unwonted alertness and activity, had reached the end of the second act when Mabel Taliaferro, the star, declared that she had been working too hard, and was going to rest for a while.

"Working hard," exclaimed her husband and manager. "Mrs. Thompson, do you know what work is?"

"I certainly do," repled the wee actress icily; "everything is work."

"Don't jest," said the manager. "Remember that you are Miss Taliaferro in the theater, and not Mrs. Thompson."

"Everything is work," said the little lady.

"Is this work?" exclaimed Mr. Thompson, pounding the chair on which he was seated.

"Yes, it's wood work," said his wife. She rested.

We aim to make this as up-to-date in everything that goes to make a first-class provision store, as it is possible to establish, bearing in mind that the only thing that is of any considerable value to the public, is right quality of goods at lower prices than they can be obtained elsewhere. Our policy is, and always has been, to sell good goods at the smallest possible margin of profit. This we are able to do because we sell no goods except for cash; solicit no orders; keep no bookkeepers or collectors. The charging system necessitates thousands of dollars in losses, and a good deal of cost in labor. All these savings are taken off the price of our goods.. FATE OF UNIFORMS.

Those Worn by Crack Regiments Sold to African Monarchs.

The world's biggest old clothes shop is to be found in the London thoroughfare of Houndsditch. It is presided over by John Hyman, who has rightly earned the title of the Prince of Old Clothes, for it is to this individual that the lord mayor of London, our army officers, our soldiers, sailors, policemen and postmen send their costumes when they have no further use for them, says London Tit-Bits.

Then, not only do all the old clothes of this country find their way here, but the firm has established agents all over the continent, and weekly large shipments of the most miscellaneous garments you ever saw reach the Prince of Old Clothes from his representatives on the continent. In one corner you will see the discarded garments of some crack French regiment, the next pile will consist of jackets lately worn by the kaiser's soldiers, and lying alongside of them will be thousands of dress suits purchased from the leading German hotels.

But the showy military costumes and the piles of frock coats you see in the shop one day will be gone the next. Indeed it is surprising how quickly the goods are disposed of, and it is here where the romance of the whole business lies. Mr. Hyman is not only the Prince of Old Clothes, but he may also well be called the costumier to the dusky monarchs of Africa. The goods are sent abroad in huge bales, each bale containing from 200 to 250 articles. From 300 to 400 bales are sent as a rule every month.

They go to all parts of the world—Africa, Asia, India, China and far away Japan. They are eagerly bought up by native traders, who sell them in the Oriental bazaars. From the bazaars they find their way into the far interior of the country, and explorers and travelers have often related how they have met a native king in Central Africa wearing a costume that put them in mind of a lifeguardsman's uniform minus, perhaps, the belt and badly in need of a little pipeclay, but nevertheless much prized by the owner.

Explorers and travelers often call at the old clothes establishment and secure a quantity of showy wearing apparel. They find it makes ideal presents for native kings and chiefs. Said one well known traveler to the proprietor the other day, "There is nothing like a showy military coat to get a black king to allow you to take your party through his country."

"I have visited most of the great Oriental bazaars where our clothing is sold," said Mr. Hyman, "and I have watched with much amusement our goods being purchased by the natives. I have seen the blacks of Africa solemnly walking about with European waistcoats buttoned up behind instead of in front and even men wearing ladies' costumes. I have seen enormously big fellows wearing garments that for the life of me I could not imagine how they managed to get into them and am afraid when they tried to take them off some of the stitching must have given way."

Curiously enough, the showy costumes worn by the lord mayors of London do not find such a ready market abroad as the ordinary tunic of a private soldier. This is probably on account of its price. After his nomination the lord mayor has to purchase his official costume—a magnificent rigout of silk stockings, buckled boots, gold laced coat and cocked hat—which costs about £60. At the end of his term of office he disposes of it to the second-hand dealer. The official costumes worn by London's lord mayor for the last twenty-five years have been purchased by Mr. Hyman.

INCONSEQUENTIAL HOMES.

Isabel Gordon Curtis, in Success Magazine: The world is so full of inconsequential people; young men and women who are honest, hard-working and ambitious, so far as their ambition extends, but lacking in something—one scarcely knows what to call it—not exactly manliness or brain power, but something as intangible as magnetism or lack of magnetism.

Then, America has so many pretty girls! They are exquisite of coloring, graceful of figure, sweet and amiable of expression, but there the beauty ends. There is no sparkle and glow of intelligence in their lovely eyes.

Money may have been spent lavishly in educating these girls, and they may have absorbed all the education it was possible for them to take, but it left them just as they were in childhood, sweet, smiling and beautiful. Their highest ambition is pretty clothes, admiration, "a good time," and a fashionable wedding. Then a young couple gather goods and chattels about them, and found another inconsequential home. They may be so happy that it seems like cruel cavilling to criticise, but there is one question one cannot help asking: "Where will it end?" One cannot expect much from such conditions.

It means another generation of human beings with taste and intelligence exactly on the plane of the father and mother.

To advertise your real estate twice as much as another man advertises his does not indicate that you are twice as anxious to sell as he is—but that you know twice as much as he does about how to sell.

Scientific experiment shows that a pound of Schwalbe's Conserves contains eight times the nourishment of a pound of beef.

Schwalbe's Conserves are recommended by physicians. Tasty and appetizing, they have found ready reception in the leading hotels, restaurants, and thousands of homes, wherever introduced.

WHEAT HAS A DECLINE

Favorable Weather in the Southwest Causes a Slump.

Flax is Off Two Points at the Close Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 24.—Beneficial rains in the winter wheat belt and in the Northwest, where in many places seeding has just been accomplished, caused the American wheat markets to slump today.

Duluth, Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg all showed losses of a point or more in May.

The decline upset a little calculations of the big bulls in Chicago, who are credited with a fervent ambition to make a corner in May wheat. Armour is said to be the leader in the bull ring.

The foreign demand from the East was very good in Duluth. Thirty-two loads of wheat were worked for export by local men during the morning and 100,000 bus., were sold in the East.

Liverpool closed ¼@⅜d lower, Antwerp 1¼@2½c higher, Budapest 2⅜c higher and Berlin 2⅜c higher.

World's shipments of wheat this week are estimated at 6,768,000 bushels.

The Modern Miller says:

"General and beneficial rains have relieved drought conditions in Kansas and Nebraska. Report from these states show generally healthy growth of winter wheat. In the more Eastern states, rains are still frequent, and advices that the plant is turning yellow are increasing. This is generally ascribed to excessive moisture, but in Missouri and Illinois some farmers believed it is due to insects, which have appeared in numbers in the fields. No damage is reported, however."

The May option closed 1c lower in Duluth, Chicago and Winnipeg, 1¼-⅜c lower in Minneapolis and ¼c higher in New York. The July option closed 1⅝c lower in Duluth, 1⅜c lower in Chicago and Minneapolis, 1c lower in New York and 1½c lower in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ⅜-½c lower in Chicago and ½d higher in Liverpool. May oats closed ½c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"As a result of the strong cables from America yesterday, heavy sales of La Plata cargoes to London and covering by shorts, values at the opening were firm and from ⅝d to 1d higher. Following the opeling the market developed a weakness with heavier offerings and values broke ⅝d to 1¼d from the opening on the continued heavy arrivals and no demand for spot. Large houses sold freely.

"Corn was firm and ½d higher at the opening in sympathy with the strength in America yesterday. Later, easiness developed in sympathy with the weakness in wheat and values lost ¼d.

"The receipts of wheat at Liverpool for three days amount to 2,224,000 bus."

Car receipts at Duluth were 7 against 189 last year, and at Minneapolis 108 against 341 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 115 against 530 last year. Chicago received 16 against 23 last year. Winnipeg received 46 against 166 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 268,000 bushels; last year, 790,000 bushels. Shipments, 734,000 bushels; last year, 220,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 134,000 bushels.

Primary receipts of corn were 328,000 bushels; last year, 420,000 bushels. Shipments, 346,000 bushels; last year, 567,000 bushels. Clearances of corn were 52,000 bushels.

Wheat was quite active in Duluth during the session today. May wheat opened 1c lower at $1.03⅝, advanced to $1.04⅜, declined to $1.03⅝, rallied to $1.04⅜ and closed at $1.03⅝, a loss of 1c from yesterday. July wheat opened 1c lower at $1.04¼, advanced to $1.04¾, went off to $1.03⅝ and closed there, a loss of 1⅝c from yesterday. September wheat was inactive and closed ½c lower than yesterday at 91c.

Durum wheat closed ½c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 3c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was rather quiet. May flax opened ½c lower at $1.19½, declined to $1.17⅞ and rallied by the close to $1.18, a loss of 2c from yesterday. July flax opened ½c lower at $1.21½, declined to $1.19⅝ and closed at $1.20, a loss of 2c from yesterday. October flax opened ¼c lower at $1.21¾, declined to $1.19¾ and closed at $1.120, a loss of 2c from yesterday.

Oats closed ½c lower and other coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Weak Owing to General Rains in the Wheat Belt.

Chicago, April 24.—There was only a moderate trade in wheat on the local exchange today. The market was weak owing to a general rain in the winter wheat belt. At the start prices were ½c to ⅝c below last night's close, but later advanced about ⅛s over the low point. Lack of support by bull and easy markets at Liverpool were bearish influences. May opened ½@⅝c to 1½@1⅝c lower at 97c to 98c and held within that range. July opened ½c to 1¼c lower, at 88⅛c to 89½c and held within that range. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 141 cars against a holiday last week and 553 cars one year ago.

Sentiment in the wheat pit was bearish all day. May sold off to 97½c and July to 88¼c. The market closed weak with prices almost at the bottom. May was down 1@1⅛c at 97½c. July was 1⅜c lower, at 88⅝c.

Corn was dull. The market opened easy along with wheat but improved later. May opened ¼c lower, at 67⅛c, sold at 67½c, July opened ¼c lower, at 62⅞c to 63c and sold at 63¼@⅜c. Local receipts were 211 cars with 21 of contract grade.

The corn market weakened in the last half of the session along with wheat. May sold off to 66⅞c and July to 62⅝c. The close was weak with May down ⅜c @½c, at 66⅞@67c. July was down ⅜@½c at 62c.

Oats were dull and steady. May opened unchanged at 53¾c and sold at 53@½c. July opened ¼c lower, at 45⅝c, sold at 45¾c. Local receipts were 130 cars.

Provisions opened steady on a 10c advance in the price of live hogs, but eased off on weakness of grains. July pork opened unchanged at $13.40 and sold at $13.30. Lard opened 2½c higher at $8.32½ and sold at $8.27½. Ribs opened 2½c to 5c higher, at $7.22½ to $7.25 and sold off to $7.15.

Close: Wheat—May, 97½c; July, 88⅝c; September, 84⅞@85c. Corn—May, 66⅞@67c; July, 62⅝c; September, 61@61⅛c. Oats—May old, 53¼c; May, 52¼c; July old, 45⅜c; July, 43⅜c; September, 36⅞c. Pork—May, $12.90; July, $13.22½; September, $13.55. Lard—May, $8.02½; July, $8.25; September, $8.42½. RibsMay, $6.80; July, $7.10; September, $7.35. Rye—Cash, 80c. Barley—Cash, 70@86c. Timothy—April, $4.25. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 98c@$1; No. 3 red, 95½@98c; No. 2 hard, 97c@$1.05; No. 3 hard, 95c@1.02; No. 3 spring, 98c@$1.05. Corn—No. 3, 64½@65c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Good Rains All Over Wheat Country Ease Off Prices.

Minneapolis, April 24.—Good rains fell all over the spring wheat country northwest where it has been too dry. This had the effect to ease the tone of the wheat market. Prices receded from yesterday's high level but the market was stubborn against pressure and after an early decline 1⅛s it went down slowly. The report of the sale of 32 loads for export at Duluth made a strong influence as also the fact that for the week Minneapolis elevator stocks are estimated to decrease 650,000 bushels. Minneapolis today received 108 cars against 341 a year ago; Duluth 7 against 189. The close was heavy. May opened $1.05; high, $1.05½; low, $1.04⅜; close, $1.04½@⅝; July closed, $1.03⅞; September closed 90⅝c.

The cash market feeling was not so strong. No. 1 northern was quoted 2c over May and No. 2 northern at May price but wheat to come out of elevators was offered at 1½c over for No. 1 and ½@1c under May for No. 2. Millers from the outside bought some.

Cash close: No. 1 northern, $1.06⅞ spot; $1.06⅞ to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.04⅜@1.04⅞ spot; $1.04⅞ to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 93¾c@$1.02¾.

No. 3 yellow corn, 67¾c. No. 3 white oats, 49½c. No. 2 rye, 72¾@75¾c.

The barley market was slow. Sales were made at 64c and 68c, but some better quality held at 80c was unsold. Close, 60@80c.

Cash flax was in good demand at 1c over Duluth May price, crushers being after it. Close, $1.18¾.

Millers quoted bran in bulk at $21.00@$21.25.

The flour trade reported business generally light. Having advanced prices yesterday, millers hesitated to put them down today and made no changes, although the market undertone was weaker.

Big mills reported sales equal to the output. Shipments, 44,961 barrels. First patents, $5.45@5.60; second patents, $5.35@5.50; first clears, $4.20@4.25; second clears, $3.40@3.50.

Grain Gossip.

It is estimated that the stock of wheat in store at Duluth will increase 100,000 bus this week. The flax stock is expected to increase 30,000 bus.

* * *

In another column are given some grain shipments from this port which are larger than they have been for some little time, all of which means that some boats are loading. The Zimmerman and the William B. Mills have been loaded, but it is not expected that either of them will get away before another week.

Weather forecast for the grain belt:

Illinois and Indiana—Showers and severe thunder storms tonight and possibly Saturday; cooler Saturday; high southerly shifting to westerly winds, with squalls.

Missouri—Generally fair tonight and Saturday, except severe thunder storms in north and east; tonight cooler.

Lower Michigan—Severe thunder storms tonight and Saturday; cooler in west Saturday; high southeasterly winds.

Upper Michigan—Rain tonight and Saturday; high northeast winds.

Wisconsin—Showers and severe thunder storms and possibly cooler in west Saturday; high southeast shifting to westerly winds.

Minnesota—Threatening, with rain tonight and probably in east Saturday; cooler in south and west.

Iowa—Severe thunder storms and cooler tonight; Saturday generally fair and cooler.

The Dakotas and Nebraska—Fair tonight and Saturday, preceded by showers in east tonight; cooler tonight.

Kansas—Generally fair tonight and Saturday, except showers in northeast tonight; cooler tonight.

THE MONEY HUNGER.

James R. Keene, the famous New York financier, said at a dinner of the recent panic:

"The way men hungered after money reminded me of Tom Fargus, a friend of my Frisco days. Tom, one morning, expected a man to call and pay a bill. While he was waiting for the man, a summons came for him to go out. Before going, he put this notice on his door:

"'Have gone out for half an hour. Will be back soon. Been gone twenty minutes already.'"

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

United States Steel Preferred Was Bid Up Quite Sharply.

Close Was Near the Highest Point of the Session.

New York, April 24.—Union Pacific advanced ½ and Southern Pacific ⅝ on the first sales on the stock market today. Otherwise the gains in the active list, which were general, were limited to small fractions except in Canadian Pacific and Rock Island and preferred, which rose large fractions, and General Electric 2. The dealings were active

A large volume of business was transacted without prices of the important stocks changing much except in a few isntances.

Further advances in active stocks were moderate in spite of a large and steady absorption, but wide gains were made by industrial stocks. Union Pacific touched 132½. United States Steel was held a shade below last night's price. Bonds were firm.

Operations on the long side of the market were conducted with continued confidence. The fact that United States Steel preferred was bid up sharply contributed to the strength of the general market. New stocks were brought into prominence with the growth of the movement. General Electric got up 3½, Union Pacific 1¾, Amalgamated Copper 1½, United States Steel preferred, Anaconda, American Smelting and Republic Steel preferred 1.

When purchases fell off the speculation became quiet, but the reaction in prices was light.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to M. W. Lee & Co.: Local feeling toward the coppers today is a little more cheerful, but the bear is mostly concerned in these local industrials which are all strong and advancing to a level of prices somewhat consistent with their worth

The cheapest stock on the list is Osceola among the high-priced one, Alouez and Centennial are bargains. Have a little Old Lominion and Shannon on the long side, with Superior Copper, LaSalle, Superior & Pittsburg ad Isle Royale among the cheaper ores. I hear some good things on Chibway. The amount of copper at Lake equals about two-thirds of a normal month's production.

Treasury Balances.

Washington, April 24.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve shows: Available cash balance, $252,439,346; gold coin and bullion, $15,640,520; gold certificates, $24,472,020.

You couldn't discuss the events of the day in the world unless you had read your newspaper. You cannot "shop" intelligently unless you have read the store-ads.

TORNADO IN LOUISIANA

Heavy Damage Said to Have Occurred in Rapidos Parish.

New Orleans, April 24.—Railroad officials here have received reports of a tornado which swept across Rapidos parish in the neighborhood of the Louisiana Railway & Navigation company's line today. No details are obtainable but the damage is reported to be heavy.

Natchez, Miss., April 24.—Five persons were killed and several injured in a tornado which swept over Vidalia, La., this morning. The injured have been brought to the Natchez hospital. Mrs. Devereaux Shields of Natchez is reported killed by a storm in Concordia, Paris, La., and Harry Lambdin fatally injured. Considerable damage was done at Pine Ridge, eight miles northeast of Natchez. Many negroes were injured.

CREED TO BURN AND MURDER

Startling Evidence Given at Trial of Dreamers' Sect.

Medicine Hat, Alberta, April 24.—The trial of nine members of the Dreamers' sect, whose headquarters are at Java, S. D., has continued all this week. The charge is burning homes of unbelievers at the Joseph Burg settlement, south of here. Yesterday, startling evidence was given in respect to the practices and actions of the sect. Joseph Beitz of Irvine, Alberta, stated that it was agreed to burn the Baptist and Lutheran churches. It was not the result of a dream, but their creed was to burn and murder. Letters were read at meetings from "God Jacob," whose headquarters at at Java, and whose real name is Jacob Merkel, Sr., giving instructions to kill and murder all unbelievers. The names of several farmers were mentioned for destruction.

After Jacob Merkel, Jr., did some shooting in South Dakota all Dreamers were supposed to go armed. All of them were armed in Canada.

HOW TO KILL KINGS.

Don Marquis in Uncle Remus's magazine: The man in the moon, regarding the inhabitants of the earth without any confusing flush of sentiment, might be almost justified in defining them as a species who killed their kings. Regicide has been going on for so many centuries that it may be said to be a human custom. To an optimistic sort of mind, passionately interested in the development of the human race along all lines, it is a little depressing to reflect that in all these years there has been no refinement in king-killing methods. They are killed today in the same haphazard and sloppy manner that was in vogue ages ago. This is not only distressing, but it is even strange. Warfare has developed its ethics, commerce has its conventions, this, that and t'other thing is put through in an orderly manner, but the twentieth century draws towards the close of its first decade without the world's having evolved any conventions of regicide whatsoever. It is inexpressibly shocking to a sensitive nature to read of such messy doings at attended the recent taking-off of the King of Portugal and his som, to say nothing of that hasty affair in the Servian royal palace a few years since. There was about these things nothing neat, nothing orderly, nothing artistic whatsoever, upon which a refined modern mind might dwell with the slightest satisfaction. With all due courtesy to the principals who stage these little dramas, that is not the sort of entertainment for which contemporary taste has any relish. What the deuce!—are we to keep bloody theatrics out of our books and our theaters only to have real life thrust them at us from every newspaper? Has the universe been watching our popular art all this time without having caught the trick of the thing yet? Still knives and guns and pistols!—is the gain of the ages nothing, then, and is there no chloroform in the world, no proper decency? It is not that we care for the kings particularly, but we trust we are modern enough to care for our own nerves; and we demand that we be protected from the prick of actuality by a comfortable layer of convention. But then we suppose there are extenuating circumstances. The people who kill kings get to thinking about it as if it were such an important matter—get to regarding it so intensely in the light of something that amounts to something—that they get all excited, and flustered, and wrought up about it, and that is never conducive to artistic work. One should never judge a fellow-man harshly.

MAKING MEERSCHAUMS.

There are two places in the world, Vienna and Ruhla, which for 150 years have been the centers of the meerschaum trade. So writes Fritz Morris, in the Technical World Magazine. The latter is a small village in Thuringia, Saxony, near the famous old town of Eisenach, where Martin Luther was confined for his own safety, by the then elector. Ruhla is in a valley, through which a small rivulet runs; in ancient times it belonged to two dukes, brothers, each of whom owned one bank of the river.

The meerschaum industry was brought to Ruhla about 1745 by one of the reigning dukes, since when it has held its own more or less in commercial progress. Today it is a wide-awake town, with electricity, water-power and gas, with factories for paper-making, brassworks, meerschaum, and, of later years, briarwood-making. The meerschaum trade is a house industry, like the making of toys at Sonneberg, only a few miles distant. But, besides the work at home, there are several firms having factories using electric and steam power, one of which employs in and outside of the house between three hundred and four hundred hands.

The merchant whose mind is too often alienated from planning and devising his advertising is falling into business peril!

CLOTHING TO SAVE FROM DROWNING.

Marine Journal: A Norwegian inventor has patented a suit of clothes which will protect its wearer against drowning.

The clothes are lined with a non-absorbent material made of specially prepared vegetable fiber which without being too heavy will effectually hold up the weight of a man in the water. Twelve ounces of the new material will, it is claimed, save a person from sinking.

The invention has been tested with favorable results at Christiania. Successful trials were also made with rugs made of the same material capable of supporting two persons in the water.

Butte-Ballaklava continues strong as ever. We are looking for news every hour and expect that they have already cut the Edith May vein. Orders began to come in after the close this afternoon, and although the Ballaklava office could not confirm any report, it looks as though they have it at the mine.

Butte & Superior is getting scarcer every day. This stock is continually going into stronger hands, and if Ballaklava shows up very rich ore on the 700-foot level stock should advance several points, and this will start a general buying movement in Butte & Superior, which should at least carry this stock to $1.75 or $2.

Calumet & Sonora, another of the local favorites, will have its turn very soon. This mine, situated alongside of the Greene-Cananea, is one of the best in the Cananea district. They have eleven hundred acres of land, four shafts in ore, and as there are only 43,000 shares issued, it should be one of the greatest chances for big money on the board.

Our wires reach all over the United States. Our connections with Miller & Co. of Boston and New York are the very best. We can give you the very best of service. Give us your business. We will do our best to treat you right.

FLEA IN THE PLEIADES.

Indian Legend About Five Maidens Who Would Marry for Love.

A curious explanation of the origin of the Pleiades is given by a writer in Out West, who secured it, among other myths, from a tribe of California Indians.

According to this piece of tradition a great chief was the father of five daughters so beautiful that they attracted many suitors. But they declared they would remain single unless they could marry for love.

They were very cold and critical and quite ignored the young men who came to court them. One day when they were playing and singing, Baakil, "the Flea," heard them and followed the sound until he came in sight of them. He was so captivated that he prayed the Great Spirit to transform him into a handsome man.

No sooner said than done. When the five daughters stopped dancing, there among them was so beauteous a masculine being that they fell in love without further ado. When the Flea had decided on his choice, he went to the chief and asked for her, and was happily surprised to find that all five of the girls pined to be his.

So he married them all, one after the other, and they lived in peace and happiness through the winter. But with the late spring and summer a change took place. The heat affected the Flea, and every time he embraced any of his wives they began to itch. Their rosy cheeks vanished, the buoyancy became languor, and one took pity on the other and said:

"You must leave him to save your beauty."

When all five had been told the same thing from each other, they decided that something must be done. So at midnight the five sisters met and each proposed a way of escape, yet none was available save that of the youngest. Her plan was that they leave him for good and all.

To accomplish this end they gave him a sleeping draught when he awoke at the usual hour for his drink; for Flea was a very light sleeper, and the hurrying and bustling of the five women would have awakened him had he not been drugged. When he was in his soundest sleep the women departed.

When the Flea awoke many hours later and got up, he thought, "Where are my wives?" Looking about he realized that they had fled. He went eastward and had journeyed many days, when, just about to rest on the sandy shore of the ocean, he caught sight of them and excitedly exclaimed:

"I will catch you yet."

They heard him, and the youngest turned to see how far behind he was. She called to her sisters "Let us hasten; he is gaining on us rapidly." Curiosity caused the others to turn; they lost time until again the youngest one cried: "He is very near." Then with one voice they cried: "We will go up into the air. There he cannot come with us."

Slowly and gracefully they rose, until they reached the places they now occupy in the sky. Baakil again invoked aid of the Great Chief, and through him was also allowed to rise to the sky. But before he was able to embrace any of his wives he too was turned into a star.

That is why there now are five stars close together in the Pleiades and one at the side. This one, the Indians are convinced, is the Flea.

ARTIFICIAL DIAMONDS MADE.

With that scrupulous care which is one of the essentials of your true scientific investigator, preliminary preparations had, one by one, been completed by the great scientist's assistant; the white fierclay cover of the electric furnace had been replaced in position, and the carbon electrodes—as thick as a man's wrist—had been approached through the openings which lead to the spot where the crucible and its contents had been placed—that central spot of fiercest heat. The moment had at last arrived when the experiment was to begin. A switch was turned, a current of 350 amperes traversed the huge serpentine conductors, and the furnaces, suddenly bursting into vivid bluish flames, broke into a spluttering, hesitating song that made our eardrums tingle.

"Rapprochez les electrodes," ordered M. Moissan, above the din, whereupon there was a change, both in the color of the flame and the sound of its song. The one became an intense, dazzling white, the other a high-pitched, harmonious hum. We protected our eyes from the glare by means of small panes of claret-colored glass, and thus, immobile, awaited the second operation in the process of making synthetio diamonds.

With this introduction, Frederic Lees tells, in the April Technical World, the story of an eye-witness at the manufacture of artificial diamonds.

Every day all of the people who are looking for things turn to The Herald want ads. Have you anything to say to them—to the "people who are looking for things?"

THE RIVER IS VERY LOW

Many New Shallows Have Appeared in the St. Louis.

Launch Owners Will Have to Exercise Great Care.

Never in the memory of the oldest inhabitant has the water in St. Louis river been as low as it is this spring.

Sandbars, which last year were hidden under a foot or two of water, are this year exposed, and many little islands have made their appearance which were never known before to those familiar with the river.

Marshy spots which were seen along the river last year are this year dry land, and many new shallow places, which are a menace to launches, have appeared. Those who thought they were familiar with the river last year are compelled to study it anew.

Launch owners have had considerable trouble already this year. Several parties have been stranded on sandbars, one party at least having been compelled to spend the night on the river. Old channels are impassable, and the only safe method of navigating the river at the present time is to keep close to the steamer channel.

There was so little snow this winter, and it melted so slowly that it hardly affected the height of the river at all.

West Duluth launch owners are grateful for the wind that has been blowing from the northeast yesterday and today, for it has blown water from the bay and lake up the river, thus making it possible to easily launch the boats that had been left high and dry by the low water in the river this spring.

Yesterday afternoon many of the boating enthusiasts were busily engaged making the best of the high water to get their launches afloat.

PASSES BOGUS BILL.

Old Merchants and Planters' Bank Note is Accepted.

A stranger passed a $5 note, issued some years before the war by the Merchants & Planters' Bank of Georgia, Monday morning at the candy store conducted by August Johnson, 230 North Twentieth avenue west. The bill is said to have been given to Mr. Johnson's son in payment for two cigars, the stranger receiving $4.80 in change.

When the bill was passed there were only two boys in the store. Both boys have only a confused idea of what the man looked like. Johnson claims that he was tall and slim and the other boy, that he was short and fat.

Ole Lindberg was asked to take the note to the bank and find out if it were any good. He showed it to the officials at the Western State bank, and told how he had got it, and they notified the police, who are now watching for the man in hopes that he try to pass another like bill, when they will land him.

HORSES RUN AWAY.

Piece of Paper Frightens Team Owned by M. Willette.

A team of gray horses owned by M. Willette, Fifty-sixth avenue west, became frightened at a piece of paper blown by the wind and ran away yesterday afternoon. No one was in the wagon when the horses bolted. The driver was at the rear of the wagon, when the team started up, and he was not quick enough to get to the reins before they were off down the street.

The horses returned later in the afternoon minus a wagon and a part of one of the harnesses. The wagon was found in the evening, its wheels wedged against a post, which had abruptly separated it from the runaways.

RAILROADS

HAVE EYES ON DULUTH

City is Constantly Growing as Railroad and Shipping Center.

New Railroads Enter Competition for the City's Business.

That Duluth is growing as a railroad center and a freight shipping point is indicated by the number of railroad men who regularly make this point for the solicitation of freight for distant shipping points. R. B. Wilson, traveling freight agent of the Missouri Pacific is in the city today, soliciting business for points west of the Missouri river.

Mr. Wilson says that railroad men recognize the fact that Duluth is rapidly coming to the front as a shipping point. The coming of the new roads which will enter here in the fall, together with the growing jobbing business is attracting the attention of lines which until recently, have neglected the Duluth territory. Now most of the lines from distant points are sending representatives here in search of business that goes on connecting lines to distant points. Although the Missouri Pacific is a road doing business at a point distant from Duluth it recognizes the volume of freight business that goes out of Duluth and is making a bid for some of it.

Under the present interstate commerce ruling all of the roads are assured of practically an equal opportunity to secure business. "In the days before the Hepburn act," said Mr. Wilson, "We used to make a special rate on any business that we thought we could secure. Now all the roads doing business under the interstate act are practically under the control of the federal government. That is, they have their interstate rates under the supervision of the government. We are all wards of Uncle Sam, as far as our interstate business goes. We are covering a big Northwestern territory and find that Duluth as a shipping center, is growing."

FORM COMPANY.

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul to Conduct Its Own Express Business.

Milwaukee, April 24.—The Daily News today says:

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company is preparing to conduct its own express business.

The Continental Express company is being organized by men within the railway company and it is said that the new express concern will be ready for business with'n a few months.

Edward S. Averill has been selected as general manager of the Continental concern. It is said the contract of the United States Express company with the St. Paul system will expire in about a year and that it will not be renewed.

Two-Cent Rates.

Chicago, April 24.—Opposite action was taken by railroads east of Chicago and west of Chicago regarding reducing rates for conventions today. The Eastern roads decided to make a rate of 1½ cents a mile, but the Western roads refused to consider anything but 2 cents a mile as the minimum rate. The Western Passenger association explained that because of 2-cent laws in various states the Western roads have already reduced their through rates to correspond.

KING CARLOS SOLD JEWELS

Taken From the Bank of Portugal to Pay Royal Debts.

Lisbon, April 24.—When King Miguel was deposed as ruler of Portugal in 1834 the crown jewels, valued at $2,000,000 were confiscated and deposited in the Bank of Portugal as the property of the state. Recently the Republican press has charged that absolute proof existed that a large portion of these jewels had been sold without the consent of parliament to meet the expenses of the royal household. King Manuel thereupon ordered than an inventory be taken, and this proved that jewels worth $750,000 were missing. Furthermore, the administrator of the royal house declared that the government, which at that time was controlled by the "rotative" parties had consented to the removal of the jewels.

The governor of the Bank of Portugal was questioned and admitted the removal of the precious stones, but he declared that the sale had bee nmade upon the urgent demand of King Carlos, who desired to meet certain pressing debts of the royal household in order to avoid a scandal. After these facts had come to light King Manuel summoned the minister of finance and annouced his intention of personally refundig the value of the missing jewels to the royal treasury. The attitude of the young king in this matter has evoked universal admiration, even among the Republicans.

YOUNG AGAIN TO FRONT WITH ANOTHER LETTER ON THE GOVERNORSHIP

Talks About the Interests That Are Fighting His Candidacy.

Jacobson Still in the Lead, But at a Standstill.

Heatwole Thought to Have His Eye on the Senate.

St. Paul, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. T. Young has come out with another letter, not a personal letter, such as the one he wrote to The Herald, but coming out strong with the statement that the interests which he has been fighting are opposing his nomination for governor. The letter is being circulated generally throughout the state, and says:

"I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor and respectfully ask your support. During the last three years as attorney general I have found it necessary to put much stress on the enforcement of our laws enacted for the preservation of the state's timber, for the regulation of the liquor traffic, the railroads and other similar subjects. By so doing I have incurred the hostility of those injuriously affected. There is evidence that these interests are trying to get control of the Republican party. They are not supporting me.

SEATING CAPACITY

Of Denver Auditorium Will Exceed All Other Great Buildings.

Plans of Seats Sent to Democratic National Committee.

Denver, Colo., April 25.—Plans for the seats in the new city Auditorium, which is now nearing completion, have been sent by Secretary W. F. R. Mills of the Denver chamber of commerce and Convention league, to Secretary Urey Woodson of the Democratic national committee, for his guidance in making the seating arrangements for the Democratic national convention, which meets in Denver, July 7. There are 11,521 chairs shown in the plans, and by placing chairs in aisles, or in the space left for standing room, it will be possible to seat 14,000 people. This is a greater seating capacity than that of the Chicago Coliseum, Madison Square Garden, New York, or the Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake. Mr. Woodson, whose home is in Owensboro, Ky., will be assisted in the work of arranging places for the various delegations by Col. John I. Martin, sergeant-at-arms of the Democratic national committee. An assistant, to have special charge of tickets for the press, is yet to be chosen.

Seats For Delegates.

On the first floor eight sections of seats, 2,010 in number, all within easy hearing distance of the speaker's platform, have been set aside for delegates and alternates, the number of which is estimated at 2,000. Odd numbered sections of this space will be occupied by the delegates, and even numbered section by the alternates.

On the platform, within plain sight and hearing of all parts of the immense structure, are reserved 546 seats for dignitaries. Immediately adjacent to the platform space is that reserved for the press, where 303 seats have

ENGINE ROLLS DOWN A FILL

Engineer and Fireman Are Badly Scalded in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Engineer C. R. Williams of the Soo road was badly scalded when a fill on which his engine was working, near Cortland street, collapsed and the engine went down the embankment, rolling over several times.

George Benepe, the fireman, was also badly scalded, but managed to extricate himself and shut off several steam valves, which were belching forth steam upon the helpless engineer. He prevented the engineer's death by his action.

The fill on which Engineer Williams was working is being constructed by the Soo road over a deep ravine at Cortland street, and is nearly 100 feet deep. Williams and Benepe were taken to St. Joseph's hospital, and this morning were resting comfortably.

FAIL TO REACH AN AGREEMENT

Coal Miners Will Vote Whether to Strike or Not.

Springfield, Ill., April 25.—The coal miners and operators of Illinois have reached the parting of the ways, so far as the joint scale committee is concerned in the settlement of the wage scale, and it is now up to the rank and file of the United Mine Workers of the state to determine by referendum whether a strike shall be ordered.

This action was determined upon by the miners yesterday afternoon after a session lasting all day behind closed doors. The decision will be reported to a joint convention of miners and operators which is scheduled to convene today. The total number of men who will vote on the question is in excess of 72,000. It will probably require at least a week for the locals to vote on the question.

Kansas City, April 25.—At the meeting of the sub-conference committee of the miners and operators of the Southwest held yesterday afternoon it became apparent that there is no possibility of an agreement so far as that body is concerned and it adjourned sine die. A report this action will be made to the general scale committee at a meeting to be held Monday, and it is admitted by both sides to the controversy that there is little hope for an agreement.

It is expected that many of the 35,000 miners now out of employment in the Southwestern fields will go to work for independent operators. President Lewis will return to Kansas City to attend the meeting Monday.

WILL NOT IMPEACH WILFLEY.

Washington, April 25.—Impeachment proceedings will not be instituted against Lobbens R. Wilfley, judge of the United States court for China, against whom charges of misconduct on the bench were brought by Lorin S. Andrews and other American lawyers, resident in Shanghai. The house judiciary committee yesterday, by unanimous vote, adopted a report, declaring that facts sufficient to justify the impeachment of Judge Wilfley have not been presented to the sub-committee to which the charges were referred.

ANNUAL CARNIVAL OF RELAY RACES

First Outdoor Athletic Event of Season at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, April 25.—Cloudy weather and a fast track are the conditions prevailing today for the university of Pennsylvania's annual carnival of relay races and field sports on Franklin Field this morning. The meet, which is the first great outdoor college athletic event of the year, will bring together about 1,500 athletes representing nearly 200 educational institutions from all sections east of the Mississippi river. Pennsylvania is the favorite in the one mile relay championship for universities, as her four runners, Taylor, the intercollegiate quarter mile champion; Cartmell, the 100 and 200 yards champion, and Haydock and L. Whitham have been making very fast time this year.

The two mile relay championship promises to be very fast. Michigan, who was entered for the four mile championship, and whose team is so fast at that distance that no college entered against them, will run her team in the two mile event.

As the Olympic games will he held this year, more interest than usual is taken in the special field events as it is expected that some of those entered in today's contests will find places on the American Olympic team. All of the intercollegiate champions, who are still in college, are here to defend their titles.

TWENTY MEN LOSE LIVES

British Cruiser Gladiator and Steamer St. Paul in Collision.

War Vessel Badly Damaged and Run on the Beach.

Portsmouth, April 25.—The American line steamer St. Paul, and the British cruiser Gladiator, were in collision this afternoon, off the Isle of Wight.

A heavy snowstorm was raging at the time. The Gladiator was badly damaged and has been beached. Her crew took to the boats, and during this operation some twenty men are reported to have lost their lives.

The passengers and crew of the St. Paul are all safe. The St. Paul sustained a damaged bow. She is now standing by the disabled cruiser.

The St. Paul was outward bound for New York, and the Gladiator was on her way from Portland to Portsmouth.

The steamer St. Paul left Southampton today for New York, via Cherbourg.

The cruiser Gladiator has a displacement of 5,750 tons and a complement of 450 men. She is one of the class of vessels designed to serve as rams. She is 320 feet long and has a speed of 20 knots.

SEARCHING FOR HIS DAUGHTER

Wisconsin Farmer Visits Twin Cities in His Quest.

St. Paul, April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles G. Farnham, a farmer of Menong, Washburn county, Wis., is in St. Paul, engaged in a search for his young daughter, Elizabeth, who disappeared one week ago yesterday in the most mysterious manner.

Mr. Farnham tells the following moving story of the loss of his daughter:

"I have lived in the town of Menong five years on a homestead, and have a wife and seven children. My daughter, who is missing, is 14 years old. She is a very bright, quiet, well behaved girl, who never showed any disposition to wonder away, never had a lover, nor suffered any severe sickness in her life.

She went to school last Wednesday morning and was in school until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when school was dismissed, and it was supposed that she started for home. Since she left the school house that day no one has seen her or found a trace of her. I believe some one has kidaped her.

LATEST REPORTS OF TORNADO ADD TO THE HORRORS OF THE SITUATION

The Loss of Human Life Will Reach Several Hundred.

Towns in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia Struck.

The Majority of Those Killed Said to be Negroes.

Mobile, Ala., April 25.—Reports received here today state that the town of Fort Deposit, Ala., 158 miles from Mobile, was almost wiped out of existence last night by a tornado.

Reports received here today say that at McCallum, Miss., on the Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City railroad, probably twelve persons were killed and several injured in yesterday's storm. The McCallum trestle and 400 feet of track were blown off the right of way, nothing being left of the trestle but the piling.

Purvis, Miss., April 25.—An air of death and desolation marks Purvis today. The total death list in this vicinity has now reached sixty-two and it is believed that further particulars from the surrounding country will add materially to these figures.

New Orleans, La., April 25.—The dead, more than 200, the injured at least 500; these were the grim facts which came to light in the early hours today when a little of the wreckage of yesterday's tornado in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama had been cleared away. The tornado lasted altogether about twelve hours, striking promiscuously one town after the other from before daylight on Friday until mid-afternoon. Many hours after they struck, trains bearing nearly 200 injured came crawling cautiously out of the tornado districts, leaving behind them one town, Purvis, Miss., utterly demolished, five others practically blown away and fifteen little villages in more or less acute stages of ruins. With these wounded came the details of one of the worst wind disasters in the history of the gulf states.

First of all it became known that negroes comprised most of the dead, that the picturesque darky homes noted for their flimsy, happy-go-lucky construction, had been converted by the wind into wholesale death traps. It was in the fall of those cabins which went down almost without warning, that most of the negro deaths occurred. These always overcrowded cabins also furnished most of the badly wounded.

White Dead Number 42.

The identified white dead early today numbered 42. In addition, it was reported that four whites had been killed

GEORGIA TOWNS ARE HARD HIT BY WIND

Atlanta, Ga., April 25.—Reports received here today say that a severe wind storm struck Griffin, Ga., during the night, wrecking part of the town, killing five persons and injuring at least fifteen. The report declares that a cotton mill and other business houses were blown down.

From Columbus, Ga., the Associated Press received a dispatch today saying two persons were killed and a dozen injured by the storm there.

A long distance telephone message from Griffin, Ga., says that Mrs. M. E. Greer and M. O. Chapel were killed outright in their homes, and that a Mrs. Harris and her son have died since.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE AMONG THE NEGROES

New Orleans, April 25.—The greatest loss of life among negroes occurred in the vicinity of Natchez, Miss. In Concordia parish, Louisiana, across the Mississippi from Natchez, thirteen lives were lost, all except two of the dead being negroes.

Twenty-five persons were killed in Adams county, Miss., near Natchez, and thirty-five were killed in the neighborhood of Churchill, in Jefferson county, Miss.

All day physicians from Vidalia, La., and Natchez spent going from plantation to plantation and sending the worst wounded of the negroes back to the cities to be treated.

PRIEST KILLED IN CHURCH BELL TOWER

New Orleans, April 25.—Amite, La., was so badly damaged by the tornado that it was put under martial law by order of its mayor. The storm struck there just about noon, killing two white persons and thirteen negroes outright and injuring many others, mostly negroes, so badly that physicians said the total death list of Amite would reach at least twenty-five. Rev. Father Felix Rumpf was possibly the first person killed. He was in the bell tower of his church, having just finished ringing the bell. He was crushed to death by the falling of the tower.

The path of the tornado was about two and a half miles wide, and when it had passed Amite stood a wreck. Large numbers of farm animals were killed.

WAS MURDERED FOR HIS MONEY

Coroner Thinks Body Found in River is That of McBride.

Minneapolis, April 25.—(Special to Herald.)—Coroner Kistler is of the opinion that the body of a man found in the Mississippi river, here, April 13, is that of R. D. McBride, a wealthy ranch owner of Montana, and inclines to the belief that McBride was murdered for his money, as he was known to have had $400 on his person when he arrived in Minnesota, last summer. George Blaisdell of Paynesville, Minn., his business associate, agrees with the coroner.

When a Paynesville banker received a letter from a bank at Forsyth, Mont., where Mr. McBride had a large amount of money on deposit, inquiring as to his whereabouts, a search was commenced for him. Mr. Blaisdell read a description of the matter found in the river on April 13, and came to Minneapolis to interview Coroner Kistler. A comparison of descriptions served to convince both that the body was that of McBride. It will be exhumed.

COURT MEETS AT FARGO.

PUBLISHERS ELECT OFFICERS AND ADJOURN.

New York, April 25.—The American Publishers' association elected the following officers yesterday: Herman Ridder of the New York Staats Zeitung, re-elected president; McGill McCormack of the Chicago Tribune, vice president, and Elbert H. Baker of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, secretary. W. J. Patterson of the New York Evening Post was elected to succeed Edward P. Call as treasurer.

PASSENGER TRAIN LOST

Has Not Been Heard From Since Friday's Tornado.

Is Somewhere Between Citronelle, Ala., and Meridian, Miss.

Mobile, Ala., April 25.—The southbound passenger train, on the Mobile & Ohio railroad, due in this city at 7:30 o'clock last night, has been lost on the line, somewhere between Citronelle, thirty-three miles above this city, and Meridian, Miss., and up to an early hour today had not been heard from. The tornado tore down all wires, and the railroad company is without telegraphic communication with any part of the system beyond Citronelle. The tornado is believed to have thrown heavy trees across the track in its path into Alabama, and the fact that all wires are down has prevented warning being given to the passenger train. Fears are expressed here that the train may have crashed into some of these heavy obstructions and another catastrophe added to the work of the elements.

At the office of the Mobile & Ohio railroad it was announced that nothing had been heard of the southbound passenger train. The northbound train left Mobile about on time, 7:30 o'clock, last night, and reached Citronelle on time, and has been absolutely lost along with the southbound train from that point.

SANTA BARBARA READY FOR FLEET

Entire Population for Miles Around Flock to the City.

Santa Barbara, Cal., April 25.—Last night might have been called decoration night or transformation night. If anything was needed to announce that the flower festival was at hand and that the United States battleship fleet would arrive in the channel today, the decorations in progress on the boulevard, in the Plaza del Mar and elsewhere, told the story. The whole water front is a mass of colors. Pennants, lanterns and banners were all arranged to make a charming picture and setting for the fiesta.

Great crowd flocked to the city. Villages for hundreds of miles around sent practically the entire population. There will be a vast multitude watching the fleet as it comes into the channel at 4 o'clock this afternoon. All the stores are closed in celebration of the occasion.

REWARD OF $500

Offered by Northern Pacific Railway for Arrest of Bandits.

Butte, Mont., April 25.—The Northern Pacific Railway company last night posted a bulletin offering a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the bandits, who attempted to hold up the North Coast limited near Homestake, fifteen miles east of this city. The authorities will hold Rudolph Wenk, Paul Filnius and Alfred Teasdale, arrested at the scene of the attempted robbery of the limited. The men tell very contradictory stories. The red flag, with which Wenk flagged the limited, together with more dynamite and quantities of soap, with which the men were to grease the tracks, were found yesterday.

BREAK IN APPLE MARKET.

New York, April 25.—There has been a break in the apple market, with prices falling off from 50 cents to $1 a barrel.

LAKE LIZZIE HAS GIVEN UP BODIES

Victims of Double-Drowning Found After Nearly Week's Search.

Pine River, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—After searching since Sunday evening for the bodies of Henry Moberg and Ham Glover drowned in Lake Lizzie Sunday afternoon they were found last evening at 6 o'clock in nine feet of water, not over seven rods from the shore, on a hard bottom, lying fifteen feet apart, near the steel boat which had sank with them. The bodies were brought to town and Moberg's was taken to Brainerd immediately where the funeral will be held tomorrow by Eagles of which he was a member. Glover will be buried here.

DUKE'S BODY IS PLACED IN CRYPT

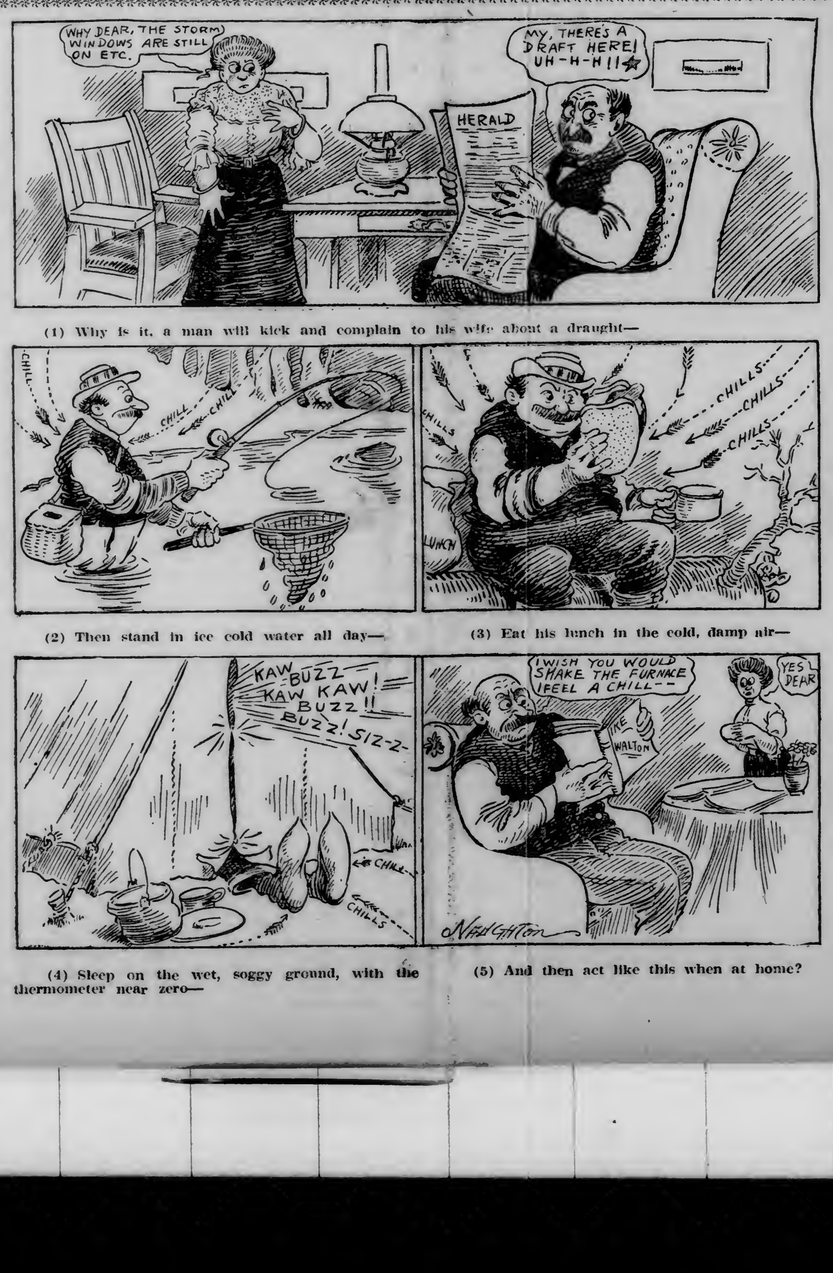

Remains of De Chaulnes Taken to the Church of St. Philips.

Paris, April 25.—The body of the duke de Chaulnes, who died suddenly from heart failure at 11 o'clock Thursday night in his bedroom in the Hotel Langham in the Rue Bacendor, was conveyed at daylight this morning from the hotel to the church of St. Phillip. It was accompanied only by an undertaker and his attendants and the duke de Luynes, a cousin of the duke de Chaulnes and the official head of the de Chaulnes household. The cure of the church received the coffin at the door. It was escorted to the crypt and after a simple blessing there deposited. The body will remain in St. Phillip's pending completion of the arrangements for the funeral. These will be settled definitely upon the arrival in Paris tonight of the duchess de Uzes and her husband. It is practically certain, however, that the funeral and the interment will occur at the chatean Dampierre, the ancestral residence of the Luynes outside of Paris.

The duchess de La Rouchefoucauld and princess Galitzin, an aunt of the young duke, remained last night with the widowed duchess, who was Miss Theodora Shents of New York. Early this afternoon the duchess went down to the chateau Dampierre accompanied by the duke de Luynes.

The false reports that the duke de Chaulnes had died in his sister's apartments in the Rue Van Dyke arose from the desire of the management of the Hotel Langham to make it appear that the death of the duke had not occurred in their establishment.

INCONSISTENCY OF MAN.

(5) And then act like this when at home?

Weather—Probably rain and slightly cooler. Sunday partly cloudy.

IS SCALDED BY COFFEE

Infant Dies of Burns Received Three Weeks Ago.

Pulled Table Cloth, Overturning Cup of Steaming Coffee.

After suffering three weeks from burns inflicted by an overturned cup of steaming coffee, the infant son of James Paulin, 1015 Garfield avenue, died Thursday night. The matter was not brought to light until this morning, when the report of death was received by the board of health. The little boy was one year and three months of age.

The accident was the result of the child pulling the table cloth towards him. Before either of his parents could prevent it, a cup of coffee, boiling hot, fell from the table and splashed over his head and ears. It was thought for a time the child's life might be saved, but after lingering for two weeks in great pain it died. The funeral was held today from the residence.

RAILROADS IS TESTING MOTOR CAR

Northwestern Road is Experimenting With Electric Power.

Motor Being Used on Branch Line Out of Janesville.

The Northwestern railroad is carrying on an experiment that is of vast importance to the railroads of the West. It is running an electric motor on its branch line from Janesville to Beloit, Wis., a distance of fifteen miles. This is the first experiment given the electric motor for practical railroad purposes in the West.

The electric motor is capable of attaining a speed of 90 miles an hour. Its use in the East has been confined to branch lines, where the distances were short and the stops frequent. On this kind of traffic work, the motor has clearly shown its superiority over the steam engine.

Whether the motor will ever come into general use on the longer distances is a matter of doubt at the present stage of the experiments. The officials of the Northwestern are giving the motor a thorough tryout in an attempt to ascertain its practical value for general railroad work. The result of the experiment being carried on will be watched with interest by railroad men all over the country. The successful issue of such an experiment, with the resultant experiments with the motor for longer distances and more varied uses, might mean that a revolution would be worked in railroading.

If the present experiment is a success the officials of the Northwestern intend placing the motor on their other branch lines. Many possibilities hinge upon the successful outcome of the Northwestern's experiment, for many railroad men are of the opinion that electricity is the motive power of the future.

RATE OF 89 CENTS.

Rainy Lake Road Will Give Through Rate to Winnipeg.

It is expected that the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railway will announce a through rate of 89 cents on first class freight from Duluth to Winnipeg over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway to Virginia, from Virginia to Fort Frances over the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg, and from Fort Frances to Winnipeg over the line of the Canadian Northern.

The rate for first class freight is 89 cents on the Northern Pacific to Winnipeg, via Pembina. The same rate also applies over the Great Northern by way of Emerson. The freight rate from Port Arthur to Winnipeg is also 89 cents, though this applies to Eastern freight. It is probable that the same rate that applies on the other lines will be made by the officials of the new direct line to the Manitoba capital.

The opening of the new line will give Duluth jobbers and shippers three lines to Winnipeg and connecting territory. With the completion of the Soo into Duluth another line to the Western Canadian metropolis will also be opened up.

The new route to Winnipeg will be the most direct. It will also open up a new territory for the Duluth jobbers. The country along the line of the new route is rich in possibilities, being a growing and prosperous country, and the opening of the new line will be the signal of an invasion of the new territory by Duluth interests.

It is expected that trains on the new line will be running by the first of June. The bridge over the Rainy river is almost completed and traffic arrangements are practically completed with the officials of the Canadian Northern, the connecting line to Winnipeg. The through routing of freight will be begun within the near future.

REDUCED RATES.

Duluth Officials Say Western Lines Make Special Tariff.

A Chicago dispatch of yesterday published in The Herald, stating that regular rates were going to be made by the lines east and west of Chicago for the Republican national convention, is news to the passenger officials of Duluth. They have not received any official notice of the placing of a straight two cent fare by the western roads.

A fare of one and one half cent, over the Northwestern line, applying from this city to Chicago for the national convention, was announced by the local officials of that road through The Herald. No notice has been received changing this announced reduced fare.

It is believed here that the Western roads will make a reduced rate to the convention, thereby meeting the reduced tariff of the lines east of Chicago.

Northwestern Special.

A special over the Northwestern will leave here Tuesday evening for Minneapolis. The train will carry the local Knights Templar, who will attend the convention in the Mill city. Over 150 local Knights will make the trip. The special will carry six pullman sleepers, a private car and a buffet car.

R. R. Club Tonight.

A meeting of the Northern Railway club will be held this evening in the rooms of the Commercial club. A discussion of a paper on "Discipline of Railway Employes," which was read at the last meeting of the club, will be held. A paper "Brick Arches in Locomotives," by Mr. Cotter, traveling engineer of the D. & I. R., will be read.

Special trains will be run from Two Harbors and Proctor.

President Fitch Here.

W. F. Fitch, president and general manager of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, is in Duluth today conferring with the local officials of that line.

Displace Operators.

Topeka, Kan., April 25.—It was announced at Rock Island headquarters here today that telephones will be installed to displace operators over the entire system. Dispatchers will be maintained at division points.

CHANCE FOR INVESTORS

County Offers Local People Opportunity of Buying Certificates.

Will be Safe as a Bank, With Higher Interest.

St. Louis county is blossoming out as a savings bank for any person either within or without its borders that has from $1,000 to $600,000 that he would like to invest for a period from four to ten years, at 4½ per cent interest.

The opportunity to get in on the ground floor of this proposition will only last until next Thursday, when County Auditor Halden will open sealed proposals for the certificates of indebtedness in the aggregate amount of $600,000 that the county has offered for sale, to raise funds to complete and furnish the new courthouse.

The certificates will be issued in the amount of $1,000 each, in order that all the local people who would like to make an investment may have the opportunity to buy one or more of them.

The investment in county certificates is as safe as a deposit in the banks, with the difference that the county will pay 4½ per cent interest, which is about 1½ per cent more than the banks will pay on savings deposits.

The county offers for sale certificates that mature from four to ten years, and the interest will be payable semi-annually. Every person who buys one of the certificates will be paid his interest May 1 and Nov. 1 each year until the certificate matures. The county has never yet defaulted in the payment of a single bond or bond interest.

If any of the Duluth parents wish to invest from $1,000 to $5,000 or more, for their children, the opportunity is offered. It is believed that the larger portion of the whole $600,000 issue of certificates would be taken up by people residing in the county if they fully realized the advantages offered for an investment. Local financiers claim that with the prospects ahead for St. Louis county 4½ per cent interest will be a pretty high rate of interest ten years from now.

RUINED LIVES SAVED

Skill and Methods of Duluth's Medical Experts Save Thousands.

If you are sick it will pay you to consult the Duluth Specialists before you go elsewhere and spend money and time. Among those we have cured and many who have been in Hot Springs—people who have been in a most deplorable condition, covered with ulcers from top to toe—others with eczema crusts and cripples with rheumatism—and it is only through our advanced knowledge of the science of healing and experience of years in the application of curative methods which has made us able to get the results of a cure, even in many of the most hopeless cases. Every day brings us letters from out of town patients thanking us for what we have done for them. These letters are here for your inspection. Remember, that among the 125 doctors in Duluth and Superior, we are the only specialists in men's diseases, and it stands to reason that, because our practice is limited to such a very small field of diseases, that we know the ins and outs of men's diseases one hundred and fifty times better than others who handle all kinds of diseases.

Dissolving Cancers and Piles

Cancers are growths and take their origin from depositions of remnances of emrryonal cells which have the property to grow and multiply in middle or older age if they are properly stimulated by defective metabolism of the pancreatic gland. Internally you may develop cancer or a tumor in your liver by the use of liquors in former years. Cancer of the bowels and the rectum a man will get if he is or has been troubled with Piles, Constipation, Indigestion or Bowel or Stomach Diseases. Cancer externally develops from a mole, from smoking a pipe, a birthmark or a wart; in fact, these are cancers in embryo and any one having them runs the risk of getting real cancer. A real cancer may be as minute as a pea, but it will itch at times, may form a scab and fester; remember, if this is the case and you have it cut, the cancer will go into your whole body by the blood and lymph stream, and where ever these cells are carried by the blood there will be a growth of cancer established, and if you ever witness the agony and excrutiating pains of cancerous people, you ought to learn a lesson and have this cured in time by experts who make a specialty of these diseases as we. We don't come once every month, for these diseases have to be treated several times a week, and we are here every day in the year and do not travel elsewhere.

This process is not a simple one and can be done only by experts who have spent their life and labor for the efficiency to cure these troubles, and we do cure them without any pain. Again, operations are very expensive and you risk your life every time you go on the operating table. By these experts you risk neither life nor pay high surgical fees.

Rupture and Varicocele

Varicocele is the direct cause in thousands of cases of rupture, as the enlarged veins are extending up into the inguinal canal and go through the internal wall of the abdomen and causes the passage of the guts to pass through this hole and go down into the scrotum.

This disease is often associated by Hydrocele, enlarged, prostatic gland, spermatorrhoea, tricture, bladder and kidney disease. Often varicocele and the whole train of associated diseases is brought on by that secret device of habit which destroys body and soul, even of the best and of the most hopeful of young men.

We found in former years that cutting and dissecting out these veins did not cure our patients. The deep-seated nerves that control the function and nutrition of the sexual organs were still causing the patients trouble and more pain than before. And after our discovery of the poisons in stagnant circulation of varicocele we invented the "Direct Method of the Dissolving Process," and this method is as superior to the old time cutting and blood letting and drugging as the modern electric light is superior to the old-fashioned tallow candle.

We are specialists in men's diseases only, and we are as successful in the cure of these diseases as we are in the cure of all and any men's ailment. Men, if you want a cure of your suffering, no matter what your trouble is and how long you had it, come to us and you will not look any health.

You are cordially invited to consult them free of charge and they will explain why they can cure any of men's diseases, regardless of age and complications. Their offices are crowded from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. No. 1 West Superior St.

IS CRIPPLE FOR LIFE

Injured Fireman Sues Great Northern Road for $50,000.

Suit is Outcome of Railroad Wreck July 12, 1907.

Lorne F. Boston, a locomotive fireman on the Great Northern road, has sued the company for $50,000 for injuries to his legs, which were so mangled in a wreck on the ore road, July 14, 1907, as to make them useless for the remainder of his life. Boston claims that the only way he will ever be able to walk is to have his legs amputated and artificial limbs substituted.

The suit is the outcome of the big wreck that occurred on the Great Northern's line, between Allouez and Kelly Lake, early in the morning of July 14 last, when a train of empty ore cars collided with a freight train running in the opposite direction, between the stations known as Arlburg and Baden, not far from Alborn. In this wreck there were two men killed, and some others, including Boston, badly injured.

Boston alleges that the wreck was due to the carelessness of the company and its agents. Boston claims that after the accident, he was taken to a hospital at Superior, where he remained for a long time. He alleges that previous to his injuries he was capable of earning $100 per month, but that now he is crippled for life, he is not in a physical condition to earn anything. Boston is but 26 years of age.

John Blume has sued the Dumas-Backus Lumber company for $2,500 damages for the loss of a thumb in the slasher at the company's mill, Nov. 25 last.

NORTH DAKOTA BENEFITTED.

Present Rain Doing World of Good in That State.

Fargo, N. D., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nearly the entire state received a good soaking as a result of the present rainfall. In the Red river valley no moisture was needed as the crop conditions are nearly ideal as possible to secure, but outside the valley, the farmers welcomed the moisture. It will have the effect of settling the soil around the seed and assisting in its germination. It will also pack the ground so the winds won't "blow" the land. Wheat seeding has been advanced so rapidly that many farmers are through.

ESTIMATES BADLY CUT

Bill as Reported Carries an Appropriation of $105,715,369.

Washington, April 25.—The sundry civil appropriation bill was reported to the house today by the appropriations committee. It carries $105,715,369. The following statement of the bill was authorized by Chairman Tawney:

"The estimates submitted by the different departments of the government for sundry civil expenses for the next fiscal year so far exceed the estimates for like expenses in any previous year in our history, aggregating $141,284,366. These estimates were prepared for submittance to the congress last September, when the revenues of the government were far in excess of current expenditures. Before congress convened the financial stringency came on, resulting in a very material falling off in the government revenues. This necessitated a thorough examination of the estimates with a view of ascertaining the amounts actually required to continue the service usually provided for in the sundry civil bill and also to continue the public works previously authorized until the next appropriations shall become available.

"The sub-committee having these estimates in charge spent some six weeks in public hearings and in considering the amounts which the revenues would justify the committee in allowing on the various estimates. As the result of these hearings and investigations the committee has reported the bill to the house, carrying in the aggregate $105,715,369, being $35,568,997 less than the estimates submitted by the department.

"The amount recommended is ample to provide for the continuance during the next fiscal year of the public service usually provided for in the sundry civil bill, and for the continuance of all public works heretofore authorized until the next appropriations become available. This reduction of more than $35,000,000 in the estimates submitted for sundry civil expenditures, together with the reductions that have been made by the appropriations committee in other bills of which that committee has jurisdiction, aggregate almost $75,000,000 below the estimates submitted by the various departments outside of the estimates for army and navy expenditures.

Money for Isthmian Canal.

"Included in the appropriations recommended in the sundry civil bill is the sum of $27,627,000 for the isthmian canal, which amount is re-imbursible to the treasury for the proceeds of the sale of bonds authorized. The aggregate carried by the bill is $5,327,631 less than the amount appropriated by the sundry civil bill for the current fiscal year.. The bill carries for public buildings—including marine hospitals, quarantine stations, annual repairs, heating apparatus, vaults, safes and locks, $2,182,375; and for the improvement of rivers and harbors under contract authorizations, $17,692,645."

The total of $106,715,369 is $1,828,289 more than the sundry civil appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908. Among the items carried in the bill are the following: Life saving service, $2,285,857; current expenses of revenue cutter srvice, $1,394,099; egraving and printings, $3,354,755; interstate commerce commission, $925,000, an increase of $196,755 over the current year; assistant custodians and janitors for public buildings, $1,688,872; fuel, lights and water for public buildings, $1,400,000; expenses of collecting customs additional to the permanent appropriation of $5,500,000 for that purpose of 1909, $4,500,000 an increase of $700,000; public health and marine hospital service, $1,299,750, an increase of $137,000; quarantine, $400,000; immigration station at San Francisco, $185,000; lighthouse establishments $5,194,000; coast and geographic survey, $956,290; bureau of fisheries, $685,320; enforcement of the Chinese exclusion act, $500,000; expense of collection of revenues from sales of public lands, $1,425,220; surveying public lands, $479,000; geological survey, $1,085,520, a deduction of $359,500, which includes the omission of $100,000 for gauging streams; education in Alaska, $175,000; government hospitals for insane, $370,500, a reduction of $85,000; national park, $74,650; armories and arsenals, $44,715, a reduction of $151,378; buildings and grounds in and around Washington, D. Limitation on Secret Service Men.

In connection with the appropriation for suppressing counterfeiting and other crime, the following limitation is made by the bill:

"No person employed in the secret service division of the treasury department or under the appropriation for suppressing counterfeiting and other crimes, who is detailed, furloughed, granted leave of absence or otherwise temporarily or finally separated from the service of such division and is thereafter employed under any other branch of public service, shall be restored or paid compensation for service or expenses in the secret service division for two years after the termination of his employment under such other branch of the government."

This limitation is designed to do away with the alleged practice of lending secret service employes to other departments and to individuals for private detective work.

An echo of the recent investigation of the government printing office by the president's direction is heard in the following imposed limitation:

"The public printer shall submit for the fiscal year 1910 and annually thereafter, estimates for all clerks and other additional employes to the foregoing (scheduled) who may be required in the executive or administrative offices of the government printing office; and funds other than those specifically appropriated under said estimates, shall be used during said fiscal year for services in the government printing office of the character specified in said estimates and appropriated for the current year."

A limitation affecting labor in the canal zone stipulates that wages and salaries paid on the isthmus for skilled and unskilled labor by the canal commission and Panama Railroad company shall not exceed by more than 25 per cent the average wages and salaries paid in the United States for the same class of labor. It is provided in the bill that all funds derived from customs duties collected upon property of the United States imported from the canal zone "is hereby re-appropriated for the construction of the isthmian canal."

MRS. HAZELTON'S STRONG PLEA AGAINST A DIVORCE

Letters to Her Husband Breathe Everlasting Love and Confidence.

Little Woman Tears Herself to Pieces on Witness Stand.

MRS. JULIA V. HAZELTON.

Mrs. Julia V. Hazelton, who is contesting the divorce suit of her husband, Prof. William S. Hazelton, at Detroit, Mich., is the daughter of Mrs. Walter Ogg of Riverside Park. Her maiden name was Julia V. Johnson, and she graduated from the Duluth high school. During her graduating year she was editor-in-chief of the Zenith.

Detroit, Mich., April 25.—Prof. William S. Hazelton, formerly of the University of Michigan, had the first view of his 2-year-old daughter when the fair-haired little one toddled up on the witness stand to the side of her mother, who is defendant in the divorce suit now pending before Circuit Judge Hosmer. The incident was one of intense interest for the spectators.

Mrs. Hazelton told the story of a college romance and subsequent marriage. Attorney Graves then read from a large pack of love letters, when there came a rap at the door and Mrs. Hazelton's mother, who much resembles the defendant, entered, leading the little one. The child was dressed in a white plush coat and cap. Under these was a spotless white dress with two bows of baby ribbon which matched the blue eyes. The little one soon saw her mother, and ran forward, stumbling on the step of the witness box. She was picked up and coddled and the expression of the mother's countenance at once changed. Although she had passed directly in front of her father, who saw her for the first time, there was no expression of emotion on his part.

"Because I Loved Him."

"I married my husband because I loved him," said Mrs. Hazelton, when questioned by her attorney. "We became acquainted at the university, where we were in the same classes, studied together and became engaged in the fall before graduation. Then both of us were heavily in debt, and taught school for a year, he at the Armour Institute of Technology in Chicago, and I in Hinsdale, a suburb. We would see each other often then. I did not know he was sick with diabetes at first. Then I wondered why he was so gloomy when he had me. I forced the confession of his disease.

"I wished to teach an additional year and pay our debts, but he wished me to marry earlier, and I thought that he would be better off with me to keep house for him and cook for him than he would with boarding house fare, so I sacrificed my plans and we were married Sept. 16, 1903, at my home in Duluth. Then he went to teach in the University of South Dakota, at Grand Forks, and I followed him, after he had made arrangements. We had no money for a regular wedding trip. The next summer he was offered a place as instructor in the engineering department at the University of Michigan, on condition that he worked during the summer to get practical experience, and I stopped off in Duluth, because he could not support two during the summer."

Was Too Exacting.

Mrs. Hazelton's version of their quarrel, which figured in her husband's bill and testimony, is different from her husband's. Before she would testify about them, she declared:

"I want it understood that I am not doing this because I am against him, for I have given him every opportunity for reconciliation, but because I am opposed to his getting a divorce, which I think is wrong."

Their first quarrel took place when she took a teaching position at Grand Forks, to help pay those college debts. She walked both ways, and found that her clothing was not heavy enough for the Dakota winter, and declared she would have to have some heavier clothes. At this Prof. Hazelton complained, saying it was unusual for a man to have to buy clothes for his wife the first year they were married. This led to a spat. She stated that she did the housework in addition to her teaching. After eight weeks her husband made a slighting remark about her cleanliness.

"I told him that if he was not prouder to have me working as I was under these conditions, than he would be if we were wealthy, he did not deserve to have me do the extra work I was doing for his sake, and I should not each any more. And I did not," she concluded with a compression of the lips. "He was too exacting. Once I filled my chafing dish with turpentine by mistake, and he told me I had ruined it."

Calls Him "Honey Boy."

About twenty long letters from wife to husband were read to rebut the statement that Mrs. Hazelton showed no affection after marriage. "Dearest," "Peerless Husband," "Laddie," "Honey Boy" and similar expressions are scattered thickly through them. They showed principal solicitude for the professor's health and for the payment of their debts. In the first one, written to Grand Forks, just before she joined him there, she said:

Duluth, Wedensdy, 8:30 a. m., Oct. 7, 1903.

My Peerless Husband:

Just a wee little note this morning to carry a little comfort and love to my sweet darling. Your letter of Sunday came yesterday. I am very, very sorry, dear, that you have been so very unhappy, but I rejoice that you have borne it all so patiently and bravely. And now, dear heart, this trying time will soon be over. If all is well, I shall be with you day after tomorrow. Think of it, love! And it won't matter, my sweet little mate, whether our nest is all feathered and soft or not. Who cares?

I see through it all, you busy little robin. You weren't going to let your ladybird have any share in getting the nest ready. Now, aren't you ashamed? Just think how disappointed she would have been to walk in and find it all fixed up, just like other other folks' houses, and not have a finger in it! Don't you worry a bit about my being disappointed, dear. We shall have each other, and that is all that really matters. And the rest will come to suit us. And we must make up our minds to have many things that do not suit us as long as we deal with landlords.

You can rest assured, darling, that I know you have more than done your part. There isn't a better hustler in the world than my laddie.

I bought some kitchen utensils yesterday at Steele's—two frying pans, two saucepans, a coffee pot, two kitchen spoons, a milk pan, all granite ware, and a toaster (or broiler)—all for $1.38 (33 1-3 per cent discount). This was as much as I thought I could take with me. I also bought something else for your wife, a $12.50 ——— for $3.50, but I shall not tell you what. You will probably see it when I come. I hope you will like it. Will tell you all about my other little personal purchases when I come. Soon after getting this to the mailbox, I am going to begin packing.

Now, darling, I must close. Here is a spray of leaves from one of our trees, with a kiss on each leaf for my sweet honey love. I can almost see your smiling lips and eyes brimming over with happiness. Soon I shall see them in reality, please God. The Lord be with us both till we meet again.

Your loving sweetheart, JULIA.

Estimate of Herself.

"I will tabulate my faults if you desire," said Mrs. Hazelton, and at her lawyer's assent she described her imperfections thus:

"I am high-spirited and impatient, although I have fought with myself and am becoming more patient.

"I have naturally a sharp tongue and have said many sharp things.

"I am too particular. I like to see even a match laid at its proper angle.

"Because I try to do things in an exact way I have been too exacting with others, but, thank God, I am overcoming that.

"My ideals are probably too high and too exacting for practical life."

Mrs. Hazelton's story was of intense dramatic interest. In well-chosen words she told of her love for Prof. Hazelton, of the many trivial misunderstandings which had led to their separation. She declared several times that she yet loves him.

"I have never told a human being that I did not love my husband. I love him today," she declared.

In the mails she told her story with an absolute lack of nervousness, only on one or two occasions faltering and breaking into tears. She would wipe her eyes, straighten up and resume the thread of her narrative. There was no bitterness in her story against her husband, but rather an effort to comprehensively explain away the charges made aginst her in such a way that her husband might not be wounded.

Mrs. Hazelton said that on New Year's eve, 1904, they had a serious discussion over their troubles, discussed many religious and other literary works, and parted "in the sweetest spirit."

"I had resolved to be patient and sweet," she said. "New Year's morning he came into the house with snow on his feet and I remonstrated with him. He thundered at me. He has played baseball and has a baseball voice."

"A baseball voice?" queried Attorney Groesbeck. "We have a man with a baseball smile in this town, but I never heard of a baseball voice."

Viking Blood.

"Well, he had a baseball smile, too," said the witness with a faint smile. "He tried to intimidate me and naturally could have intimidated a woman of my size, but he couldn't me. I have Viking blood in my veins and have never been intimidated by any one. On that occasion he told me to pack my trunk and go home. I was growing sick of his childishness. His sister, Mrs. Zella Duvall, who lives in this city, told me that William was the most selfish human being that she had ever known and said, 'He could not fail to make any girl unhappy.' I couldn't share in this condemnation of my husband, because I loved him and she didn't. It grew to be a perfect nightmare, these trivial things, and if I dreamed of him, it was that he was accusing me of something."

Mrs. Hazelton then said that she had never told any one that she wished that she had devoted her life to teaching and not married Hazelton. She also discussed the visit of a school girl friend, Miss Maude E. Taber, who has made a deposition in the case, and said that she had told Miss Taber her troubles because Miss Taber had been jilted by a man in the West and that she and Miss Taber naturally sought consolation in each other.

A Pen Picture.

Attorney Graves, the least emotional man in the Detroit bar, a man whose professional manner is austere unto frigidity, is bringing out the narrative of the woman is in Duluth, the man in Detroit. They have been apart for many weeks, and she is burning to join him, but held for several harsh days waiting for a cheap trunk, which has been ordered from a mail-order house in Chicago, to contain her belongings and little household goods she has collected. The trunk does not come. She is ill, but cannot wait, and starts on her journey alone. She is carrying the silver plate and some bronze bric-a-brac—matters of weight.

Here the picture of the bride, ill, burdened cruelly, because she is too poor to express her treasures and afraid to trust them to freight shipping, becomes a living thing in the hearer's brain. Nothing matters, she is going to her lover. Not a line of self pity drops from the woman's lips here. Her distress is but a light touch so far as her words are concerned, but its inner appeal is intense, immense. Its sentiment is as remote from mawkishness as a Stevenson portrait.

She arranges to meet her husband in Port Huron, but he is not there, nor any word from him. Neither is he in Detroit.

She meets one of his relatives and breaks down from fatigue and anguish, but her world has not fallen. Her husband is ill in Oxford. The last of the journey with the murderous luggage is the highest art of portrayal of the pitiful. She runs at last to her lover's bedside, and is greeted with:

"Do you know you have been spending an awful lot of money trapseing about the country this way?"

Petty and Selfish.

In the following pictures—a study of meanness is brought out in the man she has married. Pennies are his masters. He is petty—selfish unto shame—a thing that a man would despise, but which she still loves. All these impressions are suggested in the most consummate art of narrative. There is one scene just touched upon—of infinite power in suggestion. She goes alone to the orchard with her heart robbed of the dearest substance of her life; illusions, brutalized, dreams crushed. She battles it out alone there—and prepares to forgive again.

And so the story unfolds until the last breach—the husband constructed by a series of masterful little word-paintings into an avaricious, bloodless, deal-souled travesty of manhood, whose highest concept smells of meanness—and the woman, a Ruth, while-lipped with inner agony, desolate of heart, fighting against this new shame of being cast off by the law's sanction.

Bitter Cold Gray Eyes.

Hazelton is a man of small physique, but with a rather strong face. His gray eyes are bitter cold, set with the blackest points one would find in a year's search. He is cultured and winning to meet; warm in manner and wise in speech. The writer presented him with a picture of his little girl, whom he had seen for the first time yesterday. He took the picture gratefully, but was not in the least moved. The child has no weight toward effecting a reconciliation. The writer commented upon the art and drama of the plaintiff's case.

"Yes," said the husband, "she is the smartest woman by far I have ever known. She is smarter far than her two lawyers combined. The trouble is we can disprove practically all of her testimony—even through her own friends."

Whether the fabric of this astonishing woman's testimony is true or falsehood is for the court to decide. If it is true, Mrs. Hazelton is a woman whose wrongs should arouse the spirit of Victor Hugo into being born again. If it is false, the woman stands as the most consummate artist the local witness stands have ever known.

STAPLES COUPLE WEDS.

Staples, Minn., April 25.—A quiet wedding occurred at the Methodist parsonage Wednesday evening, the contracting parties being Miss Violet Pearl Asher and Hubert A. Jackson. The service was solemnized by Dr. Dodds and there were but a few of the intimate friends present. The bride and groom are both of this city, the groom having a position with the Northern Pacific.

ON THE IRON RANGES

HOMAN'S DEATH WILL BE PROBED

Body Exhumed and Skull Found to Have Been Fractured.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the next grand jury is held in Itasca county, the jury will be asked to look into the circumstances surrounding the death of Axel Homan, who perished in the fire that destroyed the resort kept in the village of Homan, near Coleraine, Kept by Berna Spalding, a week ago last Monday. There have been ugly rumors Homan was killed through jealousy and the house fired to cover the crime.

Until the grand jury has disposed of the case, the Spalding woman, and Margie McDonald, Eva Miller and Maud Brown, inmates of the house, will be detained as witnesses. They are at present under arrest, but are expected to furnish bonds some time today.

The latest turn in the Homan case resulted from the body of the deceased being exhumed yesterday by Dr. Russell, the coroner. While the body was found to be badly burned, there was an indentation in the skull that might have been made with an instrument or might have resulted from the deceased being hit on the head by the falling timbers in the burning house. When the resort burned, and Homan's disfigured body was dragged from the embers, suspicion was directed toward William Lynch, a brakeman, employed by the Oliver Mining company at Holman, who was in the house at the time of the fire, and he was arrested. At a hearing, he was promptly cleared of the charge, the evidence as to his good character counting in his behalf. Then it was decided to probe further and to make no mistake the body was exhumed and further examined. The county attorney, Alfred Thwing, when asked today about the case, admitted that there might be damaging evidence in the injury to the skull of the deceased, but he did not care to discuss the case in the advance of the grand jury's examination.

HIBBING CITY BUILDING.

Sentiment Favors Second Avenue and Center Street Site.

Hibbing, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeing of the city council, next Tuesday night, when the committee appointed to look into the sites offered for the proposed city building reports, it is expected the committee will favor the site at the corner of Second avenue and Center street.

The village already owns two lots on this corner, and the third lot can be purchased, thus giving a frontage of seventy-five feet on Center street and 140 feet on Second avenue.

The members of the committee are Recorder Gandsey, Trustees Roddy, Rogalsky and Hayes and Supt. W. J. West of the Oliver Iron Mining company. The members of the committee are strictly advocating the site above mentioned, and it is believed that the committee will report unanimously in favor of it, thus locating the city hall practically where it is now. The strong argument that is made in favor of the site at the corner of Second avenue and Cedar street is that the location is more directly accessible to the business section of the city, and that the fire hall should be placed as nearly as possible in the center of the business district.

RANGE WELCOMES RAIN.

Brush Fires Burning in That Section, Have Been Extinguished.

Hibbing, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Never in the history of the Mesaba range has rain been more welcome than the present storm which began yesterday, and has given this section a good soaking, putting out the numerous brush fires and relieving the anxiety of lumbermen, mining companies, homesteaders, and even the inhabitants of the towns, who feared that on account of the previous dry condition of the woods, extensive fires might result. The damage from extensive forest and stubble fires was very great, even the cities and towns being menaced.

Settlers in the vicinity of Zim are said to have suffered heavily from the fires. Luis Johnson is reported to have lost 2,000 ties and 120 cords of wood, in 36, 56-19. He had the wood stored on both sides of the St. Louis river. Many other losses, mostly smaller, are reported.

AGED MOTHER SICK.

Capt. Webb of Hibbing Called to Ironwood, Mich.—Other Events.

Hibbing, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. Webb, his daughters, Mrs. I. T. Clomar and Mrs. J. L. Phillips, and sons, Harry and Ed, are at Ironwood, Mich., at the bedside of their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Jane Wood, who is thought to be fatally ill. Mrs. Wood resided in Hibbing last winter with her relatives and has many friends here. She has reached the advanced age of 84 years and this is her first serious sickness.

The children of Miss Hoefling's sixth grade have two whole months now without tardiness to their credit and are striving to keep the good record up for the balance of the year.

Miss Jessie Johnston left Hibbing Tuesday for New York where she will sail for Sweden to spend three months.

Victor Power has been spending several days in Memphis Tennessee attending the wedding of a sister.

A hot chimney fire and a strong wind called out the fire department Tuesday. No damage was done.

Judge Brady accompanied his eldest daughter, Marguerite, to Duluth Wednesday, where she will resume her studies at the Sacred Heart convent.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cobb are expected home soon from Fresno, Cal., where they spent the winter hoping to improve the health of the former.

FORT FRANCES' BANQUET.

Number of Virginians Are Expecting to Attend Affair.

Virginia, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The charming little city of Fort Frances on the Canadian side across from Ranier and International Falls has planned to give a banquet at the Emperor hotel in that city to the officials of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railway in commemoration of the advent of the railway into Fort Frances. It was originally intended to hold the banquet last evening, but owing to the fact that some of the officials of the road could not be present at that time it was decided to postpone it until next Tuesday evening. A number of prominent citizens of Virginia have been invited and will attend.

THEY TALK RAILROADS.

Eveleth Business Men's Association Wants Better Hibbing Connections.

Eveleth, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—On account of the inclement weather and the dance in Vail hall, few attended the meeting of the Business Men's association last evening to consider railroad matters. At first the main idea was for securing the Duy Lake road to enter the city, but after being informed as to the exact way in which trains were to be run from Duluth to Winnipeg on the Missabe and Rainy Lake roads, the members started to talk about securing better accommodations in trains to Iron Junction and Hibbing. At present there is only one train to and from Hibbing and at that passengers must stay over for a number of hours at Wolf. The idea was talked over of trying to secure the trains between Virginia and Hibbing that leave in the morning and late afternoon to back into Eveleth, in that way the town would have the same service as that of Virginia. Neil McInnis, who presided, appointed a committee, composed of P. E. Dowling, J. J. Gleason, J. C. Poole, Soloman Sax and Charles McNamara, who should communicate and talk with the officials of the D. M. & N. road about the service into Eveleth. They will try to go to Duluth with a committee from the council that has been appointed to go down for a similiar purpose.

RANGE EDITORS' MEETING

To Consider Business Matters and Have Dinner at Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Editors and publishers of range papers will hold a meeting tonight at the Glode hotel, formerly the McNeil before which they will sit down to an elaborate meal. A large attendance is expected and something of importance will probably be accomplished. They will try to organize a permanent range organization.

Chester Shephard, son of the late Amos Shephard, who is attending West Point, and will soon graduate, has been here a few days visiting friends.

Clara White, who drove the horse from Jesmore's livery that broke its foot early in the week, had to pay $200 as a settlement for the loss of the horse.

The Eveleth Dancing club held its regular monthly dance at Vail hall last night and it was very well attended, despite the weather.

MYSTERY ENSHROUDS CASE.

Authorities Believe Kimball Knows More Than He Tells.

Hibbing, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Kimball, the Leonard mine teamster, who was found stabbed and unconscious on Second avenue Saturday night, is out of danger and the wounds are healing at the Rood hospital.

Considerable mystery envelopes the case, and the police are of the opinion that Kimball knows more about the affair than he is inclined to tell.

Kimball claims that at about 9 o'clock he was walking south on Second avenue, when suddenly two men sprang out from behind two buildings and attacked him. He was put out so quickly that he did not have time to see what his assailants looked like. Kimball claims to have no enemies, and sice his watch and money were not taken, as would have been the case had robbery been the motive, the identity of the men and their reason for the assault are both likely to remain a mystery.

KOHRT BROS.' BLOCK

Will be Two Story and Basement and Addition to Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work on the foundation of the Kohrt Bros., building south of the tracks was begun last week and is now practically complete. The building will be a two story brick with a full basement and will be a decided addition to the business blocks south of the tracks. Kohrt Bros., will occupy the entire building themselves. A double store room will occupy the first floor devoted to groceries and meats while the second story will be made into flats. A fine two story refrigerator will be put in and the basement will be arranged especially for the meat market and grocery business.

WASTE IS FIRED.

Dastardly Attempt to Burn Engine House and Shaft.

Hibbing, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Monday night about midnight a fire was discovered in the little engine room at the top of the shaft at the Webb mine. Some one had climbed up the shaft, cut out two panes of glass in the window and set fire to some waste inside the engine room. No particular damage was done as the fire was discovered [illegible] shortly after it was set. Had it gained any headway and gone down into the mine, however, it might have done damage to the extent of from $200,000 to $300,000.

Shortly before the fire was discovered some one heaved several heavy rocks through a window of the boiler room where the boiler man was working.

LATEST REPORTS OF TORNADO

at McCallum, Miss., which would bring the white death list up to 46. The number of negroes killed was between 150 to 175.

The towns which suffered the worst danger in addition to Purvis, were Amite, La., McCallum, McLaurin and Winchester, Miss., and Albertville, Ala.

The following fifteen towns were more or less damaged: Richland and Lamourie, La.; Wingate, New Augusta, Columbus, Walls, Braxton, Belle Grove, Melton, Norman, Pine Ridge, Quitman's Landing, Fairchild's Creek and Wahalack, in Mississippi, and Bargen, Ala.

Most of these places are merely a collection of a few stores and dwellings, so that the property losses will not reach very large figures. No estimates of property damage have yet been made, with the exception of Amite, La., and Purvis, Miss., the two worst sufferers, where the damage, which will never be estimated in the aggregate, was done to timber lands, to plantations and to railroad property, scattered through a belt about 500 miles long.

Destruction of Purvis.

The destruction of Purvis, Miss., occurred at about ten minutes after 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, and was all over in a few minutes' time. Of about 200 dwelling houses, only seven were left standing.

The courthouse, the only other building in town to withstand the wind, was immediately packed with dead and injured and served as the only available hospital within many miles. C. W. Cromwell of Jackson, Miss., in attempting to describe the storm, said that all he could realize was that the air was full of flying timbers. These timbers dealt death to many persons who sought safety in the open air, while the falling of walls was a still greater peril to those who remained indoors.

One child is said to have been kneeling in prayer, her uncle bending over her in an attempt to shield her, but despite his care, a timber, which did not touch him, killed the little girl. Scarcely one brick of the school house was left on the other. School had been dismissed only a moment before the tornado struck. In a field near the town a farmer, who was plowing, saw the storm approach, and managed to get the members of his family out doors and behind stumps before the wind came. The house was blown away, but none of the farmer's family was injured. One of the children killed is said to have been lifted high in the air, and while still well above the ground, to have been struck by a heavy flying timber, which caused its death.

When the storm was over, a special train bearing twelve physicians and fifteen other persons, went to Purvis. Meanwhile a second relief train started for Lumberton.

One train was stopped by a woman waving a red cloth. When the engineer ran ahead to see what she wanted, the woman fainted, and the engineer found that the red color of the cloth was caused by blood. A search revealed her home, near the railroad, and three members of her family were found dead and four injured.

A man who drove into Purvis last night reported that he saw the bodies of several dead, whom he took to be negroes, lying beside the road. At nightfall what was left of the town was put under martial law, a military company preserving order.

A nearly complete list of dead follows:

Amite City and vicinity—Rev. Father Felix Rumpf, Camille McGinity, 11 years; thirteen other known dead negroes.

Angie, La.—Two negroes.

Concordia Parish, La.—Mrs. Devereaux Shields, twelve negroes.

Lamourie, La.—One negro.

Adams county, Miss.—Jim Vickers, twenty-four negroes.

Churchill, Miss., and vicinity—Thirty-five negroes.

Near Port Gibson, Miss.—One negro woman.

Lorman, Miss.—One negro child.

At Bergens, Ala.—Section Foreman Moore, wife and daughter, Mrs. Cully, C. P. Adams.

At Thomas Mill., Ala.—Herbert Thomas, Mrs. Caldwell.

DEATH LIST INCREASING.

Number of Victims in Vicinity of Natchez Has Reached 71.

Natchez, Miss., April 25.—Two bodies, both colored, and badly mangled, victims of yesterday's tornado, were found between Giles Bend and Pine Ridge this morning, bringing the list of dead in this section to 71, of which number, all are negroes but two, of this number five died at local hospitals during the night. Several others of the injured are not expected to live.

Three wagon loads of injured negroes from the Churchill neighborhood, with three victims in each, were received at the Natchez charity hospital this morning. These arrivals were reinforced by seven from Lucerne plantation in Concordia Parish, La.

One, a negro, who was brought from Pine Ridge, was almost wrapped around a tree, his leg being broken in four places and his arm broken. His mother and two sisters were killed. His father, Charles Spurlock, is dying from a fractured skull, and four of his brothers are also fatally injured.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

A Great Public Necessity

PROVEN BY THE THOUSANDS

Who have taken it and been cured,—especially needed in Spring.

You Have Been Housed Up, and you have housed up your blood, during the winter. You are pale and nervous, and have no appetite, feel tired and all worn out.

Your Blood is Impure and Impoverished—the number of red corpuscles has decreased, and the vital fluid lacks color, is thin and weak. As a consequence your liver does not act properly, your kidneys and bowels fail in their duty, and general debility results.

You Must Purify, Enrich and Revitalize your blood, now, and that is why Hood's Sarsaparilla is a necessity at this time of year.

It Will Cure You of all spring ailments, that tired feeling, dizzy sensation, dimness of vision, headache, coated tongue, pain in the back, nervous headache, as well as pimples and other eruptions, rheumatism, catarrh and scrofula.

Used Since 1876—"I commenced to use Hood's Sarsaparilla in 1876, and have used it in my family ever since as a spring medicine, with good results." Mrs. E. M. DeLesdernier, Needham, Mass.

That Tired Feeling—"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla and cannot say too much in its praise. I recommend it to every one having that tired feeling in Spring." Mary J. Baker, Hortonville, Mass.

This Great Medicine is commended to you with an honest desire to aid and benefit you and with a firm belief that it will do all that is claimed. What it has done in the past is an assurance of what it will do. Get it today and sharpen your appetite.

Under the Pure Food and Drugs Act, no change is necessary in Hood's Sarsaparilla to conform to the law or to public sentiment. It is perfectly safe, pure, genuine and reliable.

Sarsatabs are making new friends daily. While last year sales were doubling, this year they are trebling. THE TELEGRAM WAS CHANGED

Crooked Work Revealed in Connection With Race Track Bill.

Elmira, N. Y., April 25.—An announcement made here that the vote of Senator Cassidy, against the race track bill, was due to a telegram from Congressman Fassett, at Washington, which had been tampered with, caused a sensation here, late yesterday.

Congressman Fassett, who is here to attend Saturday's convention, said that the story was true. On the day the race track bills came up in the senate. Congressmen Fassett and Dwight united in a telegram to Senator Cassidy, which, it is stated when filed, read:

"John and I urge you to stand by the governor on the race track bill, owing to conditions in your district.

"J. S. FASSETT."

That telegram, when it reached Cassidy, read as follows:

"John and I urge you not to stand by the governor on the race track bills, etc."

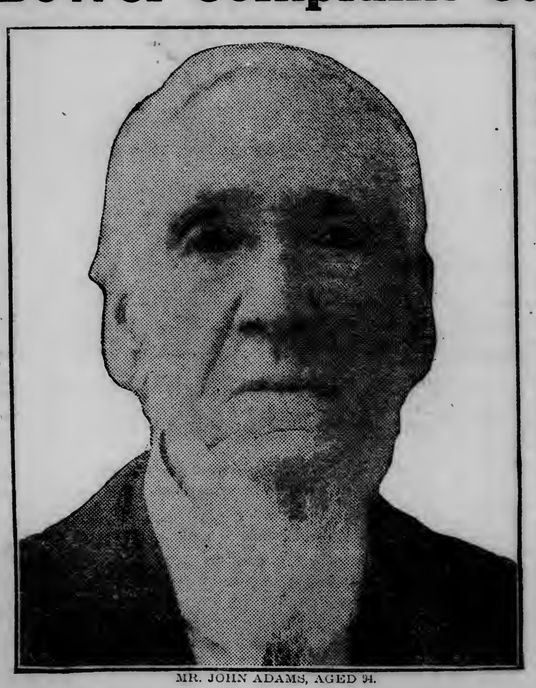

An investigation was started, and it is said it was found that the telegram had been changed in Washington. Mr. Fassett said he had a letter from the manager of the telegraph company's office, in that city, admitting the forgery, and stating that the operator responsible had been discharged.

HOSPITAL NOT WANTED

Property Owners Object to Location of Horse Sanitarium.

Alderman Moore's 'Blind' Ordinance Will Come Before Council.

Although the council will in all probability authorize the construction of a horse hospital as recommended by the board of fire commissioners, there may be some trouble over the location of the biulding. It has been understood all along that the structure was to be built in the vicinity of fire hall No. 3, fronting directly on the alley, but it has now developed that the intention is to have the building front Third street. This plan does not meet with the favor of the property owners in that neighborhood, and a strong protest has been entered against the proposed location.

It has also developed that the institution is not to be used entirely as a horse hospital. It will be built large enough so that is can be used as a general repair ,paint and blacksmith shop, for the use of the fire department. The matter of the construction o fthe building is still under consideration. It may not come up at the council meeting Monday night, however. The letting of the contract for the building has been hanging fire because it is thought the bids for the work were too high, but at the council meeting last night it was explained that the city could not get the work much below the bids entered, and that any delay might result in a heavy expense to the city, so urgent is the need of the hospital.

The matter of the improvement of London road and Grand avenue will be brought up at the council Monday. This has been under consideration for the last three weeks, the original resolution of Alderman Moore, calling for an appropriation for the improvement of London road, having become so heavily burdened with amendments as to cause delay in taking final action.

Alderman Moore's saloon curtain ordinance, calling for a clear view from the street of saloon interiors after closing hours and on Sundays and election days, will be submitted. The original ordinance and two or three amendments failed to pass at the meeting of the city fathers last Monday, and Alderman Moore announced that he would introduce a substitute ordinance, with the same end in view as the original. Alderman Moore hopes that with a full attendance of aldermen he will be able to get the ordinance through.

JOHNSON IS HOUSEHOLD WORD IN THE FAR WEST

Minnesota's Governor is Extolled From Pulpits in California.

Rank and File of Democrats Rally to His Standard.

Sentiment favoring John A. Johnson for the Democrtaic national leader in the presidential campaign of 1908 is advancing with leaps and bounds in the Western and Pacific coast states, according to Andrew Nelson, a well known local attorney, who returned this morning from a trip to California and the coast states, enthusiastic over the reception the candidacy of Governor Johnson is meeting with in the West.

To quote his own words, it made Mr. Nelson "feel proud of the great commonwealth of Minnesota and her distinguished son," to see the interest his name is exciting and the praise his record is eliciting from voters who believe that not only is John A. Johnson the logical leader and the strongest man in his party, but that he is the only man that can lead his party to victory at the polls next fall.

In the following interview Mr. Nelson states the situation as he found it in the Western coast states:

"I have just returned from a two weeks' business trip to California and neighboring states. While there I was ntaurally interested in ascertaining the political conditions, especially with reference to the Democratic presidential nomination. I took pains to confer with as many citizens as possible, representing various classes and interests, as to the presidential situation. While nearly every Democrat I met professed great admiration for Mr. Bryan by reason of the splendid fights he has made for Democratic principles, yet all, with possibly one or two exceptions, unhesitatingly declared that it would be unwise and imprudent for the Democratic party to nominate Mr. Bryan this year. When I asked these same Democrats and citizens of the Far West who, in their judgment, is the strongest man the Democratic party can nominate this year, each and every one of them unhesitatingly named Governor John A. Johnson as the man. In fact, outside of Mr. Bryan, I have heard no one discussed for the presidential nomination of the Democratic ticket except Governor Johnson.

Extolled From Pulpit.

"I found also that there is an extraordinary and surprising interest in the life and political record of Governor Johnson, and that this interest is manifested by men and women of all parties and classes on the Pacific coast. In many churches out there sermons have been preached on the lessons to be derived from Governor Johnson's life. Scores of men of every shade of political faith and condition in life told me they wanted to see Governor Johnson nominated on the Democratic ticket, not only because of his splendid personality, but because of his record as a successful advocate and defender of the true interests and rights of the people. All with one accord declared that Governor Johnson, if nominated, can unite both the so-called radical and conservative elements of the Democrtaic party, and that he will draw to him thousands of Republican and independent voters, something which Mr. Bryan cannot do.

"I also met prominent Democrats in Nebraska, who unhesitatingly declared Governor Johnson to be their second choice for the presidency, saying that, in their judgment, he would be a stronger candidate even than Mr. Bryan.

"Another significant fact I found to be the profound interest with which the women of the West look upon Governor Johnson's candidacy. I had the opportunity to converse informally with numerous representative Western women on this subject, and all of them, regardless of political affiliation or preference, expressed profound admiration for Governor Johnson's personality and record as an executive. And most of them expressed the hope that he would be nominated and elected president. In short, I found Governor Johnson's name to be a household word everywhere throughout the Far West, and that admiration and appreciation of his sterling qualities as a man and statesman is universal. When I asked people for their reason for this position on their part, the answer came quickly and invariably, that Governor Johnson typifies what is best and noblest in American manhood and American citizenship.

"As a usual thing I did not introduce the name of Governor Johnson in my conversations with those whom I met, but the mere mention on my part that I was from Minnesota invariably caused my newly-found California friend to introduce Governor Johnson as the leading topic of conversation, and it proved a topic of which he did not seem to tire. Many men who had been prominent champions and defenders of Mr. Bryan, ever since the strenuous and memorable days of '96, expressed the hope that Mr. Bryan may yet voluntarily withdraw in favor of Governor Johnson, saying that if he would do so, Mr. Bryan would prove himself the greatest Democrat living. I found that men of all classes out in the Far West quite common and generally classified Mr. Bryan with Clay, Webster, Calhoun, Seward and Blaine—men who were really too prominent and active in American politics, and had too many political enemies, to make a successful canvass for the presidency.

Choice of Rank and File.

"All these experiences of mine more than ever convince me of the unquestionable wisdom and undoubted expediency of nominating Governor Johnson for the presidency at the Denver convention next July. I firmly believe that before the Denver convention assembles, in July next, the rank and file of the Democrats throughout our country will have expressed their clear and unmistakable preference for Governor Johnson as the man most suitable to lead the Democratic party to victory this year. The Democrats in California and the Far West, including the leaders as well as the rank and file, are rapidly and quietly taking this position in increasing numbers—not because they are losing faith in Mr. Bryan and his principles, but because they can see no other way of winning a victory for those principles than by nominating Minnesota's present able and distinguished governor.

"Although I have always been quite proud of Minnesota, having lived all that state all of my life, I am prouder of her than I ever was before. This visit had the natural effect of convincing me that we Minnesotans are citizens of no mean commonwealth.

"Surely the Minnesota Democracy can and should and will do nothing less than with one grand accord send a Johnson delegation to Denver."

Interested Property Owners Will Insist on Underground Wires.

The Duluth Edison Electric company has asked permission of the board of public works to establish a line of poles for the support of wires along the alley between Superior street and First street, from Second avenue east to Eighth avenue west. A hearing on this application will be granted at the regular meeting of the board next Monday and it is expected a strong protest on the part of property owners will be entered against giving permission for this work.

It is said to be the intention of the company interested to put the poles up for a new line, and later remove the wires on their poles along Superior and First streets and place them on the poles in the alley, thus doing away with all the poles on both First and Superior streets in those few blocks. They claim that if the wires are strung in the alley they should not be forced to lay underground lines. Property owners interested, however, have intimated that all new lines in the down town district should be underground, regardless of whether they are located in the streets or in the alleys, and have announced that they will be on hand with a protest at the board meeting Monday.

There has been some talk of the two telephone companies and the Duluth Edison Electric company all using the same poles, or underground wire mains, thus saving the expense of three lines, but it is understood that the plan has fallen through, because of the fact that the two telephone companies cannot agree on certain points. They are rivals in the telephone field, and apparently are not willing to trust each other.

The session of the board Monday is likely to be a busy one, with considerable business to transact. Among other things to come up will be the awarding of street sprinkling contracts. There are eighteen sprinkling districts in the city this year, two more than last. The streets have been pretty dusty during the last two or three weeks, and members of the board are anxious to get all the sprinkling wagons in operation at the earliest possible moment.

RATS ATE HIS MONEY

Roll of Bills Hidden Under Floor is Destroyed.

West Duluth Bachelor Loses the Savings of Years.

Keen was the misery of Otto Jorgensen, an old bachelor, who lives in a little one-roomed hut on the banks of the St. Louis river, near the foot of Sixty-third avenue west, when he returned from Dakota to find his little pile of horded bank notes, amounting to $300, the savings of many hard years of toil, which he had carefully hidden beneath the floor of his hut, eaten by rats.

Fearing to trust the carefully-saved earnings to a bank for safe keeping, while he was away, Jorgensen removed a board from the floor of his cottage and carefully tucked the roll away, never dreaming but what it would be entirely safe in his absence.

The first thing Jorgensen did on his return, after entering his home and dropping his telescope, was to drop on his knees to the floor and remove the board, to make sure his money was still safe. But no little jackage of bills met his searching gaze. Instead, only the frayed ends of a few gnawed notes lay before him. Hardly enough remained to know that they had ever even resembled money. The poor old man burst into tears at his loss.

Jorgensen has again taken up the task of rebuilding his little fortune, and providing for the day when he will be too feeble to work.

NEW ROAD ADVOCATED.

Farmers at Adolph Want to Send Produce to the City.

At the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club last evening C. G. Almquist of Adolph appeared before the members asking in behalf of the farmers at Adolph the co-operation of the club in securing a road from West Duluth to Adolph.

Mr. Almquist stated that between 600 and 700 gallons of milk is driven over the country road to Duluth every day. The county road, though it is kept up by the county right along, is a roundabout way to the city, as it follows the section lines. It is also up and down hill all the way, and consequently a hard road to travel. He says there are between twenty-five and thirty farmers who are sending their dairy products to Duluth every day, and if they had a better route they would be able to increase their business and the number of their cattle. He said that there are now over 300 head of cattle owned by the farmers of that district.

Mr. Almquist's plan is to build a road from Fifty-seventh avenue west, past the Oneota ceremtery and up the ravine of Keene creek. He claims that a road built that way would save about one-third of the grade that is met with on the county road. What he asks is that the city build such a road to its limits, only about half a mile, and the farmers would build it the rest of the way.

The Commercial club appointed a committee composed of A. T. Park, J. J. Frey, P. H. Martin, William Langslow, A. H. Merriam, F. W. Jolitz and W. B. Getchell to look the matter up and see if such a road is practical and report at a later meeting. Such a road might be built so as to connect the Morris Thomas, the Lavaque and the Hermantown roads with West Duluth. There has been talk for years of connecting West Duluth and Proctor by street car lines, and this, though it would be a roundabout way, might be a solution to the problem of grades for such a street car line.

To Enlarge the Canal.

The enlargement of 10 feet in the width of the Panama locks is being urged by the navy department. This is a small concession to the demand for increased accommodations for the coming big vessels, which builders claim will be much larger in the next few years. The use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is urged in every case of stomach, liver or bowel disorder, because past experience has proven it to be the best for such ailments. A few doses at the first symptom will save you a lot of unnecessary suffering. Therefore get a bottle today from your druggist or dealer and always keep it handy. It will restore the appetite, aid digestion, keep the bowels open and thus prevent sick headache, flatulency, heartburn, dyspepsia, indigestion, female ills and malaria, fever and ague.

IS DAMAGED BY STORM

Waves Wash Away Filling for Ramsey Street Dock.

The Loss Will Not be Borne by the City.

High waves on St. Louis bay yesterday, occasioned by the heavy wind from the northeast, badly damaged the Ramsey street dock, now being constructed by Whitney Bros. The action of the water washed away a large amount of dirt filling, and the finishing of the contract will be delayed as a result.

As the work had not yet been finished and was still in the hands of the contractors, they will have to stand the loss. None of it will fall on the city. Preliminary work on the structure was started during the winter, and on account of the ice the filling could not be properly protected from water action by riprap. The contractors have not had an opportunity this spring to get the riprap work done, and the consequence was that when the big seas of yesterday came rolling in from St. Louis bay, there was no protection for the earth filling, and much of it will be washed away.

Whitney Bros. set about immediately repairing the damage, and as soon as the refilling of the foundation is completed, it will be properly riprapped, and there will be no further danger from storms. A greater effort would have been made earlier in the season to have this work performed, but it was hardly expected the wave action would be strong enough to destroy the filling in so short a space of time. Otherwise the work on the dock is progressing in good shape, and the Whitneys say they expect to have the dock completed within the time limit originally set, in spite of the delay occasioned by yesterday's damage.

M. C. Palmer Will be Candidate for Register of Deeds.

M. C. Palmer of Virginia, who is now serving his third term as register of deeds of St. Louis county, will be a candidate for the Republican nomination to succeed himself. Mr. Palmer was the range candidate for the office, and he has not only received the solid support of the ranges for nomination and election hitherto, but has had no serious opposition from this end of the county.

By reason of the county's size, and the immense number of transactions that are being daily recorded, the work of the register's office has grown to large proportions, and the office force has been increased from time to time by the register to take care of the business without any delays. During Mr. Palmer's incumbency the office has netted the county a profit of over $26,000.

The bishop of London, at a dinner in Washington, told a story, as the cigars came on, about one of his predecessors.

"When Dr. Creighton was bishop of London," he said, "he rode on a train one day with a small, meek curate. Dr. Creighton, an ardent lover of tobacco, soon took out his cigar case, and, with a smile, he said:

"'You don't mind my smoking, I suppose?'

"The meek, pale little curate bowed and answered humbly:

"'Not if your lordship doesn't mind my being sick.'"

HALF THE AVAILABLE LAND WITHDRAWN FROM ENTRY

Sweeping Order Issued by the General Land Office.

Thousands of Acres of Minnesota Land for Forest Reserve.

In a sweeping order, received today at the Duluth Land office from the commissioner of the general land office, about half of the land available in the Duluth land district, is withdrawn from entry and attached to the Superior National Forest of Minnesota as an addition to lands withdrawn for the same purpose in former years.

The withdrawal takes in thousands of acres north and west of the fourth principal meridian in St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties and is more serious in its effects, on account of the rapid decrease in available land in the Duluth district in recent years. At the present time, it is estimated that there are about 400,000 acres of vacant land in the Duluth district and the order of the commissioner, made on recommendation of the acting secretary of the interior cuts that amount about in half, it is believed.

The first withdrawal in the Duluth district for forest reserve purposes was made in June, 1902, when about 400,000 acres were withdrawn from entry. In August, 1905, 150,000 acres more were withdrawn, the order received today being the third withdrawal. Though the first was heavier is was not so serious in its effects, as at that time, there were probably 1,500,000 acres of land open for entry and about half of the land withdrawn was unsurveyed. Some of the land withdrawn by the order received today is also unsurveyed, but much of it is desirable land, and people contemplating entry will be hit hard by the order.

Excepted from the force and effect of the withdrawals are all lands, which are at this date embraced in any legal entry or covered by any lawful filing or selection duly of record in the proper United States land office, or upon which any valid settlement has been made pursuant to law, if the stated period within which to make entry or filing of record has not expired and also excepting any withdrawal or reservation for any purpose, with which the order for withdrawal is inconsistent. The exception shall not continue to apply to any parcel or tract of land unless the claimant continues to comply with the law under which entry, filing or settlement has been made.

The order provides for the vacation of all unappropriated lands in the following described areas:

All of fractional townships 63 and 64 N. R. 2, 3 and 4 W; T. 64, 65 and 66 N., R. 5 W.; all of fraction Sec. 6, T. 63 N. R. 7 W.; Sec. 1 to 18, both inclusive, T. 63 N. R. 8 W.; Sec. 3, 4, 9, 10, 15, 16, 21, 22, 28 and 29, T. 62 N. R. 9 W.; all of T. 63 N. R. 9 W.; T. 63 N. R. 10 W.; Sec. 19 to 36 inclusive, T. 64 N. R. 10 W.; Sec. 5, 6, 7, 8 and 17 to 26, both inclusive, T. 64 N. R. 11 W.; T. 65 N. R. 11 W.; T. 64 and 65 N. R. 12 W.; T. 65 N. R. 13 W.; T. 64 and 65 N. R. 14 and 15 W.; T. 65 N. R. 16 W.; all north and west of the fourth principal meridian.

Could Not Collect Bounty.

Because he failed to procure from the clerk of the town of Duluth the certificate required by law, August Johnson was unable to collect the wolf bounty paid by the county and state when he presented the pelt of a large wolf at the county auditor's office yesterday afternoon. RESTRICTIONS PLACED ON USE OF WORD "MOCHA."

Washington, April 25.—After a thorough investigation of the restrictions necessary to be placed on the coffees put on the market, and sold under the name of "Mocha" the board of food and drug inspection, with the approval of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has decided that the term "Mocha" should be restricted to coffee grown in that part of Arabia to the north and east of Hodge Idah, known as Yemen. Yemen is the coffee district of Arabia and the decision of the board is based on data obtained through the consul and consular agent in those districts where the true Mocha coffee is grown and shipped throughout the world.

TO INSPECT REFILLING

New Position Created by Board of Public Works.

Man Will Watch Work of Refilling Sewer Trenches.

Because of the complaints that have been made relative to the spoiling of streets by sewer, water and gas trenches, the board of public works will, this spring, add to the working force of the department by the appointment of a man whose duty it will be to keep watch of all sewer work being done in the city, to see that the trenches are properly refilled. The inspection or refilling work on water and gas trenches will be left to the city engineering department and the board of water and light commissioners.

At the council meeting, last Monday, upon motion of Alderman Moore, the board of public works was instructed to send a special letter to the council, advising the aldermen as to the proposed issuance of certificates, showing that the work of refilling trenches has been properly performed, and entitling the contractor to that portion of the contract price that has been withheld, to see whether the work will stand the test of time.

The object of the motion is to provide the aldermen with information that will allow them an opportunity to investigate for themselves, if they so desire, and learn whether the work has been properly performed, before the final assessment is paid.

There is so much sewer work being done in the city at the present time that it is said to be an utter impossibility for the board of public works to keep watch of it all, and see that the refilling work is properly done, without adding the present working force. Under present conditions, one man at large is employed to look after sewer work, and there are five street custodians, or commissioners, each of whom has a certain district to look after. In the past there has been one man to superintend street sweeping operations, but this year, because of the increased amount of work to be performed, there will be two men at this work. The men mentioned above are all kept pretty busy, and an extra man is a necessity, it is said, to see that the refilling of trenches is properly done, for no one else connected with the department has the time to properly look after this work, on account of there being so much of it.

Ironclad rules regarding the refilling of trenches will be adopted, and the contractors will have to live up to them, or have the final payment on their contracts indefinitely withheld. One sure way to prevent the sagging of street paving after trenches have been filled, would be to compel the contractors to do all refilling with sand and gravel, making them haul away the clay and dirt dug out and dump it elsewhere. This would be very expensive, however, and it is hardly likely that the system will be adopted. The contractors will be required, however, to use every precaution in refilling the trenches with clay and dirt, and to pack the refilling material as tightly as possible.

Several complaints were received by the board of public works this morning because of the sinking of portions of the street where there have been excavations made. These complaints are always more or less numerous after the first spring rain, for the water packs the earth and causes the surface to sag. Sink holes that hold water and give the street an unsightly appearance are the result.

Walker's Copper Letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial, says:

"Copper is very dull, and at the moment it shows a declining tendency. Lake is 12¾ to 13 cents, and electrolytic is 12⅝ to 12¾ cents per pound. Very little copper is being sold. The foreign demand, it will be recalled, was pretty well supplied some time ago. Up to the present time domestic consumers have bought very sparingly. As soon as they begin to see a distinct improvement in general business they will contract for tens of millions of pounds for advance delivery. It is the first sign of a genuine business revival that is being waited for. When it appears a good market for copper will come with it. For the present the only way to get an understanding of the copper situation is through a study of the business outlook.

"As soon as the leading railway and traction companies are able to issue and sell successfully large lots of construction and equipment bonds there will be a revival of business in practically all lines. The proceeds of these bond sales will be used to employ labor and to buy manufactured articles. Some efforts towards financing are already under way, and the prospect of their success is very bright. Of course, they were not undertaken without the approval of the best banking and financial authorities in the country. If the current offerings are taken readily, others will follow. This money will go into circulation immediately, and the effect upon general business conditions and upon sentiment will be electrical. One of the first things it will do will be to stimulate a buying demand for copper.

"As soon as the demand comes there will be an advance in the price of copper. Producers are very unanimous in their determination to limit their sales at current low prices. It will not require an organization now to make them work together for an advance. When domestic consumers make up their minds that they will buy copper, they will find the asking price above 14 cents."

Directors of the Calumet & Sonora Mining company held a meeting Thursday evening of this week and approved the accounts showing the expenditures at Cananea during the last five months and heard the report of J. W. Norton, the company's manager. All the directors were very enthusiastic over the report, and especially the new find on the Norton claim. Mr. Norton reported another shaft in ore at the 18-foot level of lead and copper, making in all on the Catalina group of claims five shafts in high grade ores.

JOHNSON IS FAVORITE

Reports From Connecticut Are of Very Favorable Character.

Governor's Name to be Put on Alabama Primary Ticket.

Chicago, April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports to the Johnson headquarters from Connecticut show that that state will send an uninstructed delegation to Denver. Reports from every one of the eight counties, except New Haven, which is for Bryan, indicate that Johnson will carry them. The primaries in Litchfield have developed a strong Johnson sentiment, and despite the fact that Bryan attended a gathering of Democratic chiefs in Northwestern Connecticut, at Torrington, last winter, the Nebraskan will not have a corporal's guard from this county in the state convention next month. In Colebrook, on Monday, only one elector appeared at the caucus. He was H. L. Culver, chairman of the town committee, formerly a Bryan man, and he will appoint a Johnson delegate.

The Johnson managers have received so much encouragement from Alabama in the last few days that they have reversed their original plan and have taken steps to have Governor Johnson's name put on the primary ticket for the primary election to be held May 15.

Reports have been received that so far fifteen county conventions in North Carolina have elected delegates to the state convention, and in only one of these conventions was Col. Bryan so much as mentioned. All of the delegates to the state convention are in favor of an uninstructed delegation to Denver and all decidedly pro-Johnson.

The Illinois Delegates.

F. B. Lynch, head of the Johnson headquarters here, says the Illinois convention resulted as he expected. He says:

"As we announced when we opened our headquarters here for national work, we regarded the Illinois situation as already so far crystallized that it would not be wise for us to make any effort to secure an endorsement of Governor Johnson. We have adhered to that intention and have done nothing more in Illinois than to distribute literature and familiarize the public with the merits of our candidate. From a hurried inspection of the list of delegates, I should say that there are a large number of men on it who are personally friendly to Governor Johnson's candidacy. This is important, because, in view of the kind of a campaign we are making, it is essential that the Bryan column shall include the least possible number of delegates unfriendly to our candidate, for I fully believe that the time will come at Denver when the Bryan men will have to vote for some one else. So, altogether, I can see nothing discouraging for Governor Johnson's friends in the outcome of the convention."

TERRIFIC WIND STORM FATAL

Two Persons Killed and a Dozen Injured at Columbus, Ga.

Columbus, Ga., April 25.—A terrific wind storm struck Columbus early today, killing outright Mrs. Viola Norris, aged 30, and her daughter, Bessie, aged 9. A dozen other persons were injured, the most seriously being Mrs. J. J. Dunn and her five children; Willie Norris, son of Mrs. Viola Norris; a white dairyman, name unknown. A number of negroes suffered severe injuries.

At Phoenix City and Girard, Ala., several dwellings were destroyed. The loss to live stock is heavy.

DULUTH FISH HATCHERY

Improvements Costing $9,000 Provided in Sundry Civil Bill.

Washington, April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sundry civil appropriation bill reported today carries an appropriation of $9,000, for the construction of the superintendent's residence addition and repair to the fish hatchery and improvements to the grounds at Duluth.

Basement is Flooded.

The heavy rains of yesterday and last night filled the trench that was dug on Fourth avenue west and Superior street for a new sewer and leaked through into the Oak Hall basement, flooding the whole storeroom of the establishment and causing a damage estimated by the company of $5,000 to the stock stored there.

J. L. Cromwell, agent for the building had had men working on it night and day, until last night it rained so hard that the men were taken off the job. In the absence of the men the ditch filled with water, which seeped into the cellar, causing the damage to the clothing stock.

BATTLESHIP AMENDMENT

Defeated in Senate, But It May be Reconsidered.

Washington, April 25.—The naval appropriation bill came up in the senate shortly after that body reassembled today with the Piles amendment for four battleships the pending business. No one appearing to desire to discuss the provision a viva voce vote was taken which resulted in its defeat.

Senator Piles was absent from the chamber when the vote was taken, but soon returned and when he was advised of what had occurred said he had been called out and did not think it was fair to have his amendment voted in that way.

Mr. Hale promptly disavowed any purpose to obtain party action and asked that by unanimous consent the vote be considered as not having been taken.

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

Baltimore, April 25.—Former United States Senator J. N. Camden of West Virginia, died here today. Congestion of the kidneys caused death. He was 80 years old. Senator Camden was one of the wealthiest men of West Virginia and served in the senate when the Democrats were in power in the state.

La Crosse, April 25.—Jacob Kohlhaus, a leading business man and manufacturer, died yesterday, aged 70 years. Mr. Kohlhaus founded the first sash and door factory in Western Wisconsin in 1854. At the time of his death he was president of the Segalke & Kohlhaus Manufacturing company, one of the largest firms in the Northwest in this line.

Huntington, W. Va., April 25.—Attorney General Clark N. May, whose leg was broken in a fall from a horse, died today following an operation for the removal of the injured leg.

PARDELL CAUGHT UP AT BAUDETTE

Alleged Swindler Wanted in Bemidji and Grand Rapids.

Bemidji, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. E. Pardell, who has several aliases, was arrested at Baudette yesterday, and brought to Bemidji this morning, to answer to the charge of fraudulently obtaining board and accommodations at the Markham hotel in this city, and was lodged in the Beltrami county jail, to be given a hearing this afternoon.

Reports have been received that Pardell is wanted at Grand Rapids on a similar charge, and is said to have been working an advertising scheme whereby he got ads for an alleged timetable, securing the money in advance and leaving without liquidating hotel bills or ever issuing the time-tables. Pardell worked this scheme at Grand Rapids, and got away without paying his bill, and also worked Bemidji. He was making his way towards the international boundary with the evident intention of escaping into Canada, when he was nabbed at Baudette yesterday by the chief of police.

THREE FEET OF SNOW IN THE CITY OF LONDON.

London, April 25.—The most remarkable weather for this season experienced in the United Kingdom for several decades has prevailed during the past week. Snow has fallen in London every day since last Monday, and is two to three feet deep in some places. At Southampton business has been practically suspended. The street car service is snowed up and gangs of men are digging the cars out from deep drifts.

IN THE WOOLLY WEST.

Miss Thornton is Teaching in the Mining District of Idaho.

Miss Blanche Thornton of Couer d'Alene, Idaho, was at the McKay hotel today enroute to Wisconsin, where she is going to visit relatives. Miss Thornton has been teaching the little sons and daughters of the miners the elements of education. She is one of the few teachers in the mining district of the Couer d'Alene.

They still have characters out there who do not know the first thing about "readin' writin' and 'rithmetic," but as a rule they are most anxious to have their children acquire what has been denied to them. The efforts of Miss Thornton in the educational line have met with the most hearty support of the miners.

TREASURY BALANCES.

Washington, April 25.—Today's treasury statement: Available cash balance, $251,250,962; gold coin and bullion, $15,602,194; gold certificates, $24,162,740.

OPPOSING FORCES.

Success Magazine: In one sense Mr. Lawson is undoubtedly right, although he will find that while he may know the mysteries of finance, he is an amateur in politics. A terrific contest is under way between the two wings of the Republican party, the one standing for and representing corporate interests, the other a division which seeks to limit somewhat the encroachments of corporations. The real question is as to which element will control the convention. If corporation retainers will be in control the chances are that the candidate will be a man whose strength in the convention will be precisely the reverse among the voters. On the other hand, if the followers of President Roosevelt dominate, the candidate will have a certain popular strength, but will alienate the support of the powerful corporations whose funds sway elections.

This is the problem confronting the Republican National convention; to squirm around or evade it, the probability is not unlikely that some "dark horse" may be chosen, some candidate of a neutral tint, who, while in words responding to the popular cry for reforms, will not be seriously feared by the corporations. Besides, after all, it is congress which makes the laws, and while the people get passionately aroused over presidential contests, they are inclined to forget that congress slips in scarcely noticed.

REMAKING WORN-OUT FARMS.

William A. Du Puy in The World Today: A young farmer in Kansas is the owner of a quarter section of land upon which wheat has been grown continuously for twenty-five years. The production on this farm has decreased during the past few years and the farmer, knowing nothing of any crop but wheat, asked the advice of the department of agriculture at Washington and was told that he had exhausted his farm by the too-long-continued growing of one crop. There was the need of the growing of some crop that would put back into the soil the qualities that the wheat had taken from it. Even with the best results from wheat there would be a greater profit in the farm if greater diversification were indulged in. The farm was mapped out with certain fields in alfalfa, certain in corn followed by peas, certain in timothy, and so on, the proportions being such as to provide for the given number hogs and cattle which were known to bring added profit on such a farm. The exact results that would be derived from following thees directions were twice any sum he had ever produced on the farm before.

A farmer in Ohio wrote that he had struggled for twenty years on an eighty-acre farm heavily mortgaged, but had been unable to reduce his debt or rise above a poverty that made the bringing up of his family in humiliation because of the lack of any advantages he was able to give them. He asked if there was any hope for him upon the farm or if he might as well give up the fight. The department requested that he make a detailed report of his farm and its soils, and upon this it based a plan of farming which he was recommended to follow to the letter. There was a profit the first year of $2,000, and the department believes that ultimately the despised eighty-acres can be made to yield $5,000 a year.

WORMS IN THE STEEL HEADS

Fish Caught at Lester Said to be Unfit to Eat.

The flesh of the steel head trout, of which a great many have been caught this season in Lester river, is said by Lakesiders not to be fit to eat. They claim that this year all the steel heads that have been caught have been full of long, white, thread-like worms, and in some cases the fish have been so diseased that the worms are protruding from the gills.

The fish hatchery people say that this has always been the case with the steel heads at this time of the year. They say that they are in reality an inhabitant of waters tributary to the sea and that they only frequent fresh water in the spring when they run up the coast streams to spawn. At other seasons of the year they are not in their element when out of salt water.

Steel head trout were first planted in the Great Lakes streams. They have been increasing right along each year, but they are said not to be as healthy as the speckled trout, which are native of these waters.

WIFE TOO JEALOUS.

Husband Says She Won't Let Him Leave City to Get Work.

The novel defense that his wife was so jealous that she would not let him leave the city to get work, was put up by W. E. Scott this afternoon, when he was arraigned on a charge of non-support.

Scott's wife claims that her husband has neglected to provide for her properly. Scott, on the other hand, claims that he has furnished his wife with money, but that she is insanely jealous of him, and that she refuses to let him leave the city to work.

The hearing was set for Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Brainerd, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Brainerd roller mills, owned by Fricker Bros., were completely destroyed by fire early Friday, inflicting a loss of about $15,000. The flames had made such headway before discovery that the origin is a mystery.

"No, of course not."

"You can sit down if you want to!"

"I'll sit down on you if this is supposed to be a joke! Who are you, sir?"

"My name is Brown. I moved in directly opposite you a few weeks ago."

"Well, Brown, I'm sorry I have spoken so harshly to you, but I'm not feeling just up to the mark today. Hope you will pardon me."

"Oh, certainly."

"What was it you wished to say to me?"

"Why, I wanted to tell you that your house is on fire."

HALF THE AVAILABLE LAND WITHDRAWN FROM ENTRY

Sweeping Order Issued by the General Land Office.

Thousands of Acres of Minnesota Land for Forest Reserve.

In a sweeping order, received today at the Duluth Land office from the commissioner of the general land office, about half of the land available in the Duluth land district, is withdrawn from entry and attached to the Superior National Forest of Minnesota as an addition to lands withdrawn for the same purpose in former years.

The withdrawal takes in thousands of acres north and west of the fourth principal meridian in St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties and is more serious in its effects, on account of the rapid decrease in available land in the Duluth district in recent years. At the present time, it is estimated that there are about 400,000 acres of vacant land in the Duluth district and the order of the commissioner, made on recommendation of the acting secretary of the interior cuts that amount about in half, it is believed.

The first withdrawal in the Duluth district for forest reserve purposes was made in June, 1902, when about 400,000 acres were withdrawn from entry. In August, 1905, 150,000 acres more were withdrawn, the order received today being the third withdrawal. Though the first was heavier is was not so serious in its effects, as at that time, there were probably 1,500,000 acres of land open for entry and about half of the land withdrawn was unsurveyed. Some of the land withdrawn by the order received today is also unsurveyed, but much of it is desirable land, and people contemplating entry will be hit hard by the order.

Excepted from the force and effect of the withdrawals are all lands, which are at this date embraced in any legal entry or covered by any lawful filing or selection duly of record in the proper United States land office, or upon which any valid settlement has been made pursuant to law, if the stated period within which to make entry or filing of record has not expired and also excepting any withdrawal or reservation for any purpose, with which the order for withdrawal is inconsistent. The exception shall not continue to apply to any parcel or tract of land unless the claimant continues to comply with the law under which entry, filing or settlement has been made.

The order provides for the vacation of all unappropriated lands in the following described areas:

All of fractional townships 63 and 64 N. R. 2, 3 and 4 W; T. 64, 65 and 66 N. R. 5 W.; all of fraction Sec. 6, T. 63 N. R. 7 W.; Sec. 1 to 18, both inclusive, T. 63 N. R. 8 W.; Sec. 3, 4, 9, 10, 15, 16, 21, 22, 28 and 29, T. 62 N. R. 9 W.; all of T. 63 N. R. 9 W.; T. 63 N. R. 10 W.; Sec. 19 to 36 inclusive, T 64 N. R. 10 W.; Sec. 5, 6, 7, 8 and 17 to 26, both inclusive, T. 64 N. R. 11 W.; T. 65 N. R. 11 W.; T. 64 and 65 N. R. 12 W.; T. 65 N. R. 13 W.; T. 64 and 65 N. R. 14 and 15 W.; T. 65 N. R. 16 W.; all north and west of the fourth principal meridian.

HUGE SUMS DEMANDED IN PERSONAL INJURY SUITS

Twenty-two personal injury cases filed in district court late this afternoon represent claims for a greater amount of money than any number of cases ever filed with the clerk of court at any one time. The total amount of the claims is $210,155.30. Washington, April 25.—After a thorough investigation of the restrictions necessary to be placed on the coffees put on the market, and sold under the name of "Mocha" the board of food and drug inspection, with the approval of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has decided that the term "Mocha" should be restricted to coffee grown in that part of Arabia to the north and east of Hodge Idah, known as Yemen. TO INSPECT REFILLING

New Position Created by Board of Public Works.

Man Will Watch Work of Refilling Sewer Trenches.

Because of the complaints that have been made relative to the spoiling of streets by sewer, water and gas trenches, the board of public works will, this spring, add to the working force of the department by the appointment of a man whose duty it will be to keep watch of all sewer work being done in the city, to see that the trenches are properly refilled. The inspection or refilling work on water and gas trenches will be left to the city engineering department and the board of water and light commissioners.

At the council meeting, last Monday, upon motion of Alderman Moore, the board of public works was instructed to send a special letter to the council, advising the aldermen as to the proposed issuance of certificates, showing that the work of refilling trenches has been properly performed, and entitling the contractor to that portion of the contract price that has been withheld, to see whether the work will stand the test of time.

The object of the motion is to provide the aldermen with information that will allow them an opportunity to investigate for themselves, if they so desire, and learn whether the work has been properly performed, before the final assessment is paid.

There is so much sewer work being done in the city at the present time that it is said to be an utter impossibility for the board of public works to keep watch of it all, and see that the refilling work is properly done, without adding to the present working force. Under present conditions, one man at large is employed to look after sewer work, and there are five street custodians, or commissioners, each of whom has a certain district to look after. In the past there has been one man to superintend street sweeping operations, but this year, because of the increased amount of work to be performed, there will be two men at this work. The men mentioned above are all kept pretty busy, and an extra man is a necessity, it is said, to see that the refilling of trenches is properly done, for no one else connected with the department has the time to properly look after this work, on account of there being so much of it.

Ironclad rules regarding the refilling of trenches will be adopted, and the contractors will have to live up to them, or have the final payment on their contracts indefinitely withheld. One sure way to prevent the sagging of street paving after trenches have been filled, would be to compel the contractors to do all refilling with sand and gravel, making them haul away the clay and dirt dug out and dump it elsewhere. This would be very expensive, however, and it is hardly likely that the system will be adopted. The contractors will be required, however, to use every precaution in refilling the trenches with clay and dirt, and to pack the refilling material as tightly as possible.

Several complaints were received by the board of public works this morning because of the sinking of portions of the street where there have been excavations made. These complaints are always more or less numerous after the first spring rain, for the water packs the earth and causes the surface to sag. Sink holes that hold water and give the street an unsightly appearance are the result.

Walker's Copper Letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial, says:

"Copper is very dull, and at the moment it shows a declining tendency. Lake is 12⅞ to 13 cents, and electrolytic is 12⅝ to 12¾ cents per pound. Very little copper is being sold. The foreign demand, it will be recalled, was pretty well supplied some time ago. Up to the present time domestic consumers have bought very sparingly. As soon as they begin to see a distinct improvement in general business they will contract for tons and millions of pounds for advance delivery. It is the first sign of a genuine business revival that is being waited for. When it appears a good market for copper will come with it. For the present the only way to get an understanding of the copper situation is through a study of the business outlook.

"As soon as the leading railway and traction companies are able to issue and sell successfully large lots of construction and equipment bonds there will be a revival of business in practically all lines. The proceeds of these bond sales will be used to employ labor and to buy manufactured articles. Some efforts towards financing are already under way, and the prospect of their success is very bright. Of course, they were not undertaken without the approval of the best banking and financial authorities in the country. If the current offerings are taken readily, others will follow. This money will go into circulation immediately, and the effect upon general business conditions and upon sentiment will be electrical. One of the first things it will do will be to stimulate a buying demand for copper.

"As soon as the demand comes there will be an advance in the price of copper. Producers are very unanimous in their determination to limit their sales at current low prices. It will not require an organization now to make them work together for an advance. When domestic consumers make up their minds that they will buy copper, they will find the asking price above 14 cents."

Directors of the Calumet & Sonora Mining company held a meeting Thursday evening of this week and approved the accounts showing the expenditures at Cananea during the last five months and heard the report of J. W. Norton, the company's manager. All the directors were very enthusiastic over the report, and especially the new find on the Norton claim. Mr. Norton reported another shaft in ore at the 18-foot level of lead and copper, making in all on the Catalina group of claims five shafts in high grade ores.

BATTLESHIP AMENDMENT

Defeated in Senate, But It May be Reconsidered.

Washington, April 25.—The naval appropriation bill came up in the senate shortly after that body reassembled today with the Piles amendment for four battleships the pending business. No one appearing to desire to discuss the provision a viva voce vote was taken which resulted in its defeat.

Senator Piles was absent from the chamber when the vote was taken, but soon returned and when he was advised of what had occurred said he had been called out and did not think it was fair to have his amendment voted in that way.

Mr. Hale promptly disavowed any purpose to obtain party action and asked that by unanimous consent the vote be considered as not having been taken.

JOHNSON IS FAVORITE

Reports From Connecticut Are of Very Favorable Character.

Governor's Name to be Put on Alabama Primary Ticket.

Chicago, April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports to the Johnson headquarters from Connecticut show that that state will send an uninstructed delegation to Denver. Reports from every one of the eight counties, except New Haven, which is for Bryan, indicate that Johnson will carry them. The primaries in Litchfield have developed a strong Johnson sentiment, and despite the fact that Bryan attended a gathering of Democratic chiefs in Northwestern Connecticut, at Torrington, last winter, the Nebraskan will not have a corporal's guard from this county in the state convention next month. In Colebrook, on Monday, only one elector appeared at the caucus. He was H. L. Culver, chairman of the town committee, formerly a Bryan man, and he will appoint a Johnson delegate.

The Johnson managers have received so much encouragement from Alabama in the last few days that they have reversed their original plan and have taken steps to have Governor Johnson's name put on the primary ticket for the primary eelction to be held May 15.

Reports have been received that so far fifteen county conventions in North Carolina have elected delegates to the state convention, and in only one of these conventions was Col. Bryan so much as mentioned. All of the delegates to the state convention are in favor of an uninstructed delegation to Denver and all decidedly pro-Johnson.

The Illinois Delegates.

F. B. Lynch, head of the Johnson headquarters here, says the Illinois convention resulted as he expected. He says:

"As we announced when we opened our headquarters here for national work, we regarded the Illinois situation as already so far crystallized that it would not be wise for us to make any effort to secure an endorsement of Governor Johnson. We have adhered to that intention and have done nothing more in Illinois than to distribute literature and familiarize the public with the merits of our candidate. From a hurried inspection of the list of delegates, I should say that there are a large number of men on it who are personally friendly to Governor Johnson's candidacy. This is important, because, in view of the kind of a campaign we are making, it is essential that the Bryan column shall include the least possible number of delegates unfriendly to our candidate, for I fully believe that the time will come at Denver when the Bryan men will have to vote for some one else. So, altogether, I can see nothing discouraging for Governor Johnson's friends in the outcome of the convention."

DULUTH FISH HATCHERY

Improvements Costing $9,000 Provided in Sundry Civil Bill.

Washington, April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sundry civil appropriation bill reported today carries an appropriation of $9,009, for the construction of the superintendent's residence addition and repair to the fish hatchery and improvements to the grounds at Duluth.

Basement is Flooded.

The heavy rains of yesterday and last night filled the trench that was dug on Fourth avenue west and Superior street for a new sewer and leaked through into the Oak Hall basement, flooding the whole storeroom of the establishment and causing a damage estimated by the company of $5,000 to the stock stored there.

J. L. Cromwell, agent for the building had had men working on it night and day, until last night it rained so hard that the men were taken off the job. In the absence of the men the ditch filled with water, which seeped into the cellar, causing the damage to the clothing stock.

La Crosse, April 25.—Jacob Kohlhaus, a leading business man and manufacturer, died yesterday, aged 70 years. Mr. Kohlhaus founded the first sash and door factory in Western Wisconsin in 1854. At the time of his death he was president of the Segalke & Kohlhaus Manufacturing company, one of the largest firms in the Northwest in this line.

PARDELL CAUGHT UP AT BAUDETTE

Alleged Swindler Wanted in Bemidji and Grand Rapids.

Bemidji, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. E. Pardell, who has several aliases, was arrested at Baudette yesterday, and brought to Bemidji this morning, to answer to the charge of fraudulently obtaining board and accommodations at the Markham hotel in this city, and was lodged in the Beltrami county jail, to be given a hearing this afternoon.

Pardell is wanted at Grand Rapids on a similar charge, and is said to have been working an advertising scheme whereby he got ads for an alleged timetable, securing the money in advance and leaving without liquidating hotel bills or ever issuing the time-tables. Pardell worked this scheme at Grand Rapids, and got away without paying his bill, and also worked Bemidji. He was making his way towards the international boundary with the evident intention of escaping into Canada, when he was nabbed at Baudette yesterday by the chief of police.

THREE FEET OF SNOW IN THE CITY OF LONDON.

London, April 25.—The most remarkable weather for this season experienced in the United Kingdom for several decades has prevailed during the past week. Snow has fallen in London every day since last Monday, and is two to three feet deep in some places. At Southampton business has been practically suspended. The street car service is snowed up and gangs of men are digging the cars out from deep drifts.

IN THE WOOLLY WEST.

Miss Thornton is Teaching in the Mining District of Idaho.

Miss Blanche Thornton of Couer d'Alene, Idaho, was at the McKay hotel today enroute to Wisconsin, where she is going to visit relatives. Miss Thornton has been teaching the little sons and daughters of the miners the elements of education. She is one of the few teachers in the mining district of the Couer d'Alene.

They still have characters out there who do not know the first thing about "readin', writin' and 'rithmetic," but as a rule they are most anxious to have their children acquire what has been denied to them. The efforts of Miss Thornton in the educational line have met with the most hearty support of the miners.

TREASURY BALANCES.

Washington, April 25.—Today's treasury statement: Available cash balance, $251,250,962; gold coin and bullion, $15,002,194; gold certificates, $24,162,740.

OPPOSING FORCES.

Success Magazine: In one sense Mr. Lawson is undoubtedly right, although he will find that while he may know the mysteries of finance, he is an amateur in politics. A terrific contest is under way between the two wings of the Republican party, the one standing for and representing corporate interests, the other a division which seeks to limit somewhat the encroachments of corporations. The real question is as to which element will control the convention. If corporation retainers will be in control the chances are that the candidate will be a man whose strength in the convention will be precisely the reverse among the voters. On the other hand, if the followers of President Roosevelt dominate, the candidate will have a certain popular strength, but will alienate the support of the powerful corporations whose funds sway elections.

This is the problem confronting the Republican National convention; to squirm around or evade it, the probability is not unlikely that some "dark horse" may be chosen, some candidate of a neutral tint, who, while in words responding to the popular cry for reforms, will not be seriously feared by the corporations. Besides, after all, it is congress which makes the laws, and while the people get passionately aroused over presidential contests, they are inclined to forget that congress slips in scarcely noticed.

REMAKING WORN-OUT FARMS.

William A. Du Puy in The World Today: A young farmer in Kansas is the owner of a quarter section of land upon which wheat has been grown continuously for twenty-five years. The production on this farm has decreased during the past few years and the farmer, knowing nothing of any crop but wheat, asked the advice of the department of agriculture at Washington and was told that he had exhausted his farm by the too-long-continued growing of one crop. There was the need of the growing of some crop that would put back into the soil the qualities that the wheat had taken from it. Even with the best results from wheat there would be a greater profit in the farm if greater diversification were indulged in. The farm was mapped out with certain fields in alfalfa, certain in corn followed by peas, certain in timothy, and so on, the proportions being such as to provide for the given number hogs and cattle which were known to bring added profit on such a farm. The exact results that would be derived from following thees directions were twice any sum he had ever produced on the farm before.

A farmer in Ohio wrote that he had struggled for twenty years on an eighty-acre farm heavily mortgaged, but had been unable to reduce this debt or rise above a poverty that made the bringing up of his family in humiliation because of the lack of any advantages he was able to give them. He asked if there was any hope for him upon the farm or if he might as well give up the fight. The department requested that he make a detailed report of his farm and its soils, and upon this it based a plan of farming which he was recommended to follow to the letter. There was a profit the first year of $2,000, and the department believes that ultimately the despised eighty-acres can be made to yield $5,000 a year.

WORMS IN THE STEEL HEADS

Fish Caught at Lester Said to be Unfit to Eat.

The flesh of the steel head trout, of which a great many have been caught this season in Lester river, is said by Lakesiders not to be fit to eat. They claim that this year all the steel heads that have been caught have been full of long, white, thread-like worms, and in some cases the fish have been so diseased that the worms are protruding from the gills.

The fish hatchery people say that this has always been the case with the steel heads at this time of the year. They say that they are in reality an inhabitant of waters tributary to the sea and that they only frequent fresh water in the spring when they run up the coast streams to spawn. At other seasons of the year they are not in their element when out of salt water.

Steel head trout were first planted in the Great Lakes streams. They have been increasing right along each year, but they are said not to be as healthy as the speckled trout, which are native of these waters.

WIFE TOO JEALOUS.

Husband Says She Won't Let Him Leave City to Get Work.

The novel defense that his wife was so jealous that she would not let him leave the city to get work, was put up by W. E. Scott this afternoon, when he was arraigned on a charge of non-support.

Scott's wife claims that her husband has neglected to provide for her properly. Scott, on the other hand, claims that he has furnished his wife with money, but that she is insanely jealous of him, and that she refuses to let him leave the city to work.

The hearing was set for Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

BRAINERD FLOUR MILL DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Brainerd, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Brainerd roller mills, owned by Fricker Bros., were completely destroyed by fire early Friday, involving a loss of about $15,000. The flames had made such headway before discovery that the origin is a mystery.

WHAT HE WANTED TO SAY.

Success Magazine: "Hello!" "Hello!" "Hello, confound you! What do you want?"

"Is this 6445?"

"Of course! Why don't you go ahead and talk?"

"Oh, you needn't get mad about nothing."

"Well, my time's worth money! I can't stand here all day jabbering 'hello' to somebody!"

"This is about the first time I ever used a telephone, and——"

"Did you call me up just for practice?"

"No, of course not."

"Did you call me up to tell me a funny story?"

"No, I——"

"Well, why don't you go ahead then with your business?"

"You don't give me a chance. As I was saying——"

"There you go again! Say, how long are you going to keep me standing here?"

"You can sit down if you want to!"

"I'll sit down on you if this is supposed to be a joke! Who are you, sir?"

"My name is Brown. I moved in directly opposite you a few weeks ago."

"Well, Brown, I'm sorry I have spoken so harshly to you, but I'm not feeling just up to the mark today. Hope you will pardon me."

"Oh, certainly."

"What was it you wished to say to me?"

LABOR

DELEGATES ARE CHOSEN

Four Duluth Men Will Attend State Labor Convention.

Trades Assembly Endorses Move for Better Labor Laws.

Delegates were chosen last night at the meeting of the trades' assembly, in Kalamazoo hall, to represent the local unions at their twenty-sixth annual state convention, to be held at Winona, beginning June 8. This was done at the request of George B. Howley, president of the State Federation of Labor.

Henry Perrault, E. Blackwood, James Walsh, A. Kennedy and Ernest Peters were chosen, with Frank Boursen, Joseph Miller, George Northfield and J. Hiderman to act as alternates, in case any of the elected delegates should be unable to go to the convention.

The convention at Winona this year will have a political tinge, for aside from the regular matters of organized labor, the different political platforms will be investigated, and it will be decided with which party the organizations will affiliate itself.

In regard to forming a political party of labor in the state, a communication was read last evening, requesting all labor unions to examine the platforms of political parties to find which stands the strongest for the interests of labor, and endorse and support that platform. Also, in connection with this it was suggested that each member of the unions be called upon for a donation of 10 cents to form a fund to support this movement. This communication was not passed on, but was voted to be laid on the table until after the meeting of the state convention at Winona.

A set of resolutions, framed at Washington by the American Federation of Labor, signed by Samuel Gompers, president, were enthusiastically endorsed. The resolutions asked that every local union in the United States appeal to the representatives from its district, in both houses, asking for better legislation in behalf of organized labor, condemning the construction placed on the Sherman anti-trust law by the supreme court in its recent sweeping decision, claiming that it was not the original intent of this law that it should apply to labor in any way, and urging that the law should be so amended that its original intent be preserved and that it will not apply to labor. The resolutions also call upon congress to enact, before adjournment, the amendment, known as the Wilson and the Pearre bill, and that congress enact a just and clearly defined general employers' liability law. A provision was also made in the resolutions, asking for an eight-hour labor law for employes of the government, and advising each representative and senator that he will be held strictly accountable on his record upon these measures by the unions.

The committee, composed of S. S. McDonald, Frank Herdman and Thomas O'Mara, which was appointed at the last meeting to investigate whether the local breweries and saloons are using pipes, fittings or machinery made by unfair companies, reported that the local breweries in some cases are using such machinery, but that they had bought it several years ago, and promised that they would buy no more of it.

In the roll call, the Electrical Workers reported, "locked out, but most of the men working."

The Women's Union Label league is on the track of the stores that refuse to sell goods bearing the label of union manufacture. At the meeting of the league last night in Kalamazoo hall, stirring addresses were made favoring the use only of union label goods. Then it was proposed to start a store to be conducted by women, if the business men did not concede to the demands of the league workers.

Mrs. W. A. Warnecka, originator and president of the union label league, addressed the meeting. She outlined the work of the organization. Its purpose was to promote the use of union goods. It was not a union, but merely a movement to assist union labor.

Membership cards were signed by more than 100 women. Another meeting will be held next Friday evening, and it is believed that more than 300 members will have been secured by that time.

Formal announcement was made in today's issue of the Miner's Magazine, the official organ of the Western Federation of Miners, over the signature of C. A. Mohaney, first vice president and acting president of the organization that the executive board has terminated the services of William D. Haywood as a representative of the federation in the field. Last December, after Haywood's acquittal at Boise, Idaho, on the charge of complicity in the murder of Former Governor Steunenberg, he was superseded as secretary-treasurer of the federation by Ernest Mills, on order of the executive board. Since that time he has been employed as a lecturer and organizer for the federation, and has made a tour in the East. It is intimated that the executive board disaprpoved of his activity in the advocacy of Socialistic theories.

ENGINE CREW KILLED.

Freight Train Goes Through Bridge Over Clear Creek in Iowa.

Clinton, Iowa, April 25.—Engineer J. W. Baxter and Fireman L. D. Seymour were killed, and Brakeman John Doherty was badly hurt, Thursday night, when freight train No. 132, eastbound, went through a bridge over Clear Creek, three miles west of Dewitt. The swollen condition of the creek, following a cloudburst, weakened the bridge.

The engine of the freight passed over the bridge first. A car went through, toppling the engine and piling seventeen cars in the creek and on the track. The cars were all loaded with cattle and hogs, and there was awful carnage among the animals.

MAY NOT GET IN.

One Ohio District's Delegates Not Selected in Time.

Dayton, Ohio, April 25.—It is claimed that, under the call of the national Republican committee, the two congressional delegations selected from the should be issued thirty days before the congressional convention assembled.

According to reports, which appear accurate on their face, the call in the Third was issued just twenty-nine days before the date set for the congressional convention. The Ohio vote would thus be reduced to forty-four votes. The complication is laid at the door of the respective combatants by the various county leaders.

district cannot be legally admitted to representation, and, if this development proves correct, the Third district squabble has assumed national proportions. The call of the national committee provided that the delegates to the national convention should be selected by the congressional conventions; that said conventions should assemble at the call of the committees of the district, which call

TELLS PEOPLE HERE HOW TO CURE INDIGESTION

If You Ever Get a Case of the 25 Grain Traingules You Will See How Long You Suffered Unnecessarily.

Every family here ought to keep a case of Diapepsin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of indigestion or stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation is prepared in the form of 22-grain Triangules, and tastes like candy while you are eating them, but they will digest anything you can eat and overcome a sour stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or it lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take one triangule after supper tonight and see five minutes after how it feels to be rid of stomach trouble.

There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no explosions of stomach gas, or heartburn, or fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no fermentation of food left over in the stomach to putrefy your breath with nauseous odors.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases; then you will readily understand why stomach troubles or indigestion must vanish like snow before the blazing sun.

Diapepsin is a certain cure for all your stomach misery. Each triangule contains just the elements which a strong healthy stomach has, and has proven by test to digest alone 3,000 grains of food. Diapepsin will take hold of your food and digest it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Actual, prompt relief for all your stomach misery is at your pharmacist, waiting for your whenever you decide you would rather have a healthy stomach and perfect digestive system.

A 50-cent case is usually more than sufficient to cure a case of dyspepsia and leave some around the house, should other ones of the family need wholesome and safe treatment after eating something that doesn't agree with them.

STATE OF SUPERIOR

Identical Interests of Northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Why Not Unite and Have a New State Created?

To the Editor of The Herald:

Now that national politics is attracting attention and owing to the fact that very shortly there will be an army of would-be national representatives, would it be too much to ask that you find a place in your valuable paper for the following?

While it is true that a few men, with no more vested rights than the most of us, have succeeded in drawing attention to metaphorical questions, which, in the absence of real issues, have to a certain extent received consideration, yet as a matter of fact there is today no real important issue before the people of the United States, which ought to suffice to draw a well defined line between the two great national political parties. All the war talk, all the tariff talk, in fact, all the talk we have been given within the last two years, was all done or given us with the intention of blinding us, and served to draw our attention from the real question.

The questions today are simply these: Are the various communities of the country getting their dues, compared with other localities? And to this I say, no. Therefore, it behooves those interested to study the matter and secure redress, and in order to take as little of your valuable space as possible, Mr. Editor, I will at once go to my subject and will ask your readers to point out where and how the northern parts of the three Middle States, namely: Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, are being benefited by being the tail to the kites that swing them around? Where is the community of interest between the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and the southern part of the state? Where is the community of interest between the northern and southern parts of Wisconsin and Minnesota? None whatever, except that the southern parts of these states wax fat upon the resources derived from the northern parts of those states, without the least benefits to the latter. Where does the state of Minnesota, in particular, get the money to erect a $7,000,000 capitol, and buy $300 desks for its employes, if not in the northern mines and timber? And why have the state officials been so diligently occupied in realizing on our state lands? Not because the proceeds were needed, as the state loans money or buys other state's bonds, but simply to take away the resources from the northern part so that if it ever attempts to start housekeeping on its own account it will find itself next door to a pauper state.

The same thing applies to the states of Michigan and Wisconsin. Consequently the sooner these three northern parts of states join issue and fight for a division of these three states, and pool their interest as one state (all of which can well afford it, as there interests are identical), the better it will be for them all.

Draw a line from the dividing line between North and South Dakota and run it through Minnesota, Wisconsin, and strike the west shore of Lake Michigan at Escanaba, and make the state of Superior out of the northern parts of these states. This will bring the center point at the Head of the Lake, where the capital will be located, and from which all the interests of the north will be served equally. This will give the northern parts of these states new impetus. It will create new life, and permanently establish us as a free and progressive people. Now, then, Mr. Editor, with these fixed outlines, may I ask where, in any of the three above-mentioned parts of these northern states, can a candidate be found who would stand any show of election, without promising to do all in his power to consummate the above idea? This will require work and astuteness on the part of the representatives, but if one fails, we will make a change until we find representatives who will have the necessary qualifications to accomplish the designs of the voters and parties so vitally interested. To us northern people, this is our only salvation. Our national resources are not yet all gone, and with proper management we will yet succeed in saving our northern districts from the rapacity of state politicians, who have, up to this time, looked upon us, who live in the northern parts of these states, as fit subjects for plunder only.

Therefore, let us select our candidates according to these views of the above question, and see to it that they have sufficient executive abilities to carry out the idea. It will require gigantic efforts, but that is what representatives are sent to Washington for, and if the candidates confess their inability to carry out the idea, let them step down and out, until a Moses is found who has the courage and ability to carry out the change. Let us organize at once.

MARINE NEWS

REYNOLDS IS LOADING

Mutual Line Freighter Will Sail for Lower Lake Ports.

Zimmerman Will Sail on Orders From the Owners.

Unless the owners of the steamer Eugene Zimmerman, which is loaded and ready to sail with grain for Depot Harbor, order her out today, the package freighter S. C. Reynolds of the Mutual Transit company fleet will be the first boat to clear from Duluth for the lower lakes. The Reynolds is all fitted out, took fuel this morning, will load this afternoon and will clear tomorrow for Cleveland and intervening points with package freight. The steamer Troy of the Western line steamed up for the first time this morning and will probably get away Monday or Tuesday of next week.

There is some uncertainty among Duluth marine men as to conditions in the vicinity of Whitefish bay. Although a passage was forced through the Soo river yesterday by the Canadian steamer, City of Montreal, reports from the Soo as to ice conditions outside are not entirely encouraging. From Whitefish point to the Soo, a distance of about forty miles, a heavy ice field extended and no confirmation has yet come of the report that the southeast wind of yesterday drove it out into the open lake.

There is no disposition on the part of any owner to send his boats against solid ice this spring, as there is no insurance against damage by ice. Until the agents here are assured that a passage will be possible, there will be no sailing. The ice at Whitefish is firm and, should a boat get into the heavy field, with no wind to break it up, it might be held up for a week. If an off-shore wind should send the field out into the open lake, it would break up quickly and allow a passage.

Today is the date set for the opening of navigation among the package freighters. Local agents have not been advised of clearances from lower lake ports, but it is presumed that all of the lines now have boats under way. It may that at Buffalo, the ice conditions will prevent the boats getting under way for Lake Superior. Telegraphic reports are that a heavy body of ice exists at the eastern end of Lake Erie, extending from Buffalo harbor out into the lake for almost fifty miles. The steamer S. N. Parents cleared from Buffalo for Superior yesterday with railroad iron, but it is not believed the east wind, prevailing there yesterday, was strong enough to move the field out and break it sufficiently for safe passage by the package freighters.

The steamer Cratwick of the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company was expected to sail from Chicago early this morning with package freight for Duluth and should arrive here Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. The Russia of the Port Huron & Duluth company and the Northern Navigation company's freight and passenger steamer Huronic should arrive about the same time.

FIRST BOATS AT SOO.

City of Montreal and Winona Force Passage Through Ice.

Sault Ste. Marie, April 25.—At 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon the whistles of all craft at the docks here greeted the Canadian steamer City of Montreal, the first boat to arrive up through the Soo channel this season. Together with the Canadian steamer Winona, the Montreal had been here since early morning trying to force a passage through the river. The two boats took turns trying the ice and made good progress until they reached Mud Lake, where they encountered a wide strip of heavy ice, which delayed them for some time. Extreme caution was necessary, as the buoys and stakes are not yet in place to mark the channel. The Winona reached here a half hour after the Montreal. The remainder of the fleet are on the way up.

A number of boats remained at Detour until they received word that the river was open. A heavy southeasterly wind has been blowing, accompanied by rain, all day. It is reported that the ice which has been drifting into Whitefish bay has been blown out into Lake Superior, thus leaving a clear passage into Lake Superior. Unless a change of wind should rise the channel will remain clear from Lake Huron to Lake Superior. Upbound navigation through the Soo passage opened on the same late last year, although two steamers had forced their way down from Lake Superior two days earlier.

TONNAGE CHARTERED.

Steamer Gould First Boat to Clear From Cleveland.

Cleveland, April 25.—Considerable coal tonnage was chartered for the season in the past few days at 30c to Duluth and 40c to Milwaukee. On wheat 1½ cents was offered from Toledo to Buffalo.

The steamer Gould will clear today and is the first boat to sail for Lake Superior. The new steamer Bennington came in from Detroit yesterday to load freight for Chicago.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE OFF.

Lumber Carriers Cannot Agree With Employes on Wage Question.

Detroit, Mich., April 25.—Following the breaking off of negotiations Thursday night between the labor committee of the Lake Seamen's union and the Lumber Carriers' association, the committees from the Marine Firemen and the Marine Cooks' also broke off negotiations yesterday. The lumber carriers asked the cooks to accept a reduction in wages of $7.50 per month, and the firemen $5, and also the open shop. Representatives of the three unions conferred yesterday to decide upon a plan of action. Secretary William Penje of the Seamen's union says he still believes the differences will be adjusted without a strike.

The representatives of the unions were very reticent at the close of their conferences and several of them left town during the afternoon and evening. Secretary Penje would not answer the question whether the men would accept a reduction of wages, but said: "We do not anticipate trouble."

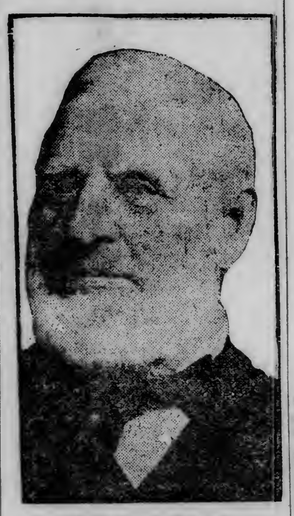

CAPT. EBER WARD.

Detroit Man Who Died Thursday, Was Pioneer Lake Captain.

Capt. Eber Ward, who died Thursday at his home in Detroit, was a pioneer in lake marine history. He was 84 years of age and for over sixty years of that time had been identified in one way or another with shipping on the lakes.

In 1843 Capt. Ward began his experience with boats, going on the river boat Huron as clerk and manager, at a salary of $10 a month and board, for the first year.

One year later he bought an interest in the Huron, and thereafter he was always proprietor and promoter and not employe. The Huron was the nucleus around which Capt. Ward built a formidable fleet of seven or eight vessels, a large number for those times. A few passengers were carried, but the principal business was shipping. In 1837 the first grain was shipped from Michigan City to Buffalo via the lakes. From that time on grain, provisions, ore, traders' supplies and furs supplied a constantly increasing freight business until the advent of railroads through the Western wilderness made the lakes a connecting link between Eastern and Western roads, an immense highway of traffic.

CAPT. EBER WARD.

Capt. Ward's first fleet consisted of the propellers Huron, Ruby, Duncar, Stewart, Princeton and Pearl. These boats thrived during the early '60s. The Princeton was lost in Lake Erie.

In 1869 Capt. Ward started a line between Detroit and Saginaw. The Susan Ward was built for the purpose of plying on the route, with John Strachan as captain, and, with the Forest Queen, both side-wheelers, made semi-weekly trips to Saginaw. These boats were essentially passenger steamers.

His next venture was to establish a Lake Superior line running between Cleveland and Superior, Duluth was then unknown. Capt. Ward bought the City of Cleveland, a side wheeler, for the purpose. The Saginaw, built in 1864, to take the place of the Forest Queen, was sold in a couple of years to the Northwestern Railway company. In 1866 the captain built for his Superior line the most popular boat of the times, the Keweenaw. Then followed in rapid succession the St. Paul in 1868 and the R. G. Coburn in 1870. The latter was lost off Thunder Bay in a terrific gale Oct. 15, 1871, one week after the Chicago fire. Seventeen people were lost and the same number saved.

An idea of the value of the pioneer vessels may be gained from the following statistics: The Keweenaw represented a capital of $125,000; the Saginaw, $75,000; the St. Paul, $85,000, and the Coburn, $80,000.

After the captain sold out his vessel interests he turned his attention to life and fire insurance, in which business he was engaged at the time of his death with his son, Herbert.

FRANTIC WOMEN

Organic disturbances of the feminine system act like a firebrand on the nerves of women, often driving them fairly frantic.

A nervous, irritable woman is a source of misery not only to herself, but to all those who come under her influence. That such conditions can be entirely overcome by taking is proven by the following letters.

Mrs. Mary Wood, of Christiana, Tenn., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had the worst form of female troubles and my nerves were all torn to pieces; sometimes I suffered so much that it seemed as though I could not live.

"I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I feel like a different person. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold, and I cannot say enough for your advice."

Mrs. Wallace Wilson, Thompsonville, Conn., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was all run down, nervous, and could not rest nights. Doctors failed to help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

DOCK WORKERS AGREE.

No Strike Will be Called in Lake Erie Ports This Spring.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 25.—It is unlikely that the International Longshoremen, Marine & Transport Workers' association will at present make any active opposition to the open shop plan announced by the managers of the coal and iron docks on Lake Erie. President Daniel J. Keefe says he will not encourage a meeting of the men to discuss the situation, and it is believed that the same general conditions largely will prevail on the docks as have been in effect since 1906.

President Keefe says: "Quite a few of our locals never have favored the annual trade agreement, and some never have signed one, though they have carried out its provisions in deference to the will of the majority. It has been largely through the efforts of the general officers that these locals were induced to accept the methods which have governed for some years."

About 5,000 members of the longshoremen's association have been employed on the Lake Erie docks, and most of them expect to continue at work as usual.

SPEAKER THOMAS BAKER IS AGAIN CANDIDATE.

Fargo, N. D., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Baker, Jr., formerly speaker of the house, is again a candidate for the legislature, as a result of the withdrawal of Daniel S. Stewart, one of the stalwart slate for the house. Mr. Stewart had received the endorsement of the traveling men, but found his business duties would prevent his making the race. Mr. Baker has served two terms in the house and is well known and popular.

NINE CAMPS IN ONE WINTER

Woodsman Claims That He Was Double-Crossed by Foreman.

Claiming that the camp foreman and the employment agents were in combination and were dividing the employment office fees, G. J. Mahoney this morning appeared at police headquarters, and demanded redress.

Mahoney claimed that he had worked at nine camps this winter, and had not been allowed to remain at any one of them for more than two weeks. He stated that as soon as a new crew appeared, the old crew was discharged.

He was unable to produce any witnesses to support his statements, and the police were powerless to act. His story will be investigated, however.

Sundays from 5:30 to 8 p. m. MUSIC.

THE BEST SHOTS LIVE IN DULUTH

Companies A and C Have High Averages of the State.

The best shots in the Minnesota national guard have their homes in Duluth. Companies A and C show the highest averages of shooting of any company in the state. Whether this fact is due to frequent hunting expeditions in the forests around Duluth, or to consistent practice on the range, is not explained. The latter reason is supposed to be the reason, however.

The averages have been send by Adjt. Gen. Fred B. Wood to the war department at Washington. Company A's record was 92.32, the last season and Company C was 87.77, against 88.89 and 86.57, respectively, the season previous. Some of the companies in the state averaged lower than a year ago. Following is the table of averages for last year:

First Regiment—Field and staff, 72.96, against 81; Company A, 26.44, against 43.89; Company B, 76.26, against 77.36; Company C, 81.43, against 59.16; Company D, 42.90, against 56.11; Company E, 45.55, against 48.12; Company F, 56.44, against 71.02; Company G, 36.69, against 47.96; Company H, no rifle range; Company I, 69.01, against 74.07; Company K, 25.96, against 41.83.

Second regiment—Field and staff, 46.04, against 63.69; Company A, 76.71, against 60.06; Company B, 43.48, against 59.79; Company C, 40, against 66.05; Company D, 28.79, against 35.54; Company E, 40.52, against 80.47; no Company F; Company G, 25.20, against 48.70; Company H, 46.34, against 50.62; Company I, 27.83, against 58.37.

PRINCE AND FORMER COUNTESS IN SECLUSION.

Naples, April 25.—Prince Helie de Sagan and Mme. Anna Gould, the former countess de Castellane, to whom he is reported to be engaged and who arrived here yesterday from New York, are still at the hotel whither they repaired from the steamer upon disembarking. They are holding themselves in seclusion, and have refrained from giving any information as to their future movements, even to their friends. The impression has gained ground, however, that they are endeavoring to arrange their affairs so that they will be able to announce their engagement before leaving Italy.

STRAW VOTE FOR JOHNSON.

"Coming Thro' the Rye" Company Are Enthusiastic Boomers.

Barney Riley, manager of the "Coming Thro' the Rye" company, which is at the Lyceum this afternoon and tonight, claims to be the original Johnson man in the theatrical business.

Frank Lalor, comedian of the company, has also been fired with Mr. Riley's enthusiasm for Johnson, and the two have been doing some effective campaign work among the members of the profession, for the presidential boom of Minnesota's governor.

The company arrived in Duluth this morning, and a straw vote taken on the train, showed the company to be almost solid for Johnson. Out of the seventy-five members—for gallantry forbade barring the chorus girls from voting in this straw ballot—there were sixty votes for Johnson. The others were scattering, Roosevelt, Taft and Bryan all receiving a few votes.

"You would be surprised to know how well Johnson stands all over the country," said Mr. Riley.

"We have covered considerable territory during the last two months, and every time I get into a political talk, I find enthusiastic Johnson boomers. I have never heard an unfavorable criticism of him. The only point raised against him seems to be that he is not well enough known. I am trying to do my little part in counteracting that."

FRENCH MISSION.

Prominent French Speaker Will Conduct Services in Duluth.

Rev. Father Emard of Edmonton, Alberta, will conduct a mission at St. Jean Baptiste church, in the West end, all next week. Rev. Father Emard will preach at high mass at 10:30, tomorrow morning, and will conduct services every evening during the week, to which all the French speaking people of the city will be welcomed. Father Emard is a brother of Bishop Emard of Valleyfield, Quebec, and one of the best known prelates in British America.

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm-hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Playgrounds That Could Be Provided For Duluth Children

Some Sites That Could Be Fitted Up at Moderate Cost.

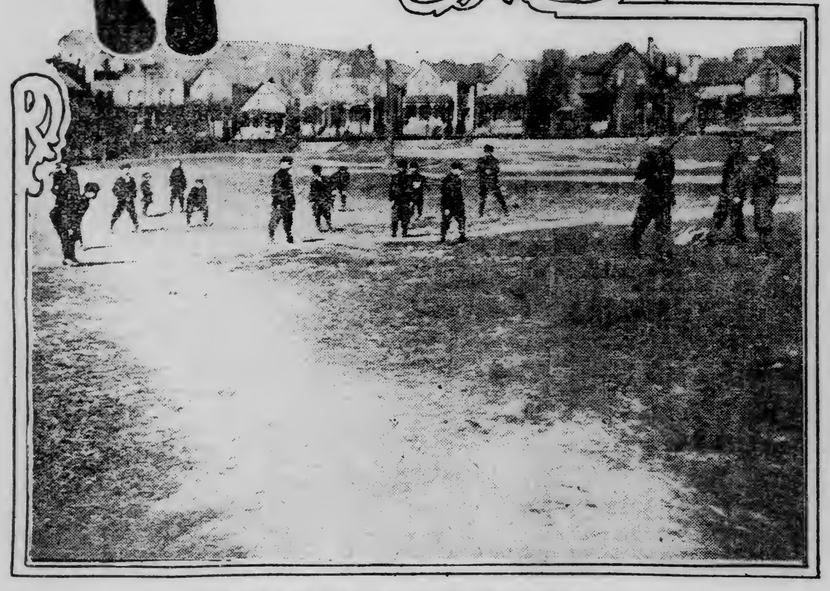

RIGHT IN THE HEART OF THE CITY.

A WEST END SITE.

ONLY A FEW YARDS FROM THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Duluthians apparently are thoroughly aroused to the importance of the public playground movement, and steps are now being taken to have grounds of this nature established in different parts of the city. To begin with, as has been announced before, the city will not purchase sites outright for these places, but will secure them at a nominal cost from the property owners, until the success of the general plan is proven. Later on it is expected park bonds will be issued for the purchase of desirable locations.

At the present time there are quite a few good sites available, but, as the city grows, the number is constantly decreasing. Mayor Haven and others, who have taken the trouble to learn the experience of other cities in the matter of public playgrounds, advise the acquisition of necessary locations at the earliest possible moment, when property may be obtained at a low figure, and before buildings have been erected thereon. In other places, New York, for example, the playground project has been delayed so long that it can be carried through now only at an immense outlay of capital. Secretary Hanmer of the National Playground association, who delivered three addresses in Duluth this week, told of how one public playground in New York cost the city $6,000,000. It is located in one of the most thickly populated districts in the world, and to provide the location the city not only had to buy the ground, but the tenement buildings built there as well. The buildings were torn down at considerable expense. Many other cities have had much the same experience, only in a somewhat smaller measure.

The Herald herewith presents three views of centrally-located sites that would make excellent locations for public playgrounds. All of them are convenient to portions of the city where children are numerous, and none of them is far from a school building. The bottom photograph, on the left, shows the Mendenhall lots on Lake avenue, just above the high school. This ground is used quite extensively now by boys as a ball ground. The picture just above shows the corner of Fourth avenue west and First street, purchased by the county as a courthouse site. This corner is easily reached from the Jackson school, as is seen by a glance at the picture. The location is very unsightly just now, and is littered up with all kinds of rubbish. Its principal use seems to be a place for idle wagons and rigs of all descriptions.

The third view shows another excellent site. It is on Thirty-second avenue west. At the present time there is a lot of vacant property in that neighborhood, but at the rate the West end is developing as a manufacturing center, it will not be many years before all the available property is taken up and turned into factory locations.

CAPT. HART SUSPENDED

Minneapolis Attorney is Held Guilty of Misconduct by Special Court.

Is Not Disbarred, But Must Not Practice for Six Months.

St. Paul, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The special supreme court appointed Governor Johnson to hear the disbarment proceedings instituted against Capt. Francis B. Hart, the veteran member of the Minneapolis bar, by the State Bar association, for his criticism of the highest court in the state, has ruled against Hart, and in an opinion filed late yesterday by Judge Frank C. Brooks of Minneapolis, acting chief justice, the punishment is fixed at suspension from practice for six months.

Not a few looked for a disbarment of the accused, because of the aggravating nature of his attack upon the court, but the special court deemed a suspension for six months sufficient punishment.

Hart Severely Arraigned.

The special court severely arraigned Capt. Hart for the language used in his letter to Chief Justice Start, and incidentally upholds the correctness of the decisions rendered by the supreme court, to which Mr. Hart took exception and upon which the letters were based. As to his defense, that the letters were written by him as a private citizen and not as officer of the court, the special court holds that in so far as he exercised the rights of a private citizen in criticising the court he was immune from the penalty sought to be enforced, but that in assailing the chief justice personally he wilfully violated his oath of office and rendered himself liable to disbarment.

Letter to Start Blamed.

The decision rests on the sending of the letter to Chief Justice Start, and is made without reference to the giving out of the letters for publication before they were mailed to the chief justice and the governor.

The court states that on or about December 7, last, he composed two letters, one addressed to the chief justice and the other to the governor, referring to the decision of the supreme court in three cases in which he was counsel for the defeated parties. The letter to the governor suggested the impeachment of the justices because of their participation in the decisions referred to. Prior to this the letters were given to the press and the Associated Press and some portions thereof published here and elsewhere.

Following is the syllabus: "Every citizen has the right to comment upon and criticise without any restraint the rulings of a judicial officer in an action which has been fully determined and not answerable therefor otherwise than in an action tryable by a jury.

"An attorney can only be disbarred for such comment or criticism if at all when it is so base and vile as to establish clearly his bad character and his unfitness to remain a member of an honorable profession.

"An attorney may not, however, insult the judicial officer by words written or spoken addressed to such officer personally because of the latter's official act, though in a matter fully ended and if he does so, it may constitute a sufficient cause for his disbarment.

Professional Misconduct.

"The accused herein having written a personal letter to the chief justice of this court impugning both the intelligence and the integrity of said chief justice and his associates in the decisions in certain appeals in which he had been an attorney for the defeated litigants, it is held that he is hereby guilty of professional misconduct for which he is suspended from practice for the period of six months."

The special court was composed of the following district court judges appointed by the governor: F. C. Brooks of Minneapolis; special chief justice; H. R. Brill, St. Paul; M. D. Taylor, St. Cloud; W. C. McClennan, Brainerd; and Nathan Kingsley of Austin.

SWEDISH AND NORWEGIAN SINGERS IN BIG CONTEST

CHARLES HELMER,
Director of the Svea Glee Club.

O. HOFFMAN,
Director of Normanna Male Chorus.

The executive committee of the Normanna Male chorus and the Svea Glee club, which will hold their fifth and final singing contest at the Lyceum theater on the evening of May 5, is hard at work preparing for the event and will hold a meeting this evening to perfect some of the plans.

Once every year, these two well known Scandinavian musical organizations have met in a friendly singing contest. The first two were won by the Normanna Male chorus and the Svea Glee club was victorious in the last two. This year's contest will be the last and will decide matters. The winners will be awarded the Carlson trophy.

All the details of the program have not been arranged yet, but the entertainment will be an elaborate one. Andrew Nelson will be master of ceremonies, and Mrs. Leo Ball, soprano, and Oliver Colbentson, violinist, will be the soloists. Miss Elizabeth Morton will be the accompanist.

In addition to the contest numbers and the solos, there will be speeches by two men well known at the Head of the Lakes, Clarence B. Miller of Duluth, and Irvine L. Lenroot of Superior. Mr. Miller will talk on the growth and importance of the two societies, which will meet to settle the question of vocal supremacy, and Mr. Lenroot's topic will be "Scandinavian Music."

As for the members of the societies themselves, they have been practising for the approaching contest for weeks. Owing to the fact that this will be the last contest and the deciding one, interest in the event is keener than in any of the previous ones.

The executive committee is composed of six members, three from each society. C. J. Halling of the Normanna chorus, is chairman; Andrew Nelson of the Svea club, secretary, and C. E. Johnson of the Svea club, treasurer. The other members of the executive committee are Edwin Peterson of the Svea club and K. L. Fenney and B. Sande of the Normanna chorus.

The committee has selectd a well known out of town musical authority, whose name it will not make known at this time, as one of the judges, and he will select two more. Whom he selects will not be made known to members of either society. The greatest precautions will be taken to keep the singers from finding out, and they will not have the slightest idea of what part of the theater they are sitting in during the entertainment.

CHURCHILL DEFEATED

Young Liberal Leader Loses His Seat in Parliament.

Manchester, Eng., April 25.—The Northern division of Manchester, by the heaviest poll cast in twenty years, yesterday reversed its verdict of 1906, and by a majority of 429 votes unseated as its members of parliament, Winston Spencer Churchill, Liberal, who has just been made president of the board of trade in the new Asquith cabinet, and who that year so brilliantly wrested the seat from W. Joyneson-Hicks, Unionist, his chief opponent of yesterday. Three candidates stood for election, and the result was as follows: W. Joyneson-Hicks, Unionist, 5,417, Winston Spencer Churchill, Liberal, 4,88S. Mr. Irving, Socialist, 276.

The defeat of Mr. Churchill is a crushing blow to the prestige of the government and the young and confident minister, which is bound to have a marked influence on several pending bye-elections. There will be no difficulty in finding for Mr. Churchill a safe seat elsewhere. The Liberals may derive from their defeat of today what consolation is possible from the fact that prior to 1906 the northwest division seat was held constantly by the Conservatives.

Asquith Partly Responsible.

Among the many influences and cross-currents at work in this extraordinary contest it is not wholly beyond reason to suppose that Mr. Asquith himself was partly responsible for the defeat of his young colleague. It is customary for the leader of a party to send a letter wishing success to any member of his party seeking election to parliament.

Mr. Balfour in this case sent Mr. Joyneson-Hicks an unusually long and adroit letter which doubtless very materially assisted the Unionist campaign. Mr. Asquith on the other hand for some as yet unexplained reason omitted to follow this custom, though he sent a letter to Walter Runciman, president of the board of education, who on Thursday contested and won the seat for Dewsbury by a majority of 1,148 votes.

Mr. Joyneson-Hicks in an interview after the election, attributed his victory mainly to the education and licensing bills. He is a London solicitor, 43 years of age, and never before has held a seat in parliament.

Later in the evening Mr. Churchill in a speech said:

"It is useless to disguise the fact that we had a very heavy blow. Its consequences will be grave and serious to all whose interests are interwoven with the principle of free trade."

Mr. Churchill also complained bitterly of what he declared was an unfair influence inserted against him by certain London newspapers.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Little Change Shown in Business Conditions of Country.

New York, April 25.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Lightweight wearing apparel is in better demand in response to more seasonable weather, but retail trade as a whole shows little alteration, and the crops have not made sufficient progress to encourage normal preparations for future business in wholesale and jobbing departments. Payments are a little more prompt owing to the ease of money.

Dullness continues in the iron and steel industry, the outlook for the year being indicated by a reduction in the estimate of ore shipments to 20,000,000 tons. Several mills have resumed, including some of the leading rail plants, but these are not started at more than one-third full capacity. Although it develops slowly, there is much encouragement regarding the outlook in the pipe trade, easier money reviving plans for the issue of municipal bonds for water, gas and other public works.

Some increase in the attendance of buyers is noted in certain quarters of the primary markets for cotton goods, and improved financial conditions cause less question regarding terms of settlement, but the percentage of idle machinery is larger and the outlook for a broader market is not bright. Stocks accumulate in some departments, but as a rule jobbing houses are in a healthy condition as to the size of supplies. The export division continues featureless, and trade in print cloth and yarn fabrics is confined almost wholly to spot goods, on which quotations are nominal, each transaction being made on its merits. In men's wear woolens, most manufacturers have secured a fair distribution of sample pieces, and anticipate duplicate orders in sufficient number to absorb the season's output.

Footwear factories are curtailing production, and shipments from Boston continue light. All markets are quiet, but there is a fair demand for summer specialties, notably tan calf shoes. The contracts are placed for immediate delivery, but there is little inquiry for staple lines, and the higher-priced black goods are exceptionally dull.

Trade in the West has also fallen off, but is still relatively better than in New England. Weakness is noted in all varieties of leather, but especially hemlock sole. Light receipts of cattle and increased tanning by packers supply greater strength in the domestic hide market, nearly all varieties advancing more or less.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

Mr. Thos. Stenton, postmaster of Pontypool, Ont., writes: "For the past eight years I suffered from rheumatic pains, and during that time I used many different liniments and remedies for the cure of rheumatism. Last summer I procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and got more relief from it than anything I have ever used, and cheerfully recommend this liniment to all sufferers from rheumatic pains." BOYCOTTS ILLEGAL.

Carson, Nev., April 25.—The supreme court of Nevada handed down a decision yesterday which renders boycotts in all forms illegal and also makes it possible for parties injured to recover damages against any individual or corporation instituting a boycott. The decision of the lower court that a union, being an unincorporated body, could not be sued, is reversed.

ROBBERS GET $3,000.

Bandana, Ky., April 25.—Four masked robbers, after taking possession of the Cumberland Telephone exchange and beating the operator into insensibility, compelled Assistant Cashier B. H. Haps, of the Ballard County bank of Bandana, to unlock the bank and open the safe for them late last night. The robbers escaped with $3,000, leaving both Haps and the operator bound in the telephone exchange.

TWO LITTLE GIRLS KILLED.

Lunenburg, N. S., April 25.—Two girls, aged 9 and 11 years, daughters of Henry Pernette of West La Have Ferry, met a tragic death in a water wheel of a lumber mill at that place. The children were in the habit of taking a short cut across the stream, under the wheel when the mill was idle. Yesterday they were under the wheel just as the mill started. The wheel caught them and crushed them to death.

AT THE LYCEUM

Blanche Walsh in "The Kreutzer Sonata" Monday and Tuesday---"In Wyoming" on Friday and Saturday.

Blanche Walsh, in Jacob Gordin's terrific drama, "The Kreutzer Sonata," will be the attraction at the Lyceum on Monday and Tuesday, April 27 and 28. Miss Walsh will be surrounded by the same company, and the production will be the same in which she was recently seen at the Manhattan and Herald Square theaters, New York, when the play and the powerful acting of Miss Walsh attracted the attention of all lovers of tragic acting. Miss Walsh played to a capacity business during her entire appearance.

"The Kreutzer Sonata" is the first of Jacob Gordin's plays to be acted in English, although during the past ten years more than seventy of them have been acted with great success in Yiddish. "The Kreutzer Sonata" has absolutely nothing in common with Tolstoi's book of that name. The plot chiefly concerns a high-class Russian Jew, his wife, his oldest daughter, Hattie, his youngest daughter, Celia, and Gregoire, a musician. At the beginning of the play, the oldest daughter, Hattie, has been secretly married to a Russian, but finding that the marriage will not be recognized by either the church or state, her husband, in despair, has shot himself. Her unborn child, therefore, she knows will be deemed illegitimate. To shield her disgrace, her father insists that she marry Gregoire, her social inferior, and emigrate to America. Gregorie accepts Hattie with the full knowledge of the facts. The second act presents the domestic situation six years later, and it seems that Hattie is subjected to every humiliation and cruelty on the part of her husband, and the perfidy of her sister, Celia, who brazenly courts her husband's attentions. Hattie is forced to submit, because she knows that the alternative would create a scandal which would fall on the head of her child, revealing the fact that he has no parentage. How her sister, her husband, and even her mother goads and torments her beyond human endurance, and leads up inevitably to the final tragedy, is better to be seen than described.

"IN WYOMING."

Play Owned by Duluth Men Will be Presented Here.

"In Wyoming" which comes to the Lyceum Friday and Saturday matinee and night, May 1 and 2, is the product of the pen of Willard Mack. The story is interesting throughout the entire four acts.

The characters are all taken from life and are correct portrayals of the people who go to make up the inhabitants of the state from which the play takes its name. The scenes and incidents are laid in the beautiful Big Horn valley, the center of interest being the ranch of a well-to-do cattleman. The picturesque scenery is all painted from sketches made on the spot by Edward Fouriner.

"In Wyoming" was originally produced here by the Mack-Leone players under the title of "Sage Brush" and has just returned from a successful road tour. It will be presented here with the same strong cast and production that has been so favorably received in the different cities where it has been played. Will Jerome, who plays "Bob Richards," is becoming a matinee idol, and the work of Will Chapman as "Steve" has been very favorably commented on.

The company is owned by H. F. Pierce and J. L. Morrissey of the Lyceum threater, so that it may be looked upon as a Duluth production. It has had a very successful tour of several weeks through Northern Wisconsin and Michigan, and will go on the road again next fall. As "Sage Brush" it proved the most popular play presented by the Mack-Leone company in Duluth. The company has been greatly strengthened, and has been provided with new scenery and costumes.

Lyceum Notes.

"Brewster's Millions," described as the most original comedy presented in a decade, and which has crowded the theaters of Chicago, New York and London for many months past, will be presented at the Lyceum, May 12 and 13..

The stage adaptation of George Barr McCuechton's novel has been cleverly made by Winchell Smith and Byron Ongley.

The story is of the effort of a hitherto very sedate young man to spend a million dollars in one year, inherited from a grandfather, as a condition to the inheritance of seven millions from an uncle.

Montgomery Brewster finds this a great task, and to accomplish it becomes a stockbroker, a theatrical "angel," a devotee of the ponies, an adventurer at Monte Carlo and a world-voyageur, and finds how very difficult it is to lose money when one wants to.

Messrs. Cohan & Harris have given the piece a magnificent production and from a scenic standpoint it has never been excelled, the scene in the third act showing a yacht at sea during a storm invariably proving a climax both exciting and realistic.

Woods and Ralton, who have a reputation second to none as musical artists are appearing in the original novelty, The Five Musical Marines, with the Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels. This is one of the biggest musical acts ever seen with a minstrel production. All the instruments are unusual and novel, including saxaphones, xylophones, cornets, trombones and ephoniums. There is a distinct plot running through the act and a climax that creates a flutter of excitement among the onlookers. The Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels will appear here at the Lyceum, May 8 and 9.

"The Burgomaster," comes to the Lyceum next month. All the old favorites, "Goodbye New Amsterdam," "Keep Cool," "We're Civilized Now," "The Dutch Cadets," "I Drink From My Heart To You," "We Always Work the Public," "Little Soubrette," "Dear Old College Days," "Rainy Daisies," "The Tale of the Kangaroo," "I Love You Dear and Only You," "Cupid Does Not Marry," "Modern Gladiator," "Have'nt Discovered Him Yet," will again be heard as well as several entirely new and original interpolated numbers, including one entitled "How Many Have You Told That To?"

"In play-writing the same rules that are laid down for architecture govern," says Clay Clement. "There is an old rule of architecture which says 'Never build ornaments; ornament your buildings, and another says: 'Do not build a column unless it supports something.'

"These must be observed rigidly in playwright's art, and I have attempted to observe them. I have done some carpenter work at different times. My version of 'The Bells,' for instance, I made, and I have also adopted and rewritten several plays, but 'The Old Dominion' is the first play that was entirely my own. I wrote 'Sam Houston' in collaboration with John McGovern and Jesse Edson. 'A Southern Gentleman' is all my own, and I have just completed a new play 'Hampton Roads.'"

BLANCHE WALSH,
At the Lyceum Next Week.

AT THE METROPOLITAN

Duluth's Favorite Burlesque Organization, "The Jolly Grass Widows," Comes for a Week's Engagement.

Duluth's favorite burlesque organization, the Jolly Grass Widows, will play an engagement at the Metropolitan next week. The company will be here seven nights and four matinees, and there will be a chorus girls' contest Thursday evening and an amateurs' night Friday.

The Jolley Grass Widows were the first burlesquers to play at the Metropolitan and the company will be one of the last, because the Wisconsin Central railway, which now owns the property is going to tear it down after the present theatrical season is over.

When the Metropolitan became one of the houses in the Western burlesque wheel, the Grass Widows came at the first attraction, and they made a tremendous hit. Since that time, the Grass Widows have been prime favorites here.

The company, it is said, has this season surprised all its former efforts in the line of new ideas and offers some really unique feaures that will surely add to its popularity. The production is as usual sumptuously staged and elaborately costumed, and has a cast of rare merit, including George Cuhl, Falke and Coe, the Lator brothers, Will Fox, Miss Annette Wiltsie, the three musketeers, Miss Lillian Boyd and Miss Minnie Richards, the burlesque queen.

The new burlesque entitled "A Scotch High Ball" serves as a vehicle to introduce the entire company. Sensational features are offered in the olio and about a score of song successes all of the whistling variety, will be heard.

AT THE BIJOU

La Veen and Cross Co. Will be the Feature of An All Star Bill of Vaudeville, Next Week.

Feature vaudeville attractions will be the standard of next week's bill at the Bijou.

Heading the list will be La Veen-Cross and company, Roman sports and pastimes, in four scenes. Scene first, shows Rome as it stands today. The second scene is laid in the Augustine period, showing a Roman villa in all its ancient splendor. The members of the company introduce some of the most difficult feats in strength known to the athletic world. In this scene is a beautiful fountain of running water, in which live geese and swans are swimming about. Scene three is a reproduction in life of the work of the world's most famous sculptors. In presenting this act to the Duluth people, the management has been put to gerat expense, as it is the only act of its kind in the world. The following is a notice from the Bridgeport Morning Telegram: "Surpassing in the extent of its scenic effects the most elaborately staged productions of its kind, is the act of La Veen, Cross & Co., 'Roman Sports and Pastimes.' La Veen is wonderfully muscular, while Cross although not so well developed, is a marvel of strength and agility. The two perform a series of truly thrilling feats of strength, appearing in a Roman villa, with a fountain of running water, one of the features of the stage setting. Reproductions in life of famous sculptures by La Veen reveal his marvelous physique. The pair evoked unstinted admiration. The antics of two attendants furnished plenty of comedy for this act."

Among the many other feature attractions will be the Fredericka Raymond trio, in "The Knights of Old." The appearance of this act will be a treat to lovers of operatic selections. The following notice is a recent comment of Miss Raymond:

"The cantata of the Frauenchor, with Miss Raymond as soloist, was excellently sung, and the latter showed a perfect mastery over her beautiful voice."

Two well known singers appear with Miss Raymond, viz: Paul Fisher, tenor, and Enrico Oromonte, baritone.

An exceptionally good sketch will be given by Miss Eddie Walton and her company of players, in "The Typewriter Girl." This is an original idea in the sketch line, and it gives Miss Walton a chance to display her clever talent at its best. The scene is laid in the office of a New York lawyer. It is full of bright comedy and has some very interesting dramatic situations.

The return of Welch and Earl will be a welcome to many, as they were big favorites a year ago. They come with a repertoire of songs and dances and plenty of sparkling comedy.

A fine novelty act will be given by Mill, Cherry and Hill, who do a sensational unicycle and bicycle act, introducing many new and difficult tricks, as well as some clever comedy.

Isadore Silver will sing a new illustrated song, entitled "The Garden of the West."

The moving pictures will be "Barrels to Sell," and a new comedy film, entitled "Energizer Breakfast Food."

Matinees are given daily at 2:45, and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. A school children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon, and performances Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Sothern Realizes the Humor of "Don Quixote," But Paul Kester Not So Fortunate in Dramatizing Cervantes' Immortal Story.

New York, April 25.—G. H. Sothern's Don Quixote has proved one of the artistic events of the season, although the quality of the dramatization of Cervantes' ponderous novel by Paul Kester leaves something to be desired. Mr. Kester has probably done as well as could be expected with a book of adventures that possesses no unity of design other than in the person of its fantastic hero. Unfortunately, this is the day when the parase "The play's the thing," distorted in meaning, is taken literally. So the imperfections of the dramatic treatment receive more attention than the perfections of the Sothern Quixote, which after all, is the thing. Yet Mr. Kester has far from scored a failure. Between the necessity of depicting a consistent portrait of the knight of the rueful countenance and a dramatic setting that shall inspire interest of itself he has lost no material prestige as an author. The task was a serious one, in which numerous others have failed. He has simply taken an episode from the novel and expanded it with the widest possible regard to the spirit of the original. He has thrown the heft of his skill into the task of transposing to the stage the "Don Quixote" of Cervantes, framed in the best setting available. Therein, at least, he has succeeded.

As soon as the curtain rises on the yard of the inn in La Mancha, with its stables, stone wall and well, we get the atmosphere. The play begins with the arrival of the village priest, Pero Perez, in search of the unfortunate, demented gentleman of La Mancha, who, from reading many books of chivalry, has turned knight errant, and is abroad in the country to succor distressed maidens and to right the wrongs of the oppressed. Then we hear from the lips of shepherds and wayfarers of Don Quixote's adventure with the windmill and his charge on the flock of sheep. And, by and by, here comes the knight of the sorrowful figure in the full panoply of war, with buckler, lance and waving plumes, mounted upon Rozinante and followed by Sancho Panza on his ass. Then comes the episode of Quixote's knighting by the inn-keeper, his midnight vigil over his armor on the well shed, the arrival of the galley slaves, his attack on the king's officers, the revolt of the convicts and their assault on their liberator with flails and cudgels. Interwoven with these events in the tragic history of Dorothea de Clenardo's secret marriage to Don Fernandez, brother of the duke, and her own brother's condemnation to the galleys for having assaulted Don Fernandez, the deserter of his sister and suitor of his sweetheart.

Around this fable, chiefly, has the playwright woven the fabric of his plot that holds together those different episodes in Don Quixote's career which he has chosen for his subjects.

For more than two acts the play is largely a "rough-house" drama, with climaxes that leave the stage resembling a small battlefield, with the debris of war scattered everywhere. In the last act the knight is back in his library, where death relieves him from the obsession of his pathetic illusions. This closes the series of stirring and more or less comical events which, thanks to Mr. Sothern's portrayal, leave a haunting, if somewhat melancholy, impression of sympathetic interest.

Sothern's Don Quixote must be considered one of the most carefully defined portraitures. Unlike Mr. Buckstone as Sancho Panza, he preserves the resemblance to Cervantes' hero admirably, and harmonizes to the last degree his accepted attributes of figure, his grotesquerie and austere solemnity of countenance and gravity of action. It is as if he had stepped out of the pages of the book, or Gustave Dore had drawn him afresh with the touch that gives him the sallow cheek, the hollow eyes, the Spanish beard and the long, lean, cadaverous figure in the martial trappings of a mediaeval knight errant. The actor has seized the concealed humor amid the complete pathos of the weird character, which Heine said was the most grotesque figure, together with Falstaff, in the whole range of comic literature.

The spirit of Cervantes' work was upon the whole production. It was truly the Spain reflected from its teeming pages in more than mechanical completeness. It was denoted perfectly in the scenes and persons, though not always in the acting. Whether the better element of the production will compensate for the lack of dramatic unity of the play sufficiently to insure for them lasting popularity is a problem that time alone can solve.

A dainty little one-act tragedy of negro life, in which the four players, though white, appear in the darkened hue of the African, and which claims the distinction of being the first and only serious colored drama, was presented by the Ina Hammer company at one of the Keith & Proctor vaudeville houses uptown last week, apparently for a trial.

It is entitled "His Own," and was written by Evelyn Greenleaf Southerland. It is as dark in its dramatic texture as the skin of the giant husband, Jobe Duke, a Southern negro after the war, who rejoices with boyish enthusiasm in his newborn freedom and the possession of his cabin, his wife and son—all his own, as he fondly dreams.

But there is another man in the case, the boy's real father, who returns after eight years imprisonment, and tries to lure the woman back from her path of duty and the side of the husband who loves her and believes in her devotion. He wrings from the woman a reluctant consent, and she promises to elope with him, when the husband, rejoicing in a day's work well performed, enters the cabin singing.

The tragedy is precipitated when he attempts to chastise the boy for lending his gun to a stranger. As he takes a harness strap from the wall the mother interferes. Man and wife quarrel, and in the crisis of anger and resentment comes the confession, bitterly revealed, that the son is not his own.

The black man is stunned. His illusions are shattered; the bitter truth has stricken him in a vital spot. After a pause of agonizing grief and suspense, he acts. The savage at the bottom of his nature is dominant as he mixes a poisoned drink and tells her to swallow it in a tone of irresistible command. She begs for mercy, but he is cruel. Her appeals are in vain. Then, when there is apparently no hope, for the woman, the lover's head is thrust into the window. A shot from the missing gun! The husband falls!

She is free now, but she cannot escape the fascination of his staring eyes. Submissive to his will, still potent in death and holding her in a grasp of fear, love and repentance, she drinks the poison and follows the black man, whose own she was and will be.

Now that music has been successfully "canned," and an aria by Caruso or Tetrazzini can be transmitted by freight to the remotest part of the world without the least difficulty, attention is directed to an innovation which is expected similarly to revolutionize theatrical productions, and of which great things, indeed, are confidently predicted.

This will be the presentation of plays on the stage by machinery alone. The machine is called the "theatrium." The Shuberts are tentatively taking a hand in Charles Howard Perry's enterprise, and if everything goes according to expectations the public will soon witness a performance of "Hamlet" at $1 a seat for two hours and a half, seeing the scenes of the play and hearing the lines spoken without anybody being on the stage but the man who turns the crank and his assistants who manage the lights and handle the scenery.

This innovation has already been made at the Union Square and the Twenty-third Street theaters, where it is crowding out vaudeville acts. Other houses where vaudeville is given are planning to follow the example. Here the machine is only presenting scenes from plays and musical pieces, but soon, it is asserted, the theatorium will usurp the place of actors and playwrights a the larger theaters and become a regular feature of dramatic entertainment. The new invention combines the biograph with the phonograph, so synchronized as to substitute a perfect performance of any drama and guaranteed to render actors a drug on the market.

According to Mr. Perry, the main promoter of the enterprise, he can offer his reproductions with music, words and actions all harmonized as fast as he can get them into form. It is not considered as belonging to the same class as the cameraphones or other living and talking picture contrivances. "We give an entire evening's entertainment of two and half hours," he declared, "instead of merely showing brief scenes and dances from operas and plays."

An immense gramophone is placed behind the curtain on which the moving pictures appear, and is so contrived that the machine shifts automatically to three disks. Disks not in use may always be replaced with fresh ones, and thus the flow of sound may continue without interruption for an indefinite period. The gramophone is neceecarily synchronized with the moving picture apparatus in front of the curtain. At the end of each act the curtain of the theater is dropped for the intermission exactly as during a regular performance.

I had a talk with a prominent producing manager about the new machine and asked him what he thought of its influence on the future of the theater. In his opinion it will always remain a novelty and will never take the place of actors and regular theatrical productions of plays, no matter how perfect the co-operation of the talking machine with the biograph. It will lack the human element and will only be machine-made drama, he thought. However, its influence on vaudeville is likely to be serious, this manager opined, and it will tend to destroy the popularity of the cheap melodrama long popular already on the wane, as it will provide a better grade of entertainment and insure the elevation of the minor stage by giving the people well-made plays heretofore on view only at the better theaters, where the price of admission has been a bar to their patronage.

It is just a year since the wild rumors of continued warfare in the American theatrical field came to an abrupt termination, the Shuberts ducked under a staggering foad of impending failure, and Abe Erlanger, of the big theatrical syndicate, assumed that expression peculiar to the cat after the canary has disappeared. Mr. Erlanger, inflated by the success of permitting his dangerous rivals to outrun themselves and then sell out to him, thought he'd taste of the sweets of a little forlorn fighting himself. Hes went into vaudeville. It's a bit harsh to remind anybody of that and particularly the dear public that partonizes vaudeville, for the Lord knows they have had to pay through the season for Enlanger's trifle of vanity. How? Why, the vaudeville powers had to assume all the Erlanger had contracts for advanced vaudeville, and to offset the advance they retrograded in their own shows. Half a million dollars were lost in that ill-fated venture. You don't suppose these managers intend already to suffer that financial embarrassment, do you? Never as long as the public is satisfied with the treatment they have handed them in the past. It is only hoped that every one is, and that the habit of retrenchment will not become chronic, for some people will always go and the other half must either stay away or suffer in silence.

Now that these things are of record and the season is hurrying to a death that will be welcome, the rumor foundries have had to begin operations again. This time it is the old story of a new trust being formed to combat the old. Just at present it is pretty hard o keep the fellows in the show business who are in, and to get new blood is next to impossible. It has been an off season: in fact, so far off that most people could not see it with binoculars. The idea that anybody with money is planning to buck the more thoroughly intrenched powers of the big syndicate sounds very much like a dream of what ought to be than any hint of what is liable to happen. Of course, as long as the syndicate flourishes there will be people opposed to the syndicate. Just why, they couldn't tell you, except that they are naturally against something. To employ a colloquailism, they are certainly "against" it good and proper in this season's show output without worrying about anything else. But these rumors are not disquieting, and they certainly have no ring of reassurance. Things theatrical will remain as they are until a growing demand calls for a determined revolution. It has been stated before, and, looking back over one of the worst seasons ever known, it is vividly recalled that the blame lies not at the door of the manager. The present controlling powers are shrewd manipulators. They have a strangle hold upon the affairs of the theater in the three branches that dominates its activities, and they do not intend that any one shall have a look in. They do as they please and they do not have any pleasures. Securing the greatest possible returns from the least possible outlay with them is not even a passion it's just a dull, uninteresting, sordid habit. The only posible way that conditions can be improved is to create a new demand. That comes from the public, and as a writer, commenting upon a recent artistic performance, said:

"Why give the public the best there is when they are satisfied with "good enough."

Marie Dressler, who has become an international tonic since it is her mission to add to the gayety of nations, is back upon the hospitable shores of America to make smiles ripple across the countenance of jaded New Yorkers for three brief weeks, and then it's back to London and her new field of conquest. Powerful short time for the ample Miss Dressler to swing into activities, but then she is a steam propeller of incisive mirth and knows not the meaning of fatigue, whether she is ocean traveling, conquering the British with American humor—and that requires some action—or just doing a stunt for the amusement of the hol poill. Listen, ye fearful souls, how Marie captivated the dull beef eaters of John Bull's personal bailiwick, or island, and tremble no more.

"I liked London," quoth Marie, "and for a wonder London liked me. They treated me like a prince—that is a lady prince. I have heard of the conservative element in the theatrical business over there, and I was warned agaginst any innovations, but I determined to try them out anyway, and I made good at once. I blew in and off the stage in my usual airy, fairy manner, and that's all there was to it. The breezier I was, the better they liked it. If I had done as some of the people wanted me to I would have had to take the next boat."

Quite correct, Miss Dressler. When one thinks of your activities and your personal heft one would fear to quarrel with you, but when you say you "blew in and off the stage," may one inquire what relation are you to the big wind in Ireland?

Not content with his success as Don Quixote and Rodion Raskolnikiff, two striking additions to his repertoire for this season, not to mention the revival of his father's masterpiece, "Lord Dundreary," E. In the mixed litigation to protect his rights Manager Savage has had more trouble with "The Merry Widow" than counting the enormous profits his two companies in that musical success have won for him. Last week he received a setback in that he was ordered to show a clear title on the part of the authors to the rights in the book. It seems now that Stein and Leon, who made the book and lyrics for the Lehar score, were indebted for an old musical comedy by Meilhac for their inspiration, and that this complicates the copyright privileges of this country. As was pointed out last week, until the higher courts pass upon this legal technicality Savage cannot prevent imitators from giving scenes from the reigning success. But on the other hand, Judge Lascombe, in the United States courts, held that the use of moving pictures, representations of the work, is an infringement upon Savage's rights as the American producer, and he has ordered that a temporary injunction against various moving picture concerns to prevent their indiscriminate use of the idea be made permanent. This decision is far reaching in that it establishes a precedent in a matter of the widest imporatnce. The moving picture is becoming so useful in the theater world that this ruling determines the rights of producers and auohors to protect their plays against the use of the scenes.

Miss Coghlan was dug out of the wreck and hurried in a hansom cab to the theater, where she fainted, but recovered in time to go on with her performance.

The Lamb's final gambol of the season took place Sunday before last, and, as usual, Augustus Thomas was the hero of the occasion. Thomas contributed a new act dealing with the subject of color. It depicted the woes of a theatrical company due to the failure of a new play. The stage director of another house with odd color theories holds that the failure was due to the inharmonious color schemes of the interior decorations, and to prove his theories he has the stage reset and in what he deems appropriate hues. Under the spell of these the tragic scenes that had been unconvincing became real, and the unfunny comedy scene under a newer lighting turned out to be very funny. It was an oddly treated idea, and upon the impressionable Lambs made the biggest sort of a hit. The sketch was called "The Harvest Moon," and when Mr. Thomas elaborates the idea we will likely see a new play dealing with the subject.

That the season is drawing to a close in the East is shown by the announcement of several runs that are to end within the succeeding fortnight. Among these is the Strauss operetta, "The Waltz Dream," that has been a decided hit at the Broadway theater all season. Several others will follow, and in less than a month the season will be over except in the houses given over to summer runs and upon the festive roof gardens.

Speaking of roof garden shows reminds me that Julian Mitchell is now in Europe, taking a look over the Berlin, Paris, London and Vienna field, picking up new ideas that will be incorporated into the next revue, "The Follies of 1908," that Ziegfeld will put on for the summer in New York.

Sir John Hare says that he does not think Dickens' works should be dramatized and used on the stage. He says: "Dickens was so great a creator that no actor can delineate his characters, and no dramatic author can tinker with them." That is a matter of opinion. Dickens was no greater character creator than Shakespeare. Dickens held a different opinion from Hare, for he dramatized several of his works, and not only that, but he acted in them himself. Friends used to think Dickens was a wonderful comedian. He also acted in plays written by Wilkie Collins and Bulwer Lytton.

Arnold Wolff says that Thomas Hardy has completed his Napoleonic drama, "The Dynasts," upon which he has been engaged for years. It is in three parts, and contains nineteen acts and 130 scenes, while the number of characters runs into the hundreds. The play is recommended to Charles Frohman as one means of securing a run at the Garrick theater, for surely two weeks must be required to play it.

There was a report out last week that William Furst, long the orchestra leader at the Empire theater under Charles Frohman's direction, and who composed the incidental music for many of the Frohman dramatic offerings, is to return to that fold. Mr. Furst left Frohman to join the Belasco forces, but has not been active this season. He is reported to have had a financial interest in Henrietta Crosman's tour in "The Christian Pilgrim." Alfred Hayman, for the Frohman offices, denied that Mr. Furst was to return to the Empire.

"The Squaw Man," or "The White Man," as it is known in London, turned its 100 performances there recently and was still going strong at the time. As an evidence of the popularity of the piece it is said that not less than three burlesques of the piece are being played in different music halls. This is the surest test o fthe impression the play has made. Edwin Milton Royle, the American author of the play, is now in England, rehearsing two companies that are preparing for provincial tours.

The memory of Edwin Booth was very much in public prints last week, owing to recent developments connected with the one great tragedian. It seems that there is a quiet movement on among the promnent members of the Players' club to rear a memorial statue of Booth in Grammercy park, New York, into which faces the famous Players' club bought and founded by Booth, and which he left to his successors upon the American stage. At the same time Charles Leonard Fletcher, the vaudeville actor, during his engagement in Boston recently, said he paid a visit to the grave of Edwin Booth in Mount Auburn cemetery, near Boston, and found that it was in a neglected condition and that a bust of Booth was in danger of toppling from its base, owing to the condition of the ground around his grave. When this matter was called to the attention of the Players' club, they said that it was a matter for the family and that Mrs. Grosman, daughter of Mr. Booth, had been notified. The players are preparing to erect a suitable statue to Booth's memory, and if permitted by the association in control of the property they will establish it in Grammercy park. The statue will be made by Frederick MacMonnies, the eminent American sculptor. It will be life size or larger, upon a pedestal of bronze.

Tom Powers, the popular elephant trainer, now at the New York Hippodrome, tells the following on himself as an illustration of how easy a so-called wise New Yorker and showman can be bunceed.

Powers has recently returned from the beautiful new Hippodrome at Cleveland, where he and his elephants were the feature of the circus bill for some months, so long in fact that the elephant man began to feel as if Cleveland was his home, he was therefore very loaesome as he crossed the ferry to Manhattan on the rainy Sunday of his return.

Presently as he stood gazing disconsolately at the murky waters of the Hudson, a fellow standing near him began to whistle. Powers listened a moment and felt better. The two songs the chap was whistling were "I'd Rather be a Farmer than a Soldier," and "Daisies," the two song hits of "The Cloudburst," which was the attraction at Cleveland Hippodrome during Powers' engagement. Presently the fellow started them over again, and the elephant man felt so kindly toward him that he went over and scraped an acquaintance on the strength of the songs.

The whistler proved to be an ex-Cleveland man (so he said) and he also didn't object to having a drink with Powers and he also knew a quiet little place on the river front where they could get it, in spite of it being Sunday. Powers went with him, took the drink and woke up in Central Park. That was the last he saw of the fellow or of his wallet either, and now he sadly declares that even the wise ones can be "stung."

"There s a capital song introduced in the second act of "A Yankee Tourist," entitled "Irish Memories." Several old Celtic melodies form the refrain, while the body of it is written in a clever imitation of Irish music. The rendition of it by the baritone, Harry Lane, and the fine male chorus of the company so pleased an Irish club in Montreal recently that the members presented each of the singers with an artistic pot of genuine Irish Bolleck ware, filled with growing shamrocks.

RISE OF HENRY B. HARRIS

Career That Reads Like a Romance---Becomes One of Greatest Theatrical Managers in Six Years, Starting With Little Capital.

New York, April 25.—The career of Henry B. Harris in the theatrical world reads more like a romance than a true story. It is strange as any fiction that pen has ever produced. It is almost impossible of belief that a young man, in six short years, as a producing manager, with practically no capital at the start, could have become one of the great leaders in theatrical affairs of America.

His career has not been one that shot upward like a star, but was a steady growth until today, when, instead of controlling one company as at the beginning, he now controls fourteen companies, employing more than 400 people in the casts, and owning two theaters in New York valued at over $1,000,000. Only recently a deal has been put through whereby Mr. Harris has become sole owner of the Hudson theater, one of the prettiest playhouses in America, and with very few in Europe that can equal it.

In the fall of 1884 William Harris and Isaac B. Rich, two well-known theatrical managers proposed offering a play called "The Widow Jones," with May Irwin in the title role. The rehearsals of the piece did not seem to indicate to Mr. Rich that the play would prove a big success and he let it be known indirectly that he might be induced to part with his interest for a nominal sum. One morning a little later a young man walked into his office and said:

"Mr. Rich, I understand you are willing to dispose of your interest in the May Irwin production?"

"Why, yes," responded Rich; "but what do you know about it?"

"I have seen the rehearsals, sir, and I am greatly interested."

"You are not thinking of buying it, are you?"

"That is my mission here," answered the young man quietly. "What will you take for your interest?"

Rather amused with this high-sounding tone of a young man whom Rich knew as one of his representatives working for $25 a week, the magnate said:

"Well, young man, it will cost you just $2,500 to get into this thing. Now, where can you raise that amount in cash?"

"Will you hold that offer open for an hour?" asked the would-be purchaser, and Rich, still regarding the matter in the light of a joke, said he would.

In a little less than that time Mr. Rich was astounded to have the young man re-enter his office and plank down twenty-five $100 bills on his desk.

This young man was Henry B. Harris, son of Mr. Rich's partner, William Harris, and this transaction, which he accomplished by the economy and thrift of a number of years, was the beginning of a career which, after many vicissitudes, has placed him today in the foremost rank of American producing managers.

Henry B. Harris is known throughout the country wherever play-goers patronize theaters as the producer and owner of some of the greatest stage successes of recent years, including "Strongheart," "The Lion and the Mouse," "The Chorus Lady," "Classmates," etc. He is also the managing director of some of the most important American stars, included in which list are Robert Edeson, Rose Stahl, Ralph Stuart, Edgar Selwyn, Thomas W. Ross, Florence Roberts, and in conjunction with Maurice Campbell, Henrietta Crosman.

Henry B. Harris is a distinct type, and a study of the man reveals the qualities which have been efficient and all powerful in bringing about his success. He is a quiet, unaffected, unassuming personage, who says little and thinks a lot. One never hears that Henry B. Harris has gone before the footlights and scathingly arraigned the critics who abused his plays; one never hears that he has accused his competitors of stealing his subjects or stage business; seldom, if ever, does he appear in the public prints as the exponent of some new stage doctrine, but every so often a big dramatic offering is made, and over the star's name or the play title appear the words "Henry B. Harris presents," to the ordinary play-goer unilluminative perhaps, but signifying a great deal to those who keep up on things theatrical. It is symbolical of the man. He is a thinker, not a speech-maker; he is a practicalist, not an idealist.

Born in St. Louis in 1866, Mr. Harris is comparatively a young man, and to use a trite expression, he was born into the business, his father, William Harris, being at that time a partner with William Carroll, both of whom were doing a song and dance act in Dc Barr's opera house, now known as the Grand opera house, in St. Louis. There is a peculiar something in the theatrical profession which causes a family that once embarks in the "business" to never leave it, and once bonded to the world behind the footlights, the family rarely leaves it, but rather hands it down from generation to generation. This was true of young Harris, and those who attended the vaudeville entertainments in St. Louis some thirty-five years ago would scarcely have recognized in the slender lad who was peddling song books in the gallery the man who was to prove one of the dominant powers in the theatrical world of the twentieth century. This was his beginning, story bookish though it seems. Mr. Harris, in his rare moments of reminiscence, tells of his first week's venture as song book seller of the old Harris-Carroll melodies at the Theater Comique in St. Louis when a boy of 7. His profits on each book was 1 cent, and at the end of the first week his statement showed a balance on the profit side of $3.56, accomplished by dint of srambling and yelling the merits of his wares in the rough gallery crowd in the variety house. After some months of this frenzied finance he transferred his activities to the Pope theater, where he graduated from vender of song books to the more dignified position of custodian of the opera house glass stand. Working at night and attending school in the day time, he put in the first months of his business lift but the St. Louis venture was soon broken up by the removal of his family to Boston. Here he began again as a seller of song books in the Howard Athenaeum in that city, and in the years that followed, young Harris filled every position in the theater, exclusive of manager, i. e., seller of song books, usher, coat room boy, property man, scene shifter, stage carpenter, stage manager, etc.

Call of the Footlights.

About this time, and still under the age of 17, Mr. Harris was made an offer of a partnership in a cigar manufacturing concern, an offer which proved so tempting that he was induced to leave theatrical life to enter that of a commercial career. Faithful to this, as he had been to his former profession, he "stuck it out," as hehimself put it, for almost nine years, during which time, in his hours away from business, he studied the stage in all its details, and educated himself so that he might stand on equal footing with all those men whose good fortune it is to have a high school and college education. The stage, however, had been inbred in him. The call of the footlight world proved too strong as compared with commercial life, and he returned again to the profession as treasurer of the Columbia theater of Boston, at a salary of $25 a week. After a three years' service at this playhouse, which was under the management of Charles Frohman and Rich & Harris, he became business manager of the theater, his salary being raised to $50, and during part of this time had an interest in the Howard Athenaeum Star Specialty company with Charles J. Rich, son of the veteran manager.

Filled with a wonderful progressiveness, which has been a dominant factor in the meteoric career of this manager, Mr. Harris, finding that he had reached the limit of his service with this theater, went into the theatrical business on his own account, his first venture being his interest in the May Irwin company, a venture that proved a huge success and which netted him a profit on the first year of $13,000.

This money he invested in various theatrical propositions, which, although seeming good, proved just the reverse, and at the end of seven years he found himself without funds and obliged to begin again at the bottom of the ladder. He acceded to a proposition as business manager with several of the Frohman and Rich & Harris enterprises, and while in their employ acted as manager for Lilly Langtry, Peter F. Daily in "The Good Mr. Best," "The Country Sport," "The White Heather," and several other attractions.

Young Harris has always been a stickler on economy in all things, and being a stanch believer in the Shakesperean version of "opportunity," he was always on the alert for business chances and generally in readiness to grasp them, so that when Amelia Bingham decided to produce "The Climbers," she suggested the proposition to Mr. Harris, offering him a salary as manager, together with an interest in the profits, and he was to a great extent instrumental in the successful launching of this play. The money he made from this and other propositions in which he was interested at the time again put him on his feet financially.

Robert Edeson was Miss Bingham's leading man, and as he had been previously leading man for Maude Adams in her famous success, "The Little Minister," and having a splendid following, Mr. Harris conceived the plan of presenting him as a star. He opened negotiations with Augustus Thomas and secured the dramatic rights to Richard Harding Davis' "Soldiers of Fortune," the success of which is now stage history, and which was the means of embarking Mr. Harris on a new journey toward success.

Building of Hudson Theater.

One of the men who had followed Mr. Harris' career with close interest, and who had implicit confidence in his final success, was George G. Heye, an extensive real estate owner, who showed his faith in the young manager by the building of the Hudson theater, in New York, into which, as co-lessee with himself, he took Mr. Harris, making him manager. While this house was constructed by the Ranold H. McDonald Construction company, from the first stone laid to the final decoration it was under the personal supervision of Mr. Harris. The theater was opened in 1903 with Ethel Barrymore in "Cousin Kate." Later the George G. Heye interest as co-lessee was acquired by Mr. Harris and he became its sole director.

Perhaps the most memorable moment in this manager's career was the morning on which Charles Klein, after peddling his play, "The Lion and the Mouse," from office to office until he had been turned down by every manager on Broadway, brought it to Mr. Harris, as a last resort. It did not take this farsighted business man long to see the merits of the piece. He accepted it, and in October, 1905, produced it, and this play, which is now being presented by four companies, is generally conceded to be the greatest money maker of its time.

From 1905 on Mr. Harris advanced by wonderful strides, and in the time that intervened between January of that year and February of this he put under his management six important stars and produced eleven new plays, having nowseven stars and fourteen productions on tour.

When it seemed impossible to retain Rose Stahl in New York more than a few weeks when she first appeared in "The Chorus Lady," for lack of a theater, which really meant a lack of confidence in the lasting qualities of the play by theater directors, Mr. Harris said: "I believe so implicitly in this play that I will keep my star in New York for a year, if I have to play her in a hall," and he did, not by playing her in a hall, however, but by buying the Hackett theater in West Forty-second street, for about $400,000, and the profit so far on this attraction alone is said to be approximately half of that amount.

The final passing of the title of the Hudson theater property on Wednesday, March 25, which made this manager its sole owner, at a price said to be in the neighborhood of $700,000, has placed him in the van of theater magnates, being now the owner of over a million dollars' worth of theater property in New York city, a wonderful result for six short years as a producing manager.

Mr. Harris is a great believer in the American play, the American playwright and the American player, and it was through this faith in Americanism that he has acquired his present wealth. The latest successful production of this manager is Thomas W. Ross in "The Traveling Salesman," a new comedy by James Forbes, author of "The Chorus Lady," which is said to be one of the genuine successes of the present season.

Mr. Harris has always been active in any movement for the benefit and uplifting of the stage and its people. He is treasurer of the Actors' Fund of America, organized for the benefit of actors incapacitated for work. He is vice president of the Association of Theater Managers of Greater New York, and is also a director in the National Association of Theatrical Producing Managers, an association which was influential in bringing about recent legislation by congress tending toward the passing of a copyright law to protect copyrights on plays, songs, etc. Mr. Harris is still a young and very energetic man, standing in the fore rank of theatrical producing managers, and one whose progress is being noted by not only those who are interested in theatricals, but by the world in general.

BOWLERS IN CLOSE RACE

Bankers Lead With Fitwells But One Game Behind.

Big Duluths Roll Well in Match With Oak Halls.

The First National bank team still holds the lead in the Duluth City Bowling league, with the Fitwells hanging onto their coat tails, one game behind. The end of the race is approaching and the bowlers are all worked up over the close contest. The Fitwells and Bankers have alternated in first place all during the season and they will come up to the wire in whirlwind fashion. The Oak Halls and Columbias are running together, four games behind the leaders, with the Big Duluths two games farther back and the Centrals in the hole.

The Big Duluths and Fitwells are tied for the highest team average with 914, with the Bankers four points behind. Sam Olsen holds the high average of 195, with McLean second with 189. The standings of the teams and the averages follow:

white shirt bosom, and has proudly written to his friends recounting his achievements.

Frank Gotch will get his chance. A real live lord has joined with A. G. Vanderbilt in offering a purse of $10,000 for a return match between Gotch and Hackenschmidt in England, and Frankie will probably take it up. He will go on at the National Sporting club, burnish Hack's yellow streak before the gaze of faultlessly clad Britishers, take down the money and finish it up by speaking at dinners and shaking the hands of nobles in good American fashion. Tommy certainly will not stay in England to see his place taken by another American champion in a different branch of sport, so when Gotch takes to the big pond on his journey to Lunnun town, we may expect to see one T. Burns leaning against the rail of a ferry steaming in the opposite direction.

Score one for William H. McNeil, Fargo, N. D. Artie O'Dea is the pride of Duluth fans, when it comes to baseball managerial ability. But we must give it to McNeil, hide, hair and bones. He has slipped one over on the genial Artie and one O'Dea must be pretty sore in spots. O'Dea kept the wires hot for some weeks between Duluth and South Bend seeking the release of Frank Summers. So sure was he that his wining ways would get to the management of the Central league team that he took the Duluth boy on his training trip and has been feeding him on Iowa grub for two weeks. Now comes the announcement that Summers has been sold to Fargo and McNeil, Price, Catmitsch, et al, are laughing mirthfully in their several left sleeves. Summers is a desirable man in this league. O'Dea knew it and so did McNeil. Nobody gave McNeil credit for craftiness superior to the duke. A man, who can pull off a deal like that, should produce some sort of a ball team.

"Wht's in a name?" Looking at it from the standpoint of the pugilist, there must be something. Time was when the sons of the Emerald Isle were the big booms in the fighting world. Unless a man was a dyed-in-the-wool Hibernian, there was no chance for him to sport championship titles and diamonds as a side issue. When the Irish were the champs, the men behind the bar usually sported the diamonds, instead of the pugilist as in the present day.

There must be something in the Irish names. Tommy Burns discarded his picturesque handle, Noah Brusso, to hook onto "Tommy Burns." Hugo Kelley claims Florence, Italy, as his birthplace. Jim Flynn is the convenient title of one Andrew Chiariglion, likewise an Italian. Scores of lesser lights in the pugilistic world take Hibernian names for no apparent reason, except that fighting and the Irish work in together.

Minneapolis sporting writers take pleasure in shooting it into St. Paul over the grand showing of the Saintly City team at the jump off in the American association. St. Paul cannot reply, but the Flour City scribes may be getting their foot in it by playing the glass house game. Once upon a time—in the year 1907, to be exact—a team of $10,000 beauties, picked to win the American association pennant in a canter, fell by the wayside and became subjects for flowers and copious floods of tears. They wore "Minneapolis" on their shirt fronts. Incidentally, the same sort of an aggregation, has been doing a staggering act since the American association season opened April 15.

SPEED MARVELS SIGN TO FIGHT

Jack O'Brien Will Meet Jack Blacklum in the Ring.

Philadelphia, April 25.—After several months of dickering, Harry Edwards of the National Athletic club, has signed Jack O'Brien and Jack Blackburn, the Indianapolis colored lightweight, to box at his club on Wednesday evening, May 6. This match has been talked over for some time, but the principals could not get together on the terms, and matters were at a standstill until Harry Edwards got them together yesterday and put it up to them to sign or otherwise.

There was not much trouble when he had the two alone, and after some discussion over the terms, O'Brien decided to accept the liberal offer made by the club. Then Blackburn's manager was won over, and he agreed to sign articles of agreement.

It is understood that Blackburn has agreed to allow O'Brien to enter the ring at any weight agreeable to him.

GANS PUTS UP NO BARS

Champion Says He Will Meet Anybody at His Weight.

San Francisco, April 25.—Joe Gans, the lightweight champion, showing no signs of the wear and tear of seventeen years of activity in the prize ring, arrived last night from the east. Joe was perplexed by the involved situation among the promoters here and his first question when he met Ben Selig, his representative, was:

"Am I going to fight, and who am I going to fight?"

It may interest Unholz, who is to meet Gans here in May, and other aspiring lightweights who want to meet him, to learn that he is looking especially youthful and is far from being the broken down athlete that some allege him to be. Gans placed no limitations last night on the distance he was willing to fight. He said:

"I am sorry my proposed match with Battling Nelson fell through, as I am as anxious for a return match as he is. I will box him any distance. Whether it is 45 or 145 makes no difference to me. All I ask is that I am properly paid for my efforts. I am on the coast to stay until all the men who aspire to my title shall have had a chance to take it away from me. As long as there is an opponent in sight I will be on the job. I have no fear of old age for some time to come.

"As to McFarland, I will be pleased to meet him whenever he is ready and he can name the conditions of the match. I appreciate that he is a clever boy, but I am willing to take my chances with him at any time.

"I will settle down to training tomorrow in my old quarters at Billy Shannon's. I will have plenty of company on the road and in the gymnasium with Tommy Sullivan, who is to meet Attell, and Jack Sullivan, who fights Stanley Ketchel. I will be trained by Kid North, the horseman, and Willie Keefe."

Gans praised Jack Blackburn, who he says, can make about 135 pounds, and Sam Langford, who ranks with the light heavyweights. Gans believes the latter can beat Tommy Burns or any of the men in the heavyweight division. He thinks a fight between him and Jim Flynn would be a whirlwind affair.

Have you as many boarders as you would like? The Herald can get you more.

STAYS WITH CHAMPION

Marshfield Wonder Stalls Off Gotch for Thirty Minutes.

Dispute Over the Time and Men Are Matched Again.

Thirty minutes of whirlwind wrestling, one of the largest crowds the Metropolitan opera house has ever contained, and a mix-up over the time, marked the handicap match last night between Frank Gotch, champion heavyweight catch-as-catch-can wrestler of the world, and Fred Beell, champion light-heavyweight wrestler of America. Gotch failed to throw Beell in the time allotted to him, forfeited $100 and, on account of the dispute over the time, the men were matched to go on again tonight under the same conditions.

The end of the bout brought an exciting situation. Gotch had Beell down on the mat, vainly attempting to pin his shoulders, while the little fellow squirmed and strained to prevent the fall. A howling, frenzied mob crowded the theater. Every available inch of space from the parquet to the roof was occupied and almost 100 people were on the stage. It seemed everybody yelled at his loudest and the din was deafening, as the timekeeper gave the final word and Gotch's $100 passed over to the smaller man.

All during the match, Gotch's manager had carried on a dispute with the timekeeper. He claimed that a jump was made from 20 minutes to 27 minutes in calling the time, and he wasn't slow in expressing his suspicions. When the crowd called for speeches, Gotch and Beell both had their little say. The big fellow said he didn't know that he could throw Beell in a week, but he didn't have the full time agreed upon. Beell said he thought they wrestled thirty minutes, but he was willing to do it all over again right away or at any other time. The result was a rematch for tonight.

The bout itself was a good exhibition. It was the greatest big wrestler in the world against the greatest little wrestler in the world, and the crowd was given a run for its money. For fifteen minutes after the bout opened, Gotch couldn't even take hold of Beell. The little fellow, with cat-like agility, eluded every attempt of Gotch to put him to the mat. The sparring was fine, with good foot-work and dodging.

When they did go to the mat finally, Beell was all to the good. He kept his feet well protected and Gotch couldn't get a toe-hold. Head-holds didn't do any good and several times, after he had been thrown to the mat, Beell, by slippery work, gained his feet again while the crowd yelled approval. At times, he took the offensive and gave Gotch some trouble. The last five minutes, Gotch roughed it, but Beell stuck to his defensive tactics and they took the money.

The crowd was with Beell almost to the man. He was the under-dog and they wanted to see him win. Every move of Gotch in the way of rough work was greeted by hisses and cries of "Fair Play" and every good move by Beell brought cheers.

OPENING IS POSTPONED

First Games in Interscholastic League Are Called Off.

On account of the wet grounds, the Interscholastic Baseball league will not open its season today as scheduled. All games booked for this afternoon are postponed and the boys will not get busy until next week.

Lawrence Duby and R. Whiting each scored eighteen points in the indoor interscholastic meet held at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. last night, making a tie for first place. J. McDonnell scored fourteen points,

LAWRENCE DUBY,
President of the Interscholastic Baseball League.

GLEANS in the SPORTING FOG.

The wise manager or owner of a baseball team overlooks errors. He knows that to err is human and all that sort of thing, and realizes that his men cannot be infallible. If a player boots a ball, makes a mush-fingered booble or heaves a ball forty feet wide and far into the bleachers, the manager who knows his business will say, "Too bad, old boy, but we'll get those next time."

Not so with the player whose clockwork gets to whirling loose. Errors are excusable, but the man who repeatedly pulls off bone-head stuff, forgets the first rudiments of the game, and is prompted to false moves by a poor noodle, has no place in baseball.

The best of them make errors. Charlie Comiskey will never call a man for an out and out error. But let the man who makes four errors in a day and gets away with it, pull off the most insignificant error of judgment, and he will hear from the Old Roman. Many a good ball player has been spoiled by callings for errors. If he were left to himself he would shake off his nervousness and cut down the figures in the error column, providing he knew the game. But no man with a large cheese stuck on his shoulders can make it a go in baseball. It is a game for keen wits and ready action, and the dumb play has no place in it.

THIRTY PIONEER SPORTSMEN OF DULUTH COMPOSE THE NEWLY ORGANIZED NORTH STAR GUN CLUB

Top row, reading from left to right—O. G. Larson, William Pfitzenmaier, Frank Narey, William Wilson, John McKenzie, E. C. Chapman, John McClennan, William S. Kammski, E. G. Sturm, John Hays, George Tischer, J. Kerr. Second row—John Murphy, Albert Salter, Josh Henry, E. G. Simpson, William Morin, George W. Morin, B. C. Sampson. Third row—William J. Pierce, William A. McEachen. Members of club not shown in picture—Theo. G. Frerker, Joe Cummings, Oliver Quick, William Powers, H. P. Curren, C. H. Neff, George Aldridge, William Kehtel, Albert Arnson.

The North Star Gun club was recently organized with a membership of thirty residents of Duluth, all interested in the sport and anxious to advance it. The membership is limited to thirty, and they have banded together that they may more effectively work for true sport as an organization, as they have for years individually. They have all been residents of Duluth from fifteen to forty years, and are well-known among sportsmen.

Grounds have been secured near McGregor and a comfortable clubhouse will be erected. It will be an outing place for members of the club and their families, and they expect to draw considerable pleasure from their organization during the summer months.

All four teams of the Northern league are now working out preparatory to the opening of the season. The Duluth White Sox are at Aurora, Ill.; the Winnipeg Maroons are at Quincy, Ill.; "Duke" Artie O'Dea's scions of nobility are working out at Burlington, Iowa, and W. H. McNeil has gathered his men in Fargo. After a series of exhibition games, much chopping of heads and plugging of holes, the teams will be ready for the glad cry of the umpire on May 14, when the White Sox will open with the Maroons at Winnipeg, and Fargo and Brandon will clash at Brandon.

Manager W. E. Morrow of the Duluth team has a wealth of promising material at Rockford and by the time he reaches Winnipeg, should have a pretty fine team picked out to go to the scratch in the race for the pennant. With the veterans from last year's team, he has a crowd of youngsters, who can all play ball and from whom he should be able to select men to fill the vacant places.

Morrow will play in the outfield besides managing the team. He has a lot of surplus beef at present, but will lose a good part of it in the exhibition games and will be pretty active in the garden. As a player, he is valuable as a hitter. His knowledge of baseball makes him valuable as a manager.

Morrow has been playing ball for a good many years. He has been with leagues al over the country, getting into Class A in the Pacific Coast and Western leagues and the American association. He is a catcher, but his arm isn't as good as it was once and he prefers to leave the pad and mask to others. He will act as a substitute backstop, however, and Duluth fans will probably see him in action behind the bat.

Rorabaugh is a hitter. He stands up to the plate, takes a good healthy swing and lands often. He is a tall fellow, well built for an outfielder and a catcher, and can make it a go in either capacity. He is one of the most promising of the new men and isn't very likely to be turned loose.

Will Brandt is green timber and may not make it a go in Class C this year. He is coming, though. His arm is fine and he uses his head nicely, but he lacks experience and will need much drilling before he shows up at his best.

Arthur Pagels is a ball player all the way through. He was played in the Iowa state and other minor organizations and cannot be considered a youngster. His fielding is finished and he bats well. Ed Allwood is a queer little rat, who may freeze to the third base job. He is built on Larry Piper's lines, without the former Maroon's chunkiness, but with all of his speed. He fields cleanly, has a fine whip, bats fairly and is every inch a ball player, though his inches aren't many.

Otto Koepping is a promising infielder, who has a fine record in Northern Illinois semi-professional ranks. He is chain lightning in the field and a young demon at the bat. He threatens to force Leighty out of a job unless the veteran comes up strong this year, or the infield is rearranged to make room for both. Fred Straub is another third baseman, with ability in both fielding and batting. He is not remaining with the squad regularly, but will be called in if needed.

Guy Manley is a clever young boxman, hailing from Shopere, Wis. He is a Beloit college man, with a semi-professional record and a good arm. His pitching in exhibition games was fine and he is a strong candidate for a place on the staff.

Morrow's squad at Aurora is growing right along. Forsythe, secured from Freeport, and "Doc" Voss are doing the catching; Krick, Haney and Kerr will report immediately. and they will work out with the other pitchers, Murray, Manley, Brandt, Couture and Nash. There are strings on another pitcher, who is working out with a Western league team and he may be secured also, giving a wide range, from which to pick the staff.

Ness has reported for first base and efforts are being made to secure Jimmy Hotten, with Hancock and Fargo two years ago, and with Eau Claire last year. Both are good around the first sack, and Morrow will be able to make a good selection. Second base lies between Pagels and Chrest. and shortstop between Leighty and Koepping. Allwood has it all to himself on third for the present, but may lose out to one of the other infielders. In the outfield, Rorabaugh and Morrow have practically cinched their places, with Dan Tucker, Harry Morgy, Monroe and an outfielder from South Bend for the other place.

Duluth fans want an A1-team this year and they are going to get it. A. W. Kuehnow, secretary of the club, is working hard to gather together the right sort of men, and he is determined to at least make a close run for the pennant. He has made a good start already with the men signed, and until the team shatters their hopes, the fans will look forward to supporting a winning aggregation.

The second series of the training trip will be opened tomorrow, when the Sox will meet the Aurora team. Three games will be played and the Sox will very likely show better form after their week of practice. From Aurora, they go to Freeport for games May 1, 2 and 3, and then to Madison for May 4, 5 and 6. May 7, the boys will arrive in Duluth and the fans will have an opportunity to see them in action against a picked team of semi-pros. Virginia will be played at Virginia, May 8, 9 and 10, and Hibbing, at Hibbing, May 11 and 12, after which they go to Winnipeg for the opening game.

GOLFERS ON THE COURSE

Spring Activity Among the Members of Northland Country Club.

Myron W. Lawrence, New Club Professional, to Arrive Soon.

The members of the Northland Country club worked in their first real play in the golf links during the past week. Last week, they were out a few days, but the ground was still frozen and unsulted for play. The warm weather at the beginning of the week, however, was very favorable and many took advantage of it.

Beyond ordinary spring work, little has been done on the grounds this year. Extensive improvements were made last year, a new putting green was put in and a full eighteen-hole course completed, so that there was little to be done this year, beyond clearing the ground after the winter. The care-takers are busy now caring for the grass and in a few weeks the entire course will be in good shape.

Practice matches will be the rule at the club for some weeks yet. The weather is too uncertain to allow the arranging of club matches and little will be done in that way until after the middle of May. Last year, golf made long strides in popularity among the members of the club and there were many additions to the golfers' ranks. The contests arranged for the women of the club were especially popular and the fair ones will be given many opportunities for play again this season.

William Moffatt, for two years the club professional, has resigned his position and gone to Winnipeg. Myron E. Lawrence, who has an excellent reputation in Eastern golfing circles, will arrive in Duluth Monday to take the position of club professional and he will assume his duties immediattely. For two years, Mr. Lawrence has been professional at different summer resorts in the Adirondacks and he has hundreds of recommendations from prominent people in the golf world.

PRETTY GOOD FOR "BUSHERS"

Picturesque Account of a Base Ball Game in Quincy.

Rich, rare and racy is the following account of a ball game in the West between the teams representing Omaha and Quincy:

"The glass-armed toy soldiers of this town were fed to the pigs yesterday by the cadaverous Indian grave robbers from Omaha. The flabby, one-lunged Reubers who represent the Gem City in the reckless dash for the baseball pennant had their shins toasted by the basilisk-eyed cattle drivers from the West. They stood around with gaping eyeballs like a hen on a hot nail and suffered the grizzly yaps of Omaha to run the bases until their necks were long with thirst. Hickey had more errors than 'Coin's Financial School,' and led the rheumatic parade to the morgue.

"The Quincies were full of straw and scrap iron. They couldn't hit a brick wagon with a pickax, and ran the bases like pallbearers at a funeral. If three-base hits were growing on the back of every man's neck they couldn't reach 'em with a feather duster.

"It looked as if the Amalgamated Union of South American Hoodoos was in session for work in the thirty-third degree. The geezers stood about and whistled for help, and were so weak they couldn't lift a glass of beer if it had been all foam. Everything was yellow, rocky and whangbasted, like a stig-tos-sell full of dogglesgammon. The game was whiskered and frost bitten. The Omahogs were bad enough, but the Quincy Brown Sox had their fins sewed up until they couldn't hold a crazy quilt unless it was tied around their necks."

SEMI-PROS IN ACTION

First Game of the Season to be Played in Duluth.

Weather permitting, the baseball season in Duluth will be opened tomorrow with a game at Athletic park between the Kelleys and Fitwells, two of the strongest semi-professional teams in Northern Minnesota. It will be the first game for both teams and the clash will generate a fine spirit of rivalry to go through the season.

The teams have been organized for about two weeks and have been out for practice several times. The managers claim the finest aggregations of semi-professionals and amateurs available in Duluth, and both are out for championship honors in all of Northern Minnesota. The game is in the nature of a practice match, and it is probable several pitchers will be tried out by each team.

The Scott-Graffs will go to Scanlon tomorrow to meet the Scanlon team in the opening game at the lumbering burg. The Scott-Graff lineup has been picked and it is a strong one. Al Swanstrom will do the throwing tomorrow against Scanlon.

• • •

At a meeting held in Company C club rooms in the Armory last night, the Columbia Clothing company baseball team was organized for the season of 1908. The candidates will turn out Sunday for the first practice, and the manager expects to have one of the best semi-professional teams in the city. About twenty candidates will try out, a number of them having played on last year's team. Among the men expected to get out tomorrow for the first workout are Duffy, Burke, Mueller, C. Foster, H. Foster, Ralph Murphy, Harold Brown, Max Clark, Makowski, Ness, Owens, Smith, Burg, Wagner Mason, Carpenter, Baker, Tessier, McCarthy and Jones.

PATRICK HENRY'S HOME.

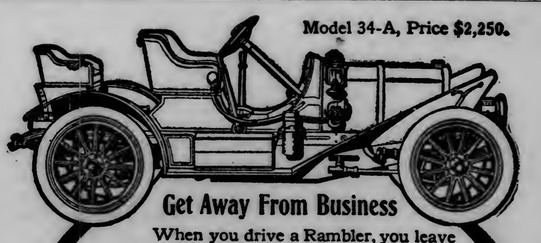

So Infested With Bats, It Isn't Fit to Live In.

Richmond, Va., April 25.—Montville, the colonial home of Patrick Henry, one of the historic places of Virginia, is to be burned to the ground by its owners, the great-grandchildren of the famous Virginian, because the place has become overrun with bats.

Since warm weather began there is no living in or near the place. Bats by thousands hang around the grand parlors and spacious bedrooms of the mansion.

Attempts to exterminate them by poison and with clubs have failed. They are in every room. They hang in strings from the furniture, from the ceiling, from the walls, and they are in such numbers that they form curtains before windows, darkening the house. The house has become uninhabitable.

MUNICIPAL NONPARTISANSHIP.

The bulletins of the Municipal league report an interesting experiment in Grand Rapids, Mich., in separating the city politics from partisanship and in selecting municipal officers for civic and personal reasons instead of for partisan reasons.

The city has the direct primary election, as Duluth has, and its city elections are held on different dates from the state elections, which is also true of Duluth. But partisanship still governs municipal elections, as it governs those of Duluth.

A start was made with the library commission. All candidates were nominated by petition, and were put on the ballot without party designation, which was proper since partisanship could have no possible relationship to a man's qualifications as library commissioner. The five who received the highest vote were declared elected.

A little later the same principle was applied to the board of education. A man became a candidate by having a petition with a hundred signers, and in the first election there were forty-four candidates for nine places. The result was a board that could not have been improved upon, it is said, if the Civic club itself had picked its members.

These plans worked so well that the citizens of Grand Rapids thought it would be well to extend them still further, and to take in all the offices of the city government. Prior to this a new charter had been obtained in which were two clauses providing for an optional referendum on ordinances and franchises and also an advisory initiative. By making use of this advisory initiative a non-partisan election committee was formed of five Democrats, five Republicans and a Prohibitionist. They drafted a charter amendment to provide non-partisan primary elections in place of the regular party primaries.

The provision was that there should be a joint primary election in place of two party primary elections, the names of all candidates for all city offices to be filed by petition and printed upon the ballot without party designation. The two men receiving the highest vote for each office at the primary election were to be placed upon the ballot at the general election, still without party designation.

This provided a complete system of non-partisan city elections, but before it could be put into effect it was necessary to go to the Michigan legislature for permission. The people of Grand Rapids approved it by a vote of 3 to 1, every precinct in the city indorsing it.

Backed by this indorsement, the amendment went to the legislature, but that body, which like most other legislatures was shackled by partisanship, refused to enact it into law. A start has been made, however, and beyond any doubt the legislature will be forced in time to heed the demand for this new system.

It is the only system under which the best results in municipal government can ever be attained. This country has the poorest municipal government in the world, and the reason is that partisanship instead of local considerations and local policies has governed municipal elections.

AN AMERICAN JARNDYCE CASE.

Recently a case which has dragged through the courts of Massachusetts for 122 years was finally closed in Boston. It was time.

The incident is chiefly interesting because of its rarity. Though in some places the courts are overworked and get rather behind with the output of the machine of justice, in general their processes are reasonably speedy in this country, and there is no occasion here for an American Dickens to write an American "Bleak House" to attack the hoary injustices of a court of chancery.

The Boston case, which was in the probate court, involved the estate of one Ellis Gray, a Boston merchant, who died in 1786, and whose estate was in process of administration for fifty years. While the estate was still in probate court in 1838 deposits were made in a bank by order of the court for the benefit of nine creditors. Ever since then the money has been lying in the bank, awaiting claimants. None has appeared. The nine creditors and their heirs and assigns have all vanished. The creditors and their immediate heirs being dead long since, and the remoter heirs having forgotten about the claims, or having never heard of them, the money remained in the bank until the other day, when the probate court ordered that it be turned over to the state. It amounted to $10,356, and since there was no other claimant for it, it was proper that it should be given to the state for the benefit of the people.

While this case will immediately call to mind the famous case of Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce, there is an important difference between the two. It will be remembered that the Dickens case came to a sudden collapse because it was discovered that the costs had entirely eaten up the estate. Thereupon the lawyers packed up their effects and left the court room, while the surviving heirs wandered dejectedly away. In this case it was the heirs, and not the estate, that vanished.

The wonder is that the estate held together so well, and that costs and lawyers' fees did not absorb it instead of leaving so much to go to the state. It is very evidently a great piece of carelessness on the part of the attorneys connected with the case.

The case would not be worth mentioning, aside from the romance involved in the complete disappearance of the claimants, were it not for the fact that it emphasizes the fact that prolonged delay in litigation is not frequent in this country. The public and the courts have long since grown impatient with the interminable delays that lawyers can create if they have a mind to and the court lets them. Nowadays the tendency seems to be to get at justice as quickly and as cheaply as possible—in most cases. There are still lawyers, no doubt, who live to prolong a bit of litigation and permit it to gather costs and yield fees, but they are few, and the courts do not tolerate them.

REGULATION OF CONVENTIONS.

Why should not there be laws regulating the government and management of political state and county conventions, if conventions are still deemed necessary for the nomination of candidates for office and the choosing of delegates to the national conventions? Of course, the ideal system would be the nomination of all state officials and of national delegates by direct vote at the primaries, but until this system has been adopted, would it not be a good plan to pass laws which would prevent at state conventions such high handed methods as were practiced at the recent state convention in New York and were witnessed at the Minnesota state convention at St. Paul in 1904? The throwing out of the regular Hennepin county convention in the latter year was an outrage, as was the recent throwing out of the McCarren delegates from Brooklyn at the New York convention. If proper laws for the government of conventions were enacted, such high handed actions by the political bosses would be made impossible.

A bill was introduced a short time ago in the New York legislature dealing with this important subject. It directs that whenever there is to be a contest notice of it must be filed in advance, and that it must be settled in the courts of the district where it arises. This plan practically does away with the committee on credentials, leaving the courts to settle any disputes which may arise and the delegates coming to the convention with a court order following a contest will be seated without further dispute. The requirement to have it in the home district brings it before a judge who, knowing the contestants, can determine something of their reliability and that of their witnesses.

Discussing this measure, the Utica, N. Y., Press points out that caucuses and conventions are almost as important as elections. The primary gets its name because it is at the beginning of representative government. There the members of a party meet and first pass their opinion on the desirability and the eligibility of candidates. If there could be direct nominations, as so many earnestly urge, this matter would be wholly in the hands of the people and they would have the nominees they really desire. Under the present system it gives the bosses control in both parties. If a boss, however odious, has the county or state committee in hand, he directs the organization of the convention and the naming of the committee on credentials which can seat or throw out such delegates as it chooses, but before that the boss has controlled the making of the temporary roll and supplied himself with a majority in the convention to uphold his nefarious methods. The will of the people is probably more frequently thwarted in political conventions than in any other one place.

Minnesota has, by its direct primary nomination law, deprived the county and ward bosses of all power to name the candidates for city and county offices and for congress, the legislature and the bench, but they are still able to manipulate the state conventions and dictate the nomination of state officers from governor down. If the same law were extended to cover state officers it would be a step further toward securing an honest expression of the will of the people. So far the politicians have succeeded in preventing this reform, and if it cannot be obtained, possibly the legislature might be induced to pass a law governing county and state conventions that would go far toward preventing fraud.

A PERSPECTIVE.

There is much virtue in perspective. The man too close to conditions and events finds it hard to view them clearly and in their entirety, and harder still to judge their bearing upon the past and upon the future. The man sitting upon a height which gives him a clear perspective can tell the man in the thick of the fray many things that are of value, if he sees without prejudice and relates without bias.

There is interest, therefore, and value, in a "study of the American ideal" contained in an editorial in the Mexican Herald, published in the Mexican capital. It tells about the fathers of the nation; how some of them were of aristocratic origin, others of humble origin; how some were visionary and aspiring, and some as practical as beavers; how some were slow in their intellectual processes, and others fiery and impetuous; but how all were powerfully influenced by a great, a noble and an inspiring ideal: the ideal of making a nation where the humblest could find wide-flung the gate of opportunity, and where utter failure need be no man's harsh lot.

This ideal could not be realized in a day. "The Constitution was hardly two days old," says the Mexican writer, "when poverty exhibited its wretchedness and its rags; pompous aristocrats flaunted their laces and equipages in the faces of the mechanic class; New York, always Tory at heart, mourned for King George. It was a time of transformation, and patriots of the old Roman stamp sometimes despaired. But things grew better; the nearer West opened up careers for sturdy folk, and the congestion of population in the port towns diminished. There was, with the progress of invention, a widening of industries and new chances for the working class. The ideal America of the fathers began to appear. The Stars and Stripes were seen on all the waters of the world. The Democratic party for long years guided the destinies of the nation. It had its defects, but no man may say that it was not animated by patriotism. Poor men of brains sat in the senate. There was much "spread-eagleism," but the worm of privilege and plutocracy had not begun to bore at the root of the tree of liberty. Yes, the world went very well then, for Yankee boys and girls."

Now for the picture of the present in the light of the past: "Nobody then dreamed of inventing a tariff so tall as to stifle maritime enterprise; nobody could have thought of fortunes so immense as to tempt their possessors to boast of their own superiority, so that they could say that Divine Providence had made them the custodians of the national wealth. College presidents had not begun to chant the praises of the golden calf, or professors to ask honest labor to refrain from coming between the wind and their nobility. The American ideal was then still healthy and robustly flourishing. It is good to stand here in the twentieth century and look back at it in retrospect. All the imperial poppycock and financial jimjams of our day look poor, pallid and bunkoish in comparison."

In short, the American ideal of liberty was realized for a time, and then crushed down by plutocracy. We are now uplifting its standard once more. Let every young man and young woman enlist beneath that banner.

SELF CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS.

A magazine named "Hypnotic Therapeutics," which adequately explains its purpose in life, tells how an inebriate may cure himself of the liquor habit. It sounds interesting, anyway, and there is no reason why it should not be helpful.

The best way to quit drinking is to quit. Most drinkers can do that if they wish; the majority of them do it quickly enough when their doctor tells them they must or die, and sooner or later that word is given to most habitual hard drinkers. In many cases, where the fatal thirst has become a disease, where it has drawn upon the nerve fibers and sapped the will power until there is little of the original man left, outside help is needed, and there is no better help than a chance to live a wholesome outdoor life in a place where liquor is absolutely banished. The outdoor air and the wholesome exercise and nourishing food will build up the weakened fibers and restore the lost strength of character. Such a cure is provided by the Minnesota law creating a state farm for inebriates, and it is to be hoped that the attempt to establish it will not be defeated by the cities which are resisting the payment of a share of their liquor license fees, from which the funds for its support are to be derived.

But this is getting away from the self-hypnotic cure for the drink habit. The magazine says that the victim of drink who is actuated by a sincere desire to "break the shackles of the despotism and go forth with capacity for the higher joys of life, is urged to think persistently as he is falling asleep in lines like these:"

> Whisky is unnecessary to my physical well being; it is creating structural changes in vital organs; it is destroying my mentality and blunting my moral sensibility. I do not need it, and shall no longer continue to use it either in mere bravado or to hide from my vision conditions that are insufferable. I shall depend absolutely on the units of energy legitimately manufactured out of nutritious food, good air, exercise and sleep. I am done with alcoholic poison and forever. The appetite for it is destroyed in my being, and I no longer admit capacity for temptation. From this hour it shall be impossible for me either to desire or to take a drink for any conceivable reason. I do not want it. I do not need it. I shall not miss it.

It is pitiful to think that there are many men who have become so enslaved to the use of alcohol that such methods are necessary to redeem them, but such is the case. In the beginning they were all casual drinkers who could "take a drink when they felt like it and stop when they wanted to." Only they didn't stop. Next they become habitual drinkers, but with the same fond idea that they could stop whenever they wanted to. Finally they became confirmed inebriates, with strength and manhood and will power gone, chained to a slavery for which they have given up everything else in the world that is worth while.

A BOUNTY ON WASTE.

In an interesting article in the March Atlantic Prof. Taussig of Harvard college brings out a point in connection with reciprocity arrangements that few people consider: namely, that where a tariff duty is lowered or abolished as against one or more countries, while continued as to others, the consumers in this country get no benefit, and the reduction in duty is practically a bounty to the vendors of the commodity affected in the countries from which it is shipped.

Prof. Taussig takes sugar for an example, and shows clearly, in the case of Hawaii, who gets the benefit. He divides our sources of sugar supply into three groups. First come Java, Brazil and the British West Indies, Germany and other European countries, besides several minor nations. All these pay full duty. In the second group are Cuba and the Philippines, both of which pay reduced duties. In the third are Hawaii, Porto Rico, Louisiana and the sugar beet districts of the United States, which pay no duty at all.

When free sugar with Hawaii was started, Prof. Taussig asks, who got the benefit? There were three sets of persons who might conceivably have secured the gain: the American consumer who in the end used the sugar, the American refiner who bought it in the first instance from the Hawaiian planter, and the Hawaiian planter himself. The American consumer certainly did not get it, and does not get it now. The refiners did not get it. The only ones who benefitted were the Hawaiian planters, who were able to sell their sugar in the United States at a price 2 cents higher per pound than they could have got elsewhere, because here the duties keep the price up. The remission of duty has operated virtually as a bounty on Hawaiian sugar.

"This," says Mr. Taussig, "is the normal effect, almost the inevitable effect, of any partial remission of duty." Furthermore, he shows that the practice has led the Hawaiian planters into extravagant and wasteful practices, because they were enabled, by the remission of duty, to raise sugar at a cost that would be prohibitory if they had been compelled to sell their products without favoritism in the world markets. In other words, the American consumers have paid them 2 cents a pound bounty in order to let them raise sugar by wasteful methods.

This tribute, Prof. Taussig says, has in recent times amounted to $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 a year. For this we have nothing of any real value to show, unless it be that we have a stepping stone to the Philippines, another dependency hardly less profitable.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Ralph P. Smith, at the Hotel McKay, has returned from a trip to South America. He has some interesting things to say of the attitude of the South Americans toward the United States. Since the visit of Secretary Root their opinion of Uncle Sam's country has undergone a radical change, according to the observations of Mr. Smith.

Perhaps the most important effect of the visit of the secretary of state was that of opening the eyes of the leading citizens to their own shortcomings. The mind of the average South American is far from practical. The rule and development of the country will show this national trait.

The presentation of some stern and vitally important facts by Secretary Root during his visit to our South American cousins has had the desired effect of opening their eyes to their own possibilities, and, to use an expression of the street, of putting them "wise to themselves."

Mr. Smith says that Mr. Root's speeches set the thought of the big men of that country to running in another way. They are beginning to see their own incapabilities. They are beginning to realize their loose methods of state government, their lax manner of conducting affairs of national import. They are growing away from the revolutionary stage—from the opera bouffe setting of mimic warfare, to the state of a country that is progressing on broad national lines. Perhaps it would be unfair to the South Americans to attribute all the credit to this wonderful change that is sweeping over the country to Secretary Root. But Mr. Smith says that many of the men he talked with, frankly admit that the visit of the secretary of state has had a most helpful effect upon the national spirit of South America.

The shadow of Castro looms like a spectre on the progress of the southern Republics. He is of the old regime. He is an agitator and a manufacturer of comic opera revolutions. He is a tyrannical dictator, a grafter, and a man out of tone with the progress that is rendering the old state of affairs impossible. He is a blight on the progress of his country.

Mr. Smith says the South Americans have turned from the grandiose methods of the Spaniard and are developing a practical aptitude for affairs of state and commercial progress. The working of the Latin mind is undergoing a radical change. The country is developing business men and capable of handling the affairs of state in a way calculated to bring South America out of a state of revolutionary agitation, picturesque sham battles, Latin anarchy and internal disorder to a state of broad national and commercial progress.

Some individual lost his headpiece at the opening of the St. Louis cafes Wednesday night. Ever since he has been attempting to discover his chapeau. Yesterday some practical joker telephoned to him four different times that his hat was being held for him by the clerk. Four times the hat hunter walked through the drizzle and the slushy streets to get his hat. As many times he was disappointed. Upon the fourth unsuccessful trip he let out a dismal, long pent-up, expressive adjective.

Fred Beell, the little Marshfield, Wis., grappler, who is at the Lenox, is getting tired of the mat game. He is seriously thinking of retiring at the end of the present season. He has been wrestling since he was 19 years of age, and during his mat career has met some of the toughest customers who ever manhandled an opponent on the wrestling pad. He has invariably been forced to give weight to opponents, because there are no men of his weight who can compare in wrestling ability with the Badger wonder. Like Gotch, he has a farm, and when the hot weather ushers in the exit of the grappling game for the present season one of the greatest stars of the game may decide to fold up his maroon trunks and seek the simple life.

THE WEATHER.

The rain has fallen quite steadily for two days and everyone rejoices over the changed conditions succeeding the abnormally dry spring season. The showers are expected to continue tonight and the wind shift to the northwest, resulting in clearing weather on Sunday. Now watch things grow after the rain, with the stimulating effect of sunshine. Up to 8 o'clock this morning the rainfall in Duluth totaled 1.18 inches. The wind had died away to three miles an hour this morning. The highest temperature here yesterday was 43 degs. and the lowest last night was 37 degs.

A year ago today it was cool and clear. The sun rose this morning at 5:02 and sets tonight at 7:10, making 14 hours and 4 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The severe storm central Friday morning over Eastern Kansas has advanced to Minnesota and Wisconsin, where the barometer this morning is extremely low. As a result, light to heavy rains have fallen throughout the Northwest, lake region, Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio valleys and Southwestern states during the past twenty-four hours. The barometer is rising in the Middle West and Far Northwest with highest pressures over Oregon, and is attended by cooler temperatures quite generally throughout the Northwest. The easterly movement of the storm now overlying Minnesota will be attended tonight by a little more rain, with winds shifting to strong northwesterly, and followed Sunday by clearing weather."

DOMESTIC PLEASANTRIES.

Philadelphia Press: Miss Cunning—Why don't you propose to her by telephone, then?

Mr. Hoamley (timid) — Maybe she wouldn't know who I was.

Miss Cunning—Exactly; that might help your chance.

Houston Post: "Papa, is there not such a word as 'obey' in the marriage service?"

"Yes, but it's like the joker in a deck of cards, no one uses it."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Jane—So you have decided not to marry the rich old man?

Ruth—Yes; he's taken up the sour milk fad and is going to live forever.

Washington Star: "Yes," said Miss Passey, "Mr. Fox has called upon me several times lately, but he always brings some other young man with him."

"I suppose," remarked Miss Spietz, "he realizes that he can't be too careful in leap year."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Moral Up-Grade.

At the restaurant the other noon conversation turned toward presidential possibilities, a not infrequent topic when men come together these days. What struck me from the beginning to the end of the animated discussion was the emphasis this group of typical business and professional men put upon character on individual candidates. "He is the right stuff, you can trust him in the dark." "Yes, he's clever, but he's a man of excellent character too." "There's no man in public life today more honest and straightforward." "He's in favor with the church people because he is always ready to express his religious convictions on the platform and he lives up to them when he is off the platform."

Thus spoke these men concerning their respective favorites. They seemed to care less about their candidates' views on the traiff or currency or international relations than they did to have them known throughout the country as men with brains enough to discern the right course and courage enough to do the right thing whatever it cost. And it seemed to me, as I listened, that I should not want to be a candidate for president in this year of grace and of moral awakening, if my private life would not bear inspection or if I was at heart, insincere, shifty or self seeking.

There certainly never was a time when character was so much of a polttical asset as it is today. Not that in the past people have preferred to exalt to office rogues instead of honest men. Not that those in high places have not usually been clean and worthy men. But today there is an unprecedented demand for sterling moral qualities. The exposures and investigations of the last few years, the campaigns and crusades for a better social order and a finer public spirit have not been in vain. People have come to see that the troubles that afflict communities are primarily moral disorders, arising not from inequalities in taxation, or defects in the laws—however much of rectification is desirable there—but from the lack of the fundamental virtues on the part of those who have acquired power. The professional politicians are the dullest of all men, in point of moral vision, but it must at last be dawning upon their enlightened intelligence that dodges and tricks are not the best equipment for a man who would obtain office.

In another quarter we find the life of the nation to be on the moral upgrade and that is in many of our colleges. The best judges say that the ethical tone is considerably higher than it was a quarter of a century ago. Witness the successful working of the honor system at a number of leading institutions. Only the other day the son of a prominent public man was suspended for a year because he "cribbed" during an examination. And it was not the faculty who suspended him but a council of his fellow students who were determined that men in their college should do the square thing in recitations and examinations whether or not the eye of the professor was upon them.

Yes, we are on the moral up-grade. We still have a good view to go as a nation and as individuals. All boasting is excluded when almost every edition of the daily paper brings us tidings of corruption and malfeasance. There is still a vast deal of shameful faithlessness to duty to be unearthed by investigating committees or to be brought to light by the slow yet relentless workings of the laws of God. But take heart. The lovers and the doers of the right vastly outnumber the hypocrites and the knaves. The public conscience was never so sensitive to distinctions between evil and good. Some day, if we keep our faces in the right direction, we shall reach the summit.

THE PARSON.

State Governments.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sentinel: In his address delivered at a banquet in Louisville a few nights since, Governor Johnson of Minnesota laid stress upon the danger to the states contained in the recent decision of the supreme court of the United States in which the acts of Minnesota and North Carolina were declared unconstitutional.

There is much force in this criticism uttered by the Northwestern governor. Outside of any consideration of the merits of the laws declared unconstitutional, the fact that the states in their sovereign power had enacted them ought to have made them inviolate. The natural person who removes into a state is subject to its laws. So ought also to be the corporation which does business in a state.

Governor Johnson's plea for the states is a timely one. The people of this country are not yet willing, we believe, to give up the boundaries which encompass their states. They still look on the state governments as the sheet anchor of their liberties. They do not desire that the state governments should become mere provinces or dependencies.

THE MOSQUITOES OF PANAMA

Kinds and Habits of the Mosquitoes With Which the Sanitary Commission of the Isthmus Has to Cope.

In order to determine the species and habits of the mosquitoes of Panama, and thereby to assist in the sanitary war against them as disease carriers, August Busck of the department of agriculture was recently sent on a collecting and investigating trip to the canal zone. The material brought back by him has been studied and identified, an da full report showing ninety separate species known on the isthmus is just published by the Smith sonian institution in its series of "Miscellaneous Collections."

Inasmuch as each species of mosquito beides being physically different in some respects from every other, has habits of its own, the necessity of knowing accurately and completely just what sort of mosquitoes have to be coped with, is apparent. Some kinds breed exclusively in artificial receptacles of water such as tin cans and open vessels, others only in hollow places in trees, some in high vines that overgrow the trees, some limit their breeding to notches of bamboo stalks, and a number of varities are satisfied only with crab holes in the ground. One of the species carries yellow fever, some spread malaria, and others are instrumental in carrying other diseases. On the other hand, a large number of species are entirely harmless, and seceral do not bite human beings at all.

Thus, aside from the pure contributions to knowledge resulting from the trip, this exploration has rendered possible more economic and efficient methods for exterminating the disease carriers.

Mr. Busck spent three months on the isthmus during the breeding time, covering the end of the dry season and the early part of the rainy season, and secured larvae of eighty-three species, of which thirty species were new to science. With seven additional species already known, this constitutes the largest number recorded from any one locality on earth. Most of the matrial gathered has been deposited in the United States national museum.

Mosquitoes do not fly very far from the place where they are born. They keep close to their food supply. Those that affect the inhabitants of a town or camp normally do not come from a distance greater than 200 yards. It is this fact that renders the sanitary work of the canal commission possible.

Sanitary Methods.

The land about every settlement is cleared by the removal of all brush, undergrowth and grass; only shade and fruit trees are left, and these are thinned out to admit sunlight and free ventilation. When practicable swamps and lowlands are filled in with somo of the immense supply of material taken from the great Culebra cut. Then the whole area is drained so that the surface water will run off. Ditches and slow-flowing streams are kept clear of mosquitoes by drippings of oil or of copper sulphate. Swamps and pools are oiled at least once a week. Water barrels, buckets and pails must be screened or oiled and all tin cans must be buried. Even the old cast-off machines, brush-covered relics of French occupation, are drained of their puddles of water. If many insects infest a camp or town, it is fumigated. By carrying out these methods of general extermination exceptionally thorough results have already been obtained.

Still greater efficiency may be secured Mr. Busck believes, by turning to use additional scientific knowledge of the habits of special varities of mosquitoes found on the isthmus. The opportunities opened about the canal for further enhancing man's knowledge of disease-preventing methods are peculiarly favorable, and a grasping of them makes for sanitary welfare not only in Panama, but in all the tropical countries of the earth.

Yellow Fever and Malaria Mosquitoes.

One important feat has already been accomplished. The yellow fever mosquito, the only kind in America spreading this infection, scientifically called stegomyia, is very scarce. It is possible to live for weeks on the canal without seeing a single specimen. This mosquito is a strictly domestic animal, never found away from man. It breeds only in artificial receptacles, such as barrels, water-coolers, bottles, tin cans, etc., in and around human habitations. Knowing this, it is well within the power of the authorities to eliminate absolutely this dangerous insect and render a yellow fever epidemic impossible on account of the total absence of the only agent which spreads it.

The malaria carrying varieties, included under the general name of anopheles, are also subject to strenuous attack. Usually the species of this group deposit larvae along the edges of slow-flowing streams and stagnant pools, but specimens were also secured from the bottom of an old boat, from an abandoned dump car, from holes in trees, and in similar out-of-the-way spots. It has not yet been determined whether all of these are instrumental in carrying malaria, and therefore they may furnish a fertile field for investigation.

Certain general technically called megarhinus, psorophora and lutzia, were found, when, instead of spreading any disease hostile to man, wage war on their weaker cousins and at times even on their brothers and sisters. They are cannibals of their sort. Rather than exterminate mosquitoes of these habits, it might be well to cultivate them and enlist them as allies of the sanitary authorities were it not for the fact that some of them are exceptionally annoying biters of mankind.

Mr. Busck's search was not limited strictly to the canal zone. He made several trips to adjoining places in order to cover the territory as thoroughly as possible. The results of the examination of the material brought back constitute the first contributions to knowledge of the mosquitoes of Panama in any sense complete.

JOHN WARWICK DANIEL OF VIRGINIA

By SAVOYARD.

(Copyright, 1908, by E. W. Newman.)

THIS is about the only Southern leader who had the temerity to openly protest against the nomination of William J. Bryan at Denver and to challenge the Democracy of Mr. Bryan, and tidings on the political Rialto are to the effect that even John W. Daniel has surrendered to what appears to be the inevitable, and is now a captive in the triumphal train of "the perriess one." No other man of our history—ever held his party in such abject slavery as does William J. Bryan hold the party of Jefferson and Jackson, Tilden and Cleveland this good year of 1908. Even the South, that defied and estroyed Van Buren and Douglas, loves to fetch and carry for the man who learned "Democracy" at the feet of Lyman Trumbull, the author of the forever infamous Southern reconstruction legislation of 1865-75.

And this, too, despite the fact that Mr. Bryan is a statesman with a single idea, and that the augmentation of federal power, and a leader without a single victory. When Grover Cleveland last led the Democratic party it gained the most signal victory of its history, except that of 1852. The South was solid. California, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, New Jersey, New York, and Wisconsin were Democratic. Michigan, North Dakota, and Ohio were doubtful. There was a large Democratic majority in the house of representatives, and the senate had a small Democratic majority. There was but a single Republican senator from the entire South—Anthony Higgins of Delaware. There were two Democratic senators from New York, two from New Jersey, one from Ohio, two from Indiana, one from California, one from Kansas, one from North Dakota, and one from South Dakota.

By 1894 the Democratic party deposed Cleveland from the leadership and set up Richard P. Bland, who found in William J. Bryan his favorite and best-trusted lieutenant. With what result? A solid Republican North and a divided Democratic South. From the South of 1908 are five Republican senators, and they will be reinforced by another Republican from Kentucky in the Sixty-first congress. From the North—or what is called the North in our political nomenclature—we have two alleged Democratic senators, both recently recruited from the Republican party. One is Henry M. Teller, a bloody-shirt Republican until 1896, who voted against the confirmation of Melville W. Fuller as chief justice because he did not then believe that any Democrat was fit to sit on the supreme bench. The other is Francis C. Newlands, who is on record to this effect: "I am a Democrat on the silver question, and a Republican on the tariff question." Teller is also "a Republican on the tariff question."

To that complexion has Bryanism brought the Democratic party. And then the knaves have the insufferable affrontery to lay the defeat on Grover Cleveland, and the country is full of fools who drink it all in. Had they followed Cleveland, and disaster had resulted, there would have been some sense in holding Cleveland responsible, but they followed Bryan, and are getting ready to set him up again.

Hark'ee, Democrats, if William J. Bryan is defeated for president by William H. Taft, the Republicans will revise the tariff, and whatever that "revision," the country will accept it for the succeeding dozen years. Then what will the Democratic party do? It will do the only thing it can do—lay down and die, and its epitaph will be, "Died of mental asininity and moral inanition."

Anybody with sense enough to come in out of the rain knows that to elect a Democratic president in 1908, some 1,000,000 voters must be received from the Republican ranks in Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. There is just one way to get those votes, and that to "up with the banner" of tariff reform and make the issue as paramount as it was in 1892. Mr. Bryan could have made that paramount, but he refused, and it is absolutely impossible for anything but his fads of government ownership, the Initiative and referendum, and other worthless chips and whetstones to be paramount—if he be the candidate. If you eat the devil you must drink his broth, no matter what the platform bill of fare contains.

John Warwick Daniel sees the thing that very way, and so do nine of every ten Democratic leaders of the South see it that way. All these folk know that William J. Bryan stands no more chance to be president of the United States than he does to be pope of Rome, and he would make a better pope than he would a president.

Now there is nothing more certain than that the Republican platform is going to promise the negro a curtailment of Southern representation in congress, because the South refuses to be represented in congress by negroes, just as the North does. That would be a kettle of fish set before the South by her own trusted leaders, who were too timid to venture their political lives and attempt to bell the cat. Before Bryan got here last winter, our friends talked mighty brave of the brave things they were going to tell him; but as soon as he arrived in this town all of them shut up like a jacknife and fell in with the other captives in his train. When I contemplate that course of conduct by Southern men, I can only rejoice that Southern leaders were of a different kidney the dark days of 1865-75.

Senator Daniel was a boy, under 20, at school when the war between the states began. He volunteered and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the famous "Stonewall Brigade," that is as glorious in the story of Mars as Caesar's Tenth Legion or Cromwell's "Ironsides" or Napoleon's Old Guard. I have somewhere read that the "Stonewall Brigade" was practically annihilated in one of the bloody battles of Grant's invasion, and that the remnant, of some four or five dozen, who emerged from the jaws of death and mouth of hell were incorporated in another command.

Daniel rose to the rank of major, and was assigned to Jubal A. Early's staff, but on May 6, 1864, he was so desperately wounded as to incapacitate him for further military service. In 1865 he entered the law department of the University of Virginia, and later he was a partner in the legal firm of which his father, an eminent jurist, who had adorned the bench, was the senior member. The senator is the author of the text-books "Daniel on Attachments" and "Daniel on Negotiable Instruments," works that are indispensable to every law library where English jurisprudence maintains, and they are held as authorities of great weight in the courts of highest judicature in Great Britain and in all her colonies, as well as in our own courts, federal and state.

SENATOR JOHN W. DANIEL.

But Virginia had a job for Daniel in the workshop of statecraft, and he was elected to the house of delegates, and, later, chosen a state senator. In 1875 he was a Tilden elector for the state at large. Not long thereafter William Mahone got political power through the "readjuster" movement, a respectable name for repudiation. The issue was very simple. Can a man pay his debts without parting with his money? It was decided in the negative in Kentucky about 1840, in the controversy known as the "old court and new court" question. And the same issue was decided in the negative in the national contest of 1896. By this time it was called 16 to 1. The Greenbackers had projected with the thing for many years prior to 1896.

I do not believe that the political literature of the English-speaking peoples contains anything abler than the debates between the champions of the "old court" and the "new court" in Kentucky three score years and ten ago. It was then argued, and in the final arbitrament it was so held, that the best thing to do with an honest debt is to pay it, and pay it to the utmost farthing, principal and interest.

And as it is possible that some fellow not out of his teens may read this, I shall drop into reminiscence and tell a story that has the virtue of truth. Henry Davis, down in Barron county, Ky., three score years ago, was a renter and a farm laborer. He worked hard, ate his bread in the sweat of his face. He died and was buried, leaving a son, a lad of 10 or 12. He also left a debt, some $50, due Catlette Thompson. There was no legal responsibility on the part of Jim Davis to pay his father's debt; but the boy felt there was a moral obligation to do so. And he toiled from sun to sun, saved and denied himself, and Heaven approved, for at last, when he was not yet 20, he had got together the money and took it to the astonished Thompson, who refused to accept it, but the boy would not be denied, and went back home with the note his father had made, canceled and receipted. Was there not a Sam Davis hanged as a spy in Tennessee during the war on a point of honor something like that?

Well, as long as Jim Davis lived in that community his credit was as good as any other man's. I think he went to Texas, and if he did and is yet living, I make no doubt his credit is good there also. His payment of his father's debt was an investment, an asset worth many fold the amount. He rarely asked for credit when a man grown, but for twenty miles round every dealer wanted him for a customer.

It would be a grand thing if the government of the United States was half as honest as Jim Davis.

Well, Daniel opposed Mahone, ran against his candidate for governor, and was beaten. But Mahonelsm would have died even had Ben Hill not knocked it in the head during the extra session of the senate in 1881. In 1884 Daniel was elected to congress, and became a trusted counselor of such men as Carlisle, Morrison, Mills, the Breckenridges, Wilson, Turner and those other giants, whose advocacy of honest and Constitutional taxation had preserved the life of the Democratic party and made possible the election of a Democratic president in 1884.

But Daniels served only one term in the house of representatives. It was the Forty-ninth congress that saw the defeat of the last of the Morrison bills. At the next election fat was fried out of the privileged classes at Pittsburg and put in the hands of a professional laboring man, one Jarrett, who took it out to Illinois and bought William R. Morrison's seat in congress for old Jehu Baker, who subsequently got to be a Bryan Republican.

March 4, 1887, John W. Daniel succeeded William Mahone as a senator in congress, of which body he has been a distinguished member ever since, and there is small doubt that he will die a senator. One of the most captivating public speakers in the senate, he is careful to prepare himself before he discusses any important measure. His speech on the rate bill last congress was pronounced by many eminent lawyers to be equal to the ablest that was made on that question. That is praise, indeed, when we recall that Bailey, Spooner, Foraker, Lodge and Carmack also discussed the question.

I think it is a pity that Senator Daniel did not take his political life in hand and make a fight against the Bryan autocracy in the Democratic party. I believe the day is nigh when the South will reap a bitter harvest of the seed sown this year of 1908. That Mr. Bryan will be beaten, if nominated, is absolutely certain. That he will carry a state outside the South and Oklahoma is exceedingly doubtful. That he will lose Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia is certain. The chances are he will lose Kentucky, as he did in 1896.

OF UNTOLD VALUE

The Information Contained in This Citizen's Statement is Priceless.

The hale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper to one side impatiently when they read the following, but any sufferer in Duluth, who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here.

Mrs. M. McGillivray of 1228 Superior St., Duluth, Minn., says: "As I told in my former statement I was troubled with my kidneys a good deal for a year or two, and had heavy, dull pains through my loins. My back tired easily, especially if I reclined or sat long in one position. In the morning I felt tired and worn out. The kidney secretions were unnatural, and I was troubled with persistent headaches. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the Duluth Drug Co.'s store, and began to use the preparation. I received wonderful benefit from this remedy. It imparted strength to different organs and banished the backaches and headaches. I am glad to re-endorse such a valuable remedy for backache and kidney trouble."

APPEAL FOR FOUR SHIPS

Senators Make Strong Arguments in Support of President's Plan.

Washington, April 25.—Arguments in favor of the president's program for four battleships consumed most of the session of the senate yesterday. Senator Piles of Washington opened the debate, declaring that the Asiatic situation affecting the Pacific coast was a menace to that section, as war clouds might quickly rise there over some clash between Americans and the Japanese. He wanted a fleet kept in the Pacific.

Mr. Hale laid before the senate a statement of battleships and other features of the American naval program, which, he said, showed that as large a fleet as is now in the Pacific can be kept there, and at the same time there would be ships for a still larger fleet for the Atlantic.

Senator Beveridge concluded the debate for the day with a strong appeal to the senators to vote for four battleships. He was constantly engaged in exchanges of words with other senators. He insisted that peace and not war would be promoted by building up the navy.

During the latter part of the session telegrams were delivered to all senators from a magazine, appealing to them for four battleships.

"If the appropriation be not granted," said the telegram, "we shall urge the president to veto the naval bill."

Early in the day Senator Bankhead of Alabama spoke in favor of national appropriations for good roads.

The senate passed a bill appropriating $100,000 for a survey of an inland water route, from Boston to Wilmington. At 5:50 the senate adjourned.

Minneapolis, April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Subject to ratification by the Yale corporation, Dean Frederick S. Jones of the Engineering College of Minnesota, has been selected the successor of Henry Park Wright, dean of Yale college. It has been known for some time that Dean Jones was being considered by the Yale authorities. Dean Jones was in New Haven recently, but since his return has refused to discuss the matter for publication. Dean Jones has been connected with the University of Minnesota since 1885. He took his preparatory school work at Shattuck military school, Faribault. He graduated from Yale in 1884, spending two years immediately following his appointment to Minnesota in scientific study in Europe. The deanship in Yale college is a position second only in importance to the presidency. The dean, under the president, is head of the academic department at Yale.

Spring encourages much interest in student activities. The usual number of plays and so forth are dated for May and the 1st of June. The date of Friday, May 22, has been decided upon as the time for the presentation of the delightful "Eichberg operetta, "The Doctor of Alcantara." The armory is the only place which will accommodate the crowds attracted to the inimitable comic opera. The remarkable success of "Pinafore" last year, coached and managed by the same people, gives assurance of a capacity house in the big hall this year. The orchestration is expected daily from a Chicago firm, and Elmer Bunce is going to begin orchestra rehearsals as soon as it arrives.

Carlyle Scott's class in musical composition will give a concert in chapel the afternoon of May 15. The numbers are all works of the various members of the class and will include selections for the piano, violin and voice. A creditable feature will be a trio, composed by Frank Biblo, for the piano, violin and cello.

Le Roy Sanford read the class play to the senior class Thursday afternoon. The play was written by the reader and Miriam Clark, Florence Gedley and Winifred Smith.

Trials for the parts will take place next week. There are six prominent parts for the men and five for the girls. Besides the regular play there will be several specialties. The date for the presentation will be June 5.

Through the effort of Dr. Burton, the most imposing figure in the present American dramatic world, Donald Robertson will come to Minnesota May 14, to present Browning's "A Blot on the Scutcheon," and Pailleron's "Triumph of Youth." Robertson stands in the forefront of the movement for an endowed theater in this country. One year ago he organized a company from his dramatic school in Chicago and undertook to present the very best drama, regardless of the box offices and was not only dramatically, but financially successful.

The Women's League has undertaken the business management of the affair and the Lyceum has been engaged for the presentation.

Tuesday, May 5, has been set as the date for the preliminaries in the Forensic contest, for the selecting of the Intercollegiate Debating teams for the year. Twenty aspirants have signified their intention of entering. Only six minutes will be allowed each orator, four for construction and two for rebuttal, instead of the customary eight, on account of the number of contestants.

The Mandolin and Glee club's concert is to be given in chapel on the evening of May 4. A splendid program is being arranged. After the concert the entertainment will continue in a dance at Wilson's hall.

The Women's Dormitory fund was raised $1,250 by Mr. G. H. Warren of Minneapolis. This together with the $5,000 subscription of W. H. Dunwoody, is the fund entire so far raised. The active canvass is being raised by a committee of eight girls. They are calling on every one who has shown the least interest in the work and others able to help the project.

The Japanese operetta "O Hame San" has been postponed until the evening of May 6. The Girls' Glee club has been working up the operetta for several weeks and are now having three practises a week. They were to give it in the afternoon, but the chapel where it is to be put on is not darkened easily. Consequently it was decided to give the play in the evening, so that the full effect of the Japanese decorations may be obtained.

Thursday at 4 p. m., the big constitutional committee of the Minnesota Union met in Dr. Burton's room. Wednesday, copies of the constitution, prepared by the smaller committee, were put in the postoffice box of every representative, so that he might have time to study it carefully before being asked to ratify it.

Chamberlain's Has the Preference.

Mr. Fred. C. Hanrahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Va., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoe Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purposes that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." For sale by all druggists.

Fine Feathers

A bird in the hat is worth eight or ten in the bush. Is it? In a period of fifteen years prior to 1903, bird life in this country was reduced fifty per cent. But now we are giving them more of a chance; refuges have been established where the birds can breed in safety; wardens have been appointed whom the Federal Government pays the princely sum of One Dollar per month, their real wages being paid by organizations.

Read this article, "Harbors for Wild Birds," by René Bache, in THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, and learn how we are being saved from the disgrace of a birdless, song-silenced country.

"Vaiti, the Queen," by Beatrice Grimshaw, tells how Vaiti was stranded on a lonely island, and how it turned out to be not quite so lonely as she thought, and, indeed, not so lonely as she might wish.

SOCIETY

SOCIETY is beginning to look around a house shining from its annual spring cleaning, to look at the calendar and see that Lent is passed, to observe that bridge has been slightly neglected, and is getting out invitation lists in order that a whirl of bridge may occupy the attention of its devotees. The spring seamstress is receiving a little less devoted attention, and the rugs have all been shaken. Society is ready to be entertained.

One of the most important of the week's affairs will be the studio tea, which will be given next Saturday afternoon at the rooms of the Duluth Art club, on the third floor of the old Washington school. The public has been invited to meet the director, C. C. Rosenkranz, and see the beginning of the art work. The members of the board of managers will assist about the rooms and the other assisting hostesses will be Mrs. F. A. Patrick, Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge and Mrs. R. E. Denfeld. The guests will be received from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Mr. Rosenkranz will have his studio in the rooms also, and by Saturday it is expected that some of his pictures will have arrived from the East. Many of his latest works have been sold. A review of some of his most recent exhibits of the Buffalo Society of Artists in the Allright Gallery, said "C. C. Rosenkranz has some things in soft twilight tones that are very beautiful. There is a refinement of feeling and expression in his work that recommends it, as well as a virility and truthfulness that is lacking in much that is called good painting."

Mr. Rosenkranz has studied in New York at the Artist Artisan institute, drawing under John Ward Simpson and Walter Hinshaw. He has studied painting with William Chase, illustrating with Edmund Ashe and Earnest Knaufft, and design with Robert Hunter of Paris.

The spring Assembly will be danced Friday evening of next week at the Spalding. LaBrosse will play as usual and the affair will be one of the most delightful of the spring season.

Mrs. John Ball appeared in two groups of songs, and George Suffel gave three baritone solos with fine effect.

The hostess was assisted by Miss Kathleen Watterworth and Miss Gladys Heimbach.

The speakers and their subjects will be as follows:

IMMIGRANT AND TELEPHONE

Greek Who Talked Nearly Twelve Dollars' Worth and Cheerfully Paid Charge---Italian Objects to an "O" in Telephone Number.

Boston, Mass., April 25.—A Greek in the nearby city of Lowell went into a telephone booth the other night, one of those situated in a drug store close by the district on Market street, which is inhabited by shepherds of Arcadia and the Aegean islands, and proceeded to call up Buffalo, N. Y. The connection was made quickly, and the gentleman from Sparta started in to talk. At the end of some minutes the long distance operator, thinking that perhaps the foreigner, ignorant of American customs, supposed he had a perpetual hold on the line, interposed and informed him that the charge had already mounted to several dollars. The occupant of the booth haughtily assured her that he understood and proceeded with his conversation. He finished his talk, paid a bill of $11.90 and went back to his boarding house.

The incident is typical of the general use made of long distance facilities in these days by persons to whom the convenient tailing instrument must be a great novelty. Not only all classes of Americans, but immigrants of all races, as fast as they in any way become habituated to the American environment, begin to use the telephone for the transaction of various kinds of business. The Greek colonies in various American cities, to take this specific instance, are telephonically interconnected. In every coffee house, conveniently located for the purposes of the loquacious descendants of Demosthenes and Aeschines, stands a pay telephone which is used quite frequently for long distance as for local calls. The mere fact that telephones are employed in the Mediterranean countries only by the rich in the largest cities does not prevent the simple shepherds from the hills of the Peloponnesus from quickly acquiring the telephone habit, once they begin to earn American dollars. It is said that even during the dull times of the last few months in the textile centers, most of the Greek and Armenians, who work in the cotton and woolen factories, being on short time, the receipts at the pay stations in their colonies have not been sensibly affected—specific and striking illustration of the statement in President Theodore N. Vail's recent report: "It is only in times like the present that the true economy and value of the telephone service with its varied relation can be realized. This only emphasizes the fact that of all services the telephone service is the last to be dispensed with."

Among nearly all European and Asiatic immigrants a strong motive leads to use of the telephone. They feel that by resorting to it frequently they show that they are becoming good Americans. On that account, as well as for other reasons, they do not economize on telephone service. Many of them take personal service, after having had a little experience with the advantages of the telephone through use of pay stations.

The Italians, to take the instance of another race of Southern Europe, have long been good patrons of the telephone service. They do not very often take residence service, although the smallest business man among them regards the telephone as one of the absolutely necessary adjuncts. Bankers, exchange brokers and fruit and cream dealers are almost invariably found to be telephone subscribers. These make large use of the long-distance in transacting business with other cities. At the same time the pay stations in the Italian colonies, such as that of the Mulberry Bend district in New York city or about North square in Boston, are frequently used by the poorer Italians who wish to inquire of friends employed in construction gangs in the country as to whether there is a chance of their getting work.

A telephone solicitor who has secured many contracts among the Italians remarks that while they learn quite handily to avail themselves of the service, they are very particular regarding one matter. That is as regards the numbers which are assigned to them. An Italian will not accept a number with an "O" in it. He is quite satisfied to be assigned a line numbered 3277, but he will not take 3207. The objection to "O" is a practical one, for the Italian short "O" is pronounced nearly like our dipthong aw. Italians sometimes endeavor to get over the difficulty by saying "zero," which they pronounce as "tsayro," but they would rather have a number without any naughty aught in it.

The readiness with which all the immigrant peoples take up the telephone gives the greatest encouragement to the engineers, who look forward to a day in the near future when there may be as many as twenty telephones to every 100 population in the United States. In the immense growth of the past ten years, which have seen the Bell telephones mount from 465,000 at the beginning of 1896 to 3,839,000 at the outset of the present year, the enthusiasm of newly arrived Italians, Germans, Hungarians, Poles, Arabians and even Chinese has played a very considerable part. Already, counting the telephones of the "independents," there are probably between seven and eight stations for every 100 of population in the United States. Much of the increase of the last few years has been in industrial centers, which, because of their large population of new immigrants, were formerly not supposed to offer a good field for telephone development.

For the Protection of Watches.

It is well to know that if the wearer of an ordinary watch approaches too near a powerful dynamo he runs the risk of having his timepiece put out of commission. Cases or shields for the protection of watches against magnetism are now on the market. The best thing known to prevent nervousness and indigestion is the daily use of a good malt tonic such as golden grain belt beer at meal time. Order of Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

BEMIDJI POSTOFFICE RANKS SIXTEENTH IN MINNESOTA.

Bemidji, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—That there are but sixteen postoffices in the state of Minnesota that rank higher than the Bemidji postoffice in the matter of business transacted, is something of a surprise to the employes at the local postoffice.

First in the list of salaried postoffices comes St. Paul and Minneapolis, with $6,000 salary for the postmaster, then follows Duluth and other of the larger cities in succession, with Bemidji and several others ranking as the sixteenth, with the salary at $2,400.

The Bemidji postoffice has advanced rapidly. The office was established as a fourth-class office in 1894, and was advanced to the third and then the second class, the latter occurring in March, 1904.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS' PAGE

Places of Interest in Foreign Lands.

Of Edinburg, Scotland, Robert Louis Stevenson had this to say: "The ancient and famous metropolis of the North sits overlooking a windy estuary from the slope and summit of three hills. No situation could be more commanding for the head city of the kingdom; none better chosen for noble prospects. From her tall precipice and terraced gardens she looks far and wide on the sea and broad champaigns. To the east you may catch a spark of the May Lighthouse, where the Firth expands into the German Ocean. And away to the west, over all the curse of Stirling, you can see the first snows upon Ben Ledi.

"But Edinburg pays cruelly for her high seat in one of the vilest climates under heaven. She is liable to be beaten upon by all the winds that blow, to be drenched with rain, to be buried in cold sea fogs out of the east, and powdered with the snow as it comes flying southward from the Highland hills. The weather is raw and boisterous in winter, shifty and ungenial in summer and a downright meteorological purgatory in the spring."

But regardless of the unfriendly climate, the traveler will find much to repay him for a lengthy visit to Edinburg. There he will find narrow, winding streets which breathe of ages past and forgotten; hear legends that have been handed down from generation to generation for centuries; see time-worn city gates, arches, towers, churches—above all, the castle which frowns above Old Town like some dark and gloomy specter.

And not alone in the city will the tourist find much to interest him, for surrounding it are historical spots dear to the student. At Holyrood Castle one may spend a most enjoyable day—or longer if he has the time to spare. One of the outposts of the castle is the little "peak-roofed" lodge, whose rude stone walls hold a tragical story. It was through this lodge that Rizzio's murderers made their escape. And here it was, so gossip says, that Queen Mary came from the castle daily to bathe in white wine "to entertain her loveliness."

Queen Mary's Bath.

NAUGHTY RUTH AND POLLY—A STORY FOR THE WEE ONES.

BY HELENA DAVIS.

It was a rainy April day and Ruth could not play in the front yard, as was her habit on bright, warm days. So she sat pouting in the corner, thinking all the world was against her. In vain had her mamma explained to her that spring rains made summer flowers and gardens and that we would all soon die should the rains cease to fall. In vain did her big brother try telling her a story. Still she pouted and sulked, not feeling a bit grateful for the good mamma, the loving big brother and the comfortable home.

"Oh, you're a naughty girl today," said Big Brother, making ready to leave the naughty Miss to her own reflections, as their mother had done. "You don't want to be happy. So, stay alone and ruin your lips with pouting and your face with frowns."

And then Big Brother was gone, leaving Ruth sitting in the corner in an ugly frame of mind. But scarcely 10 minutes had passed when the front door bell rang and Ruth heard Mr. Jackson's voice talking to her mother in a most genial tone. "Here's my little daughter, Mrs. Downs, whom I have brought to spend the day with Ruthie. Her mamma declares that she can't do a thing with her on a rainy day, that the weather seems to affect her temper. Now, maybe she and Ruthie can forget the bad weather in their play. I'll call for Polly on my way home this evening."

Now, at any other time than this particular morning Ruth would have run joyously to the hall to greet her little neighbor and playmate, Polly. But on this occasion she kept her place in the corner, pouting as hard as she could. And thus she was when a few minutes later her mother opened the door and ushered in Polly, all wrapped against the rain. "Here's Polly, dear," said Mrs. Downs, smiling pleasantly at her ill-humored little daughter. "She's come to spend the day with you. Now, won't you both have a most enjoyable time? You may have the library all to yourselves and a little luncheon whenever you wish it."

But Ruth only sat pouting, not speaking a word of welcome to Polly, who, in turn, looked about as ill-humored as a little Miss can. Mrs. Downs, thinking it the best way to bring the little girls out of their rainy-day sulks, left them together, closing the door on them that they might feel sure no ear overheard them if they wished to mend their manners and open a cheerful conversation together.

Being left alone the two little girls stared at each other a few seconds. Then Polly said: "If you act so ugly I'll go home, I will."

"I didn't ask you to come here," retorted Ruth, her lips pursed up angrily. "You can go as soon as you like."

"You shan't come to see me any more," declared Polly, making a wry face at her unfriendly hostess. "There!"

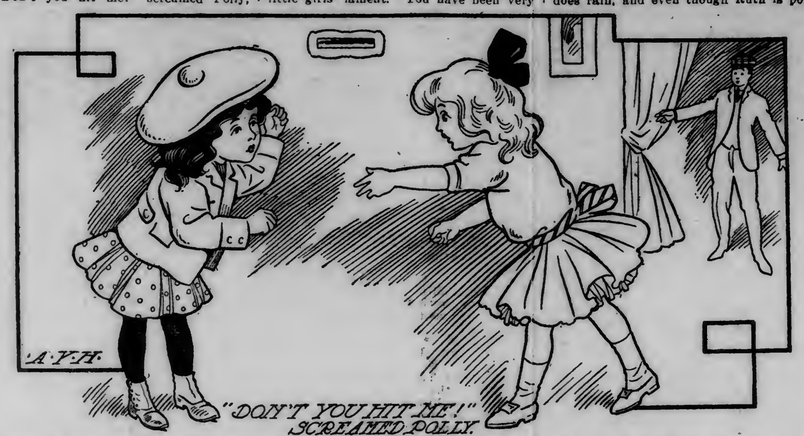

"And you can't play any more with my Teddy bear," snapped back Ruth.

"I don't want to play with your old Teddy bear," declared Polly, stamping her foot. "I'm going to have one lots nicer than yours, I am."

"Boo-ugh!" And Ruth stuck out her tongue in the ugliest fashion one could imagine at her little caller. "You think you are awful smart."

Hereupon Polly set up a loud wail, declaring that she'd go home in the rain and tell her mamma how mean that bad old Ruth Downs was. "Go, go," cried Ruth, springing to her feet and rushing on Polly, shaking her clenched fist.

"Don't you hit me!" screamed Polly,

"DON'T YOU HIT ME!" SCREAMED POLLY.

doubling up her own fists. Then they both fell to inflicting blows upon each other as fast as they could, and there is no telling how serious the battle might have been had not Ruth's big brother come into the library at this instant. He saw the fight at its fiercest moment and ran to separate the combatants. "Oh, shame upon you both!" he cried. "And you, Ruth, should feel like hiding your head for a whole week treating a guest in this fashion. Fie upon you!" Then, as the two little girls stood, heads drooping with the shame which caused them to blush, Big Brother said coolly: "The rain is clearing away and I came in to say that you might go with me in my trap to the country for a fine spin, but since seeing you fighting like cat and dog I have decided that you shall remain at home. I shall also tell mother of your conduct, Miss Ruth, and I have, no doubt, but she will send word to Polly's mother of her behavior. Anyway, you shan't have the nice ride into the country with me. You must suffer for your naughtiness."

As Big Brother left the library the two little girls stood looking at each other. Then Polly said: "Wish we'd not been naughty, don't you, Ruthie?"

"Yes, for if we'd been good brother would have tooked us riding in his trap and he would have told us a funny story. I wish he'd take us anyway. I'm going to ask mamma to tell him——"

"No, no, Ruth, my child, you shall not leave this room today." It was Ruth's mother who spoke, and who had just come into the room in time to hear the little girls' lament. "You have been very naughty, both of you, and I shall send Polly home with an explanation to her mamma. And you, Ruth, must get your tasks. I'll set a lesson for you to learn before supper time. And if you do not have it then you shall remain indoors tomorrow—no matter how fine the day is—till you do have it. I shall not allow such naughtiness as yours to go unpunished."

"But, mamma, the sun is shining," protested Ruth. "Please let Polly stay here and play with me."

But her mamma only looked at her in a way that told her there was no use in trying to coax for leniency. And Polly, with tears of disappointment in her eyes, was taken to her home by none other than Mrs. Downs, who held a whispered conference with Mrs. Jackson before returning to her own home.

And in one house sat Polly learning to darn her stockings while in another house—not far away—sat Ruth, her little head bent over a book, the table of fours being the task set for her. And outside the sun was shining gloriously, and Big Brother's trap was at the gate ready for its owner to drive into the country. And in the trees the birds sang joyously, and the children ran shouting up and down the streets glad that the day had turned off so warm and bright after the rain.

"Oh, oh, why was I so naughty?" sighed Polly, pricking her fingers with the needle and having to draw out the puckered threads which had been put in too carelessly, for her mother's watchful eye was upon her work. "Oh, I'll never be so naughty again. Even though it does rain, and even though Ruth is pouting and cross, I'll never, never be so bad again. Oh, how I wish I might run about in the sunshine and play!"

And in the other house little Ruth was saying under her breath: "Three times four are —— are —— Oh, I can't learn this old table today! I wish I hadn't started pouting this morning, just because it rained. If I'd been mamma's good, little girl I would have got to go with big brother in his trap. And it's so jolly to go riding with him, for he tells so many funny stores about giants and dwarfs. And Polly could have gone, too, if we'd both been good. Oh, it's so hard to remain indoors all day—and in one old, stuffy room, too. Oh, oh, oh, I'll never, never be naughty again! If it should rain pitch-forks I'd run about the house and laugh and sing and be jolly like big brother. He's always in a good humor. So are papa and mamma. But I've been naughty and now I'm suffering for it. It's very, very hard, indeed. I wonder what Polly's mamma is doing to her? Maybe she is studying what a noun is. Oh, anything is easier than these old fours. I can't; I can't learn them. And this is Saturday, and I must stay in the house—in this room—all day. I'll never, never be so wicked again. What did I pout and fuss and fight for, anyway? Mamma, nor Brother, nor Polly couldn't help its raining. I was a very naughty little girl. Oh, these fours! I could learn them so easily tonight if only I might go out today with Big Brother."

Then, hearing Big Brother's voice calling out Ruth ran to the window in time to see him mount his seat and lift the horse's lines, saying: "Off, Dandy; we're for the country roads. Gee, but this air and sunshine are great!" Then, seeing his naughty, but repentant, little sister looking at him from the window he called to her: "If you behave yourself very nicely the remainder of today, and perform the task Mamma has set you to do I shall take you for a spin through the park tomorrow morning before Sunday school. But, you've got to be mighty good today, and obey Mamma without a frown or pout. One pout—and, presto, pass—no ride behind Dandy for a whole week."

"I'll be good, Brother, honest I will," cried Ruth in a tremulous voice. "I'll get the fours, too, I will." And the tears streamed down her cheeks as she returned to the table of fours. "It's awful to have to be punished when one's naughty," she said aloud.

"Yes, but it's much worse to be naughty," said her mamma's voice. "My little girl will learn that all through life we are rewarded for our good deeds and punished for our bad ones. And now, she is paying the penalty of having been very naughty all morning. I am very sorry that it must be so; but such is the law, my child. Now, get at your task. Your luncheon will be served here in the library, for you are to remain in here alone all day. And remember that you are being punished for wilful naughtiness which had not the shadow of a reason."

And all that day did Ruth pay the penalty of her naughtiness, and the lesson was never forgotten by her. In the same way did Polly suffer for her wrongdoing, sitting over her darning with a heavy heart. And, like Ruth, she never, never forgot the lesson. And from that day both little girls became sweeter-tempered; and though the heavens frowned and the rain poured no pout was ever seen upon their lips, for they learned that to smile and be happy made sunshine in the house, though there might be the heaviest of clouds obscuring the sun out of doors.

"I'll never forget how to darn my stockings," declared Polly to Ruth the following day.

"And I'll never forget the table of fours," confided Ruth. "I can say them forwards and backwards and skip about in them and never miss."

Strange Stories.

They say that a cow
Jumped over the moon!
But that was a long time ago:
And the fact is, today
There're none who can say
Whether she did so or no.

They say that a dish
Ran away with a spoon:
But that's as far fetched as t'other:
And the dish and the spoon,
And the cow and the moon,
Were all made to go together.

They say a dog laughed
To see the gay sport:
But we all know a dog cannot grin.
So there's something quite wrong
With that Mother-Goose song,
For telling big squibs is a sin.

MAUD WALKER.

TURNING THE TABLES.

A young man had a little rat terrier for sale. Hearing of a farmer whose grain bins were over-run by rats he repaired to his place and offered the dog for sale.

"Is the dog a good ratter?" asked the farmer.

"Excellent," replied the young man.

"Well, we'll just try him," suggested the farmer. Accordingly the ratter was lowered into a pit and a huge rat brought and dropped in beside him. Instantly the dog and rat rushed upon one another. The rat bit his opponent on the nose, causing him to howl with pain and give up the fight.

"Well," said the farmer, with a sly smile, "your dog is no good. But would you like to buy a rat?"

HARRY'S NOBLE ACT.

BY MAUD WALKER.

It was just noonday and the sun shone down pretty hot on the wide, sandy plains that stretched about the little railroad station which was called Lone Settler. The station-house was a one-story frame building of 10 by 20 feet in size, and contained the station agent's office and telegraph room, both being together and separated by a board partition from the waiting-room, where lolled one passenger, who had dropped off the train which had pulled in from the East half an hour before, and which had pulled out again immediately, leaving the few stragglers about the platform to watch it as it swept like a cyclone across the prairie.

Among those about the station platform, looking after the departing train, was Harry Root, a boy 12 years of age. Harry worked for a rancher whose land extended on three sides of the little town of Lone Settler, and whose long, low ranch-house was just half a mile from the station. Harry was sent over to Lone Settler every day to get the mail for his employer, mail which was never in any form save a weekly newspaper from the rancher's boyhood home. As it took the postmaster half an hour or so to distribute the mail for the townsmen's and ranchers' boxes, Harry found time each day to run down to the station—the "dee po," as the stationhouse was called—and watch the incoming and outgoing train. A rural delivery service had been offered the country people whose mail was received through the Lone Settler postoffice, but they refused it, declaring that the only break in the monotony of their lives was the daily pleasure of riding into Lone Settler for their mail, or the mail which they hoped some day to receive. (Many were the old farmers and ranchers who never got so much as a postcard, but they were just as regular in their calls at the postoffice as were the two merchants and the blacksmith of the town, the latter usually receiving a few letters during the week.)

"Say, Mr. Babcock, mayn't I take that telegram up to the office?"

"Say," came the station agent's voice at the window of his office, "say, what you fellers think? Here's a telegram just come to Miss Perkins, sayin' that her mother's dyin'. Now, if it'd bin five minutes later I'd bin gone, an' wouldn't a got it till I come down to open the station fer the evenin' train. But do any of you fellers know if any of the Perkinses are in today? If they're not, it's not my lookout. You know we don't deliver telegrams outside the city limits."

"Naw," drawled one or two of the lotterers. "It'd take more'n you git if you hed to hire the livery rig to drive to all the ranches in the country. But likely there's some of the Perkinses in town today. If not, there may be some of their neighbors handy who'll undertake to carry it to 'em. Who'd you say is dyin'?"

The station agent, who was also the telegraph operator, stood in the open window and read the telegram aloud. "To Missus H. O. Perkins, Lone Settler, Okla.: Come at once if you would see mother alive. Sally." After reading the message the agent carefully folded it and put it in an envelope, addressing it. "It'll have to go to the postoffice," he said. "If none of 'em are in town they'll have to wait till they do come."

"Them Perkinses are awful stuck-up folks," asserted one of the men on the platform. "If they was like other common mortals I might be persuaded to take the telegram to 'em myself, for they're busy with the spring plowin' an' mayn't come to town fer quite a spell. They don't seem to care all-fired much about their mail. Sometimes I don't see neither the ole man nor the boys in town for a week at a time."

"The old lady could be dead an' buried 'fore they'd know it," laughed a tall rancher, unfolding his lank legs and mounting his horse to ride away. "Well, tain't my funeral," he called out at parting.

"Say, Mister Babcock," said Harry, looking in through the window of the office and speaking to the agent who was putting away his papers preparatory to closing the office till 5 o'clock "mayn't I take that telegram up to the office and see if any of them folks are in today? I've got to go there anyway, you know."

"Well, Hank," answered the agent, handing Harry the telegram, "if you'll do that fer me I'll be your grandmother for a week. It'll save me goin' to the postoffice. It's dinner time, an' I'm about starved. But, say, Hank, if you happen to see any of the Perkinses, or any of their neighbors in town, just you give the message to them, an' don't leave it at the office. Old Snaps might forget to put it in their box till after they'd gone from town. If Miss Perkins can get the telegram in time to catch the 5 o'clock train this P. M. she may get to see the old lady before she passes over."

"Yes, sir," called out Harry, quickly taking the message and starting towards the one business street, which was formed by half a dozen houses on either side. Direct to the postoffice he went and inquired of "old Snaps" whether or not he had seen any of the Perkinses in town that day. "Nope, not a mother's son of 'em in the office today," Snaps drawled. "But here's a letter fer Miss Perkins," and he held up to view a letter bearing an Eastern postmark.

"I'm going out to their ranch," said Harry, talking very rapidly, "and I'll carry along their mail. I've got a telegram for 'em, and maybe the letter's important, too. Please give it to me, Mr. Snaps."

The postmaster knew Harry—or Hank, as he was commonly called—to be a reliable boy, and without a question handed over the letter which was addressed to Mrs. Perkins. "A telegram?" he said, his curiosity roused. "Wall, I wonder what's up?"

But Harry did not wait to explain to the postmaster about the telegram. As soon as he got the letter he ran down the street, letter and telegram in his breast, held in place by his dirty little hand. He popped into the two stores, the blacksmith's shop, and in at the hardware store as he passed along, hoping to see some of the Perkinses in one of the places. But he was disappointed in this, and made up his mind that he must carry that letter and telegram to the Perkins' ranch, five miles distant. And he must reach there in time for Mrs. Perkins to receive the sad news and make ready to go East on the 5 o'clock train that very afternoon. It was just 1 o'clock as Harry passed the schoolhouse, for the bell was ringing to call the pupils to books.

A week ago Harry's employer, who was also his master, for the child was an orphan in his care, had taken Harry out of school to assist with the spring work on the ranch, and Harry looked longingly at his former school comrades as they filed in through the door of the little frame schoolhouse. "Gee," he whispered to himself, as he ran along the dusty road, "wish I could keep goin' to school till the term is out. If mother had lived I could have done it, too."

Hardly once did he pause en route to the Perkins ranch. As he neared the house he began to feel a bit uncertain as to how he should act. He had always heard the Perkinses spoken of as "them stuck-ups from back East," and he knew he'd make a bad appearance in their mighty presence. But remembering the contents of the telegram he forced himself to go to the front door, where he knocked gently. The door was open but for a screen shutter, and Harry could see a very pretty woman at work in the room. She turned on hearing Harry's knock, and, seeing the overheated, perspiring little fellow there, she smiled and said: "Come in, little boy. And who are you, my dear? Here—have a chair; you seem very much exhausted. This is the worst heat for the end of April I have ever——"

"A letter fer you, Missus Perkins," gasped Harry, handing the letter first. It had just occurred to him that the letter might warn her of the blow contained in the telegram.

"Ah, and you were passing by and fetched it from town," smiled the lady as she opened the letter. Then her eyes clouded and she put her hand to her face in a distressed way as she read. "It's from my sister," she explained to Harry. "And my dear old mother is very ill. But she may be very much better now, for my sister promises that should she grow worse she would wire me at once. Well, I must have Mr. Perkins, or one of the boys, go to the station at once and wire concerning——"

"I've got a telegram, too," half whispered Harry. "An', mam, don't feel too bad. It's awful to have your mother so sick—I lost my mother, I did. An' that's why I brought this to you—so you can go see her before——"

He handed her the telegram, and she quickly read its contents. The news deeply grieved her, and she was obliged to call to her servant in the kitchen to fetch her some water. Then all was confusion, for the servant began to weep and bemoan her mistress' sad news. "I'll go call Mr. Perkins an' the boys," cried the excited girl. "Yes, do so, Maggie," said Mrs. Perkins. Then, being alone with Harry, she said: "You must tell me how you came to bring this letter and telegram to me, my dear little lad, for you are not of our neighbors. And as you explain this great kindness to me I shall begin to make ready for my journey. I must catch the 5 o'clock train today if possible."

"You can do it, missus," exclaimed Harry. "I run the whole way on purpose so as you'd have time to get off today. I knowed what was in the telegram. That's how I came to fetch it to you." Then, after being questioned Harry told the whole story, and was told by Mrs. Perkins that she could never repay him for the great kindness he had that day done her, and she insisted upon his remaining till she was ready to go to town—which would be within a very short time, since she must not fail to make the 5 o'clock train. "And now, while I pack my trunk and my sons hitch the horses to the buggy, you must have some dinner." And she led Harry into the big kitchen, where the dinner table still set with plenty of good food upon it. In vain did Harry say he was not hungry; he was obliged to partake of a good meal, and he admitted to himself that he felt much refreshed after having obeyed his good hostess.

As they rode to town Mrs. Perkins, her son Frank and Harry, the latter was drawn out to speak about himself. When he told of how he had lost his own dear mother two years ago and was away at the time of her death, returning from school an hour after her dear soul had taken flight, he bowed his little, unkept head against the shoulder of his new-found friend and wept silently. "That's why I hurried with all my might to you with that letter and telegram," he murmured between his sobs, "fer I recollected how it broke my heart not to get to see my mother and say good-by. And mother was all I had, too. After she was taken away I had to work my way. An' it's pretty hard sometimes. But I'm not complainin', Missus Perkins," he quickly explained. "The only thing is I can't go to school when there's work to do."

"You dear, good-hearted little man!" And sobs shook the form of Mrs. Perkins, while Frank had to bat his eyes to keep back tears. "Well, I shall take you to my own home upon my return and adopt you as one of my own sons," declared the loving woman. "Today I have found a most noble soul, and it shall not waste its sweetness on desert air. You shall have another mother, dear little man, who will do all in her power to replace the one you so sadly mourn. Will you come to live with us?"

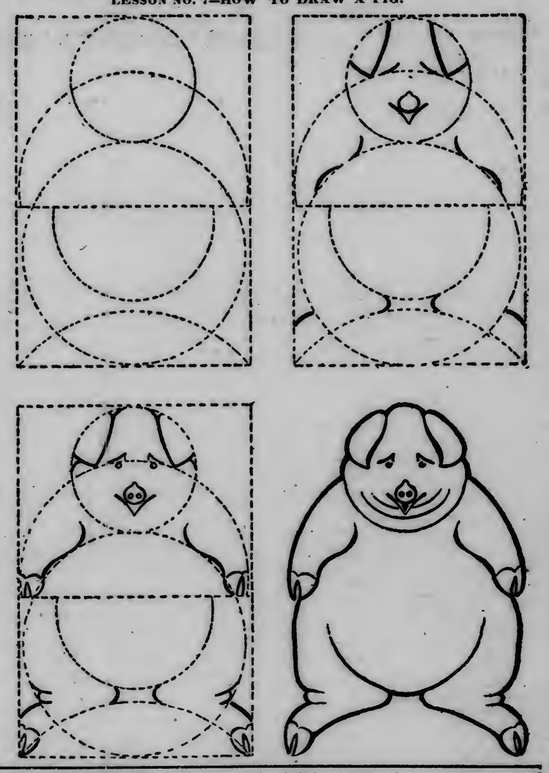

"I'd be mighty glad, mam," said Harry, smiling in spite of his tears. "And I can work good, too. In that way I'd earn my board, you see."

"We'll talk it all over on my return," promised Mrs. Perkins. "But you will not be working for your board, my child. You'll be one of us, and the necessaries of life will be so gladly furnished you with only a wish that you be happy and love us as we shall all love you. Today's act has proven that you have within your breast a heart of gold."

Then the three rode on in silence, too much overcome by emotion to talk. And Mrs. Perkins reached the station in time for her train, and arrived at her old home in time to see her aged mother alive.

Good Samaritans to the Poor

MISS EVA BOOTH, LEADER OF THE SALVATION ARMY IN AMERICA.

JACOB RIIS AND MULBERRY BEND PARK, ON OF THE BLESSINGS HIS WORK HAS GIVEN TO NEW YORK'S EAST SIDE

BY DEXTER MARSHALL

(Copyright, 1908, by Dexter Marshall.)

AMONG the present day good Samaritans to the poor the names of three women stand out strongly—Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, founder of the first social settlement in America; Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, "little mother" to the released and shunned "prison bird," and Miss Eva Booth, for years her father's mainstay in England and now the head of the Salvation Army in America. Each has a following that is comparable in numbers only to an army. Hull House, with its scores of clubs and industrial branches, is the center of the higher life to the worst crowded and most cosmopolitan section of Chicago. To the Volunteers of America and to the outcasts of the very poor themselves turn yearly for a friendly word and a smile and just the modicum of help that will put them once again on the road of respectability.

Good Samaritan work is no child's play to this trio. Neither is it a passing social whim, or merely employment to fill idle hours. It is life work. Each woman has dedicated herself to the task of uplifting the poor of the great cities, and in this herculean effort each has gained not only a wonderful measure of success, but national and international fame besides.

Though each woman's line of work is peculiar to herself in a measure, it is noticeable that all three are possessed of the power to hypnotize the rich man into opening wide his pocketbook at charity's call as delivered by them. They are, perhaps, the best all-around money-gift getters among the Good Samaritans of today. It would be interesting to know the sum total of the money they have taken from millionaires; the figures would doubtless show a fortune to large size. It also would be interesting to see a list of the moneyed men who from time to time have been separated from some of their wealth by the gentle insistence of these three modern Graces—of charity.

Thought her novels have given her the greatest publicity, Mrs. Humphry Ward is known in England as one of its shining Good Samaritans. She has been a leading promoter of London playgrounds, and the success of this movement in behalf of the child has been due in no small part to her efforts. She also is noted among charity workers as one of the founders of University Hall, a London settlement established in harmony with the views set forth by Mrs. Ward in her first great novel "Robert Elsmere."

Of course the venerable Florence Nightingale has been a Good Samaritan to the poor ever since she founded the Nightingale Home for trained nurses with the $250,000 testimonial given her by a grateful England for her work of mercy in the Crimean war. And through her, hundreds, nay, thousands, of women are Good Samaritans today in every quarter of the globe, made so not only by her training school, but by her example as well.

Among the men Jacob Riis, after Gen. William Booth probably is the best known Good Samaritan, though Ballington Booth, general-in-chief of the Volunteers of America, also is an international figure. Edward T. Devine, charity expert and organizer, and general secretary of the Charity Organization Society of New York city, came prominently before the nation at the time of the San Francisco earthquake, when he was selected by Secretary Taft to dispense Red Cross aid to the sufferers. Robert W. De Forest, as president of the Charity Organization society, founder and first president of the first philanthropic pawnbrokery, chairman of the state commission that brought about the famous tenement house reform in New York city, and first tenement house commissioner of the metropolis, has been a Good Samaritan on a large scale for the last twenty years. He has had the satisfaction of seeing many of his ideas of charity work spread all over the country. Robert A. Woods, who occupies a position in Boston somewhat akin to that held by Miss Addams in Chicago; Robert C. Ogden of New York, retired merchant prince, whose specialty is the education of the Southern poor, and John H. Converse, locomotive builder of Philadelphia, who is devoting a large part of his great wealth to the religious education of the poor, are among those whose fame as Good Samaritans is not slight.

In Jewish circles the world over the benficence of the Montefiores is traditional. For more than eighty years the members of this famous English family, originally Anglo-Italian, have been engaged principally in ameliorating the condition of the Jewish poor wherever found. One of the monuments to Montefiore philanthropy in this country is the Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids in New York city, one of the largest institutions of its kind in America.

The original Good Samaritan Montefiore was Sir Moses Hayim, who lived to the green old age of 101, dying in July of 1885. Just sixty-one years of his long life he devoted exclusively to philanthropy, giving away millions in that time and vastly improving the conditions of tens of thousands of his kindred, especially in the Orient, whither he made numerous trips that he might personally dispense philanthropy. On these journeys he was received almost like a fellow ruler by the potentates of the East, so great was their respect for the English Good Samaritan and his works. At home he was created a baronet by Queen Victoria, and because he was one of the leaders in the movement, which resulted in the removal of civil disabilities of Jews in England, he was one of the first Jews to be elected to office in that "right little, tight little island." English charities founded or aided by his money are numbered by the score.

The principal Good Samaritan of the family today is Claude G. Montefiore. Since attaining his majority in 1879 he has devoted his entire time to philanthropic and educational matters, his educational work being in furtherance of the betterment of the Jew. This Montefiore has added to his inherited wealth by marriage into the famous banking family of Goldsmid. Sir Moses, born wealthy, married a relative to the Rothchilds, and before he had retired from business in 1824 had added millions to a fortune secured by inheritance and alliance.

Lesser Montefiores also have married wealth, and thus through them millions of money accumulated by not a few of the leading Jewish banking families of Europe are being distributed among the poor of the Jewish world by the present-day representatives of a family whose record in philanthropic service stands unique in modern times for length and continuity, being handed down as it is, from one generation to another along with the patrimony.

There have been all sorts of estimates of the amount of money devoted to Good Samaritan work by the Montefiores and their connections, some of the guesses rising to $150,000,000, or a third more than the late Baron de Hirsch gave away during the course of his lifetime. But no one other than the Montefiores themselves could give an intelligent estimate of the sum total of the family donations to charity, so careful have they been to keep the details of their almsgiving from the public.

The First Lady of Chicago.

Since 1889, when she opened the first social settlement house in America, Miss Jane Addams has been one of the world's famous Good Samaritans. Hull House and the numerous industrial, social, economic and political institutions that it mothers form a remarkable monument to the energy of a quiet, medium sized, earnest woman with gray eyes who began her grown up life handicapped by illness of long standing. Indeed, the entire social settlement movement, as carried on in this country may be said to be a monument to Miss Addams' initiative, for it was only after she had made a success of Hull House did kindred work spread here; and it is the implied, if not the expressed, aim of the average American social settlement worker to emulate Miss Addams and her work so far as possible.

Besides being the country's premier in social settlement efforts, Miss Addams probably is its leading exponent of the Tolstoian doctrine that "the rich should get off the backs of the poor." Miss Addams has admitted openly that this idea has imbued all her Hull House work. Nevertheless, she never has had any trouble securing needed funds from the richest men of America. Nor has she ever made a public appeal for financial support; she does not believe in such solicitation. Whenever she feels the need of money for any of her various enterprises, she makes personal calls on men and women who, she is led to believe, will give; and it is seldom that she comes away empty handed. Chicago especially can boast of many wealthy persons who have much as told Miss Addams that their check books are ready to serve her at her call. It is upon persons who know what Hull House has done and is doing for the wonderful cosmopolitan population around it that Miss Addams depends for financial comfort.

But before she had works to back her words, Miss Addams herself supplied the money, with which to start Hull House and keep it going during the critical period of its infancy. Subsequently she devoted her entire patrimony to Hull House, depending on her lectures and writings for her own personal income. This was one result of the pilgrimage that she made to Tolstoi's home in 1896.

I am told that one of the most interesting incidents connected with this visit has received only slight attention in this country. It occurred after Miss Addams had touchingly told the Russian philosopher of the great poverty of the sadly crowded people among whom she lived and worked. When she had finished he reached out a brawny hand and touched the silk sleeve of his visitor's fashionable dress.

"And what is this for?" he queried.

"My people like to see me well dressed," Miss Addams replied, in effort.

"You should not like to be dressed differently from them," came back Tolstoi, whose fondness for wearing the Russian peasant costume is well known.

"But," answered Miss Addams, "I work among Irish, Italians, Greeks, Armenians and many other nationalities. I could not dress in all their different costumes."

Tolstoi smiled. "All the more reason why you should choose some cheap and simple dress that any of them could adopt, and not cut yourself off by your dress from those you wish to serve."

It is perhaps needless to add that Miss Addams, up to date, has not adopted the Tolstoian idea of dress. But her visit to Tolstoi did cause her to put some of his teachings into practice at Hull House; and after her return from Yasnaya Pollana she only was kept from doing manual labor in the Hull House bakery by the administrative demands on her time. In her principal written work "Democracy and Social Ethics," published several years after her talk with Tolstoi, Miss Addams clearly shows her adherence to much of his philosophy of life appertaining to the relations that should exist between rich and poor.

The demands on Miss Addams' time crowd in upon her with a monotonous rapidity that would drive the average person, man or woman, into a state of intense irritability, to say the least. But she remains unruffled through it all, and so does an enormous day's work. Besides giving personal administration to every branch of Hull House work, securing additional funds when needed, and constantly writing and lecturing on settlement work and other civic movements, she gives personal attention to the welfare of the thousands of people who come to Hull House to be taught the better way of living.

As a result she is called hither and yon over her district by people who want her advice on all sorts of matters. Perhaps it is a mother troubled about the best food or medicine for her baby, drooping from the effects of summer heat. Perhaps she has been summoned by a truckman to confirm or dispute the word of a veterinarian that the old horse should be killed. Or it may be that a son has been acting in wayward fashion of late and the worried old-world mother wants Miss Addams to speak with the boy and get him to mend his ways. To one and all such requests Miss Addams gives serious attention, and largely because she enters sympathetically into even the trivial affairs of the people about her she has been so successful in her work.

Miss Addams is easily the first woman of Chicago, as well as the country's first settlement worker. Through her insistence Chicago established its public baths system. She was one of a committee of five that organized a Chicago civic federation, which greatly lessened the evils of gambling and improved the condition of the streets. She was on the arbitration committee of the famous Pullman strike. No movement looking toward a better Chicago waits in vain for her support and her approval of a civic movement is pretty apt to insure its ultimate success.

The honor which her alma mater conferred upon Miss Addams several years ago is unique in the history of education in this country and abroad. The trustees of Rockford college, where she graduated in 1881, turned over to her the entire college plant for the use and benefit of Hull House during the summer months. Here such poor girls as aspire to secure an education are instructed by a staff, each member of which has to pay a weekly fee for the privilege of teaching and living at the college during this time.

It was while she was still a student at Rockford that Miss Addams definitely decided to devote her life to the poor. She, however, at that time did not dream of a Hull House, or similar work, and the year following her graduation she went to Philadelphia to prepare herself for a medical career among the poor. By becoming a physician she felt that she could do her work as one of the poor, and not as one above them.

She had been ta her professional studies only a year when her old illness reasserted itself, and for her health's sake she went abroad in company with Miss Ellen Gates Starr, cofounder of Hull House. Carrying with her across the ocean her interest in the poor of the great cities, she very naturally heard of Toynbee Hall, London's first settlement house, then just founded, and visited it. Then and there she was fired with the ambition which ultimately led to the establishment of Hull House.

For a woman Miss Addams is rather brief of speech, though she is in no sense taciturn or short. But, though seldom impulsive in speech, in action she is frequently so. One day she noticed that one of her callers, a typical slums woman, was leaving Hull House protected against the bitter weather only by a thin and worn covering. Immediately Miss Addams seized her own fur-lined cape and threw it over the shoulders of the dazed woman.

Like most of the present-day Good Samaritans, Miss Addams became personally acquainted with poverty only through study of it. She was reared in comfort, not to say affluence; her family was influential in its neighborhood, and her father was for many years a member of the Illinois legislature.

The American Booths.

Like Miss Addams, Mrs. Ballington Booth was well born—her father was a Church of England clergyman—and she, too, inherited a nice little income. But in her case it is tied up in such a way that she cannot devote the principal to her charitable work. Otherwise her inheritance would have gone long since to build a Hope Hall, in all probability.

Just as Hull House resulted from a visit of inspection made by its founder, so Mrs. Ballington Booth's prison work is the result of her first visit to and speech delivered in a state's prison.

This was in California. During the course of her address she was struck with pity at the apparent hopeless situation of the men before her. This thought pursued her all through her talk, and so when she had finished her set speech, she was moved to ask all those to come forward who would like to lead better lives had they a chance to do so. Two hundred men, among them some of the prison's most hardened cases, stepped forward.

From this incident Mrs. Booth became deeply interested in convicts generally, and it was not long after this that she was paying regular visits to Sing Sing and talking to and pleading with the inmates. Nor was it very long before the convicts there began to call her "little mother," the designation by which she is known to thousands of wrongdoers who have been helped by her while in prison, and when just out of it, in one of the famous Hope Halls which she has established for the especial benefit of the released convict.

This prison work is distinctive of the Volunteers of America, whose other lines of work are similar to those of the Salvation Army. Mrs. Booth has personal charge of the prison work, and she herself sees that it is financed from the pocketbooks of the rich.

Mrs. Booth and her husband were the first commanders of the Salvation Army in this country, being sent here in 1887 by Gen. Booth seven years after the first army lassies had come to this country in the steerage. These seven enthusiasts held the first army meeting in America in Castle Garden, immediately following their landing, and for a good many years thereafter they and their adherents were objected to a mountain of ridicule and insults. The trouble between Gen. Booth and the Ballington Booths is too well known to be more than referred to here. Suffice it to say that as head of the Volunteers the son of the general has grown steadily in national importance since 1896, the year he founded his own army.

Miss Eva Booth, present head of the Salvation Army in this country, unmistakably shows many of the remarkable facial lines of her father. Like him she is gifted with the power to move men and women mightily with her speech. Though rather frail physically, she has his indomitable spirit; like him she commands intense loyalty among the rank and file of the army, and again like him she is a master of administrative detail.

Her whole life this side of her early childhood has been spent in active Army service. As a mere child she worked in the worst slums of London and in the coal fields. Though she daily was subjected to insult and often threatened with physical violence, she never once shrank from what she conceived to be her duty. In one locality, where the slums people were particularly nasty and the police were insolently negligent in protecting the lassies, Miss Booth announced to the crowd that she would be her own

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Tendency Toward Further Curtailment as Stock Piles on Older Ranges Are Larger Than Deemed Desirable---Working Forces Being Cut.

The arrival of the period when, under normal conditions it is customary to start the movement of ore to the lower lakes finds a situation offering but little encouragement to the Lake Superior iron mining region. In fact, there is even expansion in the policy of retrenchment. Stockpiles on the old ranges are larger than the operators deem desirable, notwithstanding that in practically all cases those of the mines continued on the active list have been wrought with materially reduced forces; and with little or no demand for the ore, the tendency is toward still further curtailment.

The Buffalo & Susquehanna company has all but suspended operations at the Hiawatha mine, in the Stambaugh district of the Menominee range, and has surrendered a number of properties in that locality, to explore on which it had taken options. The Huron Mining company's Youngs mine, in the same field, has been closed, throwing some seventy men out of work. Upwards of 50,000 tons of ore were shipped last season. The Brule Mining company, controlled by Ohio furnace interests and managed by Oglebay, Norton & Co., also has stopped work in the Stambaugh district. Its Lenox Beresford and Chatham No. 1 and No. 2 mines have been added to the idle list, as a result of which 175 men are out of employment. The pumps have been pulled at the Lenox, but unless present orders are changed the other shafts will be kept free of water. The group has been quite well developed, and could probably send out a quarter of a million tons this season were the ore needed. The Chatham was the only shipper last year.

In the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee, Oglebay, Norton & C., have made a still further cut in the working force at the Bristol mine. The property has been operated on a reduced scale since early in the winter, still while the stockpile is not as large as at this time a year ago no sales of the product have yet been made. The mine shipped 350,000 tons last season. Work is at a standstill on the company's lands at Commonwealth, in the Wisconsin portion of the range. At the Traders' mine near Iron Mountain, Oglebay, Norton & Co., have only about a dozen men on the payroll.

A SUITABLE SMELTER SITE

Being Sought by Utah Consolidated Company of Bingham---Two Important Strikes in Tunnel of Bingham Central-Standard Mines.

Salt Lake, Utah, April 25.—The Utah Consolidated Mining company, Bingham, is renewing its efforts to secure a suitable smelter site along with a definite assurance that it won't have to pay out the proceeds of the mine to the farmers near the smelter. Some months ago a site in Pine canon, across the range from Bingham, was decided upon and negotiations with the farmers had been in progress for some time when the project was dropped. The company is willing to pay the farmers 10 per cent of the value of the farms within the smoke zone.

Two important strikes have been made in the Jeff Davis tunnel of the Bingham Central-Standard mines at Bingham. The tunnel is being driven to cut at a depth an ore body from which leasers have been shipping for six months past. In reaching for it two parallel fissures have been cut, one within a few days the other some time ago, but kept secret. The first fissure shows two and one-half feet of 12.4 per cent copper ore, while that more recently opened showed at the point of contact two feet of high grade ore carrying all four metals. This vein, in which drifting is now progressing while the tunnel is pushed ahead, has widened to three and one-half feet. It carries 5 per cent copper, 35 to 40 per cent lead, $2 to $4 in gold and fifteen to twenty ounces in silver to the ton.

The report of operations submitted at the annual meeting of the May Day Mining & Milling company (Tintic) shows that, though during the first four months of the fiscal year the output was light and not a pound sold during the last three months, a total of fifteen and one-half car loads of crude ore and fifteen and one-half car loads of concentrates was marketed during the time the mine was operated. The figures given indicate that the crude ore netted the company

COPPER FIND OF 80 PER CENT

Rich Strike Made Fifty Miles From Phoenix, on the Figtree Group, Near Gibson, on the New River in Arizona.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 25.—Another big mining strike has been made less than fifty miles from Phoenix. Ore running from 40 to 80 per cent in copper, with big gold values, has been found in a shaft on the Figtree group, owned by F. E. Withey, seven miles northeast of Gibson's station, on New river.

Mr. Withey drove into Phoenix, accompanied by his wife, last Sunday. With him he brought a sack of ore from the 60-foot level of his shaft, which Assayer Joe Porteric estimates ran 70 per cent in the red metal, with silver and gold running $12 to $18.

The report shows that there is any amount of this ore in the shaft. Mr. Withey says he has 100 tons on the dump, which will average 40 per cent in copper and $20 in gold. The gold and silver, he believes, will more than pay the entire expense of mining the ore.

There are ten claims in the Figtree group, a part of which are not copper properties. The quartz taken out of the shallow shafts, which have been sunk on the gold claims, runs from $15 to $180 in the yellow metal.

"I honestly believe I have one of the big mines of the world," said Mr. Withey. "I had an expert opinion on the group last winter. One of the best mining men in the country told me that all it needed was development.

"The gold claims are also rich. I think that they will prove to be fully as rich in gold as the others are in copper. I also think that the gold mixed in with the copper will pay the full cost of taking out and treating the rock. The copper values will be clear gain."

Mr. Withey took a piece of rock to Mr. Porterio to be assayed. Upon seeing the sample brought him, Mr. Porteric's first exclamation was, "Good heavens! Why don't you bring a piece of bullion to be assayed?" And this piece is said to be no exception to the general rule at the Figtree mine. Just before he left Mr. Withey took out a ton, from which this piece was broken off at random.

RICH STRIKE AT GOLDFIELD

All Records for High-Grade Ore Strikes Broken in Lease on the Florence---Latest Reports From Rawhide Camp.

Goldfield, Nev., April 25.—All records for high grade ore strikes in Goldfield have been broken in the little Florence company's lease on the Florence. Average samples taken across four feet and four inches, from wall to wall, and five feet in height are stated to give returns of 1,424.44 ounces in gold, value $28,488.80 a ton. Six inches of the ore taken from top to bottom of the drift contained 3,874 ounces in gold to the ton, or $76,952 in value. The find was made on the 450 foot level in a drift that had followed a small shoot of ore for fifty feet when a fault occurred. Back of the fault the ore widened out to four feet four inches, every ounce of which is said to be the picture class. The ore is a black sulphide, with yellow gold.

The local of the Western Federation of Miners has called off the strike in Goldfield and the members are now permitted to work along with non-union men in mines where the Tonopah wage scale is in force. The mine operators' association scale is 50 cents a day under the Tonopah wages and the secretary of the association says that this will not be changed. This limits the opportunities of employment to small leases, not members, which employ not to exceed 100 men. Some of the big leases on the Florence are paying their men a bonus of one and a half shifts for every seven days, which brings the wages of miners up to $4.86, or 36 cents in excess of the Tonopah scale.

Operations in the district are gradually resuming their normal scope. Almost 100 leases are now working, nearly all of them employing three shifts but there is a small army of unemployed men. Many of the Western Federation men are attempting, despite the prohibition of the union, to get work at these leases.

Rawhide, Nev., April 25.—Nine hoists went into operation on various properties last week and eighteen more are on the way here. These will give employment within a month to 500 to 600 men. According to the reports coming from the leasers in the camp a considerable number of them are either sacking good ore or working in ore that will pay to ship. Two cars of ore are ready for shipment from Kearns No. 1 lease. One car carries values of $100 a ton and the other of $190 a ton. Ore is being sacked on the Lillian lease on Murray hill from a four inch streak of phenomenally rich rock. An eight inch streak of rock has been struck on the Aspinwall lease on Murray hill. It carries values of 250. On the Poor Boy group nine sets of leasers are at work, all of them, it is said, working in ore that runs from $12 to $30 to the ton. On the west side of the camp the Royal is sacking ore from a ten inch seam running $1,260 to the ton. It has also two feet of ore averaging $100 in value. The Bushwhacker, adjoining, has reached a depth of fifty feet and is sacking ore from a five to eight inch streak averaging $490. On the Regent group there are twelve leases, six of which, is it said, are sacking ore for shipment.

GREENE-CANANEA COMPANY

Obtains Concession to Prospect for Oil in State of Sonora—Operations at Cananea Expected to Start Again in About Two Months With Largely Increased Force.

Mexico City, April 25.—The Greene-Cananea Copper company has obtained a concession from the federal government to prospect for oil in the state of Sonora. The company receives a large tract of public land for its operations.

The great mines of Cananea will be in operation on or before sixty days. The copper demand is increasing and it seems there have been important contracts for this metal. In an interview at his rooms in the Hotel Saens, Col. W. C. Greene said: "The works at Cananea will start in about two months and at that time will need 6,000 miners. It will not be a difficult matter to get them, as there is at present a grea demand for work. When the works are started it will be kept up. The majority of the copper that Cananea will produce will be sold in Europe and the United States, from where we have received propositions that have been accepted already."

The famous La Mula zinc mine, near Cuatro Cienegas, Coahuila, is again being operated after a shutdown of a few months. This mine is owned by Carlos Moser. It is said to be the biggest producer of high-grade zinc ore in Mexico, having yielded shipments of more than 30,000 tons before its shutdown.

The Compania de Real del Monte y Pachuca is prepared to increase its production. It has just declared a dividend of $100 a share, aggregating $255,000. It has completed a number of important improvements by which its production will be increased. These include the conversion of the old patio process into a modern cyanide mill and the erection of a second cyanide plant.

The Rio Tinto copper mines at Terrazas, Chihuahua, continue to show up large bodies of good copper ore, according to Gerald Goodale, manager of the property. The smelter at this mine was shut down recently.

The syndicate of Kansas City, Mo., men who recently acquired La Fortuna mine in the Taviche district, Oaxaca, have denounced fifteen claims adjoining the property so as to protect the dip of the vein. A 40-horse power hoisting plant will be installed. The installation of pumps will also be necessary, as large quantities of water are being encountered. The shaft cut the vein at a depth of about 60 feet.

El Carmen Gold Mining company is pushing development work on its San Lorenzo district, Sinaloa. These are both ancient mines, which were worked by the Spaniards. The San Manuel has been developed into a big producer, there being more than 100,000 tons of ore in sight. This ore is said to have an average value of 3 kilos silver and 12 to 18 grams gold a ton. A drift is now being run north and south to cut a high grade vein that runs east and west. A pump has been installed in El Carmen mine and that property is being unwatered and retimbered.

The recent sale of the Rosario mine in the Taviche district, Oaxaca, to a syndicate of Alabama men headed by R. E. Styner of Birmingham has aroused much interest in mining circles. It is said that the new owners will install new machinery and carry on development work on a big scale.

A twenty stamp mill will be erected at the Bucana Ventura mine, in the Senacca district, Chihuahua. This mine is owned by George S. Good of Lock Haven, Pa., and associates. The work on the mine was suspended recently on account of water, but pumps are to be installed. The ore of this mine is very rich, twenty tons bringing a return of $1,000 a ton.

Tucson, Ariz., April 25.—Thomas F. Cole, president of the Greene-Cananea company and party spent several hours in the city and left for Hermosillo, where an important conference is to be held between Greene-Cananea officials and Governor Torres of Sonora.

Mr. Cole was accompanied by his wife and has just returned to Arizona from a two weeks' stay in the City of Mexico, where the matter of a reduction import duty on coal, coke and other materials in behalf of the Greene-Cananea, was taken up with Mexican officials. In the party in Tucson were Thomas Cole and wife, Dr. L. D. Ricketts, general manager of the Greene-Cananea company; Thomas Collins and W. D. Thornton, president of the Cananea Consolidated Copper company, which is the Mexican name for the Greene-Cananea company.

Mr. Cole was seen by a Star representative on his private car just before the train pulled out for Hermosillo. When asked for an interview on Greene-Cananea affairs, Mr. Cole said:

"I regret that I cannot state positively when reduction operations will be resumed at Cananea. A large number of miners are employed there at present on development work, which is showing up splendidly, but I have nothing to say as to when the smelter will be started. I have just returned from the city of Mexico in company with Greene-Cananea officials, and had a very pleasant interview with prominent Mexican officials at the capitol, including President Diaz."

When pressed for a statement regarding the nature of the interview, Mr. Cole politely refused to answer.

"I am going to Sonora," continued Mr. Cole, "to see Governor Torres on the same matter which took me to the city of Mexico. I expect to be in Hermosillo two days and will return to Douglas and thence to my home in Minnesota."

Mr. Ricketts, whenu seen by a Star representative, said:

"The report which has been published to the effect that the Mexican government had used any coercive methods in regard to the reopening of the Greene-

GOOD PROGRESS BEING MADE

New Properties on Butte Hill Making Great Strides in Development—Butte & Superior Cutting Station on 1,000-Foot Level and Will Run Crosscut on the 1,200.

Butte, Mont., April 25.—Steady progress is being made toward extension development of the properties of the Butte & Superior Copper company, and during the past month the work has gone along more smoothly than during any previous time. The shaft is now down 1,050 feet, and a large station is being cut on the 1,000-foot level. There is some talk that a crosscut may be run north and south from this section, but nothing definite has been decided upon. It is quite certain, however, that crosscutting will be done on the 1,200-foot level, when it is expected that extensive ore bodies will be opened up. In the 500-foot level the silver values are high, and the ore carries about 2 per cent of copper. At this level, however, the zinc percentage is great, but following the developments in all others of the great producers, the zinc elliminates itself between that level and the 700 or 800.

Whatever course as to crosscutting may be adopted, sinking will be continued to the 1,200-foot level before any attempt will be made to develop any extensive copper ore bodies, unless the veins on the 1,000 should prove to carry ore in commercial quantities. Even then sinking would be continued to a depth of at least 2,000 feet to get under the ore bodies which may be developed above. It is the purpose of the management to make the Butte & Superior a great producer of high-grade ore, and with the indications thus far in evidence there is good reason to believe that values equal to and as extensive as those of the North Butte properties may be found.

The shaft is now in hard granite and better progress is being made than during the first 900 feet when the shaft passed through a great deal of ledge matter. The new twenty-drill air compressor, recently installed in the boiler room, is adding materially in the work.

The stations on the north and south sides of the Butte-Ballaklava shaft on the 700-foot level are about completed and crosscutting to the veins will be commenced in a few days. It is probable that the Edith May vein, on the south, will be the first to be intersected and if there is no change in the dip as it appeared on the upper levels, the vein should be reached with about from twenty to thirty feet of crosscutting. Comparing this depth with the North Butte, which is taking ore from the Edith May vein, taking into consideration the difference in altitude between the two collars, 700 feet depth in the Butte-Ballaklava will be equal to 875 feet in the Speculator shaft and a corresponding depth in the Edith May vein. Equally as good ore should therefore be found on the 700-foot level of the vein in the Butte-Ballaklava ground as on the 900-foot level of the same vein in the North Butte ground, and from this level the latter is taking out heavy shipments of first-class ore. The North Butte is working in the Edith May vein within 900 feet of the Butte-Ballaklava shaft.

On the 500-foot level, the Butte-Ballaklava company is now blocking out ore on the Edith May vein, and shipments will commence at once. The vein on the 500-foot level is two feet in width where it is intersected by the crosscut, and in the drifting it is showing a decided tendency to widen out. The values are better than 20 per cent copper and good silver and gold values.

Drifting is still in progress easterly on the vein in the Tuolumne ground on the 1,000-foot level and some improvement is noticeable. A few days ago some very excellent ore was encountered, and the indications point to the opening up of an extensive deposit in the near future. The company has decided to go after the higher values, however, and in order to reach the depth of 1,500 feet rapidly, the new surface plant will be installed as soon as it can be received. The order was placed several weeks ago.

The Amalgamated Copper company is not returning to normal conditions of mining and copper production as rapidly as was promised. Not more than 3,000 additional men have been put to work at the mines in the Butte district since March 1, making the total number employed at the properties of the Amalgamated subsidiary companies between 5,000 and 5,500. The number employed normally is about 8,000.

The Amalgamated companies are producing copper at the rate of about 14,-000,000 to 16,000,000 pounds per month, and it is not considered likely that the production will be increased for some time. The price at which copper is selling is too near the actual cost of production. The fear is general in Butte that if the copper metal market does not improve within the next three months another shutdown of the Butte mines will result.

Orders have been received from New York by Superintendent John Miles of the Butte-Milwaukee Mining company to prepare for resumption of develop-

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Less Than 15,000,000 Pounds of Refined Copper at the Mines and Smelters—Calumet & Hecla Erecting Large Steel Regrinding Mill—Adventure Is Running Four Rock-Drills.

Houghton, Mich., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The opening of lake navigation finds the Lake Superior mines and smelters with not quite 15,-000,000 pounds of refined copper on hand, or something less than four weeks' normal output, as production is now running at the rate of a trifle more than 4,000,000 pounds of finished copper weekly. The small accumulation of supplies noted is due to the desire to take advantage of the lower freight rates between Houghton and the Atlantic seaboard, available as soon as copper can be shipped by water to Buffalo. Demand for the metal is not quite so good as one month ago, but is materially better than was the case at any time during the latter half of last year. The managements of the leading Lake mines accept the situation philosophically, hoping for better things, while preparing for even worse, should necessity arise to face such a contingency, but the outlook is for a dull market and low prices for the metal for at least some months to come, with a possibility of a continuance of practically the present conditions during all or nearly all of the present year. All of the best mines are making a little money, with copper at its present price, and could meet an even lower figure, and come out with a profit, should necessity demand. The strain is on the poorer mines, which are having a rather hard time of it, with no very bright prospects of immediate relief.

The Calumet & Hecla is erecting a large steel regrinding mill, as a result of long and careful experiments conducted on the tailings from the stamp mill, and there is no question that considerably closer exraction than heretofore will be rendered possible by the use of the new plant. The tailings loss of the Calument & Hecla is now but little more than half as large as fifteen years ago, due in some degree to the decreased percentage of copper contained in the rock milled, but ascribable mainly to better milling processes, by which fine copper formerly lost is now saved. The problem of closer extraction of metallic values is one that has had the careful consideration of able men since the Cliff mine started the first stamp-mill in the Lake Superior district, sixty years ago, and, while progress has not been secured along spectacular lines, and the gain from year to year has been slow, there has been a steady increase in the percentage of metallic values extracted in the mills. Nowhere in the world, outside of the gold mines of the Witwatersrand, in South Africa, are there such enormous piles of tailings, the sands of the Calumet & Hecla, which are the largest, being nearly or quite 35,000,000 short tons, while there are tailings of millions of tons each, at a score or more of mills of the present day, and sites of former mills. The imaginations of many have been fired by the knowledge that these apparantly barren sands contain tens of millions of dollars worth of copper, and literally scores of attempts have been made at reworking these sands. Barring a few of the crude plants of the earlier days, none of those efforts have succeeded. Some of the failures are ascribable to lack of knowledge on part of their projectors, as milling and smelting problems too great for the combined knowledge and skill of the men who have made such work the business of their lifetimes always attract amateur metallurgists, who are constantly patenting new and revolutionary methods of mineral extraction, greatly to the profit of the patent-office at Washington, but no small share of the troubles met with is due to the inherent difficulties encountered in attempting to save the very fine metallic particles found in the copper-bearing rock of the Lake Superior district. Much of the metal, while native, is in such extremely minute flakes that it floats on water, like flour-gold. The included copper is very difficult to extract, and oxidation in the great heaps of tailings changes the nature of the metallic contents, in time.

The most ambitious attempts ever made at the recovery of copper from the mill-sands is that at the plant now held by the Houghton Concentrating company. This large plant is the outcome of a small test plant, built about eight years ago on the sands of the old Franklin millsite, by T. G. Mays, who had had previous experience with a sludge plant, working chat-piles in the Joplin district. The test plant turned out only a few barrels of copper, and the backers of the enterprise sold the machinery. Mr. Mays then organized the Lake Superior Concentrating company, of which the present corporation is the successor, and built a large plant on the Quincy sands, at Mason, on the shores of Torch lake, the new mill being assured an enormous tonnage of both old and new sands. Alfred Schwarz, who has a supposedly

BISBEE AND GLOBE FIELDS

Bisbee, Ariz., April 25.—The past week in the local mining field has been practically featureless, the only changes which can be noted being progress in various important improvements being made by the different companies in their mines.

The Copper Queen company is finishing the final details in the installation of the machinery in its magnificent new power house on Sacramento Hill, and within a short time the announcement of when the plant will be put into commission will be forthcoming. This plant, when completed, will furnish all of the electricity for lighting and power used in the company's mines, and will form an essential part of the new hoisting system.

Work at the Sacramento shaft is progressing rapidly in preparation for the change of hoisting systems. This will form the central point in mining operations of the Copper Queen, as all of the ore will be loaded at this shaft, and a great saving will be realized because of doing away with the necessity of hauling the ores from the high lines to the city and then down the canyon as at present.

There has been nothing but routine work at the Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg properties, the ore product is remaining the same and development work being prosecuted steadily on the extensive new ore bodies in the latter.

The Shattuck people expect to have the last of the bids for the construction of their smelter submitted by the end of the month.

Globe, Ariz., April 25.—The striking of the Future vein in the north crosscut on the twelfth level of the Gem mine of the Globe Consolidated company has greatly encouraged those who are engaged in the development of that promising property. The vein has been proven to be thirty-seven feet wide between the walls, and and drifts will now be run in both directions on the foot wall to locate ore chutes. The formation is sulphide in character. The north crosscut from the Mallory shaft is in six feet of good ore and not through it yet.

Hoval A. Smith, who with H. B. Hovland promoted the company and who is one of the directors, stated that the striking of the vein was highly satisfactory. "Some have been disappointed," he said, "because of the fact that the porphyry did not immediately precede the vein, but the manner in which it occurs is not out of the ordinary, when it is taken into consideration that the ground we are developing is entirely new and being so we have had absolutely no data on which to base any calculations. We were satisfied when we first began operations, that good ore bodies would be encountered with depth, but we had no way of forecasting the conditions under which they would occur. We did not expect to open up a second Old Dominion mine the first couple of years, but by the end of the second year we will have a pretty good idea of where we are and what we have." Mr. Smith has gone to Bisbee, where he makes his headquarters, but he expects to return to Globe in the near future.

Silver City, N. M., April 25.—The smelting plant of the Comanche Mining & Smelting company at this place will be started up again soon.

The Burro Mountain Copper company is arranging to resume operations at its mines in the Burro Mountain district. These mines were producing large quantities of ore and gave employment to more than 90 men before the drop in copper forced them to close down a few months ago.

THE DOS CABEZAS DISTRICT

Property of Sunset Company Making Good Showing —Calumet & Arizona Developing Ore Bodies of Proven Value on Adjoining Property.

Paradise, Ariz., April 25.—E. F. Brandt and Frank A. Rasch, both of Detroit, Mich., have completed a visit to their properties here. Mr. Brandt is one of the most prominent mining engineers in the state of Michigan and an old-time friend of Thomas F. Cole and L. W. Powell. Mr. Rasch is a prominent attorney of Detroit, Mich.

Both of these gentlemen are directors of the Sunset Mining & Milling company of Wilcox, Ariz., and were here for the purpose of inspecting the company's property.

With the keen eye of a professional and experienced engineer, Mr. Brandt inspected a number of properties in the Dos Cabezas district, and was well pleased with what he saw. He states that the Sunset Mining & Milling company has a very valuable property, and predicts a bright future for the entire Dos Cabezas district. On this property adjoining the Sunset Mining & Milling company, the Calumet & Arizona is developing ore bodies of proven value, and with a large force of men, while in the immediate vicinity the Mascot Mining company has opened immense bodies of high grade copper ore. Several carloads which the Mascot company last year shipped to the smelter, yielded an average of 40 per cent copper, besides silver and gold.

The Sunset Mining & Milling company had shipped several carloads of ore to the Copper Queen smelter at Douglas, which have yielded very fair returns, considering the depth attained. The company is backed by Detroit, Mich., capitalists, who are well able to develop the property regardless of any financial stringencies, and steps will be taken to commence development work on a large scale.

A railroad will be built into the Dos Cabezas district in the near future.

THE COPPER CREEK COMPANY

Arrangements Have Been Made for Erection of Concentrating and Smelting Plant---Another Group of Adjoining Claims to Be Purchased.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 25.—The fourth annual stockholders' meeting of the Copper Creek company, one of the many mining companies that are now buying their supplies from Phoenix merchants was held in Tucson at the office of John B. Wright. There was something over $1,000,000 in stock represented. There were present from the outside the following persons: C. H. Pettit, Minneapolis; M. W. Atwood, Los Angeles; Rev. Frederick Miller, Los Angeles; J. Emil Nelson, Minneapolis, and C. E. Gilhausen, Los Angeles.

The company owns over 1,900 acres of mineral land, upon which there has been several thousand feet in developments, shafts, tunnels, drifts and crosscuts. During the past year over 2,000 feet of development work was accomplished and the new road built from Winkleman to the camp. This was accomplished at a cost of $13,000. It enables an automobile or other conveyance to make easy rides over the same.

The company has arranged for a concentrating and smelting plant. A sixty-ton concentrtaing plant has been negotiated for, which will be producing by the first of October. With the good roads the concentrates can be freighted through Phoenix to market at the minimum cost. The character of the ore will produce concentrates of the minimum value of $100.

The stockholders also recommended that the general manager purchase another group of claims adjoining the present holding, a portion of which are contiguous to the properties of the Calumet & Arizona; $1,000 was paid during the past year for additional holdings to the previous holdings of the company, which was utilized for a smelter site and other machinery houses of the company. The management was also directed to establish a company store for the benefit of its employes.

The following directors were elected to fill vacancies: J. B. Wright, Roy Sibley and Fay Sibley. The salary of General Manager Sibley was raised from $2,500 to $3,000 and the salary of the superintendent from $1,500 to $2,000.

SMELTER TRUST IS OPPOSED

Panhandle Smelter at Ponderay, Idaho, Secured by the Montana Mine-Owners' Association and Its Capacity is to Be Quadrupled.

Spokane, Wash., April 25.—Montana Mine-Owners' association, composed of 300 active operators and shippers, and representing a combined capital of $1,000,000, secured the control of the Idaho Smelting & Refining company's Panhandle smelter at Ponderay, Idaho, northeast of Spokane, following a conference of eight hours in this city. The capacity of the plant, now 250 tons, will be increased to handle 1,000 tons of ore daily, and employment will be given to from 200 to 400 men. One hundred thousand dollars will be expended in improvements. The plant will be equipped for the treatment of copper, and a refinery is to be added. It is purposed, also, to enlist every independent mine owner in Montana in the association. The name will be changed to the Montana & Idaho Smelting company.

As an impetus to mining development in the Northwest, the advent of the Montana Mine-Owners' association into the smelting field is of vast importance. It means that the smelter trust, which controls practically the big smelters in the Northwest, except those owned by the Amalgamated Copper company, will have active opposition. Mine owners and operators have long had grievances against the methods of the trust, which not only regulates the price of ore, but practically makes the prices on the metal market.

The chief reason for taking over the plant, which was established six years ago, is to protect the mine-owners of Montana against the smelter trust. The membership of the association includes such operators as W. A. Clark, largest individual mine operator in the world; W. G. Conrad, Owen Byrnes, Dr. Peter Musicbroad and Thomas L. Greenough. LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Tendency Toward Further Curtailment as Stock Piles on Older Ranges Are Larger Than Deemed Desirable---Working Forces Being Cut.

The arrival of the period when, under normal conditions it is customary to start the movement of ore to the lower lakes finds a situation offering but little encouragement to the Lake Superior iron mining region. In fact, there is even expansion in the policy of retrenchment. Stockpiles on the old ranges are larger than the operators deem desirable, notwithstanding that in practically all cases those of the mines continued on the active list have been wrought with materially reduced forces; and with little or no demand for the ore, the tendency is toward still further curtailment.

The Rirdsall & Susquehanna company has all but suspended operations at the Hiawatha mine, in the Stambaugh district of the Menominee range, and has surrendered a number of properties in that locality, to explore on which it had taken options. The Huron Mining company's Youngs mine, in the same field, has been closed, throwing some seventy men out of work. Upwards of 50,000 tons of ore were shipped last season. The Brule Mining company, controlled by Ohio furnace interests and managed by Ogle-bay, Norton & Co., also has stopped work in the Stambaugh district. Its Lenox Beresford and Chatham No. 1 and No. 2 mines have been added to the idle list, as a result of which 175 men are out of employment. The pumps have been pulled at the Lenox, but unless present orders are changed the other shafts will be kept free of water. The group has been quite well developed, and could probably send out a quarter of a million tons this season were the ore needed. The Chatham was the only shipper last year.

In the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee, Oglebay, Norton & C., have made a still further cut in the working force at the Bristol mine. The property has been operated on a reduced scale since early in the winter, still while the stockpile is not as large as at this time a year ago no sales of the product have yet been made. The mine shipped 350,000 tons last season. Work is at a standstill on the company's lands at Commonwealth, in the Wisconsin portion of the range. At the Traders' mine near Iron Mountain, Oglebay, Norton & Co., have only about a dozen men on the payroll.

A SUITABLE SMELTER SITE

Being Sought by Utah Consolidated Company of Bingham---Two Important Strikes in Tunnel of Bingham Central-Standard Mines.

Salt Lake, Utah, April 25.—The Utah Consolidated Mining company, Bingham, is renewing its efforts to secure a suitable smelter site along with a definite assurance that it won't have to pay out the proceeds of the mine to the farmers near the smelter. Some months ago a site in Pine canon, across the range from Bingham, was decided upon and negotiations with the farmers had been in progress for some time when the project was dropped. The company is willing to pay the farmers 10 per cent of the value of the farms within the smoke zone.

Two important strikes have been made in the Jeff Davis tunnel of the Bingham Central-Standard mines at Bingham. The tunnel is being driven to cut at a depth an ore body from which leasers have been shipping for six months past. In reaching for it two parallel fissures have been cut, one within a few days the other some time ago, but kept secret. The first fissure shows two and one-half feet of 12.4 per cent copper ore, while that more recently opened showed at the point of contact two feet of high grade ore carrying all four metals. This vein, in which drifting is now progressing while the tunnel is pushed ahead, has widened to three and one-half feet. It carries 5 per cent copper, 35 to 40 per cent lead, $2 to $4 in gold and fifteen to twenty ounces in silver to the ton.

The report of operations submitted at the annual meeting of the May Day Mining & Milling company (Tintic) shows that, though during the first four months of the fiscal year the output was light and not a pound sold during the last three months, a total of fifteen and one-half car loads of crude ore and fifteen and one-half car loads of concentrates was marketed during the time the mine was operated. The figures given indicate that the crude ore netted the company

Rich Strike Made Fifty Miles From Phoenix, on the Figtree Group, Near Gibson, on the New River in Arizona.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 25.—Another big mining strike has been made less than fifty miles from Phoenix. Ore running from 40 to 80 per cent in copper, with big gold values, has been found in a shaft on the Figtree group, owned by F. E. Withey, seven miles northeast of Gibson's station, on New river.

Mr. Withey drove into Phoenix, accompanied by his wife, last Sunday. With him he brought a sack of ore from the 60-foot level of his shaft, which Assayer Joe Porteric estimates ran 70 per cent in the red metal, with silver and gold running $25 to $18.

The report shows that there is any amount of this ore in the shaft. Mr. Withey says he has 100 tons on the dump, which will average 40 per cent in copper and $20 in gold. The gold and silver, he believes, will more than pay the entire expense of mining the ore.

There are ten claims in the Figtree group, a part of which are not copper properties. The quartz taken out of the shallow shafts, which have been sunk on the gold claims, runs from $15 to $180 in the yellow metal.

"I honestly believe I have one of the big mines of the world," said Mr. Withey. "I had an expert opinion on the group last winter. One of the best mining men in the country told me that all it needed was development.

"The gold claims are also rich. I think that they will prove to be fully as rich in gold as the others are in copper. I also think that the gold mixed in with the copper will pay the full cost of taking out and treating the rock. The copper values will be clear gain."

Mr. Withey took a piece of rock to Mr. Porteric to be assayed. Upon seeing the sample brought him, Mr. Porterie's first exclamation was, "Good heavens! Why don't you bring a piece of bullion to be assayed?" And this piece is said to be no exception to the general rule at the Figtree mine. Just before he left Mr. Withey took out a ton, from which this piece was broken off at random.

RICH STRIKE AT GOLDFIELD

All Records for High-Grade Ore Strikes Broken in Lease on the Florence---Latest Reports From Rawhide Camp.

Goldfield, Nev., April 25.—All records for high grade ore strikes in Goldfield have been broken in the little Florence company's lease on the Florence. Average samples taken across four feet and four inches, from wall to wall, and five feet in height are stated to give returns of 1,424.44 ounces in gold, value $28,488.80 a ton. Six inches of the ore taken from top to bottom of the drift contained 3,874 ounces in gold to the ton, or $76,952 in value. The find was made on the 450 foot level in a drift that had followed a small shoot of ore for fifty feet when a fault occurred. Back of the fault the ore widened out to four feet four inches, every ounce of which is said to be the picture class. The ore is a black sulphide, with yellow gold.

The local of the Western Federation of Miners has called off the strike in Goldfield and the members are now permitted to work along with non-union men in mines where the Tonopah wage scale is in force. The mine operators' association scale is 50 cents a day under the Tonopah wages and the secretary of the association says that this will not be changed. This limits the opportunities of employment to small leases, not members, which employ not to exceed 100 men. Some of the big leases on the Florence are paying their men a bonus of one and a half shifts for every seven days, which brings the wages of miners up to $4.86, or 36 cents in excess of the Tonopah scale.

Operations in the district are gradually resuming their normal scope. Almost 100 leases are now working, nearly all of them employing three shifts but there is a small army of unemployed men. Many of the Western Federation men are attempting, despite the prohibition of the union, to get work at these leases.

Rawhide, Nev., April 25.—Nine hoists went into operation on various properties last week and eighteen more are on the way here. These will give employment within a month to 500 to 600 men. According to the reports coming from the leasers in the camp a considerable number of them are either sacking good ore or working in ore that will pay to ship. Two cars of ore are ready for shipment from Kearns' No. 1 lease. One car carries values of $100 a ton and the other of $190 a ton. Ore is being sacked on the Lillian lease on Murray hill from a four inch streak of phenomenally rich rock. An eight inch streak of rock has been struck on the Aspinwall lease on Murray hill. It carries values of 250. On the Poor Boy group nine sets of leasers are at work, all of them, it is said, working in ore that runs from $12 to $30 to the ton. On the west side of the camp the Royal is sacking ore from a ten inch seam running $1,260 to the ton. It has also two feet of ore averaging $100 in value. The Bushwhacker, adjoining, has reached a depth of fifty feet and is sacking ore from a five to eight inch streak averaging $480. On the Regent group there are twelve leases, six of which, is it said, are sacking ore for shipment.

GREENE-CANANEA COMPANY

Obtains Concession to Prospect for Oil in State of Sonora—Operations at Cananea Expected to Start Again in About Two Months With Largely Increased Force.

Mexico City, April 25.—The Greene-Cananea Copper company has obtained a concession from the federal government to prospect for oil in the state of Sonora. The company receives a large tract of public land for its operations.

The great mines of Cananea will be in operation on or before sixty days. The copper demand is increasing and it seems there have been important contracts for this metal. In an interview at his rooms in the Hotel Saens, Col. W. C. Greene said: "The works at Cananea will start in about two months and at that time will need 6,000 miners. It will not be a difficult matter to get them, as there is at present a grea demand for work. When the works are started it will be kept up. The majority of the copper that Cananea will produce will be sold in Europe and the United States, from where we have received propositions that have been accepted already."

The famous La Mula zinc mine, near Cuatro Cienegas, Coahuila, is again being operated after a shutdown of a few months. This mine is owned by Carlos Moser. It is said to be the biggest producer of high-grade zinc ore in Mexico, having yielded shipments of more than 30,000 tons before its shutdown.

The Compania de Real del Monte y Pachuca is prepared to increase its production. It has just declared a dividend of $100 a share, aggregating $255,000. It has completed a number of important improvements by which its production will be increased. These include the conversion of the old patio process into a modern cyanide mill and the erection of a second cyanide plant.

The Rio Tinto copper mines at Terrazas, Cnihuahua, continue to show up large bodies of good copper ore, according to David Goodale, manager of the property. The smelter at this mine was shut down recently.

The syndicate of Kansas City, Mo., men who recently acquired La Fortuna mine in the Taviche district, Oaxaca, have denounced fifteen claims adjoining the property so as to protect the dip of the vein. A 40-horse power hoisting plant will be installed. The installation of pumps will also be necessary, as large quantities of water are being encountered. The shaft cut the vein at a depth of about 60 feet.

El Carmen Gold Mining company is pushing development work on its San Lorenzo district, Sinaloa. These are both ancient mines, which were worked by the Spaniards. The San Manuel has been developed into a big producer, there being more than 100,000 tons of ore in sight. This ore is said to have an average value of 3 kilos silver and 12 to 18 grams gold a ton. A drift is now being run north and south to cut a high grade vein that runs east and west. A pump has been installed in El Carmen mine and that property is being unwatered and retimbered.

The recent sale of the Rosario mine in the Taviche district, Oaxaca, to a syndicate of Alabama men headed by R. E. Styner of Birmingham has aroused much interest in mining circles. It is said that the new owners will install new machinery and carry on development work on a big scale.

A twenty stamp mill will be erected at the Bucana Ventura mine, in the Senaica district, Chihuahua. This mine is owned by George S. Good of Lock Haven, Pa., and associates. The work on the mine was suspended recently on account of water, but pumps are to be installed. The ore of this mine is very rich, twenty tons bringing a return of $1,000 a ton.

Tucson, Ariz., April 25.—Thomas F. Cole, president of the Greene-Cananea company ,and party spent several hours in the city and left for Hermosillo, where an important conference is to be held between Greene-Cananea officials and Governor Torres of Sonora.

Mr. Cole was accompanied by his wife and has just returned to Arizona from a two weeks' stay in the City of Mexico, where the matter of a reduction import duty on coal, coke and other materials in behalf of the Greene-Cananea, was taken up with Mexican officials. In the party in Tucson were Thomas Cole and wife, Dr. L. D. Ricketts, general manager of the Greene-Cananea company; Thomas Collins and W. D. Thornton, president of the Cananea Consolidated Copper company, which is the Mexican name for the Greene-Cananea company.

Mr. Cole was seen by a Star representative on his private car just before the train pulled out for Hermosillo. When asked for an interview on Greene-Cananea affairs, Mr. Cole said:

"I regret that I cannot state positively when reduction operations will be resumed at Cananea. A large number of miners are employed there at present on development work, which is showing up splendidly, but I have nothing to say as to when the smelter will be started. I have just returned from the city of Mexico in company with Greene-Cananea officials, and had a very pleasant interview with prominent Mexican officials at the capitol, including President Diaz."

When pressed for a statement regarding the nature of the interview, Mr. Cole politely refused to answer.

"I am going to Sonora," continued Mr. Cole, "to see Governor Torres on the same matter which took me to the city of Mexico. I expect to be in Hermosillo two days and will return to Douglas and thence to my home in Minnesota."

Mr. Ricketts, whenu seen by a Star representative, said:

"The report which has been published to the effect that the Mexican government had used any coercive methods in regard to the reopening of the Greene-

GOOD PROGRESS BEING MADE

New Properties on Butte Hill Making Great Strides in Development—Butte & Superior Cutting Station on 1,000-Foot Level and Will Run Crosscut on the 1,200.

Butte, Mont., April 25.—Steady progress is being made toward extension development of the properties of the Butte & Superior Copper company, and during the past month the work has gone along more smoothly than during any previous time. The shaft is now down 1,050 feet, and a large station is being cut on the 1,000-foot level. There is some talk that a crosscut may be run north and south from this section, but nothing definite has been decided upon. It is quite certain, however, that crosscutting will be done on the 1,200-foot level, when it is expected that extensive ore bodies will be opened up. In the 500-foot level the silver values are high, and the ore carries about 2 per cent of copper. At this level, however, the zinc percentage is great, but following the developments in all others of the great producers, the zinc eliminates itself between that level and the 700 or 800.

Whatever course as to crosscutting may be adopted, sinking will be continued to the 1,200-foot level before any attempt will be made to develop any extensive copper ore bodies, unless the veins on the 1,000 should prove to carry ore in commercial quantities. Even then sinking would be continued to a depth of at least 2,000 feet to get under the ore bodies which may be developed above. It is the purpose of the management to make the Butte & Superior a great producer of high-grade ore, and with the indications thus far in evidence there is good reason to believe that values equal to and as extensive as those of the North Butte properties may be found.

The shaft is now in hard granite and better progress is being made than during the first 900 feet when the shaft passed through a great deal of ledge matter. The new twenty-drill air compressor, recently installed in the boiler room, is adding materially in the work.

The stations on the north and south sides of the Butte-Ballaklava shaft on the 700-foot level are about completed and crosscutting to the veins will be commenced in a few days. It is probable that the Edith May vein, on the south, will be the first to be intersected and if there is no change in the dip as it appeared on the upper levels, the vein should be reached with about from twenty to thirty feet of crosscutting. Comparing this depth with the North Butte, which is taking ore from the Edith May vein, taking into consideration the difference in altitude between the two collars, 700 feet depth in the Butte-Ballaklava will be equal to 875 feet in the Speculator shaft and a corresponding depth in the Edith May vein. Equally as good ore should therefore be found on the 700-foot level of the vein in the Butte-Ballaklava ground as on the 900-foot level of the same vein in the North Butte ground, and from this level the latter is taking out heavy shipments of first-class ore. The North Butte is working in the Edith May vein within 900 feet of the Butte-Ballaklava shaft.

On the 500-foot level, the Butte-Ballaklava company is now blocking out ore on the Edith May vein, and shipments will commence at once. The vein on the 500-foot level is two feet in width where it is intersected by the crosscut, and in the drifting it is showing a decided tendency to widen out. The values are better than 20 per cent copper and good silver and gold values.

Drifting is still in progress easterly on the vein in the Tuolumne ground on the 1,000-foot level and some improvement is noticeable. A few days ago some very excellent ore was encountered, and the indications point to the opening up of an extensive deposit in the near future. The company has decided to go after the higher values, however, and in order to reach the depth of 1,500 feet rapidly, the new surface plant will be installed as soon as it can be received. The order was placed several weeks ago.

The Amalgamated Copper company is not returning to normal conditions of mining and copper production as rapidly as was promised. Not more than 3,000 additional men have been put to work at the mines in the Butte district since March 1, making the total number employed at the properties of the Amalgamated subsidiary companies between 5,000 and 5,500. The number employed normally is about 8,000.

The Amalgamated companies are producing copper at the rate of about 14,000,000 to 16,000,000 pounds per month, and it is not considered likely that the production will be increased for some time. The price at which copper is selling is too near the actual cost of production. The fear is general in Butte that if the copper metal market does not improve within the next three months another shutdown of the Butte mines will result.

Orders have been received from New York by Superintendent John Miles of the Butte-Milwaukee Mining company to prepare for resumption of develop-

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Houghton, Mich., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The opening of lake navigation finds the Lake Superior mines and smelters with not quite 15,000,000 pounds of refined copper on hand, or something less than four weeks' normal output, as production is now running at the rate of a trifle more than 4,000,000 pounds of finished copper weekly. The small accumulation of supplies noted is due to the desire to take advantage of the lower freight rates between Houghton and the Atlantic seaboard, available as soon as copper can be shipped by water to Buffalo. Demand for the metal is not quite so good as one month ago, but is materially better than was the case at any time during the latter half of last year. The managements of the leading Lake mines accept the situation philosophically, hoping for better things, while preparing for even worse, should necessity arise to face such a contingency, but the outlook is for a dull market and low prices for the metal for at least some months to come, with a possibility of a continuance of practically the present conditions during all or nearly all of the present year. All of the best mines are making a little money, with copper at its present price, and could meet an even lower figure, and come out with a profit, should necessity demand. The strain is on the poorer mines, which are having a rather hard time of it, with no very bright prospects of immediate relief.

The Calumet & Hecla is erecting a large steel regrinding mill, as a result of long and careful experiments conducted on the tailings from the stamp mill, and there is no question that considerably closer exraction than heretofore will be rendered possible by the use of the new plant. The tailings loss of the Calument & Hecla is now but little more than half as large as fifteen years ago, due in some degree to the decreased percentage of copper contained in the rock milled, but ascribable mainly to better milling processes, by which fine copper formerly lost is now saved. The problem of closer extraction of metallic values is one that has had the careful consideration of able men since the Cliff mine started the first stamp-mill in the Lake Superior district, sixty years ago, and, while progress has not been secured along spectacular lines, and the gain from year to year has been slow, there has been a steady increase in the percentage of metallic values extracted in the mills. Nowhere in the world, outside of the gold mines of the Witwatersrand, in South Africa, are there such enormous piles of tailings, the sands of the Calumet & Hecla, which are the largest, being nearly or quite 35,000,000 short tons, while there are tailings of millions of tons each, at a score or more of mills of the present day, and sites of former mills. The imaginations of many have been fired by the knowledge that these apparantly barren sands contain tens of millions of dollars worth of copper, and literally scores of attempts have been made at reworking these sands. Barring a few of the crude plants of the earlier days, none of these efforts have succeeded. Some of the failures are ascribable to lack of knowledge on the part of their projectors, as milling and smelting problems too great for the combined knowledge and skill of the men who have made such work the business of their lifetimes always attract amateur metallurgists, who are constantly patenting new and revolutionary methods of mineral extraction, greatly to the profit of the patent-office at Washington, but no small share of the troubles met with is due to the inherent difficulties encountered in attempting to save the very fine metallic particles found in the copper-bearing rock of the Lake Superior district. Much of the metal, while native, is in such extremely minute flakes that it floats on water, like flour-gold. The included copper is very difficult to extract, and oxidation in the great heaps of tailings changes the nature of the metallic contents, in time.

The most ambitious attempts ever made at the recovery of copper from the mill-sands is that at the plant now held by the Houghton Concentrating company. This large plant is the outcome of a small test plant, built about eight years ago on the sands of the old Franklin millsite, by T. G. Mays, who had had previous experience with a sludge plant, working chat-piles in the Joplin district. The test plant turned out only a few barrels of copper, and the backers of the enterprise sold the machinery. Mr. Mays then organized the Lake Superior Concentrating company, of which the present corporation is the successor, and built a large plant on the Quincy sands, at Mason, on the shores of Torch lake, the new mill being assured an enormous tonnage of both old and new sands. Alfred Schwarz, who has a supposedly

Bisbee, Ariz., April 25.—The past week in the local mining field has been practically featureless, the only changes which can be noted being progress in various important improvements being made by the different companies in their mines.

The Copper Queen company is finishing the final details in the installation of the machinery in its magnificent new power house on Sacramento Hill, and within a short time the announcement of when the plant will be put into commission will be forthcoming. This plant, when completed, will furnish all of the electricity for lighting and power used in the company's mines, and will form an essential part of the new hoisting system.

Work at the Sacramento shaft is progressing rapidly in preparation for the change of hoisting systems. This will form the central point in mining operations of the Copper Queen, as all of the ore will be loaded at this shaft, and a great saving will be realized because of doing away with the necessity of hauling the ores from the high lines to the city and then down the canyon as at present.

There has been nothing but routine work at the Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg properties, the ore product is remaining the same and development work being prosecuted steadily on the extensive new ore bodies in the latter.

The Shattuck people expect to have the last of the bids for the construction of their smelter submitted by the end of the month.

Globe, Ariz., April 25.—The striking of the Future vein in the north crosscut on the twelfth level of the Gem mine of the Globe Consolidated company has greatly encouraged those who are engaged in the development of that promising property. The vein has been proven to be thirty-seven feet wide between the walls, and and drifts will now be run in both directions on the foot wall to locate ore chutes. The formation is sulphide in character. The north crosscut from the Mallory shaft is in six feet of good ore and not through it yet.

Hoval A. Smith, who with H. B. Hovland promoted the company and who is one of the directors, stated that the striking of the vein was highly satisfactory. "Some have been disappointed," he said, "because of the fact that the porphyry did not immediately precede the vein, but the manner in which it occurs is not out of the ordinary, when it is taken into consideration that the ground we are developing is entirely new and being so we have had absolutely no data on which to base any calculations. We were satisfied when we first began operations, that good ore bodies would be encountered with depth, but we had no way of forecasting the conditions under which they would occur. We did not expect to open up a second Old Dominion mine the first couple of years, but by the end of the second year we will have a pretty good idea of where we are and what we have." Mr. Smith has gone to Bisbee, where he makes his headquarters, but he expects to return to Globe in the near future.

Silver City, N. M., April 25.—The smelting plant of the Comanche Mining & Smelting company at this place will be started up again, soon.

The Burro Mountain Copper company is arranging to resume operations at its mines in the Burro Mountain district. These mines were producing large quantities of ore and gave employment to more than 250 men before the drop in copper forced them to close down a few months ago.

THE DOS CABEZAS DISTRICT

Paradise, Ariz., April 25.—E. F. Brandt and Frank A. Rasch, both of Detroit, Mich., have completed a visit to their properties here. Mr. Brandt is one of the most prominent mining engineers in the state of Michigan and an old-time friend of Thomas F. Cole and L. W. Powell. Mr. Rasch is a prominent attorney of Detroit, Mich.

Both of these gentlemen are directors of the Sunset Mining & Milling company of Wilcox, Ariz., and were here for the purpose of inspecting the company's property.

With the keen eye of a professional and experienced engineer, Mr. Brandt inspected a number of properties in the Dos Cabezas district, and was well pleased with what he saw. He states that the Sunset Mining & Milling company has a very valuable property, and predicts a bright future for the entire Dos Cabezas district. On this property adjoining the Sunset Mining & Milling company, the Calumet & Arizona is developing ore bodies of proven value, and with a large force of men, while in the immediate vicinity the Mascot Mining company has opened immense bodies of high grade copper ore. Several carloads which the Mascot company last year shipped to the smelter, yielded an average of 40 per cent copper, besides silver and gold.

The Sunset Mining & Milling company had shipped several carloads of ore to the Copper Queen smelter at Douglas, which have yielded very fair returns, considering the depth attained. The company is backed by Detroit, Mich., capitalists, who are well able to develop the property regardless of any financial stringencies, and steps will be taken to commence development work on a large scale.

A railroad will be built into the Dos Cabezas district in the near future.

THE COPPER CREEK COMPANY

Arrangements Have Been Made for Erection of Concentrating and Smelting Plant---Another Group of Adjoining Claims to Be Purchased.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 25.—The fourth annual stockholders' meeting of the Copper Creek company, one of the many mining companies that are now buying their supplies from Phoenix merchants was held in Tucson at the office of John B. Wright. There was something over $1,000,000 in stock represented. There were present from the outside the following persons: C. H. Pettit, Minneapolis; M. W. Atwood, Los Angeles; Rev. Frederick Miller, Los Angeles; J. Emil Nelson, Minneapolis, and C. E. Gilhausen, Los Angeles.

The company owns over 1,900 acres of mineral land, upon which there has been several thousand feet in developments, shafts, tunnels, drifts and crosscuts. During the past year over 2,000 feet of development work was accomplished and the new road built from Winkleman to the camp. This was accomplished at a cost of $13,000. It enables an automobile or other conveyance to make easy rides over the same.

The company has arranged for a concentrating and smelting plant. A sixty-ton concentrtaing plant has been negotiated for, which will be producing by the first of October. With the good roads the concentrates can be freighted through Phoenix to market at the minimum cost. The character of the ore will produce concentrates of the minimum value of $100.

The stockholders also recommended that the general manager purchase another group of claims adjoining the present holding, a portion of which are contiguous to the properties of the Calumet & Arizona; $1,000 was paid during the past year for additional holdings to the previous holdings of the company, which was utilized for a smelter site and other machinery houses of the company. The management was also directed to establish a company store for the benefit of its employes.

The following directors were elected to fill vacancies: J. B. Wright, Roy Sibley and Fay Sibley. The salary of General Manager Sibley was raised from $2,500 to $3,000 and the salary of the superintendent from $1,500 to $2,000.

SMELTER TRUST IS OPPOSED

Panhandle Smelter at Ponderay, Idaho, Secured by the Montana Mine-Owners' Association and Its Capacity is to Be Quadrupled.

Spokane, Wash., April 25.—Montana Mine-Owners' association, composed of 300 active operators and shippers, and representing a combined capital of $1,000,000, secured the control of the Idaho Smelting & Refining company's Panhandle smelter at Ponderay, Idaho, northeast of Spokane, following a conference of eight hours in this city. The capacity of the plant, now 250 tons, will be increased to handle 1,000 tons of ore daily, and employment will be given to from 200 to 400 men. One hundred thousand dollars will be expended in improvements. The plant will be equipped for the treatment of copper, and a refinery is to be added. It is purposed, also, to enlist every independent mine owner in Montana in the association. The name will be changed to the Montana & Idaho Smelting company.

As an impetus to mining development in the Northwest, the advent of the Montana Mine-Owners' association into the smelting field is of vast importance. It means that the smelter trust, which controls practically the big smelters in the Northwest, except those owned by the Amalgamated Copper company, will have active opposition. Mine owners and operators have long had grievances against the methods of the trust, which not only regulates the price of ore, but practically makes the prices on the metal market.

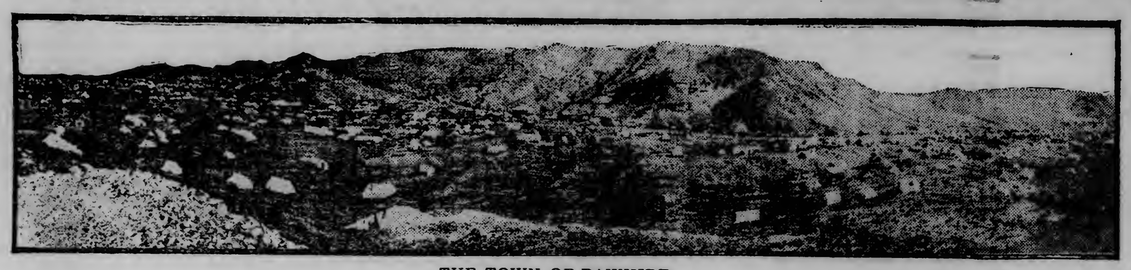

The chief reason for taking over the plant, which was established six years ago, is to protect the mine-owners of Montana against the smelter trust. The membership of the association includes such operators as W. A. Clark, largest individual mine operator in the world; W. G. Conrad, Owen Byrnes, Dr. Peter Musicbroad and Thomas L. Greenough. INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

DEFECTIVE PAGE

RAWHIDE OUTGREW ITSELF AND HUNDREDS ATTRACTED BY FIRST RUSH ARE NOW LEAVING

THE TOWN OF RAWHIDE.

Rawhide, the Nevada mining town, whose spectacular growth from a desert waste to a city of nearly 10,000 inhabitants, in a little over six months, and startled the whole country, has not the population by several hundred, possibly thousands, that it had three weeks ago, according to Duluth men who are now in Nevada.

Not more than a month ago the single street of the desert town, lined on both sides with a mile or more of tents and rough frame buildings, looked continually like a village street on a circus day. Crowds, in which all classes of people from college graduates, professors, and millionaires, to yellow chinamen, jostled one another good naturedly, packed the only thoroughfare from wall to wall. Through this crowd, long trains of freight wagons, loaded to the point of becoming top heavy, and drawn, some times, by as many as eight or nine teams of horses, their drivers shouting, slowly worked their way. Dust covered touring cars, all loaded to their full capacity with staring passengers just arrived from railway stations from thirty to a hundred miles away, did not lessen the confusion. The whole scene suggested, on a large scale, the appearance of an ant hill just disturbed.

But today, the scene is much changed. No longer are the streets congested. Where crowds thronged streets and sidewalks, now there is plenty of room. The freight wagons and autos still come and go, but the latter carry more passengers out than into town. Rawhide is fast losing its floating population. This in no way proves the camp a failure. It only shows that it is becoming more normal and is quieting down after its first excitement. The town of Rawhide had outstripped its mines by several months. There were far more merchants, assayers, engineers and miners than the yet infant mines could support. The growth of the mines has not been sufficient to afford a livelihood to the 10,000 men, women and children, who in less than seven months stampeded from all parts of the country into Rawhide. The gold seekers still arrive daily, but the storekeepers and business men are slowly realizing that their lines are already overcrowded.

"Does the Ore Continue?"

The question which is of principal importance in every new mining camp after finding the ore and which when answered will fully settle whether the camp is to be permanent or not, is the question, "does the ore continue in richness to any depth?" A locality may have great showings at the surface, but on sinking shafts the veins often pinch out a short distance down. Many fabulously rich ore strikes have been made at Rawhide in the quartz filled fissures at and near the surface, but not until April 9 had it in any way been proven that the rich ofe extended to any great depth. On that date a drill sinking for water to supply the town, struck ore of great value at 157 feet and continued in this high grade ore for thirty feet. When this was announced the greatest possible excitement reigned in Rawhide. The saloons were crowded and every citizen was full of the subject, for the town was practically established if the report was true, and the Rawhide mining district gave its first absolute promise of becoming one of the greatest gold mining regions in the country.

Goldfield and Tonopah went through the same period of interrogation as to the extent of their gold deposits, and in only a few cases did they prove entirely satisfactory.

At Goldfield the advice of mining experts was scorned to a great extent. As an example of this, at a Goldfield banquet celebrating the anniversary of the founding of that place, a toast was proposed to the expert who first discovered gold bearing quartz in that locality. A loud shout of disapproval went up, but when the man who proposed the toast explained that, in a search for grass a prospector's mule had rooted up some vegetation, thus exposing the first signs of precious metal ever noticed there, every one drank hearty and cheered long and loud for the unsuspecting brute which had happened upon the stuff that had placed wealth within the grasp of nearly every one present.

Another story illustrating the small faith placed in mining experts is told of "Jim" Butler of Tonopah. He located the mine called Tonopah, now said to be worth $8,000,000. When Expert DeLamares examined the property, Butler asked him what he thought of it. The expert said, "Jim, you have the values so far as you have gone, but I don't believe they go down much farther." "Well," replied Butler, "they sure can't go up any farther."

The same is true to a certain degree at Rawhide. The prospector has his own rough methods of finding gold-bearing veins and he sticks to them closely. As he tramps over the country he attempts to wash gold from every gulch and dry ravine he comes across. If he gets the slightest trace of "yellow" in his pan, he immediately commences to trace the gold up the ravine or mountain side, always up. When he leaves the "wash"—(sand or gravel)—below him and comes to the hard rock, he travels on his hands and knees, examining inch by inch the ground he is going over. So he goes until all signs of gold disappear, then he knows that he is near and above the vein from which the gold dust has been washed by water into the valley he has just worked his way from. He then begins the closest possible scrutiny with a magnifying glass. Sometimes he goes back and starts over again, until he has located the vein from which the gold below has been washed. Sometimes the prospector in such a search becomes so excited that he goes for days hardly touching food, except at night, when it is too dark to see. The gold hunt is said to be the most fascinating of games, far more so than gambling, for there are no boundaries to the possible wealth that may be just ahead of the searcher.

The first ore found in the Rawhide district was a year ago last January, on what is now called the Regent mine, at the north end of the camp. But it was not until last October that the phenominal finds were made which caused the great boom and the present city of Rawhide.

THE SOCIALIST PARTY

The Socialist party is a party of working men and working women, who perform useful labor, either mental or physical. The party is here for a purpose, and that is to gain control of the reins of government, that the same may be used in the interest of all the people, and not as now, in the interests of the few. Our party is a dues-paying organization, and if it was not such it would not be able to carry on the work as it is doing. And as it is the recognized third party of our country, it compels us to recognize the need of a strong organization. The era of a strong Socialist organization is before us. Not only is this true in our own country, but it is also true in most of the old countries, as our brothers across the water have accomplished, so far, more than we. We are just beginning to feel our way, to get ourselves in working condition, that we may further invade the capitalists' gloomy wilderness, and preach and teach that to the worker belong his products, as his labor was the force which molded them into a useful form. And the further we invade the domains of capitalism, the easier becomes the work we have pledged ourselves to perform.

It is through the co-operation which this organization teaches us that we begin to see how to accomplish our ends along the lines of least resistance, and these in turn, mean a perfect system and method of discipline, whereby we learn to become direct, and study economy and solidarity, and as nothing can be gained without them. And we are accomplishing these things as fast as we are loosed from our present conditions in our struggle for existence in our daily grind for a living.

Just as fast as the workers recruit the Socialist party, just as fast will the workers, through being members of the party, develop the ability to control themselves, and to direct their own affairs just as fast as they are willing to learn from experience and to adapt themselves to the exigencies which continually arise, just so fast will they fit themselves to conquer their enemies, and will then be able to take control of the machinery of civilization, and administer that machinery in their own interests and for the interests of the whole social welfare.

What we need most of all is the strengthening of our party organization, for through that will come a greater facility to circulate Socialist literature, and to make public meetings successful. We need men and women who will direct their attention more and more to increasing the membership of the party, to looking after the other party work, to perfecting the party machinery, so that it can handle the ever necessary, increasing work of agitation, education and political advancement of the party. The Socialist party cannot afford to remain in the old rut, there to become stagnant and moribund; it must always keep its face to the future; it must always be experimenting, always trying new methods to get better results.

Recognizing that society is in a state of chaos, and that conditions are changing, the party must be ever ready to adapt itself to those conditions. Any one willing to become a member of the party may do so, provided he or she accepts our platform and severs his connections with any other political party.

GOOD SAMARITANS TO POOR

policeman. At first they guffawed at the idea of a slip of a girl protecting herself and those about her, but her "nerve" appealed to them, and when she was transferred from this particular station she left behind her an appreciable degree of order.

Miss Booth was a schoolgirl when she first sold the War Cry on London's streets. Her first open-air speech was delivered from a chair, so small was she at the time. Step by step she was worked up the Salvation Army ladder, until today she holds the second most important divisional post in the organization.

A Good Samaritan From the Slums.

Among all the Good Samaritans here mentioned Jacob Riis has the distinction of having actually lived the life of the slums, not from choice but of necessity. He has told better than any one else could of his coming to America and the heartbreaking experiences that befell him before he could find himself in the land of new hope. And when he did find himself he had ever with him the desire some day to annihilate the conditions which had oppressed him and were enslaving their tens of thousands in New York city.

Because of this ambition he has contributed, more than any other man, to the wonderful amelioration of conditions of the East side poor that has taken place of late years. He literally has changed the map of that teeming region. Mulberry Bend park is one monument to his ceaseless activity in behalf of the poor. The new style of tenement house is another, in large measure. He reformed the system of municipal lodging. Every movement for civic betterment in the metropolis gets a part of his time and energies. For these and other reasons he has been called New York's "most useful citizen" by President Roosevelt. The well known friendship of the two men date back to the day when Riis was a police reporter and Theodore Roosevelt commissioner of police. In those days, as in this, each man was the other's ardent admirer and supporter.

Dr. Edward T. Devine is the country's great charity investigator and organizer. He has done more, probably, than any other Good Samaritan of today to make a charity of science in the broadest sense. He is the chief exponent of the doctrine that the giving of alms without investigation, and hence reckelessly, only tends to increase poverty, not to relieve it. This view is receiving wider currency constantly. As general secretary of the Charity Organization society, he has made that important organization one not only to relieve distress but also to act as an intermediary and clearing house for investigating and obtaining relief. So great is the confidence of many wealthy New Yorkers in the society's ability to distribute charity to the best interests of all concerned that they never give a dollar to charity except through it or in its advice.

Though Dr. Devine conducts all his important investigations personally, yet, strange as it may seem, nothing very exciting has happened to him in his doings about in all sorts of places where one could naturally look for adventure to befall an outsider. This is one of his minor distinctions among our Good Samaritans.

Before he took up charity work to the exclusion of other things, Dr. Devine was a teacher and then a lecturer on economics. He was one of the first men to lecture for the American Academy of Political and Social Science, when it was organized in 1891; five years later he became secretary of the Charity Organization society. His choice as dispenser of Red Cross aid to San Francisco resulted from President Roosevelt's personal knowledge of his work and methods. Expert charity workers are pretty generally agreed that Dr. Devine can make a dollar's worth of relief go further than almost any other man engaged in the modern business of ameliorating distress.

Like most of the Good Samaritans of today, he is comparatively young; he will be 41 next month. Gen. Booth is the dean in age; he was 79 on April 10. Robert C. Ogden, friend of Hampton institute and Southern education generally, who began his mercantile career as an errand boy in a hardware store, comes next, with 71 years to his credit. Riis will be 59 next month. All of the women here mentioned and now active in charitable work, except one, are in the forties, and most of the men whose ages have not been given are in their forties or fifties.

All of which is but another way of saying that Good Samaritan work of today needs generally the service of the young and strong, for it is work that is not only exacting, but also frequently strenuous, as the lives of most of our prominent Good Samaritans show.

This property is a summer proposition, economically operated on the open pit plan, but it is not yet announced that it will go into commission at all this season. The ore is a low grade product, running about 40 per cent in both iron and silica, and there are probably 10,000,000 tons of it in sight. There is little demand for it in times such as these, however. Last year, 100,000 tons were sent out; the year before, double that amount.

Temporary Shutdown.

The Norway mine of the Cambria Steel company's Penn group, at the eastern end of the Menominee, recetnly suspended underground work, but this shutdown was only temporarily and to permit of the installation of electrical equipment, steam gradually being displaced at these properties since the Sturgeon Falls hydraulic plant of the operating concern has gone into commission. Most of the Norway shaft men were transferred to other of the workings. The Penn group cut forces 25 per cent last fall. Hardly 500,000 tons of ore will be forwarded this season. The first of this will go out about the first of May, it is expected, but as a general proposition there will be little movement of Lake Superior ore until the advent of June, and perhaps not until later. The mining managements have their steam shovels in readiness and are prepared to respond to the call at any time. Some ore, shipped all-rail, is going from Pickands, Mather & Co.'s Hemlock property, in the Amasa district of the Menominee, to the furnace at Maysville, Wis.

In the Crystal Falls district, the stockpiles at Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Dunn, Great Western and Tobin mines are fully as large as they were a year ago, despite that operations have not been pushed as vigorously. There is eager anxiety in the community as to their disposition. The Corrigan-McKinney company is the principal producer at Crystal Falls, it having nine mines there, only a portion of which have been wrought the past few months. The members of the group, several of whose mines also are the Crystal Falls, Armeria, Lincoln, Lamont, Fairbanks and Kimball. The company has grown from a small concern to one of the very largest of the independent operators in the Lake Superior region, during the past fifteen years, and the fact that the recent rumors of transfer to the Steel corporation listed the furnace and mining holdings at $50,000,000 conveyed no surprise, if did the reported deal itself. The company has the Commodore, St. James, St. Paul and the big Stevenson, on the Mesaba; the Colby, Trenton and undeveloped lands on the Gogebic, and the Star West mine on the Marquette range.

The largest stockpiles in the Marquette district are those at the Steel corporation's Section 16 and Champion mines, the Cambria Steel company's Republic, and the Cleveland-Cliffs company's Cleveland Lake and Cliffs shafts. There are goodsized stockpiles also at the Negaunee and Swanzey groups. An extensive program of improvement work is nearing completion at the Steel corporation's Section 21 mine, in the Ishpeming field, a new boilerhouse has been built and equipped with a battery of five new boilers, the main enginehouse has been provided with new machinery, a model "dry" house for the miners is in course of construction, and material is arriving for the installation of an underground electric haulage system. No mining has been carried on since a year ago this fall. Both the east and west shafts have been sunk to another level, however, and much other development work has been done. There is an extensive deposit at the Section, and with Manager Armbruster the mine will be able to make a larger output at less cost than formerly.

Stripping at the Mesaba.

Stripping work is already in progress in most portions of the Mesaba range, and notwithstanding the discouraging state of the ore trade, it will be prosecuted with vigor throughout the season. The fact that labor is more plentiful than for a number of years past offers particular inducement in this connection. Stripping is proceeding again at Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Commodore mine at Virginia after having been suspended since last fall. The removal of the overburden has been started at M. A. Hanna & Co.'s Sliver property, in the same district. Much work of the kind is planned at the Hanna concern's Yates mine at Buhl. The company's Frantz property, an underground proposition at Buhl, is out of commission, and it will doubtless remain inactive this year. The Pittsburg Iron Ore company's Nassau mine at Hibbing also is on the idle list.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel company has restored the night shift at its Lincoln mine at Virginia and will likely ship as heavily as usual from the property. There is a big stockpile on hand. A new shaft is going down at the Meridan Iron Mining company's Pearce property at Chisholm. Shipments will amount to some 100,000 tons this season, as compared with a noutgo of 67,000 tons last year. It is expected that stripping operations will be resumed this spring at the Wacootah property, in Sections 3 and 11, Sparta on Mountain Iron. This mine is a possession of the Pitt Mining company, which is controlled at Steubenville, Ohio. Brake & Stratton, who have an extensive contract for stripping at the Steel corporation's Fayal mine at Eveleth, will operate three steam shovels there this year and will employ 300 men. Much stripping will be done at the Steel corporation's McKinley mine in Section 8, 58-16. Shipments, however, will not be heavy, contrary to earlier expectations.

Water has been causing further trouble at Pickands, Mather & Co.'s Syracuse mine in the Biwabik district, and for some time now operations have been making but meagre progress. Additional pumping capacity is being provided. The development of this mine, as well as that of its neighbor, the Bangor, has been decidedly costly to date. It was at these properties that it was finally necessary to sink to the ledge by means of the air lock system, this because of the presence of an overburden of quicksand for which the existence of the nearby Lake Embarrass is chiefly responsible, and ever since then the pumping charges have been heavy. Something like 3,000 gallons of water per minutes have been added to the volume of the lake the mine has been ever wetter. That the water seeps through from Embarrass, there is little question. Eventually it may be necessary to drain the lake, particularly as there are other extensive deposits whose mining would thereby be much facilitated, notably the big ore body proved up last year at the Embarrass dam.

Big Air Compressor at Mars.

The big air compressor ordered last February for the Cleveland-Cliffs company's Mass mine at Negaunee, Marquette range, has arrived and is now being installed. This machine is one of the largest in the iron region, although plants of similar capacity are in commission at the Cleveland Lake and Cliffs shafts properties of the same operating concern. It will supply 5,000 cubic feet of air a minute, which is sufficient to agitate fifty power drills. The Maas is one of the very best mines on the range, and it has been given a splendid equipment. It made its initial shipment last season after having been in course of development since December, 1901. The deposits lie deep The Boyne City, Mich., furnace of the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company is in blast again after several months' idleness. The erection of another furnace would stand the Algoma Steel works in good stead. Another brief shutdown of the mills at the Canadian Soo has been necessary the past week or two because of a shortage of pig iron. The steel plant is doing good work and is being operated at a profit on a production averaging about one rail a minute, but the occasional stoppages because the blast furnaces are not able to supply all the iron needed are decidedly annoying, and are opened by a shaft of large dimensions and bottomed at some 1,200 feet.

A SUITABLE SMELTER SITE.

close to $1,000 a car and the concentrates more than $1,500 a car. The approximate weight of the carloads was thirty tons. Six dividends were paid, aggregating $64,000, and at the end of the year the company had on hand $9,084. Supt. C. C. Griggs' report estimates that besides ore worth $5,000 in the bins there is in sight in the mine ore blocked out sufficient to maintain last year's rate of production for three years.

Supt. D. H. Moffat of the Cactus mine of the Newhouse Mines & Smelters company says that recent developments at the mine have mystified geologists. "On the 600 level, when we thought we had reached the end of the ore body in a granite wall," said he, "we pushed through and again got into ore, widening the ore zone over fifty feet in values of 5 and 6 per cent copper. On the 700 level a high grade ore body is being stoped 700 feet in width and on the 800 level 18 per cent ore is being mined for shipment direct to the smelter. Sinking below the 800 level has just been begun to catch the high grade body opened on the level above. The shaft will be sent down to the 900 mark." The mill at the Cactus treated a daily tonnage of 602 tons in March, or a total of 18,662 tons, the cost of production being about 8 cents a pound.

ment work, and a foundation is being built to receive the new Nordberg hoisting engine, which will be in Butte by the time the foundation is ready. When the new machine is installed sinking will be resumed on the Colonel Sellers shaft. The shaft is now down 700 feet, and it is the intention of the company to put it to a depth of 1,500 before doing any exploration work. It is the opinion of mining engineers and operators familiar with that section of the Butte district that good commercial ore will be found in the veins at that depth.

The Boston & Montana company is still prosecuting development work on the Greenleaf claim, a property situated in the eastern part of the Butte district, adjoining the property of the late and lamented Butte Exploration company, and the developments are gradually giving greater encouragement. Another fine looking vein with some good ore in it has just been cut in the crosscut being run south from the shaft at the 1,000 foot level.

As an evidence of the great activity in mining in Montana, considered separately from the resumption at Butte, reference may be made to the fact that the American Smelting & Refining company has found it necessary to blow in another furnace at its East Helena plant, thus giving employment to sixty of the old men who were laid off during the temporary shutdown. Two of the large blast furnaces are now in operation, and Manager Smith states that he thinks it will be necessary to fire two more within the next month. The fact that the Montana Mining assomiation has concluded a deal for the Panhandle smelter, near Sand Point, Idaho, is also evidence of unwonted activity. In addition, the Washoe smelter at Anaconda will treat commercial ores in limited quantity. Many large operators have entered into contracts for the treatment of their ore at the Panhandle smelter.

William Hoskins of Duluth, representing a syndicate of capitalists from that city, has made an examination of the Reilly group of claims, joining the south end lines of the Daly property, and reports that he has secured a lease and bond for $50,000. Work will be commenced within thirty days.

The Michigan syndicate, which owns the Blue Bird, has put a crew of men at work cleaning up the workings. The manager states that machinery will arrive this month. Thompson & East have encountered several large stringers of rich copper ore in the lower tunnel of their lease of Dr. Denbo's property, about a quarter of a mile from Wickes, adjoining that owned by Fred W. Bacorn of Butte. They are preparing to ship ore within thirty days.

By a decision of Judge Callaway, at Boulder, the Butte & Corbin Consolidated Copper Mining company has received title to five claims in the heart of the Corbin district. As a result, the Butte & Corbin purposes the employment of a large force of men. As soon as satisfactory smelting arrangements can be made the shipment of ore will begin. The ground is regarded as among the most valuable in the Corbin district.

Basin, Mont., representative for Senator Clark, is president of the association, and Former Governor A. E. Spriggs of Butte is chairman of the executive committee. The properties owned and controlled by members of the association produce over 30,000 tons of dry silver-lead and gold ore a month, besides vast quantities of copper.

The officers and directors were elected at the session following the conference: President, J. Herbert Anderson; vice president, Marcus L. Hewlett; secretary and treasurer, S. B. Phillips; directors, A. E. Spriggs, chairman; W. A. Clark, Butte; W. G. Conrad, Great Falls; Thomas L. Greenough, Missoula; Robert Wunderlich, St. Paul. C. C. Titus, formerly with the American Smelting & Refining company, will be general manager of the smelter.

By the terms of the contract to take over the smelter, an option of five years is taken on the property, which may be taken up the first year for $1,050,000, and at a gradual increase during any of the next three years until the fifth year, when the price will be $2,100,000. Immediate voting control of 55 per cent of the stock in the company for fifteen years is secured by the association, which will operate the plant on a basis of 15 per cent minimum net profit to the stockholders on all the ore treated. The townsite property, mines and fluxing fields of the Idaho Smelting & Refining company, thus pass to the control of the association.

GREENE-CANANEA COMPANY

Cananea mines, is untrue. What the party was in Mexico City for I am not at liberty to state at the present time, although a statement will probably be issued in a short time. I do not care to discuss the reason for our going to Hermosillo further than this matter will also be published in due time."

It is generally understood that the visit of Mr. Cole to Hermosillo will conclude the important negotiations which have been under way between the Greene-Cananea officials and the Mexican government for the past sixty days looking toward a reduction in the cost of production at Cananea. The operations are resumed, through a lowering of Mexican duties on supplies. It is believed that the concessions asked for by the Greene-Cananea officials have been granted and that the mines will not far distant when the fires will be built under the furnaces at Cananea.

secret process, has been at the head of the Houghton Concentrating company, and much experimental work has been done during the past year, until a few weeks ago. The general opinion of millmen in the district is not favorable, due probably to the steady record of failures of dozens of preceding plants, but one of the leading mine superintendents of the district, who has given careful study to the Schwarz process, is strongly of the opinion that it will do what is expected of it. Should the Schwarz process prove a success in actual practice, it must lead to the erection of other plants along the same or similar lines.

The Adventure mine, while practically suspended, is running four rock-drills, all drifting, and is diamond-drilling for the extension of the amygdaloid lode that is giving such a phenomenal showing of copper in the Lake mine. The Mass, also, is seeking the same lode, by diamond drill borings. It is probable that Longyear & Hodge will also drill for the continuation of the Lake amygdaloid.

Arcadian also plans diamond drill exploration. The drill-holes will be driven from the bottom of the 200-foot exploratory shaft, on which sinking was discontinued last month. The Arcadian has considerable territory between its easternmost workings and the Eastern Sandstone, which should carry the northern extension of the Baltic lode, in case that amygdaloid crosses Portage lake, and there seems no good reason why the surface erosion, presumably caused by glaciation, which scooped out the gorge of Portage Lake, should have any particular effect on the strata underneath, laid down and mineralized many millions of years beforo the polar ice-cap this district.

No. 1 shaft of the Hancock Consolidated shows stopes carrying stamp-rock of excellent average tenor, in the west lode. No. 2 shaft has penetrated the cupriferous bed, reached at about 735 feet, but will be sunk to considerable depth, and which will render it possible by crosscutting, or diamond-drilling, to explore a considerable stretch of ground lying west of the most westerly work done heretofore by either the Hancock or the Quincy. No. 1 shaft is sinking at the rate of only about forty feet monthly, due to its being in soft ground and requiring heavy timbering.

There is some prospect that the Keweenaw Copper company will become a producer during the latter half of the present year. The Keweenaw Copper company controls, through stock ownership, the Phoenix Consolidated, which has a stamp mill that is available for treating rock from the Medora shaft of the Keweenaw company. The mill is neither large nor modern, but will serve admirably to furnish facilities for an extended mill-test of Medora rock. The Medora shaft is now about 1,000 feet deep and fully a mile of underground workings have been driven, and a stockpile of nearly 50,000 tons of stamp-rock has been accumulated, from dead-work, there having been no stoping done. There is no likelihood that a further attempt will be made, at least in the near future, at working the old shafts of the Phoenix, as the results were too uniformly disastrous. Exploratory work on the Ashbed amygdaloid, on the Phoenix property done several years ago, was not especially promising, though not carried to a point giving an absolutely definite assurance of worthiessness. The Phoenix, however, has a large tract, on which something of value may be secured at some future time. It is no longer safe to condemn as worthless any tract on the Keweenawan mineral belt, as too many good mines have been made from properties held worthless.

WE ADVOCATE TEMPERANCE

Over-indulgence in any good food is highly detrimental to the system. This is no more true of beer than of any other food. We assert, and our assertion is confirmed by good physicians everywhere, that a temperate use of is very beneficial. The tonic properties of its malt and well cured hops build up the tissues wasted by nervous strain and its very small amount of alcohol (3½ per cent) is an acknowledged aid to digestion.

Use it temperately in your home and you will be stronger in both body and mind.

Order a case today.

Camp No. 5 of the Red River Lumber company was destroyed totally. It is reported that in the fire north of Akeley the Red River Lumber company lost between 500,000 and 1,000,000 feet of logs. This is a loss of many thousand dollars. The crews working for the Red River Lumber company in the woods saved millions of feet of logs as well as standing pine, besides the camps. One thousand men at least were engaged in fighting fire on Tuesday, and on Wednesday at 4 o'clock all the stores were shut up and at Grand Forks to have the station located at Maple Lake, and Congressman Steenerson states that he will do all in his power to have it located at Maple Lake if the measure passes.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR WIFE-SLAYER

Jury Soon Finds Mooney Guilty of Second Degree Murder.

Buffalo, Minn., April 25.—John J. Mooney, the wealthy real estate dealer, who killed his wife by striking her a blow over the head with a stick of wood, must spend the rest of his life in the state penitentiary, unless the pardon board at some future date comes to his rescue, as the jury, which received his case, yesterday afternoon, following a memorable trial, returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree and fixed the punishment at life imprisonment. The jury deliberated less than two hours.

The prisoner received the verdict and sentence with little show of emotion. He remarked that he "was worthy of the sentence." Mooney apparently expected the outcome, for he seemed to be determined to accept his fate calmly. Execution of the sentence was stayed until May 4. No attempt will be made to appeal the case.

PLANNING MUCH WORK.

Northern Pacific Going Ahead With Extensive Road Betterments.

Brainerd, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despite the talk of hard times a few months ago, the Northern Pacific railroad is going ahead with its betterments as if nothing had happened. There has been a rush at the shops for some weeks getting steam shovels, boarding outfits, unloaders and flat cars ready for the season's work. There have been ten work trains ordered out of Staples for the completion of the big fill at Muscoda. This work is said to have been let by contract to the Guthrie firm of contractors, which is one of the heaviest in the Northwest. It is hoped that the work will be finished this season.

A crew of 110 men commenced work this week laying heavier steel, sixty pound being replaced by eighty-five pound. The crew commenced work at Walbridge. In addition to this a steam shovel outfit left Thursday for Tamarac, where it will be set up, and several bad sags will be taken out of the roadbed. The shovel will be kept busy about a month at Tamarac loading dirt for raising the track, after which there will be four months' work ballasting, the gravel being taken from Deerwood and Carlton pits. It is expected that a large number of men will be kept busy on the district all summer.

ENCOURAGE POTATO GROWING

Farmers Around Pine River Going Into Business Largely.

Pine River, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers around Pine River are to grow potatoes on a wholesale scale this year. A buyer from Anoka has been agitating the question, and agrees to furnish seed to any who wish it and take his pay out of the crop next fall. He also agrees to pay them 35 cents per bushel on contract, regardless of what the price is. These two inducements have induced many to take up the proposition in one form or another.

BOTH HIS HANDS HURT.

Crookston, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert Davis, the 10-year-old son of Mrs. Samuel Davis of this city, had both hands terribly cut in the cogs of a cream separator on the Ross farm near here. He had several bones broken, but the prompt service of a physician will probably save both hands, though the little fellow may lose a couple of fingers.

MINNESOTA.

TOURNAMMENT TO BE FINE AFFAIR

Plenty of Sport for Firemen at Thief River Falls.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fourteenth annual tournament of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament association will be held at Thief River Falls on June 16 to 19. The program of events show that the cash prizes this year are much larger than those offered in the history of the association.

Promises have already been received from all towns in the jurisdiction that are equipped with fire departments that they will send competing teams.

On Tuesday, the first day there, will be a meeting of the executive board, an address of welcome by Mayor Hamre and other speakers, and the association hose races for which the sum of $180 is offered in awards.

On Wednesday, the second day, there will occur the grand parade, the coupling contest, the association hook and ladder race and a baseball game. The baseball purse is $100, and $270 is also offered for the prizes in the other events. On this day also takes place the ladder climbing contest, for which $50 is given in awards.

On Thursday, the third day, there will be held the combination hook and ladder and hose race, the flag race and hub and hub race, and another baseball game, for which $100 is contributed. The amount of prizes for this day will be $295, exclusive of the baseball purse.

On the last day of the tournament the wet test on the city hydrants will be held, and a baseball game will take place in the afternoon. Two hundred and sixty-five dollars will be distributed on this day to successful winners.

The city has assisted the local firemen to finance the tournament, and citizens are determined to make this meeting the greatest in the association history. Concerts, band music, steamboat excursions, will all aid in furnishing amusement for visitors. All apparatus for visiting teams will be hauled from and to the depot for visitors and sleeping places will also be furnished free to all uniformed firemen.

PULPWOOD RATE HEARING AT BEMIDJI ON MAY 5.

Bemidji, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission will hold a hearing here on Tuesday, May 5, at which time will be heard arguments of the officials of the Minnesota & International to the commission requesting authority for the railway officials to cancel the special rate which is now in vogue for pulpwood and to substitute therefor their present rates on cordwood.

As the change requested would be a very material advance in the charge for transporting pulpwood, an emphatic protest has been filed with the commission by all dealers in this north country.

WISCONSIN

BOMB EXPLODES UNDERNEATH THEM

Enemies of Divorced Man and Woman Friend Do Worst.

Madison, Wis., April 25.—Some unknown person placed a bottle, filled with powder, nails and other missiles and with a lighted fuse attached, in a buggy, in which Fred Aufrecht and a woman companion were riding in the eastern part of the city late last night.

The explosion severely injured Aufrecht and his companion and wrecked the buggy, but both will recover.

Aufrecht was recently divorced and tells the police he has several enemies whom he suspects of attempting to take his life.

In order to drop the "bomb" into the buggy it was necessary to lift a light cover. This indicates that whoever did the job went about the work quietly, as Aufrecht heard no suspicious sound until the explosion occurred. The horse was jogging along slowly so that it was an easy matter to sneak up from behind and put in the bottle.

Calumet, Mich., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be considerable macadamizing done on Calumet township roads this summer, according to reliable reports, and a large sum of money will be spent in the work. Commissioner Paul P. Roehm has a nice surplus at his disposal in the highway fund, and it is understood that several thousands of dollars of that amount will find its way into road improvements. Automobile owners and drivers of vehicles especially will welcome the news.

The township can get all the trap rock it needs for road purposes, and if the estimated amount of $20,000 is spent this summer in road building and repairing, Calumet will be able to boast of as good roads as any in Michigan.

Houghton, Mich., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Houghton county will be represented at the Democratic state convention, in Lansing, May 20, by five delegates, as many as any other county in Northern Michigan and more than the majority of them. The representation is based on the vote cast for the last Democratic candidate for governor. The delegates among the upper peninsula counties to the convention are divided: Alger, 2; Baraga, 2; Chippewa, 4; Delta, 2; Houghton, 5; Iron, 2; Dickinson, 2; Gogebic, 4; Mackinac, 3; Marquette, 3; Menominee, 5; Ontonagon, 2; Schoolcraft, 2; total, 41. The Democrats of Houghton county seem to be in favor of the candidacy of Governor John Johnson of Minnesota. Johnson is to speak here Monday evening, and will appear at Calumet later in the summer. Bryan has few disciples in this section, although the Democrats of Eastern Northern Michigan appear to favor him. The balance of the peninsula is about evenly divided. The delegates from Michigan, it is understood, will go to the Democratic convention uninstructed.

While Despondent Over Having Consumption, Farmer Kills Himself.

Minot, N. D., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despondent over his unfortunate physical condition, as he was slowly dying of consumption, Theodore Skaugland, a farmer, aged 30, living six miles southeast of Des Lacs, shot and instantly killed himself with a shot gun.

Some time ago he proved up on his claim, which he sold. He has been up in Canada on land ventures, but his health grew worse and in February he returned to North Dakota and made his home with his cousin John Skaugland, with whom he was staying when he killed himself. The deceased saw that it was only a matter of months before he would die from the ravages of the white plague and kept brooding over the matter. Yesterday he became worse and in the afternoon, retired to his room where he took a shotgun and fired both barrels into his head. His cousin rushed to the scene but the man was already dead. Coroner Ekren was called and held a short examination but the facts were evident and no jury was called.

Skaugland was unmarried and will be buried near Des Lacs.

The purchasers contemplate the demolition of the building now on the site and the construction of a two-story building to be used for a hotel and saloon. E. H. Caulkins represented the purchasers.

The other sale referred to was that of the property known as 513 West Superior street from Louis Rochleau to Messrs. Zaik and Josephs of the Duluth Iron & Metal company. The consideration was $27,500, or $1,100 per front foot. The property comprises a one-story frame building on a lot 25 by 140 feet. The purchase was made for an investment and the deal was made through the office of W. M. Prindle & Co. It is understood that there are negotiations under way for the sale of another Superior street property, but the trade has not yet reached the point where the parties interested desire any publicity in the matter.

Next Friday, May 1, a great many of the leases on rental properties in the way of houses and flats expire and on that day there will be a lively movement of tenants from one place to another. Judging from the orders that have been placed with the van companies a great many tenants will change their place of residence this year. An increase in rents has caused some to seek locations in the outlying residence districts, while others expect to move into houses where the rent is not so high as that they would have to pay to stay where they are another year. Agents having Lakeside, Lester Park and West Duluth properties listed for rent claim that there is a scarcity of houses in those districts for rental purposes, that the demand greatly exceeds the supply. High rents in the central portion of the city, it is said, is doing much to cause the renters to seek locations farther out. In previous years the item of street car fare has been one drawback to the outlying residence districts, but as the rentals in the central portion of the city have increased the tenants find that they can pay street car fare and save money by living in the suburbs, besides, as a rule, having more pleasant surroundings for a home.

WHEAT HAS FIRM TONE

Strength in the American Markets Has Not Ended.

Flax Goes Begging and the Prices Are Lower Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 25.—The demand for wheat continued firm today and prices advanced in all the American markets, the Northwestern markets showing a bigger gain than any of them. The active options were more than a point over yesterday in Duluth.

Light receipts and higher cables contributed to the strength of the situation. In Duluth and Minneapolis only 112 cars were received, against 459 a year ago. Argentine shipments were small.

Liverpool closed ½d to 1⅛d higher, Berlin ⅞c lower, Budapest ¼c to ¾c higher and Paris 1¼c higher.

The May option closed 1c higher in Duluth, ¾c higher in Chicago, ⅞-1c higher in Minneapolis, ⅜c higher in New York and 1½c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1¼c higher in Duluth, ¾c higher in Chicago, 1⅛c higher in Minneapolis, ½c higher in New York and 1⅝c higher in Winnipeg.

May corn closed ¼-⅜c lower in Chicago and was unchanged in Liverpool. May oats closed ¼c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was a firm undertone to the speculative wheat market at the opening and values were unchanged to ⅛d higher. On the whole, the American cables were considered bullish, and this stimulated lighter offerings. Following the opening and during the remainder of the session, the market was well supported and values advanced an additional ½d to 1d, the principal strength being in the nearby options. Strength was the result of the very light Argentine shipments, decrease in the visible supply there, continued light Argentine offerings and a good demand for white wheat cargoes which caused shorts to cover freely. At the close, the market was firm and ½d to 1⅛d higher than Friday. May and June being particularly well supported, in which offerings were very light.

Corn was firm, but very dull, with prices unchanged from Friday."

Car receipts at Duluth were 7 against 224 last year, and at Minneapolis 105 against 235 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 112 against 459 last year. Chicago received 9 against 16 last year. Winnipeg received 45 against 272 last year.

Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 268,000 bus.

Argentine shipments of wheat were 2,584,000 bus, against 3,725,000 bus last week and 4,456,000 bus a year ago.

Clearances of corn were 68,974 bus.

Argentine shipments of corn were 725,000 bus, against 585,000 bus last week and 254,000 bus last year.

Wheat was quite active during the short session in Duluth. May wheat opened ⅝c higher at $1.04¼, advanced to $1.04¾, declined to $1.04, rallied to $1.04⅝ and closed at $1.04⅝, a gain of 1c over yesterday. July wheat opened ⅝c higher at $1.04¼, advanced to $1.05, declined to $1.04, rallied to $1.05 again and closed at $1.04⅞, again of 1¼c over yesterday. September wheat opened ½c higher at 91½c and closed at that price, a gain of ½c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ½c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of ½c over May No. 1 northern.

Flax was quiet after the first hour and closed weak. May flax opened unchanged at $1.18, declined to $1.17½, rallied to $1.17¾ and closed at $1.17¼, a loss of ¾c from yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.20, declined to $1.19¼ and and closed at that price, a loss of ¾c from yesterday. September flax opened unchanged at $1.20, advanced to $1.20½ and declined by the close to $1.19½, a loss of ½c from yesterday. October flax opened unchanged at $1.20, advanced to $1.20¼ and declined by the close to $1.19½, a loss of ½c from yesterday.

Coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Strong Demand Causes Advance in Wheat, Followed by Loss.

Chicago, April 25.—The wheat market today was extremely nervous at the opening, the chief interest centering in the May option. In the first fifteen minutes the price of May advanced 1⅜c, but all the gain was lost within the next quarter of an hour. The strength was caused by a strong general demand which was based upon an advance of more than 1d at Liverpool. May wheat opened ¼c to ½c higher at 97¾c to 98c sold at 99¼c and then broke to 97½c. July wheat opened ⅝c to ⅞c higher, at 89c to 89¼c, and after touching 89¾c, declined to 89c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 121 cars against 284 cars last week and 509 cars a year ago.

The market was nervous all day, but trading was less active in the latter part of the day. July declining to 88⅝c. The close was steady with May unchanged at 97½c and July ¾c higher at 89⅛c.

The corn market opened firm in sympathy with wheat, but eased off on realizing sales. May corn opened ⅛c higher at 66⅝@66¾c and sold at 66¼c. July corn opened a shade to ⅛c higher at 62⅝@62¾c to 62¾c and sold at 62½c. Local receipts were 326 cars with 21 of contract grade.

The market was weak all day. The low point for May was 66c, and for July, 61⅞c. A slight rally took place late in the day, but the close was easy with May ¼@⅜c lower, at 66⅝c. July was off ⅛@¼c at 62⅝@62½c.

The oats market was steady and dull. May oats opened ⅛c higher at 53¾c and sold at 53¼c. July oats opened unchanged at 45⅝c and sold at 45¼c. Local receipts were 208 cars.

The provisions market was easy because of lower prices for live hogs. July pork was 2½@5c lower at $13.17½ to $13.20. Lard was 2½c lower at $8.20. Ribs were 2½c lower at $7.07½.

Close: Wheat—May, 97½c; July, 89⅛c; September, 85⅝c. Corn—May, 66⅝c; July, 62⅝@62½c; September, 61c. Oats—May old, 53c; May, 52¼@52⅜c; July old, 45⅛c; July, 43⅛c; September, 36⅞c. Pork—May, $13; July, $13.32½; September, $13.62½. Lard—May, $8.07½; July, $8.27½; September, $8.47½. Ribs—May, $6.85@6.87½; July, $7.15; September, $7.46. Rye—Cash, 80@81c. Barley—Cash, 70@85c. Timothy—April, $4.25. Corn—No. 3, 65c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Light Receipts Give Some Strength to Prices of Wheat.

Minneapolis, April 25.—Strength was in the Northwest figures today, only 105 cars of wheat coming into Minneapolis against 235 a year ago, while Duluth got practically nothing, only 9 cars against 224. The crop reports were nearly all favorable but such news had little effect against the strong statistics. May wheat was congested. Minneapolis elevator stocks decreased 726,500 for the week leaving the total 249,135 bushels. Selling for end of the week profit-taking threw the market back at one time but the undertone remained strong and it was quick to recover. May opened $1.04¾; high $1.06; low, $1.04¾;;; close, $1.05⅝; July closed, $1.04¾; September closed, 90⅝@¾c. Cash wheat demand was only fair. Millers bought sparingly of the top grades, paying 2@2½c over May for No. 1 northern and May prices for No. 2 northern.

Cash close: No. 1 northern, $1.07⅝@⅞; spot, $1.07⅜ to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.05⅝@⅞ spot; $1.05? to arrive; No. 3 wheat, 98c@$1.03.

No. 3 yellow corn, 68¼c.

No. 3 white oats, 48⅞c. No. 2 rye, 72¾@74⅜c.

In the barley market the trade was quiet, prices about the same as yesterday. Close: 57@80c.

Flax though still selling at 1c over Duluth May price was not quite so strong in demand. Slose, $1.18.

Bran in bulk, $21.00@21.25.

Demand for flour was reported a little better today domestic buyers becoming more used to prices of the recent advance and taking an occasional lot. Foreign trade was very light. Shipments, 41,990 barrels. First patents, $5.45@5.60; second patents, 5.35@5.50; first clears, $4.20@4.25; second clears, $3.40@3.50.

Copper Gossip.

Boston, to Paine, Webber & Co.: We want to express again the importance of recent bond issues and the outlook it makes for the industrials and coppers. Amalgamated has lagged in the movement but will probably be taken in hand next week. It will move much faster between 60 and 70 than between 50 to 60. North Butte, Butte Coalition and Copper Range are the favorites in Boston. We strongly advise the exchange of Tamarack for Copper Range or North Butte.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

At the Close and Near Lowest Point of Session.

Prices Yielded When Profit-Taking in Union Pacific Began.

New York, April 25.—Opening dealings in stocks today showed considerable animation, but the price movement was irregular with small gains predominating.

Profit-taking sales held the rise in check during an active half hour, after which prices yielded. Union Pacific, Reading and some lower priced stocks were sold freely, and advances in general were wiped out. St. Paul and Colorado & Southern first preferred gained 1 and Illinois Central 2½ before the reaction set in.

The market closed irregular and quiet. A rise of 2 in St. Paul and 1 in Pennsylvania led a recovery to about the highest prices. When profit-taking began in Union Pacific prices yielded again. Hocking Valley preferred sold at an advance of 6; General Railroad of New Jersey and Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, 2; Corn Products preferred, 1⅝; Central Leather, 1½, and American Tobacco preferred and others a point. Delaware & Hudson and Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis preferred fell, 2; Pacific Mail and International Pump, 1¼, and Northwestern and Distillers' Securities, 1. The reaction wiped out the rise in Union Pacific.

SUPERIOR NEWS

RANNEY IS LAUNCHED

New Steel Steamer Slides Into Water Without Hitch.

Miss Elizabeth Ranney of Cleveland Christens Boat With Wine.

The steel bulk freighter Rufus P. Ranney, constructed at the Superior yards of the American Shipbuilding company for the Triton Steamship company of Cleveland, was given to the water shorty before noon today. The launching was carried out without a hitch. As the big ship plunged into the water, Miss Elizabeth Ranney of Cleveland, daughter of Charles P Ranney, part owner, and sister of the man after whom the boat was named, broke the customary bottle of wine on the bow.

The launching was one of the most successful from a spectacular point of view, ever held in the Superior yards Despite the disagreeable weather, a large crowd gathered to see it. As the boat slid gracefully into the water blocks were knocked away, the big amid cheers from the launching party and the spectators on shore.

In the launching party were prominent marine men of the Head of the Lakes, becides many visitors from lake ports. Charles P. Ranney of Cleveland, part owner; Rufus P. Ranney, his son, whose name the boat bears; Capt. Henry Stone, part owner and master of the new boat, and Fred Gardner of Chicago were members of the launching party. Roy M. Wolvin and a party of friends of Duluth were also present, together with many others prominent in marine circles.

The Rufus P. Ranney is 440 feet over all, 420 feet keel, 52 feet beam and 28 feet depth. She is of steel construction, modern throughout, and designed for carrying bulk freight. The new steamer will carry a power launch, in addtion to regular life boat equipment, and is provided with a United States navy steering gear, one of the latest improvements now in use in the lake marine industry. Capt. Henry Stone, part owner and formerly master of the steamer North Land of the Northern Steamship company, will be master of the new boat.

The new steamer is almost completed and will be ready for her maiden trip within a few weeks. She was towed to Howard's packet to lie while the finishing touches are being put on.

After the launching, the visitors were entertained by R. M. Wolvin and other Duluth marine men.

* * *

At noon today, at the Ecorse yards of the Great Lakes Engineering company, the steamer William Livingston, constructed for G. A. Tomlinson, was launched. The launching was attended by Mr. Tomlinson and a large number of prominent marine men. The boat was christened by Mrs. Livingston, wife of the man, after whom the boat was named.

NEW BRIDGE ACROSS RIVER

Wisconsin Central and Soo Roads Are Probably Behind It.

Articles of incorporation of the Minnesota & Wisconsin Bridge company were filed yesterday with the secretary of state at Madison, Wis. The company is said to have been formed to build and operate a bridge across the St. Louis river between Duluth and Superior, starting from the foot of Belknap street and running across the river to West Duluth.

The incorporators of the company are L. K. Luse, L. T. Powell and C. Z. Luse, who are said to be acting as attorneys for the real interests back of the project.

It is rumored that the interests back of the bridge project are either the Soo road or the Wisconsin Central Railway company

The structure will be a toll bridge, as the company could not dispose of bonds to raise the funds for the construction work were it to be operated otherwise.

It is said that a bill would have been introduced in congress shortly after the bill for the transfer bridge was passed, but that certain complications arose that caused a postponement of action.

It is believed that a bill, empowering the new company to go ahead with the construction work, is about ready to be presented to congress.

Woman Cannot Furnish Bail.

Mrs. J. Jebuboe, who was arrested on the charge of assault and battery, on the complaint of Thomas Cameron, was locked up in the city jail yesterday awaiting trial. The woman is unable to furnish the $50 bail required by the court for her release from custody. Mr. Jebuboe, her husband, is without funds, as he has not been working for some weeks, and all that he could do for his wife was to take her two small children to her and attempt to console her in the cell. Cameron claims that when he attempted to tack up a "for rent" sign on the house occupied by Mrs. Jebuboe, she gave him a beating.

Board Recognizes.

At the reorganization of the board of public works yesterday W. F. Albright was elected president, and J. F. Huele clerk. The other members of the board are George Rolph and George Hislop. The board dropped from the payroll Swan Nelson, an old-time politician, who has been ward foreman for years, and appointed John Schelin to the job. The water company was notified to bring all gas and water connections in the city to grade and Warren Bros. were notified to resurface the paving on Ogden avenue, between Third and Belknap streets.

Lost Wager and Squealed.

Because he lost $20 in a wager on the election at the village of Nebagamon, Robert Robinson, a former bartender in Superior, swore out a warrant for the arrest of his father-in-law, Gilbert Gunderson, and Peter Neros, on the charge of voting illegally. Robinson claims that Gunderson and Neros had no right to vote, as they had wagered money on the result of the election. He claimed that their votes were challenged. As soon as the facts were brought out at the trial yesterday the district attorney moved for a dismissal of the case, and the court granted it. Gunderson and Neros claim that the money was never collected and that they are willing to call the bet off.

In Wyoming, Lyceum, May 1 and 2.

REDUCED CRITICISM.

Youth's Companion: After a concert at Manchester, Eng., Jaochim, the great violinist whose death occurred recently, was at the railway station waiting for a train.

A respectable looking man, apparently a navvy in his best clothes, paced at his side a while watching him with close interest. Finally he asked for a light and got it. As he drew at his pipe to get it started, he looked Joachim full in the face. Just as he was about to go on, he tapped the violinist's chest impressively.

"But Paganini was the man," said he.

Joachim used to say, declares the narrator of this story, that he never felt so small in his life. Whole pages of learned musical criticism had never begun to whittle him down so fine.

Butte-Ballaklava opened strong with large buying orders in the market, but very little stock changed hands on account of very few selling orders. We would not be at all surprised to see this stock selling for $12 a share or better during the coming week. They are going right along crosscutting on the 700-foot level and news should be forthcoming from there almost any time that they have cut some of the veins that they have opened up on the 500-foot level.
Butte & Superior is getting stronger every day. This shaft is now down close to 1,100 feet, and it will only take them about another month to put the shaft down to the 1,200-foot level, where they will commence crosscutting. Remember, Butte & Superior has got the mother vein of Butte Hill. This vein is 120 feet wide in some places and carries very high copper, gold and silver values down about twelve or thirteen hundred feet. This was proven by Clark, who took out millions of dollars' worth of ore directly south of them on this level. This vein is like all the rest of the veins in Butte—the deeper down they go the richer the ore. Buy this stock now and double your money in thirty days.
Calumet & Sonora opened up with a rush, stock advancing about three-quarters of a point, closing at $7.50 bid for 1,000 shares or any part of it. We look to see this stock selling for $10 a share early next week. We have orders here for hundreds of shares, but all you can find is an occasional ten or fifteen shares, which shows that the market is practically cleaned up.
Buy Butte-Ballaklava, Butte & Superior and Calumet & Sonora and you will make 100 per cent on your money in the next thirty days.

The failure of T. A. McIntyre & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, known as one of the leading bear houses, proved our oft-asserted opinion that the path of the bear is a mighty hard one to travel under present market and money conditions. The economic situation shows definite and positive improvement. Business improvement will come later, and as usual the stock market will discount it with a protracted advance. A very important consideration is the steady accumulation of money at all the large centers. Money cannot pile up much longer without seeking investment, all of which will mean a stimulus to good stocks and bonds. We are firmly convinced that the big swing will be on the up side, and it is only a question of time when it develops. It has been demonstrated that when prices decline stocks fail to come out, for the very good reason that there is none to come out on any decline. If you will look up the property and look up all the facts concerning Butte & Superior you will certainly be convinced that buying Butte & Superior at the present price is like buying two bits at a nickel apiece. National is another good one of the low priced stocks. Keep your eye on it. Butte-Ballaklava developed unexpected strength just before the close, and many buying orders were left unfilled. We still pin our faith to Butte-Ballaklava and believe that Butte-Ballaklava and Shattuck are the best investments ever offered. If you love your family you should buy each of these two gold-dollar investments and put them away for a rainy day. Calumet & Montana was quite agile and closed at the top price of the day. Traded at 40c to 45c with buying orders in excess of selling. There are some extravagant predictions made for this stock, and if half of what is said about it is true it should sell above the dollar mark in the very near future. Calumet & Sonora showed little signs of life, there being some demand for it at $7 and $7.25. A very good investment. Remember our private wire service and that our connections place us in a position to give all orders the best execution. We invite correspondence regarding any stock that you are interested in.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

During the past week at the Central high, the seniors were made to understand, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that their end is not far off. On Monday the first call for final essays was sounded by Prof. Sprague and his room has been the busiest place in the building during the entire week. On Monday of next week the musical seniors will begin to practice vocal chords with which to fill the hall with melody on class night in an endeavor to leave tuneful memories behind in the minds of all the pupils—but especially as a tribute to their very good friends, the juniors.

* * *

The freshmen and sophomores made up spelling examinations the first of the week and a few unhappy seniors were included in the ranks, but all obtained passing marks and were made happy in consequence, and will no doubt attack other and later tests with more enthusiasm.

* * *

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Spencer sang before the Musical society and gained two rounds of well earned applause by his spirited solos. Before the meeting adjourned the club-pins were distributed to the members who are very proud of their new acquisitions. They are the first club-pins the musical society has had and are dainty in design and effect. The music for the coming concert was rehearsed. It s pronounced very nearly perfect. On Friday afternoon the members who are to take part in the cantata to be given at the Methodist church also met for a short time for final rehearsals.

* * *

Members of the junior and sophomore debating teams have withdrawn to some unknown spot, (guessed by some to be the library), where they are perfecting elaborate orations for the championship debate to be held in chapel on next Friday, May 8.

* * *

Literary people are supposed as a rule to be most erratic but the lads of the Zenith board take the prize. On Tuesday afternoon a meeting of the board was called. The boys all appeared but all the girls were at musical society so no business could be enacted and while awaiting the feminine members, the boys decided to pass the time by an athletic exhibition in which all were obliged to participate. This soon turned into a furious game of baseball and was continued until the arrival of the janitor who could not understad the confusion of the room and marveled at the disturbance. In spite of all delays the Zenith is now ready for the printers and its arrival in book form is looked forward to with the utmost impatience by the entire school.

* * *

The senior photos are almost all finished. Some of the seniors thought they would send the photographer a card of thanks, but a witty junior suggested that a card of sympathy would be more appropriate. The question is even now receiving serious consideration.

* * *

* * *

Baseball is assuming first place in athletics at present. The school team has been busy all week and the way the freshies took the seniors into camp last Thursday night was a really wonderful exhibition. The track men are not doing any spectacular work during training but Coach Heston is laying a fine foundation for the strain which is to come later.

* * *

The opening of the trout season combined with the extra fine weather has made it very hard for some of the more enthusiastic nature lovers to buckle down to work and Saturday holiday is eagerly looked forward to by an army from the four classes.

* * *

The freshies are under the impression that they have lost much of their greenness and will endeavor to prove it to the school at their annual spread and hop which will be held on May 15. There were just ten freshies who stayed home from the hop last night and these were amply rewarded by all the joys of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the good old thriller, which they saw in a body today.

* * *

The dreary northeaster put a little damper on the joy of the guests of the sophomore dance last week, but the steady drip of the rain and the distant roar of the breakers combined with inky blackness only seemed to make the scene more brilliant and enjoyable within.

YOUNG AGAIN TO FRONT

Their chief aim seems to be to end, if possible, the policy of law enforcement which I have followed, and punish me for my activity in that direction.

"I ask you carefully to consider the situation, because your interests are involved. I have been fighting your battle. The contest is not ended; it will not be ended while selfishness is a part of human nature. If elected governor I will follow the same policy I have pursued as attorney general, and if you are in favor of it, I think I am entitled to your support and that of your friends.

"I would be glad to hear from you on the subject, and in the meantime I remain, yours truly,

"E. T. YOUNG."

While it may be true that the charges Young made in his former letter have not started any great flood of sentiment towards him, it has made considerable trouble for the other fellows. Young's challenge and the charges he then made are yet undenied, and Jacobson still maintains a dignified silence regarding his position on the state issues. The demand for a statement as to his policies continues, but he has said nothing further than what he said in his speech before the Lac Qui Parle county convention, when he pointed to his past record, and said he would not make any pledges.

* * *

If Young is turned down by the state convention, it will be another indication of success for the Democrats. Young seems to be the only one of the candidates that has anything of the Rooseveltian stamp, dignified and able, educated, broad-minded, independent and experienced, and with a record of recent achievements.

* * *

Jacobson's candidacy, however, seems to be at a standstill, and he is decidedly in the lead, although not any further than he was a month or so ago. There is no work being done for him at present, unless it is being done on the quiet.

* * *

The Heatwole candidacy is not arousing any great enthusiasm. While it is showing evidences of strength in some quarters, the politicians are not taking it seriously. No one looks upon Heatwole as a candidate, but it is common to see people wink with one eye when "Heatwole for governor" is mentioned to them, and remark that he's in to get a trading delegation. Just what he wants no one knows, but Heatwole has long had his eye on the senatorship, and he may be planning to build a machine for that purpose.

* * *

It is stated that the Prohibitionists and the Anti-Saloon league are looking up the record of the Minnesota congressmen to ascertain how they voted on such questions as the regulation of the liquor traffic into states that are "dry," and how they have voted on bills for the regulation of the traffic in the District of Columbia. It is said that in at least three districts of the state they are planning fights on the Republican congressmen. And if they put up candidates of their own, the result may be that they will take away some of the votes from the Republican candidates and elect Democrats through this split.

No great consternation was noticed in the Johnson camp upon the receipt of the news that Illinois had instructed for Bryan. While it is believed that the people of Illinois, as a rule, are for Johnson, the combination between Roger Sullivan and Bryan was too strong for them to beat, and the local Johnson people had known all the time that things were fixed this way, although they had a faint hope of breaking the combination.

The campaign in this state is waxing noisy, if not warm. Over in Hennepin the Bryanites are claiming the county, and making a big noise. In St. Paul the Bryanites have called a meeting at Federation hall for next Monday evening. They propose to make as big a showing as possible, even though they have no hopes of taking the delegation from Johnson.

Some of the Bryan Democrats have been rather lukewarm in their support of the Democratic candidate for mayor, Dan W. Lawler and the Republican papers tried to make a noise about it for the sake of injuring both Lawler and Johnson. But Hugh Halbert, the Republican local campaign manager, called them off as soon as he possibly could. He told them that every time they mentioned that Lawler was for Johnson, they were making votes for Lawler. So the subject was dropped. interests, instead of for the benefit of

The charge that there were 14,000 people with passes at the state fair the last day last fall was made by Secretary W. H. Card at the recent meeting of the Minnesota State Automobile association. The auto association had arranged with the state fair board to give a series of automobile races at the fair on the last day and they were to get $2,000, plus 50 per cent of the receipts over $11,000. The association spent some $3,000 in prizes and other expenses for the races, but as there were about 32,000 people at the fair that day, they expected to get enough to cover the expenses and leave them a surplus. But when they came to settle up they were told that there were only 18,000 paid admissions that day, and the receipts were only about $12,000. So the auto association had a nice little deficit to pay. That there were 14,000 people on the grounds with passes looks ridiculous, yet that was the statement Secretary Card made in his annual report to the association.

* * *

The St. Paul campaign is drawing to a close and victory for the Democrats is in sight. The betting, it is reported, is two to one for Lawler, and the Republican managers are worried. McKibbin first came out as having the approval of the Law Enforcement league and was looked upon as a friend of the "straight and narrow." But in his later speeches he has qualified some of his statements. He has stated that all the laws cannot be enforced, leaving the inference that he will select which he will, and will not enforce. This does not jibe with the theory of the league, even though in practice they have followed that rule. The league secured the enforcement of the 11 o'clock lid laws and some other laws relating to the liquor traffic, but has made no attempt to secure the enforcement of some of the other Sunday laws. They discussed the subject, but found that public sentiment was too strongly against them. But the fact that McKibbin has seen fit to qualify and change his position has given the Democrats a chance to point to him as a vacillating type. The campaign is getting interesting and both sides are getting out big crowds to their meetings and the people are aroused. But "it looks like Lawler," is a common remark. For one thing the Republicans lack experienced campaign managers.

HOLD UP PUBLIC BUILDINGS' BILL

Leaders Will Use It as a Club to Force Currency Measure.

Washington, April 25.—That the public buildings bill will not be reported to the house until it is assured that the bill will have the right of way the day after it is reported, is asserted by Representative Bartholdt, chairman of the committee on public buildings and grounds.

It is said that the public buildings bill was not reported yesterday as the leaders of the house have decided to hold the bill up as a club over the heads of members of the house until they show a willingness to pass a currency bill.

There is no doubt that the leaders are determined to have a currency law at this session.

It is understood that the public buildings bill when reported will carry an appropriation of about $23,000,000.

WIFE DOES NOT LIKE AMERICA

Refuses to Leave Norway, and Husband Asks Divorce.

Ole Andreas Hogstad, a resident of this county for several years past, is tired of keping his family in Norway. He claims that his wife, Rikke Elise Hogstad, whom he married at Stenkjer, Norway, April 27, 1900, refuses to come to this country with their two children, to make their home with the husband and father, and he asks the district court to grant him a decree of divorce. If Mrs. Hogstad will not come to America, Ole will manage somehow to get along without her.

Securities are always more or less uncertain. Stocks may be 150 today and tomorrow may not be worth the value of the paper they are written on. Conditions and manipulations make them of uncertain value. Duluth dirt, however, is sure and safe. It has a value that has never gone backward. The city is just beginning to grow. Each year adds a new value to Duluth real estate. Buy it. Bny it now. You will find the real bargains advertised in the Herald.

MUCH INTEREST TAKEN IN GOVERNOR JOHNSON ALL OVER THE COUNTRY

Travelers From Minnesota Besieged by Queries Concerning Him.

Outside People Cannot Understand Opposition at Home.

Democrats Generally Believe Johnson Could be Elected President.

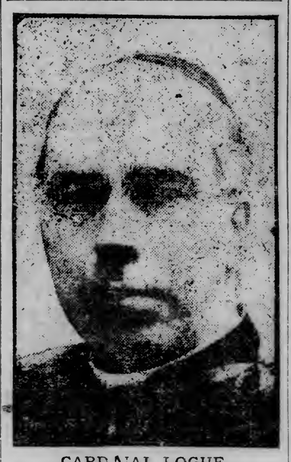

(Editorial Correspondence of The Herald)

Chicago, April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The traveler from Minnesota who goes beyond the bounds of his state these days finds himself the center of unexpected interest, interest which might flatter him if he did not quickly discover that it is not because of his own engaging personality, but solely because he hails from the state that has produced John A. Johnson, "Johnson of Minnesota," the man whose name is more upon the tongues of men these days than any other name in the United States.

Wherever the Minnesota man goes, therefore, he finds himself surrounded by people that want to know about Governor Johnson. They want to know if the stories that have been told of his rapid rise from poverty and obscurity to the eminence that has come to him of late are true, or whether they are merely the ingenious productions of a clever press agent. They want to know if it is true that he has the almost indefinable but potent powers of attraction for his fellow-beings that he is credited with. They want to know if it is true that he is the best and most convincing campaigner in the country, as they have heard. They want to know much, and questions pour in upon the Minnesota man in an unending stream which flows forth from an insatiably eager curiosity.

But above all, they marvel at the fact that there is opposition to Governor

FRIGHTFUL ATROCITIES

Practiced by the Firing Squad of Soldiers at Hayti.

Prisoners After Being Shot Shoved Into Graves While Alive.

New York, April 27.—The French cruiser D'Estrees is in port from Hayti, where the ship was sent at the time of the recent attempted revolution to look after French interests. The officers of the ship have many stories to tell of the revolution.

While at Port Au Prince, Hayti, the D'Estrees was the haven for eighty refugees, and the officers told yesterday of the horrors of the nocturnal execution on March 15, of a group of men accused of attempting to incite a revolution a few days after President Nord Alexis had quelled a rising against his administration.

There were not enough graves dug for all the persons who were shot, and one prominent merchant had to sit and watch the soldiers dig his future burial place.

As the firing squad was in a hurry, his grave was dug only of sufficient size to allow him to be buried with his arms and knees together. The bullets failed to kill him and he was tumbled into the hole, which was yet too small. Then the grave diggers pushed him in with their shovels, and while they were covering him he sought to protest by moving his hands.

AN AVALANCHE KILLS THIRTY

Little Town of De Salette Buried by a Landslide.

Buckingham, Que., April 27.—Half the little French hamlet of Notre Dame De Salette, sixteen miles from the Lievre river, lies under a slide from the mountain, and at least thirty of its small population are known to have perished. The hamlet has no telephone or telegraph and neither is it on a railroad. Meager bits of news of the disaster came in by messenger from the physicians and other rescuers, who were hurried when the first call came in the early morning.

The river Lievre winds at the foot of the hamlet and a mountain towers behind it. Spring rains for days past have been melting the snow and ice on the mountain side and streams have been coursing down the river. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning, just as the little hamlet began to stir for early mass, part of the mountain started to slide toward the river. It left a path of death and destruction in its wake and those who were not killed when their homes were engulfed, were left buried under the mass of debris.

Latest reports from De Salette make the number of known dead thirty, of which eleven bodies have been recovered. In all twenty homes were engulfed in the slide.

De Salette was built on the two banks of the River Lievre. One house on the west bank, containing the only telephone in the hamlet was the first obstacle in the path of the sliding mountain, and in its wreck communication with the outside world was cut off. The slide carried two houses on the west bank into the swollen river and across to the east bank, and then covered eighteen houses there. The river was dammed and those who were not killed in the avalanche were drowned. De Salette was built on blue clay, which rested on a strata of limestone. Five years ago there was a similar disaster at Poupere. Poupere then slipped gently into the river without loss of life.

Landslides along the river are common each spring with the rains and swollen streams. The Lievre at De Salette was a swollen torrent.

SHE JUSTIFIES HER THEORY

Woman Who Discussed Suicide Follows Friend to Death.

Otsego, Mich., April 27.—The drowning of Miss Sarah Carder yesterday, in Kalamazoo river, has given rise to considerable comment in connection with the suicide two months ago of Miss Dickinson, with whom Miss Carder had been living at Dowaglac.

On the night preceding Miss Dickinson's suicide the two young women engaged in an earnest discussion of the question whether suicide was ever justifiable. Miss Carder contending that it was. Miss Dickinson shot herself the following night. Miss Carder who was 45 years old, then came to Otsego to live at the home of her brother-in-law, George Barden. Saturday night she started a letter to a friend, but left it unfinished, explaining that she was feeling very nervous and would take a short walk before finishing it. Yesterday her dead body was found in a clump of reeds in the river.

DISGUISED AS A BOY

Missing Wisconsin Girl Found at Wyoming, Minn.

Escaped From Deputy, But Recaptured by Policeman.

St. Paul, April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Elizabeth Farnham, the 15-year-old girl who went away from her home in Minong, Wis., two weeks ago attired in her brother's clothes, was found at Wyoming Minn., yesterday. While on her way to Stillwater she escaped from the deputy sheriff at Post Siding, but soon afterwards was recaptured by Patrolman William Raverty. She was transferred to a Stillwater street car, accompanied by the officer, and taken to the home of her uncle, John Masterman.

She told at Wyoming that she went away with her brother-in-law, Otis Gaselin, and has been out wolf hunting and camping about six miles from Wyoming.

The girl was exhausted and hungry when she arrived in Wyoming and applied at a general store for something to eat. While she was in the store her dainty feet and soft voice, despite her cropped hair and trousers, betrayed her, and the storekeeper notifed the sheriff, who took her in custody. She refused to be taken home to her parents, but finally consented to go to the home of her uncle.

Slipped Away Unobserved.

The sheriff and his ward left over the Northern Pacific for St. Paul. When the train slowed up at the East Seventh street depot the girl slipped from the coach unobserved by her escort. She was making a hasty escape up Earl street, when a gust of wind betrayed her into the

ROBBED BANK OF $65,000

Manila Institution Victimized by Its Trusted Employes.

Manila, April 27.—The Banco Espanola-Filipino has been the victim of extensive frauds, totaling over 75,000 pesos, or about $60,000 in gold. The cashier says that through trusted employes, who have been operating with outside accomplices and honoring checks against non-existing accounts, altering the books to conceal the frauds, the leak has been going on for years.

One clerk has been arrested an other arrests are expected to follow. The bank will partly recoup itself through the seizure of property belonging to those implicated.

MRS. HAZELTON STILL HOPES THE PROFESSOR WILL BE RECONCILED

Says They and Baby Can Yet be Very Happy.

Father Does Not Take Notice of Child in Court.

Plea for Reconciliation That He Refused to Even Read.

Detroit, Mich., April 27.—Judge Hosmer's crowded courtroom was silent with breathless and sympathetic interest when Mrs. Julia Hazelton told the actual story of the breaking up of her home. It was in the spring of 1906, about two months before the birth of her babe, and she was going to the home of her parents in Duluth for that event. He paid her fare and some over. After the baby was born he paid the physician's bill, but when the doctor put in another bill for care of the baby just after its birth, Mr. Hazelton wrote him to collect from her for all further services. In March, 1906, Mrs. Hazelton said, she wrote a letter to her husband at Ann Arbor, pleading for a reconciliation. The letter was returned to her unopened, thirty days later, with the word that her husband refused to receive it. After she had identified it in court, Attorney Graves opened the envelope and read the letter into the record. It is as follows:

Plea Returned, Unread.

"102 E. Fourth St., Duluth, Minn.

"Dear Will:

"It is now ten months since I left Ann Arbor. The reasons why I left and why I am still here are as well known to you as to me and need no comment on my part. During all these months no word of reproach has gone to you from me or mine for your conduct to—— or to your child. I have left you perfect', free to follow the dictates of your own conscience and come to a realization of your duty by your own self. Not even have I written to remind you of your duty in the matter of supporting your wife and child financially.

"All this is now at an end. I feel just as strongly led to write to you now as I have felt led to leave you to yourself thus far. It is not right that I should borrow any more money for the maintenance of the baby or myself. Henceforth I must ask you to do your duty financially toward us both. Financial protection is a very small part of the duty of a husband and father, but it is a part that you surely will fulfill, even though you

FUNERAL RITES FOR LATE DUKE

High Mass Celebrated for de Chaulnes in Paris Church.

Paris, April 27.—A solemn high mass or requiem was celebrated this morning at the church of St. Philippe de Roule for the late Duke de Chaulnes, who died suddenly from heart failure Thursday night, in his bedroom in the Hotel Longham in the Rue Boccador. The canopy over the bier, which was banked with flowers, bore the quartered arms of the de Chaulnes family. The widow of the dead duke, who is a daughter of Theodore P. Shonts of New York, was accompanied to the church by the duke and duchess d'Uzes, the duke and duchess de Luynes, the duke and duchess Noailles, Marquis Horschel, Mrs. Drake and other relatives.

The duchess de Chaulnes appeared to be much heart broken, but she bravely withstood the trying French ordeal of receiving condolence after the ceremony. Many prominent members of the French aristocracy and the American colony were present at the mass, including Count Boni de Castellane, Ambassador and Mrs. White. The body was take to Dampierre this afternoon for interment.

CROKER HAS MUCH HOPE

Of Adding Important Races This Year to His Victories.

Would Like to Win Events at Newmarket and Epsom.

Dublin, April 27.—Richard Croker has strong hopes of adding this year the "One thousand guineas" at Newmarket and "The Oaks," at Epsom, to his previous victories on the British turf. He denied reports that the most promising of his string had wintered badly, and that the prospects of his stable for the coming season were gloomy.

The mare Rhodora, which was seen to advantage as a 2-year-old, is said to have come through the winter in good shape and, barring accidents, Mr. Croker thinks she will be in the first flight for the two classic, the Thousand Guineas and the Oaks. Last year's Derby winner, Orby, also has quite recovered from the injury which defeated him for the Atlantic stakes last year. He will reappear at the Epsom meeting, where Mr. Croker also will be represented by the 2-year-old Alabama, an untried half-sister of the Derby winner, in which he has great hopes. The Yale blue will thus be carried at Epsom by three first-class racers. All the progeny of the same famous mare, Rhoda B, a unique event of the turf of this country. Mr. Croker has se-

HAS RAISULI BEEN KILLED

Rumors That He Has Been Assassinated by Tribesmen.

Tangier, April 27.—Reports are in circulation here that Raisuli, the bandit, has been assassinated.

Paris, April 27.—A news agency here has what purports to be confirmation of the report of the assassination of Raisuli. According to the report received here, the bandit was ambushed by a number of Leymes tribesmen while returning to his home from a native feast offered in his honor. Other reports express doubt as to the truth of the rumors.

BOYCOTT EFFECTIVE.

NO COMPLAINTS MADE OF MISSING MAIL SACKS.

New York, April 27.—Postal authorities in this city profess to know little about the loss, reported in a dispatch from London of two mail bags containing securities and other valuables worth about $500,000, which are said to have been stolen at this port in March. Postmaster Edward M. Morgan and Postal Inspector Walter S. Mayer both stated last night that there has been no complaints or inquries and they thought it impossible for $500,000 worth of securities or other property to disappear without a complaint being received.

Postal Inspector Mayer said that it was true that a couple of mail bags, which should have arrived here late in March, were missing and as yet unaccounted for, but the authorities were inclined to believe that the absence of the bags was due to an error. He said he thought they had probobly been wrongly labeled.

FIERCE STORM RAGING ON LAKE SUPERIOR AND LOCALITIES ADJACENT

Wind Blowing Sixty Miles an Hour With Heavy Seas.

Much Damage Done by Wind and Water at Marinette.

St. Paul and Other Cities in Grasp of Raging Blizzard.

Ashland, Wis., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A heavy northeaster set in Sunday evening, increasing in fury until today the wind has a velocity of nearly sixty miles per hour. Heavy snow accompanies the winds, piling up drifts a foot or more deep. It is the worst blizzard of the winter. If any vessels were caught out on Lake Superior they are in great danger. The seas are running higher than they did during any storm last season.

Gale at St. Paul.

St. Paul, April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A northwest gale, which blew from 32 to 35 miles an hour all night, brought with it a snowstorm wet, sticky snow today. Street car service was delayed and much inconvenience was caused. The snow in town melted nearly as fast as it fell, but in the outlying districts and in the country the ground was covered with several inches of snow.

Storm Stops Seeding.

Crookston, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seeding operations have been temporarily interrupted by intermittent showers for the past three days, which during Sunday gave place to slight flurries of snow, which melted as fast as it fell. If no more rain falls seeding operations can be re-

FUNERAL OF LATE PREMIER

Services for Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman Held in London.

London, April 27.—The funeral service of the Church of England was solemnized in Westminster Abbey at noon today over the body of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, late premier of Great Britain, who died April 22, in the presence of a large gathering representing the political life of England. After the service a short procession moved from the abbey to Euston station, where a special train took the coffin, some of Sir Henry's relatives and a few of his closest friends to Scotland. It was a typical gloomy London day, and a dismal rain was falling when the cortege made its way through the streets. The Abbey and the railroad station each had its crowd of spectators who found shelter from the weather under a sea of umbrellas.

The last time the body of a premier of England was taken to Westminster Abbey was in 1898, when Gladstone was buried there. The ceremony of today held much less of display than was seen when Mr. Gladstone was laid at rest.

REFERRED TO A SUB COMMITTEE

Nelson May Continue His Opposition to Purdy's Nomination.

Washington, April 27.—The nomination of Milton D. Purdy, now assistant to the attorney general, to be United States district judge of Minnesota, in the senate judiciary committee today, was referred to Senators Nelson, Depew and Overman. Mr. Nelson opposed the appointment of Mr. Purdy to the judgeship, and should he continue his opposition could prevent confirmation at this session of the senate.

WOMAN HAS NOW BEEN SLEEPING EIGHTY DAYS.

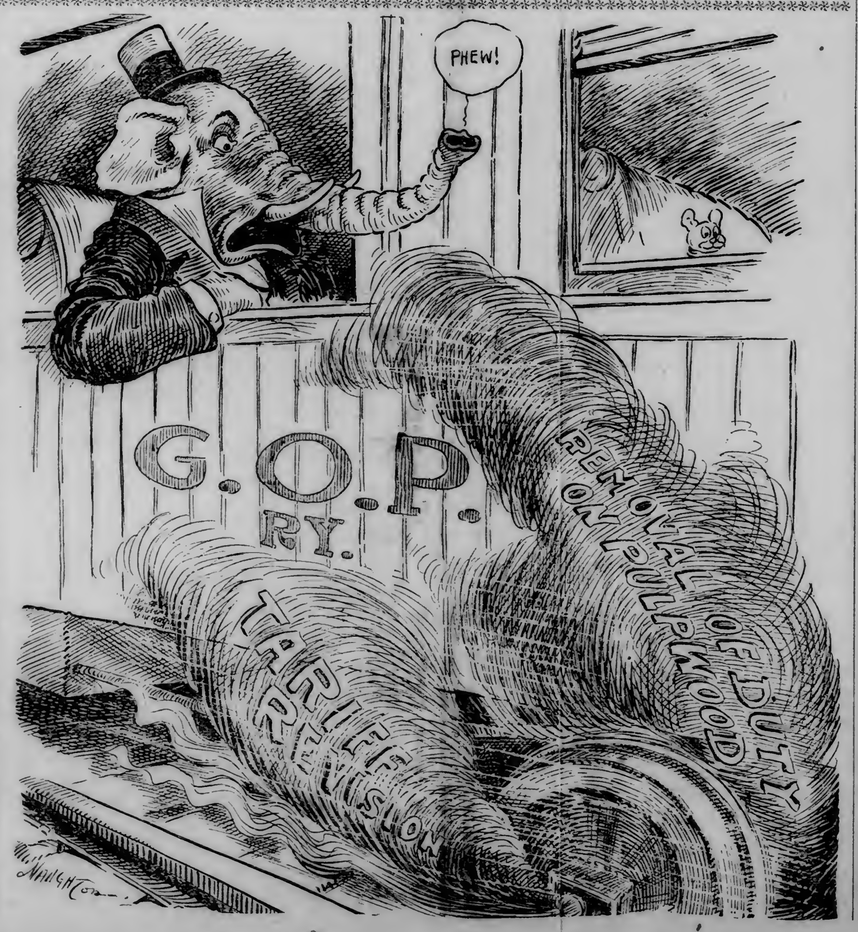

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—No change in the condition of Mrs. Buelah Hawkins is reported at the county hospital, where she today enters upon the eighty-first day of her strange trance-like sleep. Physicians at the hospital say she may not regain consciousness for a year or more.

LUERY WINS HIS CASE

Judge Dibell Decides He Was Partner of Sablotzky.

Judge Dibell has rendered his decision in the civil action brought by Harry Luery against Jacob Sablotzky and the New York Store company, to determine the disputed question of a co-partnership between the parties.

The court finds that Luery became a partner in the business, Feb. 21, 1907, that Sablotzky put up the business and stock of goods, valued at $2,277, while Luery put in $2,000 cash, and agreed to put in $277 whenever it was demanded, but no demand was ever made for payment.

Judge Dibell orders the co-partnership dissolved and an accounting made of the business. The store will go into the hands of a receiver as soon as the court appoints one, which will be done as soon as either party petitions for one. Until a receiver is appointed to dispose of the business and convert it into cash, the court has named Roger S. Lerch as custodian of the property.

The accounting may be had on eight-days' notice by either Sablotzky or Luery.

The court retains jurisdiction in the case and over the parties, for the purpose of making further orders or entering such further judgments as may be necessary in taking the accounting, the appointment of a receiver, the disposal of the property and the distribution of the proceeds.

Under the court's order Luery recovers from Sablotzky his disbursements, but not his costs. The disbursements will come out of Sablotzky's share in the business, but the expenses of the accounting, the receivership, etc., will come out of the partnership estate.

A stay of proceedings for twenty days is granted.

In his memorandum Judge Dibell states that the question of finding whether a co-partnership existed was not free from difficulty, that the testimony of the principals was colored by interest and was in direct conflict, neither proving satisfactory or reliable.

The court says that both Luery and Sablotzky did things inconsistent with their respective claims, and that Luery's explanation, if it is believed, is fairly satisfactory.

Sablotzky owned and managed the corporation. There were no other acting officers. He could have disposed of the goods as he saw fit and could have applied a portion of the stock to the payment of private debt and no one could have complained. He might have moved the store and have done business under any other name as there were no stockholders to dispute his ownership. He entered the partnership with Luery and contributed the property in the store as his share. No one else can complain and Luery should not. The fact that they continued doing business under the old name does not give Sablotzky any advantage, the court says.

TALKS TO STUDENTS.

Rev. R. J. Mooney Gives Interesting Address at Irving School.

In a short, terse and interesting address this morning, Rev. Roderick J. Mooney, rector of the Holy Apostle's Episcopal church, advised the boys of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades and high school of the Irving school, of the six "Bs" that lead to success in life and toward perfection in manhood.

Rev. Mooney said that the six "Bs" are "be studious, be obedient, be sensible, be not lazy, be not disobedient and be not foolish." He asked the boys if they were acquainted with the habits of bees, the little insects whose busy ways and industriousness had won them the praise of many writers. From these little insects the boys should take example," he said. "But," said Rev. Mooney, "the busy bees and the Bs I am speaking of, both have stings if not handled rightly. If you boys will watch out for the "Bs" I have mentioned, you will find that they will pave your way to success, but if you neglect them and pay no heed whatsoever to them, you will not be successful in the walks of life.

"A boy must not be lazy or disobedient or foolish if he wishes to grow up into a manhood that will be worth while."

Rev. Moody concluded his good advice to the boys by saying that they should not neglect their studies.

At the request of Principal Foster, Rev. Mooney will address the Irving school girls at their opening session next Monday morning.

RUBBER BOOTS SAVED HIM.

John Berg Touches Feed Wire Carrying Heavy Current.

While attempting to jump across a steam pipe on the coal dock at the Zenith furnace Saturday night, John Berg, an engineer for the furnace company, who lives at 518 South Fifty-eighth avenue west, accidentally touched a feed wire carrying a heavy current of electricity, which had been dislodged from its fastenings above. Berg was thrown from his feet to the dock, where he lay unconscious until he was discovered and revived by fellow-workmen.

Berg is back again at work this morning, a little lame from blisters on his feet and with some bad burns on his hand, which came in contact with the wire. He credits his still being alive to the fact that he was wearing a heavy pair of rubber overshoes at the time. The rubber being a poor conductor of electricity, probably saved him from a worse burning, if not death.

CRAZED BY LIQUOR.

St. Paul Cook Found Pulling Up Grass in West Duluth.

Crawling on hands and knees along the wet sidewalk near Sixty-first avenue west and Grand avenue, Fred Jennings was picked up Saturday night by the West Duluth police. He was suffering from a bad attack of the tremens, and when the police found him, was pulling up handfuls of grass from beside the walk.

He was taken to the West Duluth police station, where he spent the night, without sleep, keeping busy picking imaginary bugs and serpents from his clothing. In the morning his condition was so bad that he was taken uptown to headquarters. In searching his clothing in an attempt to identify him, for the man's condition was such that he could not talk intelligibly, papers were found that showed that he belonged to the Cooks' and Waiters' union of St. Paul.

Last night, under the influence of a potion given him by the physician, he lay in a stupor, and was reported to be improved today.

MANUAL TRAINING.

West Duluth Commercial Club Adopts Resolution Favoring It.

As a result of the recent investigations made at the Stout schools at Menomonie, Wis., the West Duluth Commercial club has received from the committee appointed by that club to attend the investigation, the following set of resolutions favoring manual training in Duluth schools:

"Whereas, it has been found that the introduction of manual training in the Irving school has already had excellent results, and

"Whereas, it appears that a far greater number of pupils leave school at the end of the eighth year than enter high school, and

"Whereas, it has been found that the manual training for such pupils has helped them immeasurably in the struggle of life, and has tended to make them better citizens and home makers, and

"Whereas, all education at public cost should be according to the needs of the greater number, and

"Whereas, manual training has been found to be helpful to those who intend never to pursue any hand work as well as to those who will make manual labor their life vocation; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that in the opinion of this club, it would be wise to have the necessary additional manual training equipment installed in the Irving school without any unnecessary delay, and further, that manual training courses along lines mapped out in the said Irving school be introduced in all the grades of all the schools in Duluth as soon as the same appears feasible, and

"Be it resolved further, that a copy of these resolutions be entered in full upon the minutes of this meeting, and that a copy of the resolutions be sent to each member of the board of education."

RAILROADS

WIRES ARE DERANGED

Telegraph Service in the Northwest is Badly Handicapped.

Snow Has Not Yet Interfered With the Trains.

Railway telegraph service has been badly deranged by the storm that is sweeping over the Northwest. Train service is so far but little hindered by the heavy snow. The damp snow has played funny tricks with the wires, though, and the operating departments of the Duluth roads have been subjected to annoyances and inconveniences by the irregular working of the wires.

The South Shore trains have not been troubled at all, although the telegraph department of that road has felt the effects of the heavy, clinging snow. Messages were irregular this morning. Other roads report the same conditions.

If the storm continues at the present rate railroad men say that train service will suffer delays. The snow is so damp that it will pack easily and make fast time difficult.

WORK PROGRESSING.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Will Reach Butte on June 10.

Word has been received at the Duluth office of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, stating that trains of that road will be running into Butte, Mont., by June 10. The tunnel west of Butte, that cuts off over ten miles of the route taken by other roads, is nearing completion and officials of the road have placed June 10 as the time when they will have completed the road into the Montana copper city.

Work on the new trans-continental is progressing very rapidly, according to the reports received here. The great number of unemployed men thrown on the labor market has enabled the officials of the road to secure not only all the men they desire, but also to secure the best class of laborers.

Begining next month the work of rushing the new line through to the coast will be facilitated by the employment of more men. The officials of the road hope to be in Seattle by Christmas, which means that a tremendous lot of work will have to be done between now and next December.

STRIKE MAY OCCUR.

Canadian Pacific Officials and Employes Disagree Over Wage Scale.

Winnipeg, April 27.—The Canadian Pacific railway shops closed down Saturday night and will remain closed until the men agree to new terms proposed by the company when the company abrogated the agreement entered into a year ago. The present hour and wage schedule ends Thursday. Employes in the company's shops from Vancouver to St. John, N. B., completed a federation last week and 10,000 men organized to resist the company's terms. A strike appears to be imminent and the company claims that no season could suit it better, as work is slack, and they could resist the men's demands for weeks.

COUNT SEEKS A DIVORCE.

Thinks American Father-in-Law is "Tight Wad."

Vienna, April 27.—Count Gizycki, who married the daughter of R. W. Patterson, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, has brought suit for divorce. It is said he is aggrieved because Mr. Patterson wouldn't increase the countess' income.

It is said there has been trouble between the count and countess for four years, although they lived together most of the time on the count's estates in Galicia and the south of Russia. The countess alleges that the count has beaten her. She is annoyed because her husband has retained the most sensational lawyer in Vienna to represent him in the suit.

Countess Gizycky is a handsome woman of the blonde type, with an abundance of auburn hair. Miss Patterson first met the count in 1902 in Paris. He was 20 years her senior. BRUTALITY OF HUSBAND Bride of Few Months Starves While Husband Gets Drunk.

Asks Aid of the Police and Finds Him in Jail.

Hungry and penniless, Mrs. Floyd Devine, who is about to become a mother, patiently waited for her husband to come home Saturday night. He failed to show up, and she did not learn until today that while she was watching for his return, he was getting drunk, spending the money which she needed so badly.

He was arrested during the night and locked up in the city jail. When arraigned in police court this morning he was sentenced to serve ten days in the county jail, with a $12 fine as an alternative. Charging him with non-support, Mrs. Devine was about to swear out a warrant for his arrest, when she learned that he was already in jail.

Devine appeared in police court less than two weeks ago, on the charge of assault, and last night he engaged in a fight with a fellow prisoner at the city jail. Jacob Webber, the victim, appeared in court this morning with a badly discolored eye. He claims that he was sitting on a bench, when Devine hit him a terrible blow with his fist. Webber was in on a charge of drunkenness, was was allowed his freedom under suspended sentence.

The Devines were married last June. Mrs. Devine claims that since their marriage her husband has refused to support her, and that even after she had taught school after marriage, he took her wages from her and spent it on himself, not allowing her enough to buy food and clothes with. Since last November she has been working in a private family for her board, but her condition became such two weeks ago that she could no longer hold this position, and he engaged rooms for them in another part of town. It is claimed that he has not paid any money for rent, and that he has provided her with only a scanty supply of groceries since they took up their abode in their new quarters.

TESTIMONY COMPLETED

Higgins' Estate Valuation is Left in Hands of Court.

Question Involves the Present Worth of a Mining Lease.

Probate Judge Middlecoff is taking final testimony this afternoon in the matter of the objection of the state of Minnesota to the valuation placed on the Frank W. Higgins' estate, within this state, for inheritance tax purposes. The court has extended the time for the attorneys to file briefs until June 1, after which time the determination of the case will be reached as soon as possible.

The issue involved is how the probate court shall determine the present worth of a mining lease where the term, the royalty, the quantity of ore in the ground and the minimum output is given.

The state, through State Auditor Iverson, contends that the present worth of a government bond, allowing money to be worth 4 or 5 per cent.

The Higgins'estate, for various reasons, objects to that principle of fixing worth, and insists that the market value, or the value placed on the property by men familiar with the values of such properties, which is the mode of determining the value for taxation purposes, should be adopted.

The estate argues that a mining lease is not in the same class with a government bond; that in the case at bar the lessee can cancel the lease on sixty days' notice. Although there is no question about the responsibility of the lessee, which is the Oliver Iron Mining company, it is claimed that contingencies might arise which would make mining impracticable, even though the extent of the ore body is now known. The mining company has the option of canceling the lease. With this element of uncertainty in view, the heirs oppose the valuation of the property on the basis outlined by the state.

BAD STORM IS RAGING

More Than Two Inches of Snow Has Fallen in Duluth.

The storm, which began early Friday morning, took on increased severity yesterday afternoon and last night, raged with fury over the lake district, with the center in Northrn Lake Michigan. The rain, which had been driven before a northeast wind for two days, turned into snow and the wind increased in velocity. The maximum velocity of the gale in Duluth was thirty-six miles an hour.

By this morning, two inches of wet snow had fallen in Duluth and given the earth a white blanket. The precipitation was considerably heavier, but the remainder was in the form of rain. The snow continued all day today, though the wind had gone down considerably. According to Observer Richardson at the United States Weather Bureau, the storm may continue into tomorrow and spring weather come again.

The storm appears to have been general in the central states and Northwest. There was snow all over the Northwest and both St. Paul and Bismarck reported quite heavy falls. The freezing temperature extended as far south as Iowa and through Colorado and New Mexico. The snow and rain were accompanied by brisk winds and made Sunday an unpleasant day in many cities.

A New Kind of Bread.

The Germans are said to be making a new kind of bread of wheat or rye, for which the grain goes through a process similar to malting. It is said to have a delicate flavor, and by reason of the process, more easily digested. The same is true of beer which is sometimes called liquid bread. The brewing of golden grain belt beer converts the barley into a delicious food-drink that, besides containing a high percentage of nourishment, is an aid to digestion. WILL GET THE BOOKS

County Assessors Will Meet at Auditor's Office Tuesday.

Members of State Tax Commission Will Give Instructions.

Tomorrow County Auditor O. Halden will distribute the assessor books to the seventy-three assessors for the various districts in St. Louis county. The books have been in the course of preparation for several days by the auditor's office, and it is expected that there will be a large representation of the county assessor's force here tomorrow.

The assessors will meet with County Auditor Halden, Supervisor of Assessors W. F. McKay and two or three members of the state tax commission, who will come to Duluth for the purpose of giving the assessors special instructions as to their work.

This will be the first time that the assessors will have met with a supervisor of assessors and the first time that they will have met with the state tax commissioners.

It is important that as many of the assessors as possible make it a point to be present at the meeting as the state tax commission intends to see that the work of making the assessments this year is carried out very thoroughly and not in any perfunctory manner.

The assessors' books must be returned to the county auditor by the first Monday in July, previous to the meeting of the county board of equalization.

The assessors are paid by the various towns in which they are employed, the wages being $2.50 per day and expenses.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Discontent stalked abroad in the city this morning. The weather, so said many, otherwise gentle people, was what a famous general said war was—only more so. They said it vindictively, as they considered the four preceding days, and they said it while they gazed out on a blowing world from a warm and cozy dining room. They thought it while they were engaged in eating a warm and daintily served breakfast, carefully planned and prepared for them by some one who was interested and looking well to their comfort. They thought it on a car going to work.

The man who was standing on the rear platform, in the position where the dripping from the roof just hit the back of his neck inside his collar, thought it while he looked profane. The young woman who was almost mashed flat in the press in the inside of the car thought it with some bitterness while she remembered the glorious freedom of the working man. The over-sensitive person thought it with vehemence while the disagreeable odor of damp, woolen garments filled the car.

A face shining with hope and joy and some little appreciation of life and the love that may be in the world was hard to find.

And at the union station sixteen of Duluth's little orphans were huddled on the bench in the women's waiting room indifferently waiting the train that would carry them to the institutions which the state has thoughtfully provided for children who are without the loving care which alone makes childhood bearable. The gay freedom and wide-awake curiosity which marks the lively child who is departing on a journey with his family was lacking. A stoical indifference seemed to pervade the group. The youngest of the group, a baby, 3 months old, a nameless bit of humanity, whose mother even felt that she could not face the world and life handicapped with its helplessness, and so had, under cover of darkness, left without mentioning where she was going, lay quietly in its nurse's arms with no wail or whine for attention. Its deep blue eyes were bright and clear looking, and the helpless bits of hands, which wandered without direction, were so appealing that compassion for its helplessness would be wrung from a heart most indifferent to childhood's needs. But none but stranger's eyes observed with pity its start on the first journey in life.

Two of these sixteen children were sent to the state training school, and the remaining fourteen to the state public school at Owatonna. One of the candidates for the state training school was a girl of 13. She was a mild-looking little girl, with dull colored hair, tied in two braids, with dingy ribbons. She wore a dull brown colored coat and her tam-o'shanter was not a bright and vivid scarlet, to give a bit of interest to her life, but it also was a dull colored fabric. Her complexion was soft and smooth, although not at all rosy, and she sat with her hands clasped over an umbrella held between her knees and her chin resting on her hands. Her eyes, which were the most interesting feature of her face, gazed straight ahead, and her hard little mouth was shut in an uncompromising line.

To the state training school for her! There was not provided in the parceling out of life's good things love and kindness and interest and help to keep her a "good" girl, and her pursuit of happiness, the inalienable right of every American citizen, had led her, at this early year of her life, to be one who must feel the correction of "the law."

At the end of the bench sat two little Italian boys, the oldest 14 years old and the youngest 10. They are brothers and alone in the whole world. They came from the range and will receive the state's care in lieu of home attention. Their father and mother died, and then their lot fell in with an uncle. Death again visited the home and the brown eyed little boys faced the world alone. The state again came to the rescue, and this morning they started out on their journey. They sat close together, with their hats clutched close in their hands, and their sad brown eyes looked out unblinkingly, and without much interest, on the sights of the waiting rooms.

There was one golden-haired little orphan. And it was curly-haired, too. There always is. She was 6 years old and she had the sweet, shy look of a little girl with curly hair, and also a bit of the self-conscious coquettishness of the pretty little girl. Any one of the children, except the two booked for the training school might be adopted, and one knew that if a kind-hearted person wanting a little girl should come along, the golden-haired one would be chosen. Not because she had a sweeter disposition, nor that she might develop into a finer and more admirable woman, but simply because her hair was golden, and even in the damp of this morning, as curly as could be, and that her eyes were an adorable blue and dark fringed. But no one was interested, and she too left with the rest.

The train departing for the South was called and the attendants rounded up their charges. There was no chattering nor ill-timed shuffling, nor running ahead to see just what was happening. There were no fond kisses of farewell, nor little passionate huggings from sorrowing mothers. The children were taken to the school in the charge of Capt. and Mrs. F. E. Resche. Mrs. Forgy, who has been a friend to every one of the helpless little ones who have departed, bustled among them cheerfully, and patted a cheek here, and said an encouraging word there, but there was little response—from the orphaned ones. They climbed with unchildish precision into the car seats, and again looked with unseeing eyes straight ahead awaiting in silence whatever might come next.

A LATER DAY.

Duluth School Children to Obrerve Arbor Day in May.

Although April 24 was named by Governor Johnson as Arbor day for the year of 1908, there was no special observance of the day in and about Duluth. The educational committee of the State Federation of Women's Clubs desired that the school children throughout the state be urged to plant apple trees on that day. The Duluth school children ordered more than 1,100 trees, but April, even in the latter part, was considered too early for the setting out of the trees in the northern part of the state, and no arrangements were made for planting. It was decided to have Prof. Denfeld name a special day some time during May for the Duluth children to observe by the planting of the apple trees.

IDEAL EXERCISE.

Dancing Fulfills Every Requisite Says Dr. Peterson.

The dance seems to fulfill every requisite of an ideal exercise—the practical use of all the muscles, the acme of pleasurable emotion and the satisfaction of the esthetic sense, says Dr. Frederick Peterson in Colliers. The emotion of pleasure that accompanies dancing would bear a careful analysis if there were space in a brief letter to devote to so interesting a topic. It is not a simple emotion; on the contrary, it is a complex of emotions. In it are united the pleasure of motion, the pleasure of living, the feeling of freedom, the joy of youth, the social feeling, the instinctive pleasure of order or rythm, and finally an esthetic feeling in the practice of an art; and in many of the old-time dances, other emotions were often mingled, especially in the dances associated with religious rites and mysteries, with war, triumphs, mourning and love.

We must, of course, employ a dance in which the whole body takes part. I do not mean simply a round dance, a polka, a waltz, a gavot or the pirouet of the ballet. All of these are in a measure useful, and some of them, with the minuet, must needs be the basis upon which the dance as I conceive it is founded. You will the better understand my meaning when you have seen Rita Sachetto dance a Beethoven minuet. Or, if it is possible, go to see an exhibition of the Isora Duncan dancing school of Berlin, where you will have an unforgetable presentation of what can be done in physical culture when combined with fitting music and a true feeling for beauty. This is a revival of the Grecian art, and all the loveliness of line, motion and costume that you have admired on antique vases will be reincarnated before you by Miss Duncan's children, and accompanied with the music of Schumann, Hubert and Humperdinck. When you next see "Rheingold," note the movement and song of the Rhine maidens, one of the loveliest expressions of the pure joy of existence that I know—unless I may except the "Tanzlied" in "Also sprach Zarathustra,' by Richard Strauss, in which the composer seeks to embody the teachings of the late German philosopher Nietszche, who wished to place a crown of roses on man and teach him to laugh and dance. This wise man looked upon dancing as something to be sanctified and deified, as the best expression of human happiness, and, optimist as he was, believer in the continual evolution of mankind to higher and higher levels, he exclaimed: "Erhebt cure Herzen, ihr guten Tanzed, hoch, hoher!"

For the people of England, where both dancing and music died out long ago, in their very infancy, and where the aredal idea has been to cultivate emotional repression, stiff movements, formal attitudes and expressionless faces, it is difficult to sympathize with such overflowing enthusiasm. Nevertheless, even though we reject this German-made philosophy as regards the dance, we may consult a philosophy with which we are more familiar. We may teurn to Plato, more suited to our serious minds, from whom we have drawn our wisdom there 2,000 years, and learn from his republic that dancing is the most effective and most beautiful means of physical development. We cannot deny that the Greeks knew the beautiful and understood the perfection of strength and form, and a Greek revival is in the air.

Selection of Clothes.

Dont count that time lost which is spent in studying the effects of harmonious colors, needlessly urges an exchange. Color is of prime importance in dress.

Don't always wear red if you are a brunette, or think blue the only color for blondes. Reverse the order. A brunette can wear all the light shades of blue and a blonde is a symphony in bright red.

Don't wear black, mauve or green if the hair is black and the complexion swarthy. Yellow, scarlet and pink should be chosen.

Don't choose delicate shades of pink, lavender and blues, except a deep navy blue, if the eyes are blue, the hair dark brown and the complexion not clear.

Don't wear pink and scarlet if the hair is frankly red. Green and white are the colors. There are brown, oaks and copper tints that make a red-haired girl a model for any artist.

Don't choose a hat without due deliberation. The value of a becoming one cannot be calculated. It is the article of attire more than any other which brings out the good points or accentuates the bad ones, not only of the eyes and hair, but of complexion and the shape of the head.

Don't forget that if the hat is suited to the wearer all else is forgotten and forgiven.

The Modish Walk.

The new walker requires a tall figure.

If she be short, she should be slim, so that she will look taller.

She requires splendid leg muscles; not lumpy or heavy, but evenly balanced.

She needs an elastic foot. This is a foot with a high instep and a double arch.

The higher the instep and the more pronounced the arch the more springy will be the foot.

There should be two very decided arches. One arch is from side to side across the top of the foot; the other one is what is commonly known as the instep arch, the arch of the sole.

The flat-footed woman can never acquire a springy walk.

She needs to have a foot with two arches.

The fine walker needs a pair of straight legs.

If the limbs are crooked there must be exercise to make them straight.

And the straight graceful walker of the new school must have a full, round chest.

It is painful to behold the gait of the flat-chested woman.

She looks either as though she would cave in or topple over.

There is nothing eleastic or hynotic, nothing elevating or convincing, about her walk.—Washington Herald.

They are square.
They are cutaway.
They are open, or closed.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Chili con carni, 20 and 20 cents a can.
Tobasco sauce, 45 cents a bottle.
Hot amales.
Soup, 10 cents a can.
Green peppers, three for 25 cents.
Soup bones, 10 to 35 cents each.
A New England dinner or a whole kettle full of hot fragrant, appetizing filling soup is the only list of eatables that really appeals. Not just a little dab of soup, to begin a three or four or six-course dinner with a nice round full bowl of sup that is the be all and the end all of this cold day's meal. After mature consideration a piping hot tamale and a few stuffed green peppers might be added, but even the thought of a cold and esthetic salad sends shivers down an already quivering spine.

Vegetable soup, rich golden in color with the nice selection of chopped up green vegetables lurking coquettishly in the bottom of the dish—that is what will put ginger and life and interest and hope and renewed enthusiasm and a kindly charity into one's being after a day's weather such as has been provided today.

May Drill With Regulars.

Company I of the Wisconsin National Guard may have the opportunity of participating in the regular army maneuvers in Indiana next September. Will Go After Convention.

Superior council of the United Commerical Travelers will send a delegation to the state convention at Fond du Lac, next month, with instructions to land the 1909 convention for Superior. It is said that about 1,000 people attend the state conventions. The Superior council will hold its annual ball at the Hotel Superior on May 1.

Are Guessing Over Appointments.

The local politicians are speculating as to the appointments of a city meat and milk inspector and a secretary to the board of health. Health Commissioner Dr. McGill will make the appointments, but thus far he has not indicated his choice. None of the aldermen, it is said, are taking any hand in the matter. John Anderson, the present inspector, is a candidate for reappointment and Charles Stewart would also like the position. Joseph Morrison and Neil Smith have been mentioned as candidates for the appointment of secretary of the board of health.

NEW HOUSE UNLIKELY

Duluth Not Likely to Have Burlesque Next Season.

If present indications prove correct, Duluth will be out of the burlesque fold next season, for the very good reason that no theater will be available to house the Empire circuit attractions.

Every day brings the Wisconsin Central's wrecking crews nearer the Metropolitan theater, and shortly after the close of the present theatrical season, the house will be dismantled, to make way for the Wisconsin Central terminals.

W. H. Longstreet, manager of the theater, has, of course, known that this was coming and it was the intention of himself and his associates to erect another burlesque theater to replace the "Met," but they can find no available site that is sulted to their needs, and they have practically determined not to build a theater for next season.

If Duluth should have burlesque next year, however, Mr. Longstreet and his associates will be sponsors for it. They will retain an interest in the Empire circuit of burleque theaters, so that when the time comes that they can erect a new theater, they can be sure of the Empire shows.

There are but few weeks more of the present theatrical season, and when it is over, the Metropolitan will close its doors forever. Immediately thereafter the workmen will commence the task of tearing down the playhouse.

Today it stands in lonely solitude on the Bowery. It is the only structure now standing on the lower side of Superior street, from Sixth avenue west to the old street car house. And this was a neighborhood which, until a few months ago, was built up solid with ancient and modern structures.

LOST HUSBANDS; SEEK DAMAGES

Several new damage cases were filed in the district court this morning.

Hazel F. Meyers, administratrix of the estate of John J. Meyers, deceased, has sued the Great Northern Power company for $5,000 damages for the death of her husband, who is alleged to have been killed by coming in contact with a live wire at Fourth avenue West and Commerce street, Duluth, Oct. 5, 1907.

Mary Chernof, administratrix of the estate of John C. Chernof, has sued the Croxton Mining company for the loss of her husband, who is alleged to have been fatally injured by a cave-in at the Croxton mine some time ago. Mrs. Chernof is represented by C. C. Teare.

Another suit against the Croxton Mining company for $10,200 damages is brought by John Samardesh, who alleges that his leg was crushed by a large rock that was loosened in the Croxton mine by an explosion and fell on him while he was at work. Capt. Heare also represents Samardesh.

MOVEMENT UNDER WAY

Public Playground Association to be Formed in Duluth.

Plans Discussed at Meeting Held in Mayor's Office.

At a meeting held in Mayor Haven's office, this morning, it was decided to organize a playground association in Duluth, whose object it will be to have public inside playgrounds established in different parts of the city for the use of children. A meeting will be called in the near future, and those interested in the movement will be present. At that time a permanent organization will be perfected.

Those present at this morning's conference were: Mayor Haven, Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge, president of the Women's Council; Miss Ruth Roberts, physical instructor for the Duluth Gymnasium club; Phil Bevis, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Supt. R. E. Denfeld of the city schools. Bishop McGolrick was also invited to be in attendance, but was unable to be on hand. Before the meeting, however, the mayor learned that he heartily endorsed the plan for perfecting a permanent organization of a playground association in Duluth.

It is expected that one playground of the kind in question will be established this year. Possibly two will be started before the end of the season. It is planned to have two attendants at each playground, one for the small boys and girls and one for the older children. There will be one general supervisor, who will superintend all the playgrounds of the city. It is quite probable that this man will be the physical director of the Y. M. C. A. The work will not requore his whole time, and it is believed that he will be able to find sufficient time to take care of both positions.

A president, two or three vice presidents, a secretary and a treasurer will be elected when the proposed association is formed. There will also be a board of directors, and probably committeees will be appointed to look after different departments of the work. While the first public playground will be started under direction of the association, and probably with money raised by the association, all places of this description will ultimately become city institutions, although the association will continue in existence, to assist in the proper operation of the playgrounds.

The Barans were married in Duluth March 21, 1907. Previous to their marriage Baran was a widower with three children, all of whom were over 14 years of age, and Mrs. Baran was a widow with eight children, all of which were under 16 years of age.

Taking all things into consideration Baran now thinks that the combination was not a satisfactory one. He is represented by Helfo & Gran.

Susie Kaufman, aged 25 years, seeks a legal separation from Andrew Kaufman, aged 29 years, on the ground of desertion. They were married in Escanaba, Mich., June 29, 1897, and have two children.

On the same charge Lizzie Thompson, aged 19 years, seeks a divorce from Elmer Thompson, aged 26. They were married in Calumet June 19, 1903.

DEATH LIST NEARLY 400

Atlanta, Ga., April 27.—All reports today indicate that the wind storm which rolled up a death list of nearly 400 and a list of injured of about 1,200 during last Friday and Saturday, has passed north. A careful canvass seems to make the death list 376 for the state of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia, with Georgia the least sufferer. The property damages in all four states is considerable.

The storm was peculiar in that it traveled in circles.

Yesterday it struck Georgia with terrific force for a second time, but caused no casualties.

Flood conditions, however, prevail in most of the rivers in this section and in Alabama. At Columbus, Ga., mills are shut down and street car service is suspended.

MEN ARE WANTED.

The United States wants eligibles for appointment to the positions of physical chemist, electrician and preparator of fossils, and examination of candidates will be conducted during the month of May. The examination for physical chemist will take place May 14 and the candidates will not be assembled. The position is worth $2,100 per annum. In all offices, on May 29, an examination will be conducted for male preparator of fossils in the geological survey, at a salary of $75 per month.

BRYAN IS HANDED HIS

Question Club Members Jump All Over "The Peerless One."

Alfred Jaques Starts Something He is Unable to Finish.

"Long live the king—the king is dead."

The obsequies attending the burial of the political aspirations of William Jennings Bryan as a "live one," in the opinion of the members of the tempestuous and impulsive Question club, were solemnized with due impressiveness at the club's meeting, yesterday afternoon. Henceforth the henchmen of the "Peerless One" need look for little sympathy and less support from the members of various political faiths who compose that club.

It all happened because Alfred Jaques, one of Mr. Bryan's ardent supporters, forgot himself long enough to mix a partisan sentence into a supposedly non-partisan dissertation upon "The New Democracy." Adherents of four varying political faiths sprang to the floor, upon the conclusion of Mr. Jaques' political sketch, to tell, with passionate earnestness the reasons why Byranism was a thing of the dim and misty past.

Warm Up to the Work.

And, gentle reader, they didn't mince words in telling why Mr. Bryan was a member of the "Down and Out" club. There was no preliminary conversational sparring; it was a case of clinch and go to the floor with the bitter facts.

Mr. Jaques said Mr. Bryan was a great man. He didn't think that Theodore Roosevelt had accomplished very much. In fact, he called T. R. a conservative. Think of that! Mr. Bryan was the man who had done it all, in the opinion of Mr. Jaques, and he believed that Mr. Bryan had accomplished more while out of office than he could have possibly accomplished had he been spending the time in the White House.

Now, here was a slip of logic that the members of the club were not long to take advantage of. Why, they asked, if Mr. Bryan had done more good out of office than he could do in office, was Mr. Jaques eloquently pleading the cause of his nomination?

The Words Poured Out.

Suddenly a speaker rose to gain the recognition of the chairman. He possessed an infectious grin and a lack of logic that would make Laura Jean Libby's impassioned love passages look like a treatise on higher mathematics. He had a lot to say but he didn't know exactly how to say it.

But there could be no mistaking the fact that he did not admire the political record of Mr. Bryan. He was a Socialist—the speaker—and he asked why Mr. Bryan traveled over the country accumulating wealth, changing his political complexion with the veering winds of political opinion, renouncing this, appropriating that, but doing nothing to ameliorate the condition of the workingman.

The library authorities had requested a mild and smooth tone of voice, as overhead there were humble students immersed deep in their favorite authors. But the youth, who hailed from New York, and who had imbibed some of the Willie Hearst teachings, forgot the soft pedal injunction—forgot all, save that William J. Bryan had advocated the municipal ownership of railroads, had later renounced it; had advocated free silver, had forgotten it; and, in the opinion of the speaker had pursued a will o' the wisp course.

Then another speaker arose. He wanted to know what Mr. Bryan's record consisted of. If Mr. Jaques airily swept Theodore Roosevelt's record aside, as amounting to nothing; what had he found in the record of Mr. Bryan to inspire him to make a partisan allusion to him as "our great and true Democratic leader."

Hitting in Cliches.

Now the debate was going at full tide. The admonition about the loud talking was forgotten. Earnest students overhead could stuff their ears—William Jennings Bryan was going to get his.

One speaker of Socialistic tendencies and a foreign appearance, wanted to know why Mr. Bryan, the friend of the working men, had not come to the support of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone. He asked this with scorn. He asked why Mr. Bryan didn't advocate some policy that would help the wage earners. He asked an impertinent question—he asked what Mr. Bryan had done, aside from delivering some odd thousand speeches.

The calm and sedate appearance of the members of the Question club had undergone a decided alternation. Hair was rumpled, brows glistened with intellectual occupation and heavy caliber adjectives were fired at Mr. Jaques. The air was vibrant with political opinions. They were of varying political faith, but they all stabbed Mr. Bryan with adjectives of renunciation. "Long live the King," cried one excited speaker—"The King is Dead."

Mrs. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn Jones, the Socialist worker, delivered a ringing five minute address. She, too, like the citizens of the Missouri commonwealth, wanted to be shown. She wanted to know what Mr. Bryan had done to better the working class, what he had advocated in their behalf—what Mr. Bryan had done to earn the sympathy and support of the great mass of wage earners.

Mrs. Jones also expressed the desire that the Socialists be protected from the people who claim that faith, yet knew not the least of its tenets. She told what Socialism was and what it was not. It was not for municipal ownership of railroads or for Mr. Bryan. It was for a system, where the wage earner would be guaranteed the value of his producing power. It was for a system of government where the wage earners, as the great majority, would be given a ruling power in the affairs of state. It was for a system whereby the industries would be operated for the benefit of the wage earners, not for the few.

Suddenly the timekeeper—there was a regular timekeeper, whose duty it was to separate conversational combatant—announced that time was up. But there were many more who wanted to speak. Then it was decided to extend the time thirty minutes. The oral battle was resumed.

Republicans wanted to dispute Mr. Jaques' claims in behalf of the Democratic party; Socialists wanted to say more things about Mr. Bryan; Populists wanted to draw attention to certain plans in the platform of that party—and a few, alas and very few, desired to defend Mr. Bryan's record. It was waxing late, as they say in Aurora, Ill., and the meeting was reluctantly called, with the political corpse of Mr. Bryan lying by the roadside in the path of "The New Democracy."

REMOVAL OF DUTY

On Pulp and Paper to be Discussed at Republican Caucus.

Washington, April 27.—As a result of the representations of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, Speaker Cannon has agreed that the subject of the removal of the duty on wood pulp and the price of print paper in the United States shall be discussed at the caucus of the Republicans to be held this week, provided a reasonable number of Republican members make a request to that effect.

Committee Continues Hearing.

Washington, April 27.—The select committee of the house appointed by Speaker Cannon to inquire into the complaint of the American Newspaper Publishers' association regarding the price of print paper in the United States, continued its hearing today. At the outset, Chairman Mann announced the receipt of a letter from President Burbank of the International Paper company, expressing his complete willingness to send to Washington "suitable officials with full information regarding affairs of this company, as you will be apt to wish."

With the consent of the committee, Chairman Mann replied by telegraph, saying the committee would be glad to have any officials or interested persons at the hearing, and that the committee was desirous of obtaining the fullest information possible. He added that the committee would be pleased to have the International Paper company appear immediately after the testimony of the Publishers' association shall have been completed.

Chairman Mann then stated that it was the committee's desire to have each of the publishers now here testify as to his personal knowledge of the several matters complained of. fw

Norris Resumes Testimony.

John Norris, representing the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, resumed his testimony begun Saturday. He at once asked to be relieved from exhibiting the confidential paper arrangement of the New York Times, by which that paper enjoys a rate of $35 per ton, and suggested that perhaps the information might be obtained from the International Paper company.

"The committee," replied Mr. Mann, "does not desire to embarrass the New York Times or you. We cannot get the data from the International company in any event before they commence to testify, and therefore the committee directs you to give it all the information in your possession."

As bearing upon the determination of the papermakers to raise prices, Mr. Norris read a number of statements made at the meeting of the publishers in September, 1907. One of these was made by Gen. Felix Angus of the Baltimore American, who said that while he had at that time enjoyed favorable paper contracts, he had been forced to pay $2.50 per hundred.

"That was blood money," General Angus was quoted as saying. Another statement was by Editor Haynes of the Paterson News, who said that a director of the International Paper company, "after he had a few drinks in him," said they were going to check up the price of paper to $3 a hundred.

Could Get No Bids.

Still another statement by the business manager of the New York Journal of Commerce was read. It spoke of the several increases in the price of paper until, after the expiration of an existing contract, the price was run up to $2.50. The price was objected to, and although efforts were made to get bids from other manufacturers, it was impossible and a contract finally was made at $2.47½ for one year.

Mr. Norris submitted to the committee a list of 202 newspapers to whom the price of paper has been raised, according to a report made to him. The list showed that these increases ranged from $2 to $17 a ton in the last two years.

Asked by Mr. Mann if he knew how much print paper is used annually by these 202 papers, Mr. Norris said he had not the slightest idea. For the most part these papers were published in the smaller cities of the country.

"It was not altogether accurate," said Mr. Norris, "to say that as a rule the large newspapers have been able to buy their paper supply at less cost than the small papers; because the small paper could get the net benefit of competition between thirty or forty small mills, while in the case of the big papers this competition was restricted by the smallness of the number of mills capable of manufacturing in individual quantities sufficient to supply the large users. Mr. Norris said the average of increase in price to the 202 listed publications was substantially $9.50 a ton in the last two years.

Representative Stafford objected that the striking of such an average was "not a fair epitome of the list," inasmuch as the list showed, for the most part, that the increases to the small papers were much larger than the increases to the big papers.

Asked to Explain Variations.

Asked by Mr. Mann to explain the variation between $2 and $17 a ton, Mr. Norris said that it was in furtherance of a determination that there was to be established a uniform raise in prices to $2.50 per 100. That, he said, was the avowed purpose in 1896 when the paper manufacturers appeared before the Dingley committee.

"You are making the claim," remarked Mr. Mann, "that the paper manufacturers have entered into a combination by which they absolutely control the price of paper throughout the country and thereupon you present to us a list of increase in prices which very from $2 to $17 a ton. On its face," declared Mr. Mann, "that would not seem to indicate anything of a combination to regulate the price of anything but meant to secure some sort of a uniformity."

Mr. Norris insisted that the paper companies were attempting to establish a uniform price for everybody on the basis of $2.50 and that during the past year many contracts had been readjusted at prices up to $2.50 because he said two years ago they made five-year contracts with Pittsburg, Buffalo and Chicago papers whereby at the end of one or two years there would be a readjustment of the price. "That readjustment," he asserted, "has taken place."

"If," said Mr. Mann, "you desire us to believe that these increases were for the purpose of equalizing prices or raising prices to a certain figure, you owe it to us to present some testimony on that subject."

Mr. Norris readily responded that he would do so, and remarked that Chairman Mann was anticipating what was coming in that direction.

At this juncture a recess was taken until 2 o'clock.

FORAKER'S BILL IS DOOMED TO A VETO.

Washington, April 27.—President Roosevelt has declared that he will veto Senator Foraker's bill providing for the restoration to the army of former members of the Twenty-fifth Infantry who purge themselves of contempt by making oath that they were not implicated in the shooting up of Brownsville and know nothing about it. If it should per chance pass both houses of congress and come to him for action.

And if both houses were to pass the bill over his veto, something of course that is extremely improbable, the president will simply decline to obey, on the constitutional ground that one co-ordinate branch of the government cannot interfere with the duties of another.

LALOR IS A HIT.

Delights Two Audiences With His Work in "Coming Thro' the Rye."

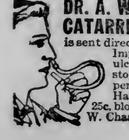

Frank Lalor, with quiet humor, funny facial contortions and a style of comedy singing peculiarly his own, made a big hit with two audiences at the Lyceum Saturday afternoon and night. In "Coming Through the Rye," Lalor has plenty of opportunity to display ability as a comedian in his own creation, Nott, the tailor, Lalor is a quiet sort of a humorist, who doesn't become monotonous. He doesn't say a great deal, nor is he boisterous or shouting. His grimaces are funny and his singing a scream. His two songs, "It Must Be Love" and "Clancy," drew hearty applause and he responded to encores until he was tired.

"Coming Thro' the Rye' is a well-written little musical comedy with pure comedy as its strong point. The company is a good one. The lines are not written around one man, though Lalor is the principal. Frank L. Tilden as Lord Batterbee, the English lord, "singing a lullaby to a holdover" has a good comedy role, and Miss Sallie Stembler as Mrs. Kobb, the modern Mrs. Malaprop, who tries to break into society with money as a jimmy, adds merit to the piece with her flow of "nervous grammar."

Miss Eveleen Dunmore as Lolita, the model, has the best voice of the company and she uses it effectively in two songs. Sidney Toler has good Italian dialect in 'Moolbarri' and little Miss Lowe, with her horse "Broncho Boy," and an exceedingly winning way, break into the last act to give the play new life. The minor parts are well handled, the chorus is pretty and well drilled, and the company did not disappoint those, who had banked on the exceedingly favorable advance notices.

The Widows Return.

The Jolly Grass Widows, to the patrons of the Metroplitan, the best of all the Empire circuit burlesque companies, are at the Metroplitan for the week. This organization was the first to play at the 'Met" after it became a burlesque theater, and it has always made a hit with the Metropolitan's clientele. The personnel includes George Guhl, Falke and Coe, LaToy Brothers, Will Fox, Annette Wiltsie, the Three Musketeers, Miss Lillian Boyd and Winnie Richards. There will be a bargain matinee tomorrow.

Local Unions Present Resolution to the Trades Assembly.

Leaders Claim Attempt to Switch Labor to Socialist Party.

Considerable discussion has been aroused in local labor circles over the resolution which was introduced at the last meeting of the Trades Assembly, and which involved the question of whether the labor unions would further their own interests by affiliating with any of the present political parties, or by organizing a new party of their own.

It is generally assumed that the trend of the resolution is toward an affiliation with the Socialist party, as the principles advocated by that party seem to be those aimed at by the resolution. Some of the labor leaders claim that the resolution is a move to switch the unions to the Socialist party.

The resolution was laid on the table by the Trades Assembly after a warm discussion, until after the state federation convention in June.

It is expected that a similar resolution will be presented to the state federation.

The resolution follows:

"Relative to the 10 cent per capita call of our State Federation of Labor political committee for political activity in the interest of labor, a number of questions force themselves upon us as to the benefits to be derived.

"Politics, we know, is essential, for the action of national and state courts prove that our capitalists have transferred the fight to crush labor from the industrial to the political field. Corporate interests dominate today, and we are feeling its effects and are forced to realize it.

"Labor controls the voting power, but can that power be used in our behalf when expressed through any party controlled and financed by corporate interests? Does it not follow that a candidate can not do other than what the party principle will allow? If it is bound by 'property rights,' in what way can the true interests of labor be served? Can our candidate on any such party be the logical representative of labor?

"The harvest we are now reaping is the direct result of our inactivity on the political field. Gompers is feared on the industrial field by reason of our industrial organization; on the political field he is not feared, by reason of our lack of unity. Gompers advises us to beg for relief. Has such begging not proven worse than useless? He asks us to support our friends and defeat our enemies.

"How will the candidates we support be nominated? Who will choose these candidates? Will it be by referendum of labor? If at the first opportunity they decide to serve capitalism, in what way can we prevent them? What prevents the supreme court from declaring unconstitutional any legislation in the interest of labor? What party can rise higher than the sources of its shews of war?

"Benjamin Franklin has said, 'If you want a thing done, do it yourself.' Labor alone knows what it wants, and labor alone can get what it wants.

"How can we secure freedom of speech, action and a free press if not through a party owned, financed and controled by labor?

"Whereas we are now called upon for a 10 cent per capita tax by the State Federation political committee, the object ostensibly being the furthering of the interests of organized labor on the political field; and

"Whereas, the recent incidents resultant from the adverse decisions, etc., on the part of the judiciary in the state and federal courts of the land (all of which have been aimed as body blows against the interests of organized labor) have made it evident, to the most lethargic among us, that political action along correct lines—to put it tersely, along the lines of warking class politics—has become essential; and

"Whereas, it has been evidenced on every hand that corporate and property class interests today dominate the political field to that extent that no legislation adverse to them, favorable to organized labor, and necessarily checking the encroachments of organized capital, even can be placed as laws upon our statute books without their decree; and

"Whereas, labor has the power, if it were to act as a unit, to enforce each and all of its demands were it to properly organize and exercise its mentality and its voting strength; and

"Whereas, it should and must be evident to the most skeptical among us that voting for candidates nominated by political parties which stand fundamentally for the recognition of the sacred right of private property as being more important than the fundamental right of labor to protect the working class in its efforts to maintain itself in the struggle for physical needs can result only in continued confusion and waste of energy;

"Be it therefore resolved, that we call upon organized labor everywhere, and the membership of the State Federation in particular, to publicly declare the necessity of the working class organizing to work as a unit on the political field along class lines, for the betterment and improvement of the living conditions of the wealth-producers of the nation. Be it further

"Resolved, that we call upon our State Federation political committee, and also the national legislative committee of the American Federation of Labor, to discuss and analyze the national platforms of all existing political parties, with a view of ascertaining which, if any, do stand pledged and committed as representative of the especial interests of the wage-working class of the land; with the further object in view that if there now be in existence any political organizations and parties committed to working class interests to issue a call for a national convention or conference to further, if possible, a complete unity of all forces who recognize the class character of our existing economic system, and who have, as a fundamental, the intent of emancipating labor from its present status, which is that of being the subservient class in society.

"Let our aim be, 'From each according to his ability, to each according to the deed.'

"Organized labor has it in its power to free mankind. Let us seek to be men and cease being economic slaves. Fraternally,

BODY OF IRON ORE FOUND WEST OF PORT ARTHUR.

Winnipeg, Man., April 27.—An extensive body of iron ore has been discovered in a district 100 miles west of Fort Arthur, along the Canadian Northern railway. Prospectors have been overrunning the country the past few months, and ninety-two claims were registered with the mining recorder in the past month. A bed of hematite ore has been discovered, ten miles in length and two miles wide. The depth of thirty feet failed to find bottom.

SAVES HIS MONEY.

Andrew Johnson Uses Fists and Escapes From Hold-up Men.

By keeping his wits about him and exerting a little scientific strength, Andrew Johnson, a woodsman, saved $40 and a watch, yesterday morning, when attacked by two holdup men on Michigan street, between Second and Third avenues west.

Two men sprang at him from a doorway, and one of them hit him on the side of the head with some sort of a club. Johnson was knocked down to the sidewalk, but was not unconscious, and when one of the assailants started to go through his pockets, Johnson dealt him a blow in the face, and, springing to his feet, ran off at a lively clip, crying for help. The would-be robbers pursued him for a block, but failed to catch him.

The matter was reported to Patrolmen Bradley tnd Smollett, but they were unable to locate the men in any of the places where they were likely to be found.

MUCH INTEREST TAKEN IN GOVERNOR JOHNSON ALL OVER THE COUNTRY

Johnson in his own party in his own state, and they want that explained.

Judging from the frequency and earnestness of this latter inquiry, the anti-Johnson movement in Minnesota has impressed people abroad more than it has those at home. They hear its clatter and its uproar, and they do not realize that it comes from so small a band of Indians. Indeed, they have yet to learn that it is, in all probability, another application of the old frog story, which concerns a man who made a contract to deliver several million pairs of frogs' legs to a dealer, basing his judgment of the number of frogs in his pond from the noise they made, and who found later that there were only three or four batrachian choristers, though they had been making noise enough for millions.

Do Not Understand It.

"But I don't understand," said a Georgia gentleman in a Chicago hotel lobby, the other day, when this had been carefully explained to him, "why there should be a single opposing voice in all of Minnesota's Democracy, so far as Johnson is concerned. He has brought more honorable fame to the state, and in making that statement I am not forgetting its Davis, its Windom, or any of its other solid citizens whose fame has overleaped its boundaries.

"So far as the Democratic party of the state is concerned, I do not understand that any other leader has ever begun to give the party so much encouragement of a tangible nature as it has had from Governor Johnson. While his victories have been largely of a personal nature, and are due more to his force of character and earnestness of purpose than to his being a Democrat, yet the fact remains that he has been governor for two terms; that no other Democrat has accomplished so much for his party, and that so long as Minnesota remains so strongly Republican as it is, it will be a long time before another Democratic leader will arise who will or can accomplish such a feat. Success, especially a success so honorable and creditable as that which Governor Johnson has won in Minnesota, ought to be the aim of the Democratic party, though in view of recent tendencies in the national Democratic party I have begun to doubt whether it is or not. Yet it is a mystery to me how there can be a single Democrat in Minnesota who refues to enlist under the banner of John A. Johnson in the campaign that is being made for him for national honors."

This, of course, necessitated further explanations. The Georgia gentleman admitted that it is not possible for a governor to serve two terms, and to make the appointments devolving upon him, in his official capacity, without displeasing some applicants for office. He admitted that there are men whose ambitions obscure everything else, and that Minnesota might have some Democrats whom a failure to receive a coveted appointment would embitter. He admitted that there might be Democrats in Minnesota so situated that in order to hold such political power as they had, they would deem it necessary to oppose even such a leader as Governor Johnson. "Though," said the Georgian, "I can't for the life of me see how any Minnesota Democrat could hope to hold or gain power by opposing what seems to be the almost unanimous sentiment of the rank and file of the party; though, of course, selfishness often blind men and makes them mad and short-sighted."

Johnson the Chief Topic.

This conversation is typical. The writer has lately taken a short trip to the watering places at West Baden and French Lick, Ind., where there are at this season in the neighborhood of 2,000 guests from all parts of the country. On the way a short stop was made in Chicago, with some passing attention to the hotel lobbies and other places where men of affairs and of politics gather for discussion and speculation. The trip was made purely for recreation, with no thought of either investigation or propagandism, and such light upon the situation as it afforded came of its own accord, pressing in from all sides at every foot of the way.

Governor Johnson was the chief topic of political discussion wherever and whenever discussion ran into politics. It is certain to do in any gathering of men at this formative period of the political season. Talk of him came from Republicans and Democrats alike. The statement that a man came from Minnesota was enough to make him the object of a rapid-fire of questions. It was a unique position, thus to bask in the reflected light of another's fame. While conferring no personal glory whatever upon the occupant of this position, it could not fail to make a Minnesotan proud of the well-merited and well-earned glory that has come to a native-born Minnesotan.

While the Illinois Democratic convention, under the skilled direction of Roger Sullivan, but lately a bitter enemy of the Nebraskan and the object of Bryan's righteous indignation, has declared for Bryan, the undercurrent of pro-Johnson sentiment was marvelous. Necessarily this involved a corresponding amount of anti-Bryan sentiment, but there, as elsewhere, this sentiment involved absolutely no personal hostility to Bryan, no lessening of the common belief in his honesty of purpose and the tability of his convictions, and no forgetfulness of the vast good he has done in awakening the American people to the need of doing something for themselves.

It is rather, in Illinois as elsewhere, a firm conviction that he cannot win.

"Bryan will never be president," was the honest statement of many an Illinois Democrat, including some of those who are going to Denver instructed to vote for his nomination. I do not believe that there are ten men in the Illinois delegation who are earnesly, hopefully and in good faith in favor of the nomination of Bryan as the Democratic candidate for president. It is a part of the game, the game whereby Roger Sullivan retains his grasp of political power.

In the resorts at West Baden and French Lick, where men of all classes, occupations and convictions are gathered purely for recreation and the pursuit of health, and where the absence of any daily duties except to consume inordinate quantities of ill-smelling and evil-tasting waters leaves ample time for talk, discussion tended along similar lines.

Confidence in Johnson.

At the time these observations were gathered, the Illinois convention was yet to come, and the undercurrent of Johnson sentiment was being reflected in the newspapers and in the talk of Illinois visitors at the resorts. Few believed, knowing the power of Sullivan, that Illinois would fail to instruct for Bryan. Yet among the Democratic patrons of the resort there was clearly evident a vast admiration for and confidence in Governor Johnson, a belief that he could come nearer winning than any other man that has been named, a hopeless conviction that Bryan cannot win, and a looming and growing doubt whether, after all, he will be nominated.

It must be admitted that the Illinois deal has not added to Mr. Bryan's strength among the people. On the contrary, it has inevitably tended to rob him of much of the confidence that has been felt in the spotlessness of his political purity. It has not been forgotten, and it cannot be forgotten, that on Sept. 4, 1906, discussing Mr. Sullivan in a Chicago speech, Mr. Bryan said:

"What is the object to Mr. Sullivan? He is a high official in a franchise-holding corporation which is constantly seeking favors at the hands of the government. He is familiar with all the methods employed by such corporations to gain from local and state governments special privileges. I am opposed to allowing a man situated as he is to use the public treasury to pay the debts he owes to those who help his corporation to take advantage of the public, and therefore I insist that the fight should be commenced today to prevent his election to the national committee."

Yet today Mr. Sullivan's re-election to the national committee is assured, and he has gained it by a compromise with Bryan's friends whereby the Illinois deleagtion is pledged to Bryan. Continuing, Mr. Bryan in the same speech said:

"I do not regard it as a compliment to be endorsed for the presidency by a convention which endorsed Sullivan. I told them in advance that I did not want an indorsement under such circumstances, and I repudiate it. If my nomination for any office depended upon that indorsement I would not accept it. My only political asset is the confidence which the people have in my integrity. I do not want that confidence shattered by intimacy with men of Mr. Sullivan's political methods."

That speech, in view of the fact that Mr. Bryan now owes to Mr. Sullivan the Illinois delegation, rankles deeply.

Believe Johnson Can Win.

But there is very little talk against Mr. Bryan personally, aside from that developing from the inconsistency of his relationship with Roger Sullivan. Democrats generally, even those who believe in him personally, and who are willing to accept all of his ideas, believe that he cannot win. They believe that Johnson can win, and they hold him in as high regard as they hold Bryan.

The mystification of those who do not understand the Minnesota opposition to Johnson is easily dispelled when it is stated, for their benefit, that the anti-Johnson Democrats of 1908 in Minnesota were the Hearst Democrats of Minnesota in 1904.

One thing more should be said. Some of Governor Johnson's enemies, who are most bitter and most heedless of the probabilities, have charged him with having the support of the "interests" in his candidacy for the presidential nomination.

You hear nothing of that abroad; absolutely nothing. That talk is confined to Minnesota. They respect Governor Johnson's conservativism as being of the kind that would take radical action in a conservative manner; that would bring about the reforms that we all agree should be brought about, but would accomplish the desired result without producing an operation of the sort that is sucessful, but that kills the patient.

On the contrary, the only criticisms heard of Governor Johnson, in the brief trip in which these observations were made, were to the effect that he is radical, not that he is conservative. The bitterest attacks that have been made upon Minnesota's governor have come from the Washington Herald—a strong Bryan newspaper, by the way—which has charged that he is too radical, and has supported its charges by garbled extracts from his message, wherein he declared for public ownership—not of railroads, except as a last resort, but of municipal public utilities—and for the initiative and the referendum—which is nothing but the logical evolution of the Democratic spirit, and which means real government by, for and of the people.

Reason for Being Proud.

In short, Minnesota people have been proud of Governor Johnson; proud of the career in which he has struggled up from a lowly origin, a the son of poor Swedish immigrants, to become a prominent possibility for the highest office in the land; proud of the sterling worth he has shown in every trust the people have conferred upon him; proud of the direct simplicity of his character, of the conviction he brings to those who come in contact with him, either personally or through the relationship of speaker and audience; proud of the fact that he is a man who is not only admired and respected, but loved; proud of the fact that he is so plainly of the people, and not over the people.

Minnesota people have been proud of these facts, but a trip outside the borders to the state, bringing a realization of how much these entiments are shared by the plain people of other commonwealths, will make them prouder still.

It is good to be a Minnesotan, but there is a new pleasure in it now that a son of Minnesota has been placed upon so high a pedestal of respect and love by the people of the adopted land of his parents.

It is good, too, to be an American, but there is a new pride in it when we look upon this living proof that this is still the land of opportunity, in which character and merit are stronger than lowly birth, and in which an earnest, honest and ambitious lad, even though his surroundings are mostly obstacles to be overcome—or perhaps because of that very fact—can climb so high.

THE BIGGEST POSTOFFICE

Washington, April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some of the architectural journals and the New York dailies, in commenting upon the great postoffice building just planned for that city, and awarded in competition to Architects McKim, Meade & White avert that it will be the biggest postoffice building in the world, as it will contain 114,375 square feet of floore area, and add that London comes next, with a postoffice having 101,000 square feet of floor area. These editors must either be misinformed as to the exact size of the proposed new building or they have forgotten Chicago's mammoth structure that has always been supposed to be the largest building of that character in the world, which belief is further strengthened if the figures given for the New York building are correct.

The following interesting data about that great monument has been given by its designer and deputy architect, F. W. Fitzpatrick, now of Washington. The Chicago postoffice proper contains 344,106 square feet of working space plus 25,000 feet of public corridors, but serving the postoffice divisions. The total floor area of that building, including all the courts and other offices of the government, as well as the postoffice, equals 660,000 square feet, of which 550,000 is working space. There are 11,908,000 cubic square feet, of space and the building cost 40 cents per cubic foot. The old building it replaced had cost nearly 60 cents per cubic foot. The library of congress cost 63 cents and most of the other great monumental buildings have cost over 50 cents, so that Chicago's is not only the biggest but the most economically built structure of its kind in the country, in spite of its having passed through many vicissitudes. Incendally there were 450,000 cubic feet of granite used in its construction and over 18,000,000 pounds of steel.

BACK FROM LONG JOURNEY.

Charles d'Autremont and Son Traveled From Mexico to Canada.

Charles d'Autremont and his son Maurice have just returned from a trip which included all the points of interest in the South, West and Northwest. They visited New Orleans, atending the Mardi Gras, and from there they took a steamer for the small ports on the Gulf of Mexico, where Mr. d'Autremont indulged in his favorite sport of tarpon fishing. Next they went to the City of Mexico, then to El Paso, which Mr. d'Autremont says is fast becoming the greatest metropolis of the extreme Southwest, and on to Bisbee, where they visited the copper mines.

Mr. d'Autremont says that things look very encouraging at Bisbee. The mines are carrying on extensive exploration work and machinery is being installed right along, though the situation is rather not as active as it was a year ago.

According to Mr. d'Autremont he found a large number of men unemployed in California, though the conditions are improving rapidly, and there seems to be general movement northward. In Los Angeles the real estate is still at very high point and the city is growing rapidly. From Los Angeles, they visited other California cities, and from Portland and Seattle, traveled to Vancouver and across Canada to Winnipeg.

Death Was On His Heels.

Jesse P. Morris of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

THE BROOKSTON TROUBLE.

E. C. Osborn Denies the Statements Made by James Scully.

To The Editor of The Herald:

I note in The Herald of April 23 an article headed "The Work of Enemies," which I ask you to kindly retract, as it is not true. I have James Scully and Rowe McCamus of Brookston under arrest for assaulting me in the postoffice at Brookston. James Scully lives on a fraction of forty acres near Brookston, and over a year ago sold all his saw timber, which didn't amount to more than two dozen trees, but afterwards some one told him he ought to have gotten more for the timber. He then became enraged at the man to whom he sold and has annoyed him in every mean, petty way he could ever since.

"Orsborn, the complaining witness," never did assault the postmaster at Floodwood, nor any other postmaster. He never "had the option of going to jail or paying a fine" and never had a fine paid for him by his father or any one else. Police records will show that we are right. I can prove any other assertion I have here made. As for Scully being interviewed and asked to relinquish his claim, etc., it is no doubt as untrue as the rest of his talk. If anybody wants his claim, I have never heard of it. Your truly, E. C. ORSBORN.

GOVERNOR HURT.

Madison, Wis., April 27.—After Governor Davidson had shaved Friday night and was turning away from the mirror, he slipped on the polished floor and fell on his left side. In trying to break his fall he threw out his left arm, which was caught beneath the body. When he arose his hip and shoulder were bruised. When he arose the next morning he found his left arm and hand greatly swollen and painful.

GOVERNOR IN DULUTH

Minnesota's Presidential Candidate Passes Through City.

In Good Health and Spirits, But Won't Talk Politics.

Looking as if he were in fighting trim, with buoyant spirits and full of energy and life, Governor John A. Johnson stepped off the Northern Pacific train yesterday afternoon.

The governor spent only a few hours in the city. He arrived at 2 o'clock, and left again at 5 o'clock for the Copper country, spending the short time he was in the city with friends.

He was on his way to Houghton, where he will speak tonight, under the auspices of the Slayton Lecture bureau. Tuesday night he will speak at Detroit, and Thursday he will address the students at Ann Arbor. Friday night he will lecture in Rock Island before the students of the Swedish college there. He was accompanied to Houghton by John Dwan of Two Harbors, a member of his staff.

Minnesota's governor doesn't have the appearance of the man who at the present time is occupying the center of public eye, and probably getting more publicity than any other one man in America. From Connecticut to California, he is being boomed as the one man who can lead Democracy to victory at the election next fall, but the governor takes all the praise that has been showered upon him, in a very philosophical manner, and is apparently not letting the political battle interfere with his sleep or his regular meals.

While in the city he refused absolutely to talk politics. He stood pat on the statements he has made public, and would not discuss them any further, saying that he did not come to Duluth on a political mission, and that he would prefer not to talk politics while here.

ROUGH BOX BOAT SINKS; ONE BOY IS DROWNED.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Allen Potter, the 12-year-old son of Former State Senator E. G. Potter, and living at 1769 Colfax avenue south, was drowned in the Lake of the Isles Saturday. His companion, Joe Moore, son of J. F. Moore, 1000 Mount Curve avenue, was rescued.

The boys were out in a boat improvised from a rough box. The high waves beat over the top of the boat and as it filled Potter jumped into the water to swim ashore. Moore struck out also after the boat sank.

Don't Give a Child Any Form of Harsh Physic

You know what castor oil, pills and harsh cathartics do by the griping pains that follow.

You can feel how the stomach and bowels are irritated.

That is how harsh physic gets its effect—by causing the bowel fluids to flow.

They act as pepper acts in the eyes or the nostrils. Pepper causes fluids to flow.

But do you think it right to treat membranes in that way—the tender membranes of children?

Cascarets are the only laxative that should ever be given to children.

They are vegetable—gentle and natural. They are as harmless as food.

Children like them because they are candy. And because they never cause pain.

Even grown people are injured by every dose of drastic cathartics. Children are doubly injured.

The use of harsh physic, if continued, is bound to end in chronic dyspepsia.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

Cascarets

The vest-pocket box is 10 cents. The month-treatment box 50 cents. 12,000,000 boxes sold annually. 829

CONCRETE BRIDGES IN DULUTH.

When Mayor Haven said last week that he should veto any measure providing for the construction or reconstruction of wooden bridges within the city limits, he spoke with good advice and placed himself upon a basis of true economy.

Though a wooden bridge may cost ever so much less than a concrete structure, it is a wasteful use of public public funds, for the wooden bridge would soon wear out, while there appears to be no limit to the endurance of bridges made wholly from concrete, or from a mixture of concrete and stone; preferably the former.

In a large measure, the same thing is true of steel construction. Indeed, since steel costs much more than wood, and lasts relatively only a little longer, it would not be difficult to figure that the waste of steel construction is even greater.

In its annual inspection of the 169 bridges in Duluth, the city engineering department has found that much needs to be done. Nearly all of the bridges are in need of repair, and some of them are so far gone that unless something is done with them soon they will shortly become menaces to the community.

As The Herald recently pointed out, one of the first pieces of bridge work that the city should do is along the road connecting West Duluth with the site of the coming steel plant. In this stretch there are five long bridges, with a total length of 2,340 feet, which must be entirely rebuilt, and there are three smaller bridges, with a total length of fifty-seven feet, which must be replaced with culverts. If this work is done in concrete, or in stone and concrete, the new bridges will last for ages. If they should be done in wood or steel, in a comparatively short time they would have to be done over again. Happily, the city administration has declared that there shall be, in its term of office, no more bridges except those of concrete, and beyond doubt succeeding administrations will follow the same plan.

Concrete bridges can be made more pleasing to the eye, more secure from the ravages of the elements, and far more lasting, than any other form of construction. Of course where bridges are so high as to make the use of concrete impracticable, it becomes necessary to use steel, but this is true in very few instances—in none at all in Duluth, so far as can be observed.

Therefore the announcement that the city administration is committed to the use of concrete will be pleasing to the people of the city, and the carrying out of the plan will beyond doubt prove so satisfactory that the city will be permanently committed to the practice, as many cities in this country and Europe already are.

The county, too, has many bridges to build from time to time, and some of the expensive steel structures built in former years will presently need reconstruction. The same reasons that make concrete bridges best for city purposes makes them best for county purposes also, and the example set by the city is commended to the county board for its consideration.

IS DYING EASY?

Normal human beings have a horror of death, which is entirely natural because a healthy, wholesome being loves life. Yet the weight of evidence seems to be that dying, when you come down to it, is not nearly so hard as many people imagine. There are numberless stories told by those who have gone up to the gates of death, looked within and have then come back to life for another season, and nearly all of these stories tend to relieve death of its sting.

Dr. Albert Helm, a noted German scientist, goes so far in his conclusions as to say that death is absolutely a delightful sensation, rather than a frightful one. Of course he didn't really die, or he wouldn't be telling about it, but he came close enough to death to be able to tell something of its sensations, which he does with the accuracy and interest of a true scientist.

Recently he fell from a great height in the Alps, and was only saved from death by lightning in a snowbank that softened his fall and preserved his life. Though only a few seconds elapsed between the time when the doctor lost his footing and the moment when he was saved by immersion in the snow, he took careful note of his thoughts and sensations, and describes them vividly.

"I was conscious," he says, "only so long as I was falling, of the perception of beautiful images. At the moment of contact with earth they disappeared. I recollected that in five days more I was to have delivered an inaugural address, and thought of the grief my death would cause to those near and dear to me. Anon, lying, as it were, in the limit of a far distant horizon, appeared distinct and divers images and episodes of my past life. The whole mental picture stood out clear-cut and illuminined by divine and mysterious light. All things seemed lovely and of good report. There were no misgivings, no anxieties, pain or terror.

"There were no sensations of contest or strife. All was merged in feelings of genial good will and kindliness. Such feelings predominated over all and formed what was truly a unique and lovely picture. Gradually a heaven of glorious blue, flecked with crimson clouds of gossamer lightness, surrounded me. In them I was wafted to and fro, borne up from below, but painlessly and pleasantly, while a vast and moving snowfield seemed to accompany me. Anon the perception of objects, subjective thoughts, a medley of various feelings, seemed to circle in concentric mazes around a common center. I clearly saw the possibility of my fate. I told to myself: 'The rocky wall from which I am now being hurled prevents my seeing what is at its base.'"

Similar experiences are related by those who have been close to death from drowning, and who have passed through these experiences into a state of insensibility, to be resuscitated only to find that it was more painful to be pulled back from death than it was to meet it.

No doubt kind Providence has mercifully softened the last payment to nature that all must finally make.

CONSUMPTION OF ALCOHOL.

Two Englishmen with a liking for statistics have taken the liquor consumption of all the principal countries and reduced it to an alcoholic basis, showing the annual per capita consumption of alcohol in the various nations. It makes an interesting exhibit.

The way they did it was to reckon that beer contains 3 to 5 per cent of alcohol, wines to to 25 per cent and other liquors a larger per cent. In this way the entire consumption of alcoholic liquors in each country was reduced to terms of alcohol.

In the table thus derived, beer-drinking countries would go well down in the list because beer contains comparatively little alcohol, while nations addicted to more fiery beverages would go to the top. France, which uses little beer and much wine, brandy, absinthe and other potent liquors, leads off with 3.56 gallons per capita each year. Norway, where considerable beer is used but where the sale and use of more ardent drinks is strictly regulated—perhaps better than in any other country in the world—is at the bottom of the list with only .52 per a gallon. The list follows:

France	3.56
Belgium	2.83
Switzerland	2.76
Denmark	2.43
Spain	2.33
Italy	2.30
Austria	2.08
Germany	2.08
United Kingdom	2.08
Portugal	2.07
Hungary	1.50
Sweden	1.16
Holland	1.00
United States	1.00
Russia	0.61
Norway	0.52

The United States, in this table, is third from the bottom, but it is placed there arbitrarily because Holland uses the same amount of alcohol per capita, and has equal claim to the place. However, both are so far down the list that there is no ground for quarrel over it. What has produced this position for the United States is not difficult to discover. First, a very large area—embracing fully half the population—has gone dry; second, the consumption of fiery liquors has relatively decreased, while the consumption of malt berevages with their small percentage of alcohol has largely increased, both actually and relatively; third, upon the whole the United States was never a very dissipated country anyway, for it has been too busy developing its resources and piling up wealth.

It is somewhat surprising to find Russia so far down in the list, since Russians have a reputation for large consumption of vodka and other particularly fierce spirits. However, the great average poverty is undoubtedly a large factor in this; its people are too poor to be able to buy liquor.

Germany, which consumes beer in prodigious quantities, is still relatively low in the list, being below Spain and Italy, two dstinctly wine-drinking nations.

SHORTSIGHTED VENOM.

The fact that President Roosevelt was recently asked by a Connecticut man to have Jefferson Davis' name replaced on Cabin John bridge, near Washington, brings up again one of the pettiest pieces of business that the country has witnessed in years.

Before the war this bridge, one of the largest single-arch stone bridges in the country, was built by the government as a part of an aqueduct which conveyed water to Washington. When it was completed the names of the members of the cabinet then in office were engraved upon a tablet which adorned the side of the structure.

Those who go out to see this bridge, one of the notable sights of Washington, now find, after the inscription "Secretary of War," a vacant space in the tablet. Jefferson Davis was secretary of war when the bridge was begun, and his name was placed upon the tablet as such. Then came the war, with Jefferson Davis as the president of the unhappy Confederacy, in rebellion against the government he had formerly served.

Stories differ as to how the name of Davis was chiseled off the tablet. One story is that it was taken off by order of a cabinet officer in Cleveland's first administration. Another is that it was removed by some irresponsible individual, who no doubt deemed it a piece of patriotic and therefore justifiable vandalism. However it happened, the name is gone.

If it was taken off to consign the rebel president's name to oblivion, it was a mistaken move, because its absence keeps his memory fresher than its presence possibly could. Everybody that sees the bridge looks at the place where the name used to be and marvels at the littleness of the man that removed it, whether he were a small minded public official or a harebrained private citizen. If the name were still there not 10 per cent of those that visit the bridge would even look at the tablet. Now they all do, and they all think of Jefferson Davis and his unhappy leadership of a lost cause.

The deed grew out of the bitterness that naturally followed the Civil war, bitterness which has, happily, long since disappeared. The man that did it could hardly have done the memory of Jefferson Davis a better service, for by his action thousands of people who did not know that Davis was once secretary of war are informed of it and reminded of him.

The incident merely shows how shortsighted venom usually is. As a matter of accurate history, the name of Jefferson Davis ought to be restored to the tablet, though to do so would deprive the bridge of one of its most amusing associations.

The New York society woman who killed herself by drinking a quart of varnish certainly had a fine finish.

The Hibbing Mesaba Ore says: "Duluth coppers are in a rut and can't get out of it." This means no reflection upon the police force, however.

Paris newspapers announce that Prince Helie de Sagan did not act like a married man. Nor any other kind, unless he has been grossly slandered.

The London Times says "America is facing a timber famine." But the political parties seem to have no trouble about finding planks to put in their platforms.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says that only three persons are actually interested in the Easter hat—the person who sells it, the person who wears it and the person who pays for it. There is a fourth—the person who has to sit behind it.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Proprietors Ribenack of the Lenox hotel, and Manager Michaud of the Hotel St. Louis, are planning a baseball tournament between teams composed of the star boarders of their respective hotels. No date has been set for the event as yet, but it will be pulled off when the weather man can furnish some assurance that Duluth has passed out of the snow and hail era, and can give some advance dope on sunshine and smiling blue heavens, with fleecy clouds that float gently.

Lajoies and Wagners will be in special demand for the teams. Any traveling man with a liquid ball delivery, and enough steam to make the ball look like the size of a shriveled spring pea, will be given special rates. Both of the hotel managers will be on the scan job looking for leather larrupers and run-getters, so that any traveling gentleman having a diamond specialty may save money on his room rent and cuisine check by writing a little advance literature on his prowess as an imitator of Tyrus Cobb.

No professionals that are not members of the U. C. T., will be allowed to chase leather, or whiff the atmosphere in an attempt to hit the pellet. Rules governing the conditions of entering the tournament will be drafted and placed in the surrounding railway stations. It is expected that many traveling men will be attracted to the Head of the Lakes, as the time for the game draws near.

Sliding into base with spikes hoisted at a belligerent attitude, thereby offering to render cuticeless the shins of the guardian of the cushion, will be strictly forbidden. In running for a fly, or attempting to get under a high one, the player who elects to chance a prescot mark in the error column, will please remember to say "I have it," not "I got it." The best abilities of the professionals will be imitated if possible, but all attempts to overstep the bounds of perfect English will be attended by banishment from the game.

Throwing sand and pebbles will be strictly tabooed. Gs will not be dropped, even in the excitement of umpire baiting, and the players will be warned before the game to sound out their Rs with a defining, clearly enunciated pronunciation. The committee on playing and language rules will confer with the committee on etiquette, and rules will be formulated covering the conduct of players. It is proposed, according to the present plans of the managers, to have some member of the school board act on the committee on language.

Employes of the two hotels will not be barred from the game. The record and state of previous servitude of every employe between now and the time set for the game will be investigated with lynx eyed inquiry. Any one whose antecedents have decorated diamond history will be barred from an honest means of livelihood at either of the hotels, if the rules governing the drafting of lodgers and employes are fully lived up to. It is proposed to make the struggle one of simon pure lucter, and those harboring professional pasts in the family baseball closet, need not apply for room or board, nor need they anticipate that their names will be inscribed on the list of house employes. The struggle will be one of honor; that tainted commercial attribute of success, money, will have no entering wedge, and either house caught attempting to lure educated genius to its nine will be punished by the payment of a fine. The struggle will be kept pure, sweet and free from professional expertness—if the rivals can keep close enough tab upon each other.

E. T. Smiley, at the St. Louis, states that the Democrats of New York believe that Johnson will show unexpected strength at the Denver convention. The sending of an uninstructed delegation from the Empire state means that Johnson will have the support of the delegates from New York. Then also, the action of the other states in refusing to send Bryan delegations, after earnest pleading on the part of the Bryan workers, shows that there is a deep and strong sentiment against the nomination of Mr. Bryan, says Mr. Smiley.

The Democrats of New York do not think that Mr. Bryan can be elected, according to the New York man. They think he has been defeated once too often as it is, and deny his right to dictate to the party or sacrifice its chances of victory.

In other sections of the country, Mr. Smiley says, this opinion is growing and gaining ground. The people see no clear reason why Bryan should secure the nomination, nor do they see why the chances of victory should be thrown away at a time when it looks as if the Democratic party had an excellent chance of winning. Bryanism is on the wane, says Mr. Smiley, the traveling politician is becoming wearisome.

THE WEATHER.

The Lake Superior climate produced a belated April fool joke yesterday in the form of a northeast rainstorm, which turned, as the shades of evening fell, into a northeast snowstorm, which was more pronounced this morning, but which moderated during the forenoon. A wet, clinging, quickly-melting snowfall made it look like January, though it was not cold, last night's lowest temperature being 31 degs. The weather man looks for more bad weather tonight and possibly tomorrow, including snow flurries and northwest winds.

A year ago today it was raw and chilly, with a sleet storm in the night.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "A storm of considerable intensity has been central over the western lake region since Saturday morning. In the meantime rain or snow fell quite generally throughout the northwest and over Lake Superior, and rain over the balance of the lake region, central valleys and southeastern states. Strong southerly to easterly winds prevail in the lake region and Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys. Freezing temperatures are the rule in the Northwest and southward to and including Iowa, Nebraska, New Mexico and Utah. The barometer is high over Saskatchewan and Oregon and pressures are falling again over the extreme Northwest. These conditions favor generally cloudy weather with snow flurries in this locality this afternoon, tonight and possibly Tuesday."

MERRY JINGLES.

Washington Star: "You will make some speeches on the tariff, I suppose."

"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "The tariff is one of those topics that people are more likely to give you credit for knowing all about if you don't try to explain."

Chicago Tribune: "It's a curious fact," observed the doctor, "that the Japanese are trying to increase their stature. They find that their bodies are long enough, and thew are making a systematic effort now to increase the length of their legs."

"Yes," said the professor; "I see that the mikado is pulling their legs for a bigger navy."

Baltimore American: "What I am after," declared the spoils party candidate, "is not so much causes as effects."

"Whose effects?" shouted a man in the crowd.

Baltimore American: "Did Golt ever develop the full possibilities of his machine in that trip?"

"No; he was unfortunately prevented."

"What was the matter?"

"A policeman ran him in for exceeding the speed limit."

"Ah, I see! A case of arrested development."

Philadelphia Press: "The last time I gave you money," said the kindly old lady, "you promised you wouldn't walk right into a saloon and spend it."

"Dat's right, lady," said the hobo.

"Yes, but as soon as you got the money you did."

"Say! lady, don't youse know de difference between a walk an' a sprint?"

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The only man who can keep a promise is the man who never has to make one.

A man thinks he's a good husband when he doesn't blame his wife because his shoes hurt him.

It takes an awful lot of brains to need to care whether people think you have them or not.

When a man likes to live on a farm, it's a sign he thinks he can get votes that way for some office.

You can generally tell how little coin there is in a man's pocket by how loud he tries to make it jingle.

Boyhood Town.

Kind God, look down on Boyhood Town
And keep it green forever,
The long main street, with shade trees sweet, the wharf and the dreaming river!
Oh, lead us there when bowed with care
To hear its childhood story,
Its song and speech of love that teach
The light of love and glory!
Ah, lead us down to Boyhood Town
When we are old and weary,
To taste and know the golden glow of spirits fresh and cheery!

Look down, we pray, on all that play in childhood's bloomy valley;
Keep sweet the street where little feet
Of youth and gladness rally;
Keep fair the place with pristine grace
That in our gray December
We may be led with blithesome tread
To love's undying ember!
Kind God, look down on Boyhood Town
And keep its soft lights gleaming
In gardens fair that blossom there along loved paths of dreaming!

Look down, look down on Boyhood Town—for we are fain to follow.
The homeward way some well-a-day when all the world grows hollow!
Guard, thou, and keep its yards that sleep along the old main highway,
Its lanes that wend where meadows end in Bloom-of-Childhood byway!
With all its gleams, its joyful dreams,
Keep it, dear God, forever,
Its shade trees sweet that line the street, the wharf and the dreaming river!

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Prof. A. H. Wigdahl of Duluth visited Superior yesterday, where he is organizing a class in French.

Andreas Riefer committed suicide at Tower a few days ago in a remarkable manner. He invited a number of guests at the Pioneer hotel to go to his room and see him kill himself. They thought it was some practical joke and accompanied him. He deliberately pulled a revolver and aimed it at his stomach. The ball struck a button and glanced off, but before the crowd could secure him he fired again. The bullet struck a vital point and he died three days later. Riefer was known by all old settlers here. He had lived in Duluth for many years and was an explorer.

Rev. E. M. Noyes has returned from a long trip to the South for the benefit of his health, which is fully recovered.

Mr. and Mrs. Simcoe Chapman, both of whom are well known and highly regarded here, returned to Duluth last night for a short visit.

T. B. Hizar & Son is the name of a new building and general contracting firm from Wilmington, Del., who will do work in Duluth.

C. S. De St. Croix, London representative of the syndicate of capitalists, who have joined with the Farmers' Alliance and the Scandinavian Elevator company, was in Duluth yesterday, to look over the scheme for a new elevator here. The company is organized with a capital stock of $2,000,000 and proposes to build terminal elevators at Duluth and Minneapolis. The intention is to ship the No. 1 hard wheat of the Northwest direct to the English consumers, guaranteeing them, by the passage of the grain through no hands but those of the company, the wheat unmixed with poorer varieties of the soft wheat sections.

The L. F. Soule Elevator company, capital $50,000, has just been incorporated. Among its incorporators and directors are Wheeler & Carter, grain men of Duluth.

C. J. O'Donnell, formerly of Duluth, and for years past agent of the Omaha at Haywood, Wis., will succeed A. C. Dunn as ticket agent at the Omaha depot in this city.

E. E. Corliss is now announced by Senator Compton as a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the Fifth district.

E. R. Jefferson is the owner of a lot opposite the Adams schoolhouse and he intends to erect a large store building on it.

F. H. White has returned from Tower, where he was selling cigars to the stores.

Thomas Russell of Minneapolis has secured the contract to erect the city hall at West Superior. His bid was $23,802.

1904--ECHOES OF HARMONY--1908

Buffalo Journal: E. T. Young made a gallery play just in time to have it discussed at the county conventions, but it did not appear to attract much attention except from papers which are assisting his cause.

Bemidji Sentinel: Attorney General Young is out in a letter that mixes up a lot of people as opposing him that would not mix in a dog fight, but like a lawyer he asks lots of questions that are slightly clouded, for effect.

Clay County Herald: Seeing that Heatwole has discovered so many things that need "reforming," in the few years he has been out of politics, wouldn't it be a good scheme to leave him on the outside till he discovers a few more and makes the thing complete?

Aitkin Age: A report from Duluth a few days ago said that Attorney General Young was out of the gubernatorial race. The report was promptly denied by the attorney. Fact is, Mr. Young is out of it all right, but he doesn't know it.

Royalton Banner: Mr. Heatwole, in his platform, which is large and embracing, fails to state whether or not he is still in co-hoots with Jim Hill.

Hastings Gazette: The indorsement of J. A. Heatwole as a candidate for governor at the Republican district convention in Shakopee suggests a feasible method of extricating the Republican party from the serious dilemma into which it is rapidly drifting. There is little doubt that J. F. Jacobson was brought out to defeat E. T. Young, the first in the field, and there is still less uncertainty, with the bitter warfare now being waged by their respective supporters, especially in the Seventh district, that if either of these gentlemen wins out at the state convention he will go down into history along with W. H. Eustice, R. C. Dunn and A. L. Cole, slaughtered at the polls. Mr. Heatwole made a good member of congress. He would make equally as good a governor and can be elected.

Minneota Mascot: The charges, statements and insinuations that have already been made are no doubt but a circumstance to what is to follow and the friends of Mr. Jacobson will have to be on their guard all the time if they are not to be taken out. The interests that oppose him are powerful, active and unscrupulous and they will leave nothing undone that can in any way lend assistance to their one aim—the defeat of Jacobson. But let them holler "interests" in connection with Mr. Jacobson's candidacy all they want. They cannot hurt him. He in truth represents certain interests in the state of Minnesota—the common interests of the common people.

Bird Island Union: With Jake Jacobson, E. T. Young and Joel Heatwole in the race for the Republican nomination for governor there will be some lively doings in this state prior to the convention. There is not much doubt but what Renville county will line up for Jacobson as his record as a fighter for the people is too well known here to give the other fellows much of a chance, although both Young and Heatwole have numerous friends in this county. Jacobson was turned down by the cities two years ago and his country friends will make an extra effort to secure his nomination this year.

Cass Lake Times: The fight for the gubernatorial toga between Jacobson and Young is getting somewhat interesting and if both keep up the fight there may be some secrets let out that even Bob Dunn would not want to see. Jacobson's boom is already launched and Young will have to hurry up or Jake will lead him so much that nothing but a cyclone will overtake plucky "hayseed."

Albert Lea Times-Enterprise: In his letter to the Duluth Herald Attorney General Young says:

"The Republican party is on the square. It stands for the regulation of the liquor traffic, the regulation of railroads and the preservation of the timber and other property of the state."

This is not news. There is no doubt as to the attitude of "the Republican party" towards these questions, but what the people of Minnesota want to know is—where do you stand, Ed? What do you mean by "the regulation of the liquor traffic? Do you mean county option? Do you mean to confine the brewers to brewing and prevent them from retailing or do you just use the word "regulation" in the sense in which the liquor traffic is supposed to be at present regulated? We believe with you that the "band wagon" in the Republican party is controlled by the people and not by the "interestss" and we feel that to a great extent your vigorous language is warranted by the present strenuous efforts which these interests are making to retain their control of Minnesota politics.

Bryan's Declining Chances.

Chicago Journal: Whether the Illinois delegation to the Democratic national convention is for or against Bryan, it is evident now that he will not have the requisite two-thirds of the delegates on the first ballot. This fact at least gives the candidacy of Governor Johnson some hope.

There will be 1,06€ delegates, of whom 0€8 are necessary to a choice. New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Michigan, New Jersey and Maryland together have 214 votes. Ohio's delegation will be instructed for Judson Harmon, and Rhode Island, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Massachusetts will send 128 either anti-Bryan or uninstructed delegates.

This makes 342 delegates opposed to Bryan, while only 234 standing against him will prevent his nomination. The Minnesota delegation will be added to these, making fourteen of the forty-six states, among them some that it is most important for Democrats to carry, which are not in favor of Bryan's nomination.

If these delegations are resolute, they can beat Bryan and name finally another man, who probably will be Governor Johnson.

MILLER AND BEDE.

Border Budget: Jay Adam has opened his campaign by playing the government building racket once more. If his antics in that line are as fruitful as his other promised legislation every hamlet and sidetrack in the district will be fortunate if they escape having an imposing structure saddled upon them.

Anoka County Union: Miller has got Bede on the run.

Brainerd Dispatch: Editor Holister objects to being taken for Editor Hamilton by his newspaper friends and admonishes the Walker Pilot to that effect. As both the Aitkin editors have in their turn been "turned" by Congressman Bede there is a fellow feeling between them, but not strong enough to allow of too much familiarity.

Anoka County Union: Our Congressman Bede has won first prize as a do-nothing in this do-nothing congress.

Pine County Courier: The delegates at the congressional convention had a fine opportunity to compare the two delegates who are out for congressional honors. Those who were there say that Mr. Miller made a very good showing.

Anoka Free Press: While Jadam Bede is about it he might as well include Anoka in the list of towns to which he is sending letters inquiring the price of suitable blocks of land for postoffice buildings. If the ruse does him any good in other towns, it might do the same here. And, on the other hand, if it were regarded as a clumsy vote-bribing scheme in Anoka, it would be no different from the way it is considered in the other towns.

Aitkin Republican: At the Pine City convention last week Congressman Bede eulogized the leaders in congress, paying a tribute to five of them, but it was noticeable he did not include himself. He was talking to a body of delegates, most of whom were against his renomination, and in such an embarassing situation he was quite likely to forget about himself. Mr. Bede promised in his last campaign that if the people would send him back to Washington he would become a leader, and as he says he never makes a promise unless he fulfills it, he must be a leader by this time, and his not telling us about it at Pine City must have been purely an oversight.

Tower News: Congressman Bede came all the way from Washington to make a speech before a convention held at Pine City, and also to fix up a few broken rails in his political fence, Clarence Miller, Mr. Bede's opponent, also had a few words to say at this convention.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Even a single taste of defeat is hard to swallow.

If a skeleton had three feet would it be a bone yard?

Even the spring chicken doesn't know the date of its fall.

It isn't easy to be happy; all you have to do is to be foolish.

Happiness and marriage, Cordelia, are not always synonymous.

A sensible man attracts less attention than one who hasn't any sense.

There is a lot of extravagant language in some brands of free speech.

Many an able seaman has found it rough sailing on the sea of matrimony.

If it wasn't for Sunday school picnics, ants and bugs wouldn't have much fun.

The World's Alibi.

New York World: From time to time one of Mr. Bryan's excited admirers writes to the World to express the opinion that "you are a Republican newspaper."

To a consistent Bryanite the circumstantial evidence against us may seem strong, inasmuch as the World sometimes differs with Mr. Roosevelt and is not an ardent supporter of his administration. According to Bryan standards, unswerving devotion to Roosevelt is now the test of Democracy. The first duty of a good Democrat is to absolve the president from all responsibility for the recent panic, to indorse his centralization policies, to subordinate tariff revision and to refrain from any effective criticism of Mr. Roosevelt's methods, manners and customs.

From this point of view it might seem as if the World possibly were a Republican newspaper, but we can provo an alibi. All the Republican newspapers are advocating Mr. Bryan's nomination for president. The World is opposed to Mr. Bryan's nomination. Therefore the World is not a Republican newspaper.

DEATH ENDS HER SUFFERING

Mrs. Peter Meyers Survived by Three Little Children.

Mrs. Peter Meyers of 218 West Fourth street, died yesterday at St. Luke's hospital, leaving a 5-day-old babe and two other children, the oldest of whom is 8 years. Her husband is crippled with rheumatism at Hancock, Mich., where he went in the hope of recovery. He is unable to support the children, and it not known just what disposition will be made of them.

Mrs. Meyers has been under the care of a nurse provided by Mrs. Forgy of the Humane society. After the birth of her child she became so ill that it was decided to remove her to the hospital. The woman did not learn of this intention until the ambulance had arrived, but when she did hear of it she became hysterical and refused to go, saying she would not be separated from her children She sprang from her sick bed and fought against being taken away.

So set was she in her opposition, that it was thought best to leave here where she was. Then she drove the nurse from the house and refused to be attended. She said she wanted nothing but the company of her children. Saturday afternoon she became unconscious and the children went to the neighbors for aid. Mrs. Forgy was again summoned, and this time Mrs. Meyers was removed to the hospital, but she was beyond hope of recovery, and nothing could be done to save her. She died yesterday morning.

The mother of the dead woman, Mrs. E. Briggs, lives at Hancock, Mich., and has been notified of her daughter's death. The husband also has been notified, but he is suffering so with rheumatism it is not expected he will be able to come to Duluth. The two sons, Elmer Bean and Winnifred Bean, are aged 6 and 8 years, respectively. They are now in the care of Miss Halbert at the Children's home. The two are Mrs. Meyers' children by a former marriage.

BURGLARS PLY THEIR TRADE

Burglars entered the second-hand store owned by Green & Elbert at 405½ West Michigan street during the night, and secured goods valued at about $12.

Entrance was gained through the front door, which was broken open. The cash drawer was emptied of small change to the amount of $1.25 and several second-hand watches and chains were taken.

ON THE IRON RANGES

REBUILD MILES BLOCK AT ONCE

Erect Theater and Cafe This Year—Other Additions Later.

Hibbing, Mich., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—George A. Markham has returned to the city and announces that he and C. H. Miles have decided to rebuild the Miles hotel and that the work will be commenced at once. The hotel building will not be completed this year, the present plan being to erect a one-story structure on the Miles lots at the corner of Third avenue and South street, the site of the burned block.

The new building will be constructed absolutely fire proof, will be 100 by 125 feet in dimensions, and will be built solidly to admit of the addition of two, three or four stories later on for hotel purposes. The building planned will be divided into five rooms—sample room, cafe, two store rooms and a theater with a capacity of 450. Mr. Markham, who will be manager of the new place, has arranged to commence construction work without loss of time, and expects to have the building completed not later than June 15 of this year.

FIREMAN LISHA'S LUCK.

Soft Earth Prevents His Being Badly Injured.

Coleraine, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Locomotive No. 149 of the Oliver Iron Mining company was derailed two night ago in the Canisteo pit. Engineer William Hathaway and the brakeman, who were riding on the tender, escaped injury by jumping.

Fireman Emil Lisha was pinned beneath the tender for an hour and a half. When rescued, it was thought that his back and both legs were broken. He was taken to the Coleraine hospital, where it was found his injuries were not so serious and it is believed that he will entirely recover. The accident was caused by the settling of the track, owing to the recent heavy rains. Doubtless, Lisha would have been killed had it not been for the softness of the earth where he fell.

PRESS MEN TOGETHER.

Range Editors Propose to Work for Mutual Interests.

Eveleth, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Iron Range Press association is the organization that was effected Saturday night at the banquet at the Grode hotel. The range editors, who were present as the guests of P. E. Dowling of the Eveleth Star and George A. Perkins of the Eveleth News, were A. E. Pfeemmer and R. W. Hitchcock of the Hibbing Tribune, Oscar LaFrance of the Chisholm Tribune, D. E. Cuppernull of the Virginia Virginian, W. E. Hannaford of the Virginia Enterprise, E. A. Koen, Biwabik Times; H. L. Nicholson, Aurora, and R. M. Sheets, Tower. Each spoke along the lines of organizing an association. P. E. Dowling was elected president; W. E. Hannaford, vice president, and W. R. Hitchcock, secretary-treasurer. For the present, the membership is limited to papers published in St. Louis county. The chief question discussed was that of the newspapers published in some parts of the range having private gain and not for distributing news. These papers, it is claimed, secured government advertising on a false circulation, as they are only circulated for this advertising. The papers that are giving out news and are trying to work up a circulation on this basis are dissatisfied with this. ODD FELLOWS' ANNIVERSARY

Is Observed by Members of the Order in Duluth.

Yesterday was the eighty-ninth anniversary of the founding of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and the Duluth members observed the day by attending a special service, dedicated to the organization, at the First Presbyterian church last evening.

T. W. Hugo, who is a prominent Odd Fellow, told of the work of the organization, its aims and ideals, at last night's service. He related how the order originated in England, when congenial spirits were wont to gather at the taverns and discuss men and events.

The order was founded in this country, he said, about 1819, by five Englishmen. It has grown in a healthy fashion during the intervening years, and now has a total enrollment of 2,500,000, with lodges in all parts of the world.

Rev. Campbell Coyle, pastor of the church, preached on "Man and the Times," and the choir sang a special musical program.

PHILOSOPHY OF THE BUSY LIFE

Do Not Rot in Watery Sentimentalism Says Pastor.

"A life to be good, must be good for something; it must serve some purpose; it must do something," said Rev. George R. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church yesterday. "This simple philosophy of life was not always recognized in our Christian civilization. In what we call the dark ages there prevailed a philosophy of life not unlike that held even today by masses of Hindoo worshippers, who think that true life consists in contemplation and who look with disdain upon the ever active Anglo Saxon.

"We of today see the proper consummation of life in good true action. We rate manhood not by feelings, but by doing; not by its visions but by its actions. The poet, the thinker, the scholar and the prophet, as well as the man on the street, stands or falls by the question: What have you done? Have you merely dreamed dreams, indulged in lofty thoughts, or have you done something yourself or at least given to others the divine impulse to do? Yes, even a poem, at least every great one, points directly or indirectly to the active life. Tennyson's 'Palace of Art' may seem but a sweet dream, but at its heart there is the great truth, that life away from the activities, the drudgeries, the humdrum duties, is no life at all; it tells that 'the golden palace of art' in which we live may be but a prison with golden bars.

"And so the orator is in the end not rated by his fine words and beautiful diction; the preacher not by the poetry and philosophy or by the religious phrases which he uses, but by the attitude of life he gives to others, the zeal to live nobly, which he kindles by his words. A Demosthenes was great not because he used fine words, but because the people, after they heard one of his Phillipics were ready to fight King Philip.

"The same is true today of philosophy. We ask today more from a thinker than the art of spinning fine theories and juggling with words. Philosophy today is largely social philosophy; it is in touch with the problems of the world. Herbert Spencer's 'Theory of Ethics' has translated itself in human endeavor, and Friedrich Nietsche's thought pulsates with science. It, too, today stands close to human endeavor. The great question of the world is 'To do or not to do,' and not any longer 'to be or not to be.' The world has no room for Hamlets, who pine away in inactivity for cowardly fear of doing the wrong thing. But while the world has today the true philosophy of life and displays it in many fields of life, yet the moral and spiritual life of mankind is often rather dormant in this strenuous age. There is much of mere emotionalism and sentimentalism in our makeup today. We let feelings affect us, put us in a state of temporary inward excitement, and there matters end. That is why novelistic literature has such a hold of us as a people. We like to revel in our feelings; we enjoy being stirred by what is sad and bad and mad, and while we condemn the sensationalism of the yellow press, we are careful not to miss a word of the horrible things sprawling in its columns. We love to play with high and lofty sentiments and believe ourselves near heaven, while in fact we are far away from the portals of eternal goodness. Ah, too many are the hearers of the word, too few the doers; too many are the poor self deceived souls who deem themselves something when they are nothing. Do, do, if you would live. Do the noble act, the charitable deed, not merely waiting for the charitable impulse, but because it is your duty, and your soul will be ablaze with the spirit. But if you fail to act as conscience bids you your soul will rot in the watery sentimentalism, which surrounds and fills it. Be ever ready to show your faith; your creed by your work."

TEARING DOWN RELIC.

Old Parlor Theater, Declared Unsafe, is Being Dismantled.

The old Parlor theater, on Second avenue west, recently the home of the Salvation Army but in the past the scene of wild revelry, is being torn down because it has been declared unsafe by the building inspector. A week or more ago the Salvationists were evicted on the order of the building inspector, and since that time even the sidewalk in front of the structure has been blockaded, lest part of the wood and brick hulk fall over and injure someone.

The dismantling of the old theater marks the passing of Duluth's original "variety" theater. Vaudeville is a successor to "variety," and its morals are unsullied as compared to those of the old variety stage.

In the old days the Parlor theater was the "hurdy-gurdy hall" which every new community has. Painted beauties sang there and then dropped in on the gentlemen in the box seats, to induce them to buy drinks, on a commission. Also, some of the now famous vaudeville stars appeared at the theater in days gone by, and it was the scene of some bloody prize fights, in which the world's most famous pugilists figured.

hands of Patrolman Raverty. In the meantime, the deputy sheriff had missed his charge. He leaped from the moving train and started in pursuit.

Miss Farnham wore an automobile coat and cap. Her bangs protruded under the cap in a suspicious manner, showing that her hair had been cut. As she approached the big policeman, a gust of wind separated the folds of the automobile coat and a short pettloat that partly covered the trousers, caught the eye of the policeman. Then the bluecoat espied her dainty feet and newly cropped hair. He accosted her and was interrogating her when the deputy sheriff came up and took charge of her. She told the sheriff that she would have made good her escape is it had not been for the policeman.

"You would never have got me if I had not been hungry when I reached Wyoming," she informed the deputy.

Miss Farnham said that she left home because her parents would not allow her to go out to work. She said that she intended to resume her own garb and to get work in Wyoming.

MRS. HAZELTON STILL HOPES THE PROFESSOR WILL BE RECONCILED

may not be ready to fulfill your duty otherwise.

"I Await Your Decision."

"As for our future relations in other respects, the whole matter rests with you and I await your decision. You must know, too, that I have no ill will toward you whatever. If I had, I should not have sent you the picture of the baby and protected you from exposure. I do not even allow anyone else to condemn you. I entertain toward you none but the kindest and holiest feelings, and encourage the same attitude in my family.

"From the first of this terrible ordeal I put myself into the hands of our Heavenly Father, to be guided entirely by His spirit, even to my inmost thoughts. Long ago I was able, through His strength, to rise above the sorrow that otherwise would have shattered my life, and devote myself before all else to the attainment of a life and character more pleasing in his sight and worthy of the sacred motherhood with which he has crowned me.

"It is wonderful what a clear revelation comes to us of our faults, mistakes and weaknesses when we stop wasting time grieving over those of others and bend all our energies to finding out our own. I have set myself a stern judge over my own life and character, and with heart open to God's teachings have learned to know myself as never before. The wisdom I have gained in these last months through this earnest heart searching, through the ministry of sorrow, and the sweet influence of motherhood, is of priceless value to me and to those whom my life shall not touch hereafter. The whole spirit of my life is changed. I can never be the same again. Even if I were to stop now, I am already a gentler, nobler, more loving, more unselfish and more patient woman through God's help. But I am not going to stop. Nothing can stop the onward progress of a soul that sets itself to reflect the beauty of Christ. Already my life is radiant with love, peace, faith and inward happiness.

"I Have Prayed for You."

"I long to share with you the joy and peace that is mine. But it is impossible for me to do any more toward this than I have done till you are ready to let me. I have withheld from you condemnation even in my thoughts, have let nothing but love emanate from me to you, and have prayed for you almost hourly. This much I can do till you are ready to accept it. Nothing in this world is really ours till we accept it. A faithful wife is still yours, a beautiful child—the gift of God's merciful care—a happy home, health, strength, peace of mind, usefulness in the world and favor in the eyes of God and man—all these are yours—potentially. But they can never be really yours till you recognize them as such and claim them. All that is necessary on your part is an attitude of mind. That much, though simple, is absolutely essential. Until you have arrived at the right attitude of mind, these things are for you non-existent as undiscovered gold in a mine to the owner of it.

"It may surprise you, Will, that in spite of everything, I still believe in you. And in some respects far more than I used to. This is because of a wiser womanhood on my part that understands both you and myself better than I did in the past. It may surprise you also which an important factor in my change of heart in this respect was a chance reading of some of the letters you wrote me summer before last. Parts of them hurt me terribly then, but I can read your nobler manhood in them as I was unable to do then. But I shall not say more on this subject, as you are probably not prepared to receive it and might even not believe me.

"All that I have said, do not misunderstand me. I have tried to set before you my attitude, but not on grounds of expediency for myself. I am not tired of being at home, my welcome here is as warm as ever, and our baby is dearly beloved by everyone in the family. While I am as ready as I ever was to return to you when you are ready to receive me as a kind husband, believe as firmly as ever that there is no use of my returning so long as you are in the attitude in which you were last year. No matter to what beauty of character I shall attain, I cannot make a happy home without your co-operation. I can be happy in my personal life in the new strength that I have gained, but I cannot make you happy till you understand me well enough to trust me and take me at my best.

"But the time will come. Will, sooner or later, when you will come to your nobler manhood; you will understand yourself better and see all things in a different light, and you will honor and love me as you have never done before. It will be joy to live with you then and you can summon me whenever that time comes. Perhaps the light has already dawned in your life. If so, and you wish me to return now, I am ready to do so. Or if you want me a year from now, or five years—whenever you are ready, you know you can always count on me to be true to you and to your highest welfare.

Baby Couldn't Be Resisted.

"If you do not wish me to return now and yet would like to see the baby, as any natural father must, you are welcome to come at any time. One moment of holding in your arms our blessed baby, whom everybody loves for her sweetness and brightness, one moment of looking into the dear little face that is the blended image of your own and your father's, of listening to her sweet baby prattle and feeling her strong chubby hands tug at your curls, would do you more good than anything else in the world. Your spring vacation cannot be far away. You could come then, or you could come this summer and rest a while. We are on the farm now in a new home with cozy comfort throughout, but, best of all, with the peace and love of God filling it and the angel presence of the child in the midst, whom God has sent to gladden and bless. Free from reproach and surrounded by love and kindness, you would find rest for mind and body.

"I have tried, dear Will, to make my attitude clear to you as far as a letter can make it so; the rest lies with you. You must decide for yourself what you have to do. Trusting that you can let me know your decision soon, I am as ever, your loving and faithful wife,

"JULIA."

"On June 4 left for Ann Arbor," continued the witness. "My position was really intolerable. I had no money, and the care of my baby left me no opportunity to secure employment at any pursuit for which I was qualified. I had borrowed more than $100 of my people, and there was nothing to do but look to my husband. Besides, I was positive that if he saw the baby and took her in his arms, his father-love and pride in her would prove the strongest factor in bringing us happily together again.

"Bitterest Blow of All."

"I came to Ann Arbor and went to the home of friends. There I wrote him a note, asking him to come and see baby and I. It was not answered, and I wrote another card later, saying that I knew he was busy, and that I was willing to wait any time when it would be convenient for him to come. That was also unanswered. One letter to him was placed in another envelope and remailed to me by his sister, Mrs. Groff, and that was quite the bitterest blow of all."

"I realize my situation perfectly—I am not simple minded. I know what I have gone through and in spite of everything I have a God-given assurance that my husband will eventually see things in a different light; that he will some day be thankful that God has kept me for him. I rest assured in the knowledge that I have done what was right. I know what the ultimate result will be, my perfect faith cannot be otherwise rewarded. I am willing at any time to ask forgiveness from him for anything I have done. Never at any time through our married life or at the present time have I had anything but confidence and faith in my husband. I know that he, the baby and I could still live in great happiness. We could be happy any place together. That is my firm conviction and towards that solution of this awful affair I am praying."

With this statement, Mrs. Hazelton wound up her direct testimony. She made the statement in response to a question from her lawyer as to whether she could live happily with Prof. Hazelton if a divorce was denied or a reconciliation affected. She spoke slowly, with great deliberation and with much feeling, but as usual Hazelton did not appear to be in the least affected.

Mrs. Hazelton's protestations of love for her husband from the stand have been admirably backed up by her well written letters, letters breathing the deepest love in every line and covering a period from their early days of wedded life up to long after he cast her off.

The little daughter of the Hazeltons was in court. Unabashed by the strange scenes about her, she toddled around the court room, clutching her Teddy bear lovingly by one hind leg and chattering confidently to spectators or court attaches when the spirit moved her. The father kept up his air of indifference towards his baby and even when the little one walked right up to his chair and looked at him he paid no attention to her, but the mother sat where she could look frequently toward the little prowler, and the only smiles that came to her lips during the session were when at times the yellow-haired little tyke would make overread your nobler manhood in them as I was unable to do then. But I shall not say more on this subject, as you are probably not prepared to receive it and might even not believe me.

Hurricane at Marinette.

Milwaukee, April 27.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Marinette, Wis., says: Early today a storm of almost hurricane velocity from the northeast swept over this part of the country, doing considerable damage to shipping and other property. In Squatterstown, the home of the local fishermen, the water is four or five feet high. Fish boats and row boats, fish shanties, gasoline boats and row boats were wrecked, and the people were driven further up town by the water, which flooded their homes. Cows, pigs and chickens perished in the unexpected flood, which came like a tidal wave.

Considerable cedar in the C. J. Hugel yards was swept into the river, and the boat Sylvia, at anchor in the river, was driven high and dry on the beach. It is reported that the schooner Rob Roy is ashore near Cedar River. Wires are down and the telephone and telegraph service is impaired. It is believed that later reports will show considerable damage north of Menominee. The water in the river rose about six inches, the highest ever before, and it was driven up the channel by the wind into the trritory known as the Big Slough.

Big Slough is now a perfect lake. The wind veered about 5 o'clock to the south, and the water is now receding.

cured first claim on Lucien Lyne for the racing season.

Asked about a story that there had been an encounter between himself and Jem Roche, the prize fighter, after the encounter on St. Patrick's night when Tommy Burns so easily whipped the Irishman, Mr. Croker said nothing of the kind had occurred.

Mr. Croker declined to discuss presidential possibilities in the United States except in the case of Mr. Hughes, whose indorsement by the New York convention he said he considered only a compliment from his own state.

"Mr. Hughes' action in reference to the gambling bill should injure his prospects as a politician," said he. "Why cannot such men keep out of that rut? Is not all life a gamble? Are not Mr. Hughes' politics a gamble? But they select the part of the gamble that 'pleasant and gives pleasure and propose to penalize it.'

"What America needs," Mr. Croker said, "is a quiet president. The country wants a rest for a long time under some statesman like William McKinley."

Former Deputy Sheriff of Polk County Found to be Insane.

Bemidjji, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Halvor Tweeton, a homesteader living near Shotley, has been brought to Bemidji for examination as to his sanity.

Tweeton has for some time past been acting queerly, but has never been violent and no fear was entertained that he would do anything of a desperate character. He has been haunted by the hallucination that someone is after his scalp, and has at times confided this fear to his neighbors.

Thursday night he was again possessed of the scalp-hunting idea, and being thoroughly convinced that self-inflicted wounds would stop the hunt, he got up out of bed and getting an ax chopped off one of his fingers.

Several members of Tweetor's family were still about the house, and they notified the authorities, with the result that Tweeton was brought to Bemidji.

The sanity board examined Tweeton, considering him insane, and Judge of Probate Clark committed him to the asylum at Gergue Falls.

Tweeton was for many years a resident of Crookston, serving several terms as deputy sheriff of Polk county. He was afterwards a member of the Crookston police force, quitting the force to go on a homestead near Shotley.

Why Not Mix Brains With Your Eating?

If you mix brains with your eating you will be interested in the cost and nutritive value of your food.

Shredded Wheat

contains the greatest amount of muscle-building, brain-making material in the most digestible form and at the least cost. A food for the outdoor man and the indoor man—for the invalid and the athlete.

For breakfast heat the Biscuit in oven, pour milk over it (hot milk in winter) and a little cream. If you like the Biscuit for breakfast you will like toasted TRISCUIT (the Shredded Wheat wafer) for luncheon or any meal with butter, cheese or marmalade. At your grocers.

Can you digest starch? Starch that is half-digested ferments and breeds germs —and these cause appendicitis, and other bowel disorders. In the making of "FORCE" the starch in the wheat is converted into dextrine by our scientific malting process thereby partially digesting the food before it enters the stomach. The "sunny" food—the sustaining food.

"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam-cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "crisp" it before serving it by pouring into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.

Your Grocer sells it. No other Flaked Food is "Just as Good."

Open Publicity

Insures a fair, square and honest deal. It characterises the policy of Dr. Pierce as relates to the composition of his time-proven and most popular medicines. Their ingredients are on each bottle-wrapper, attested under oath and printed in plain English. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only medicine designed for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments and sold by druggists, the makers of which publish on each bottle-wrapper what the medicine contains.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol, and no narcotics or other harmful or habit-forming drugs, as will be seen from its published ingredients. It contains only such native, medicinal roots as are most highly recommended by leading medical writers and practitioners of all the several schools of practice, for the cure of woman's delicate and peculiar ailments. It is safe for women to take in any condition of the system, as it assists Nature in restoring the healthful action of all the organs distinctly feminine.

Nature's own cure. In fact, "Favorite Prescription" is Nature's own cure for the many derangements and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is advised for no other diseases.

If you are a weak, tired, nervous, over-worked, broken-down, pain-racked woman, either young, old or middle-aged, suffering from frequent headaches, backaches, dizziness or fainting spells, gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps see imaginary specks, or dark spots floating before the eyes, have dragging-down or heavy feeling in lower abdomen, or pelvic region, with, perhaps, pelvic catarrh, or other symptoms of functional or organic affections of the distinctly feminine organs, then you will make no mistake if you resort to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The most advanced medical science knows no better agents for the cure of all such diseases than are happily and harmoniously combined in this widely-famed "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce.

You can't afford to accept any secret nostrum of unknown composition and of questionable merit as a substitute for this professionally endorsed and time-tested remedy OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, simply that some unprincipled dealer may make a little larger profit. Don't expect it to perform miracles but give it a fair, persevering trial and it is not likely to disappoint you. It won't "dissolve tumors"—no medicine will. It will cure a larger percentage of all curable ailments which especially afflict womankind than any other medicine sold by druggists for that purpose.

As to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery it has a very large range of application, yet it is by no means recommended as a "Cure-All." It possesses marvelous alterative, or blood cleansing, properties and is at the same time a most invigorating tonic, or strength giver. It exerts a specific, cleansing, soothing and healing effect upon all the lining mucous membranes of the system; hence, its great curative value in all catarrhal affections, no matter where located.

In Chronic Nasal Catarrh, it is well to cleanse the passages two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid, while persisting in the use of the "Golden Medical Discovery" for its blood cleansing and specific curative effects upon the diseased mucous membranes. It will cure a very large per cent. of all cases, even after they have reached the ulcerative, or chronic stage, and no matter of how many years' standing they may be. It is equally efficacious in affections of the mucous lining of the larynx, bronchia and respiratory organs in general, thus curing bronchitis, laryngitis and other affections giving rise to obstinate, hang-on-coughs. It is not so good in acute coughs following sudden colds, as in the lingering, chronic coughs. Nor must the "Golden Medical Discovery" be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that, but for all obstinate hang-on-coughs due to laryngial or bronchial irritation and kindred affections, of the throat which, if neglected or badly treated, are likely to lead up to consumption, the "Discovery" can be relied upon to produce the best curative results.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is, from its tonic and specific curative control over mucous surfaces, especially efficacious in curing indigestion, dyspepsia, weak stomach and "Liver Complaint," or biliousness. Even ulceration of the stomach and bowels has in thousands of cases been cured by it; also obstinate chronic diarrhea.

In addition to all the foregoing, not the least valuable of the marvelously efficacious properties possessed by the "Discovery" is the unequaled regulating and strengthening effect exerted by it over the heart's action. It has made some wonderful cures of very pronounced valvular and other affections of that organ.

The reason why "Golden Medical Discovery" cures so wide a range of diseases is made plain in a booklet sent free on request mailed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. If interested, send for it.

The powerful alterative or blood purifying properties possessed by the "Discovery" will naturally suggest its use for the cure of blotches, pimples, eruptions; as eczema, salt-rheum, and other skin affections in all of which it has made remarkable cures; also in scrofulous sores and old, open ulcers, or eating sores. To heal the latter, use Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve as a local application, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" to correct the blood and cleanse the system. A box will be mailed to any address on receipt of fifty-four cents in stamps. If your druggist don't have it in stock, address Dr. Pierce, as above.

WINTER BAD FOR WALKS

Freezing Weather Damages Those Constructed From Cement.

Cost of Building is Heavy, But Results Are Worth it.

Duluth winters are hard on cement sidewalks. This, combined with the fact that the city is built on a hillside, makes walks of this description cost just about twice as much here as in the ordinary city, and results in a lot more repair work than is required elsewhere.

Last year thirty miles of cement was laid in Duluth, and this year probably just about half that amount of walks will be constructed from this material, according to the estimate of City Engineer McGilvray. The contractor did excellent work last season, but despite this fact numerous repairs are necessary this spring. Complaints are coming in every day. As the contractor guarantees his work for a period of years, he stands all cost of repair, and the city is put to no expense in seeing that the walks are repaired properly.

Water plays havoc with the cement in Duluth. Especially is this true of walks located on the north side of streets, next the hill. No matter how carefully constructed the walk may be, some water is sure to seep under the cement in spots, and the wet clay will hold a certain portion of it, while the rest escapes on the opposite side, or through drains provided for the purpose. What little remains, however, is frozen during the winter, and the result is an upheaval which cracks the cement, and makes the laying of new walks the following spring necessary.

In St. Paul and Minneapolis no such difficulties have to be contended with. The cement may be laid directly on the ground in most cases, without any artificial foundation, or without any special drains being provided under the walks. In Duluth it is different. The character of the soil makes it necessary to prepare a foundation and, in addition to this, certain drains have to be provided to care for the water that creeps in from the hillside. Without some such protection as this, the cement would be of little value, for the walks would be destroyed too quickly. All this means extra expense in the building, and explains why it costs more to construct cement walks properly in Duluth than in almost any other city of the country.

Despite this expense, the city engineer believes that cement is the proper material for building walks here. Under city inspection the walks are carefully built, and as the contractor guarantees his work for a period of years, the city is safe. People having their walks built by private contract may also have city inspection, guaranteeing proper construction, if they will notify the city engineering department.

OUSTER SUIT SUCCESSFUL

Charles Nelson Declared Treasurer of School District No. 13.

Judge Ensign settled the quo warranto proceedings in school district No. 13 at Aurora Saturday by deciding that Charles W. Olson, who has been acting as treasurer of the district, is not entitled to his seat and that Charles F. Nelson is the legally qualified treasurer. The action was brought by Nelson to oust from the office Olson, who had retained charge of the district funds.

The court holds that Olson is not legally qualified to hold the office, as he failed to furnish the necessary bonds required by law. When the time for filing the bonds had expired the directors elected Nelson as treasurer, but Olson, who had the district funds refused to turn them over or to give up his office.

S.S.S. KILLS THE GERMS OF SCROFULA

One of the unchangeable laws of nature is that "like shall beget like." Parents who are related by the ties of blood, or who have a consumptive tendency, or other family blood taint are sure to transmit it to their children in the form of Scrofula. Swollen glands, brittle bones, weak eyes, hip disease, pale, waxy complexions, sickly bodies, running sores and ulcers, etc., are the usual manifestations of the disease. Those who have inherited a scrofulous tendency may succeed in holding it in check during young, vigorous life, but after a spell of sickness, or when the system begins to weaken and lose its vitality from other causes the ravages of the trouble will become manifest and sometimes run into Consumption. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and forces out the scrofulous deposits, kills the germs and completely cures the disease. It changes the quality of the blood by removing all impurities and poisons, and supplying this vital fluid with rich, health-sustaining qualities. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable medicine, and is especially adapted to systems which have been weakened and poorly nourished by scrofulous blood. Literature on Scrofula and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

BALL TEAM IN WOLVIN

Office Employes Will Organize for the Summer Season.

Commercial League of Four or Six Clubs is Planned.

There is baseball activity in the Wolvin building and it promises to develop into a team which will compete successfully with different commercial organizations in the city, and those representing different offices on the range. Notices will be sent out through the building today, and all interested in baseball will be called together to discuss the matter and organize.

There is a wealth of good material. Among the employes of the different offices are men who have played baseball in all branches, amateur, semi-pro, professional and college, and from the crowd it is believed a team can be picked which will hold its own with any of them. Those who are behind the plan have compiled a list of names of the ball players, with reputations, who work in the building, and everyone will be interviewed personally and urged to get out and try for the team.

Commercial teams will be numerous in Duluth this season, and it is possible that a league will be formed to comprise the American Exchange bank, the First National bank, Board of Trade and Wolvin buildings. The Board of Trade and First National bank employes have already organized, and there is sufficient material in the American Exchange bank for a nine. It is possible that two other teams might be worked in for a six-club league, to play Saturday ball all during the season.

If the league scheme doesn't go through, the Wolvin building nine will play all of the commercial teams in Duluth, and will then go after the scalps of Steel company employes on the range. The office forces at different mines will be in the field and it will be a joy to the employes of the main offices to take them into camp and trim them in fine shape.

Patient is the gentle fisherman, for the weather man is indeed cruel to him. Buoyed up by hopes held out by the government forecast, he arose yesterday morning before the time the sun should have peeped over the hills, donned his rubber boots and waterproof clothing, hied himself far out into the woods, dodging between the drops to escape the wetting, waded around in the stream for a time without so much as a gentle tug at his line, and returned home again empty handed and ready to stick by his own fireside until the dead-line between winter and spring has certainly been passed.

The early date set by law for the opening of the trout fishing season holds out false hopes to the man, who chases around to auction sales looking for bargains in fishing roads and carries his bait in a bottle. He thinks that because the season opens April 15 it is his bounden duty as a lover of the sport to go out into the woods just as soon after the opening of the season as he can break away from his office, his wife and family. It's a duty that isn't at all unpleasant in anticipation, but fierce in realization, when he breaks into a lot of weather like that of yesterday, today and a good many other days since the middle of the month.

There's no particular reason why the date should be set so early. There are no fish caught amounting to anything before the first of May and usually not until some time after that date. Many a good fishing trip, that might have been successful with postponement, is spoiled by a start too early and discouraging lack of success.

Walter Griffith, the colored lightweight, is the wise boy. He doesn't intend to jump right in, take on Joe Clements, and get a clout on the jaw that will lay him away, without first having let the fight fans know that he has something in his two black mits. Clements may not be able to whip in the blow that would make Walter take the count, but there's more of a possibility of him doing it than some of the men Griffin has picked out for his tryout.

Griffin always was a pretty fair fighter, but he lacked experience and ring generalship. It is said he has acquired those two very necessary accomplishments. A lot of hard luck put him in bad with Head of the Lakes fight followers when he was in Duluth last and, after several months in the East, he is here to redeem himself.

Kid Martin and Mike O'Keefe, he has picked as his first victims, with Clements always in the background as the great coup. Griffin figures that, if he can dispose of Martin and O'Keefe, he will show that he has something and will gain some popularity for a later meeting with Clements. It's a good plan, and those who have seen Griffin work since he returned to Duluth are wishing him success in carrying out his program. Clements is a big favorite in Superior, and if Griffin can show the class, he will have plenty of backing from the Duluth side of the bay.

St. Paul has won a game. Fandom of the capital city must indeed be proud. After nine straight downfalls before hard luck—nothing else was ever responsible for the loss of a baseball game—the peerless players under the leadership of Tim Flood have broken loose and now they're off for the American association pennant. Surely nothing will stop them, after they have ejected a bunch of errors, dumb plays and wildness out of their system like they have been throwing about the diamonds since the season opened. They can't have much more and they're due to spring something else and chalk up the victories now.

RAIN PREVENTS GAME.

Kelleys and Fitwells Postpone Meeting for Some Weeks.

The rain yesterday prevented the Kelleys and Fitwells playing the first game of the local baseball season, and it will probably be late in the year before they will be able to meet, as they have games scheduled far ahead.

Next Saturday and Sunday, Tom Brady's Hibbing Colts will be seen in Duluth in action against the Kelleys. The games will be played at Athletic park and will give the fans their first view of real baseball this year. Both teams are among the strongest in the semi-professional ranks in Northern Minnesota and should give good exhibitions.

On the range, preparations are being made for the season. Nearly every town on the range will have a strong team, and the Duluth nines will find plenty of opportunities for play, as they are strong cards in the range towns.

Go to Madison.

The White basketball team representing the Young Men's sodality of St. Clement's church, leaves today for Madison, Wis., to play the Madison school five. The Duluth boys to make the trip are: Walter Emerson, Gus Crary, John Schiltz, James Gargey, James Wade and Ben Campbell.

Gotch Fails Again.

Frank Gotch again failed to throw Fred Beell in half an hour at the Metropolitan Opera house Saturday night. The crowd wasn't so large as on the previous evening, but it was enthusiastic and cheered Beell heartily, when he held out against the Iowa farmer. The men gave a good exhibition.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Fire Sunday destroyed the Boston store and damaged the Harmond building adjoining, at Joliet, Ill. The loss on the Boston store is $85,000; and on contents, $100,000. The Hammond loss is $25,000.

Robert Harrison and his 6-year-old son, Thomas, were killed by lightning at their home near Burlington, W. Va., Sunday.

The new Bristol county steel bridge, which is to connect Fall River, Mass., and the town of Somerset across the Taunton river, was badly damaged by a mysterious explosion of dynamite early Sunday. The bridge is being built for the county, at a cost of $750,000. It is estimated that the loss to the contractors will reach $15,000 by the explosion.

Fire, said to have been started by night riders early Sunday, destroyed two large barns near Mayslick, Ky., on the farm of Alfred Peets and J. D. Raymond. The loss is not accurately known, but is said to be heavy.

Paywell Grzeswelski, 23 years old, was stabbed and instantly killed Sunday night by Antonio Wiak, in a bakery in South Chicago, where the men were employed. Wiak was arrested. The men quarrelled over a trivial matter.

Wallace Polk, a well known farmer, Sunday shot and killed his wife, seriously injured his 18-year-old daughter, at Byhalia, Miss., then turning his pistol on himself, blew out his brains.

FULL TEAM THIS WEEK

All of Remaining Men to Report to Morrow at Aurora.

Sunday Game is Prevented by Downpour of Rain.

This week Morrow's youngsters will break loose on the real work of the training trip. All last week they practiced on the diamond at Aurora, and the corpulent manager should have a pretty good line on every man by this time. From now until the beginning of the season games will be played almost daily, and before the series goes very far Morrow should have his team picked and the men placed about as he intends to start the season. The men can then get to working together, and team work will be less of a joke by the time the season opens.

The Aurora series was to have opened yesterday, but rain prevented, and the best the players could do was to exchange ideas in the hotel lobby. The boys were fortunate in getting good weather all last week, and they will not suffer materially by the calling off of the game. Two other games are scheduled with Aurora for this afternoon and tomorrow. A traveling aggregation will be met there for two days following, and the week-end will be spent at Freeport, with games with the Wisconsin-Illinois league team.

The squad will be complete this week. Jim Haney, the veteran southpaw, will report this morning, and Josie Krick will appear some time this week. Rube Isaacs, the Des Moines pitcher, who accepted terms with Duluth and then signed with Omaha, wired A. W. Kuehnow this morning and offered to report. It is doubtful if he will be taken on, as his backsliding previously has soured the management on him, and the disposition is to turn him down.

Butch Kennelly, appeared at Mr. Kuehnow's office this morning and said that he was ready to report to the team. Butch says he is in fine shape now, after several weeks of vigorous training, and he thinks he will be able to play in all of his old-time form with a couple of weeks' work. He has lost weight, his arm is in good shape and he will probably be sent to Illinois this week to join the squad.

MUST FURNISH ALL MINE CARS

Interstate Commerce Commission Renders Important Decisions.

Washington, April 27.—Six important cases involving new principles relative to the distribution of coal cars to mine operators where fuel cars of carriers are taken into consideration, have been decided by the Interstate commerce commission. The opinions were rendered by Commissioners Clark and Cockrell, each passing upon three cases as one.

In the first decision, involving three cases of the Royal Coal & Coke company, the Tennessee Coal company and the Minersville Coal company against the Southern Railway company, rendered by Commissioner Cockrell, the commission held that the plan of car distribution practiced by the defendant was unduly preferential to the fuel contract mines and resulted in an unreasonable disadvantage to the purely commercial mines; in the matter of car distribution, where there is an adequate supply of coal cars, the only regulation or practice in respect to the transportation of coal from the mines, that is just, fair and reasonable to be hereafter followed, is to allow to each mine its fair and just proportion of the coal cars, estimated upon its justly ascertained capacity and without regard to whether the mine furnished partly fuel coal and partly commercial coal, or commercial coal only.

In all the cases the commission is of the opinion that as to the privately owned or leased cars and the foreign railroad fuel cars, the rule laid down by the commission in the railroad commission of Ohio case should apply, and that cars used by defendants upon their own lines for the transportation of their own necessary fuel supply may be given in any numbers to the mine or mines from which such fuel supply is received, but if such mine or mines also ship commercial coal, the fuel cars so supplied must be counted against the mine or mines.

TWENTY-EIGHT DEAD OR MISSING

British Admiralty Issues Statement on Gladiator Accident.

London, April 27.—The total number of dead and missing of the Gladiator's crew, as a result of the collision between the American liner St. Paul and the British cruiser, off the Isle of Wight, is twenty-eight. The admiralty, late last night, issued a revised list of the names of the Gladiator victims, which includes an additional death in the hospital, bringing the total deaths known up to five. Twenty-three men are missing, according to the list, and six are suffering serious injuries. The secretary of the admiralty expresses fear that there are still eight others missing, but is unable to give the names as yet.

The opinion among shipping men and naval officers and officials appears to be unanimous that the accident was unavoidable. There will be the usual naval court and an inquiry by the board of trade. All witnesses of the disaster agree practically that both crews behaved as well as possible.

Coming so soon after the loss of the torpedo boat destroyer Tiger, which was sunk by the cruiser Berwick, off the Isle of Wight, on April 3 last, thirty-six men being drowned, the sinking of the Gladiator is a severe blow to the British navy.

Cherbourg, April 27.—The passengers who were to have sailed by the steamer St. Paul, for New York, will be taken by the White Star liner Teutonic, which sails on Wednesday.

SECRETARY TAFT DENIES STATEMENT.

Washington, April 27.—"The story is wholly unauthorized," declared Secretary of War Taft last night when his attention was called to a dispatch from Havana, stating that Thomas P. Egan of Cincinnati, in an interview there, is quoted as saying positively that Secretary Taft will resign immediately after being nominated at the Chicago convention, and that Governor Magoon of Cuba would succeed him as secretary of war. The secretary added that so far as he knew, there was no foundation for the statement.

RETURNS FROM EASTERN TRIP

J. M. Gidding Says Conservatism is Keynote of Business Men.

J. M. Gidding returns from an Eastern trip with a most optimistic view of the business situation. Business has already begun to show an increase, according to Mr. Gidding, who says that the volume of trade for the present month will be larger than that of the preceding month.

Conservatism is still the dominant note in the business world. The merchants are not buying heavily, and the manufacturers are not overloading their warehouses with manufactured goods. Money is being invested upon a safe and conservative basis, which is encouraging to investors with capital to place in legitimate enterprises The business outlook, says Mr. Gidding is bright, and the presidential nominations promise to clear up any apprehension that may exist.

Mr. Gidding says that it is all Taft in the East. Business men believe the Ohio man will be elected, and this certainty of feeling is already having an influence on business.

TAFT MISQUOTED.

Says Socialists Are Putting Wrong Construction on Speech.

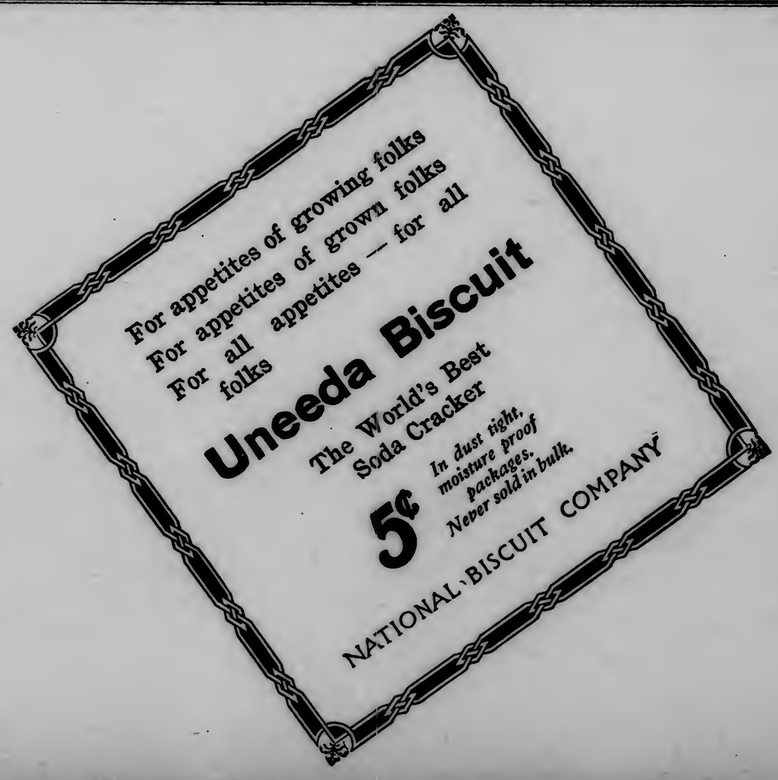

Washington, April 27.—Secretary of War Taft last night said: "My attention has been called to the action of the New York section of the Socialist party in respect to certain alleged utterances of mine in a recent speech before the Order of Railroad Conductors, in Chicago. In the report I am made to say:

"'There is no denying the fact that we must look forward to a gigantic controversy between labor and capital, hoping and trusting that it will be settled peacefully.'

"This is not an accurate report of what I said. I have the stenographic notes taken of what I did say. What I said was this:

"'That unless laborers united into organizations, the laborer would stand no chance in the inevitable controversy that we always hope will be peaceful, but that must exist—that inevitable controversy as to how labor and capital shall share the joint product of both.'

"From nothing which I said has the inference been drawn that I was prophesying a gigantic controversy in the future. I was only referring to an existing and always present condition, an ever recurring controversy."

WHEAT HAS WEAK TONE

Liberal Offerings and Weaker Cables Cause a Decline.

Flax is Quiet, But Closes Firmer in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 27.—Wheat was weaker throughout the session today and the closing prices displayed a fractional loss from Saturday.

There was no news to speak of and what there was did not particularly favor the bears. But offerings were liberal from the opening and the demand was not heavy.

The world's shipments were small but about as estimated and they had no effect on the market. Light receipts continue in the Northwest, and Minneapolis stocks decreased 275,000 for three days.

The foreigners were good buyers in the local market. Twenty-two loads of durum and three loads of spring wheat were worked for export during the morning.

Liverpool closed ⅜d to 1¼d lower, and Berlin ⅛c higher.

The May option closed ⅞c lower than Saturday in Duluth and Chicago, ⅛-¼c lower in Minneapolis; ⅛c lower in New York and ⅝c lower in Winnipeg. The July option closed ⅝c lower in Duluth and Winnipeg, ¾c lower in Chicago, ¼c lower in Minneapolis and ⅛c lower in New York.

May corn closed ⅛c higher in Chicago and unchanged in Liverpool. May oats closed unchanged in Chicago.

World's shipments of wheat and corn last week, the week previous and the corresponding week a year ago, are shown as follows:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Decline in Liverpool and Good Weather in Southwest Weakens Wheat.

Chicago, April 27—The wheat market opened weak today because of a decline of 1d at Liverpool and fine weather for the crop in the southwest. Principal trading was in July, which opened ¼c to ⅜c lower, at 88¾@88⅞c and sold at 88½c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 224 cars against 290 cars last week and 679 cars one year ago.

Sentiment continued bearish all day. July sold as high as 89⅛c, but weakened again and closed easy and ½c lower at 88⅝c.

The crn market was weak in sympathy with wheat. Trading was very quiet. July corn opened ¼@⅜c lower to a shade higher at 62⅛c to 62⅝c and for a time held within that range. Local receipts were 361 cars with 17 of contract grade.

The market became more firm in the last half on covering by shorts. July advanced to 62⅝c. The close was firm with July ⅛c higher at 62½@62⅝c.

The oats market was steady and dull. July oats were ¼c higher at 45½c and sold at 45⅝c. Local receipts were 197 cars.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Bull News Plentiful in Wheat Pit, But Not Very Effective.

Minneapolis, April 27.—Bull news was plentiful in wheat but not very effective. Frosts in Kansas and snow delaying seeding in spring wheat country, were offset by the benefits of the additional moisture. Northwest statistics were bullish, 209 cars here against 412 last year, only 5 in Duluth against 224 and a decrease of 275,000 bushels in Minneapolis elevator stocks for two days. But Liverpool was off a penny on heavier Russian and Danubian shipments and good crop prospects in Germany and that weakened all markets. The quantity of breadstuffs on passage with a decrease of 6,400,000 bushels made a bullish item, but the visible supply on the other hand decreased only 867,000 bushels against a 2,000,000-bushel decrease expected. The market closed under Saturday's. May opened at $1.05½; high, $1.06; low, $1.05¼; close, $1.05⅜@1.05½; July closed at $1.04½; September closed at 90¼c.

In cash wheat the edge was off. No. 1 northern was quotable 2@2½c over May and No. 2 northern May price to ½c over, but easier prices were heard later in the day and there was no rush for the wheat at any time. Close—No. 1 northern, $1.07¼, spot or to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.04¾@$1.05¼; spot, $1.04¾. To arrive—No. 3 wheat, 97¼@$1.03¼.

No. 3 yellow corn, 67¾; No. 3 white oats, 48⅞@49⅜c; No. 2 rye, 73¾@75¾c.

Barley declined 2c, some sellers sald 3c. A few early sales went through at Saturday's prices, but after that they were all lower. Close, 57@78c.

Flax in good demand at 1c over Duluth May. Close, $1.18½; bran in bulk, $21.00@$21.25, and in fair demand.

The flour market was dull. About half the milling capacity is operating. Monday business was lighter than Monday last week. There is scarcely any foreign demand. Shipments, 46,002 barrels. First patents, $5.45@5.60; second patents, $5.35@5.50; first clears, $4.20@4.35; second clears, $3.40@3.50.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 27.—Barrett & Zimmerman's report: Trade somewhat quiet, with general purpose horses having the call. A large consignment of farm mares suitable for breeding purposes arrived during the day. Owing to the urgent demand for family drivers and children's ponies the supply has become low, but several consignments are promised for tomorrow. It is expected that rural orders will show a falling off from now on, and the demand for draft and commercial classes will predominate.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Prices Lifted in Final Hour and Market Closed Strong.

Great Strength Shown by St. Paul and Union Pacific.

New York, April 27.—The irregularity of the opening price movement in the stock market today reflected some unsettlement of speculative sentiment. Dealings were quite active and gains and losses much mixed. Northern Pacific declined 1 and Missouri Pacific and American Smelting large fractions. Pressed Steel Car advanced 1½.

Some little pressure was directed against a few leaders, but the general drift soon became upwards with a large demand for the western stocks. Profit-taking sales led to a fractional recession afterwards. Union Pacific preferred advanced 2½; Rock Island preferred, 2¾; Chicago Great Western debentures, 2; St. Paul, 1¼, and Northwestern, 1.

The tone became irregular and the appearance of the market spotty. Upward movements in individual stocks were accompanied by realizing sales in others. Advances of 1¼ in Atchison and Brooklyn Rapid Transit were features. North American rose 2½. St. Louis & San Francisco first preferred fell 2 and Canadian Pacific, American Smelting, General Electric and American Ice 1. Keokuk & Des Moines sold at 8 and 10, and the preferred at 20 to 25. Bonds were irregular.

Prices of the active stocks dropped until the average level reached Saturday's closing or below. United States Steel was conspicuously heavy.

The market closed strong. The great strength of St. Paul and Union Pacific had a sustaining effect and prices were lifted again in the final hour. St. Paul's rise reached 3¾ and Union Pacific 1⅞. North American gained 4, Wisconsin Central preferred 3, Northern Pacific and Wisconsin Central 1.

FORTUNE FOUND IN HUT OF DEAD IOWA SURGEON.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 27.—Hidden away in the oddest places imaginable, $37,297 has been found in the hut occupied by Dr. Alfred M. Golliday at Bedford, Iowa, formerly one of the best knon surgeons in Southwestern Iowa and known all over the state because of his eccentricities.

Golliday had not been seen for several days and parties broke in the door to find the man's corpse, half devoured by rats, lying race upwards on the floor.

No will was found in searching the place. Golliday, however, has a sister who, with her children, lived at Bedford, and unless a will is found, she will be given the money.

MARINE NEWS

REYNOLDS IS FIRST BOAT

Mutual Line Freighter Sails for Lower Lake Ports.

Big Fleet of Package Freighters Bound for Duluth.

The freighters are coming and with their sailing the delayed marine season of 1908 has opened. The first boat out of the Duluth harbor was the package freighter S. C. Reynolds of the Mutual line, which left yesterday for Cleveland and intervening points with package freight. Last night was rough on the lake and the Reynolds put in at Two Harbors for a time until the storm abated. The steamer America of the Booth line left yesterday for Port Arthur and North shore points.

It is expected several boats will clear from Duluth this week. The package freighter Troy of the Western Transit company fleet is loading today and is expected to get away tomorrow night. The steamer Eugene Zimmerman, loaded with grain, is still waiting for orders to sail and the Carter has finished loading and is undergoing inspection today. She will sail in a few days. The W. M. Mills has about finished loading and will be ready to get away some time this week.

The sailing of package freighters from lower lake ports began Saturday and continued yesterday. They will run on regular schedule from now on and will probable supply the greater part of the activity in the Duluth harbor for some weeks to come.

Early Saturday morning the Mahoning of the Anchor line sailed from Buffalo with package freight for Duluth and intervening points and the Muncy, similarly laden, was expected to clear yesterday. The steamer Gratwick of the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company cleared from Chicago at 7:30 yesterday morning and will arrive here Wednesday night or Thursday morning. The Alva of the some line will leave Chicago Friday on her first trip of the season and the two boats will maintain service between the two ports, sailing from opposite ends of the route at about the same time.

The Mutual Transit company had a fleet of three package freighters out of Buffalo yesterday for the Head of the Lakes. The Northern Queen, North Star and Northern Wave are bound up with package freight. The Gould of the same line left Cleveland Saturday.

The Russia of the Port Huron & Duluth Transportation company was expected to sail Saturday, but did not do so. The local agent expects her to clear today or tomorrow, arriving here the latter part of this week.

The Huronic of the Northern Navigation company, carrying passengers and freight between Duluth and Buffalo, will not arrive here on her first trip until May 8. One round trip between Sarnia and Port Arthur will be made before the Duluth trip is taken up.

Advices from the Soo are that the general movement now rests with the vessel owners. The ice has almost entirely disappeared and all passages are clear. There is only a small movement, however. Few of the clearances are for Duluth and Superior, most of the grain boats going to Port Arthur and Fort William. The steamers Midland Prince, Midland Queen, Midland King and Empress of Midland have cleared from Midland for Fort William. The Winona is at Fort William and most of the boats passing through the Soo are bound for the Canadian ports.

PASSENGER SERVICE.

Japan of Anchor Line to Go Into Commission May 14.

The Canadian liner Huronic of the Northern Navigation company's fleet will have it on all the passenger lines in point of early beginning of service. The Huronic will make her first trip to Duluth, arriving May 8, and will carry passengers as well as freight from the start. She sails between Sarnia and Duluth.

The Anchor line boats will begin running May 14, when the Japan will clear from Buffalo on her first trip. For a month the Japan will be the only boat of the line in the passenger service, as the Tionesta will not sail on her first trip from Buffalo until June 16. On June 20 the Juniata will clear on her first trip, and the regular service will be maintained all summer, the three boats running on schedule.

The local office of the Northern Steamship company, owners of the Northwest, have not yet been notified of the time of the first sailing of the palatial passenger steamer. It will be well into June before she takes up her schedule, however.

SET LIGHTS SOON.

Preparations Being Made for First Arrivals in Harbor.

The post lights marking the channels in the Duluth-Superior harbor will be put in place some time this week and the service inaugurated for the season. It is expected the freighters which cleared from Buffalo Saturday and yesterday will arrive here Wednesday, and with them the season will open and the post lights will probably be lighted.

The office of the Union Towing & Wrecking company, known as the "tug office," will also put a night force on some time this week. All spring, prior to the opening of navigation, the office was closed at 6 o'clock each evening.

America is Safe.

The Duluth office of the Booth line received a telegram shortly after noon today, announcing the safe arrival in Port Arthur of the steamer America, which left here yesterday morning on her first trip of the season. The America carried a large passenger list and there was some anxiety concerning her on account of the severe storm on the lake last night.

Boat Strikes Bridge.

Toledo, Ohio, April 27.—The steam barge Portage, coming from Algonac, Mich., struck the Pennsylvania railroad bride across the Maumee river last night, damaging the bridge so that it will be out of commission for twenty-four hours. A strong wind made the vessel's steering gear unmanagable.

First Down-Bound Boat.

MARTIN ROSENDAHL,

Copper Stock Broker,

414 WEST SUPERIOR STREET. 102-103 MANHATTAN BUILDING.
My own wires to Copper Country. Also connections to Eastern Markets.

APRIL 27, 1908.

Conditions all over the country are getting better, and prosperity will again reach across the states. Copper stocks will make you more money than anything else. Do you remember the time that Calumet & Arizona stock was selling for $10 a share and North Butte at $15? We call your attention to this for the simple reason that today you have another such chance to make as big money on Butte-Ballaklava. This great mine on Butte Hill, has 3,600 feet of rich vein matter that reaches down into the bowels of the earth, and so far they have been unable to reach the bottom, and they have been mining on the hill for 35 years. Ballaklava has rich ore on the 500-foot level, and on the 700-foot level they are about to cut the rich veins and open up some of the greatest ore bodies in the camp. Watch Ballaklava grow, for with such mining men as R. B. Dear, P. H. Nelson and J. A. Percival at its head, how can it help but be a big success?

Calumet & Sonora with its 1,100 acres of rich ground alongside of the Greene-Cananea, will make good much sooner than you think. We have heard that the market is not broad on Calumet & Sonora. It may not have been, but not so any more. This mine is one of the best chances for big money. They have five shafts in rich ore, carrying gold, silver, copper and lead values. The management is on the square and is doing good work. We advise the purchase of this stock. The people will make big money on it. Only 43,000 shares issued, and the company has been approached with a big offer for a small portion of its property. Some of these days you will look on and wonder where you were at all the time. Calumet & Sonora was selling around $8 per share. Calumet & Sonora is a big property and big interests are becoming interested.

Buy Shattuck and make yourself a lot of money. This mine is, I believe, about as big as the Calumet & Arizona.

Butte & Superior is strong at this level and heavy investment buying is going on. On the 1,200-foot level, drifting will begin and the big Black Rock vein opened up. You will hear from Butte & Superior after a while. It is one of the big properties of the Butte camp. Stock is cheap as dirt at $1.06. Our wires reach everywhere—give us your business.

BROTHERS HELD FOR A MURDER

Eli and Dan Matich Bound Over to the Grand Jury.

Chisholm, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a hearing before Judge Freeman here today Eli and Dan Matich, brothers, charged with the murder of Rodi Bonjonovich at the Croxton mine, a week ago today, were bound over to the district court. They will be taken to Duluth tomorrow. Assistant County Attorney Poirier of Virginia appeared for the state at the hearing. The attack upon Bonjonovich appears to have been premeditated. Dan Matich is said to have struck him over the head with a pistol and his brother to have finished the job by firing a shot into him. The cause for the killing did not develop. After the attack both fled and the police of this place and Hibbing have been on the lookout. The two were captured in Bovey and brought back here. Bonjonovich died Saturday after lingering a week. The accused are Austrians and the services of an interpreter were required at the hearing.

HELD FOR ARSON.

Hibbing, Minn., April 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lannard Jakola was taken to Duluth today to await the action of the grand jury on the charge of arson. It is alleged he set fire to the home of a homesteader, named Hilja Antila, near Swan lake, April 17. Jakola was bound over, after a hearing, Saturday.

Six blind piggers were gathered in by the police yesterday. Four of them were fined $60 apiece and costs today by Judge Brady. The others will have a hearing tomorrow.

FOR RURAL CARRIERS.

Extra Pay for Them Proposed in Mr. Marshall's Bill.

Washington, April 27.—Mr. Marshall has introduced a bill providing for $100 additional pay per annum for all rural carriers who have served five years, and an allowance not to exceed $250 for horse feed and use of horses and vehicles. Mr. Marshall said:

"Extra pay for long service is in every way justifiable, and will tend to the good of the service. A flat rate of pay for all carriers is unfair to men in the Northern and Western states, and especially in North Dakota and Minnesota, where wages in other lines are high and horses dear and the climate conditions unfavorable."

The introduction of the bill now is largely eduactional, as it is too late in the session to undertake its passage. If it meets with public favor, however, it will be pushed at the next session of congress.
